(r) [See above, p. 299.] He, and Thomas Manduit, are recorded to have held in this pariſh and elſewhere, three knights fees under Robert Fitz-walter, as of his Barony of Baynards (s). His ſon —— Sir Walter Fitz-Humfrey was a Knight-banneret in the reign of K. Edward I. and was dead before the year 1284 (t). —— Sir William Fitz-Humfrey, his ſon, preſented to this Church in 1322 (u). Under Robert Lord Fitz Walter who dyed in 1328, —— Walter-Fitz-Humfrey is recorded to have held one knight's-fee and a quarter in Pentlowe (w) —— Humfrey, the laſt we find mentioned of this family, was living in 1337 [S].

It was next in a family ſurnamed Norman. Roger Norman dyed in March 1349, holding this maner of John Fitz-Wauter by the ſervice of one knight's-fee, and monthly payment of 3 s. 4 d. for the ward of Caſtle-Baynard. aged only five years, was his heir: and the King, committed the care of him during his minority, to John Fermer of Foxearth (x). But he dyed at the age of 18, in 1362, without iſſue; whereupon the maner of Pentlowe, and advowſon of the Church, holden of John Lord Fitz walter, fell among the three daughters of Elene, ſiſter of his grandfather Roger above-mentioned. They were, Chriſtian, wife of William Chamberleyn of Cavendiſh; Julian married afterwards to Richard Cavendiſh; and Beatrix to John de Glomesford (y). Theſe three coheireſſes paſſed this eſtate by fine, in 1368 and 1369, to John de Cavendiſh (z). He was deſcended from Robert, youngeſt ſon of Robert Gernon, ſprung from the noble family of the Gernons of Bologne. [See above, p. 179.] His father Sir John Gernon took the ſurname of Cavendiſh from his ſeat and reſidence in that town. By his wife Catharine daughter of John Smyth of Cavendiſh Eſq; he had his ſon and heir —— Sir John de Cavendiſh, who being brought up to the law, became ſo eminent in that profeſſion, that he was conſtituted, in 1366, one of the Juſtices of the King's Bench; in 1372, one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas; and, 15 July 1373, Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench. On the 26th of June 1378, he had a grant of 100 marks per annum. And was ſummoned to Parliament by expreſs writ from 46 Edw. III. to 5 Richard II. But in the inſurrection, in 1381, under Wat Tiler, and Jack Straw, he came to an unhappy end. For the revolted clowns declaring themſelves profeſſed enemies of all lawyers, they not only plundered his houſes, but hurrying him to St. Edmund's-bury, they beheaded him there (a) [V]. By Alice his wife, then deceaſed, he left two ſons, Sir Andrew, and Sir William. —— Sir Andrew, his eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded him. He lived at Cavendiſh, and was High-Sheriff of Suffolk and Norfolk in 1384. The time of his death is not mentioned [W]: But Roſe his wife lived till 1420. They jointly preſented to this Church in 1382, & 1393 (b). The ſaid Roſe had infeoffed, before her deceaſe, John Halls, and others, in this maner, and the advowſon of the Church (c). Their ſon and heir —— William Cavendiſh Eſq; dyed without iſſue. Of this family is the moſt noble William Cavendiſh Duke of Devonſhire.

Thomas Lord Cobeham was afterwards poſſeſſed of this maner and advowſon, which by will, dated 2 April 1471, he gave to his natural ſon Reginald Cobham (d).

A few years after they appear in William Felton, or Chapman, of Sudbury Gent. He married Anne, daughter and heir of Ralph Bancke, by whom he had Edmund; Margaret, wife of John Drury of Rougham; and Joane. He and his ſon preſented to this Church in 1490 and 1493 (e). On the 23d of December 1493, he departed this life, holding the maner of Pentlow, and advowſon, of Sir John Ratcliffe Lord Fitz-Walter, as of his maner of Shymplingthorne, and other eſtates elſewhere [X]. —— Edmund, his ſon and ſucceſſor (f), married, firſt, Anne daughter of John Brough, by whom he had Edmund. Secondly, Anne daughter of Sir Thomas Lucy of Warwickſhire, and had by her Thomas, of Clerkenwell, London. He dyed 8 May 1519 (g) —— Edmund, the eldeſt ſon, of Pentlow-hall Eſq; married Frances daughter of John Butler of Coventry, by whom he had 5 ſons, George, William, Dunſtall, Edmund, John; and one Daughter. He preſented to this Church in 1541, and Frances his widow in 1543 (b). She was re-married to Thomas Danyell of Acton in Suffolk Eſq; —— George Felton Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, married Margaret daughter of John Carew of St. Edmunds-Bury, and had ſix ſons and ſix daughters. Moſt probably he ſold this eſtate, for, his ſucceſſor —— Edmund Felton Eſq; who dyed 16 September 1570, had it not among the reſt of his eſtates (i) [Y].

The next poſſeſſor was George Kempe Eſq; ſixth and youngeſt ſon of William Kempe of Spainſhall in Finchingfeild Eſq: (k) [See under that pariſh.] He had three wives, 1. . . daughter of . . . Large, by whom no iſſue is recorded. 2. Margery, daughter of . . . . Appulderfeild, by which he had five ſons [Z] and three daughters. 3. The Lady . . . . He dyed 22 March 1606, aged 76, and was buried in Kempe's Chapel, adjoyning to the chancel of this Church, with a ſtately monument. His eldeſt ſon —— John Kempe Eſq; ſucceeded him; and departed this life ſoon after him; viz. 7 Janu. 1609, aged 48 years [A]. By his wife Eleanor, daughter of John Drew of Devonſhire Eſq; one of the Exigenters of the Common Pleas, he had 4 ſons and 10 daughters. Drew the eldeſt ſon, dyed an infant; George, the ſecond ſon, was baptized 12 Nov. 1602; John, the third ſon, baptized 13 May 1604, married a ſiſter of Sir Robert Brooke, and had ſtands about a mile ſouth weſt from the Church, near the river Stour, oppoſite to ſome part of Cavendiſh.

2. BOWES, OR BOWERS, HALL,

It is called in the Rolls of Foxearth-hall, the Fee of Bourhall. We find no mention of it any where elſe till the reign of K. Henry VII. when it belonged to John Hills of Long Melford in Suffolk, clothier, who, by his will dated 1 May 1495, did give all his maner aforeſaid, the white rents and woods belonging thereto only excepted, unto Sir William Hogeſon, to pray for the ſouls of him and his friends in the Church of Melford. The white rents and wood he gave to the poor of Melford [C]; and the fine of the alienation of Panels, whereſoever it falls, he gave to the reparation of the Church of Pentlow, for ever. Upon this a Chantry was founded for him in Melford Church; called Hills's chantry: and the Maſter of the College of Sudbury, for the time being, had the ſole nomination of the Chantry prieſt.

At the ſuppreſſion of theſe foundations, King Edward VI. in whom they were veſted, granted, 14 Dec. 1548, the maner of Bowerſhall, with appertenances, to Sir Thomas Paſton, and his heirs, to be held in ſocage of the maner of St. Edmund's Bury (l); [ſee above under Middleton, p. 275, and Brundon, p. .] Very ſoon after, Sir Thomas ſold it to

Edward Abbott, and Thomas Abbott, who, in 1550, made a partition of it, Edward having two parts allotted him, and Thomas the other part. Edward left a ſon named ——George, that ſold his ſhare to —John Shawarden; and the latter conveyed it to

Roger Gooday Gent. eldeſt ſon of John Gooday of Braintree by his ſecond Wife Mary, daughter of Tho. Wood of Rayne, and widow of Richard Everard of Great Waltham Eſq; He married Urſula, daughter and coheir of Baldwin Payne of London, merchant, by whom he had ſeven ſons and eight daughters; and was buried here 19 July 1617. His grandſon —— George Gooday, was of Bowers-hall, and Gray's-inn, London. By his wife, Frances Alſton, he had a ſon named Samuel, that dyed young, and a daughter

Elizabeth, his only ſurviving heir. She was married to Sir Thomas Small, [as mentioned above under Odwell in Geſtingthorp,] who had by her two daughters coheirs,

Elizabeth married to John Langham Eſq; and Frances to Sir Richard Newman. They all joyned in ſelling this eſtate, 6 May 1699, to

Sarah Groom of London, widow, who by her will, dated 4 January 1704, left it to her eldeſt ſon —— Samuel; and he ſold it in or about the year 1711. It now belongs to Henry Sperling, Eſq; that hath married Dr. Piper's daughter.

3. The maner of PAINES.

It is otherwiſe named Hogges, from its ancient owners. In 1398 it belonged to James Hoog. As it did in 1432 to John Hogge (m). The Payne family were afterwards owners of it; but whether by deſcent or purchaſe doth not appear.

John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed 3 Auguſt 1562, held this among the reſt of his other great Eſtates.

The maner houſe ſtands on the top of a hill, by the ſide of the road, leading from Pentlow Church to Belchamp St. Pauls.

John Plampin Eſq; of Cheracre-hall hath alſo an Eſtate here.

George Kempe Eſq; gave to the Church-wardens of this pariſh 26 l. 14 s. 4 d. for the uſe of the poor of Pentlow for ever; to remain as a ſtock to be employed for the relief of eight poor folk for their dwelling where moſt need ſhall be.

Suſan Gooch, of Great Livermore, in her will, proved at St. Edmunds-Bury, in 1721, gave a farm in Pentlow, of ten pounds a year, in truſt to Feoffees; the rents thereof to be diſpoſed of to three poor widows, and three poor men, of this pariſh, at Lady-day and Michaelmas, in money: which ſix perſons muſt be collectioners at leaſt one whole year before they can partake of this benefaction. The wood was 9 acres, more or leſs. This Charity was well paid for many years, till at laſt default was made by the owners of this eſtate, particularly by John Gooday. Whereupon a commiſſion for charitable uſes was obtained 16 Sept. 1663, and the Commiſſioners, upon a full hearing, and inſpection of records, decreed, 15 Octob. following, that the owners of this maner ſhould pay to the Church wardens of Melford all arrears, and the ſaid quit-rents for ever; and that they ſhoold have the propriety of the wood: which decree of the Commiſſioners was confirmed by a decree of Chancery 6 April 1665, and a writ of execution was iſſued out 12 May following. The whole charity amounts to about 7 l. 10 s. which, with 2 l. 18 s. paid out of the Exchequer, being a gift of King Edward VI. to the poor of Melford, is applied to the teaching 10 poor children to write and caſt accounts.

The Church, dedicated to St. Gregory, is of one pace with the Chancel; only, adjoyning to the north ſide of the Chancel, there is Kempe's Chapel, being the burial-place of that family; the whole tyled. The tower is embattled, and round, after the Daniſh faſhion; In it are five Bells. This Church ſtands in a bottom near Pentlow-hall. The Parſonage-houſe is about a mile from it on the top of the hill.

The advowſon of this Rectory was appendent to the maner of Pentlow-hall.

23. FOXEARTH-

otherwiſe written in records Foxhearth, Foxheard, Foxhale, Foxhole, Foxhorne, Foxyerde, and Forſcarde; is ſuppoſed to have received that name on account of its having formerly been a noted haunt for Foxes.

There are three maners in it, namely, 1. Foxearth, alias Foxherd-hall. 2. Brooke-hall, otherwiſe Weſton-hall, or the Hamlet of Weſtons. 3. The maner of Carbonells, or Cardinals.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, 19 ſochmen, and 4 freemen, were poſſeſſed of this pariſh; which, at the time of the general ſurvey was holden by Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, Roger Bigot, &c.

From that ſurvey it appears, that the maner of Foxearth-hall was of very ſmall extent, and belonged to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert anceſtor of the Lords of Clare, from whom this lordſhip hath been holden all along.

What Roger Bigot held, was the maner of Weſton-hall; otherwiſe ſtyled Brooke-hall, from its ſituation in a bottom by a brook; and Borley-hall, or the maner of Borle, from its nearneſs to Borley-Church. In the rolls belonging to the Honor of Clare, it is written Borle parva, which denotes, either that it was a ſmall pariſh by itſelf, or antiently belonged to Borley pariſh; though it has been ſeparated from it for ſeveral ages, and joined to Foxearth. The account given of it in Domeſday-book very well agrees with the ſite and ſtate of this maner; it ſtill having much the ſame number of acres, a water-mill, &c. Undoubtedly, it anciently comprehended that maner in Liſton, which is called Liſton Weſtons to this day. And they two are what makes up the Hamlet of Weſton's. This Hamlet, conſiſting of ſeveral houſes together, is about three quarters of a mile from Foxearth-Church, towards Liſton and Pentlow. The houſe now called Weſtons, alias Liſton's, ſtands by the road ſide going from Liſton Church to Pentlow. Liſton comes up cloſe to it, and ſome of the land lyes in that pariſh.

As Weſtons belonged to the Bigot family Earls of Norfolk, ſo the Earls and Dukes of Norfolk continued lords paramount of it for ſeveral ages, even down to the reign of K. Henry VI. [E]. The maner of Foxearth, and that of Weſtons or Brookehall, about 1286, came into the hands of one family, and continued ſo till the middle of the laſt century. For which reaſon we ſhall treat of them diſtinctly only till that that year, viz. 14 Edw. I. and then give account of them under one article till after 1650.

1. The manner of Foxearth-hall.

The manſion-houſe ſtands near the Church. It belonged at firſt, as we have obſerved, to the Lord of Clare. In 1123, Richard ſon of Gilbert de Clare, gave this maner, and advowſon of the Church, to the Priory of Stoke. About 1202, Hugh Prior of that houſe, paſſed by fine the advowſon of this Church, and the maner, to Walter Fitz-Humfrey, [mentioned above, p. 299, 323.] a family of note and ſubſtance. (n) In 1262—William Fitz-Humfrey held 5 knights-fees and a half in Foxerth, Borle, Gelham; and Chipell Clopton in Suffolk (o). But, in 1286,—Sir Walter Fitz-Humfrey, of Pentlow, granted all his right in this maner and advowſon to Sir Andrew de Bures (p). This family, which is very ancient, took their ſurname from the town of Bures in Suffolk, which was their native place, or lordſhip. But as they were not ſeated here in this county, but at Bures and Acton in Suffolk, I ſhall not trace them out further than the Inquiſitions lead me. In the mean time let us take notice of

2. Westons, or Brooke-hall.

About the beginning of K. Edward the firſt's reign Thomas de Wancy enfeoffed with it for life William de Montchenſy, who dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1286: whereupon it reverted to the ſaid Thomas (q).

Simon de Cantebridge, otherwiſe Candelent, and Candelion, is mentioned as having this Weſton near Beauchamp, about the reign of K. Edw. II. In 1332, John de Liſton held a moiety of the maner of Weſton-hall in Foxherd (r).

[E] For John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, who dyed 11 Henry VI. had one whole fee, and two half fees in Weſton near Beauchamp and Foxherthe, holden formerly by the Earl of Oxford, Simon de Candelent, and Roger Reymes. Inquiſ. 11 Hen. VI.

And it was aſſigned as part of the dower of Mary Counteſs Mareſchall, in 1339, being then ſtyled one knight's-fee (s). Roger de Reymes held afterwards part of it, as the moiety of a knight's-fee (t). This is ſtill reputed a Maner, but keeps no court.

The Houſe formerly ſtood where the orchard now is, and was moted round. Upon a green, by the road ſide, there was a Chapel, of the foundations of which a trench is now the only remains; and about it human bones have been dug, which ſhews, that it had a burial place.

Theſe two Maners

were holden afterwards together, or jointly, by the following perſons, or families, viz.

Sir Andrew de Bures. And of him John Fermer, and Catharine his wife, late widow of John de Goldington [ſee under Aldham, p. 197.] held both theſe eſtates for their lives: remainder to the ſaid Sir Andrew (u), In 1344, K. Edward III. granted J. Fermer view of frank pledge of his men and tenants in Foxherd (w); and he lived about ten years after [F]. Sir Andrew de Bures, at the time of his deceaſe, 12 April 1360, held the maner of Foxherd, advowſon of the Church; and 1 meſſuage, 60 acres of arable, 5 of meadow, 10 of paſture, 5 of wood, with view of frank pledge there, of lady Elizabeth de Burgh, as of the Honor of Clare: a fulling mill, of Thomas de Monchenſy: and 1 meſſuage, 100 acres of arable, 12 acres of paſture, 4 of meadow, 4 of wood, and 6 s. 8 d. rent in Foxherd, Liſton, Pentlowe, and Beauchamp-William, of the Prior of Clare; beſides eſtates in other places (x) [G]. By Alice his wife, daughter and heir of Sir John de Roydon, and grand-daughter of Sir Robert de Roydon by Alice daughter and heir of Robert de Reymis, he left two ſons, Robert and Andrew.—Robert his eldeſt ſon, then aged 29 years, ſucceeded, but outlived his father only till 7 Octob. 1361 [H]. By Joane . . . . he left

Alice, his only daughter and heir. She became the wife of Sir Guy de Bryon, or Bryan, younger ſon and heir of Sir Guy de Bryan, a man of great note in his time [I]; and had by him two daughters, coheirs; Philippa, and Elizabeth. He dyed about 1406; and ſhe herſelf not till 1434, at which time ſhe is recorded to have held the maner of Brookehall in Foxherd, with the advowſon of the Church; and the maner of Weſton, &c. (y). Of the two daughters, Philippa was married firſt to John Devereux Eſq; 2dly. to Sir Henry le Scrope; and had no iſſue, or at leaſt that inherited theſe eſtates. For Elizabeth, the ſecond daughter, having married Sir Robert Lovell, and ſurvived him, departed this life in 1437, being poſſeſſed of the maner of Borle, alias Weſtonhall, or Brokehall; and the maner of Foxherd-hall (z). She had an only daughter named Maud, married to

John Fitz-Alan, Lord Maltravers, afterwards Earl of Arundel, who dyed 12 May 1435, and ſhe herſelf departed this life in 1436, leaving a ſon and a daughter; namely——Humfrey, Earl of Arundel, aged about 7 years; who dying in 1437 (a): thereupon Amicia, or Avice, the daughter, inherited theſe eſtates. She was then wife of Sir James Butler, ſon of the Earl of Ormond, and created in 1458 Earl of Wiltſhire (b). She dyed in 1456, and her heir was her couſin

Humfrey Stafford, ſon of John brother of Richard father of the ſaid Avice (c) [K]. [ſee under Borley]. But her huſband, James Earl of Wiltſhire, who ſurvived her, and was beheaded 1 May 1461, was found to have the maner of Foxherd, &c. (d). And it being, upon his attainder, ſeized by the Crown, was given to Henry Bourchier Earl of Eſſex; that dyed poſſeſſed of it 4 April 1483 (e): and his ſon's guardians preſented to this Church in 1485 (f).

But it came again, very ſoon after that, into the Bures family [L]. For William de Bures held his firſt court here in 1486, (g, and 7 Nov. the ſame year, preſented to the living (h). By his wife Jane Marham he had his eldeſt ſon and heir ——Robert, that married . . . Buck, and whoſe eldeſt ſon——Henry de Bures of Aketon in Suffolk Eſq; dying 6 July 1528, left, by Anne his wife, daughter of Sir William Waldegrave, of Smalbridge, four daughters coheirs: Joane aged 7 years; Brigitt, 5; Anne, 3; and Mary upwards of one. He held the maner of Foxherd, and advowſon of the Church thereto belonging; and the maner of Brokehall; and Weſton-mill. (i) [M].

Joane, the eldeſt daughter, was marred to Sir William Butts of Thornage in Norfolk; Brigitt, to Tho. Butts, of Ryborough; Anne, to Edmund Butts of Burrow in Suffolk. Theſe three were brothers, and ſons of the famous Sir William Butts of Fulham, Phyſician to K. Henry VIII [N]. Mary, the youngeſt daughter, was

He was a Knight of the Garter; and had ſummons to parliament from 24 Edw. III. till 13 Ric. II. incluſive. He dyed in 1390. His wife was Elizabeth, daughter of William de Montacute Earl of Saliſbury. Anne, the third daughter, married to Edmund Butts Eſq; She had only one daughter, named Anne; which became the wife of Nicolas Bacon, of Redgrave, premier Baronet of England [O]. Anne Butts, the mother, outlived her huſband and all her ſiſters, and dyed 22 Decemb. 1609, poſſeſſed of the moiety of theſe two maners and eſtates, and of the advowſon; with other conſiderable eſtates here and hereabouts (k). But, by inheritance or purchaſe, the whole of Foxearth hall, and of Weſtons, &c. in this pariſh, centered in her daughter and her huſband Sir Nicolas Bacon (l). He dyed 13 Novemb. 1624. ——Sir Edmund, his eldeſt ſon and heir, dying 10 April 1649, without iſſue, was ſucceeded by his next brother——Sir Robert: He, on the 1ſt of Auguſt 1650, veſted the maner of Foxearth, alias Foxyard-hall, with ſeveral other eſtates, in truſtees for payment of his debts and legacies, as ſpecified in his will, bearing date 1 September next enſuing. In purſuance of which, his ſon in law Sir William Doiley ſold the maner of Foxearth-hall to

Major-general Hezekiah Haynes [mentioned above under Copford, p. 195.] who kept his firſt court here 1 April 1656. From him it paſſed to his ſon——John; that left two ſons, —John, and Hezekiah. The firſt dying without iſſue in 1713, had for ſucceſſor his brother——Hezekiah: He departed this life 15 Novemb. 1763, and bequeathed this, and the chief of his other eſtates, to his couſin the Reverend John Harriſon Cl. Rector of Falkborne.

Theſe two Maners were now diſunited: For John Wilkin, of Fulborn in Cambridgeſhire, ſteward to the Bacon family for their Eſſex eſtate, bought Brooke-hall 30 April 1651. He married Elizabeth daughter of William Kedington of Glemsford in Suffolk, and had by her——John, that married Anne daughter of William Philips of Sturmere Gent. whoſe ſon——John alienated Brooke-hall, 20 Janu. 1709, to Laurence Gibbon of Sudbury Eſq; The Gibbon, or Guibon, family is originally of Lancaſhire. A branch of them was ſeated at Helmingham, and Darſham in Suffolk; and another at Lynne in Norfolk (m). They have been for a conſiderable time of Sudbury, and concerned in the government of that corporation. The heirs of the late Alderman Gibbon, are —— the Rev. Henry Croſſman, and Mr. Newman.

3. The maner of CARBONELLS, alias CARDINALLS.

This maner belonged, in the earlieſt times upon record, to a family ſurnamed de Hauſted, lords of that town. [ſee above, p. 250.]——Peter de Halſted, in 1166, granted that lordſhip, with appertenances, of which this maner in Foxyerde was one, to

Abel de St. Martin: And his ſucceſſor —— Robert de St. Martin conveyed it, about 1311, to

John de Bouſſer, founder of the noble family of Bourchier. [See above, p. 250, 251.] Of Robert Lord Bourchier it was holden in 1351, by

Sir Wiliam Carbonell, of Buckenham-hall in Suffolk, from whom it took the name of Carbonell's [P]. —— Elizabeth his daughter and heir was married to

Sir John de Liſton, and brought it into that family: from which it paſſed to —— Richard Lyons,—Venour, or Vynour,—Say, and Clopton (n). [See under Liſton, p. 320.]

Afterwards William Lord Maynard was poſſeſſed of it. Then it came to Sir

Benjamin Bathurſt, Knt. and to Allen Lord Bathurſt. It now belongs to Henry Daſhwood Eſq;

Mr. William Bruce ——. John Daerſley —— William Macro——John Adams, &c. have alſo eſtates here.

Charitable Gifts.

One Mr. Bright gave twelve pounds a year out of Brookehall, for poor priſoners and widows, and for the uſe of St. Edmunds-bury ſchool.

To an Hoſpital in the ſame Town, for twelve poor perſons, the late Dr. Poley Clopton left an eſtate, here and in Liſton, of above 150 l. a year.

A farm in this pariſh, called Huntmans, was left by the late Rev. Mr. Moſes Cooke, after the death of his wife, for the augmentation of the Rectory of St. James's in Colcheſter, and any other three Churches in that Town, which the Biſhop of London ſhall appoint (o).

The CHURCH conſiſts of a body, and a north and a ſouth iſle; but the chancel hath only a north chapel, belonging to the Hall; the whole tyled: the Tower, which is embattled, contains 5 bells.

This Rectory appears to have belonged at firſt to Gilbert de Clare; then to the Priory of Stoke; and afterwards to the lords of the maner of Foxearth-hall. Sir William Walgrave preſented about 1368 (p), but by what right is unknown; for that family doth not appear to have had any of theſe maners.

BEAUCHAMP, or BELCHAMP.

Here are three contiguous pariſhes ſo named, diſtinguiſhed by the ſeveral appellations of St. Paul, Walter, and Oton, The name is formed from the French words Beau, or Bel, and Champ, ſignifying Fair Field [Q]. It is otherwiſe written in records Belcham, Bylcham, &c.

24. Belchamp St. Paul's, is ſo named, becauſe it is part of the poſſeſſions of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's in London; to which it was given by the Saxon King Athelſtan [R], grandſon to good King Alfred; who dyed in 941.

It belonged to St. Paul's, at the time of the general ſurvey [S]. And in the reign of King Henry I. was rated to the King for five hides. The demeſnes of it in arable land were about 500 acres, and 14 acres of meadow; 120 acres of wood; in Lane Hele, and Doreleche, 15 acres: 120 ſheep, 3 carucates in demeſne, &c. (q). And it was holden by the Dean and Chapter of the King in capite (r). This eſtate hath continued ever ſince in the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, except during the moſt unhappy troubles in the laſt century; when it was ſeized by the uſurping powers. And, 23 March 1649, Sir John Wollaſton Knt. Robert Tychborn Alderman of London, Mark Hildeſley, Owen Rowe, and others, truſtees for the ſale of Deans and Chapters lands, ſold all the maner of Belchamp St. Paule, and Paul's-Hall, with the appertenances, to Thomas Cooke of Pebmarſh, Richard Blackwall of London, John St. John M. D. and John Sparrow of the Inner Temple, Eſquires, for the ſum of 3354*l.* 14*s.* (s) T. Cooke meanly waſted this eſtate, as is obſerved above, p. 263. But the Dean and Chapter recovered their right at the Reſtoration.

The Golding family held part, or the whole, of this eſtate under the Dean and Chapter, and were for a while conſiderable in this pariſh; for which reaſon it is proper to take notice of them. They were ſeated at Halſted in the reign of K. Edward I. [T]. A deſcendent of theirs, Thomas Golding of Cavendiſh in Suffolk, Gent. married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and coheirs of John Worthie of Blamſters in Halſted Eſq; [Agnes, the other daughter, being the wife of John Sparrow of Earl's-Colne Eſq;] and had by her —— John Golding Eſq; of Paul's Belchamp-hall, and Halſted, one of the Auditors of the Exchequer. He held a tenement here called Spicer's, 2 acres of arable in Chapel-feild; and ſeveral parcels of land, of the Dean and Chapter, in ſocage. He had alſo eſtates in Beauchamp Otton, and Beauchamp St. Ethelbert: and, in Halſted, Worthies Place, Blomſters Maner, Aylewards Place, Paſcalls, Picherds, Wynde Wells, &c. [ſee above, p. 252, 258.] in Hempſted, a meſſuage called Blagden, and 86 acres of arable, 15 of meadow; in Bumpſted-Helion, the maner of Boblowe (t). He departed this life 28 November 1547; having been twice married: His firſt wife was Elizabeth, widow of Reginald Hamond, of Ramſden Belhouſe, by whom he had Thomas; William; Margaret, and Elizabeth. She dyed 26 December 1527, and was buried in this Church. His ſecond wife was Urſula, daughter and coheir of William Merſton of Horton in Surrey, and by her he had Arthur, Henry, George, Edward; and two daughters, Frances wife of Matthew Bacon, of Shellhanger in Norfolk; and Dorothy of . . . Dockwra. —— Sir Thomas Golding, the eldeſt ſon and heir, was one of the Commiſſioners for certifying the Chantry lands in Eſſex; and he knew how to improve that opportunity, by getting a very large ſhare of them; which gives me occaſion frequently to mention his name in the courſe of this work. He was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1561, and of Eſſex alone in 1569. He married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and coheirs of Thomas Royden of Peckham in Kent Eſq; widow of . . . Twiſden. What iſſue he had by her I find not; but ſuppoſe George Golding of Poſtlingford in Suffolk Eſq; to be a deſcendant from him. —The other ſon, William Golding Eſq; of this pariſh, married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and coheirs of Edmund Weſt of Cornard in Suffolk Eſq; widow of John Buckenham Eſq; by whom he had Edmund, and Dorothy. She dyed 20 May 1591, and is interred in the Chancel of this Church. . . . Margaret their eldeſt ſiſter, was wife of John de Vere, the 16th Earl of Oxford, and by him had Edward, the 17th Earl of Oxford, and a daughter named Mary, married to Peregrine Bertie Lord Willoughby of Ereſby, anceſtor to the preſent Duke of Ancaſter. After the deceaſe of that great Earl, ſhe remarried to Charles Tyrell, Eſq; and dying 2 Decemb. 1568, at Earl's-Colne, is buried there [V].

Chriſtopher Layer Eſq; who had the misfortune of being involved in the State-plot in 1722, was born 12 November 1683, in this pariſh, where his anceſtors had been poſſeſſed of an eſtate ſeveral years before.

[Q] In K. Athelſtan's grant of Belchamp St. Paul's to that cathedral church, it is called Bylcham; which renders it doubtful, whether the name is not originally Saxon; for French was not uſed here as early as his reign.

[R] The grant was in Saxon; and is alſo in Latin, as follows . . . . Animo libenti conſtituo i. e. decem manſas ad Sandoniam, cum Rode, & octo ad Ardeleage cum Luftenhaele, [in Hertfordſhire] & decem ad Bylcham cum Wicham; & octo ad Tidwolditona [Heybridge] & duodecim ad Runawalla, & triginta ad Eadufeſneia; & decem ad Draitune; & octo ad Berne; & decem ad Neoſdune cum Willeſdune. This eſtate, if I am rightly informed, is Wakes-Hall, now belonging to the heirs of Samuel Ruggles Eſq;

On Cole-green formerly ſtood a Chapel, called Trinity Chapel, with two acres of land, named Waleſpoles Brooke; having been originally a Chantry, founded by John Coker: granted at the ſuppreſſion to Tho. Golding, Eſq; (u).

On this ſame green there is an Almſhouſe for four dwellers. And here is a Fair on the 30th of November.

The Church, dedicated to St. Andrew, conſiſts of a body and a north iſle; but the chancel is of one pace; all tyled. The Tower, which is old and decayed, contains 5 Bells.

The Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, who have the great Tithes of this pariſh, are patrons of the Vicarage; and alſo Ordinaries of this place, it being an exempt, or peculiar, to them.

25. BELCHAMP-WALTER, is otherwiſe called Belchamp Simon, and Belchamp William, from its ancient owners Simon and William de Beauchamp.

It had belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Uluuin, often mentioned before; but at the general ſurvey, it was one of the lordſhips holden by Alberic de Vere, anceſtor of the great Earls of Oxford [W].

There are in this pariſh the following maners, or reputed maners. 1. The maner of Walter Belchamp-hall. 2. The maner of Mary, alias Merry-hall. 3. Eaſton-hall.

1. The maner of Belchamp-walter-hall.

The manſion houſe ſtands near the weſt-end of the Church. In the noble family of De Vere did this eſtate continue till the 17th century. And under them it was holden by the families of Beauchamp, Fitz-Oto, Montchenſy, Steyngreve, Boutetort, Swynborne, Helion, Wentworth, &c.

Aubrey de Vere, great Chamberlain of England, in the reign of K. Henry I. gave in free marriage, with Roeſe his daughter, this lordſhip to her firſt huſband Geffrey de Mandeville, Earl of Eſſex; which was alſo enjoyed by her ſecond huſband Paganus, or Payne, de Beauchamp [X], Baron of Bedford (w). By the latter ſhe had —— Simon de Beauchamp, ſteward of the houſhold to K. Stephen. ——William, his ſon and ſucceſſor, was a military man; but not very faithful to his ſovereign; for which reaſon, K. Henry III. cauſed his caſtle of Bedford to be demoliſhed (x). He dyed in 44 Hen. III. 1259, or 1260 (y), leaving by Avicia his wife, 3 ſons, Simon, William, John; and 3 daughters, Maud, Beatrix, and Ela.——Simon his eldeſt ſon, ſurvived him but about three years, and left an only daughter; who it ſeems did not inherit this eſtate, for Hugh de Vere Earl of Oxford, the lord paramount, granted it to the next brother —— William de Beauchamp, to be held of him by the ſervice of one knight's fee (z). He dying on or about the year 1264,——John the third brother, had livery of the inheritance (a). But before the end of that year, having joined the diſcontented Barons, he was ſlain at the battle of Eveſham; whereupon K. Henry III. gave all his lands to his eldeſt ſon Prince Edward.

Of the three daughters mentioned above, Maud was married to Roger de Moubray: Beatrix to Thomas Fitz-Oto, or Otes; and after his deceaſe, to William Montchenſey of Edwardſton: Ela to Baldwin Wake. . . . [This laſt had iſſue 3 daughters; viz. Ida, wife of John de Steingreve; Elizabeth, of John de Horbiry; and Joane of Michael Pickot.] Theſe coheireſſes, and their huſbands, or joint heirs; upon paying their compoſitions, in purſuance of the Dictum de Kenelworth; had livery of the Barony of Bedford, and the great eſtates thereto belonging (b). And after the death of Avicia, widow of William Beauchamp of Bedford, in 1278, who held ſome of thoſe eſtates in dower (c), a partition was made of them between thoſe ſeveral coheirs (d) [Y].

Such of them as I find recorded to have held lands in this pariſh were as follows. . . . Roger de Beauchamp, ſon of Maud and Roger de Moubray mentioned above, held, in 1281, of the Earl of Oxford, 110 acres of arable, 9 acres of meadow, and 6 of wood; and of the Prior of Lewes, 90 acres of arable, and 1 of meadow.

Iſabella was remarried to Sir Walter de Tey.

William de Montchenſy dyed in 1286, and held the maner of Beauchamp-William, of the Earl of Oxford, among other great eſtates, by the ſervice of half a fee, and 3 parts of a knight's-fee (g); of the inheritance of his wife Beatrix then deceaſed, formerly wife of Thomas-Fitz Otho. —— William was his ſon and heir (h). However, this eſtate did not go to the Montchenſies, but to the heirs of her firſt huſband. Otto Fitz-Otho, her ſon by him, dyed in 1282 without iſſue; and of three daughters ſhe had had alſo by him, Johanna, and Beatrix, the eldeſt and youngeſt, dyed unmarried, or without iſſue. Maud the ſecond daughter, brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband

Sir John de Boutetort, of Mendleſham in Suffolk, to whom ſhe was married in 1302. [See above under Geſtingthorp, p. 306. and more particularly under the next pariſh of Belchamp-Oton.] They had 4 ſons, Thomas, John, Otto, and Robert; and a daughter. He dyed in 1324, or 1325, holding, jointly with his wife, for their lives, the maner of Belchamp-William, of Robert Earl of Oxford, among other eſtates (i). As they were entailed upon the ſecond ſon —— John, he ſucceeded to the eſtates in this county. And departing this life in 1339 [A], left his only ſon and heir——John, (k) afterwards knighted. He married Joane, daughter and coheir of John Gernon, of the family of Stanſted Montfichet, by whom he had an only daughter of her mother's name. She was a very rich heireſs, and brought the large poſſeſſions of the Boutetorts and Gernons in marriage to her huſband

Sir Robert Swynborne, of Little Horkſley. [See above, p. 234.] She dyed, as appears by her epitaph in this Church, in 1400; though the Inquiſition after her death was not till 11 Henry VI. (l). 1432, or 1433. It is moſt probable, that ſhe lived till that year, and that there is ſome miſtake, or omiſſion, in her epitaph. They had 5 ſons who dyed unmarried, or without iſſue; and two daughters, Alice; and Margery; which laſt was married to Nicolas Berners of Aberden-hall in Depden, and Codham-hall in Wetherſfield, whoſe daughter Catharine was wife of Sir William Fynderne; but they had not this eſtate.

Alice, the eldeſt daughter, was married to John Helion of Bumſted-Helion, Eſq; [ſee under that pariſh] and they jointly held this maner (m). Their ſon and heir ——John Helion, or Helyoun, Eſq; dyed in 1450. By his wife Editha, daughter and coheir of Thomas Rolfe of Goſfeild, Eſq; he had Philippa, married to Sir Thomas Montgomery of Falkborn-hall Eſq; that left no iſſue. [See above, p. 117.] and Iſabell, who became the wife of Humfrey Tyrell of Little Warley Eſq; They had an only daughter and heir,

Anne: She brought this, and other great eſtates, in marriage to Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall in Wethersfeild Eſq; and he kept his court here 22 Febr. 1539. [See under Wethersfeild.] It continued for ſeveral deſcents in the Wentworth family. —— John Wentworth of Goſfeild Eſq; who dyed in 1588, held, among other things, this maner of the Earl of Oxford, by the ſervice of two knights-fees (n). His grandſon —— Sir John Wentworth, created a Baronet 22 May 1611, ſold this eſtate to John Raymond Eſq; [B] The Raymonds of Eſſex and Norfolk, and other counties in this kingdom, in Mr. Philipot's opinion (o), deduce their primitive extraction from Raymond, a place in the Hundred of Wye in Kent. . . . Philip Raymund of Hunſdon in Hertfordſhire, great grandfather of the purchaſer, by his wife Agnes, daughter and ſole heir of William Sterne of Eſſenden, had his ſon —— Roger, who married . . . . Elliott, and had by her —— John, that took to wife Judith daughter of Chadd Cokayne of Cokayne Hatley in Bedfordſhire, by which he had ——JOHN Raymond Eſq; the purchaſer of this eſtate. He married Anne daughter of John Sparrow of Geſtingthorp Eſq; and was buried here 27 June 1635, as was his wife 6 Decemb. 1652. They had theſe ſeveral children, John; William; Oliver; St. Clere: Frances; Elizabeth; Judith; Jane; Sarah; Mary. The two eldeſt ſons dying young——Oliver ſucceeded his father. He was one of the Knights for this county, in the two parliaments ſummoned by Oliver Cromwell in 1653, and 1656. By his wife, Frances daughter of Sir William Harris of Margareting Knt. he had 21 children; among the reſt, St. Clere; Oliver, a Silk Mercer in London; William, &c. Anne, married firſt to John Laurence, and afterwards to John Eden Eſq; Frances, wife of John Darcy, and three other daughters. He was buried here 25 March 1679. —— St. Clere, the eldeſt ſurviving ſon and heir, was a haberdaſher of hats in London. He married Anne daughter of Laurence Warkeham, by whom he had 6 ſons and 2 daughters. William, the ſecond ſon, was of the Six Clerks Office. —— John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, was educated at Emmanuel College in Cambridge, and afterwards of Grays-inn. He was buried here 25 October 1690. By his wife Anne, daughter of Sir Robert Burgoine of Sutton in Bedfordſhire he had his only ſon—John, who by his will dated 15 Febr.

Samuel Ruggles Eſq;

2. The maner of MARY-HALL, is ſuppoſed to have borrowed its name from the Church, which is dedicated to St. Mary.

We have no regular account of the owners of this eſtate; but ſuch of them as have occurred to us are as follows. In 1270, and 1276, it was holden by John Mandut. Soon after, it belonged to—— Thomas Buttetort; who ſold it to —— Thomas de Ufford Earl of Suffolk; and his ſon, William Earl of Suffolk, granted it to ——Adam de Hautboys, and others. ——Thomas Dammartin appears alſo among its owners. And in 1442, and after,——William Pannell. In 1466 —John Smith. In 1572 —Roger Martin Eſq; and John Worrall. The Raymond family had it at length; and the laſt—John Raymond Eſq; bequeathed it by will to his uncle ——William Raymond of London Gent. and his heirs for ever. Of them it was purchaſed by —Samuel Ruggles Eſq; juſt now mentioned.

3. EASTON-HALL,

ſtands on the ſide of a hill, not far from Borley Church, and formerly was reckoned part of that pariſh. The lands belonging to it lye in Belchamp-Walter, and Oton, and Borley.

William le Gros, Earl of Albemarle, Lord of the neighbouring pariſh of Borley, left two daughters; whereof Amicia was mother to Conſtance, whoſe ſon was named Ranulph de Eſton, or Aſton (p). And perſons of that ſurname, which moſt probably they took from this maner, were ſeated hereabouts as low as the reign of K. Richard II. (q).

In King Henry the Third's reign, Nicolas de Beauchamp had in Eſton and Haſelcroft 219 acres of arable, 8 acres of meadow, 8 of paſture, 20 of wood, &c. (r).

It was afterwards for ſeveral generations in the noble family of De Vere Earls of Oxford. John the 5th Earl had it in K. Edward the Third's reign, and granted it to Maud wife of William de Beauchamp.——Alberic the 10th Earl, had it before 1400; and Alice his widow, the year following, it being holden of the Earl of March.——Richard the 11th Earl, and Alice his widow, held it next. And ſo did their ſon——John (s), till his attainder for adhering to the Houſe of Lancaſter; and it was given to John Howard Duke of Norfolk; but—John, the 13th Earl of Oxford, had it reſtored to him by K. Henry VII. and it coutinued in his poſterity till alienated by —Edward, the 17th Earl (t). It belongs now to Edward Pemberton Cl.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1331 l. 10 s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is but ſmall and tyled. And the Tower contains 3 Bells.

Adjoyning to the north ſide of the Church, formerly ſtood a Chapel, called Botetourt's Chapel; the entrance into which was under the arch ſtill remaining.

This Church belonged originally to Alberic de Vere, lord of the maner of Belchamp-Walter. He gave it to the Priory of Earl's-Colne; who got the great tythes appropriated to their houſe, and a Vicarage ordained and endowed, of which they continued patrons till their ſuppreſſion. Then it coming to the Crown, K. Henry VIII. granted in 1536, both the Rectory and advowſon of the Vicarage, to John Earl of Oxford (u), a deſcendant from the founder. Indeed, in 1592, Theophilus Adams, and Robert Butler, two of the greedy hunters after concealed lands, got a grant of this from Q. Elizabeth (w). But the Oxford family remained in poſſeſſion; for Henry the 18th Earl ſold, 20 July 1620, the parſonage and rectory impropriate, of Belchamp Walter, or Water, to——Sir Robert Hatton of Lambeth, and John Wright of Rumford. And theſe ſold it again, 1 Novemb, 1627, to——John Raymond Eſq; and Oliver his ſon, and heir apparent.——It now belongs to Samuel Ruggles Eſq; This Rectory was formerly a maner.

The Vicarage, which is very ſmall, was augmented, in 1726, by William Raymond Eſq; and others, with 100 l. and a houſe worth 6 l. per annum; to which was joined 200 l. of Queen Anne's bounty.

26. BELCHAMP-OTON, otherwiſe written Othonis, Oten, Otten, Otes, had that appellation from its ancient owner Otto, mentioned above under Geſtingthorp, p. 305.

In this pariſh are two Maners. 1. The maner of Belchamp-Oton-hall. 2. . . : that of Vaux, or le Vaux.

1. BELCHAMP-OTON-HALL,

The manſion-houſe ſtands a little way eaſt from the Church. Ledmar, a freeman, was poſſeſſed of it before the general ſurvey; but at that time it belonged to Euſtace, the great Earl of Bologne, whoſe under-tenant was one Ulmar. [D].

About the reign of K. Henry II. it came into the family of Otto. Otto was ſucceeded by his ſon —— William; whoſe ſon —— Otto Fitz-William was ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire for 9 years together, as is obſerved above under Geſtingthorp. About the year 1200, his ſon —— William, and his mother, paid ſcutage for two knights fees (x). —— Otto, ſon of William, or Fitz-William, held, in 1256, of the King in ca. one carucate and a half in this pariſh of the fee of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee (y). —— William, ſon of this laſt Otho, held in Belchamp Otho, one knight's-fee; beſides what he had in Geſtingthorp and Goſfeild. His brother's ſon —— Thomas ſucceeded him (z). He was engraver for the King's mint, as is obſerved above, p. 305. He dyed in 1274, poſſeſſed of this maner in the Hundred of Hengeford; to which was appendent the advowſon of the Church (a). By his wife, Beatrix, ſecond daughter, and coheir, of William de Beauchamp, [ſee under Belchamp-Walter] he had, a ſon named —— Otho, who dyed in 1282, without iſſue (b) [E]: and three daughters, Johanna, Maud, and Beatrix. The eldeſt and youngeſt dyed unmarried, or without iſſue, and Maud, the ſecond, was wife of Sir John de Boutetort of Mendleſham in Suffolk, to whom ſhe was married in 1302. The Boutetort, Butteturt, or Botetourt family, was originally Norman; for the name of Botetour is in the liſt of them that came in with William the Conqueror [F]. They were ſeated in Worceſterſhire, and Lords of Wiley-Caſtle, in that county (c). Sir John de Boutetort, or Buteturte, huſband of Maud Fitz-Otho, had ſummons to Parliament from the 1ſt to the 18th of K. Edward II. (d) and was otherwiſe very conſiderable for his conduct and valour, and the ſeveral places he enjoyed in the reigns of K. Edward I. and II. In 1291, he was made Governor of Briavel's Caſtle in Glouceſterſhire, and warden of the foreſt of Deane. He attended K. Edward I. in moſt of his wars and expeditions againſt France and Scotland; as he did alſo K. Edward II. and was Admiral of their fleets (e). Jointly with Maud his wife, he held for life, of the gift of Hugh Perpoint [ſee above, p. 306.] this maner of Belchamp-Otes, of the King in ca. as of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee; as alſo the maners of Belchamp, St. Ethelbert, and William; of Ovington, Geſtingthorp, and Goſfeild (ſ). He dyed 18 Edw. II. about 1324, having had by Maud Fitz-Otho, 4 ſons, Thomas; John; Otho; and Robert; and one daughter, Elizabeth, wife of William Latimer. Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, married Joanne, one of the ſiſters and coheirs of John de Somery, Baron of Dudley, which brought a great inheritance into his family: but he dyed before his father. —— Sir John, the ſecond ſon, by vertue of the abovesaid Hugh Perpoint's ſettlements, inherited the Eſſex eſtates, particularly this of Beauchamp-Otes, with appertenances; two parts of which he demiſed to Adam de St. Philibert for the ſaid Adam's life; and who outlived him ſeveral years. For the later did not dye till 1352, whereas Sir John dyed in 1339, and Margaret his wife in 1376. She had this maner in dower (g) [G]. —— John Boutetort, her ſon, was dead before her. He had married Joane, daughter and coheir of John Gernon, a branch of the noble family of the Barons of Stanſted Montfichet, by whom he left an only daughter [H], Joane, a very rich heireſs. She was married to Sir Robert Swynborne of Little Horkſley [ſee above, p. 234.] He departed this life 19 Octob. 1391, and ſhe out-living him, dyed in 1433, holding this maner, &c. Five ſons that they had, dying unmarried, or without iſſue, their great inheritance fell among their two daughters, co-heireſſes, Margery the youngeſt, was married to Nicolas Berners of Codham-hall. [See under Wetherſfeild.]

Alice, the eldeſt, brought this eſtate in marriage to John Helion, Eſq; of Bumſted Helion.

[G] Catharine, their daughter, and at length coheir, was married to Sir Thomas Berkley. See Ar. Collins's Peerage, ed. 1756, Vol. V. p. 188. in Lord Berkeley of Stratton.

[H] Arms of Boutetort. Argent, a ſaltier engrayled, ſable.——The name of Botetort hath been preſerved in the noble and ancient family of Berkley, from Sir Thomas Berkley, who married Catharine daughter and coheir of John Lord Botetort in the reign of K. Edward III. Charles Lord Berkley was created Lord Botetort 17 March 1663; and that title is taken by Norborne Berkley, Eſq;

Iſabell, the ſecond daughter, became intitled to a very great inheritance. But her mother, remarried to John Greene of Widdington Eſq; enjoyed this, among other large eſtates, till her deceaſe 1 June 1498 (i). Iſabell was married to Humfrey Tyrell Eſq; and they had an only daughter,

Anne, who was an immenſe fortune; the ſeveral eſtates of the Ottos, Botetourts, Gernons, Swynborne, Helion, Rolfe, and Finderne centering in her. All theſe ſhe brought in marriage to her huſband Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall, [ſee above, p. 234, 235, 306.] Their ſucceſſors —— Sir John Wentworth, —— Anne Lady Maltravers, —— and John Wentworth Eſq; were found poſſeſſed of it in 1567, 1580, and 1588 (k). At length —— Sir John Wentworth Bart. the laſt heir male of the family, ſold this eſtate to Thomas Smith of Sudbury Gent. on or about the year 1623 (l). He dyed 10 July 1631, holding this maner of the Honor of Clare; and ſeveral other eſtates in Suffolk.——Thomas, his ſon and heir, was aged 19 years (m). But before his deceaſe, he ſold the ſite of the maner, and maner-houſe, of Otten-Belchamp-hall to —— Sir David de Ligne, who, 23 May 1628. conveyed it to his mother-in-law Elizabeth de la Fountaine for her life; then to Sir Eraſmus de la Fountaine, and to John his ſon and heir: remainder to Sir David de Ligne; whoſe ſon and heir Eraſmus left it to his ſon, John de Ligne. The latter, 13 June 1693, mortgaged it to Thomas Green and John Lynn.

The Smith family continued poſſeſſed of the maner, and of the advowſon of the Rectory, till after 1686, when one of them ſold it to

John Poulter, of Clare, Attorney at law: who alienated in 1720, to Iſaac Helbutt, merchant in London, the maner of Otten Belchamp; and Berwicks, Scotneys, and Gainsfords in Toppesfeild, &c.

It hath ſince belonged to Mr. Moſes Hart, and now to Wulf Ridolphus Eſq;

2. The maner of VAUX, alias Le Vaux, took its name from Robert de Vals, who held it, at the time of the general ſurvey, under Roger Bigot [I] often mentioned. See above, p. 260.

The family De Vallibus, Vals, or, as it was ſtyled in old French, Vaux, continued in this place and neighbourhood down to the Reign of K. Edward I. as appears from ſeveral old deeds, to which they were witneſſes.

Very early after the conqueſt, the lordſhip of it became veſted in the Hauſted family, and continued in their ſucceſſors the St. Martins, Bourchiers, &c. [See above, p. 250.] About the year 1262, the heirs of Abel de St. Martin held it as one knight's fee (n). In 1358 John de Vere the 7th Earl of Oxford, dyed poſſeſſed of it; it being holden of Sir John Bourgcher (o): And from thenceforth it continued in the noble family of De Vere. Only upon the attainder of John the twelfth Earl, for his adherence to the Houſe of Lancaſter, their great eſtates eſcheating to the Crown, King Richard III. granted this maner of Vauce, with many others, part of their vaſt inheritance, to —— John Howard, Duke of Norfolk. But upon the Uſurper's fall, and King Henry the Seventh's acceſſion, the Earls of Oxford recovered this among the reſt (p), and enjoyed it till —— Edward the 17th Earl revengefully ſquandered his poſſeſſions. Then it was bought by

William Carew Eſq; William Campion Gent. and William Webb: who by licenſe, in 1570, alienated the maner called Vaux, alias Foes, and 5 meſſuages, 5 tofts, 1 mill, 5 gardens, 200 acres of arable, 10 acres of meadow, 30 of paſture, 50 of wood, and 108 s. rent in Otten Belchamp, &c. (q) to

John Diſter, [ſon of Thomas Diſter, Dicer, or Dycer, of Glemsford in Suffolk, Clothier.] John, ſon of the ſaid John, married in 1639, Mary daughter of Edward Beaumont of Hadley, Clothier, which was buried in this Church, 3 May, 1652, and had by her four ſons, and three daughters; namely, John, Edward, Beaumont, Joſeph; Alice; Mary, wife of John Bourchier of Ipſwich; M. D. and . . . wife of . . . Brewſter of Cavendiſh. —— John, the eldeſt ſon, dyed in 1715. Of this laſt his ſiſter Mary, wife of Dr. Bourchier, purchaſed the maner of Vaux [K]: and their youngeſt daughter

Anne, ſecond wife of Mr. Alexander Cleeve of London, Pewterer, brought him this eſtate in marriage. He kept his firſt court here 31 Aug. 1721. It is now in Mr. Evans.

By a ſurvey taken of it ſome years ago, it was found to contain 295 acres, one rood, and twenty-four poles.

Gawgers, a maner in this pariſh, and in Belchamp St. Paul's, Ovington, and Tilbury; with 2 meſſuages, 2 gardens, 60 acres of arable, 16 acres of meadow, 30 of paſture, 17 of wood, and 2 s. rent; belonged in 1567 to Thomas Smyth; and now to James Ray Gent.

Swineboe, is a maner here, that keeps a court baron, and of which the King is Lord ——

This is now unknown, unleſs it ſhould be a ſmall eſtate called Swaines.

27. TILBURY near Clare.

Beſides this Tilbury, there are two others in the county of Eſſex, in Barſtable Hundred near the river Thames; namely Eaſt, and Weſt Tilbury. In contradiſtinction to them this is ſtyled Tilbury near Clare.

This pariſh, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, belonged to two Freemen; but at the time of the general ſurvey was holden by Tihell, a Briton; and Tedric Pointel, under the name of Tiliberia [L].

Hence aroſe, beſides the capital lordſhip of Tilbury-hall, three other Maners, diſtinguiſhed by the names of Skeyes alias Skeathes; Brays; and North tofts. The manſion houſes belonging to them having been long demoliſhed, 'tis hard to find out where they ſtood. On the right hand ſide of the road leading to Aſhen, are fields called Nortofts, in one of which grow cluſters of trees, and where formerly courts uſed to be called; therefore Noth-tofts maner-houſe may reaſonably be ſuppoſed to have ſtood thereabouts. The ſite of the two others is abſolutely unknown: only it appears by the Court-rolls, that Skeys lies in, or bordering upon, the pariſh of Belchamp St. Paul. But it cannot be found whence it came to be ſo named. As for the maner of Brays, it took that name from a family ſurnamed de Bray, who had eſtates here [M]. And Northtofts, from the knightly family of Nortofts, lords of the maner of Nortofts in Finchingfield. [See under that pariſh.] Theſe three laſt maners are ſwallow'd up by the chief lordſhip of Tilbury-hall; and ſometimes ſtyled in the Court-rolls, 'The maner 'of Tilbury cum Nortofts.' At other times, the maner of Nortofts is called, the maner of Tilbury. However, as they have been ſo long united, we ſhall conſider them as one.

About the reign of K. Henry I. this lordſhip of Tilbury was veſted in one Solomon, a prieſt; and was part of the Barony of Bumſted-Helion, which conſiſted of ten knights fees, being holden of it by the ſervice of one fee (r). When the Empreſs Maud created Alberic de Vere Earl of Oxford, ſhe gave him and his heirs all thoſe lands which belonged to Solomon the Prieſt, of Tilbury; and the ſervice of William de Heliun, being ten knights fees: From that time it came to be reputed a member of the Earldom of Oxford (s). It continued for ſeveral ages in that ancient and illuſtrious family, which held it of the Crown in capite. Though there appears ſome variation in the tenure; for Richard the 11th Earl is recorded to have held it of the heirs of the Earl of March —— Alice, his counteſs, of John Saundrys —— John the 12th Earl, of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, in right of their Church of St. Paul's, as of their maner of Belchamp adjoyning. — John the 13th Earl, is ſaid to hold the maners of Skeys, Brayes, Northtoftes, and Tylburye, of Sir William Walgrave: and ſo did — John the 14th Earl (t) —— Edward, the 17th Earl, ſold all theſe maners together, 2 Septemb. 1583, to Iſrael Amyes, or Amys, who made Tilbury-hall the place of his reſidence [N]. He kept this eſtate but about 12 years; for, 2 April 1595,

His grandfather John Amys, of the county of Somerſet, Gent. had his ſon Roger, who by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of George Lawſon of Yorkſhire, Gent. was father of Iſrael, Joſeph, John, and Anne. —— Iſrael married, firſt, Muriel daughter of Vaulx Van Muris of Holland, and had by her Thomas, Elizabeth, and Mary. His ſecond wife, Thomaſina, daughter of . . Cary of London, was remarried, after his deceaſe, to John Vere of Kirby-hall in Caſtle Hedingham Eſq; —— Arms of Amys. the ſaid Iſrael, and Thomas his ſon and heir apparent, had licenſe to alienate the maners of Tilbery, Nortofts, and Skeys alias Skeaths, and 3 meſſuages, 3 tofts, 3 gardens, 600 acres of arable, 60 of meadow, 500 acres of paſture, 100 of wood, 40 of more, and 100 s. rent, with the advowſon of the Church, to

John de Vere Eſq; in truſt for his brother, the renowned

Sir Francis de Vere Knt. to whom he conveyed them, 1 May 1604. Their father, Geffrey de Vere, was the third ſon of John de Vere, the fifteenth Earl of Oxford of this noble family; and, by Elizabeth his wife daughter of Sir Richard Hardekyn of Colcheſter, had four ſons; John; and Sir Francis juſt now mentioned; Robert who dyed young; Horace, Lord Tilbury; and one daughter, Elizabeth, married to Sir Robert Harcourt. [See above, p. 297.] Sir Francis was born in 1544, and in 1585 went to the aſſiſtance of the States of Holland, with the Engliſh forces, then commanded by Robert Dudley Earl of Leiceſter. From which time he continued in their ſervice for ſeveral years. He particularly diſtinguiſhed himſelf in the defence of Sluys, Bergh, the iſle of Bommel, and moſt eſpecially Oſtend; and alſo in the battle of Newport, and in a ſignal defeat given to the Duke of Parma. He was likewiſe in the expedition to Cadiz, which town he took; and in the Iſland voyage. And in 1597, for a reward of his valour was conſtituted Governor of the Briel; as he was moreover of Portſmouth [O]. He dyed peaceably at home, 28 Auguſt 1608, and was buried in St. John the Evangeliſt's Chapel in Weſtminſter-Abbey, where an uncommon monument is erected to his memory [P]. By his lady, Elizabeth Dent, he had three ſons and two daughters, who all being dead before him, he was ſucceeded by his elder brother — John de Vere Eſq; juſt now mentioned, then aged 40 years (w): and who, beſides this maner and Ovington, had alſo thoſe of Kirby-hall in Hedingham-caſtle, and Little Bromley. He departed this life 10 March 1624, and had for ſucceſſor his youngeſt brother —— Horace Vere Baron of Tilbury, then aged upwards of 50 years (x). This noble Lord took to a military life from his youth, and accompanied his brother Sir Francis in his moſt ſignal exploits, being in courage equal, and in hazards undivided [Q]. He ſerved with great Reputation in the Low-Country wars, particularly at the battle of Newport; the ſiege of Oſtend; the taking of Sluys, with other exploits under Prince Maurice; and afterwards in the Palatinate. On his return from whence, in January 1622-3, King James I. received him ſo graciouſly and thankfully, that, forgetting himſelf, he ſtood bare to him (x). And King Charles I. created him Baron of Tilbury 23 July 1625 [R]. He was Governor of the Briel, General of the Engliſh forces in the ſervice of the States, Maſter of the Ordnance, &c. He dyed ſuddenly, 2 May 1635, and was buried, the 8th, in the ſame vault with his brother Sir Francis in Weſtminſter-abbey. By his lady, who ſurvived him till 25 Decemb. 1671, and was, Mary, daughter of Sir John Tracey of Toddington in Glouceſterſhire Knt. [relict of William Hobby Eſq; ſon of Sir William Hobby, privy counſellor to King Henry VIII.] he left five daughters, his coheirs. 1. Elizabeth married to John Lord Haughton ſon and heir to John Holles, ſecond Earl of Clare, and grandfather to the late Duke of Newcaſtle. 2. Mary, married, firſt, to Sir Roger Townſhend of Raynham in Norfolk Bart. and afterwards to Mildmay Fane Earl of Weſtmoreland. 3. Catharine, to Oliver St. John of Lidyard Tregoze in Wiltſhire Knt. and Bart. and afterwards to John Lord Paulet of Hinton St. George, grandfather of John, created Earl Paulet in 1711. 4. Anne, was married to Thomas Lord Fairfax, General of the Parliament's forces in the laſt century [S], and had by her Mary, wife of George Villiers the witty wicked Duke of Buckingham. 5. Dorothy was married to John Woſtenholm Eſq; ſon and heir

[O] For a more particular account of this great General, ſee "The Commentaries of Sir Francis Vere, being diverſe "pieces of ſervices, wherein he had command, written by "himſelf in way of Commentary." publiſhed in 1657, fol. by William Dillingham, D. D. There is in the beginning a very fine print of Sir Francis. His Life is in the Biographia Britannica.

[P] The Latin Epitaph may be ſeen in the Hiſtories of Weſtminſter abbey; but the following ingenious tetraſtich was made upon him.

When Vere ſought death, arm'd with his ſword and ſhield,
Death was afraid to meet him in the feild:
But when his weapons he had laid aſide,
Death like a Coward ſtrooke him, and he dy'd.
Camden's Remains.

[R] Part of the preamble to his patent, reciting his great exploits and merit, is in theſe words . . . Nos igitur gracioſo noſtro aſpectu Regio dilectum et fidelem noſtrum Horacium Vere militem intuentes, Ipſumque a Proceribus illuſtribus antiquiſſime et nobiliſſime familie Comitum Oxon' propagatum, non minus virtutibus et nobili valore quam genere nobilem tantis majoribus ſe dignum prebuiſſe; Qui ad arma & munera militaria ab ineunte etate accinctus, tam per ſereniſſimam Principem Dominam Elizabetham nuper Reginam Anglie, quam per prechariſſimum patrem noſtrum nuper Regem Jacobum beate memorie in gravioribus et magis arduis negociis et expedicionibus tranſmarinis in Hiſpania & Germania, Francia & Provinciis Belgicis, ad primarios ſemper fidelitatis & honoris locos merito evocatus, tanta cum fide, zelo, fortitudine, et alacritate indefeſſa, in maximum hujus gentis honorem, inſervivit, ut ejus Acta verè honorifica et laudabilia ſe Regibus et Reipublice ſuis acceptabilem, Ipſumque per totum Chriſtianum orbemglorioſum reddiderunt: In cujus tante virtutis dignitatis memoriam Nos, &c.

[S] She was the perſon concerning whom we read theſe particulars at the tryal of K. Charles I. Her huſband, the Lord Fairfax, being called firſt as one of the King's Judges, and no anſwer being made, the crier called him the ſecond time, when there was a voice heard that ſaid, 'he had more 'wit than to be there,' which put the court into ſome diſorder, and ſome body aſking who it was, there was no other anſwer but a little murmuring. But, preſently, when the impeachment was read, and the Preſident Bradſhaw [in a ſpeech] uſed that expreſſion 'All the people of England,' the ſame voice in a louder tone anſwered, 'No, not the hundredth part 'of them;' upon which, one of the officers bid the ſoldiers give fire into that box whence theſe preſumptuous words were uttered. But it was quickly diſcerned that it was the General's wife who had uttered both thoſe ſharp ſayings; and ſhe was preſently perſuaded or forced to leave the place, to prevent any new diſorder. Sir Roger Townſhend had Tilbury-hall in right of his wife: and, after his deceaſe, 1 January 1636, it came to his ſon —— Sir Horace Townſhend, created, 20 April, 1661, Baron Townſhend of King's Lynne in Norfolk. About the year 1660 he ſold it to

Andrew Hacket of Moxhall in Warwickſhire Eſq; knighted in 1673, one of the maſters in chancery, and ſon of Dr. John Hacket, biſhop of Lichfield and Coventry. He kept his firſt court here 10 Octob. 1661; and ſome years after alienated it to

Robert Wankford of Berwick-hall in Toppeſfield Eſq; who held his firſt court here in 1690. His ſon —— Robert Wankford Eſq; ſold it to

Sir Joſiah Child of Wanſted Bart. from whom it hath paſſed to his grandſon —— John Earl Tilney.

To this lordſhip formerly belonged a large Park, now converted into farms; one farm-houſe is called Park-houſe, and another the Lodge. The road to Clare was through this park. On the 31ſt of May 1582, Edward Earl of Oxford ſold Tilbury Park, with the lodge, containing 210 acres of land, to Thomas Gent Eſq; who, 19 Novemb. 1583, ſold it again to William Forſet.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 504*l*. 3*s*.

The CHURCH and Chancel are of one pace, and both tyled. The Tower of brick, and embattled, contains 2 Bells: There is a frame for another; and, according to tradition, the biggeſt Bell was given to Hedingham-caſtle. On a ſtone, over the entrance into the ſteeple, was this inſcription: "Elizabeth Counteſs of Oxenford, "the year of our Lord 1519, built this ſteeple." And the molet is on the outſide; being part of the family-arms.

This Rectory was appendent to the chief maner of this pariſh, only the patronage hath ſometimes been granted to other perſons; but it hath continued longeſt in the noble family of Oxford. Mr. John Poulter of Clare, attorney at law, was lately poſſeſſed of it; and his heirs are, Joſeph Sayer Eſq; Counſellor at law, and Mr. William Shreeve.

28. OVINGTON,

is otherwiſe written in records Ovinton, Oviton, and Ovyton. The Saxon word tun, ſignifies a town or village; but the origin of the firſt part of the name is unknown to us.

A freeman was poſſeſſed of it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: and, at the time of the general ſurvey, it was one of the ſix lordſhips belonging to Roger Bigot in this county [R]. See above, p. 260.

Afterwards, this maner and advowſon of the Church were holden of his ſucceſſors, of the ſurname of Bigot, Brotherton, and Moubray, Earls and Dukes of Norfolk, by the ſervice of one knight's fee, and was annexed to the office of Earl Marſhall belonging to thoſe Noblemen. Under Roger Bigod, Earl of Norfolk and Mareſchall of England, who dyed in 1307, William de Pinſo held half a knight's fee in Oviton (y). And, about the ſame time, this maner was holden by a family ſurnamed De Creke (z) [S]. In Edward the Second's reign, this maner and Advowſon, with the maners of Geſtingthorp, and Belchamp-Oton, and Walter, [as mentioned above, p. 330, &c.] and that of Belchamp, St. Ethelbert, being veſted in Hugh Perpoint, he ſettled them by fine upon John de Boutetort. —— John Boutetort, his next heir, ſucceeded him in 1324 (a). And from him it deſcended to

Sir Robert Swynborne (b). From whom it paſſed to the Helions, and Wentworths. [See under Belchamp-Oton, p. 332, 333.] —— Sir John Wentworth, of Goſfeild hall, who dyed 15 Septemb. 1566, held of the Duke of Norfolk, this maner and advowſon of the Church (c). As did his daughter and next heir, Anne Lady Maltravers, which dyed 5 Decemb. 1580 (d).

The next poſſeſſor after them was the moſt renowned warrior Sir Francis de Vere, mentioned under the foregoing pariſh of Tilbury. All his children being dead before him, he was ſucceeded in this eſtate by his eldeſt brother — John de Vere Eſq; of Kirby-hall. [See above, p. 297, and the foregoing pariſh of Tilbury.] He dyed 10 March 1624, and had for ſucceſſor his brother —— Horace Baron of Tilbury (e); who, at the time of his deceaſe, 2 May 1635, appears to have had this eſtate (f). His Lordſhip's heirs, mentioned above under Tilbury, ſold it to his ſteward Timothy Felton Eſq; The Felton family originally ſprung, and took their ſurname from, the pariſh of Felton in Northumberland; in which ſtood a famous caſtle of great antiquity (g). Of this family was Robert de Felton, who flouriſhed in the reign of K. Edward I. and attended that King in his expedition into Scotland in 1306, and at other times; was governor of Scarborough Caſtle; and had ſummons to parliament in 6 and 7 Edw. II. [T] His ſon——John de Felton was alſo ſummoned to Parliament in 1342; was governor of Alnwic Caſtle; and a very warlike perſon; as were ſeveral of his deſcendents: and that name frequently occurs among the High-Sheriffs of Northumberland (h).—

Of the ſame family was Thomas Felton Eſq; who by his wife, daughter and ſole heir of Sir Hugh Comins, had Robert, John, and Edmund. ——Sir Robert Felton, the eldeſt ſon, was ſeated at Felton in Suffolk, and by a daughter of Sir John Danby had——Henry of Felton in Suffolk Eſq; who married the daughter of Sir Antony Wingfeild, and from them deſcended the Feltons of Suffolk, and that John Felton who ſtabb'd George Villiers the great Duke of Buckingham at Portſmouth (i).

But to come to Timothy Felton Eſq; the purchaſer of this eſtate. He was the only ſon and heir of John Felton of Northumberland Eſq; by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of Roger Rawe. Having for ſome time been a retainer to Horace Lord Tilbury, he at laſt became his ſteward. He married Suſanna, daughter and heir of Robert Watſon of Boſton in Lincolnſhire: She dyed 26 April 1665, ætat. 53; and he himſelf departed this life 26 Novemb. 1683, aged 80. Both lie buried in the chancel of this Church. They had two ſons, Timothy, and John: and 5 daughters; Sarah, wife of the Rev. Edmund Goodwin; Hannah, of Daniel Goodwin, Edmund's brother; Dorothy; Ruth, wife of Joſeph Chamberlain; and Eſther, of the Rev. Giles Firmin, Rector of this Church. Of John, the ſecond ſon, there is ſome account below [V]. As for the eldeſt ſon—Timothy Felton of Ovington-hall Eſq; he received his education at Trinity College in Cambridge, and Lincoln's-inn London; and was High-ſheriff of this county in 1693. K. James II. in the beginning of his reign, put him into the commiſſion of the peace; which office he continued in till the time of his death, 9 May 1694, being then in the 56th year

He married Suſan Weſtley, and had by her Elizabeth, John, and William.

Before his deceaſe, he alienated this eſtate and the advowſon of the Church, to BEAUCHAMP ST. ETHELBERT is now a part of this pariſh, but was anciently diſtinct; and ſo named from the Church or Chapel belonging thereto, dedicated to St. Ethelbert, Albright, Alberic, or Albert.

Ednod, a free-man, had it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; and, at the time of the general ſurvey, it was in one Bernard, under-tenant to Euſtace Earl of Bologne [Y]; and on that account it was holden of the honor of Bologne.

About the reigns of K. Henry II. or K. John, it belonged to the family of Danmartin, or Dammartyn, of Suffolk. For Thomas de Danmartin held then two parts of a knight's fee in this Beauchamp (k): which is otherwiſe deſcribed, as conſiſting of one meſſuage, with a garden, 120 acres of arable, 8 of meadow, 11 of paſture, 14 acr. and a half of wood, and 35*s.* rent (l).—— Philip Dammartyn alienated moſt of it to ſeveral perſons. For, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1273, he was ſeiz'd only of one home-ſtall [Z] here, containing half an acre (m). —— John, his ſon, held alſo here, in 1304, one meſſuage, 7 acres of arable, and 1 acre of paſture (n).

Among the eſtates ſettled by Hugh Perpoint upon John de Boutetort and Maud his wife, this was one; being 100 acres of arable, 4 acres of meadow, and 4*s.* rent; holden of the King, as of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of the eighth part of a knight's fee (o). It ſeems thenceforward to have been united, or at leaſt to have paſſed unalterably, with the maner of Ovington. [See above under Geſtingthorp, and Belchamp-Oton.]

A family took their ſurname from this place; for Hugh de Ovituna was witneſs to a charter of the Earl of Clare (p).

The CHURCH is ſmall and mean, and of one pace with the Chancel; the whole edifice being tyled. The Belfrey is of ſtone at the bottom, and timber above that, with a ſhingled ſhaft; and contains one Bell.

The advowſon of this Rectory hath been all along appendant to the maner. Ever ſince the year 1473, Ovington and Beauchamp St. Ethelbert have been united together, and preſented to by the name of Ovington with the chapel of Albright. The ſmallneſs of the two livings moſt probably occaſioned that union; after which the chapel growing out of uſe, was ſuffered entirely to decay. But there are two diſtinct parſonage-houſes, and glebes (q). Mr. Newcourt hath ſtrangely confounded this Beauchamp St. Ethelbert with Beauchamp-Oton (r); for it was the Church of the former and not of Oton that was dedicated to St. Ethelbert.

ſeems to have taken its name from the quantity of Aſhes growing there. It is otherwiſe written in records, Aiſh, Aſh, Aſhton, Aſsheton, Eſche, Eſske, Eſſe. This laſt name is as ancient as the year 1090 (s). However, it is not found under any of theſe appellations in Domeſday-book; but under the name of Clare, being moſt likely then reputed a part of the adjoyning maner of Clare, tho' they lay in two different counties.

Here is only one capital Maner, namely that of Claret-hall, ſometimes called the Hamlet of Claret-hall. In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it belonged to Ledmar, a freeman; and, at the time of the general ſurvey, to Euſtace the great Earl of Bologne [A].

CLARET-HALL

ſtands above a mile north-eaſt from the Church, near the town of Clare.

About the reign of K. John, Ralph de Cornhull held 1 knight's fee, and 3 quarters of another, in Claret. His daughter brought in marriage this maner, charged with the yearly payment of 10*l.* into the exchequer (t), to Hamon de Crevequer, or rather Crevecoeur, [de crepito corde] a great man in Kent, Baron of Chatham and Leeds (u); who had alſo Moreton and Elſenham in this county.

Soon after it came into the family of Valls, or Vaux, mentioned above under Belchamp-Oton. And of Robert de Valle.

Richard de Clare, Earl of Glouceſter, bought this little maner, as it is called in the record (w), charged with the foreſaid payment of 10*l.* holden of the Honor of Bologne. And it continued a conſiderable time in that noble family. For, his grandſon —— Gilbert, Earl of Clare, Hertford, and Glouceſter, dyed poſſeſſed of the maner and hamlet of Claret, in 1295. —— Gilbert, his ſon, then aged 5 years, was his ſucceſſor (x). He dying in 1314, his inheritance came among his three ſiſters and coheirs; namely Elianor, wife of Hugh Lord Spencer; Elizabeth, married, firſt, to John de Burgh Earl of Ulſter, ſecondly, to Theobald Lord Verdon, and laſtly to Sir Roger Damory; and Margaret, married firſt to Piers Gaveſton, Earl of Cornwall, afterwards to Hugh Lord Audley (y). —— Elizabeth, the ſecond daughter, dyed in 1360, poſſeſſed of this maner (z), And Elizabeth, her only daughter and heir, brought this eſtate, &c. in marriage to her huſband, Lionel, third ſon of K. Edward III. Earl of Ulſter in her right, and created Duke of Clarence. She dyed before him; but he held this eſtate by the courteſy of England till his deceaſe, 17 Octob. 1368.

Philippa, their only daughter and heir, born in 1355 (a), became the wife of Edmund de Mortimer, the third Earl of March of that noble family; who was in her right Earl of Ulſter, &c. He dyed in 1381, poſſeſſed of this eſtate (b), wherein he was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Roger, and his grandſon —— Edmund, Earls of March and Ulſter, and Lords of Wigmore, Trim, Clare, and Conaught (c). The latter dying without iſſue, 19 January, 1424, in the caſtle of Trim; after a tedious impriſonment of above 19 years, for no other crime but his being heir to the Houſe of York, and too nearly allied to the Crown of England; was ſucceeded by the heirs of his eldeſt ſiſter

Anne Mortimer: She was married to Richard of Coningſburgh Earl of Cambridge, ſecond ſon of Edmund of Langley Duke of York fifth ſon of K. Edward III. and had by him —— Richard Plantagenet, Duke of York, Earl of Cambridge, Rutland, March, and Ulſter, Lord of Tindale, Wigmore, Clare, and Conaught. Endeavouring to wreſt the Crown from K. Henry VI. he was ſlain at the battle of Wakefield 31 Decemb. 1460. But his ſon —— K. Edward IV. aſcending the throne ſoon after, this Lordſhip was united to the Crown (d). It ſeems to have remained there [B] till K. Edward VI. granted it in 1551, to his preceptor, the learned

Sir John Cheke, with other lands hereabouts, and the advowſon of the Church of Eſſe; the maner of Stoke, &c. (e). But after his royal pupil's death, Sir John was forced to ſurrender it, 12 April 1556, to

Qu. Mary, and a fine was levied (f). On the 15th of April 1558, this maner, with ſeveral others mentioned above, p. 163, was united to the Duchy of Lancaſter. —— K. James I. ſold this eſtate to

Jonas Windle. He dyed at Bocking, 8 Dec. 1625, holding this maner of the King as of his maner in Enfeild, by fealty only, in free and common ſocage: He held alſo lands in Ovington, Bocking, Witham, Rivenhall, and Chelmſford. Richard was his eldeſt ſon (g): But he gave from him this eſtate to —— Thomas Windle, another of his ſons, we ſuppoſe. This latter ſold it to

. . . Gipps, citizen of London. Afterwards it was in Samuel Edwards; of whom it was purchaſed by Sir Gervaſe Elwes, of Stoke-college in the neighbourhood, created a Baronet 22 June 1660. The Elwes family is originally of Aſkham in Nottinghamſhire. William Elwes of that place, married . . . daughter of . . . Liveſey of Lancaſter, and had by her four ſons, 1. Edward, of Aſkham; 2. John of Worlaby in Lincolnſhire, father of Sir Gervaſe Elwes Knt. Lieutenant of the Tower [C]; 3. Thomas of Hawlethorpe in Nottinghamſhire; and 4. Geffery, Alderman of London. This laſt married Elizabeth, ſiſter and heir of Henry Gabot of London, merchant, by whom he had ſeveral children.

[B] I find a memorandum, importing, that K. Hen. VIII. 31 reg. granted this manner to the lady Anne of Cleve, queen of England, as part of her maintenance. She did not dye till 1555, and it could not have been granted to Sir John Cheke before her deceaſe; ſo that we queſtion the reality of that grant to her.

[C] Of this unfortunate perſon, who was ſo inconſiderate as to connive at the poyſoning of Sir Thomas Overbury in the Tower, for which he was executed, there is a full account in the Hiſtories of thoſe times; particularly in Truth brought to light by Time, written by Fulk Greville Lord Brooke, and publiſhed at London 1651, 4to. His name is moſt variouſly written; as there, and in Roger Coke, Elvis: in Sir Antony Weldon, Elwaies: in Sanderſon's Aulicus Coquinariæ, Ellowayes: in Art. Wilſon, Ellowis: by others, Elways, Yelvis, and Hellwiſſe. He bore a very good character before he was drawn into this unhappy affair, as Weldon obſerves, p. 71.

From Jeremy, one of the ſons, deſcended the Elwes [D] of Throcking in Hertfordſhire. John, the third ſon was an Alderman of London, and father of Sir Gervaſe Elwes, of Woodford in this county Knt. who by Frances, ſecond daughter of Sir Robert Lee of Billeſlee in Warwickſhire Knt. had four ſons. 1. Sir Gervaſe; 2. Robert; 3. Jeremy, of London, merchant; 4. Sir John, of Grove-houſe near Fulham Knt. — The eldeſt ſon, Sir Gervaſe Elwes, of Stoke-college Bart. the purchaſer of this eſtate, was ſeveral years Burgeſs in parliament for Sudbury, and knight of the ſhire for Suffolk. He married Amy, daughter of Dr. Trigge of Highworth in Wiltſhire, by which he had Trigge, who dyed young; Gervaſe, &c. He departed this life in May 1705.—— Gervaſe his ſon dyed before him. He had married Iſabella daughter of Sir Thomas Hervey of Ickworth in Suffolk, Knt. ſiſter of John Earl of Briſtol, by whom he had —— Sir Harvey Elwes, who ſucceeded his grandfather, &c. and was four times Burgeſs in parliament for Sudbury. Dying unmarried in Octob. 1763, he was ſucceeded by —— Sir John Elwes, Bart. (b).

Claret-hall had formerly a Park.

To the ſame family belongs a capital Meſſuage in this pariſh, near the river Stour, called Launds, from its ancient owners, of that ſurname. William de la Landa had tithes in this pariſh in the year 1090, which Richard de Clare gave to his religious foundation at Stoke [E]. And, under John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1360, Philip att Launde, and his partners, held a quarter of a fee in Aiſh (i). It was holden afterwards by Richard Moſelyng, William at Stour, and John Flegg, in the reigns of K. Henry IV. and Edward IV. and next by the College of Stoke (k).

ASHEN-HALL,

though now eſteemed the chief houſe in this pariſh, yet is no maner.

In 1330, a fine paſſed between Robert Fitz-William of Bumpſted-Steple, and Alice his wife, plaintiffs, and Sir William le Moigne, and Maud his wife, deforc'. for 1 meſſuage, 200 acres of arable, 7 acr. of meadow, 7 of paſture, 3 of wood, and 10*s*. rent in Aſhe and Redeſwell, the right of the ſaid Maud (l).

About the year 1534, it belonged to William Hunte Gent. (m). He dyed 9 Septemb. 1551, poſſeſſed of a meſſuage called Shardes, and 160 acres of arable and paſture in Aſhen and Ovington.——John his grandſon was his heir (n). [See under Butlers in Bulmer, which he alſo had, p. 310.] From him it took the name of Hunt-hall.

Afterwards it became the ſeat of the ancient family of Tallakerne, originally of Cornwal [F]. Three, of the name of John, appear ſucceſſively in the pedigree.——Geffrey, ſon of the laſt, was ſlain at Exeter by the rebels in K. Edward the ſixth's reign.—John, his ſon and heir, had two wives. 1. Jocoſa, by whom no iſſue is recorded. 2. Jane, daughter of . . . Bray, and by her he had Juſtinian, Edward; and two daughters, Margaret, married firſt to Thomas Argale, next to Sir Giles Allington; and Catharine, that had to her firſt huſband Guy Wade, and for her ſecond John Hornwall. — Edward, the ſecond ſon, was of Stoke Neyland. He married Alice daughter of Robert Allington Eſq; widow of William Sewſter, by whom he had 4 children, whereof only John, and Ann, are mentioned. —— John Tallakerne Eſq; is ſaid to be of Aſhen Alteſſe; and was knighted 20 June 1627, being one of the Captains at the expedition to the iſle of Ree (o). He married Lucy, eldeſt daughter of Thomas Cotton of Conington in Huntingdonſhire Eſq; which dyed 3 Decemb. 1610 (p). By her he had 6 ſons, and one daughter. He was ſlain in the iſle of Ree in 1627, and lies buried at Bumſted-Helion. —— Devereux Tallakerne Eſq; his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, dyed 3 April 1628, but he was not poſſeſſed of this eſtate (q), which he had ſold ſome time before to

John Fryer, lord of the maner of Gernons in Bumſted-Steple. [See ſome account of this family under that pariſh.] They were originally of Langham, and Clare, in Suffolk [G]. The grandfather of this John appears to have held, about the year 1563, 20 acres of arable and paſture in Aſsheton, of the Queen as of the maner of Claret-hall (r). The ſaid John, purchaſer of this eſtate dyed 25 Novemb. 1630, leaving —— Edward his ſon and heir aged 40 years (s); and Suſan. Edward dying without iſſue, was ſucceeded in this eſtate, and that of Belchamp St. Paul, by his ſiſter

Suſan, then married to Chriſtopher Layer of Boughton-hall in Norfolk Eſq; ſhe dyed 25

See Lord Clarendon's Hiſt. ed. 1732, 8vo. Vol. I. p. 28, 30. This Sir Thomas Fryer, and Sir John Tallakerne, had been knighted together at Portſmouth, 20 June 1627.

March 1669, and her huſband 23 March 1671, and both lie buried in the chancel of the Church of Belchamp St. Paul (t). They had 4 ſons; Freere, who dyed young; Chriſtopher, baptized 8 April 1651; Thomas; John: and two daughters, Suſan and Anne [H]. On the 22d of April 1701, . . . Layer ſold this eſtate to

Stephen Piper Eſq; He was the ſecond ſon of John Piper of Great Cornard in Suffolk Gent. In 1686 he attended Roger Palmer Earl of Caſtlemain in his embaſſy to Rome, in the ſtation of his Maſter of the horſe; and afterwards was an officer, or colonel, in the guards under King William, and Queen Anne. But reſigning that poſt in 1704, he came and ſettled at Aſhen-hall, and acted as Juſtice of the Peace, Treaſurer of this county, &c. till his deceaſe, which happened 16 Febr. 1721-2, in the 66th year of his age. Having no iſſue, by his wife Philadelphia, daughter of Sir Robert Parker of Suſſex, Bart. he left his eſtates to his nephew—John Piper Eſq; [I]:

The Church and Chancel are of one pace, both tyled: and the Tower, built of ſtone and brick, and embattled, contains 3 Bells.

This Church of Eſſe was given by Gilbert de Clare, to the Priory of St. John Baptiſt at Clare, [tranſlated afterwards to Stoke] which he made a cell to the Abbey of Bec in Normandy. King Edward III. during his wars with France, ſeized it as part of the revenues of the Alien Priories, and preſented to the Rectory ſeveral times. After the concluſion of the peace it was reſtored to the Monks; which were naturalized by K. Richard II. 29 July 1395 [K]; and this whole foundation at Stoke converted 16 Janu. 1415, into a Collegiate Church, conſiſting of a Dean, ſix ſecular Canons, and ſeveral other officers (u). In the ſaid Priory and College did the Advowſon of this Church continue till the general ſuppreſſion of Religious Houſes, when it came to the Crown. K. Edward VI. granted it, as we have ſeen, to his præceptor Sir John Cheke; who exchanged it again with Queen Mary. She annexed it, 15 April 1558, to the Dutchy of Lancaſter; ſince which time it hath continued in the Crown, in right of that Dutchy.

is written in records theſe other various ways, Radewell, Radeſwell, Redwell, Reddeſwell, Redſwell, Ridewell, Ridiſwell, Rodeſwell, Roddeſwell, Ruddeſwell. There is a fine well, or ſpring, riſing at the chancel end of this Church; and whether, from that, and Rode a croſs; or from an ancient owner called Redwall or Redwald, a name not uncommon among the Saxons; the appellation of this place is derived, we cannot determine.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it belonged to Godwin a freeman, but was given by William the Conqueror to Euſtace Earl of Bologne, with many other fine lordſhips [L]. And from being his, it came ever after to be holden of the Honor of Bologne.

About the reign of K. Henry II. it was in the family ſurnamed de Anſty, from the place of their reſidence, Anſty in Hertfordſhire (w). In the 13th of K. John—Hubert de Aneſtie held 2 knights fees in Radwell of the Honor of Bologne, by the payment of 15 l. a year into the exchequer (x).—Nicolas, his ſon, left an only daughter and heir named

Dionyſia, who brought this and other eſtates in marriage to William de Montchenſy, baron of Swainſcamp. [See above, p. 35, 138.] In 1244 K. Henry III. granted them free-warren in their lands in Redeſwell (y) [M]. He dyed in 1285 and ſhe in 1303, leaving two children—William, and Dionyſia. William, the ſon, being one of the diſcontented Barons, oppoſed K. John, and K. Henry III. to the utmoſt of his power. He was one of the chief commanders at the battle of Lewes, in which K. Henry III. was taken priſoner: but being himſelf taken ſoon after, his eſtate was confiſcated, and given to William de

Dionyſia inherited his great poſſeſſions. She became the wife of Hugh de Vere, ſecond ſon of Robert Earl of Oxford, a man of great conſequence in his time, much employed by K. Edward I. in civil and military affairs (a). They both dyed in the year 1313, without iſſue [N], whereupon

Adomar de Valence, Earl of Penbroke, ſon of the aforeſaid William, and Joane de Montchenſy, ſucceeded them in their noble inheritance (b). He procured, in 1318, a weekly market in this place, on Tueſday, and a fair yearly on the eve and day of St. Laurence, and the day following, Auguſt 9, 10, 11 (c). Though he was thrice married, namely, 1. to Beatrix daughter of Ralph de Nele Conſtable of France; 2. to . . daughter of the Earl of Bar; 3. to Mary daughter of Guy de Chaſtillon, Count of St. Paul, kinſwoman of K. Edward III. yet he dyed 23 June 1324 without iſſue (d) [O]. His laſt wife had this maner for part of her dowry, and lived till 1376, having continued a widow 53 years (e); nay, it is ſaid (f) ſhe was maid, wife, and widow all in a day, her huſband being unhappilly ſlain at a tilting on their nuptials. She founded Penbroke-hall in Cambridge. Upon her deceaſe, this eſtate deſcended to

John de Haſtings, Lord Bergavenny, and Earl of Penbroke, the fifth in deſcent from John de Haſtings Baron Bergavenny, who had married Iſabell ſiſter of Adomar de Valence above-mentioned. And from him it paſſed to

William de Beauchamp, Lord Bergavenny, who dyed 8 May 1411. Joane, his widow, held this, among other great eſtates [P], in jointure till her deceaſe in 1435 (g).

Richard de Beauchamp, their ſon, who dyed in 1422, left an only daughter and heir

Elizabeth, who became the wife of Sir Edward Nevill, fourth Son of Ralph Earl of Weſtmoreland, and in her right was Baron Bergavenny. —George, his ſon, ſucceeded him in 1476 (h). And had for ſucceſſor his ſon —— George Neville, Lord Bergavenny. [See above, p. 35, 36, 138, 227.]

In 1521, John Fiſher, biſhop of Rocheſter, and Hugh Aſhton Archdeacon of York, two of the Executors of Margaret Counteſs of Richmond and Derby, Foundreſs of St. John's College in Cambridge, purchaſed this maner and eſtate, and made it part of the endowment of that noble and uſeful Foundation; in which it continues. The maner houſe is called The College, on account of its belonging to the ſaid college.

PANNELLS LE HILL,

is a capital farm in this pariſh, on the top of a Hill, not far from the Church; ſo named from a family of that ſurname, ſome of which appear to have lived here from the year 1385 to 1613. John Pannell was at the charge of making one of the north windows of this Church; and his name was painted on the glaſs. [The Pannel, or Paynell, family had alſo the maner of Bradfeild in Toppesfeild, where ſee ſome account of them.] On the 18th of January 1613, John Pannell the elder, with Margaret his wife, and John their ſon and heir, put this meſſuage and eſtate into the hands of Truſtees, and levied a fine. Thoſe truſtees conveyed the premiſes, 31 Octob. 1619, to —— Benjamin Fiſher and Thomas Baron, and their heirs. And theſe laſt alienated them, 11 Auguſt 1625, to

Peter Elliſton, and his heirs. The 22d of October 1661, Joſeph Elliſton ſold this eſtate to Dorothy Barrington, widow of Robert, younger ſon of Sir Francis Barrington the firſt Baronet of that family; for her life; to deſcend to her ſon —— Col. John Barrington, and his heirs for ever. But the Colonel ſold it 7 Febr. 1676, to

Charles Ballett, M. D. and the latter paſſed it, 3 Novemb. 1681, to

William Guyon of Belchamp-Walter Gent. deſcended from Mr. Thomas Guyon of Coggeſhall, mentioned above, p. 165. W. Guyon ſold it again, 2 May 1696, to John Nevill of this place Eſq; He was deſcended from Thomas, younger ſon of Richard Nevill Lord Latimer, who dyed in 1530 (i). This Thomas had, with Mary his wife, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Tey, the maner of Pigots in Ardley, where he dyed in 1540, as did his widow in 1544.——Thomas their ſon, was father of —— John Nevill of Halſted Gent. His ſon —— Richard, of the ſame place, dyed in 1625. —— John, his younger ſon, was of Redgwell, and dyed 27 Febr 1687. By Jane, daughter of Nathan Wade of Halſted, he had —— John Nevill Eſq; the purchaſer of this eſtate. He married Sarah, youngeſt daughter of Joſeph Fiſhpool of Billerica Gent. and had by her ſeveral children. —— George, the eldeſt ſon and heir, being of Lower Yeldham, took to wife Jane daughter of William Guyon of Halſted Gent. by whom he had —— George-Raymond Nevill Eſq; and a daughter.

This eſtate belongs now to Mr. John Richards; who hath alſo another Farm in this pariſh called Furbets.

REDGWELL NORTON,

is a Hamlet in this pariſh, tho' between 2 and 3 miles diſtant from the Church, and cut off from Redgwell by part of the pariſh of Stambourn. It conſiſts of ſeveral farms, and of a Green, with ſome houſes upon it, between Birdbrook and Finchingfield. It was originally part of the demeſnes of the capital lordſhip here, on which account it came to belong to, and be rated with, the reſt of this pariſh. Brictric, a freeman, held it in Edward the Confeſſor's time, as did Richard Fitz-Giſlebert under William the Conqueror [Q].

The Farms in this Hamlet, are: one belonging to Sir Stephen Anderſon Knt. another to George Gent Eſq; in right of his wife; and another to Mr. Richard Yeldham.

ESSEX, is a farm in this pariſh, upon the confines of Stambourne. Ingelram de Blendet held it, about the year 1210, of the Honor of Bologne, as half a knight's-fee (k). John de Blendet dyed in 1257, poſſeſſed in the vill of Redeſwell of 80 acres of arable, 4 acres of meadow, a garden, and 11s. 6d. rent of aſſize (l).——Henry, his ſon, at the time of his deceaſe in 1265, held it of the King as a knight's-fee; but it was then called 100 acr. of arable, 3 of meadow, marſh land ſufficient to keep 120 ſheep, 13s. rent, and ſuit at the court of Bologne.——John was his ſon (m).

A family ſurnamed de Eſſex held it afterwards (n) from which it took its name;——being then called 60 acres of arable, 12 of paſture, &c.

One John Weld had it in 1377 (o).

Part of it, or another eſtate, ſeems to have belonged to an ancient Family of note, that took their ſurname from this pariſh, and flouriſhed here as early as the year 1275. John de Redeſwell was one of the Barons of the Exchequer in 1327.——Thomas de Redeſwell, who dyed in 1375, held, in Redeſwell, of Mary Counteſs of Pembroke 80 acres of arable, 7 acres of meadow, 1 acre of underwood; of the Prior of Stoke, 7 acres of arable; of Henry Engleys, 14 acr. of arable, 3 of meadow, and 1 of paſture; of William Breton, 3 acr. of meadow, William was his ſon (p). Eſſex farm belongs now to Jeremiah Brock Eſq;

Thoſe two greedy hunters after concealed lands, William Tipper, and Robert Dawe, got in 1590, a grant, among other things, of an eſtate here called, 'the maner of Reddeſwell,' (q) [R] which belonged to ſome religious houſe, probably to Stoke Priory. That eſtate goes ſtill by the name of Dawes maner, and lately belonged to Mr. Evans.

Other Eſtates in this pariſh.

The three Chimneys, a farm belonging to Queen's-college in Cambrige.—Parmenters, . . . to Mr. Ambroſe Wade.—The Waſh Farm . . . to Wulf Ridolphus Eſq;——Three farms called Holboroughs, Sewſters, and Fields, . . . to Joſeph Clerke Eſq;——Bowles to Mr. John Parmenter.——The Cauſey . . . to Mr. William Merrington.—Payns . . . to Mr. John Chaplin.—Another . . . to Mr. Richard Piper.

This Town having had, in 1318, the grant of a weekly market, and of a Fair, as is obſerved above, muſt have then made a much more conſiderable figure than it doth at preſent; it being now only a vill, conſiſting of a few ſtragling houſes, on the road leading to Cambridge. Tradition tells us, that this Town ſtood formerly a mile nearer to Stambourn; and, in ſupport of that tradition, foundations are diſcovered there to this day; certain ſigns of ancient Buildings in that place.

Some time ago, Mr. Richard Piper ploughed up, in lands belonging to the College-lordſhip, ſeveral ancient Britiſh and Roman coins; and, among the reſt, a fine gold one of Conſtantine. Moſt of them are in the cuſtody of the Maſter and Fellows of St. John's-college.

To a Gild here, called Jeſus-gild, belonged a meſſuage called Le Yeld-hall, and 8 acres of land; which K. Edward VI. in 1549, granted to Ralph Agard, and Tho. Smyth (r).

Andrew Wade, and another perſon, gave Fifteen pounds to this place, to be lent out, and the intereſt for the uſe of the Poor.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 761l. 2s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Laurence, conſiſts of a body, leaded, and a chancel, tyled; both of one pace: A ſquare Tower embattled, contains 5 Bells.

This Church was given by Dionyſia wife of William de Montchenſy above-mentioned, to her Nunnery at Waterbeach (s). It being removed to Denny, by Mary Counteſs of Penbroke, in 1348, the Rectory was appropriated to the Abbeſs and Siſters of Denny; who became thenceforth patroneſſes of the Vicarage till their ſuppreſſion: when it fell to the Crown. In 1539, K. Henry VIII. granted both the Rectory and Advowſon of the Vicarage to Edward Elrington (t): who, by licenſe dated 28 Febru. 1540, alienated them to Reginald Braybrook, Baynbryk, or Bainbridge, the 6th Maſter of Catharine-hall in Cambridge. And he, by licenſe 15 Novemb. 1549, ſettled them both upon that Houſe (u). They have leaſed the Great Tithes to the Univerſity of Cambridge, whoſe under-tenant is Mr. John Parmenter.

This Vicarage was augmented in 1731 with 200l. to which were added 200l. of Qu. Anne's Bounty. Catharine-hall advanced 60l. the Rev. Moſes Cooke Rector of Hedingham-Sible 65l. and the Rev. Jer. Johnſon 75l. to raiſe the 200l.

31. BIRDBROOK.

The derivation of this name is obvious enough. 'Tis otherwiſe written in records, Bridebroc; Bridebrooke, Brodebrooke, and Burbrook.

In this pariſh are two Maners. 1. . . . Birdbrooke-hall. 2. . . . The maner of Bathorne.

1. BIRDBROOK-HALL

ſtands near the Church. This maner of Birdbrook was poſſeſſed by one freeman in Edward the Confeſſor's, reign; but, at the time of the general ſurvey, belonged to Ralph brother of Ilger; as well as Bathorne maner [S]. Afterwards the former became part of the eſtate of the Peche-family, mentioned above under Geſtingthorp, p. 307. For Roger, ſecond ſon of Richard Fitz-Gilbert Earl of Clare, granted it, about the year 1113, to Ralph Peche (w). In 1283, Gilbert, ſon of Hamo, Peche gave it to K. Edward I. and his Queen Alianore, with other eſtates (x). That King, in the 27th of his reign, made a donation of this, and ſeveral other fair lordſhips [T], to the Abbot and Convent of Weſtminſter (y). However, the Peche family continned poſſeſſed of ſome eſtate in this pariſh [V]. And William de Ufford, Earl of Suffolk, who dyed in 1381, held one fee in Birdbrooke belonging to the Abbot of Weſtminſter. (z). The rich and very conſiderable abbey of Weſtminſter continued poſſeſſed of this eſtate [W] till its ſuppreſſion 16 January 1539, when it came to the Crown. On the 10th of June 1541, K. Henry VIII. ſold, for 550l. 11s. 6d. the maner of Brydebroke, alias Birdbroke, and the advowſon of the Rectory and the Church, with a water-mill, to

Robert Tyrrell Eſq; (a) of Warwicks, in this county. He was ſecond ſon of Sir John Tyrell of Horndon on the Hill, [who was fourth ſon of Sir Thomas Tyrell of Heron] and Alice, daughter and coheir of Sir William Coggeſhall. At the time of his deceaſe, 16 Octob. 1555, he was poſſeſſed of the maner of Burbrooke, holden of the Queen in ca. by the 20th part of a knight's fee, and yearly rent of 59s. 1d. And alſo of a meſſuage and lands in Burbrooke Stambourne, Bumpſtede, and Finchingfeild, called Meſſings; with a wind-mill. He had iſſue, Thomas, Richard, Henry, Robert, and Euſtace. Thomas dyed before him, and left an only ſon—Thomas, born in the beginning of the year 1553, who became his grand-father's heir (b). He dyed 14 May 1573, holding this maner of Bridebroke, &c. [X]. His heir was his only daughter

Dorothy, brought this eſtate in marriage 20 Febr. 1589, to her huſband Henry Gent Eſq; ſon and heir of Thomas Gent of Moynes in Bumſted-Steple, one of the Barons of the Exchequer (d).—Thomas Gent Eſq; their eldeſt ſon and heir, married Iſabell, daughter of Francis Thomſon of Scarborough-caſtle Eſq; and had an only child, named

Frances, a great heireſs, who became the wife of Sir Edmund Alleyn of Hatfeild-Peverel Bart. They had 3 children, but only

Arabella ſurvived them. [See above, p. 132.] She was twice married; firſt, to Francis Thompſon of Hambleton in Yorkſhire, Eſq; by whom ſhe had Francis Thompſon Eſq; Her ſecond huſband was the Hon. Lord George Howard, one of the ſons of Henry Duke of Norfolk. In 1714 they ſold the maner of Birdbrooke-hall, with appertenances lying in this and adjoyning pariſhes; with the Quit-rents amounting to 14 l. per Ann. to

Samuel Ruſh, Eſq; [See above, under Little Brackſted, and Gr. Yeldham, p. 144, 300.] It is now in his grandſon,——John Ruſh Eſq;

2. BATHORNE, OR BAPTHORNE, is the other maner in this pariſh. The houſe ſtands by the ſide of the road leading from Redgewell to Haverhill.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Inguar had this eſtate; which, at the time of the general ſurvey, was holden by Ralph brother of Ilger, under the name of Baberitnam; as is ſhewn above.

Afterwards it became part of the inheritance of the Wanton, or Wauton, family [Y], ſeated at Aſhden and Wimbiſh. For —— Sir John de Wanton, who dyed in 1347, held in Birdbroke 102 acres of arable, 5 acres of meadow, and 7 of paſture, of the Lady Elizabeth de Burgh, by ſerjeancy (e). His ſon —— Sir John de Wanton (f) had to wife Margaret . . . which held this eſtate in jointure; and 30 acres more in this pariſh of the Abbot of Weſtminſter. The time of his death is not mentioned; but ſhe departed this life in 1391. They had two daughters, named Margaret, and Elizabeth, married to . . . Harleſton, and John Pekenham. For John Harleſton ſon of Margaret, and Robert Pekenham ſon of Elizabeth, were found to be the next heirs of the ſaid Margaret Wanton (g). In conquence of which

Robert Pekenham held a moiety of all the lands, tenements, and rents that had been Sir John de Wanton's and Margaret's his wife, and dyed poſſeſſed of them in 1399 [Z]; when he was ſucceeded by his kinſman

Ivo Harleſton, ſon of John aforeſaid (h). This Ivo dyed in 1403 (i). [See a further account of the Harleſton family under Bumſted-Steple.]

Some time after, the family of Mackwilliam, lords of Stambourn-hall [where ſee a particular account of them] became poſſeſſed of this eſtate; then known by the name of Alkebarrowes [A] in Babthorn. —— Edward Mackwilliam held it in 1479, of Cecily mother of K. Edward IV. as of the Honor of Stambourn by the fourth part of a knight's-fee.——John was his ſon and heir (k). His great grandſon,——Henry Mackwilliam Eſq; dyed 22 June 1539, holding this eſtate of the Dean and Chapter of Stoke, by the ſervice of 2s. 6d. then valued at 12l. 1s. 6d. ob. and his ſon —— Henry, then aged upwards of ſeven years, ſucceeded (l). He married Mary, daughter and coheir of Richard Hill Eſq; widow of the famous Sir John Cheeke. He dyed 27 Dec. 1586; and his widow, who had the fifth part of this maner, &c. in jointure, did not dye till 30 Novemb. 1616 (m). They had one ſon—Henry, who was killed in a duel 8 June 1599, without leaving any iſſue: and 5 daughters who ſhared the eſtate; namely, Margaret, married to Sir John Stanhope, of Shelford in Nottinghamſhire: Suſan, married firſt to Edward Sandeys of Sandeys Harrington Eſq; then to Sir Godard Pemberton; and laſtly to Sir Thomas Ireland: Ambroſia, to Sir William Kingſmill or Kingſwell: Caſſandra, to Sir George Cotton: Cecily, to Sir Thomas Ridgway, Treaſurer of Ireland.

The four younger ſold their reſpective ſhares to Sir John Stanhope Knt. who had married their eldeſt Siſter, Margaret [B]. He was created Baron of Harrington, 4 May 1605, and departed this life 9 March 1620, leaving two daughters, and his ſon and heir —— Charles Lord Stanhope of Harrington, who married Dorothy, ſiſter to Edward Barrett, Lord Newburgh, but dyed without iſſue in 1677 (n). On the 20th of July 1648, he and his Lady conveyed by indenture this eſtate to

George Pyke of Birdbroke Eſq; whoſe daughter, Elizabeth, brought it in marriage to

John Crouch, of Buntingford in Hertfordſhire Eſq; [C] They had three ſons, Pyke, John, and Thomas.—Pyke Crouch Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, was of the Middle Temple. He married Catharine, daughter of . . . Carew, a Turkey-merchant, and had by her three ſons, John, George, Thomas; and Catharine.——John-Pyke Crouch, of Bathon-end, Eſq; married Sarah, ſole daughter of Sir John Bendiſh of Bumſted-Steple, Knt.

Thomas Pyke Eſq; is the preſent owner of this eſtate.

HARSTED-HALL, alias HASTINGS-HALL, is another maner, or reputed maner, in this pariſh: ſo called from Robert de Haſtings, who flouriſhed in the reigns of K. Edward II. and III. and held of the Honor of Clare, 2 knights-fees in Birdbrooke, Foxhole or Foxearth, and Harlow (o).

It is juſtly ſuppoſed, to have been part of the fees belonging to Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, who dyed in 1262; and this was then holden by Simon de Blaveny (p) [D]. As it was in 1362 by another named Simon Glaveney (q).

Moſt probably it belonged afterwards to the Wanton family; and to the Pekenhams, one of their coheirs. For —— George Pikenham Eſq; of Hempſted, who dyed in 1499, without iſſue, held the maner of Herſted-hall in Burdbrooke, and lands and tenements in Finchingfeild and Bumſted [E], of the king as of the Honor of Clare, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee. His next heirs were, Margaret and Elizabeth daughters of his brother Thomas Pykenham (r).

Elizabeth was married to John Heron of Barming in Kent, a phyſician, ſon of Sir John Heron of Hackney, and Elizabeth daughter of John Rooper of Kent; and had by him — Richard Heron, who by his wife Jane daughter of Andrew Benloes of Finchingfeild, had —— Sir Edward Heron; created Serjeant at law in Hilary term 1594, and conſtituted one of the Barons of the Exchequer, 5 Novemb. 1607 (s). He had two wives, 1. Anne, daughter of David Vincent of

But, either he or his father ſold this eſtate to

Thomas French; whoſe ſon Thomas French, that dyed 25 May 1629, held the ſite of the maner of Herſted hall; and Barnfield, Meadow-field, Herſted-hall wood, and Lavenhams, in Birdbrook. —— Richard, his ſon, was then aged upwards of 20 years (t).

It belonged afterwards to Thomas Walford Eſq; and now to

Mr. Thomas Warren—Thomas Webb,—and Iſaac Piper, have alſo Eſtates here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1265 l.

Martha Blewitt, buried here 7 May 1681, was the wife of nine huſbands ſucceſſively; but the ninth outlived her. The text to her funeral ſermon was, —— 'Laſt of all the Woman dyed alſo.'

The Church, dedicated to St. Auſtin, is but a mean ſtructure.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the maner of Birdbrook-hall. It was anciently in the Peche-family, who gave it, with that maner, to Weſtminſter-abbey: and in the gift of the Abbot and Convent it continued till the general diſſolution of Monaſteries. Then it came to the reſpective families of Tyrell, Dalſton, and others their ſucceſſors owners of that eſtate, as mentioned above; and is now in John Ruſh Eſq; ſtands in the north-weſt corner of this Hundred, being the laſt pariſh in it that way. 'Tis otherwiſe written Sturmore, and Sturnere; and took that name from a Mere, or Fen, made in it by the river Stura, or Stour, containing by eſtimation about 20 acres.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign this pariſh was almoſt equally divided between a Freewoman and a Freeman: but at the time of the ſurvey, the whole was in the poſſeſſion of Tihell the Briton [F], who had alſo the adjoyning pariſh of Bumſted-Helion, and lands in Aſhdon, Radwinter, and Tilbury near Clare. This lordſhip of Sturmere was part of the Barony of Helion; which Barony was given by Qu. Maud to Alberic de Vere, the firſt Earl of Oxford. [See above, p. 292.]

In K. Henry the Third's reign an extent was made of the lands of William ſon of Roger, and of John Chamberlain, in Sturmere; which the King took into his own hands (u). And, two years after, Robert le Chamberleyn was found to hold of the King, in capite, lands and tenements in this pariſh, of the yearly Value of 10 l. And 14 acres of the Church of Haverele by the rent of 34 pence per ann. —— Geffrey was his ſon (w);

William Fitz-William, Thomas Burnham, and William Gyffard, had alſo part of this eſtate about the ſame time (a).

Some time after it was in the Goldington family, mentioned above under Springfield, Aldham, Colne Engaine, &c. p. 8, 197, 219. —William de Goldington, who dyed in 1318, held in Sturmere, of John de Burnham, 1 meſſuage, 136 acres of arable, 10 acr. of meadow, 3 of paſture, 15 of wood, and 2s. 3d. rent, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee: And 22 acres of arable, 2 of meadow, and 2 s. rent, of the heirs of the Earl of Glouceſter, as of the Honor of Clare (y). —— John his ſon [G], held of John de Burnham, the maner of Sturmere, with the advowſon of the Church, by the ſervice of a pair of gilt ſpurs value ſix pence: and 5 acres there of Hugh de Audley Earl of Glouceſter, by the ſervice of 18d. per ann. and 13 acres and 1 rood of the Prior of Stoke, by the ſervice of 36s. and 32 acres of Elizabeth de Burgh by the ſervice of 32s. a year. He dyed in 1338, and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— John (z). But his widow Catharine, being remarried to John Fermer, held this eſtate till her deceaſe in 1358 (a).

Soon after it appears in the Coggeſhall family. For Sir Henry de Coggeſhall, who dyed in 1375, held the maner of Sturmere, among other great eſtates (b). [See under Little Coggeſhall, p. 162.] His ſon —— Sir William de Coggeſhall, left four daughters coheirs: of whom

He dyed without iſſue the laſt day of February 1495, and the three daughters of his ſiſter Elizabeth were his next heirs; namely, Margaret wife of Nicolas Bewpre, Elizabeth wife of Henry Thurſbie, and Chriſtian wife of John de Vere (d). Margaret, or Margery, his widow, moſt probably had this eſtate as part of her jointure, though it is not mentioned in the Inquiſition taken after her deceaſe (e); for ſhe being remarried to Sir James Hobart, they jointly preſented to this living in 1512 (f).

John Claydon, clerk, was the next lord of this maner, and preſented to the living from the year 1524 to 1533 (g).

Charles Radcliffe Eſq; preſented in 1553; as did John Radclyffe Gent. from 1557 to 1562, both as lords of the maner (h).

Ellen, daughter and heir of . . . . Radcliffe, was married to Robert Todd of Carſey in Suffolk (i), and brought him this eſtate in marriage. She was buried here 31 March 1614, and he 12 Novemb. 1620. They had iſſue —— Robert, buried here 19 March 1628. He married Barbara daughter of Thomas Cole of Walden, Gent. by whom he had Radcliffe, Margaret, Robert, Frances, Thomas, Ellen, and Suſan. — Radcliffe, the eldeſt ſon and heir, baptized 1 April 1603, by . . . his wife had Radcliffe; and Anne, married firſt to Thomas Mortlack, and then to George Gent of Moines Eſq; He dyed in 1663. —— Radcliffe, the ſon and heir, married Martha daughter of . . . Unwin, by whom he had Radcliffe; Thomas; George; and Martha, wife of Thomas Kembol of London, linnen-draper. He dyed 29 July 1675, aged 32, and was buried in the chancel of this Church, with an epitaph; as was alſo his wife, that dyed 27 March 1679, after having had to her ſecond huſband Thomas Ferrand of Clare, attorney at law.—Radcliffe, the eldeſt ſon and heir, baptized 14 March 1666, took to wife Anne, daughter of Arthur Chaplyn of Robjents in Finchingfied, but left no iſſue: and being buried 31 March 1697, was ſucceeded by his next brother—Thomas, who was baptized 8 Decemb. 1669. He married Dorcas, or Suſan, daughter of Robert Wankford of Stambourne-hall Eſq; by which he had Radcliffe, Thomas, and Anne; and being buried 6 Febru. 1710-11, ——Radcliffe, his eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded him. He hath had for ſucceſſors his deſcendants — Robert, —Thomas, — Thomas, and — Radcliffe-Pearl Todd Eſq; the preſent poſſeſſor [H].

HERSHAM-HALL,

Part of the demeſnes of that maner anciently extended into this Pariſh of Sturmerere, as well as into the adjoyning pariſh of Haverhill; and are accordingly placed in Domeſday-book under the Hundred of Hinckford. But as the ſite of Herſham-hall is within the pariſh of Bumſted-Helion, we ſhall place there all that we have to ſay relating thereto.

'Tis to be noted, that though Sturmere be now reckoned an obſcure place, and ſmall, with few inhabitants; yet it was formerly very conſiderable, and of great extent, reaching into Suffolk and Cambridgeſhire. Haverhill and Kedington were then Hamlets to this pariſh; though both of them far exceed it now in the magnificence of their Churches, and number of Inhabitants; even now, Sturmere is rated and aſſeſſed to the land-tax by a warrant directed to two of the Inhabitanes of Sturmere, to aſſeſs Sturmere with its Hamlets Haverhill and Ketton.

Water-hall, belonging to Samuel Berkley Eſq; hath ſome of its demeſnes in this pariſh; but the houſe ſtands in Wickſhou.

Poke-mill hath alſo been called a Maner.

Sturmere with its Hamlets is rated at 1313l. 0s. 8d.

A farm called Parkers, on Sturmere-green, of about fifteen pounds a year, was left by two maiden ſiſters; one half to Sturmere, and the other half to Kedington; for the reparation of the Churches; and the better maintenance of the Poor, of thoſe two pariſhes.

Sixty acres and one rood of arable land, and 13 acres of meadow, in this pariſh, were given to the Hoſpital of St. Mary's without Biſhopſgate, London, by Robert, Vicar of Hundon, and others, about the year 1388 (k).

The CHURCH is of one pace with the Chancel, and tyled. A ſquare tower at the weſt end, with a ſhingled cupola, contains 3 Bells.

This Rectory was all along appendant to the Maner, till Mr. Todd ſold it to Robert, or Edward, Harley Earl of Oxford.

33. BUMPSTED-STEPLE.

In this County are two Pariſhes of the name of Bumpſted, contiguous to each other, though in different Hundreds; namely this which we are going to treat of, and Bumpſted-Helion within the Hundred of Freſhwell. The former, in contradiſtinction to this laſt, is called Bumſted-Steple, becauſe, according to Norden (l), it was firſt adorned with a Steeple or Spire. 'Tis otherwiſe ſtyled Bumſted ad Turrim, at the Tower, from a Tower that ſtood near the road leading from Haverhill to Bathorne-bride [I]. There are places ſtill remaining like intrenchments, where large ſtones have been dug up, and ſeveral human bones found.

The name is otherwiſe written in records Bameſteda, Bumſteda, Bumeſteda, Bummeſteda. This large pariſh belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Queen Edeva or Editha; thirteen freemen; and four ſochmen. At the time of the ſurvey it was parcelled out between William of Warenn, Euſtace Earl of Bologne, Alan ſon of the Earl of Bretagne, &c. One Guilbert was William's under-tenant; Adelolf de Merc was Earl Euſtace's; and a ſoldier was Alan's [K].

Theſe ſeveral lordſhips were divided afterwards into the following Maners. 1. The maner of Bendiſh. 2.——Bowers-hall. 3. . . . Wantons. 4. . . . Robtofts. 5. . . . Blois. Theſe five centered in the Bendiſh family. The others were, 6. . . The maner of Steple Bumſted, alias Gernons. 7. . . . The maner of Moynes. 8. . . that of Lacheleys.

1. The maner of BENDISH took that name from its ancient owners, whoſe ſeat it was, and who thence removed to Bower-hall. The houſe ſtands by the road ſide, about half a mile from the Church; and is moated round. To it is joyned Old Park.

Thomas ſon of Ralph de Bendiſh of Radwinter, Alice his wife, and John their ſon and heir, in 1309, purchaſed of Peter ſon of Nicolas atte Berne, of Stepel Bumſted, all his lands, tenements, &c. with appertenances in this Pariſh (m). From them they deſcended to —Thomas Bendiſhe Eſq; who, at the time of his deceaſe in 1447, held the maner called Bendiſhe maner in Bumſted ad turrim, of the Abbot of Weſtminſter, by fealty, and rent of 12d. per annum, in lieu of all ſervices. He had alſo the maner of Lachelees, and the meſſuages and lands called Bloyes, Royles, Ropcotes, Fitz-Aleyns, and Baylours in this pariſh (n) [L]. We ſhall give a particular account of the Bendiſh family, after having taken notice of the ſeveral other eſtates they had in this place.

2. BOWERS-HALL

was undoubtedly ſo named from ſome noted Bower, or arbour, thereto belonging. 'Tis otherwiſe written in records Bour-hall, Boor-hall, and Bromhall. This maner is ancient, or at leaſt the houſe was ſo; for it went by that name in the year 1323 (o).

Sir John Knivet, Chief Juſtice of the King's-Bench, and Lord Chancellor, in K. Edward the Third's reign, dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1380, by the name of 1 meſſuage, 140 acres of arable, 6 acres of meadow, 2 of paſture, 8 of wood, and 13s. 4d. rent of aſſiſe of the free tenants; which he held of the heirs of Lady Eve of Audley.——John was his ſon (p). But Alianor, Sir John's widow, enjoyed part of it till her dedeceaſe in 1388, which ſhe held of the Lord de Morle (q).

Thomas Rolfe, and others, had it next; of whom Robert Cooke, Rector of Little Shelford, purchaſed: and his next heir Maud Jaggard of Stapelford, releaſed all her claim in and to the ſame to Thomas Bendiſh the younger, in 1432 (r). Thus Bower-hall became veſted in the Bendiſh family, who enjoyed it for many generations, making it their ſeat and reſidence. It has, or had, a Park round it; and ſtands a little way ſouth from the Church.

Waltons, and corruptly Wautons, Wawtons, and Wantons [I].

Simon de Wanton, Chaplain to K. Henry III. and one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, was made Biſhop of Norwich 10 March 1257 (s). ——Roger de Wanton was Marſhal of the Houſehold to that King, about the year 1270 (t).— Sir William de Wanton was a Knight-banneret under K. Edward I. (u). In 1302, a fine paſſed between him, plaintiff, and William Chamberlain deforc.' for 2 meſſuages, 440 acres of arable, 17 acr. of meadow, 8 of paſture, 30 of wood, and 24s. rent in Stepel Bumpſted, &c. to hold to the ſaid W. Wanton (w). —— Sir John de Wanton was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1331. (x). He held here of John de Elyon, by knight's ſervice 1 meſſuage, 100 acres of arable, 6 acr. of meadow, 10 acr. of paſture, 3 of wood, and a mill: and dying in 1347, was ſucceeded by his ſon Sir John (y). [See a more particular account of this family under Wimbiſh.] The time of Sir John's death is unknown: but Margaret his widow dyed in 1391, or 1392, holding of the King in ca. this maner once called Chamberleyns tenement, 10 acres of arable, 7 acr. of meadow, 12 of wood, and 18s. rent in this pariſh, by the ſervice of 3s. rent called Surſyſe, payable yearly to the King by the hands of the bayliff of this Hundred, and ſuit at two general hundred courts at Stowe within this Hundred of Hengford, as it is there called. She held alſo of the King, as of his Honor of Bologne, the fourth part of the maner of Brendhall in this pariſh: and of the Earl of March 200 acres of arable, and 31 of meadow, in this pariſh and Birdbrooke: alſo 60 acres of arable here of the maner of Helyons, by ſcutage. Her coheirs were the children of her two daughters, namely John Harleſton, ſon of her daughter Margaret, and Robert Pekenham ſon of her daughter Elizabeth (z). This Robert had the moiety of all the eſtates which had been Sir John de Wanton's, in this and pariſhes adjoyning, and in Reydon, Parndons, and Naſings: And dying in 1499, was ſucceeded by his kinſman,

Ivo Harleſton, ſon of John juſt now mentioned (a). This family took their ſurname from the town of Harleſton in Norfolk; in which County they were chiefly ſettled. Ivo dyed in 1403, poſſeſſed of this maner of Wantons, of which one toft and 15 acr. were holden of the King in ca. and the reſt of the Abbot of Weſtminſter. He had alſo the maners of Wantons in Wimbiſh, and Downes in Reydon. —John was his ſon (b); and ſeated at Shimpling in Norfolk He married Elizabeth daughter of William [illegible]opton, by which he had John; Robert, that married Alice daughter and coheir of Sir Henry Bruyn. [See under South Okingdon] and one daughter, Elizabeth, wife of William Lea of Stafford. He dyed in 1457.——John, the eldeſt ſon [K], married Margaret daughter and coheir of William Bardwell, and had by her two daughters coheirs, Alice wife of Sir Richard Fitz-Lewes, and Margaret of Thomas Darcy of Danbury Eſq;

Alice brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband Sir Richard Fitz-Lewes; [See an account of that family under Weſt Hordon.] and was ſucceeded therein by his ſon — John Fitz-Lewes Eſq; who left an only daughter

Elizabeth, or Ela, a very rich heireſs, that became the wife of Sir John Mordaunt, made Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Queen Anne Boleyn, and who had by this his firſt Lady a ſon named Lewes. She dyed 2 June 1543, poſſeſſed of this maner of Wantons, and divers other lands and tenements in this and the pariſhes adjoyning (c). Her huſband, who was become Lord Mordaunt upon his father's death in 1562, and his ſecond Lady named Joane, by indenture dated 20 May 1563, ſold this maner of Wantons, alias Waltons, to

Richard Tyrell Eſq; of Birdbrook, as we think, whoſe ſon —— Edward Tyrell Eſq; alienated it to

Francis Haydon, and he ſoon after conveyed it to

Thomas Bendiſhe Eſq; that dyed poſſeſſed of it 23 February 1603 (d). But Haydon reſerved the ſite of the maner, and part of the demeſnes, which he afterwards ſold to Richard and Thomas French: and the latter ſold them to Edward Symonds Eſq; one of the Curſitors in Chancery, who dyed 7 Septemb. 1637, ſeized of the ſite of this maner, and parcells of the demeſnes of the ſame.—Richard was his ſon (e).

This eſtate, by being thus diſmembred, came to be divided into three; viz. Great Waltons, part of the Bendiſhe's eſtate. —— Middle Waltons, Will. Phillips's of Cotton-hall in Keddington.—Little Waltons, Mr. Barrons.

The Houſes of Great and Little Waltons are about a mile and a half north-eaſt from the Church.

To this maner was annexed another eſtate called Brendhall. . . . Sir John Argentyne held part of it in the reign of K. Richard II. and dying in 1382, left three coheirs; namely, Margaret daughter of Joane late wife of Sir Barthol. de Nanton; Baldwin, ſon of Sir Baldwin St. George by Alice his wife; which Joane and Alice were the the two eldeſt daughters of the ſaid Sir John Argentyne; and his third daughter and coheir was Maud, wife of Ivo Fitz-waryn (f).

Margaret widow of Sir John de Wanton, mentioned above, held in 1391, the fourth part of this maner of the King, as of his Honor of Bologne: and from her it paſſed as Walton's (g).

called otherwiſe in records Robtotts, Ropcotes, and Roberts.

[I] They had the maner of Wautons in Aſhdon, and Tiptofts in Wimbiſh, Bathorne in Birdbrook, Chaureth, Weſt Thurrock, Willingale, &c.

[K] Of this family was Sir Richard Harleſton, of the Bedchamber, and Vice-Admiral of England, to K. Edward IV. Governor of Jerſey, &c.

This is the Knight's fee, in Bumſted and Stoke, which the heirs of Richard Fitz-Lambert held of Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford in 1262 (b). And — Simon de Henham held the ſame in 1314, and afterwards (i) William Robtoft, from whom it derived its name, was poſſeſſed of it in 1365 [L]. And, in 1393, John Robtot gave to William Robtot, and Maud his wife, all his lands and tenements in Bumſtede at the Towre, and Stoke, and after their deceaſe to Thomas Bendiſh, and other feoffees (k). In 1447, his deſcendent Thomas Bendiſh Eſq; dyed poſſeſſed of Ropcotes and Royles in this pariſh, which he held of Richard Duke of Glouceſter and John Cave (l). From him it paſſed to his poſterity. When his grandſon Richard held it, it was called 100 acres of arable, 200 acres of paſture, and 6 of meadow (m).

5. The maner of BLOIS, received that name from the knightly family of Bloy, or Blois, belonging to Alberic de Vere, the firſt Earl of Oxford.

Adam de Bloy held this maner in 1312 (n), and in 1333, and 1334, Sir Adam de Bloye, with Sir John de la Hay, and Sir William de Baude executed the office of High Sheriff for Eſſex and Hertfordſhire (o) [M]. Under Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, who dyed in 1372, William de Bloy held a quarter of a knight's-fee in Little Bumpſted (p).

John Proudman, and Margery his wife, made over to Edmund Bendiſh the reverſion of all their lands and tenements in Bumſted at the Towre, which ſome times were William Bloy's; viz. a meſſuage, 160 acres of arable, 5 acr. of meadow, 5 of wood, 6d. rent, and one pound of cummin; which lands were by right of inheritance to deſcend to them after the death of Joane late wife of the aforeſaid William Bloy: And they acknowledged a fine for the ſame before the Judges in 1370. —— Thomas Bendiſh Eſq; who dyed in 1447, held of the king, as of his Earldom of Hereford, this eſtate, then called one meſſuage, 200 acres of arable, 6 of meadow, and 6 of wood, by the ſervice of ſix arrows, or two pence a year (q).

He alſo rented Gebons, otherwiſe Gybbons and Gobions Fee, in this pariſh, ſome times called a maner (r); and belonging to the Earl of Oxford.

Having thus viewed the capital eſtates in this pariſh which became veſted in the Bendiſh family, I proceed to give a particular account of that family. Their ſurname was originally de Weſtley, which they changed into that of Bendiſh, from a conſiderable lordſhip in Radwinter, whereof they were poſſeſſed ſome time in the twelfth century. The firſt whoſe name occurs in ancient writings that may be certainly depended upon, is ——Peter de Weſtley, alias Bendiſh. He flouriſh'd about the reigns of K. John, and of K. Henry III. His ſon —— George, or Gerrard, married Margaret, daughter and heir of Richard de Burghwell, and had by her — Ralph de Weſtley, alias Bendiſh, of Radwinter Eſq; who, by his wife, Agnes, daughter and heir of John de Graunceſter, had — Ralph, that married Idonea, or Jemima, daughter and heir of Henry Grigges, by whom he had, John who dyed without iſſue; Thomas, and Richard. This laſt married Margery daughter of John Bullen, or Butler, of Walden, and had by her Agnes his only daughter, wife of John Mordaunt of Turvey in Bedfordſhire; Eſq; anceſtor of the Earls of Peterborough.——Thomas, the ſecond but eldeſt ſurviving ſon and heir, was the firſt of this family who laid aſide the ſurname of Weſtley, and took that of Bendiſh. He was alſo the firſt of the family who purchaſed lands here, as mentioned above: and marrying Alice, daughter of William Helion of the adjoyning pariſh, had by her, John and Robert. He departing this life about the year 1342, was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon —— John: who married Alice daughter of Sir Robert Roſſe, and had by her —— Edmund. He accompanied K. Edward III. at the famous ſiege of Calais in 1347 (s); and with John Wythorne Rector of Halſted, gave 100l. to the univerſity cheſt of Cambridge, founded by Walter Neel, about the year 1345 [N]. He dyed in 1392, leaving by Alice his wife, ſiſter and at length heir, to William de Bennington, Thomas, and Edmund; which laſt dyed without iſſue in 1401. — Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, was married, firſt, to Margaret, daughter and coheir of Thomas Bradfeild of Barrington in Cambridge-ſhire, Eſq; His ſecond wife was Alice, daughter and ſole heir of Sir Walter Clopton of Hadley in Suffolk, and a Knight of Rhodes. By this ſecond wife he had Thomas, of Hadley; William; and John, founder of the Suffolk and Norfolk branches of Bendiſh: alſo two daughters; Elizabeth married to John Huntingdon, and Alice to Richard Ongar of Yeldham. By his firſt wife he had, Edmund, from whom are deſcended the Bendiſhes of Barrington; Thomas; Joane, married to John Wilford of Crocheſton in the County of Southampton, Eſq; and Alice to Walte[illegible]rard of this pariſh, who had with her a portion of 40 l. Their father dyed in 1447 [O], and was ſucceeded in the Bumpſted-

And by his ſecond wife, Joane, daughter of John de Throckeldon, he had Ralph, John, and Maud. He dyed in 1484 [P].—— Richard his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, dying 27 Febr. 1486, was buried in the north iſle of this Church, with a monument. He married Anne daughter of . . . Rawden of Royden-hall in Eſſex, Eſq; by whom he had Margaret, and his ſon and heir — Richard, that dyed 22 Septemb. 1523, and was buried near his father. His wife was Margaret, daughter and heir of John Newport of Hertfordſhire, Eſq; and by her he had John, and Margaret.—— John only ſon and ſucceſſor to his father, departed this life 20 Auguſt 1585, and lies interred near his anceſtors. By his wife, Margaret daughter of Thomas Crawley of Wendon Loughts Eſq; he left his ſon and heir [Q] —— Thomas, that had four wives. 1. Elianor daughter and coheir of John Ford of Gr. Horkeſley and Frating, in this county. By her he had, John who dyed almoſt as ſoon as born; another John; Thomas, baptized 27 Janu. 1565. Richard [R]; Barbara, married to Thomas Smyth of Walſoken in Norfolk; Mary; Elizabeth, married to John Pepys of Cottenham in Cambridgeſhire; Elianor, wife of Robert Bryan of Bolingbroke in Lincolnſhire; Margaret; and Elizabeth. His ſecond wife was Thomaſine, daughter of . . . Fincham, who was buried in this Church 24 June 1590. Alice . . . was his third wife, and buried here 26 July 1591. His fourth wife was Margery daughter of Rook Greene of Little Samford Eſq; but by the three laſt he had no iſſue [S]. He dyed 23 Feb. 1603, aged 63 years, and lies buried at Frating, with an epitaph, in a chapel built for his firſt wife's and his own interment.——Thomas, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, was created a Baronet 22 May 1611, and ſerved the office of High Sheriff for this county in 1618, and 1630; and made a conſiderable addition to his eſtate [T]. He married Dorothy daughter of Richard Cutts of Arkeſden in this County, Eſq; by whom he had Thomas; John, who dyed young: and two daughters, Dorothy, afterwards wife of Sir Tho. Hartop of Burton-Lazers in Leiceſterſhire, Knt. and Elianor of Miles Fernely of Creting in Suffolk, Eſq; . . . Departing this life 26 March 1636, in the 71ſt year of his age, he was buried in this Church with his anceſtors, and ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir Thomas Bendiſh, Bart. then aged about 29 years (t). He was a man of great ſenſe and reſolution, and ſtedfaſtly loyal to his prince, K. Charles I. For, at the beginning of the national troubles, he had a chief hand in drawing up 18 July 1642, and preſenting to the King a Declaration [V], and afterwards Petitions both to his Majeſty and the Parliament, recommending an amicable Accommodation, in order to ſtop the diſtractions and bloody miſeries whereinto this nation was moſt unhappily involved. For which good office he was impriſoned 22 months in the Tower by order of the Houſe of Commons; and his eſtate being ſequeſtred, he was forced to pay a compoſition of 1000l. (u). He alſo ſent 3000l. to his royal Maſter, when under reſtraint at Newcaſtle. However, though he fell at firſt under the diſpleaſure of the prevailing powers, yet ſo conſiderable was he on account of his capacities and integrity, that afterwards they made choice of him to be their Embaſſador extraordinary to the Ottoman Porte. But no arguments of theirs could prevail with him to accept of this honorable employ without the King's Commiſſion: which his Majeſty readily granted him; and alſo leave to carry with him ſuch ſeal as the Parliament had given him, and to make ſuch uſe of it as he ſhould think fit, and might conduce to the advantage of Himſelf and the Turkey Company (w). He entered on his embaſſy in 1647, and reſided at the Turkiſh court about 14 years; filing up that great poſt with admirable ſufficiency. For, beſides his ſkill in languages, he was a gentleman of conſummate prudence and invincible courage. How well he underſtood his character, and how jealous he was of his Prince's and Country's honour, appears from the inſtances ſet down below [W]. K. Charles I. had ſuch a ſenſe of his gallant behaviour, and the eminent ſervice he had done the Levant company beyond any other Embaſſador, that he wrote him a Letter of thanks from the Iſle of Wight, about Novemb. 1648. After that King's tragical death, Sir Thomas continued firm to his ſon's intereſt, and renewed the capitulation between the Grand Signor, and Him, by the title of Charles II. King of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland. And this Prince confirmed Sir Thomas in his commiſſion of Embaſſador extraordinary. How he came to eſcape the reſentment of the then uſurping powers, and keep out of the reach of men whoſe hands were found longer than thoſe of moſt Princes, we cannot explain. Eſpecially when Sir Henry Hyde, ſent by K. Charles II. only as his Agent to the Ottoman Porte in 1649, was ſentenced by the high court of Juſtice, 1 March 1650, to be beheaded (x) [X]. However, in 1653, Oliver the Protector diſpatched Richard Lawrence to Conſtantinople with letters of revocation for Sir Thomas; who ſhewed the value he had for the King's commiſſion, by telling Lawrence, That he was ſent by the King, and would not deliver up his commiſſion without his Majeſty's order. Upon which, articles of high treaſon were exhibited to the Parliament againſt him by one Paul Hagett, but without effect. For Sir Thomas appears to have continued in Turkey till recalled thence in 1662, by K. Charles II. who gave him a very honourable teſtimonial of his loyalty and good affection, with promiſes of doing him ſervice [Y]. This renowned gentleman, the chief glory and ornament of his family, after many years ſpent abroad, at laſt departed this life at Bower-hall, the place of his nativity, about the year 1674, aged 67 years, and was buried here among his anceſtors. His lady, the faithful companion of his travels, dyed at Conſtantinople, and her body was brought over and buried here. She was, Anne, daughter and coheir of Henry Baker of Shoebery in this county. By her he had, Thomas who dyed young; John; Robert; Henry; Andrew; and ſix daughters, Dorothy, married firſt to . . . . Williams, then to . . . . Bowyer; Abigail, to . . . Edwards; Anne, to Sir Jonathan Dawes, Knt. Elizabeth, to . . . Cartwright; Diana, to Sir Strenſham Maſters, Knt. and Suſan, to Sir William Hooker, Knt.——Sir John Bendiſh, the ſecond, but eldeſt ſurviving, ſon, and ſucceſſor to his father, had, by Martha his wife daughter and heir of Richard Batteſon of London, Eſq: ſix ſons, Thomas, John, Richard, Charles, Robert, all which dyed young; and Henry: alſo three daughters, Anne; Martha; and Sarah, wife of John-Pyke Crowch of Bathorne-end, Eſq; He dyed in 1706, aged 78 years, and was buried here, with his lady who dyed the year before.— Sir Henry his ſon and ſucceſſor, was many years a Juſtice of Peace, one of the Deputy-Lieutenants, &c. for this county. He married Catherine daughter of Sir William Goſlin Knt. one of the Sheriffs of London in 1684, by whom he had one ſon, named Henry, who lived only five months. Sir Henry dyed 4 Septemb. 1717, in the 43d year of his age, and was buried the 11th here, with his anceſtors. A monument was afterwards erected to his memory. He was the laſt male heir of this ancient family [Z], and from him the eſtates have paſſed to the preſent poſſeſſor

Sir Stephen Anderſon, Bart.

[W] Thoſe inſtances were, when the Grand Vizier would have publickly affronted him at an Audience, in cauſing the chair to be removed out of the room, that he might deliver his Embaſſy ſtanding, Sir Thomas made one of his Gentlemen kneel down and lean on his hands, and then ſat down upon him, before he would deliver his embaſſy. . . . At another Audience, when the Grand Vizier would have placed the French Embaſſador above him, he juſtled him from his chair, and took his place, telling him, That he was Embaſſador from a crown'd head, who was King of France as well as England. . . . Another time, there happening ſome diſputes betwixt the grand Vizier and Sir Thomas; Sir Thomas roſe up, and kicking from him the ſtool whereon he ſate, ſaid, His Maſter was diſhonoured, and he would have reparation for the affront. . . . . This reſolute and gallant behaviour made him only the more conſiderable.

[X] Sir Thomas was blamed for this Gentleman's unhappy end, and publiſhed, "The Manifeſt or Vindication "of Sir Thomas Bendiſh Baronet, to clear himſelf from thoſe "Aſperſions which are unjuſtly caſt upon him concerning "the death of Sir Henry Hide." Half a ſheet 4to. What thoſe Aſperſions were in particular, I have not been able fully to diſcover: But from a paſſage in the Proceedings in Parliament, publiſhed in thoſe times, five volumes of which are in my poſſeſſion, it may be conjectured, that ſome ill-natured perſons concluded, that Sir Thomas was acceſſary to that Gentleman's being kidnapped, and brought to England. The paſſage is as follows. "Sir Henry Hide was beheaded "at the Exchange in London, for being Agent for Charles "Steuart ſon of the late King, againſt the Commonwealth "of England to the Turke, where he had ſo little reception, "that he was, by aſſiſtance of ſome eminent there, about "the Baſhaw, under pretence of a feaſt, got aboard an "Engliſh ſhip and brought over into England." Several Proceedings in Parliament, &c. No. 75. p. 1143.

[Y] Notwithſtanding which, ſome reflexions were caſt upon him, which obliged him to publiſh, "The Remon-"ſtrance or Manifeſt of Sir Thomas Bendyſh Baronet, ſent "Ambaſſador from King Charles of bleſſed memory to the "Grand Seignior in Conſtantinople, anno 1647, to inform "the world, and to remember the Governor and Company "of Merchants trading into the Levant Seas, of the Services "he hath done them, and this Nation there, which by their "carriage towards him, many of them ſeem to have for-"gotten." Printed on a ſheet of paper at London, 1665.

They quartered the Coats of Burghwell, Grauncetre, Bennyngton, Calleys, Beauchamp, Bradfeild, Huntingdon, Clopton, Newport, Foord, Baker, Batteſon.

6. The maner of Gernons, or of Steple Bumſted.

It took the name of Gernon from a conſiderable family, that had eſtates in this county at Ardley, Eaſthorp, Little Lees, Wormingford, &c. This is the eſtate that belonged, at the general ſurvey, to Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant A. de Merc. Ingelram de Merk had it by the name of half a carucate, and Gilbert de Bailoll was his tenant in 1258 (x). Afterwards it ſeems to have been divided between the Vere and Argentine families.

Hugh de Vere, Earl of Oxford, who dyed 16 Dec. 1263, held in Steple Bumpſted 100 acres of arable, 4 acres of meadow, 5 of wood, view of frank pledge, 21 s. 6 d. rent from the free tenants; newly acquired of the Honor of Bologne; and holden of Robert Merk as half a knight's-fee (y). His ſon ——Robert held it of the ſame, as a quarter of a fee, in 1295, it being then called 165 acres of arable, 4 acr. and a half of meadow, 2 of wood 26s. 7d. ½ rent of aſſize, and pleas of court (z). They ſeem ſoon after to have diſpoſed of it to the Fitz-Alan family. For, of John and Thomas de Vere Earls of Oxford, who dyed in 1358, and 1370, the heirs of Walter Fitz-Alan held the fourth part of a fee in this pariſh (a).

Thomas Bendiſhe Eſq; had it at the time of his deceaſe in 1447 (b): and ſo part of this eſtate centered in that family.

Another part belonged to the Argentine family. Sir Giles de Argentine is recorded to have held lands here in 1265 (c). He dyed about the year 1283, leaving by his wife Maud —— Sir John Argentine, who departed this life in 1343. His heirs were, 1. Margaret Nanton; 2. Baldwin St. George, children of his two eldeſt daughters Joane, and Alice who had had for huſbands Sir Bartholomew de Nanton, and Sir Baldwin St. George; and 3. Maud, his third daughter, married to Sir Ivo Fitz-waryn (d). This Sir Ivo dyed in 1414, ſeized of the third part of the maner of Gernons, in right of his wife Maud, according to the law of England, and his heir was his daughter Alianor, wife of John Chedick (e).

John de Swynesford had ſome part of this eſtate, which he ſold in 1325 to Thomas de Benediſh. He dyed in 1332, and is recorded to have then held in Steple-Bumſted 80 acres of arable, 2 acr. of wood, 6 of meadow, 4 of paſture, and 15 s. rent, of the maner of Meldeborn, which Agnes widow of John de Argentine held in dower (f). ——John his ſon dyed in 1343, poſſeſſed of this maner of Gernons. Elizabeth, daughter of William Swyneford, and wife of Sir William Beleſby; was his next heir (g).

John Fermor, who dyed 10 January 1523, held this maner of Gernons of the king in ca. as of his Honor of Bologne. Two of his daughters, Johanna aged 40, Elizabeth, 30; and one John Ruſt, aged 13 years, were his next heirs (h). Joane was married to William Fryer.

In the mean time, John Barker held the third part of this maner, and dying 10 May 1540, left a ſon——William (i); who, by licenſe dated 12 Octob. 1545, ſold two parts of this maner, to the ſaid Joane Freer, then a widow (k). She dyed 22 Aug. 1548, poſſeſſed of this and other eſtates, in this pariſh [A], Great Saling, the Belchamps, Aſhen, &c. Her ſon and heir —— John Freer was then 40 years old (l). He had this whole maner, &c. and departing this life 5 March 1565, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— William (m): who dying 11 March 1599, left his ſon and heir ——John (n). [See under Aſhen, p. 340.] He dyed 25 Novemb. 1630, and was ſucceeded by his ſon——Edward.

It belonged afterwards to Sir Richard Combs Knt. then to . . . . Jernegan Chaplyn Eſq; [of whoſe family ſee an account under Finchingfeild.] and now to . . . Jernegan Cheveley Eſq; of the Six Clerks Office. [See above, p. 96.] whoſe mother was . . . . Chaplyn.

7. The maner of Moynes.

The manſion-houſe ſtands about a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church.

This maner took its name from a family ſurnamed Le Moigne [i. e. Monk] ſometimes written Mohun, which renders it probable that they were a branch of the noble family of Mohun. The Moynes had eſtates at Aſhen, Redeſwell, and other places in this neighbourhood, about the reign of K. Edward II. [B] But they ſeem to have been poſſeſſed of this ſeveral years before. For, it being holden of the Honor of Caſtle Hedingham by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee, Robert Fitz Gilbert le Moigne, paid the Earl of Oxford, in 1254, fifty ſhillings for his relief (o). This Robert was undoubtedly a deſcendent from Gulbert, the under-tenant to William de Warrenn at the time of the ſurvey [C].

By marriage or purchaſe, this eſtate came into the Gent family, that appear to have been ſettled at Wymbiſh in this neighbourhood, as early as the year 1328 [D]. William Gent, living in 1468, married Joane daughter and h. . of William Moyne Eſq; and had by her William; and Joane wife of William Sheldon. He dyed before the year 1494; in which year, on the 14th of Sept. Joane his widow purchaſed this maner of Moynes, of Richard Martin Eſq; and his ſon and heir Roger, of Long Melford; and ſhortly after paid the Earl of Oxford 50s. for a relief. She was living in 1504. but how long after we do not find. —— William, the ſon and heir, dyed about the year 1514; for in 1515, the Duke of Norfolk granted Margaret Gent, widow, the wardſhip of her ſon——William. He kept his firſt court at Moynes 10 April 1537, and married two wives. 1. Thomaſine, daughter of . . . Everard, by whom no iſſue is recorded. 2. Agnes daughter and Heir of Thomas Carr of Great Thurlow in Suffolk, by which laſt he had ——Thomas. This gentleman was a very conſiderable perſon in his time, and may be truly ſtyled the glory and ornament of his family. Being bred to the law, he became a Barriſter of the Inner Temple; was created Serjeant at law, 2 June 1584; and conſtituted one of the Barons of the Exchequer, 28 June 1588, by Qu. Elizabeth, who had him in great eſteem for his learning and virtues [E]. As a mark of her favour, ſhe granted him licenſe to be Judge of Aſſize in his own country, notwithſtanding Statute 33 Hen. VIII. He was counſellor to Edward de Vere Earl of Oxford; who by patent, 2 April 1571, appointed him ſteward of all his courts for life. And he added the ſtately front to the old building at Moynes. He had two wives; firſt, Elizabeth, only daughter and heir of Sir John Swallow of Bocking, by whom he had 7 ſons, and 6 daughters: namely, Henry, baptized 14 May 1564; Thomas, who lived at Rocliff in Cumberland, and married Mary ſiſter of Sir John Dalſton; Edward; Roger; Edward and Vere, twins; and William. The daughters were, Frances married to George Bradley of Cambridgeſhire; Elizabeth, to Henry Denſton of Cardew in Cumberland; Grizel, to John Lyne of Norwich; Brigett, married, 15 April 1591, to Tho. Onwine, or Onion, of this pariſh; Anne, married to . . . . Hyatt. This firſt wife was buried here 12 May 1585. He took to his ſecond wife, in April 1586, Elizabeth, widow of Robert Hogeſon of London, ſiſter of Morgan Robyns Eſq; but by her had no iſſue. He was interred here in 1593. —Henry, his eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded him in his eſtate, which was very conſiderable. In 1632 he was High-ſheriff, and for ſeveral years Juſtice of Peace, for this county. He married, in Febru. 1589, Dorothy one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir John Dalſton of Dalſton in Cumberland by Anne daughter and heir of Tho. Tyrell of Warwicks in this County. They had 6 ſons, and 5 daughters; viz. Thomas; George; John, Rector of Birdbrooke; Henry; Nicolas; and William. The daughters were, Frances, married to Devereux Tallakerne; [See under Aſhen] Elizabeth, to Henry Young, rector of Meeſdon in Hertfordſhire; Dorothy, to . . . . Cuffe; Hannah, to Tho. Bagley of London; and Anne. He dyed 15 June 1639, and was buried here. Thomas, his eldeſt ſon and heir, was of Lincoln's-inn; but departed this life 12 Febr. 1638, before his father; leaving by his wife, Iſabell daughter of Francis Thompſon, of Scarborough-caſtle in Yorkſhire, Eſq; Frances his only daughter, heireſs to a conſiderable eſtate, which ſhe brought to her huſband Sir Edmund Alleyn. Their only ſurviving child, and heir ——Arabella Alleyn was married firſt to Francis Thompſon of Hambleton Eſq; and afterwards to the Hon. George Howard Eſq; [See above, p. 99, 132, 342].

George Gent. Eſq; ſecond ſon of Henry, inherited the maner of Moynes that had been ſettled upon him by his father. He married, firſt, Elizabeth daughter of Richard Hale of Tewing in Hertfordſhire Eſq; by whom he had George, that dyed without iſſue. His ſecond wife was Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Plaiters of Sotterley in Suffolk; by whom he had George; William; John, who dyed 22 Octob. 1684. æt. 32. Anne, married to . . . Banks, and afterwards to . . . Walker; Dorothy, wife of Henry Jones, Gent. —George, the eldeſt ſon, married Anne, daughter of Radcliffe Todd of Sturmere-hall, Gent. widow of Thomas Mortlack, and had by her two ſons, George; and Henry: and ſeven daughters, Dudley, wife of Deane Cock; Hannah, wife of Joſeph Unwin of Hedingham-caſtle, clothier; Anne, wife of John Cock; Anne, of William Edwards of Toppeſfeild. Martha; Dorothy; and another Dorothy, dyed young. Their father departed this life 13 April 1713, aged 72, and was buried here.——George, the eldeſt ſon, was an Attorney at law, and married Anne daughter of Robert Wankford of Toppeſfeild Eſq; widow of John Elliſton of Overhall in Geſtingthorp Eſq; but deceaſed 2 July 1708, about five years before his father; leaving George, Henry; and two daughters, Annabathia, and Dudley.—— George, the eldeſt ſon, ſucceſſor to his grandfather, was a Juſtice of Peace; and had to wife Elizabeth daughter and heir of Ja. Chaplyn. He dyed 14 Decemb. 1746. His ſon — George is the preſent poſſeſſor of Moynes, and hath married Miſs Walford, with a conſiderable fortune. [See under Haſtings-hall in Birdbrooke.] [F].

Donation.

William Holborow, by his laſt will, dated 4 Feb. 1498, gave for repairing of the Bells, and bell-ropes, and things moſt neceſſary to the ſteeple, five acres of land; viz. 2 acres in Youngs-croft, 2 acres in Myllscroft, and 1 acre in Londiſcroft.

A School-houſe was built here by the Inhabitants of Bumſted, before Qu. Elizabeth's reign.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 2306 l. 0s. 6d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, and not to St. Andrew as Mr. Newcourt aſſerts (r) [G], is a neat edifice.

The advowſon of this Church did formerly belong to Ernulph de Mandeville, who granted it to the Prior and Convent of Stoke, and a fine was levied betwixt them, in 1202 (s). About the beginning of K. Henry the Third's reign, the ſaid Prior and Convent granted all their right in this Church to God and the Church of St. Paul in London, for the maintenance of poor Clerks; excepting, the Tythes here given to the Convent by Robert Flandrenſis and Richard ſon of Gubert (t), and a penſion of one mark: reſerving to themſelves the preſentation to the Vicarage, which was to be ordained by Euſtace de Falconbridge, Biſhop of London. The premiſſes continued in the Prior and Convent, and afterwards in the Dean and College of Stoke, till the general diſſolution of Religious Houſes, when the Advowſon of the Vicarage came to the Crown: But the great Tithes are in the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's.

This Vicarage is, or was, a Maner (u).

In this Church were founded two Obits: and a Gild (w).

34. STAMBOURNE.

The name of this pariſh is otherwiſe written Stanburne, and Stanborn; and is formed from the two Saxon words, Sꞇan, a ſtone, and buꞃn, a brook; qu. ſtone, or ſtony, brook.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the lands in this pariſh belonged to Got; Aleſtan a freeman; and another freeman. At the time of the general ſurvey they were holden by Hamo Dapifer, ſewer to the King, and Geffrey de Magnaville [H].

Theſe lands were divided afterwards into three maners, known by the names of 1. Stambourne-hall. 2. . . . Moone-hall. 3. . . . Greneviles. Theſe two laſt received their denominations from their reſpective owners. All three became united in the Mackwilliam family, as we ſhall ſhew particularly, after having conſidered them ſeverally whilſt they continued diſtinct.

Stambourn-hall ſtands near the Church. —— Moone-hall hath loſt all its demeſnes, they having been ſold away: So that the maner of Moone-hall is now the Ale-houſe by the Church, where the Dutchy-court is kept, called in the old writings Moone-hall, alias Joys.——Grenevilles is a ſmall houſe about three quarters of a mile from the Church, partly moated round.

1. STAMBOURN-HALL

hath always been holden of the Honor of Clare by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee; it is within the Duchy of Lancaſter. The Pever, or Peyuere family [I] were poſſeſſed of it in the reigns of K. Henry III. Edward I. II. III (x); Paulinus de Peyvre having obtained a grant of it from K. Henry III. to whom it was eſcheated among the reſt of the lands of the Normans (y) —— Mary, daughter and heir of Thomas Pever by Margaret his wife daughter and heir of Sir Neal Loring, was married to John Broughton (z); and undoubtedly brought him this eſtate.

[I] The chief ſeat of the Pever family ſeems to have been Tuddington in Bedfordſhire, where Paulinus de Pever, or Piper, ſewer to K. Henry III. built a noble large houſe, with a Chapel, &c. all covered with lead, and made about it fine avenues and parks. Mat. Paris, ed. 1640, p. 616, 821. This Paulinus was one of the Commanders of the troops ſent to K. Henry III. in Poictou. Pat. 26 Hen. III. 28 Aug.

About the reign of K. Henry IV. it came into the Mack-William Family, of which we ſhall give an account, after having conſidered the ancient ſtate of the two other Maners in this pariſh.

2. The maner of MOONE-HALL was holden of the Honor of Mandeville; and moſt probably part of what belonged to Geffrey de Mandeville at the time of the ſurvey.

About the year 1252, Richard Wytſand held of the Honor of Mandevill in Stamburne 132 acres of arable, 3 acres and a half of meadow, half an acre of paſture, 3s. 6d. rent of aſſize, 96 days work, 3 fowls, 3 acres and a half of wood; by the ſervice of one knight's-fee. He had alſo the maner of Great Parndon (a); and was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1250, and 1251 (b) ——Baldwin de Wytſand held the ſame, in capite, of Humfrey de Bohun, as part of the Honor of Mandeville; at the time of his death, in 1262 (c). His ſon ——Baldwin, who dyed in 1284, is recorded to have held of the Earl of Hereford 6l. worth of land in Stanburne, by the ſervice of one knight's fee, and ſuit from three weeks to three weeks at the ſaid Earl's court of High-Eſtre. Agnes, Lucy, and Elizabeth, were his daughters and heirs (d).

Agnes, the eldeſt, was married to Walter Jeround, who, by the law of England, held, as part of her inheritance, in Stanburn, 40 acres of land, and 5d. rent of the Earl of Hereford, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee. He dyed in 1272, and——John his ſon ſucceeded him (e). The heirs of the two other daughters are unknown; unleſs they were John de la Lee, Alice de Neville, and John Weld, who held lands here in Edward the third's reign (f). ——Hugh de Bray who dyed in 1376, held 60 acres in Stamburne of the Earl of Hereford (g). And —— Alice Geſtingthorp held here the fourth part, and the half of a knight's-fee of William brother and heir of Thomas Earl of Stafford, who dyed in 1398 (h). After which, this eſtate was in Mackwilliam.

3. The maner of GRENEVILLES was ſo denominated from its ancient owners, the Grenevilles, who appear to have enjoyed it, or lived in theſe parts, from the reign of K. Ric[illegible] I. to that of K. Edward III [K]. The fi[illegible] the name that occurs, was Euſtace de Greinvill who paid ſcutage, at the rate of 20s. on every knight's-fee, for the redemption of K. Richard I. from his impriſonment in Germany (i).——The heirs of Richard Grenvill and Paulin Pevers held, in 1262, three parts of a fee here, under Richard de Clare, Earl of Gloučeſter and Hertford (k). —Richard de Greynvill impleaded Gilbert Hakin, and his wife, in 1299, for 1 meſſuage, 100 acres of arable, 5 acres and one rood of paſture, 6 of meadow, 30 of wood, 47s. 8d. ob. rent, &c. in Stamburne, Maplederſted, and Steple-bumſted (l). Afterwards it came to John de Geſtingthorpe, and then by marriage to the Mack-william family. The greater part of this maner, was holden of the Honor of Mandeville, and the fourth part of the Honor of Clare (m).

The ſeveral Eſtates in this pariſh becoming thus united in gentlemen ſurnamed MACKWILLIAM, we proceed to give an account of that family. . . . They came originally from Ireland, but at what time is unknown: moſt probably it was before the reign of K. Richard II. For, in the 19th of that King, Thomas Mack-william appears a witneſs to a deed of Nicolas Hales, Rector of Great Stanway; and to another deed dated 6 Febr. 1407 (n) [L]. The anceſtors of this Thomas, as far as we have found them, were — Milo Mackwilliam, father of——Roger, who, by Joane daughter of Henry Waylonde, had —— Thomas, that married Avice, or Agnes, daughter and heir of Nicolas de Peſon by his wife Alice daughter and heir of Sir Geffrey Eſton, and had by her——Charles; who by Jane, daughter and heir of . . . Caunfield by his wife Maud daughter of Sir Hugh Hyrton, had ——Arthur, and he— Edward, that married Mary daughter and heir of Thomas Wyngham, by whom he was father of the firſt mentioned —— THOMAS. He married Alice daughter of . . . Brompton, and by her had William, and Edward. William, the eldeſt ſon, had an only daughter, Iſabella, who became wife to Sir John Seymour of Even Swindon in Wiltſhire. He dyed in 1464, and the ſaid Iſabell in 1483. From this match proceeded the Seymours Dukes of Somerſet. — Edward Mackwilliam Eſq; the ſecond ſon, dyed in 1479, holding of the Honor of Stambourne the tenement called Grenefeild, by the ſervice of a quarter of a knight's-fee: and 140 acres of arable, 40 of paſture, and 12 of meadow, parcel of the maner of Stambourne, by knight's ſervice; leaving, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of . . . . Ingloſſe, —— John, his ſon and heir then aged ſix years (o). He married Margaret daughter of . . . . Geſtingthorp, by which he had, Margaret, Elizabeth, and——Edward, who, by . . . daughter of . . . Awkborough was father of another ——Edward, that took to wife Chriſtian, or Criſtina, daughter and heir of John Hartiſhorn

"One Mac William beinge a yongger brother of a Gentleman in Yrland came to Briſtowe and there ſo increaſyd in ryches that in continuance he bought lands to the ſume of a 3 or 400 markes by the yere, and ſo the land continuyd a certeyn while in the heires males of Mac William, and after cam to a dowghter of theyrs that was married to one of the Semars." of Bedfordſhire, ſon and heir of Sir John Hartiſhorn by Elizabeth daughter of Sir John Nervyt, or Nernvit, of Berkſhire. The time of his death is unknown; but ſhe dyed 12 January 1505, being jointured in all theſe Eſtates [M].—— Henry Mackwilliam, h[illegible] ſon, then aged 30 years, ſucceeded her (p). He had two wives; 1. Anne, daughter of Sir John Spilman, by whom he had Elizabeth, married to George Colt of Cavendiſh Eſq; His ſecond wife was Ela, daughter and heir of John Leye of Leyes by Anne daughter of Sir Tho. Lucy, and by her he had Henry, and Edward; and 3 daughters, Anne, wife of Arthur Stourton; Mary, of Roger Kigley; and Frances of Humfrey Shelton. At the time of his deceaſe, 22 June 1539, he was poſſeſſed not only of the eſtates in this pariſh, but alſo of the maner of Eſſex adjoyning, and of that of Bathorne in Birdbrook. [See under that pariſh] He, and his firſt wife, and his father Edward, lye buried in the Chancel of this Church (q). —— Henry, the eldeſt ſon, then aged upwards of ſeven years, ſucceeded him (r). He was one of the gentlemen penſioners to Queen Elizabeth, and married Mary, daughter and coheir of Richard Hill Eſq; widow of the learned Sir John Cheke. She had a conſiderable fortune at her own diſpoſal, which ſhe gave to the children of her ſecond huſband, to the great prejudice of thoſe of the firſt (s). Her huſband Henry Mackwilliam's death happened in Decemb. 1586; and ſhe enjoyed the fifth part of theſe and other his eſtates till the time of her deceaſe 30 Novemb. 1616, ſhe being aged about 84 (t). They had iſſue — Henry, who was killed in a duel 8 June 1599, unmarried: and 5 daughters; Margaret married to Sir John Stanhope Baron of Harrington, Vice-Chamberlain to Qu. Elizabeth, Treaſurer of the Chamber, &c. to K. James I. Suſan, baptized 9 March 1560, who had three huſbands; viz. Edward Sandeys Eſq; Sir Godard Pemberton, and Sir Tho. Ireland; Ambroſia, married to Sir William Kingſmill; Caſſandra, to Sir George Cotton; and Cecily, to Sir Thomas Ridgway, Treaſurer of Ireland. The Lord Stanhope having a purparty of theſe eſtates, dyed 9 March 1620, and left a ſon named Charles, and two daughters; Elizabeth married to Sir Lionel Talmaſh of Helmingham; and Catharine to Robert Viſcount Cholmley of Kellis in Ireland [N].

Charles Lord Stanhope, the ſon, purchaſed the ſhares of the reſt of the coheirs, [as is ſhewn above under Birdbrook] and married Dorothy ſiſter of Edward Barrett Lord Newburgh. But having no iſſue, He and his Lady jointly ſold theſe eſtates, 14 July 1654, for the ſum of 3684l. to Rachel, widow of Sir James Cambell of Clay-hall in Barking, Eſſex. By her will, dated 3 May 1656, and proved 20 Novemb. 1658, ſhe deviſed theſe eſtates to her daughters and coheirs in the following manner: Two parts of ſeven parts to Heſter wife of Thomas Cambell of Clay-hall Eſq; Two parts of ſeven parts to Rachel wife of Chriſtopher Guiſe of Elmore in Glouceſterſhire Eſq; One part of ſeven to Rachel Abdy one of the daughters of Sir Thomas Abdy; One part of ſeven to Abigail another daughter of the ſaid Sir Thomas; One part of ſeven to Suſan Vanpaine; all in taile.

In 1672, 1673, and 1676, the reſpective coheirs conveyed their ſeveral ſhares to Robert Wankford; being one meſſuage, 150 acres of arable, 40 acres of meadow, 40 of paſture, 200 of common, furze, and heath, and 20s. rent. This Robert, by his will proved 28 March 1688, ſettled all theſe eſtates on his youngeſt ſon —— Shelley Wankford, and his heirs for ever. [See under Toppesfield.] The Wankford family after having enjoyed this eſtate ſome years alienated it to

Robert Jackſon, ſon of Luke Jackſon of Lumley-hall in Nottinghamſhire Gent. by Suſan Vanpaine [O]. Mr. Robert Jackſon was an apothecary in London, and by his wife, Mary daughter of George Goldham, citizen and haberdaſher, had four ſons, Marmaduke, Luke, Miller, Robert: and four daughters, Mary, wife of George Lowe of Ridgewell; Suſan; Gratiana, wife of William Hallows of Nottingham, Eſq; and Phoebe. Mr. Jackſon dying 27 Auguſt 1721, aged 70 years, was buried at Nottingham. It hath ſince belonged to his heirs, or to Mr. Goſtling.

Sable, a lion rampant, argent, a border compone argent & ſable: on a chief, two pallets between two cantons gironné, argent and ſable.—— Ley Argent, a chevron ſable, between 3 leopards faces, azure . . . Moſt of theſe were finely painted in the eaſt window of the Chancel of this Church.

[O] This Suſan was daughter of Iſaac Vanpaine of London, merchant, whoſe father was a miniſter in Flanders, and had for wife Mary daughter of . . . . De Prill; and the ſaid Suſan's mother was . . . Corſellis, ſiſter to Rachel wife of Sir James Cambell of Clay-hall.

William de Goldington, who dyed in 1318, held one meſſuage, 80 acres of arable, and 2 acres of wood in Wytelee, of the heirs of the Earl of Glouceſter, as of the Honor of Clare, by the ſervice of finding one bailiff for the march of the ſaid Earl to his court of Stamburne (u).

A family of note lived in, and took their ſurnames from, this place. John, Edmund, and Thomas de Stamborne were witneſſes to deeds of the Peyveres in the reign of K. Edward III. and had theſe arms on their ſeals, ermines, a chevron engrailed.

David Playl gave to the officers of this pariſh Thirty pounds, to be put out on bond; the intereſt to be diſtributed to the poor. It is now reduced to 15l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Thomas or St. Peter, is of one pace with the Chancel; both tyled. A north iſle, which runs the whole length of Church and Chancel, is leaded; part of it belongs to the owners of Stambourn-hall, who keep it in repair. There is a ſquare Tower at the weſt end, containing 5 Bells [P].

This Rectory was given before the year 1174 (w), to the Convent of St John Baptiſt of Stoke near Clare, moſt probably by Richard de Clare Earl of Hertford, founder of that Houſe. And the advowſon continued in them, after they were converted into a College for [illegible]cular Canons, till their diſſolution in 1534. Then it came to the Crown; and the King has ever ſince preſented to it; or rather in his name the Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter.

Here was formerly an Altar dedicated to the H. Trinity: and a Gild, and free Chapel, dedicated to St. Thomas; which laſt K. Edward VI. in 1549, granted to Ralph Agard and Thomas Smyth (x). On the left hand ſide of the road from Yeldham to Stambourn Church ſtands a cottage, called Chapel-houſe, with 5 acres of land, holden immediately of the Crown. On the other ſide, is Chapel-yard, with a ſmall cottage formerly a larger houſe, in which the Dutchy Court uſed to be kept.

35. TOPESFIELD.

This pariſh was ſo called from ſome Saxon owner named Topa, or Toppa. It is otherwiſe written in records Toppesfend, Toppesford, Thopefeild.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, ſome of the lands here belonged, to one freeman; —— to another freeman named Aleſtan; —— to Duua; —— to Got; &c. but, at the time of the general ſurvey, part was holden by Euſtace Earl of Bologne and his under-tenant Bernard; part by one Ralph; and a conſiderable ſhare, called afterwards Camoys-hall, by Hamo Dapifer [Q].

Theſe lands were divided ſoon after into the following maners. 1. The maner of Berwick and Scoteneys. 2. . . . . that of Gaynesfords. 3. The maner of Huſee's. 4. Cuſt-hall. 5. The maner of Camoys. And the maners, or reputed maners, of Flowers-hall; Gobions; Hawkeſhall; and Bradfeild. Moſt of theſe, if not all, are Dutchy-lands, and belonged to the Honor of Clare.

1. The maner of BERWICKS, and SCOTENEYS.

They were ſeparate at firſt, but have been long united: and took their names from their reſpective ancient owners, as will appear in the ſequel. Berwick-hall ſtands a little way ſouth-weſt from the Church: The manſion-houſe and lands of Scoteneys lye near Yeldham, about half a mile from Berwick-hall. Theſe two conſtitute the chief Maner in this pariſh, though not the largeſt.

In K. John's reign Albrey de Wic, or Wykes, held this eſtate of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of 3 parts of a knight's-fee (y). He ſold it to Gerebert de St. Clere; it being then called 84 acres of arable, 3 acres of meadow and paſture, 4 acres of wood, 45 pence rent of aſſiſe yearly, 49 days work, and 10 hens. Part of the eſtate, viz. 8 acres of arable, 5 of meadow, 4 of wood, &c. were holden of Ralph de Camoys (z).

Scoteneys was then diſtinct from it, and belonged to Walter de Scoteney, a Baron, who had alſo the maner of Herſham (a). But for giving poiſon to Richard Earl of Clare, whoſe ſteward he was, and to William his brother, of which the latter dyed, he was hanged in 1259 (b), and this eſtate moſt probably given to

John de Berewyk [R]; who dyed in 1312, holding the maner of Toppesfeild of Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter by the ſervice of one knight's-fee; and his heir was [R] Among the Judges, and other Counſellors ſummoned to parliament 23 Edw. I. was John de Berewick, whom I take to have been this man. Dugdale Summonit. p. 9.

Roger ſon of John Huſe (c), more particularly mentioned under the maner of Huſees. From him it came to Tho. Rykedon, and Robert Rykedon and others, ſold it, in 1420, to

John Doreward of Bocking Eſq; who, at the time of his deceaſe, in the ſaid year, held the maners and other lands, &c. called Berewyk, Scoteneys, and Cardeaux, in Toppeſfeild, the two Yeldhams, Mapiltreſted, Haverill, Hengham-Sible, and elſewhere.——John his ſon ſucceeded him (d); and held this maner, with the lands, tenements, rents, and ſervices called Berwykes, Scoteneys, and Cardeux that compoſed the maner of Toppeſfeild, of Cecily Ducheſs of York as of her maner of Stamburne. He dyed in 1476. ——John Doreward of Gr. Yeldham Eſq; (e) held the ſame at the time of his death, the laſt day of February 1496; and Chriſtian, his niece, brought it in marriage to her huſband John de Vere, the 14th Earl of Oxford; [ſee above, p. 299, 300.] on whom it was ſettled in caſe of failure of iſſue, and on his heirs for ever. In this noble family it continued till Edward Earl of Oxford ſold it 1 October 1584, to

William Bigge, of Redgewell [S]; who dyed poſſeſſed of it, 5 Janu. 1585, and of Gounces, Brownes farm, Broad-oake, with other eſtates adjoining (f). By his wife Dorcas, daughter of John Mooteham of this pariſh, Gent. [T] he had William, Samuel, Edward; and Dorcas. William, the eldeſt ſon, who lived at Redfens in Shalford, held ſeveral parcels of land in this pariſh belonging to the adjoining eſtate of Gunces. But —Edward, the younger ſon, had the maners of Berwick-hall and Scoteneys (g).—Edward his ſon, kept his firſt court here 8 October 1635 [V].

In 1645, it came into the poſſeſſion of Robert Jacob Gent. And, in 1651, into that of

John Blackmore Eſq; On the 23d of April, 1658,

Robert Wankford Eſq; kept his firſt court here. He had two daughters by his firſt wife; and by his ſecond, Robert baptized 12 June 1631, and Samuel 18 Decemb. 1632.——Robert, his eldeſt ſon, ſeated at Berwick-hall, married Elizabeth daughter and heir of Thomas Shelley of Magdalen-Laver in this county, and had by her, Berwick, who dyed young; Robert; Walter; Shelley: and 7 daughters; of whom, Anne was married to John Elliſton of Overhall in Geſtingthorp, and afterwards to George Gent Eſq; Mary, was wife of John Littel of London, druggiſt; and the youngeſt of Thomas Todd of Sturmere. He dyed in 1688. —— Robert, his eldeſt ſurviving ſon, had no iſſue by his firſt wife, Dorothy daughter of John Fotherby of Rickmanſworth in Hertfordſhire Eſq; But, by his ſecond wife, Mary daughter of the Rev. John Ouſeley, Rector of Pantfeild, &c. he had ſeveral children. He was buried here 20 June 1708 [W].

Some time after, the maners and demeſnes of Berwicks, Scoteneys, and Gaynesfords coming into the hands of Mr. John Poulter, Attorney at law at Clare, he ſold them to

Iſaac Helbutt a rich merchant, from whom they have paſſed to — Moſes Hart, and to —— Wulph Ridolphus, or, as ſome call him, Michael Adolphus Eſq; [ſee above, p. 333.]

2. The maner of GAYNESFORDS, juſt now mentioned, took its name from an ancient family, who had alſo Gobions in this pariſh, Aſhwell-hall in Finchingfeild, Nicholls in Shaldford, &c. Richard Gaynford, who dyed 20 May 1484, held lands in this pariſh, which we ſuppoſe to be theſe. His brother — John ſucceeded him (h).

William Butcher held this capital meſſuage, and 24 acres of land, in Qu. Elizabeth's reign (i). June 14, 1669, Thomas Guyver, with Samuel Edwards & Margaret his wife daughter of Francis Guyver, ſold this capital meſſuage to Robert Wankford: from whom they paſſed as above.

Gaynesfordes is near two miles ſouth-weſt from the Church.

3. The maner of HUSEES.

Roger ſon of John Huſe, upon the death of John de Berewyk in 1312, inherited this eſtate (k) to which he gave name. This Roger, ſprung fom the ancient family of Huſe in Wiltſhire and Dorſetſhire, was a great ſoldier, became a knight, had ſummons to parliament in 1348, and 1349, and dyed in 1361, being ſeated at Barton Stacy in Hamſhire.——John his ſon ſucceeded him (l).

In 1419 Alexander Euſtace, and John Wood, ſold this eſtate to John Symonds (m).

Henry Parker of Goſfeild Eſq; who dyed 15 January 1541, held this meſſuage called Hoſees, and 80 acres of arable and meadow, of John de Vere Earl of Oxford, in ſocage; beſides other parcels here [X], and great eſtates elſewhere.— Roger his ſon ſucceeded him (n).

William Cratchrode, junior, held this maner in 1585 (o).

About the latter end of Qu. Elizabeth, it was holden by John Alſton of Belchamp-Oton, who gave it to his third ſon—— Matthew; and he having no iſſue bequeathed it to —— Thomas

4. The maner of Cust-hall:

The manſion-houſe ſtands near a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church. It took its name from an ancient and conſiderable family [Y], which were ſeated here in K. Edward the IIId's reign (p). Afterwards it became the inheritance of the Cracherode family, that had been long ſettled at a place called, from them Crachrodes, in this pariſh. The firſt of the name that hath occurred to us, was John Cracherode, witneſs to a deed 17 Ric. II. 1393. His ſon—— Robert, was father of —— John, an Eſquire under John de Vere Earl of Oxford at the battle of Azincourt.— John Cracherode Gent. ſon of the latter, married Agnes, daughter and heir of Sir John Gates of Rivenhall, and had by her, John; William, Clerk of the Green Cloth to K. Henry VIII. and Thomas, who had to wife Brigett, daughter of Aubrey de Vere, ſecond ſon to John the 15th Earl of Oxford.——John, the eldeſt ſon, paid ingreſs fine for Cuſt-hall in 1504. He married Agnes, daughter of Tho. Carter; and departing this life in 1534, was buried in the middle of this Church, under a grave-ſtone with an inſcription. They had 4 ſons; and 4 daughters: viz. Helen, wife of William Hunt of Goſfeild, Gent. Joan of John Tendring of Boreham, Gent. Julian, of . . . . Lee; and Jane of Peter Fitch of Writtle, Gent.——William, the only ſon whoſe name is recorded, married Elizabeth daughter of John Ray of Denſton in Suffolk. They lived 56 years together in wedlock. At the time of his deceaſe, 10 Janu. 1585, he held this capital meſſuage called Cuſts, and 20 acres of free land belonging of old thereto: alſo a meſſuage anciently called Crachrodes and afterwards Colman's, in this pariſh and Hedingham Sible; with ſeveral other parcels of land; particularly Albegeons, and Camois Parke, Pipers Pond, &c. (q). He, and his wife which dyed 17 Febr. 1587, lye both buried in the Chancel of this Church, under a blue marble ſtone. They had iſſue 5 ſons, and 1 daughter; viz. Thomas; Matthew, of Cavendiſh; John; Charles; William. The daughter, named Anne, was wife of John Mootham.—— Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, married Anne daughter of Robert Mordaunt of Hemſted in this county Eſq; a younger branch of the Lord Mordaunt of Turvey in Bedfordſhire; by whom he had, William, who dyed without iſſue; Thomas: and 4 daughters, Frances, married to Robert Wilkins of Bumſted; Anne, to John Alſton of Belchamp-Oton; Elizabeth to John Fryer of Paul's-Belchamp; and Barbara, to . . . Harris. He dyed 14 June 1619.——Thomas, his ſon and heir, then aged 40 years (r), married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Godbolt of Finchamp in Norfolk, and had by her Mordaunt; Thomas; John, of Cranham-hall in Romford; [ſee above p. 133.] Richard: and 3 daughters, Elizabeth; Brigett; and Suſan.——Mordaunt, the eldeſt ſon, married Dorothy daughter of Antony Sammes of Hatfeild-Peverell. [See above, p. 133.] He dyed 2 Febr. 1666, and ſhe 6 March 1692. Both lye buried in this Church. They had iſſue Thomas, baptized 17 September 1646; Antony; Mordaunt [Z]: and Mary, wife of Chriſtopher Layer of Boughtonhall Eſq. Thomas the eldeſt ſon married Anne daughter of Chriſtopher Layer of Belchamp St. Paul, by whom he had Thomas, baptized 1 June 1680. He was buried in this Church 8 July 1706.——Thomas, his ſon and heir, ſold this maner, in 1708, to

Col. Stephen Piper, mentioned a little before.

5. The maner of Camoys is the largeſt in this pariſh, conſiſting in time paſt of two knights fees, holden of the Honor of Clare. The manſion houſe ſtands near the Church, and had formerly a park.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Got held this lordſhip as lying in this pariſh and Stanburne, and then in two Maners; which, at the time of the ſurvey, belonged to Hamo Dapifer [A].

How long it continued united with Stamborne, we cannot certainly diſcover.

Sir Ralph de Camoys [B], from whom it borrowed its name, held it under Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, in 1262, as two knights fees (s). He was a man of great note in his time, and after the taking of K. Henry III. priſoner at the battle of Lewes, was choſen by the diſcontented Barons one of their Council of State, to govern the realm (t). He was alſo ſummoned to parliament 24 Decemb. 1264 (u). He dyed in 1276.——John, his ſon and ſucceſſor [C], was father of Ralph, who gave this eſtate in free marriage, with his daughter Ela, to [B] The name of Cammois is in the liſt of thoſe that came in with William the Conqueror. Chronic. J. Bromton, col. 963.

[C] This John married Margaret daughter and heir of Sir John de Gateſden; and ſhe forſaking him and living in adultery with Sir William Paynel, John de Cameys as he calls himſelf, quitted all his right and title to her, as alſo to all her goods and chattels, ſpontaneouſly delivering and demiſing her unto the ſaid Sir William, and releaſing all title and claim to her and her appertenances; as appears by the deed, printed at length in Sir Will. Dugdale's Baron. Vol. I. p. 767. After her lawful huſband's deceaſe, ſhe was married to the ſaid Sir William, and claimed thirds of

Peter Gouſell (w), or Gouſhill. This family was originally of Yorkſhire. Giles Gouſell, by Eminentia daughter of Fulk de Oyry of Gedney in Lincolnſhire, had—— Peter, who by the ſaid Ela his wife had —— Ralph, and Margaret [D]. Ralph dying in 1295, was ſucceeded by his ſiſter

Margaret, who had two huſbands, 1. Philip le Deſpenſer, fourth ſon of Hugh le Deſpenſer Earl of Glouceſter. He departing this life in 1313 (x), ſhe took to her 2d huſband Sir John Roos, and lived till 1349. By her firſt huſband ſhe had—— Philip le Deſpenſer, who, at the time of his deceaſe in 1349, jointly with Joane his wife, held of the Lady of Clare a tenement here called Cameys-hall, by the ſervice aforeſaid —— Philip his ſon (y), by . . . daughter of . . . Strange, had —— Philip, who died in 1400 (z), leaving by his wife Margaret Cobham —— Sir Philip his ſon and heir: that departed this life in 1423, and held this maner of Edward Earl of March; as alſo thoſe of Lyndſells, Little Stambridge, and a fourth part of the maner of Thaxted. He married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir Robert Tiptoft, and by her he had his only daughter and heir

Margery (a) [E]. She was married, firſt, to Sir Roger Wentworth, third ſon of John Wentworth of Elmeſhall in Yorkſhire Eſq; a younger branch of the Wentworths of Wentworth-Woodhouſe, from whence are deſcended the Earls of Strafford. Her ſecond huſband was John Lord Roſſe, by whom ſhe had no iſſue. But by her firſt huſband ſhe had two ſons, Philip; and Henry the firſt of this family ſeated at Codham-hall, from whom ſprung the Wentworths of Gosfeild and Bocking; and ſeveral daughters. She dyed 20 April 1475. —— Sir Philip Wentworth, her eldeſt ſon, and heir to this eſtate, married Mary daughter of John Lord Clifford, and had by her —— Sir Henry, father of —— Sir Richard, a knight banneret, who by Anne daughter of Sir James Tyrell of Gipping in Suffolk, had —— Sir Thomas Wentworth of Nettleſted, created Baron Wentworth 2 Decemb. 1529. He married Margaret daughter of Sir Adrian Forteſcue, and had by her —— Thomas Lord Wentworth, who held his firſt court here 16 June 1551. He had alſo the maners of Hackney and Stepney; and was the laſt governor of Calais under Qu. Mary I. The 4th or 13th of May 1557, he ſold Camoys-hall to

William Fitch Eſq; of Little Canfield [where ſee an account of him and his family.] It continued little more than 20 years in his name: for he dying 20 Decemb. 1578, it (b) came to his ſon Thomas, who ſurviving him but a little while, it then fell to his only daughter and heir

Mary, that had been married about the year 1556 to Francis Mannock Eſq; As the Mannock family was not ſeated here, but at Gifford's-hall within the pariſh of Stoke near Neyland in the county of Suffolk, we ſhall beg leave not to enlarge upon them here, but refer the Reader to the maner of Mannocks in High Eſtre; to the Baronettage, Vol. II. edit. 1741, p. 57. and to the Hiſtory of Suffolk. We ſhall only obſerve that the ſaid Francis Mannock Eſq; dying 3 Novemb. 1590 (c), was ſucceeded by his ſon —— William, whoſe ſon and heir —— Francis was created a Baronet 1 June 1627, and had for ſucceſſors — Sir Francis, and Sir William. The latter ſold this eſtate, 25 March 1713 to Matthias Unwin of Caſtle-Hedingham Gent. who dyed 18 Septemb. 1715, and by will bequeathed Camoys-hall to his brother's ſon — Joſeph. This latter dying in September 1747, was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon —— Joſeph Unwin, Gent.

FLOWERS-HALL

is about two miles ſouth ſouth-weſt from the Church. From a family that exiſted here from 1369 to 1572, it took the name of Flowers [F].

Thomas Glaſcock, who dyed 29 Octob. 1631, held the maner and capital meſſuage called Flowers-hall, Giddings, and Brownes, with appertenances, of Edward Benlowes Eſq; of his maner of Juſtices in Finchingfeild, by the annual rent of 8s. one cock, one hen, and an egg and an half (d). It was afterwards — Henry Glaſcock's.

This eſtate paid quit-rent to Nortofts in Finchingfeild.

GOBIONS

is denominated from an ancient knightly family, ſurnamed Gobyon, that had conſiderable eſtates at Finchingfeild, Bardfeild, Great Lees, Laindon, Eaſt-Tilbury, &c. (e) . . . . Sir Thomas Gobion was high-ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1323 (f) . . . John Gobyon is in the liſt of the Gentry of this county in 1433 (g).

Richard Gainford mentioned above under Gaynesfords held this maner of Gobyns in 1483, of John Doreward, as of his maner of Great Yeldham. — John his brother was his heir (h). It was afterwards in the Wentworth family.

HAWKESHALL

formerly belonged to a family ſurnamed de Hauſted, [ſee above, p. 250.] from whom it paſſed to the St. Martins, and the noble family of Bourchier, in which laſt it continued long.

Some of their meſne or under tenants, were, Joane daughter of John Gilderich of Peches in Finchingfeild, about 1422, and John Helyoun

[E] Arms of Deſpenſer. Quarterly, argent and gules, in the ſecond and third quarters a fret or; over all on a bend ſable three molets argent.

[F] Rot. feod. mil. ad Honor. de Clare ſpectan. It appears by the Regiſter-book of this pariſh, that Robert ſon of Robert Flowere was baptiz'd here 18 Janu. 1572.

Lord of the maner of Bumſted-Helion, in 1450. It is deſcribed as comprehending 100 acres of arable, 8 acres of meadow, 8 acr. of paſture, and 10 of wood (p). It paſſed ſince to Bendlowes &c. as Juſtices in Finchingfeild. See there.

The maner of BRADFIELD, near a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church, was holden, about the year 1393, by John Bradfend, or Bradfeild, from whom it received its name. He had alſo the maner of Nicholls in Shalford (q).

William Toppeſfeild held it, of John Durward, at the time of his deceaſe in 1480, and his two daughters, Elizabeth and Joane Toppeſfeild were his heirs (r). The latter brought it in marriage to . . . . Paynell; and was his widow in 1498 (s).

The Paynell, or Pannell, family was in theſe parts as early as the reign of K. Edward I. [ſee above p. 342, and p. 360 note C] and had an eſtate at Redgewell, where John Pannell lived in 1385, and his poſterity continued till the reign of K. James I. [See p. 342.]

Henry Pannell Eſq; who dyed 18 July 1573, held this maner of Bradfeld of the earl of Oxford, as of his maner of Berewikes; and other lands here [G]. His ſon and heir — Henry was then 12 years old (t).

OLIVERS is an ancient capital meſſuage in this pariſh, about three quarters of a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church. John Oliver purchaſed an eſtate of John de Racliſden about 1360, which is ſuppoſed to have been this. He was one of Sir John Hawkwood's Eſquires, companions, and fellow-warriors; and concerned in founding his Chantry. [See above, p. 288, 291.] —— Richard Simon was poſſeſſed, in 1627, of this tenement called Olivers and Dudmans (u). And, in 1631, Thomas Glaſcock above-mentioned had a meſſuage and 12 acres of land thereto belonging, called Olivers; with Aſhleies and Gadleies, two other parcels (w).

Here were in this pariſh two acres and a half of land, called Molle, given for one Obit and a Lamp; with about three acres more: which, at the ſuppreſſion of Chantries, were granted to Thomas Golding Eſq; (x).

Samuel Hurrell; John Piper; Geffrey Cook; Matthias and Edmund Davey; Tho. Orford; and Tho. Teader, have alſo eſtates here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1692l. 1s. 4d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Margaret, is tolerably handſome and ſpacious. It was formerly all leaded, but is now only ſo in part. The Chancel is tyled. About 70 years ago the Tower which was built of flint and ſtone fell down, but hath ſince been rebuilt of brick in a firm and ſubſtantial manner; towards which, Mr. Wilde, Rector at the time it fell, bequeathed 100 l. To it belong 5 Bells.

Here was anciently a Rectory, and a Vicarage, of both which the Prior and Convent of Stoke near Clare, whilſt a Priory, and when a College the Dean and Chapter, were patrons. In what year, and by whom, given to them is unknown. The Rectory was a Sine-cure, and ſo continued, till Thomas Kemp, biſhop of London, finding, the Vicarage was grown ſo poor that it could not maintain a Vicar, or diſcharge the burdens incumbent thereon, ſo that it had been vacant and neglected ſeveral years; he reunited and incorporated again the Rectory and Vicarage.

At the diſſolution of religious houſes the Patronage of this Rectory coming to the Crown, K. Edward VI. gave it to his prœceptor Sir John Cheke; upon whoſe unhappy fall it reverted to the Crown, and hath remained in it ever ſince; being a conſiderable Living.

There are lands of about ſix pounds a year belonging to the Church.

This is a very large pariſh, it being rated to the land-tax at 3865l. 0s. 8d.

The name ſeems to be formed from theſe three Saxon words, Fınc-ınᵹ-ꝼelꝺ, i, e. finches paſture feild. It is otherwiſe written in records, Fincinghefelda, Phincingfelda, Phincingefelda, and Phincinghefelda.

[H] In an old MS. we find the following pedigree of the moſt potent Earls of Mercia, of this family, who were Ealdormen, as the title then was, of Leiceſter, Cheſter, Coventre, Lincoln, Glouceſter, and Somerſet. —— Leofric, in the reign of Ethelbald king of Mercia; whoſe ſucceſſors were, —— Algar, Earl of Leiceſter, who had a ſon, named alſo —— Algar, father of Leofric, Earl of Leiceſter, that had four ſons. 1. Leofric. 2. Northman, ſlain by K. Cnute. 3. Edwine, ſlain by Griffin, King of Wales. 4. Godwine. —— Leofric, the eldeſt ſon, married the beautiful Godiva, ſiſter of Thorold de Bugenhall, Sheriff of Lincolnſhire. This Lady bearing an extraordinary affection to Coventry, earneſtly ſollicited her huſband to releaſe and exempt the inhabitants of that city from a grievous burden laid upon them. He conſented, upon condition ſhe would ride naked through the ſtreets of Coventry, which ſhe ſubmitted to. This adventure was painted in one of the windows of Trinity-Church in Coventry, with theſe two verſes,

I Luric for the love of thee
Do make Coventry toll free.

He dyed 30 Auguſt 1057. —— Algar his ſon and ſucceſſor, dying in 1059, left two ſons, Eadwine Earl of Mercia, and Morcære Earl of Northumberland; and two daughters, Algith wife of K. Harold; and Lucia who had three huſbands. 1. Ivo Talboys, Earl of Anjou. 2. Roger de Romara. 3. Ranulph de Meſchines, Earl of Cheſter.

belonged to Algar [H], the great Earl of Mercia [I]: who had alſo in this county Geſtingthorp, Lammarſh, Wethersfeild, Felſted, Southhall in Dunmow, and Great Badow, and Celdeford, or Shalford. Afterwards it was holden by Qu. Edeua, or Eadgith. And, at the time of the general ſurvey, was divided amongſt divers perſons: namely, Alan ſon of the Earl of Bretagne; Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, anceſtor to the Earls of Clare: And Otto, the goldſmith, farmed two hides and a half, part of it, of the King; [ſee above, p. 305.] What Alan then poſſeſſed, had been holden, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, by three freemen: and comprehended what afterwards was called Spains-hall, Jekells, Wood-hall, Belcumber-hall, &c. The ſhare of Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, holden by two ſochmen in Edward's reign, comprized Cornet-hall, Nortofts and Sculpins, Brent-hall, Juſtices, and Cockfeilds. The ſame Richard had alſo Boiton-hall in this pariſh, which, in the Confeſſor's time, had belonged to Colſege, a freeman. Here is alſo Woburnes, alias Hou-hall; and Aſhwell-hall. Of theſe ſeveral eſtates we ſhall treat diſtinctly.

SPAINS-HALL

took its name from Hervey de Iſpania, or Spain, who held it under Count Alan at the time of the general ſurvey [K]. The manſion houſe is about a mile north of the Church.

Alan, Fergent, ſecond ſon of Eudo Earl of Bretagne, was one of thoſe chiefs who attended Duke William in his conqueſt of this kingdom; and was rewarded by him with ſeveral lordſhips, particularly with the Earldom, or Honor, of Richmond in Yorkſhire (y); on which account this lordſhip was holden of that Honor, being the only one ſo held in this county. His two brothers, — Alan the Black, and — Stephen Earl of Penthievre, and —— Alan the Savage, ſon of the latter, were ſucceſſively poſſeſſors of this eſtate. This laſt dyed in 1166. But before his deceaſe he gave this lordſhip to Alberic de Vere [L], and his heirs; by the title of the ſervice of William de Iſpania, of three knights-fees: and the ſervice of William ſon of William of Giechrell; or Juichiel, of one knight's-fee; and the ſervice of Richard Maſcle (z).

As for the under-tenant Hervey de Iſpania, or Spain, the family hath been juſt mentioned above, p. 301, under Spains-hall in Great-Yeldham; and will occur again under Willingale-Spain. They were originally of Spaniſh extraction, which was the reaſon of their name. And appear to have been ſeated here, or hereabouts, from the Conqueſt down to the reign of K. Edward II. Ralph de Hiſpania was witneſs to a grant of Adeliza de Vere to Colne-Priory (a). Richard had lands in this pariſh in 1263 (b). Gilbert is mentioned as father of William, and grandfather of Sir Richard; who had two ſons Richard, and John, Rector of Ging-Ralph: to which laſt he gave Old-Hall in 1312, by a deed, witneſſed by William de Wanton, William Ralph, and John de Nortoft knights; Robert Jekell; and William de Finchefeld; known inhabitants of this place (c).

From the Spains [M], this eſtate early came by marriage, or otherwiſe, into the Kempe family, of which we ſhall give the following exact account from their ancient evidences. . . . John Kempe Gent. of this place in the reign of K. Edward I. [N] married Alice Gunter, by whom he had —— Nicolas, his ſon and heir: that married Margery, or Margaret, daughter of Richard de Iſpania. She was living in the year 1310. They had iſſue —— John Kempe Gent. He married . . . daughter of . . . Reymonde ſon of John de Lincoln, and had with her lands in this pariſh of conſiderable value called Reymondys. Their ſon —— John was father of another —— John, who, by . . . daughter of . . . Armeſbury, had —— Richard; living about the year 1371. He had two wives, 1. Catharine . . . . 2. Margaret, daughter of Robert Jekell of London, mercer, that brought him in marriage, about 1406, the maners of Jekells, and Juſtices. Their ſon and heir —— William Kempe Eſq; married Alice, daughter of . . . Milde, or Miles, and had by her —— Robert, who dying 30 June 1524, was buried in Kempe's Chapel adjoining to the Chancel of this Church. By Anne his wife, daughter of . . . . Apulderfeild of Kent Eſq; he had 7 ſons and 3 daughters; but only the name of —— William, the eldeſt ſon is recorded. He married Mary daughter of John Colt, [whoſe other daughter Jane was wife of the great Sir Thomas More, Lord Chancellor;] and had by her ſix ſons, Robert; Arthur, Henry, and John, which three laſt dyed without iſſue; and GEORGE ſeated at Cavendiſh in Suffolk. Alſo three daughters, Margery, wife of George Cavendiſh of Glemsford in Suffolk; Anne, wife of Thomas Wright of Norwich; and Margaret, of Thomas Downes, remarried to . . . Ruſhborough. The ſaid William had to his ſecond wife, Mary daughter of John Maxey Eſq; widow of . . . Yardely; the marriage ſettlement bearing date in 1542. — Robert Kempe Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, married Elizabeth daughter of Clement Higham of Barrow-hall in Suffolk, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, by whom he had two ſons, William, and Robert; and two daughters, Bridget wife of Clement Paman of Chevington in Suffolk; and Dorothy, of Ralph Lee of Suſſex.——William, the eldeſt ſon, married Philippa, daughter and coheir of Francis Gunter of Aldbury in Hertfordſhire Gent. The marriage-ſettlement was dated 10 Octob. 1588. By her he had an only daughter, Joane, who became the wife of John Burgoyne of Sutton in Bedfordſhire Eſq; One circumſtance was very remarkable in this William's life, as mentioned in his epitaph; namely, That, for ſome inadvertent ſpeech, he puniſhed himſelf with a voluntary ſilence during the ſpace of ſeven years, not ſpeaking in all that time. He was buried, 10 June 1628, aged 73, in Kempe's Chapel, where his wife alſo lies, and there is a neat monument over them.

Robert his younger brother, being of Geſſing in Norfolk, married Frances, daughter of . . . Mingay of Amyſhall in the ſaid county; and had by her Robert, Edmund: and three daughters, Elizabeth, wife of . . . . Outlaw; Iſabella, of . . . Colter of Ayleſham; and Mary, of Nicolas Oſborne of Heydon in Norfolk.——Robert, the eldeſt ſon, upon his uncle William's deceaſe without iſſue male, inherited Spains-hall and other eſtates. He was knighted 7 Auguſt 1641, and had three wives, 1. Elizabeth daughter of Nicolas Miller of Kent Eſq; by which he had Robert, William; and Jane married to Sir Thomas Gardiner, ſon of Francis Gardiner of Tolleſbury Eſq; 2. Elizabeth daughter of Robert Kempe of Geſſing Eſq; was his ſecond wife by whom he had a daughter, Frances. The 3d wife was Elizabeth daughter of . . . Steuart, but by her no iſſue is recorded. After his deceaſe, ſhe became ſecond or third wife to Capt. King. Robert, eldeſt ſon of Sir Robert, dying without iſſue,—William Kempe Eſq; the ſecond ſon inherited this eſtate; and having married Ruth, daughter of Sir Gilbert Gerrard of Harrow on the Hill in Middleſex, had an only daughter, Mary, which became the firſt wife of Sir Francis Tibbalds. Dying thus without iſſue male, Spains-hall deſcended to

Thomas, eldeſt ſon of Chriſtopher Kempe of Finchingfield, who was fifth ſon of George Kemp of Cavendiſh above-mentioned [O]. He had four wives. 1. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Randall. 2. Mary, daughter of Andrew Perne, Clerk. 3. Elizabeth, daughter of Ralph Minors. 4. Elizabeth daughter of John Springham of Edmonton in Middleſex, Gent. By the firſt he had, Mary wife of Benjamin Goodrich, and Elizabeth wife of William Minors. By the ſecond he had, John his eldeſt ſon and heir; Andrew, ſeated at Dorrington; and Elizabeth wife of Ralph Minors. By the third he had, Thomas who married Philippa daughter and heir of Joſeph Collard Gent. and two daughters, Elizabeth, and Rebecca. And his iſſue by the fourth wife was, Elizabeth that dyed young; and Anne that married Thomas Briſcoe of London, Linnendraper. This laſt wife took to her ſecond huſband Jernegan Chaplyn of Corneth-hall in this pariſh ——John Kempe Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, had three ſons, Thomas, and Andrew, that dyed young; and John: and 7 daughters, Suſan, married to Brian Broodey of Barton in Northamptonſhire Gent. Mary, Alice, Anne, Elizabeth, Catharine, and Rebecca. ——John, the ſon and heir, dying without iſſue, left this eſtate to his ſiſter Mary [P], who brought it in marriage 21 Decemb. 1727, to

Sir Swinerton Dyer Bart. [See under Dunmow.] He having no children by her, it paſſed upon his deceaſe, 4 March 1735-6, to his brother ——Sir John Dyer; and afterwards to ——Sir Thomas Dyer. The latter of whom ſold it in 1760, to Samuel Ruggles of Bocking Eſq; who hath alſo here Dives and Peches jointly with John Barnard Gent. the whole eſtate to the amount of upwards of 500l. a year.

JEKELLS.

took its name from the Jekells, its ancient owners; otherwiſe corruptly called Juckell, Gykel, Jugils, or Gigils. It was part of Alan Fergent's eſtate in this place, and given by his ſucceſſor, with Spains-hall, to Alberic de Vere. From whom, and his poſterity, it was holden as of their Honor of Caſtle-Hedingham, by William Juckell; by his ſon Robert in the years 1254, and 1269; by Simon Jeckell in 1276; then by Robert, in part of the reigns of K. Edward I. and II. and by Roeſia, daughter of the laſt, in 1339. Richard Clovill held it in 1360 and 1371, as one knight's-fee (d). Soon after which it came into the Kempe family, ſufficiently mentioned under Spains-hall.

The maner of WOOD-HALL

was another part of Alan's eſtate here, and given by his ſucceſſor to Alberic de Vere; conſiſting then of half a knight's-fee. The houſe is down, but the moats ſtill remain, about two miles from

William Crocheman held it under the Earl of Oxford, in the reign of K. Edward III. as did ſucceſſively his two ſons —— John, and —— William (e). The latter left it to his only daughter Mary, or Mariota. She was married, firſt, to John Wynſelow Eſq; who gave name to Wynſelow-hall, alias Crochmans, in Hempſted, [where may be ſeen a more particular account of the family.] Her ſecond huſband was Thomas Holgyll. She dyed in 1409, or 1410, poſſeſſed of this capital meſſuage, called Woodhall, ſaid to be in Great Samford, and was ſucceeded by her ſon —

William Wyncelowe, or Wynſelowe (f). He held this tenement of Wodhall, in Finchingfeild and Great Samford, at the time of his deceaſe in 1419 —— Joane his daughter and heir was then only 6 years old (g). But her mother Agnes had in dower 300 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, and 19 of wood, in this pariſh, and Sampford and Hempſted (h). Joane dying in 1431 was ſucceeded by her kinſman

Walter Huntington, ſon of John Huntington ſon of Elizabeth Siſter of William Crouchman the younger above-mentioned (i). Walter dyed in 1443, poſſeſſed of 600 acres of arable, 30 acres of meadow, 50 of wood, 4l. rent, &c. in this and pariſhes adjoyning; beſides the reverſion of the foreſaid Agnes's jointure —— Thomas, his ſon and heir was then but 7 years old (k). He dyed 28 Decemb. 1498, leaving by Margaret his wife, daughter of William Tyrell of Rawreth Eſq; two daughters, coheirs; namely, Margaret, married to John Paris of Linton; and

Anne to William Mordaunt Eſq; chief Protonotary of the King's-Bench, who had this eſtate with her. His ſon, or grandſon, — Robert Mordaunt Eſq; dyed 20 May 1572. His ſon Philip being dead before him, he was ſucceeded by his grandſon —— John Mordaunt, aged upwards of 14 years (l). He dying 7 July 1574, had for ſucceſſor his brother —— James, then above 20 years old; who departed this life in 1575 (m). His brother — Robert dyed 29 May 1602, poſſeſſed of this eſtate, and others in Hemſted, Samford, and elſewhere. His heir was his nephew —— Leſtrange Mordaunt Eſq; namely, ſon of his brother Henry (n) of Maſſingham-hall in Norfolk. And in that family it continued till —— Sir Robert Mordaunt Bart. ſold it to Eliab Harvey Eſq; brother of the moſt learned Phyſician Dr. William Harvey; and in the ſaid Eliab's poſterity, ſeated at Chigwell, it hath continued ever ſince. —— The Court for this maner is kept at Wynſlow-hall in Hemſted.

BELCUMBER-HALL

doth not appear to have gone with the other eſtates hitherto mentioned in this pariſh, but to have belonged to the owners of Brent-hall. The only time we find it diſtinctly recorded, is, the 26th of Qu. Elizabeth, when William Bendloes held, among other things, a meſſuage with appertenances in Finchingfeild, called Belcombers and Ferrors, of the Queen in free ſocage by fealty only, as of her Honor of Richmond-fee: worth 6s. 8d. per ann. (o). It belongs to Richard Chiſwell Eſq;

We proceed to the lands in this pariſh, holden by Richard Fitz-Giſlebert at the time of the general ſurvey; which had belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Brictric, and ſeveral Sochmen [Q].

CORNETT, vulgarly Corniſh, HALL.

The manſion houſe ſtands near two miles north from the Church.

This was anciently called the maner of Finchingfeild, and the maner of Norton. [See above, under Redgewell.] In the reign of K. Henry III. it was holden of Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford by Richard de Cornberth, from whom it took its name (p). —— Richard Cornerth, and Angot de Cornerth, held lands here of the ſame noble family, in K. Edward the ſecond's reign (q). From Richard de Cornerth deſcended —— Sir Thomas, who had two ſons, George, and John (r). And by Sir Thomas was the reverſion of this eſtate granted to

John Vyne, Citizen and Draper of London (s), whoſe heirs releaſed it to

Sir Thomas Culpeper (t). It was next in the Wentworth family; of one of whom

John Chapleyn purchaſed the reverſion of it in 1576, and about the year 1587 gave it to his ſon and heir —— Thomas; after whoſe deceaſe, his couſin —— James Chaplyn paid ingreſs fine for it in 1627. This latter married Joane, daughter of Tho. Digby of Halſted, and had by her, James, Edmund [R]; and two daughters; Elizabeth, wife of . . . . Unwin of Bumſted-ſteple, Gent. and Jane, of Tho. NORTOFTS.

The manſion houſe is above a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church, towards Wethersfeild, and has the ſigns of a pleaſant ſeat. It had its name from an antient family ſo called [ſee above, p. 334.] William de Nortoft was living in 1229 (u). And John de Nortoft had this eſtate in 1321 (w).—— Edmund de Northtoft, who dyed in 1375, held, jointly with his wife Anne, this maner, of Sir John de Nevill as of his maner of Claveringe; and 53 acres of arable, 3 and a half of meadow, 2 acres of paſture, called Hilderſhams, and Shaldfords; with other parcels to the amount of about 30 acres: and the maner of Dagenham. His heirs were — Emma, and Florentia, daughters of his ſon Edmund (x) [S]. I ſuppoſe one of them was married to

Henry Helyoun, of the neighbouring pariſh of Bumpſted-Helion; for, at the time of his deceaſe in 1391, he held this his maner of Finchingfeild called Northtofts of the Lord de Nevyle, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee.—John his ſon, aged 5 years, ſucceeded (y), and among other large eſtates, held this maner, with 80 acres of arable, 6 of meadow, 10 of paſture, 4 of wood called Semans, Berreves, and Vaces, of the Duke of Norfolk; and 1 toft, and 103 acres more called Hildreſhames, Reymes, and Coſyns. He dyed in 1450, leaving two daughters coheirs, viz. Philippa married to Sir Thomas Montgomery, who had no iſſue; and Iſabell, wife of

Humfrey Tyrell Eſq; (z) [ſee above, p. 235, 306, 330, 333, and under Bumpſted Helion.] They had an only daughter

Anne, who brought a very great inheritance in marriage to . . . Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall in Wetherſfeild. [ſee under that pariſh, where a particular account of the Wentworth family properly belongs.] She dyed 28 Auguſt 1534, but Sir Roger lived till 9 Auguſt 1539 (a) [T]. She held, at the time of her deceaſe, the maner of Northtoftes, and 250 acres of arable, 60 acr. of meadow, 240 of paſture, 160 of wood, and 10l. rent in Northtofts, Finchingfeild, Wetherſfeild, Goſfeild, &c. of the Duke of Norfolk.—John Wentworth Eſq; her ſon and heir was then aged 40 years (b). He dyed 15 Sept. 1567, and his only daughter and heir — Anne, Lady Maltravers dying without iſſue 5 Decemb. 1580, this and other eſtates deſcended to her couſin —— John Wentworth, ſon of her uncle Henry (c). [ſee above, p. 235.] He departing this life 13 April 1588, was ſucceeded by his ſon —John (d), who ſold Nortofts, with appertenances, to

George Meade, Gent. The Meade family came originally from Somerſetſhire into this county, about the reign of K. Henry VI. and firſt ſettled at Elmdon, then ſpread into Wendon Loughts, [where ſee an account of them] and into Creſhall, and Henham. George, the purchaſer of this eſtate, kept his firſt court here 17 April 1598, and dyed 22 May 1602, being ſucceded by his eldeſt ſon —— John (e). He was of Lincoln's-inn, and married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Tho. Wendy of Haſlingfeild in Cambridgeſhire, Knt. by whom he had John; and Elizabeth wife of Sir Samuel Brown, one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas. Beſides the maner of Nortofts, and one meſſuage called Sculpins, parcel of the ſaid maner; he had other eſtates in this pariſh [V]; of which, by his will dated 24 March 1629, he deviſed to his wife Dorothy a part [W] during her life, in recompenſe of her dower or jointure, remainder to his ſon and his wife, and their reſpective heirs. He dyed 3 April 1629 (f), and was buried in the Chancel of this Church.— John, his ſon and heir, married Elizabeth, daughter of William Mewes of the Iſle of Wight, Eſq; by Dorothy daughter of Sir Francis Barrington Knt. and Bart. by whom he had John; and two daughters, Joane and Dorothy. — John the ſon dying without iſſue about the year 1664, his two ſiſters became his coheirs. Joane was married to Roger Rant of Swaffham in Cambridgeſhire, Gent. and Dorothy to John Marſhall Eſq; The eſtate of this family being divided betwixt Nortofts belongs now to Mrs. Lord, widow.

was originally a meſſuage belonging to Nortofts, and part of that maner [Y] till it came to be divided from it, as we have juſt now ſeen. The various names of it, are Scanſpoons, Skon-ſpulls, and Sculpins: and the manſion houſe ſtands about a mile and a half north-eaſt from the Church. To this meſſuage belonged 100 acres of arable, 5 acr. of meadow, and 40 of paſture. It was in the ſame hands as Nortofts, till by partition it came to John Marſhall Eſq;

The Marſhall family derive themſelves from the noble ſtock of the Mareſcalls, or Marſhalls; one of whom named John, and nephew to William Mareſcall Earl of Penbroke, was ſheriff of Lincolnſhire in 1215, and obtained of K. John a grant of the office of Marſhall of Ireland (g). His ſon—John married Margery ſiſter of Thomas Newburgh Earl of Warwick. His deſcendents for ſeveral generations were, —William—William—John—Roger—William.—William, ſon of this laſt, lived at Somercotes in Lincolnſhire, and was returned one of the Gentry of that county in 1433. (h) His ſon ——John married Elizabeth daughter of Sir Ralph Bingham, and had by her ——Ralph, who by . . . daughter of . . . Charles II. and was near fifty years in the commiſſion of the Peace. He dyed 21 Janu. 1723-4, aged 82, and was buried in this Church. By his firſt wife, Dorothy daughter and coheir of John Meade Eſq; as above-mentioned, which dyed 26 April 1685 æt. 45, he had Elizabeth, married to Sir Maynard Jenour of Bigwoods in Dunmow Bart. His ſecond wife was Lucy, daughter and one of the coheirs of Sir John Wiſeman of Bradokes in Wimbiſh; [ſee under that pariſh] and by her he had William, and John. She dyed 11 June 1699, ætat. 46. ——William, the eldeſt ſon, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Blackett Bart. by whom he had a ſon named William. He dyed in —— William, the ſon, married a daughter of Samuel Gatward of Cambridge, counſellor at law, by whom he left two daughters—Anne, and Lucy [Z].

The maner of JUSTICES belonging to the Honor of Clare, was formerly holden, with that of Hawkiſhalls in Toppesfeild, by the ſervice of one knight's fee. Edmund Helyon bought them both of John Inworth in 1379; and they were afterwards poſſeſſed by Tho. Gifford; William Helyon; William Berners; and William Gilderich that married William Helyon's daughter. The latter held theſe maners of Sir Tho. Swynborne, in 1400.

Afterwards they were in the Bendlows family; and ſold by Edward Bendlows, with Cockfeilds, and Brent-hall, as we ſhall ſhew preſently.

The maner of COCKFIELDS was holden of the Honor of Clare, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee. We do not find any account of its ancient owners, till the time of K. Henry VIII. Then it was holden by William Clopton Eſq; of Catharine Queen of England, as of her caſtle of Clare. He dyed 29 May 1521. Roſe his wife remarried to Sir Giles Grevill, held it till the time of her deceaſe 23 Auguſt 1525. —William Clopton, her ſon by her former huſband then aged 20 years, ſucceeded her (i).

It was afterwards in Thomas Throgmorton Eſq; Margaret his wife, and John Whorwood; who alienated it about 1573 to William Bendlows Eſq; ſerjeant at law, and Thomas Chap'yn. William, ſon of this latter, bought of his father a moiety of this eſtate, and paid his relief in 1584. The next year he purchaſed a third part of the moiety of this maner of William Willowe and Tho. Borles, for the uſe of himſelf and Alice his wife, and the longeſt liver (k), which ſeems to be the part afterwards bought of Dr. Gaſcoigne by Col. Farwell [A].

The maner of BRENTHALL,

The manſion-houſe ſtands pleaſantly, a little way north-weſt from the Church, between it and Sculpins.

It anciently belonged to a family ſurnamed de Pebeners, and Fitz-Ralf, [ſufficiently mentioned

William Ayliffe, or Ayloffe, [mentioned above, p. 138.] held this maner of Catharine Queen of England, as of her Honor of Clare. He dyed 10 Auguſt 1517. —— William was his ſon and ſucceſſor (n). The latter paſſed this eſtate by fine, in 1547, to Nicolas Collins (o).

It was next in the Bendlows family, and the habitation of the ingenious Edward Bendlows Eſq; [B] In Febru. 1654, a fine paſſed between Robert Abdy and William Megg Eſquires, plaintiffs, and Edward Bendlows, Walter Blount, Eſquires, and Philippa Bendlows, deforc.' of the maners of Brenthall, Juſtices, Hawkſells, Priors Fenns, Cockfeilds, and Rectory of Great Bardfeild. Nathan Wright of Cranham-Hall Eſq; His ſon —— Benjamin Wright Eſq; paid his ingreſs fine in 1659; and in 1668, ſold theſe eſtates to

Mark Guyon of Gr. Mapleſted Eſq; [ſee above p. 279.] His ſon —— William paid ingreſs fine in 1690; but dying without iſſue, he was ſucceeded by his ſiſter

Elizabeth, wife of Edward Bullock of Falkbornehall Eſq; After his deceaſe in 1705, theſe eſtates being veſted in Truſtees were purchaſed by Richard Chiſwell Eſq; who paid ingreſs fine in 1710 (p), and they are now in his ſon —Richard Chiſwell Eſq; of Debden.

BOYTON, OR BOYNTON, HALL.

This is the eſtate that Colſege, a freeman, held in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; and at the time of the ſurvey, was part of Richard Fitz-Giſlebert's here [C].

Julian de Boyton, and William her ſon, held this eſtate in K. Edward the firſt's reign (q), and undoubtedly hence took their ſurname.

Afterwards it was in one William de Reynes (r); and then came into the poſſeſſion of the great Baſſet family. Sir Philip Baſſet of Hedindon in Oxfordſhire gave, in 1260, his maner of Boyton in Finchingfeild to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, to maintain three Prieſts to celebrate continually at the Altars of St. Chad, St. Nicolas, and St. Ethelbert the King, in that Cathedral, for the ſoul of his elder brother Foulk Baſſet, Biſhop of London; to each of them 100s. yearly out of the ſaid maner: and moreover added 100s. yearly out of his lands in Boreham and Fairſted in this county (s). The Chantry was accordingly founded in 1260. This eſtate, or a great part of it, was holden by the ſerjeancy of keeping five wolf-dogs, [canes luparios] for the King's uſe (t).

The Dean and Chapter are ſtill poſſeſſed of this lordſhip, and keep Court Leet and Court Baron.

They had here in 1546, a farm or maner called Biggin, by which I ſuppoſe is meant the whole, or part, of this eſtate.

The maner of WOBURNES, otherwiſe Obornes, and How-hall, holden of the Honor of Clare.

We have no account of this eſtate till about the latter part of the reign of K. Henry VIII. when it belonged to Thomas Tilleſdon Eſq; who dwelt in a capital meſſuage in this pariſh called Randys, and had alſo other eſtates here and in the neighbourhood [D]. He dyed 3 July 1562; and his two daughters, —— Margaret, aged ten years, — and Anne aged eight, were his coheirs (u).

It was next in Giles Greene and Edward Greene, Eſquires. —— Then in John Newport Eſq; whoſe widow, Mary, ſold it in 1665 to William Beverſham Eſq; afterwards knighted, and one of the Maſters in Chancery. He left it to his wife Dorothy for her life, and afterwards to his two daughters and coheireſſes, Dorothy married to Sir George Rivers Bart. and Elizabeth to Sir Robert Filmer Bart. They ſold it to

Sir Richard Pyne Knt. Lord Chief Juſtice of Ireland, who paid ingreſs fine for it in 1700. His ſon and heir —— Henry Pyne Eſq; ſucceeded him. [See under Codham-hall in Wethersfield.] It belongs now to —— John Pyne Eſq; ſtands about a mile and a half ſouth-ſouth-eaſt from the Church: and ſeems anciently to have been a diſtinct village, or hamlet (w), as well as Boyton-hall.

ASHWELL-HALL

Felaga held half a hide in Aſſenuuel, for a manner, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: At the time of the general ſurvey it belonged to Walter Cocus, [the Cook] [E], who had alſo an eſtate in the adjoining pariſh of Shaldford.

In the reign of K. Henry II. it was poſſeſſed by a family ſurnamed from it de Aſhwell [F], and afterwards jointly by the families of Aſhwell, and Semenour, or Somner (x). They held it in petit ſerjeancy, by the ſervice of finding a broche, or ſpit, of maple, to roaſt the King's meat on the day of his coronation [G] —— Henry le Somenur held it in capite in the beginning of K. Edward the firſt's reign. As did his ſon —— Walter, who dyed in 1294, it being then deſcribed as one meſſuage, 75 acres of arable, 4 acres of meadow, 4 of paſture, 40 of wood, a water-mill, and 4s. rent of aſſiſe. He held alſo 140 acres of arable in Wethersfeild; and eſtates in Goſfeild, Pantfeild, &c. (y) —— Roger, his ſon, who dyed in 1321, held the ſame (z). And his ſon —— John, at the time of his deceaſe in 1361, held 1 meſſuage with a garden, 130 acres of arable, 7 of meadow, 6 of paſture, and 50 of wood, in Fynchefeild, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of turning one broche, or ſpit, in the King's kitchen, on his Coronation-day. —— Henry was his ſon and ſucceſſor (a).

It appears next in the Gobyon family, mentioned under the foregoing pariſh of Toppesfeild. — John Gobyon, who dyed in 1422, held this eſtate by the ſervice of finding one ſpit of wood in the King's kitchen on his Coronation-day. ——Margaret his only daughter and heir was married firſt to John Aſpall, and afterwards to John Symond (b). She held, at the time of her deceaſe in 1424; as did her ſecond huſband, at the time of his death in 1444; this eſtate by the ſervice aforeſaid of finding one wooden ſpit, &c. (c).

Joane, daughter and heir of John Symond ſenior, brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband William Gaynsford; whoſe ſon—Richard Gaynesford dyed poſſeſſed of it 20 May 1484; his brother —— John being his heir (d). [ſee under Toppesfield p. 359.] Afterwards it was in the Smyth family. For K. Edward VI. gave licenſe, 3 April 1550, to

Agnes Smyth, widow, and others, to alienate the maner of Aſhewell-hall to

John Wiſeman, of Felſted (e); ſon of Tho. Wiſeman of Great Waltham and Bradocks; and a fine was levied the ſame year. The contents of this maner, and eſtate, were then 200 acres of arable, 16 of meadow, 40 of wood, and 10s. rent, in Finchingfeild, Wethersfeild, Shalford, and Great Bardfeild [H]. He dyed 5 Janu. 1558, and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Thomas, aged 30 years (f); who departed this life 17 Decemb. 1585, leaving —— William his ſon above 28 years old (g) [ſee above, p. 89.] One would think that the Wiſeman family had it only for a term of Years. For

William Smyth Eſq; who dyed 10 Febr. 1630-1, held the maner of Aſhwell-hall of the King in ca. His next heir was his brother —— Sir Thomas Smyth, alias Nevill, aged upwards of 70 years (h). [ſee above, p. 114, 148.] —— Henry Smyth, alias Nevill, Eſq; ſold this eſtate to

Martin Lumley of Great Bardfield Eſq; He dyed poſſeſſed of it 3 July 1634 (i). His ſon— Martin Lumley Eſq; created a Baronet 8 Janu. 1640-1, ſucceeded him: and had for ſucceſſors —— Sir Martin, who dyed in Auguſt 1702. — Sir Martin, who departed this life 7 Janu. 1710-1, and — Sir James. [See a further account of this family under Great Bardfeild; and in the Baronettage, edit. 1741, Vol. II. p. 153.]

This eſtate, and Hawkins Haveſt, belong now to Guy's-Hoſpital.

Here was another eſtate, holden by Euſtace Earl of Bologne at the time of the ſurvey; which belonged before to Norman and Ulric [I]. It deſcended to his grandaughter Maud, wife of K. Stephen. K. Henry II. gave theſe lands to the Knights Templars (k); from which time they came to be reckoned as parts of the maner of Creſſing.

Finchingfeild for ever, Norney field by eſtimation 3 roods; another piece of land lying nigh that, by eſtimation ſix acres; Barefoot meadow, by eſtimation two acres; Brockholes meadow, containing by eſtimation ſix acres.

John Meade of Finchingfeild Eſq; by deed dated 20 May 1623, gave to the Poor three pieces of land of the ſame names and dimenſions as the three firſt in W. Kempe's gift, being then valued at 40s. a year, to be diſtributed in wood.

Robert Kempe Eſq; by deed dated 20 January 1630, gave to rhe Poor of this pariſh all that meſſuage at the Church-gate called Guild-hall.

Stephen Marſhall B. D. Vicar of this pariſh, by deed dated 20 Febr. 1650, did give a meſſuage and tenement with appertenances, and Boyton-meadow, containing three acres, amounting then to 40s. a year; to be diſtributed in wood to the Poor, at Lady-day and Michaelmas. This St. Marſhall was one of the authors of the book called Smectymnvvs, and of ſeveral tracts in the Divinity of thoſe times, of very little value.

Sir Robert Kempe gave by will lands called Spain's-fields, or Park-fields, then rented at 19l. per ann. for theſe uſes; viz. 5l. to a Schoolmaſter to teach the poor children of the pariſh to read; and 5l. for the better maintenance of the poor of the Alms-houſe of the pariſh founded by his anceſtors of Spains-hall; and 6l. to the Vicar to catechiſe the poor children on Friday at two o'clock in the afternoon, when, for encouragement, he ordered the remaining 3l. to be given amongſt them in bread; and if the eſtate ſhould fall in the rents, the Miniſter only is to abate.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. John the Baptiſt, ſtands pleaſantly on the top of the hill, by the road ſide. It conſiſts of a middle pace, and two iſles leaded: The Chancel likewiſe hath a ſouth and north iſle, one called Berners Chapel [K], and the other Kemps Chapel, tyled. The Tower which is of ſtone, contains 5 Bells. It had a lofty ſpire leaded, which was blown down in September 1658.

This Church was ſoon after the Conqueſt in the Bigods, or Bigots, Earl of Norfolk; one of whom, Roger Bigod, having founded the Priory of Thetford in 1103; his ſon, William Bigot, gave thereto two parts of the tithes of his demeſnes in Finchingefeld, and all the right he had in the Church of this Vill (l).

In 1225, the great Tithes of this pariſh were appropriated to that Priory, and a Vicarage endowed; which continued in the gift of that Priory till their diſſolution.

The Rectory, called a maner, and the Advowſon of the Vicarage, were granted by K. Henry VIII. in 1540, to Thomas Duke of Norfolk and his heirs, to be holden in capite by the ſervice of one knight's fee (m). Upon this noble perſon's attainder, the premiſſes reverting to the Crown, K. Edward VI. granted them, in 1553, to Antony Browne &c. (n) Which grant was ſet aſide the ſame year, by the reverſal of the Duke's attainder in the firſt year of Qu. Mary's reign. On the 15th of June 1557, the ſaid Duke leaſed for 99 years this whole maner and rectory of Finchingfeld, with the advowſon of the Vicarage, to Robert Kempe Eſq; The fine was 140l. and the reſerved rent 13l. 6s. 8. (o). A court was kept 27 Sept. 1568 for the maner of the Rectory of Finchingfeild in the name of Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and his under-tenant Robert Kempe Eſq; And in Eaſter-term 1641, a common recovery was ſuffered, which by deed dated 28 June the ſame year was declared to be for the uſe of Thomas Earl of Arundell and Surrey, and of his heirs and aſſigns (p).

Upon the expiration of the Leaſe in 1656, for want of timely renewal this eſtate was loſt to the Kempe-family, and granted to Richard Marriot Gent. and his heirs.

Here was a Gild called Trinity Gild, founded by Henry Onyon, William Sergeant, Richard Walkefar, Richard Mortimer and . . . Kempe, Gent. to find a Gild prieſt. It was endowed with lands in this pariſh called Onyons, Lemet, Read heads, and Mortemers, and with the Yelde-hall upon the hill; which, at the ſuppreſſion were valued at 6l. 14s. and granted in 1548 to William Mildmay Eſq; (q). In the Certificate, it is ſaid, that this was "a populous towne and of "a great circuite, conteyning 20 miles in com-"pas, having in yt to the nombre of 500 houſe-"ling people."

Northampton, her ſon by her ſecond huſband Edmund, moſt probably had this eſtate, though it is not particularly mentioned in the Inquiſitions. But he being ſlain in the battle of Northampton, 9 July 1460, fighting for K. Henry VI.

K. Edward IV. who was, by the victory then obtained, ſettled upon the throne, ſeizes upon this among others of the Duke's eſtates, and preſented to this living in 1463 (g). From henceforth this maner became veſted in the Crown; was annexed to the Dutchy of Lancaſter; and holden of the honor of Clare. It continued in the Crown till 1544, when K. Henry VIII. exchanged it for the maner of Eaſt Merſey, with

John Wentworth Eſq; it being then valued at 60l. a year (h). He was the eldeſt ſon of Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall. Beſides this lordſhip, he enjoyed ſeveral other eſtates in this county [P]; and was knighted. Departing this life 15 Septemb. 1567, he was buried at Gosfeild, which belonged to his father. By his lady, Anne, daughter of John Bettenham of Pluckley in Kent Eſq; he left an only daughter ——Anne, who had three huſbands, namely Sir Hugh Rich: Henry Fitz-Alan, Lord Maltravers: and Henry Deane, Eſq; but left no iſſue [Q]. So that, upon her deceaſe, 5 Decemb. 1580, her eſtates deſcended to her Uncle Henry's ſon, —— John Wentworth Eſq; that went and lived at Gosfeild. [ſee above, p. 235, 306, and under Gosfeild.] He married Elizabeth daughter of Chriſtopher St. Laurence, Baron of Houth in Ireland, by whom he had——John, his ſon and heir, that took to wife Cecily, daughter of Edward, and ſiſter and coheir of Sir Henry, Unton, or Umpton [R]. By her he had—John, knighted in 1603, and created a Baronet 22 May 1611. He married Catharine daughter of Sir Moyle Finch Knt. and Bart. and dyed in October 1631. This eſtate was ſettled on his lady, who lived till Septemb. 1639. But, before his deceaſe, he ſold the reverſion of the maner, &c. to

Hugh Hare, Lord Colerane, who kept a court here 26 Novemb. 1629. And, very ſoon after, he parted with his intereſt in this lordſhip to

Thomas Allen of Finchley in Middleſex Eſq; who paſſed away his right to the reverſion of it to John Clerke, M. D. This gentleman was an eminent phyſician in London, and born at the Brooke-farm in this pariſh, where his anceſtors had lived for ſome ages in reputable degree. The true name of the family is Youngman, alias Clerke [S]. Dr. Clerke was ſucceeded in this eſtate by his ſon and heir —— Joſeph Clerke of Lincoln's inn Eſq; who dying 7 Febr. 1681-2, aged 66 years, was buried in the Chancel of this Church. He left the maner of Wethersfeild [T] to his nephew——John Clerke, of Meadow-end in Tilbury Eſq; His ſon —— John Clerke Eſq; now enjoys this eſtate [V].

And he hath alſo the maner of Little Codham-hall: of which the demeſnes were formerly in . . . Thomſon Gent.

2. CODHAM-HALL

ſtands about two miles ſouth-eaſt from the Church, near the river Pant. To it belonged a conſiſiderable Chapel, upon the Green near the Houſe; very convenient upon account of the Hall's great diſtance from the Church. Divine ſervice was performed in it till about the latter end of Qu. Elizabeth's reign, but it is now put to mean uſes. It had alſo a fine park, which hath been long diſparked. There is Great Codham and Little Codham-hall.

This was always a Hamlet to the maner of Wethersfeild. Not long after the Conqueſt here lived a family of note ſurnamed de Codham. Henry de Codham lived in 1255. One of the ſame name was a benefactor to Colne-Priory. And John de Codham, Prior of Dunmow, dyed in 1270 (i).

About the reign of K. Edward I. it became veſted in the Coggeſhall family, who made it the place of their reſidence, as mentioned before, p. 162. The firſt of the family that held this eſtate, was Ralph de Coggeſhall, [grandſon of Sir Thomas living about the latter end of K. Stephen's reign.] [W]. In 1294, a fine paſſed between Ralph de Coggeſhall, plaintiff, Peter de Burgate, &c. for this eſtate, being then one meſſuage, 321 acres and a half of arable, 36 acres of wood, 17 of meadow, 53 of paſture, 61s. rent, and two parts of a mill in Wethersfeild, Bocking, Gosfeild, Halſted, Panfeild, Shaldeford, Great Samford, and Reynes (k). Sir Ralph de Coggeſhall, (for he was knighted before his deceaſe, which happened in 1305) held a certain maner in Codham of Richard de Bacheſworth, by the ſervice of one knight's fee; and a tenement in Shaldeford, of Sir Ralph de Hengham, being the 4th part of a knight's fee, and a member of the maner of Codham, namely, 1 meſſuage, a water-mill, 240 acres of arable, 2 acr. of wood, and 5s. rent (m). He had alſo large eſtates elſewhere, mentioned above, p. 162. His ſon——John de Coggeſhall dyed three years before him (n): and his grandſon — John de Coggeſhall held the ſame eſtates, particularly the maner of Codham of Margaret Nevile; at the time of his deceaſe in 1319 (o). He had married the ſiſter and heir of Philip ſon of Jordan de Peu, by whom he left his ſon and heir —— Sir John de Coggeſhall; knighted in 1337, by Edward the Black Prince, then Duke of Cornwall (p). He was a conſiderable man in his time, and ſerved the office of Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire from the 9th to the 14th of K. Edward III. and again from the 14th to the 22d, and from the 26th to the 29th of the ſame king (q). This maner of Codham he held of the Lady Alice de Nevyle, as of her maner of Wetherſfeild; and departing this life in 1360, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir Henry (r), who married Joane daughter and heir of William de Welle, and in her right had the maner of Great Samford. He held the maner of Codham of Lady Neville, by knight's ſervice, and one pair of gilt ſpurs, or ſix-pence per ann. at the will of the tenents. Dying in 1375, he was ſucceeded by his ſon — Sir William (s); ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1391, and 1411 (t) [X], who dyed about the beginning of the reign of K. Henry VI. [Y] He married Antiochia daughter and heir of Sir John Hawkwood of Hedingham Sible [remarried to Sir John Tyrell of Eaſt-Horndon] by whom he had 4 daughters coheirs, all married to conſiderable men; Blanch to John Doreward Eſq; of Bocking; Alice to Sir John Tyrell, of Heron's; Margaret to William Batemam of Little Samford Eſq; afterwards to John Roppeley Eſq; and Maud, firſt to Robert Dacre Eſq; and then to John St. George. [ſee above, p. 162.] [Z].

Margaret, the third daughter, wife of William Bateman Eſq; had this eſtate for her purparty. This William was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire from the 19th to the 22d of K. Richard II. (u) [ſee more of him under Samford.] They left only one daughter, named

Margaret, that was married to William Greene, ſecond ſon of John Greene of Widdington in this county, Eſq; He dyed 11 June 1488, and ſhe 31 May 1494. [ſee above, p. 286.] but neither of them appear to have been poſſeſſed of this eſtate at the time of their deceaſe (w). For it had been ſome time in

Henry Wentworth Eſq; who dyed 22 March 1482. He was the ſecond ſon of Sir Roger Wentworth of Nettleſted in Suffolk, and the firſt of the family that ſettled in Eſſex. How he came to be fixed at this place I cannot learn. From him proceeded the Wentworths of Oxfordſhire, Berkſhire, Buckinghamſhire, and the ſeveral branches of the Wentworths in this county already mentioned, or to be mentioned under Goſfeild. His ſon and heir——Sir Roger Wentworth, of Codham-hall, was ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire 15 Hen. VII. 1499. By his wife, Anne only daughter of Humfrey Tyrell of Little Warley Eſq; which dyed 28 Auguſt 1534, [ſee above, p. 235, 306, 333.] he had, John, Henry, and other children. He himſelf dyed 9 Auguſt 1539, and he and his wife were buried in Goſfeild Church. John their eldeſt ſon, was knighted, and dying 15 Septemb. 1567, was buried at Goſfeild. He married Anne daughter of John Bettenham of Pluckley in Kent, and they left iſſue an only daughter —— Anne, ſo often mentioned, that had three huſbands, 1. Sir Hugh Rich. 2. Henry Fitz-Alan, Lord Maltravers. 3. William Deane. She dying iſſue-leſs, 5 Dec. 1580, her uncle Henry's ſon —— John Wentworth Eſq; inherited her great eſtates. He held, in particular, the maner of Codham, and divers meſſuages, lands, and hereditaments, with appertenances in Bocking, Shalford, Sible Henningham, Brayntree, Rayne, Great and Little Bardfeild, of the Queen, as of the Honor of Clare, by the ſervice of the fifth part of a knight's fee, then valued at 20 marks per ann. (x). By his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Chriſtopher St. Laurence, Baron of Houth, he had —— John, who marrying Cecily daughter of Edward Unton Eſq; had by her John; another ſon; and ſeveral daughters.——John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, knighted in 1603, and created a Baronet in 1611, married Catharine daughter of Sir Moyle Finch, by whom he had a ſon that dyed young, and 4 daughters: the two eldeſt daughters departed this life without iſſue. . . . Cecily [A], the third was married to . . . Sir William Grey of Chillingham in Northumberland, created, 11 Feb. 1623-4, Baron Grey of Werk. . . . Lucy, the other daughter and coheir, was ſecond wife to Thomas Wentworth, Earl of Cleveland; and had an only daughter,

Catharine, who became the wife of William Spencer of Cople in Bedfordſhire, Eſq; He had with her the maner of Great Codham-hall; His ſon, or grandſon, —— William Spencer Eſq; ſold this eſtate to

Sir Richard Pyne, Lord Chief Juſtice of Ireland: that entailed it on his ſon —— Henry Pyne Eſq; and his heirs male. But the latter unwiſely loſing his life in a duel, 28 Febru. 1712-13 [B], and having only daughters, Great Codham-hall fell to the heirs of his ſiſter, that had married . . . . . Walkham Eſq; His ſon—Robert Walkham Eſq; accordingly enjoyed it, and changed his name to Pyne. It is now in his deſcendent —— John Pyne Eſq; who hath alſo Woburnes in Finchingfeild, and other eſtates.

Anne, Lady Viſcounteſs Dorcheſter, [mentioned under the next pariſh of Goſfeild, and more particularly under Little Bentley] had by purchaſe the maner of Little Codham-hall, and the court belonging to Great Codham-hall, which ſhe ſold to Dr. Clerke.

BROOKE-HALL,

a conſiderable farm in this pariſh, but a maner only in reputation, hath been for ſeveral ages the ſeat and manſion houſe of the family of Youngeman, alias Clerke, ſufficiently mentioned above.

OLD-HALL

in this pariſh, is a reputed maner, and called ſo in records. For, John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed 10 March 1512, held of Sir John Rainsforth the maner of Old-hall in Wetherſfeild (y). His nephew —— John de Vere held the ſame at the time of his deceaſe 14 July 1526; and his heirs general were, his two ſiſters, Elizabeth wife of Sir Antony Wingfeild, Urſula wife of Edward Knightley Eſq; and John Nevill Eſq; Accordingly John Nevill had livery of the third part of the maners of Brooke-hall, Old-hall, and Hilbroke park (z). About the year 1586, Lucy one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir John Nevill late Lord Latimer, and her huſband William Cornwallys Eſq; conveyed all the maner, meſſuage, or farm, called Old-hall in this pariſh, to Thomas Lyvermore ſenior, yeoman, of this pariſh, and his heirs and aſſigns. The 27th April 1632, Thomas Lyvermore deviſed it to his eldeſt ſon Ezra; who. 2 Decemb. 1670, conveyed it to his brother Thomas of this pariſh, mercer. And the latter, 20 Octob. 1681, deviſed it to his grandſon Thomas. On 27 Janu. 1704, Thomas Lyvermore of Braintree, clothier, conveyed it Robert Dennett Eſq; SOMNERS, or Semenours, is an eſtate near Beeſeley-end, belonging alſo to Rob. Dennett Eſq; It took its name from a family ſurnamed le Semenour. [ſee under Aſhwell-hall in Finchingfeild.] On the 7th of January 1578, Thomas Wyſeman of Wimbiſh Eſq; conveyed it to John Streyte, whoſe grandſon Nath. Straight paſſed it, 27th Auguſt 1697, to Mr. Dennett (a).

BAKERS, a capital farm here, took its name from a family ſurnamed Nicholl, otherwiſe Baker, ſome of whom lived here in 1340, 1348, and 1380; and others were poſſeſſed of it in 1467, and 1551. It was afterwards in the Wentworth family; and, in purſuance of an Act of parliament paſſed 7 Febru. 1609, Sir John Wentworth conveys, 1 May 1614, Bakers Farm to John Elliſton clothier; it being then deſcribed as 1 meſſuage, 1 garden, 1 orchard, 130 acres of arable, 18 acr. of meadow, 30 of paſture, 18 of wood, and 3 of alder, in Wethersfeild, Goſfeild, and Hedingham-ſible. The conſideration-money was 1290l. [Concerning the Elliſton family, ſee above, p. 287, 306.]

Great WINCEY is a nominal maner, which Stephen Marſhall, mentioned under Finchingfeild, ſettled on charitable uſes, particularly to the Lecture of this Town, 40 l. per ann.

DOBBINS belongs to the Rev. Jonathan White. Robert and Walter Straight; Thomas Barwick; Edward Boreham; Samuel Plumb; John Harvey; William Owers; and a few others, have alſo ſome eſtates here.

At Blackmore-end there are the remains of a large ſquare Moat, each ſide about 25 rods long, and 28 feet wide, as appears by the ichnography before me. This is ſuppoſed to have been the ſeat of the ancient family of Nevills lords of Wethersfeild. About it are ſome farms of conſiderable extent, ſtyled the Park-ground; and one in particular is called the Park-farm. In this quarter ſtood a Chapel, which was granted, by K. Edward VI. in 1549, to Ralph Agard, and Thomas Smith (b). The ſite of it was in Chapel-field, where foundations have been ploughed up.

Charitable Gifts.

Richard Harward of Wethersfield, yeoman, by his will dated 16 June 1559, did give a tenement called Goldings and Alleins, and the lands thereunto belonging, to the Curate and Church-wardens; directing, That out of the iſſues and profits they ſhould, every Sunday in the year, in the pariſh Church, at the fore-noon ſervice of the ſame day, pay Two ſhillings unto the poor people of Wethersfield. The reſidue to remain towards the reparations of the ſaid Tenements.

Richard Walford of this pariſh, huſbandman, by a deed, dated 17 April 1574, enfeoffed 12 perſons of this pariſh, and their heirs for ever, in certain lands lying in Wethersfield, In truſt, that they ſhould receive and employ the rents and annual profits to be made and iſſuing out of the ſaid premiſſes, to and for the reparations of the pariſh Church of Wethersfield. When 8 of the feoffees dye, or remove out of the pariſh, the other 4 to make a new feoffment within 3 months.

Edward Mountjoy of this pariſh, Gent. by his laſt will dated 30 July 1623, did give to certain perſons, in truſt, a parcel of freehold lands called Rands, lying in Wethersfield, to the intent that they ſhould diſpoſe of the rents and profits thereof, the one half to the uſe of the poor, lame, and impotent inhabitants of honeſt name and fame there for ever: and the other half to ſuch Miniſter or Miniſters of God's word as ſhall be for the time being choſen and appointed by the chief inhabitants, or the greateſt part of them dwelling in Wethersfield, to be their ordinary weekly Lecturer upon any of the working days in the week, ſo long as the ſaid Lecture ſhall there continue: But if the Lecture be diſcontinued, then the other half of the rents and profits of thoſe lands, during the diſcontinuance of the Lecture, to be paid to the ſaid poor, lame, and impotent inhabitants of Wethersfield for ever. John Cleveland of this pariſh, yeoman, by his will dated 8 April 1636, bequeathed his freehold meſſuage or tenement, with appertenances, and ſeveral parcels of freehold and cuſtomary land thereunto adjoyning and belonging, ſituate in Wethersfield, containing 20 acres more or leſs; To 12 inhabitants of the ſaid pariſh as truſtees, directing, They ſhould receive the rent thereof half-yearly, and diſtribute it amongſt threeſcore of the poor inhabitants of the ſaid pariſh, where moſt need is, in good and wholſome wheaten bread, in manner following; that is to ſay, every week through the whole year immediately after the ending of morning or evening prayer at the ſaid pariſh Church upon every Sabbath-day five ſhillings worth of bread equally unto ſuch Ten perſons of the ſaid ſixty, untill they have all in that order received an equal part thereof, and then to begin again with ten of the ſame company, or others the moſt needy, to the ſame number of 60, with the ſame allowance of bread, to continue with other ten of them the week following, and every week one after another, ſucceſſively, and by courſe, one Ten after another for evermore. When the Truſtees are reduced to four, twelve others of the chief Inhabitants dwelling in the ſaid pariſh to be appointed within three months.

Hawkes-hill Croft, purchaſed 27 May 1636, by the inhabitants for 65l. being money left in their hands by a private perſon not named, for the uſe of the aged and moſt needy poor people of Wethersfield, to be improved and managed to the beſt advantage with the aid and advice of the Overſeers and Church-wardens for the time being for ever. When the 12 feoffees are reduced to four, a new feoffment to be raiſed by the four ſurvivors.

Walter Wiltſhire, yeoman, in his life-time ſettled fortie pounds per annum, for two perpetual Lectures in Wethersfield. He dyed 18 March 1641, æt. 77.

Thomas Fitch late of this pariſh, yeoman, who dyed 17 Decemb. 1702, aged 87, by his will gave 20l. per annum to be paid to a ſchool-maſter for the erecting a Free-ſchool in the Town-ſtreet in this pariſh, for the teaching of 20 poor Boys to read, write, & caſt accounts, fit to be placed out to any trade, and 10l. every two years to buy 20 coats of gray cloath for thoſe 20 poor ſcholars; and if there ſhould not be that number the overplus to be laid out for ſhoes for ſuch of them as ſhall moſt want the ſame: And directed, that the ſchool-maſter ſhould go along with his ſcholars to Church on Sundays and holy days, and have them catechiſed; and the maſter or ſcholar neglecting their duty ſhall be liable to be expulſed by the ſupervíſors of the ſchool, or the major part of them: And did alſo give the ſalary of 5l. per Annum, and the uſe of a tenement at Stammers-green in this pariſh, for the keeping of a free ſchool there for the teaching of 20 poor boys and girls to read only; and as the boys there attain their reading, to be tranſmitted to the ſchool in the Town-Street: And alſo gave one load of faggot-wood to each of the ſchools, to be delivered about the latter end of November yearly for ever; and that the children admitted to each of the ſchools, ſhall not be above one or two out of a family (if the number can be ſo raiſed) and ſhall carry a certificate under the hands and ſeals of the ſupervíſors thereof, or the major part of them, that they are the children of ſuch poor people of the pariſh, as have not any real eſtate of the clear value of 3l. per ann. or not worth 60l. in perſonal eſtate, beſides their houſhold goods, before they can be admitted to each ſchool: And did appoint the Church-wardens and overſeers of the pariſh, and the proprietor of his eſtate for the time being, to be ſuperviſers of each ſchool for ever, and to meet at Lady-day and Michaelmas every year to view the ſchools and ſcholars: And did give 20s. per ann. to be ſpent at their meeetings: And charged his whole eſtate with the payment of the money, and delivering the wood aforeſaid.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax, at 2597l. 1s. 8d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, conſiſts of a body and two iſles, leaded; but the Chancel is tyled. The Tower contains 5 Bells, and hath on the top of it a ſpire leaded.

This Church was originally a Rectory, appendent to the maner of Wethersfield; and conſequently the Advowſon of it was in the ſeveral lords of that maner, above mentioned. In the manner before related, the advowſon came to the Crown in K. Edward the Fourth's time, who preſented, as did alſo K. Henry VII. The latter granted it to Edward Sulyard, and others, by whom it was given to the Dean and College of Stoke (c): and theſe obtained licenſe in 1501, or 1502, to appropriate the great Tithes to themſelves, and to have a Vicarage ordained, of which they continued patrons till their ſuppreſſion. Both Rectory and Vicarage returning then to the Crown, Henry Harvye, L L. D. Maſter of Trinity-hall in Cambridge, obtained a grant of the Vicarage, 6 March 1557 (d), and ſettled it upon the Maſter and Fellows of that Hall, and it has remained in their diſpoſal ever ſince. As for the Great Tithes, they were kept by the Crown till 1591, when Queen Elizabeth granted them, with thoſe of Dunmow, Witham and Creſſing, to John Aylmer Biſhop of London, and his ſucceſſors (e); and they belong to that ſee.

There was a Chantry founded in this Church; but when and by whom is unknown. It was endowed with a meſſuage called Cowpers, and lands named Trigelotts, Thorleys, Wyndell, Mandeſcroft, Braſſetts, Shortland, Lighes pightel, and Cocks crofts parcel of Cutlers meads in Wethersfield; all which were granted by K. Edw. VI. 12 Novemb. 1548, to Thomas Golding, Eſq; (f).

38 SHALFORD.

The name, according to Norden (g), denotes a ſhallow ford. It it otherwiſe written in records, Shaldeford, Shalforth, Shawford, Scaldefort, Scanford, Shelford, Celdeford.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign this pariſh belonged to Algar, the great Earl of Mercia, [ſufficiently mentioned under Finchingfeild] and to Godere, and another freeman. Afterwards it was given to the Queen; and at the time of the general ſurvey, the chief part was farmed of the King by Otto the Goldſmith; [concerning whom ſee above, p. 305, 363.] and part was holden by Walter the Cook. [ſee p. 369.] [C].

Theſe lands were divided afterwards into the ſeveral Maners of 1. Shalford-hall. 2. Nicholls. 3. Shernehall. 4. Redfants. 5. Abbots-hall.

They are chiefly Dutchy lands, holden of the Honor of Clare; in right of which Honor, the King hath a view of frank-pledge kept here yearly in Whitſun-week.

1. The maner of SHALFORD-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands on the ſouth-ſide of the Church.

About the reign of K. Henry II. this lordſhip belonged to Hamo Fitz Geffrey; who by Agnes his wife had —— Robert; and he —— Richard, father of — Hamo Fitz-Richard, who is recorded to have held half a fee in Shaldeford of Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, about the year 1262 (h). In that family it continued till 1314 (i); and but a very little while after.

For, in 1319, Humfrey de Northwood appears to have been lord of Shaldeford (k). The Northwood, or Norwood family was of great antiquity, and originally ſettled in the Iſle of Shepey in the county of Kent, from whence they ſpread into divers parts (l). Roger de Northwood was one of thoſe worthies who engaged with K. Richard I. in the ſiege of Acon. Sir Roger de Northwood was a faithful ſubject to K. Henry III. and dyed in 1285. His ſon, Sir John de Northwood, a Knight banneret, ſerved K. Edward I. and II. in ſeveral warlike expeditions; was ſheriff of Kent in 1300; and had ſummons to parliament from 1312 to 1318. By his wife Joane de Badleſmere [D] he had, John who dyed before him (m); and HUMFREY, above-mentioned. — John his ſon held the maner of Shaldeford of the lady Alice de Nevill. He dyed in 1362, leaving by Catharine Picot his wife, that ſurvived him [E],

Joanna, their daughter and heir, then aged 4 years (n) [ſee under Saling.] He held this maner of Shaldeford, of the Duke of Clarence, and 18 acres in Reynes, &c. which his daughter brought in marriage to her huſband, Sir Roger de Scales, [of which family ſee a particular account above, p. 145.] He dyed 25 Decemb. 1386, and ſhe in 1414 (o). Their ſon and heir —— Robert Lord Scales dyed 7 Decemb. 1402, leaving by his wife Elizabeth [as above, p. 145.] Robert, who dyed unmarried 1 July 1418, and was ſucceeded by his brother —— Thomas a gallant warrior, who was murdered 25 July 1460, leaving by Emma his wife, daughter of John Whaleſborough [F],

Elizabeth his ſole daughter and heir, then married to Henry Bourchier Eſq; ſecond ſon of Henry Earl of Eſſex; afterwards to Antony de Widville Earl Rivers, and in her right Lord Scales. They conveyed this maner to the Gates family, juſt mentioned above, p. 146, but a particular account of which belongs to Pleſhey, and High Eſtre the chief place of their reſidence.

Sir Geffrey Gate dyed poſſeſſed of this and other eſtates 22 Janu. 1477. —— William his ſon ſucceeded, and at the time of his deceaſe 28 Sept. 1485, left his ſon and heir — Geffrey, afterwards knighted; who dyed 7 May 1526. —— Sir John, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor (p), was heheaded 22 Auguſt 1553, for eſpouſing the Lady Jane Gray's intereſt.

Upon his attainder, his eſtates falling to the Crown, Qu. Mary granted this maner to Cecily Barnes, or Berners, one of her maids of honor [G]; who kept courts here 4 April 1554, and 14 January 1560.

Upon her deceaſe it came again to the crown; for courts were kept here in Queen Elizabeth's name, in 1562, and 1565. On the 25 of Febr. 1569, her Majeſty granted this eſtate to

William Lord Howard Baron of Effingham, eldeſt ſon of Thomas Duke of Norfolk by his ſecond wife Agnes Tilney: He was Lord Admiral of England, Ireland, and Wales, and employed in the moſt important affairs. This maner he held in ca. by the 40th part of a knight's-fee (q); and departing this life 12 Janu. 1572, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Charles, Earl of Effingham, equal to him in bravery and all virtuous accompliſhments; Admiral, and Commander in chief of the Engliſh Fleet at the defeat of the Spaniſh Armada, &c. Having got a confirmation of this eſtate (r) he procured a licenſe, 7 March 1579, to alienate to

Thomas Thompſon, citizen and haberdaſher of London, the maner of Shaldford with appertenances, then deſcribed as 30 meſſuages, 10 tofts, 300 acres of arable, 10 of wood, 20 of heath, &c. (s). His ſon and ſucceſſor ——Thomas held his firſt court here 1 Octob. 1590. This family of Thompſon derived themſelves from Richard Thompſon of Laxton in Yorkſhire, gentleman uſher to K. Henry IV. (t). His ſon, William Thompſon had four ſons. John, the third ſon, was of Staffords in Hertfordſhire, and by his wife Anne daughter and heir of William Durell Eſq; had ——John, living in the reign of Henry VIII. He married a daughter of . . . Charlton of Epping Eſq; and had two ſons, Edward, and Thomas. Edward was of Stratford in this county, and by Anne daughter of Judge Browne had an only daughter Elizabeth married to Tho. Jernegan of Suffolk Eſq; —— Thomas, the ſecond ſon, and purchaſer of this eſtate, married Anne, daughter of . . . Digby, Alderman of London, by whom he had ——Thomas, who taking to wife Anne daughter of John Alderſey of London, merchant, ſiſter to Lady Coventry, had by her five ſons, three of whom dyed without iſſue; and John, the ſecond ſon, ſecretary to Lord Keeper Coventry, left only two daughters. ——Thomas the youngeſt ſon married Anne daughter of Robert Bourne of Bovinger, by whom he had Thomas that dyed without iſſue: Robert: and three daughters. Anne his widow kept courts here from 25 Febr. 1667 to 1679. —Robert, her ſon and heir, kept a court here 6 Octob. 1682. In 1683 he ſold this eſtate [H] to

Samuel Huſbands Eſq; ſon of . . . Huſbands of London, draper; who rebuilt the chief part of the houſe. He was knighted in 1684, conſtituted a Deputy-Lieutenant, and Juſtice of the Peace. But about 1692 he retired to Barbadoes [I], having ſold Shalford-hall to

Sir John Moore Knt. Alderman of London. He dyed 2 June 1702, aged 82, and left this maner to his nephew —John Moore of Kentwell-hall Eſq; who dying unmarried in 1713, left it to his kinſman ——John Moore Gent. The latter departed this life in January 1713-14, and his ſucceſſor——John Moore Gent. kept a court here 24 May 1714.

It belongs now to Jones Raymond Eſq; [ſee above, p. 163, and eſpecially under Great Bardfeild] who, beſides the next maner of Nicholls, hath a farm called Hubbards, in this pariſh.

2. The maner of NICHOLLS is called in the rolls the maner of Nicols and Fitz-Nicols: and hath a Court-leet and a Court-baron.

It took its name from a family ſurnamed Nicholas. John, the ſon of Nicolas de Shaldeford held courts here in 1307, 1324, and 1326.—— Thomas, —— John, and —— Margery, Fitz-Nichole, or Nicholes, were poſſeſſed of this eſtate, almoſt the whole long reign of K. Edward III.

It was afterwards in Robert, and Thomas, Rikedonn; and John de Flecham.

John Bradfeild had it about the year 1393. [ſee above, p. 362.] (u) As had

Richard, and John, Gaynsford (w), mentioned above, p. 359. The latter ſold it, 11 May 1537, to

John Wentworth Eſq; of Codham-hall, afterwards knighted, and who died 15 Sept. 1567. His daughter, —Anne Lady Maltravers kept her firſt court here in 1568: and from her it paſſed to —— John Wentworth Eſq; and his ſon and grandſon, both named John. [ſee an account of them above, p. 235, 306, 330] The latter conveyed it, 17 June 1599, to

Richard Symonds Eſq; of the Pool in Great Yeldham. [ſee above, p. 302.] He dyed 8 July 1627, and by will left this maner, and that of Gunces in Gr. Yeldham, to his fifth ſon —— Richard Fitz-Symonds. On his deceaſe, 26 Sept. 1680, it deſcended to his nephew—John Symonds of the Pool Eſq; He dyed 19 Febr. 1692-3, and by his will, dated three days before, bequeathed this eſtate, and Panfield-hall, to his nephew

Martin Carter of Saling, Eſq; who, jointly with his wife Anne, ſold it, 5 January 1714-15, to James Peers of Bocking, clothier.

It now belongs to Jones Raymond Eſq;

The manſion houſe is on the left-hand ſide of the road leading from Shalford-Church to Bocking.

3. SHERNEHALL

ſtands on the right hand ſide of the ſame road, next to Panfield Priory.

This maner anciently belonged to the conſiderable family of Coggeſhall, [mentioned above, p. 162, 346, 372.] John de Coggeſhall, who dyed in 1319, held a certain tenement in Shaldeford called Shernehall of Humfrey de Northwood; in ſocage, by the ſervice of 10s. per ann. And there was a capital meſſuage, 87 acres of arable, 6 acres and a half of meadow, a grove of 12 acres, 6 acres of alders, with 2s. 3d. rent. He held alſo 10 acres in this pariſh of John Fitz-Nicholas: and of the Abbot of St Oſith, 15

[H] He came to a miſerable end, his horſe flinging him into a ditch at Kelvedon-hatch, where he was drowned.—— Arms of Thompſon. Azure, a lion paſſant gardant, or. Creſt. A lion ſaliant, collar'd, or,

[I] He was bred up an Attorney, but went over to Barbadoes, where he married . . . Horne, widow, and had by her Edward, Samuel, and James. After having had this eſtate about 8 or nine years, and laid out a great deal of money about the houſe, he returned to Barbadoes, where he dyed.

acres; both by knight's ſervice (y). [See above, under Codham-hall, p. 372.] His ſon —— Sir John de Coggeſhall held the ſame at the time of his deceaſe in 1361 (z). And ſo did his ſon — Sir Henry, till his death in 1375 (a).

We do not find after that for a while to whom it belonged, and therefore moſt probably it went as Nicholls, to Richard, and John, Gaynford [K]; the latter of whom ſold it to

Sir John Wentworth of Codham-hall, that paid ingreſs fine in 1537 (b); He held it of the Honor of Clare by the 40th part of a knight's-fee (c); and was ſucceeded therein, in 1567, by his daughter —— Anne Lady Maltravers; as ſhe was in 1580 by her couſin —— John Wentworth Eſq; of Goſfeild. He departing this life in 1588, had for ſucceſſor his ſon —— John Wentworth Eſq; (d) whoſe mother Dorothy being jointured in this maner took for her ſecond huſband Sir Edward Moore. They all three joined in conveying this eſtate, in 1599 (e), to Mark Mott, Gent. The Mott family was of long ſtanding here; for John Motte had lands in Shalford in 1375. Thomas Mott of Braintree, Gent where he was buried 5 March 1554, married Alice Mead, and had 2 ſons John and Mark. —— John, the eldeſt ſon had two wives. 1. Catharine Roke, married to him 18 Sept. 1557, and buried 5 March 1571. His 2d wife was Joan, Siſter to Sir Robert Gardiner Preſident of Ireland, temp. Elizab. By her, he had a daughter, Mary, baptized 13 July 1587, and married to . . . Clench, ſon of Judge Clench of Holbrook in Suffolk; her ſon was Capt. Robert Clench.— This John was buried 13 July 1595, and Joan 1ſt Auguſt 1602.—— Mark, ſecond ſon, and at length heir of Thomas, was baptized 25 April 1549; and purchaſed this eſtate as aboveſaid. By his wife, Frances . . . he had 6 ſons, and 3 daughters, viz. 1. John, who was of Shalford. 2. Adrian. 3. Mark, who dyed very young. 4. Another Mark, baptized 8 March 1581. 5. Joſeph, 17 March 1586. 6. and Edward, 24 June 1590; this laſt, by . . . his wife, had a daughter, Mary, married to . . . Digby. Of Joſeph I find no iſſue. The 3 daughters, were, Mary, that dyed young. Another Mary, bapt. 15 Febr. 1587, and buried 3 Nov. 1610; and Sarah married 21 July 1614 to Robert Taſborough. She appears to have been married, before or after, to Sir John Henley of Yorkſhire. Mark Mott Gent. their father was buried at Braintree 14 Dec. 1637, and his wife the 23d of Febr. 1615. Their eldeſt ſon —— John, of Shalford, married Alice Harrington, and had four ſons, and two daughters. 1. Thomas, who married Sarah Brand, but left no iſſue. 2. Mark, who had a ſon, John, that had two daughters, Alice and Mary. 3. John, and 4. James, of which we have no farther account. The two daughters, were, Alice, baptized at Shalford 3 March 1604, and Mary 6 Dec. 1610.

Adrian, the ſecond ſon of Mark, was baptized 29 March 1578. He had two wives, firſt, Jane Wade, by which he had . . . Adrian, of Wiſton in Suffolk; father of Mark, who alſo lived at Wiſton, and married Suſanna Marke, by whom he had four children. 1. Mark that lived in Ireland. 2. John, of London, who by his wife, Elizabeth . . . had three children, Milford, John, and Elizabeth. 3. Thomas. 4 Suſanna. The ſecond wife of Adrian, ſecond ſon of Mark as above, was Catharine Kempe, to whom he was married 1 Janu. 1604. By her, he had—Mark, that married Anne, daughter of Robert Dove, and had iſſue, . . . Mercy wife of Richard Smith; . . . Frances, wife of John Clopton, who had by her Anne; . . . Dorothy wife of Thomas Alby; . . . Mary wife of Tho. Kempe Rector of Foxearth: inſtituted to that Rectory 30 April 1656, and living in 1700. Adrian Mott of Braintree, buried there 29 March 1662. He was a chief inhabitant of, and a benefactor to, that Pariſh. As to Mark, the 4th ſon of Mark, firſt of the name mentioned above, he was baptized 8 March 1581, became D. D. and Rector of Raine in Eſſex. By his wife Mercy, daughter and heir of William Tichbourne of Hampſhire, Miniſter of Romford, he had 8 children. 1. Mercy, baptized 2 Nov. 1617. 2. Frances, 6 Dec. 1618. 3. Henry, baptized 12 March 1619, and buried at Braintree 19 June 1634. 4. Dorothy baptized 28 Janu. 1620. 5. Anne, 3 March 1621. 6. Mark, 30 Nov. 1624. 7. Mary, 3 Dec. 1626, and 8. Sarah, that lived but a very few days. Their mother was buried the 29th of Feb. 1627. Dr. Mott ſurvived her about 3 years, and was buried at Raine, by her ſide, 3 Janu. 1630. He dyed poſſeſſed of a houſe and lands in Great Hadham Hertfordſhire; and Rochford in Bocking, holden of Bocking hall: and of the maner of Great Birch in Eſſex, which laſt he left by will to his three youngeſt daughters, that were owners of it in 1635 and 1636 (f) —— Mark, ſecond ſon of Adrian Mott of Braintree, was born 23 Octob. 1602. He became Miniſter of Chelmsford (g), and was married 13 Septemb. 1630, to Elizabeth Dike: by whom he had the following children, Mark, Nathaniel; Elizabeth, bapt. 29 Febr. 1631, and Suſanna who was married to . . . . Maſcall, 20 Febr. 1660. Their father Mark Mott was buried at Raine 2 May 1667. His eldeſt ſon —— Mark Mott Gent. married Barbara daughter of Thomas Ady of Weathersfield M. D. where this Mark alſo lived, and was there buried 22 May 1694. By this wife, he had theſe ſeveral children . . . Mark; buried 21 Janu. 1691, unmarried. . . . . Ady Mott Eſq; dyed alſo unmarried, and was buried at Weathersfield 26 March 1711. He was a Juſtice of peace . . . Nathanael. . . . Thomas, unmarried. . . Barbara, married to William Ward LL. D. Official and Commiſſary of the dioceſe of York; Mercy; Dorothy; . . . and Anne. Barbara, wife of Dr. Ward, had two ſons, of whom the eldeſt was married to . . . . daughter

Of the ſame family is the learned John Thruſton M. D. of Weſton-market near Thetford, and Fellow of Cay's-college, Cambridge, who changed his name from Mott to Thruſton.

Shernehall belongs now to John Pyne Eſq; ſee above, p. 373, 374.

4. The maner of REDFANTS was formerly called Redfanne, as appears from the Dutchy-rolls about the year 1378.

We do not find to whom it belonged till about Qu. Elizabeth's reign, when it was part of the conſiderable eſtate of the Smyths of Creſſing-Temple. [See an account of them, p. 114] — Thomas Smyth Eſq; dyed poſſeſſed of it 10 March 1563, and of a tenement called Hunts, both holden in ſocage of the maner of Shalford. As did his ſon —— Clement, 16 Decemb. 1590 (h). And Henry, brother of Clement, 17 April 1612 (i). It deſcended afterwards to —— Sir John Nevill, alias Smyth, whoſe ſon —— Henry Nevill Eſq; ſold it to Sir Martin Lumley Knt. [See an account of him under Gr. Bardfield.] He dyed in poſſeſſion of it 3 July 1634 (u). And, of the aſſigns of his ſucceſſor Sir James Lumley Bart. it was purchaſed by the Governors of Guy's Hoſpital.

5. The maner of ABBOTS-HALL was ſo denominated from its belonging to the Abbey of St. Oſith; in which it continued till their diſſolution 28 July 1539. The manſion houſe is about a mile ſouth ſouth-eaſt from the Church.

Upon the ſurrender of the Abbey this eſtate coming to the Crown, K. Henry VIII. leaſed it to Sir Roger Wentworth at the rent of 6l. per ann. (l). And, 10 April 1540, granted all the meſſuages and lands in Shalford, appertaining to the ſaid monaſtery, to Thomas Lord Cromwell (m). He being attainted in June, and beheaded 28 July, 1540, all his eſtates reverted to the King: who made This part of the jointure or maintenance of his Queen, Anne of Cleve. After her deceaſe it came again to the Crown, and Qu. Elizabeth, 8 June 1588, granted it by the name of the maner of Shalford with its rights and appertenances, and the Advowſon of the Rectory and Church of Shalford to (n)

Richard Branthwayte, and Roger Bromley. And they, 3 July following, conveyed them to Thomas Tirell ſen. and Thomas Tirrell his ſon, paying yearly 6l. 0s. 6d. They were of Fulborn in Cambridgeſhire; and the ſon left three children, Thomas, Suſan, and Elizabeth. This laſt Thomas dying without iſſue, his ſiſters became his coheirs. . . Suſan was married 11 June 1639, to Michael Dalton of Fulborne Eſq; and Elizabeth to Benjamin Thornton Eſq; which Benjamin and Elizabeth, for the ſum of 500 l. conveyed by indenture, 23 Septemb. 1652, all their moiety of this maner, &c. to the ſaid

Michael Dalton Eſq; [L]. He had ſeven children, viz. Tirrell, born 31 March 1640; John, afterwards knighted; Elizabeth; Thomas, born 13 Nov. 1645, that had this eſtate, and dyed without iſſue; Dorothy; Mary; Samuel, born 23 March 1652, who ſucceeded his brother Thomas in this eſtate, but left no iſſue. —Tirrell, the eldeſt ſon, had 5 ſons, and 1 daughter, Thomas, who dyed young; Tirrell; Piercy; John; William: and Elizabeth. —— Tirrell had this eſtate bequeathed to him by the will of his uncle Samuel abovementioned, dated 2 July 1686 [M]. But he, and Dorothy his wife, ſold it, 18 Sept. 1711, to James Gray of the Middle Temple Eſq; who had two wives, 1. Margaret, daughter of Sir Edmund Bowyer of Camberwell in Surrey. 2. Mary, daughter of Peter, ſon of Sir John Marlay of Newcaſtle upon Tyne, Knt. His father was a deſcendent of a younger branch of the noble family of Gray of Groby, and gentleman uſher to the Lady Vere, Baroneſs of Tilbury.

It belongs now to Robert Vaiſie of Northumberland, Gent. and keeps both a Court-leet, and a Court-baron. The demeſnes are about 166 acres of arable, meadow, and paſture [N].

White-houſe, is an eſtate here belonging to John Yeldham, Eſq;

Wymers is an ancient capital meſſuage, ſo named from the Wymer family in K. Richard the ſecond's reign, that held it by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee (o).

Thomas Betts hath alſo ſome eſtate here.

The maner of Nicholls pays Twenty ſhillings yearly to the poor of Shalford, and 20s. more to the poor of Gr, Bardfield. Two ſums of 20s. each belong alſo to the Poor of Shalford.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1215l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Andrew, conſiſts of a body and two iſles, leaded; but the Chancel is tyled. The Tower contains 5 Bells.

This Church was at firſt a Rectory, and appendent to the maner of Shalford-hall till about the year 1174, when Hamo Fitz Geffrey gave it for the foundation of a Prebend in the Church of Wells [O]. Soon after which the great tithes were appropriated thereto, and a Vicarage here ordained, of which the Prebendary of Shalford hath continued patron ever ſince [P].

39. GOSFIELD.

The name of this pariſh is formed from the Saxon words ᵹoꞅ, a gooſe, or ᵹoꞃꞅꞇ, a heath, or juniper, and ꝼelð, a field: and is otherwiſe written in records, Gocefeild, Gorefeld, Gorsfeild, and Gosfend.

It is not mentioned in Domeſday-book: for it was then involved into the circumjacent and adjoyning lordſhips of Hedingham caſtle, Halſted, Bocking, Wethersfield, and Geſtingthorp. From them it was ſeparated, and made a diſtinct pariſh, about the reign of K. Henry II. as is evident not only from a charter of Alberic de Vere the ſecond Earl of Oxford [Q], but alſo from an ancient family ſurnamed de Gosfeld, which flouriſhed here about the reigns of K. Henry II. Richard I. and K. John.

The lands in this pariſh have been long divided into theſe ſeveral Maners. 1. The maner of Bellowes, otherwiſe Gosfeild-hall. 2. The maner of Gosfeild, or Monthermer. 3. The maner of Hodings, alias Church-hall. 4. . . . . that of Parke-hall. 5. . . . that of Liſton-hall. 6. . . . that of Shardlowes. 7. The maner of Morells. 8. . . . that of Aylewards. 9. The maner of Biggs.

They continued diſtinct for a while; —— became moſtly united under one poſſeſſor about the reign of K. Richard II. —— were divided in the laſt century; —— and have been for ſome years reunited again. I ſhall conſider them ſeverally till their union.

1. The maner of BELLOWES, or Gosfeild-hall.

The manſion-houſe ſtands a little way north from the Church, with a fine Park, and extenſive Fiſh-ponds, or rather a Lake. It received its name of Bellowes, or Belewes, from Sir John Bellowe, owner of it in the reigns of K. Edward I. and II. The name of Belhouſe has prevailed: but Belews and Belhouſe are promiſcuouſly uſed in the Rolls in K. Edward the third's reign [R].

For ſeveral ages after the Conqueſt, this lordſhip belonged to the noble family of Vere, and was part of the demeſne lands of the Honor of Hedingham-caſtle. . . . Adam de Gosfend held it under Aubrey de Vere, the firſt Earl of Oxford. And, ſoon after, . . . Ralph, ſon of Adam held here of the Honor of Hedingham-caſtle one knight's-fee and a quarter; which comprized all that belonged to the Earls of Oxford in this pariſh (q).——William Fitz-Adam, whom I take to have been Ralph's heir, held the ſame in K. Henry the Third's reign (r).

Sir John Bellowe, already mentioned, was poſſeſſed of it in the two next reigns.

In 1344, a court was kept here in the names of John Galaunt, and John Calth.' (s).

The ſame year, John Haukwode and Margery his wife, and John their ſon and heir, having ſued a fine, held their firſt court here. John Haukwode appears poſſeſſed of it till 1353; and 'tis remarkable, that in the court-rolls it is called Haukwod's Gosfeild, which ſhews that the name of Bellowes was not fix'd then, though it hath ſince prevailed.

It came ſoon after into the Rolfe family, as we ſhall ſhew preſently after taking a ſurvey of the other Maners.

2. The maner of Gosfeild, otherwiſe MONTHERMERS, and corruptly Mohermers, and Harmers, is ſituated on the confines of Bocking, the demeſne lands lying in the pariſhes of Gosfeild, Bocking, and Finchingfeild.

It took the name of Mont-hermer from Ralph de Monthermer, Eſquire to Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford who dyed in 1295, having had the honor of being married to Joan of Acres, ſecond daughter of K. Edward I. After his death, ſhe took this Ralph for her huſband, without the King her father's licenſe, for which fault he was impriſoned, and her lands ſeized. But moſt of them were ſoon after reſtored to her, and he releaſed; and for his good behaviour, eſpecially in the wars of Scotland, created Earl of Athol. During her life he bore the title of Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford; but, after her deceaſe in 1307 he had only the title of Baron Mont-hermer, and as ſuch was ſummoned to almoſt all the Parliaments of K. Edward II. (t). He had by her two ſons, Thomas, and Edward: the latter of whom dyed ſoon after his mother. Iſabel, widow of John de Haſtings, ſiſter and coheir to Audomar de Valence Earl of Penbroke, was our Ralph's ſecond wife. And he dying about the year 1325, or 1326, was ſucceeded by his ſon——Thomas, who was ſlain in a ſea fight in 1340, leaving Margaret, his only daughter and heir, wife of Sir John de Montacute, brother to William Earl of Saliſbury. He dyed 25 Febru. 1389, poſ-ſeſſed in her right of the maner of Hermere, in Eſſex, among other eſtates (u). Margaret his widow held this maner of Mohermers; one moiety, which lay in Gosfeild, of the Earl of Oxford by the ſervice of 13s. per ann. and the other moiety, that lay in Bocking and Finchingfeild, of the Prior of Chriſt's-Church in Canterbury. She dyed 24 March 1394, and was ſucceeded by her eldeſt ſon — Sir John de Montacute (w) [S]: who, upon the death of his uncle William, 3 June 1398, became Earl of Saliſbury. But he was killed in a popular tumult at Cirenceſter, 5 Janu. 1399, being poſſeſſed of this tenement called in the Inquiſition Gosfeld Moharmers, &c. (x). As he was one of K. Richard the Second's faſt friends; and, as they were all then called, evil counſellors; and had taken ſome meaſures to oppoſe K. Henry the Fourth's getting poſſeſſion of the Crown, he was by parliament declared a traytor, and all the lands and goods he had at the time of his death, were forfeited (y); This among the reſt. For, his ſon and heir — Thomas, who dyed 3 Novemb. 1428, doth not appear to have had this eſtate (z).

John Moubray, Duke of Norfolk, had it next, and dyed 19 Octob. 1432, poſſeſſed of one fee in Gosfeild and Bocking, which Ralph de Montehermer once held. —— John was his ſon and heir (a).

. . . Tywer, ſon of Philippa grandaughter of John Brokeman, held this maner of Gosfeild Mohermers, in 1466 (b).

It paſſed as the reſt to the heirs of Thomas Rolf Eſq;

3. The maner of HODINGS, alias Church-hall.

It is called Church-hall from its ſituation near the Church; and Hodings from the family of Hodenge, [mentioned above, p. 277.] that had conſiderable eſtates here, and at Wanſted, and Burnham. [See under thoſe pariſhes.] —— John de Hodenge held it, in 1246, of the Earl of Oxford; as did ſeveral of the ſame ſurname in the reign of K. Edward I. And —— Thomas de Hodenge, or Hoddyng, held it in 1326, and 1360, as a quarter of a knight's fee (c). After that in all probability the Hodenge family was extinct. For Thomas de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1371, is recorded to have had this quarter of a fee in Gosfeild, without any under-tenant (d).

The Rolf family, ſoon after, became poſſeſſed of this eſtate, as we ſhall ſhew preſently.

4. The maner of PARKE-HALL is very ancient, and ſo called from a Park belonging to it, named Winſhey, or Edwins-hey near Codham-feild. Some of the land extended into Geſtingthorp, and was parcel of the maner of Overhall there.

Otto Fitz-William held it in 1256, of the Earl of Glouceſter, by the name of two carucates in Geſtingthorp and Gosfend by the ſervice of one knight's-fee. And —— William Fitz-Otho held the ſame in 1260, by the name of two hamlets in Gosfend and Geſtingthorp (e). [ſee above, p. 305.] —— As did Thomas Fitz-Otto in 1274, when it is called a tenement in Gosfend belonging to the maner of Geſtingthorp, viz. 1 meſſuage with a garden, 157 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, and 1 park containing 80 acres. His ſon —— Otho dyed in 1282, and held it by the name of the maner of Gosfend, wholly belonging to the maner of Geſtingthorp (f).

Sir John Boutetort is the next owner upon record in 1338; when it is deſcribed, as 1 meſſuage, 55 acres of arable, 10 and a half of meadow, 200 of wood in the Park of Wyneſhey, holden of Sir John Lyſton, by the fourth part of a knight's-fee. And 25 acres of John Huntercombe, by the ſervice of 6s. 8d. per ann. And 20 acres of arable, and 4 of wood of Edward de Monthermer. And 30 acres in the Park of Gosfeild near Codham-feild, of the Earl of Glouceſter, by knight's ſervice, as parcel of the maner of Overhall. And 4 acres, and 2 acres, of John Edward; and Philip Oſtage (g). [ſee above, p. 332.]

John Haukwode held a court here in 1360; as did —— Nicolas Haukwode, chaplain, and others, in 1363; and —— Roger Keterich in 1376. The latter held this maner of Gosfeild, in 1392, of the Duke of Glouceſter (h). It was now ſeparated from Overhall.

Sir William Bourghchyer, John Tirrell, John Doreward junior, John Grene, Richard Fitz-Nicholes and others, kept court here in 1416; whether as truſtees, or otherwiſe, doth not appear.

John Doreward of Bocking Eſq; who dyed in 1420, held the maner of Parke-hall, of the Earl of March as of his Honor of Glouceſter, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee (i). His ſon —— John Doreward Eſq; held it alſo, at the time of his deceaſe in 1476, of Cecily Ducheſs of York (k).

5. The maner of LISTON-HALL took its name from the ancient knightly family of Liſton, ſufficiently mentioned under that pariſh, above, p. 320. Geffrey de Liſton, who dyed in 1266, held in Gorsfeild 1 meſſuage, 60 acres of arable, 40 of wood, 5 of meadow, and a windmill of the Earl of Oxford, by the fourth part of a knight's-fee. He held alſo lands here in fee farm of Mr. Richard de Gorsfeild, and of the fee of William de Hoding (l). In that family it continued till about the latter end of K. Edward the third's reign, when it appears in

Richard Lyons (m). [See above, p. 320.] Before his violent death, which happened in 1381, he enfeoffed. . . . Alice Lady de Neville, and others, in this maner; whereof 180 acres of arable, and 200 of wood, were holden of the Earl of Oxford, by the ſervice of 1 knight's-fee: 40 acres of arable, and 2 of meadow, of Robert de Swynborne, and his wife, by the payment of 5s. a year: and the remainder of John de Haukewood, and of the maner of Scotteneys in Toppeſfeild (n).

Thomas Hodinges had it next. And,

John Helyoun, who dyed in 1450, held this maner of the Earl of Oxford (o). It was ſome time after in the heirs of

Thomas Rolf Eſq; His daughter Editha having taken to her ſecond huſband

John Greene Eſq; had by him two daughters Mary wife of Sir Henry Tey; and Agnes of Sir William Finderne: [ſee p. 287.] and they jointly did homage for it, an° 1497, in right of their wives. ——Tho. Finderne Eſq; had it in 1524 (p).

Thomas Nevill held it of the Earl of Oxford in 1552. As did

Thomas Winterflood, yeoman, in 1558 (q); and Richard Winterflood, who dyed 8 May 1563, held this maner, or tenement, in Goſfeild and Sibill Henningham of the Earl of Oxford; leaving— Thomas his ſon and heir aged 5 years (r). But the Wentworth family appear to have had it afterwards.

6. The maner of SHARDLOWES came to be ſo called from the knightly family of Shardlowe, owners of it about the reign of K. Edward III. and mentioned above, p. 14. [T].

Thomas de Shardlowe held it in 1352, 1360, and 1371, of the Earls of Oxford; and 1 fee in Hedingham Sible (s). ——But the ſeat of the family was at Tilbury near Clare.

Richard Lyons was poſſeſſed of it with Liſton-hall.

John Doreward Eſq; who dyed in 1480, held this maner of Henry Earl of Eſſex, as of his maner of Stanſted-hall (t). And ſo did his father— John Doreward Eſq; as appears by his will, dated 25 Aug. 1456. [ſee under Bocking.] And—— John Doreward the younger, who dyed in 1495. (u).

Afterwards it was in the Wentworth family (w). Sir John Wentworth ſold it to

George Coo of Byham-hall [ſee above, p. 307.] who dyed poſſeſſed of it 23 Novemb. 1625. His ſon —— Iſaac Coo of Lincolns-inn, Eſq; having directed it by will to be ſold, it was purchaſed, 7 Febr. 1649, by John Greene Eſq; Recorder of London; whoſe executors, 9 Febru. 1668, did ſell it to

Andrew Harington of this pariſh, Gent. and he ſold it again, 24 April 1669, to William Lord Grey of Warke; from whom it paſſed as other eſtates here.

7. The maner of MORELLS took its name from a family ſurnamed Morell, ſome of whom were living in Hedingham-Sible as low as the reign of K. Henry VIII. (x).

The ſite of this maner is hardly known; but it lyes upon the borders of Wethersfield, and Sible Hedingham.

John Doreward Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe in 1420, held this eſtate of the Earl of Oxford, as of his maner of Preyers in S. Hedingham, by the ſervice of 6d. per ann. and ſuit of court (y). —— John Doreward Eſq; held the ſame in 1476 (z).

8. The maner of AYLEWARDS is dependent upon that of Bocking; and was ſo called from Richard Ayleward, who held it about the year 1416. It paſſed with the reſt to the Wentworth family, &c. (a).

9. The maner of BIGGS.

William Biggs, held this eſtate about the year 1534 (b), and from him it came to be ſo named: or elſe from the Bigge family ſeated at Redgewell, and Toppeſfeild.

Henry Parker held it of John Wentworth Eſq; in 1541, by the name of one meſſuage, one tenement, 80 acres of arable, and 16 acres of meadow, called Biggs, le Ferne, Morkenfeld, Newlond, little Farnefeld, Molecroft, and Shardlow meadow, in ſocage, by the rent of 13s. 7d. $\frac{1}{2}$. per ann. (c).

Matthew Alliſton had in 1592, by way of mortgage from Peter White, 90 acres of arable and paſture, 8 acr. of meadow, 25 of wood, and a hop-ground, parcel of a tenement called Biggs in Goſfeild.

It belongs now to James Sparrow Gent.

Having thus ſurveyed diſtinctly the capital Eſtates in this pariſh, whilſt they continued in different hands, I come now to conſider them as united in the families of Helion, Greene, Wentworth, &c.

Thomas Rolf Eſq; mentioned above, p. 287, [V], had two wives Margaret, and Anne: By the firſt he had a daughter Margaret; but who his wife Margaret was, and what became of his daughter Margaret, is unknown. . . .

Anne his ſecond wife moſt probably was deſcended from Sir John Hawkwood junior, as I have obſerved, p. 287. He had by her his only daughter, and at length ſole heir, Editha, who from Hawkwood inherited the maner of Bellowes. She was twice married; firſt to John Helyon, who in her right held in this pariſh, the maner of Belewes of Henry Felongeley and Cecily his wife as in her right, by the ſervice of the 8th part of a knight's-fee: and the maners of Hodynges, and Liſton-hall, of the Earl of Oxford. They had two daughters, Philippa, and Iſabell. He dyed in 1449 or 1450; and ſhe took to her ſecond huſband John Greene; a lawyer brought up under her father; third ſon of John Greene of Widdington in this county. They had three daughters, Elizabeth afterwards Abbeſs of Dartford; Margery; and Agnes. He dyed 1 May 1473 [W], and ſhe 1 June 1498 (d). [ſee above, p. 287.] The great eſtates of the ſeveral families of Rolf, Helion, and Greene were divided among Editha's children. Philippa her eldeſt daughter by J: Helion had no iſſue by her huſband Sir Tho. Montgomery, [ſee above, p. 116.] ſo that her inheritance came to her ſiſter Iſabell. As to J. Greene's three daughters, Elizabeth was an Abbeſs, as juſt now mentioned; Margery, was married to Sir Henry Tey, and had the ſhare mentioned above, p. 287. Agnes became the wife of Sir William Finderne, and had with her Liſton-hall, where they kept their firſt court in February 1503. But, upon the death of their grandſon Thomas Finderne, 10 March 1523, [X], it centered in the heir of the foreſaid Iſabell.

She was married to Humfrey Tyrell of Little Warley Eſq; third ſon of Sir John Tyrell of Herons in this county. [ſee above, p. 306.] They had an only daughter

Anne, who brought theſe and other great eſtates in marriage to her huſband, Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall in Wethersfeild. [ſee above, p. 371.]

Having often had occaſion to mention the Wentworth family [p. 235, 306, 333, 361, 371, &c.] I ſhall now take leave of them, by inſerting ſuch particulars relating to them, as I have not already had occaſion or opportunity to mention. — This family took their ſurname from the Lordſhip of Wentworth, in the wapentake of Strafford in Yorkſhire. Robert de Wentworth, living in the reigns of K. Henry III. and Edw. I. having married Emma daughter and heir of William Woodhouſe, of Woodhouſe, made that place his principal reſidence, which has ever ſince retained the name of Wentworth-Woodhouſe.— John Wentworth Eſq; ſeated at Elmſall in Yorkſhire, was progenitor of John of that place; who marrying Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Richard Beaumont of Whitby-hall in Yorkſhire, left three ſons, 1. John, anceſtor to thoſe of Elmſall and Kirby. 2. Richard, anceſtor to the Wentworths of Weſt Bretton, and 3. Roger. This laſt married Margery daughter and heir of Sir Philip Spencer of Nettleſted in Suffolk by Elizabeth his wife relict of William Scroop, Earl of Wiltſhire, and daughter and coheir of Sir Robert Tiptoft, in whoſe right he obtained conſiderable lordſhips in Suffolk, Eſſex, &c. She dyed 20 April 1475. By her he had two ſons, . . . Sir Philip Wentworth of Nettleſted [Y], and —— Henry, the firſt of this family that ſettled at Codham-hall in Eſſex. From this Henry ſprung the Wentworths of this pariſh, and of Bocking, &c. He had two wives, 1. Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Henry Howard, by whom he had his ſon Roger abovementioned. His 2d wife was Joanna, daughter of . . . Fitz-Simon (e). —— Roger Wentworth Eſq; the ſon and heir, afterwards knighted; in right of his wife Anne Tyrell, enjoyed in this pariſh the maners of Belhous, Hodings, Shardlowes, Parke-hall, Mohermers; and Liſton crofts, Baſtardby, Jordans, Brome, Burnhall, 19 acr. of wood in Hawkewood, and 2 acr. called Milliners and Monſtronys, lying in Goſfeild, Halſted, and Sibill Hedingham. She dyed 28 Auguſt 1534 (f), and He 9 Auguſt 1539, and are both interred under a ſumptuous monument in the chancel of this Church. They had ſeveral children, namely, John, Henry, &c. —— Sir John, the eldeſt ſon, born in 1494, inherited theſe eſtates, and dyed poſſeſſed of them 15 Septemb. 1567 [Z]. He married Anne, daughter of John Bettenham of Pluckley in Kent, Eſq; that dyed in November 1575. They are interred in this Church under a ſtately tomb. Their only daughter — Anne, Lady Maltravers, ſucceeded them. She was then a widow; having been married firſt to Sir Hugh Rich [ſecond ſon of Sir Richard Rich Lord Chancellor, and Baron Rich] that dyed 1 Nov. 1554. Her ſecond huſband Henry Fitz-Alan, Lord Maltravers, was alſo dead, departing this life at Bruſſels, in 1556, aged 19. William Deane Eſq; was her third huſband. [See above, p. 278.] She dyed 5 Decemb. 1580, and, according to her deſire, was buried in this Church within the tomb of her firſt huſband, having ordered 600 marks to be beſtowed at her funeral. Leaving no iſſue by any of her three huſbands, ſhe was ſucceeded in her great eſtates by her uncle Henry's ſon —— John Wentworth Eſq; then of Little Horkſley. He was born in 1540. Upon his obtaining theſe eſtates, he came and lived at [Y] Sir Philip Wentworth above-mentioned, by Mary daughter of John Lord Clifford had —— Sir Richard, concerning whom, ſee p. 361. He dyed 17 Octob. 1528, leaving his ſon —— Sir Thomas, born in 1500, who by his wife Margaret daughter of Sir Adrian Forteſcue had eight ſons, Thomas, Henry, Richard, Philip, John, Edward, James, and Roger; and nine daughters. He was ſummoned to parliament 2 December 1529. Lord Chamberlain of the Houſehold to K Edward VI. and dyed 3 March 1550-1. His ſon —— Thomas Wentworth, ſummoned to parliament in 1552; Governor of Calais; lord of the maners of Stepney and Hackney, and Little Fambridge, &c. dyed in 1590. By Anne his wife, daughter of Sir John Wentworth of Goſfeild, he had William, who dyed in his life-time without iſſue; and —— Henry, that departed this life in 1594, leaving by Anne his wife, daughter of Sir Owen Hopton, Knt. . . . Thomas, made Knight of the Bath 4 June 1610, and created, 5 Febr. 1625-6, Baron Wentworth of Nettleſted, and Earl of Cleveland. He married two wives, 1. Anne daughter of Sir John Crofts of Saxham in Suffolk, Knt. by whom he had, Thomas, and William; and two daughters, Mary and Anne. His ſecond wife was Catharine daughter of Sir John Wentworth of Goſfeild Bart. by whom he had one daughter named Catharine.

[Z] See above, p. 370, note [P]. Beſides the eſtates there ſet down, he had the maner of Little Horkſley. See p. 235. It appears by the Regiſter of this pariſh, that ſhe was buried 30 Novemb. 1575.

Gosfeild, being the firſt of the family that made it the place of his reſidence. He was knighted, and married two wives, but the ſurname only of the firſt is known. She was Elizabeth daughter of Chriſtopher St. Laurence Baron of Houth in Ireland. He dyed 13 April 1588 [A], and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— John, born in 1564, and that dyed 10 Febr. 1613, who by his wife Cecily, daughter of Edward Unton Eſq; had —— John Wentworth Eſq; [B] knighted in 1603, and created a Baronet 22 May 1611. Being extravagant, he waſted his eſtates; and, 17 May 1622, veſted the maners of Codham, Gosfeild-Belhouſe, Aylewards, Hodyngs, Withenfield, and Parke-hall [C], in truſtees; and a Recovery was paſſed in 1623, for the uſe of

Sir John Garrard Knt. and Bart. He kept them but about ſix years: for, 7 July 1629, he ſold them to

Hugh Hare, Lord Colerane. And He, 12 July 1634, ſold them again with the Rectory and advowſon of the Vicarage, to

Thomas Allen of Finchley in Middleſex Eſq; who, alienated them, 28 Febr. 1636-7, to Anne, late wife of Paul Viſcount Bayning, then re-married to Dudley Carleton Viſcount Dorcheſter. And ſhe, by deed, in Septemb. 1638, ſettled them in truſtees for her life, remainder to her youngeſt daughter Elizabeth Bayning.

This Elizabeth was married to Francis Lord Dacre of Hurſt-Monceaux, and had theſe eſtates as part of her portion; they being ſettled, 24 Janu. 1641, upon them both, and in her right, for the term of their lives; remainder to the heirs of the ſaid Lord Dacre.

But to return to Sir John Wentworth: He married Catharine daughter of Sir Moyle Finch of Kent, Knt. and Bart. and had by her a ſon that dyed young, and four daughters. The two eldeſt dyed unmarried. Catharine, the third, was married to Sir William Grey of Chillingham in Northumberland, created, 11 February 1623-4, Baron Grey of Werk. Lucy, the other daughter and coheir, was ſecond wife of Thomas Wentworth Earl of Cleveland, who had by her Catharine, married afterwards to William Spencer, of Cople in Bedfordſhire Eſq; Sir John Wentworth dyed in 1631, and his widow in 1639. Whereupon his two daughters and coheirs divided what remained unſold; namely Monthermers, Parke-hall, Aylewards, and Codham-hall.

Thomas Grey Eſq; ſon and heir apparent of William Lord Grey, bought, 16 Janu. 1653, of Francis Lord Dacre and Elizabeth his wife, the whole part they had of this eſtate: and dying in 1654, deviſed it by will to his father William Lord Grey, who, in April 1669, did purchaſe Shardlowes of Andrew Harington: And of William Spencer Eſq, and Catharine his wife, their reſpective ſhare of the premiſſes, being deſcribed 4 meſſuages, 400 acres of arable, 50 of meadow, 150 of paſture, 500 of wood. Thus the capital eſtates in this pariſh became re-united, in the noble family of Grey. William Lord Grey, departed this life 29 July 1674; having had by Anne his wife daughter of Sir John Wentworth 3 ſons; William; Thomas; both of whom dyed without iſſue; Ralph: and 2 daughters [D]. — Ralph the only ſurviving ſon and heir, married Catharine daughter and heir of Sir Edward Ford of Harting in Suſſex Knt. widow of Alexander, eldeſt ſon of John Lord Colepepyr, and had by her 3 ſons, Ford, Ralph, and Charles: and one daughter. Departing this life 15 June 1675, he was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon —— Ford Lord Grey, [E], created Viſcount Grey of Glendale, and Earl of Tankarville 11 June 1695. Before which time he and his two brothers joined in conveying by leaſe and releaſe, 8 and 9 March 1691, the maners of Bellowes, or Belhouſe, alias Gosfeild-hall; and Liſton-hall, to

Sir Thomas Millington Knt. M. D. Preſident of the College of Phyſicians, &c. He dying 5 Janu. 1703-4, in the 74th year of his age, was buried in Wentworth's Chapel in this Church: leaving his ſon and heir —— Thomas, and 2 daughters, Anne, and Mary. The ſon was Sheriff of this county in 1708, and elected in 1710 one of the burgeſſes in parliament for the borough of Great Bedwin. He dyed 17 July 1714, without iſſue, leaving by will his eſtates to his two ſiſters juſt now mentioned. They ſold them, 1 April 1715, to

John Knight Eſq; He was born at Weymouth, educated at Wadham College, and Gray's-inn; elected member of parliament for St. Germans in Cornwall in 1710, 1713, and 1714; and for Sudbury in 1727: Juſtice of the Peace; Deputy-Lieutenant for this county, &c. He married 1. Elizabeth daughter of . . . Slaughter of Cheney-Court in Herefordſhire Eſq; 2. Anne, daughter of James Craggs, Eſq; widow of Newſham Eſq; His only ſon John Knight Eſq; dying in June 1727, he bequeathed by will all his eſtates to his wife Anne, who became poſſeſſed of them upon his deceaſe 2 Octob. 1733. She was afterwards married again to

Robert Nugent Eſq; who is now joint Vice-Treaſurer of Ireland, one of his Majeſty's Privy Council, member of parliament for Briſtol, &c. the preſent poſſeſſor of this pariſh. For, Beſides Bellowes, and Liſton-hall, John Knight Eſq; purchaſed, 20 Decemb. 1716, the maners of Shardlowes, Harmers, Parke-hall, and Aylewards, of William Lord North and Grey, to whom they were come as mentioned in the note [D].

Biggs, belongs to James Sparrow Gent. as aboveſaid. And the following perſons have alſo ſome eſtates in this pariſh. John Reeve; Jonathan Straight; Daniel Aylett; John Goldſtone.

[A] He had the ſame eſtates as the Lady Maltravers, except thoſe in Norfolk; and in Suffolk only that of Wiſton. But he had 80 acres of wood, meadow, and paſture in Bocking. Inquiſ. 30 Elizab.

[B] He had another ſon, and four daughters. Arms of Wentworth. Sable, a chevron between 3 leopards faces, or.

[C] Deſcribed then as 10 meſſuages, 10 tofts, 1 water-mill, 2 dovehouſes, 10 gardens, 10 orchards, 200 acres of arable, 100 acres of meadow, 500 acres of paſture, 300 acr. of wood, 40s. rent, royalty of the fiſhery, free warren, and advowſon of the Vicarage. Fine Paſch. 21 Jac. I.

[D] The two daughters were, Elizabeth that dyed unmarried, and Catharine, married firſt to Sir Edward Moſeley Bart. and afterwards to Sir Charles North Knt. eldeſt ſon of Dudley Lord North. He was ſummoned to parliament, 27 Octob. 1673, by the title of Baron Grey of Rolleſton; and either had with his wife, the maners of Shardelowes, Harmers, Aylewards, and Parke hall; or they deſcended to his ſon William, upon the failure of the male line of Grey of Werk.

[E] For this Lord's connection with James Duke of Monmouth, and his Behaviour, ſee our Hiſtorians.

An ancient and conſiderable Family took their ſurname from this pariſh (g).

Edward Hunt of Writtle in this county, Gent. by his will, dated 23 Febr. 1605, gave, out of his tenement in Goſfeild called Hoblyns with Cocks, Ten ſhillings yearly for ever, to be paid to the Church-wardens of this pariſh on Good Friday; and to be by them diſtributed the ſame day to the poor houſeholders there, then being at Church, in the time of divine ſervice in the fore-noon, if any ſervice be then there; not minding to exclude or hinder of this gift ſuch poor and needy perſon or perſons, as in caſe of neceſſity by ſickneſs or other lawful impediment can't be there.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1279l. 3s. 9d.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Catharine. Adjoyning to the Chancel is a Chapel called Wentworth's Chapel, becauſe it was repaired by Sir John Wentworth in 1560, and made the burial place of his family. But it was built by Tho. Rolf Eſq; for the uſe of the Chantry he founded in this Church, as we ſhall ſhew preſently.

Goſfeild Church was part of the endowment of the Nunnery at Hedingham-caſtle founded by Alberic de Vere the firſt Earl of Oxford. [See above, p. 296.] To it the great Tithes were appropriated, and a Vicarage ordained and endowed, of which the Prioreſs and Convent had the advowſon till their ſuppreſſion. In 1535, or 1536, K. Henry VIII. granted this, among all the other revenues of that Nunnery to John de Vere Earl of Oxford. His deſcendent Edward Earl of Oxford moſt probably alienated it to Theophilus Adams; of whom William Lord Burleigh purchaſed it 15 April 1592 (h) . . . Roger Berwick dyed 15 Aug. 1616, poſſeſſed of the Rectory, and advowſon of the Vicarage of Goſfeild (i). They came afterwards by purchaſe to Hugh Lord Colerane, who had licenſe 1 July 1634, to alienate them to Thomas Allen Eſq; from whom they paſſed to William Lord Grey, Sir Thomas Millington, and the ſucceſſive owners of this fine eſtate.

The Vicarage was augmented in 1720 by John Knight Eſq; and Mrs. Anne and Mary Millington, jointly with Qu. Anne's Bounty.

A Chantry was founded in this Church by Thomas Rolf, Eſq; for a Prieſt to ſay divine ſervice, and help to ſerve the Cure. At the ſuppreſſion it was worth 6l. 13s. 4d. and in the certificate of Chantries it is ſaid, that this was ‘a great Town, having in it the number of 240 houſling people.’

40. BOCKING.

This fine and large Pariſh is not a Town, but one of the moſt conſiderable villages in this County, and part of it extends into what appears the heart of the town of Braintree. It hath been greatly enriched by the Bay-trade, carried on here with great ſpirit and ſucceſs by the families of Mayſent, Ruggles, Engliſh, &c.

The name of Bocking is form'd from the two Saxon words, Boc, a beech, and inᵹ, a paſture, qu. Beech paſture; or, according to ſome, becauſe this was Boc-land, or free-land, holden by deed, in oppoſition to Soc-land (k). In hiſtorians and records it is written theſe other various ways, Boccinge, Boccinges, Bochinges, Bockyng, and Boquhing.

In the time of K. Æthelred, who began his reign in 978, Æthelric and Leofwine, two noble Saxons, were poſſeſſed of this diſtrict, and gave it with other lands, in 1006, to the Priory of St. Saviour's in Canterbury; for the table, or maintenance of the Monks [F].

St. Saviour's was then the name of the Cathedral Church of Canterbury, as founded by Auſtin, and ſerved by Monks. After the burning of it by the Danes in 1011, and the rebuilding of it by Arp Lanfranc, it was dedicated to the Holy Trinity; and by that name is the entry made in Domeſday-book [G].

It continued in that Church till the general diſſolution of Religious Houſes, when it came to the Crown.

K. Henry VIII. granted, or rather alienated, it for the ſum of 875l. 11s. 3d. on the 20th of July 1540, to Roger Wentworth Gent. and Alice his Wife [H], and the heirs of the ſaid Roger: to be held in capite by the 20th part of a knight's fee, and rent of 4l. 17s. 4d. (l). This Roger was either the youngeſt ſon of Sir Thomas Wentworth, who dyed in 1551, or a ſon of Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall. [ſee above, p. 371.] He dyed 16 or 24 Febr. 1556, poſſeſſed of this eſtate then valued at 40l.——John his ſon, aged 22 years, ſucceeded him (m): and departing this life 1 Febr. 1602-3, had for ſucceſſor his ſon—

[H]] He had two wives, Mary, and this Alice; by which laſt he had two ſons, and one daughter. Epitaph in this Church.

Edward, 30 years old and upwards (n). He dyed 25 Novemb. 1616.——Roger his ſon was then aged 19 (o). The name of his firſt wife is unknown: but the ſecond was Elizabeth daughter of Sir Robert Barker of Grimſton-hall in Trimley St. Martin, in Suffolk. Soon after, this eſtate appears in the Barker family.

Sir Robert Barker, juſt now mentioned, created a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of K. James I. and poſſeſſed of eſtates in Eſſex and Suffolk to the amount of 3000 l. a year, had two wives, 1. Judith, daughter of George Stoddard of Mottingham in Kent, Eſq; 2. Suſan, daughter of Sir John Crofts of Saxham in Suffolk, Knt. By the firſt he had two ſons, and a daughter: and from John, the eldeſt ſon, is deſcended Sir John Barker Bart. near Ipſwich. By his 2d wife Sir Robert had Thomas, Edward, William, Henry, Edmund, Antony, and Robert, which three laſt dyed without iſſue. He had alſo by her five daughters, Dorothy; Elizabeth wife of Roger Wentworth; Suſan; Judith; and Frances. ——Sir Thomas, the eldeſt ſon by the ſecond wife, and who became poſſeſſed of this eſtate, was of Basford in Suffolk, and a Knight. He married Penelope daughter of Sir John Taſborough Knt. and had by her, William, Thomas, Francis, Robert, Charles, John: Lætitia, Mary, Suſan, Catharine, Elizabeth, Dorothy, and Mary, the other dying young.——William the eldeſt ſon, was created a Baronet, 29 March 1676, by the name of William Barker of Boking-hall Eſq; He married Elizabeth, the ſixteenth child of Jerom Alexander of Norfolk Gent. bred to the law, who afterwards ſold his eſtate, and went into Ireland, where he was knighted and made a Judge: by her he had an eſtate of about 1500l. a year. After having lived ſeveral years at Bocking-hall, and been a Juſtice of Peace for this county, he retired into Ireland, where he dyed; leaving three ſons, William; Jerom; and Robert, of Everley in Wiltſhire.——Sir William Barker Bart. his eldeſt ſon, was ſeated at Ringſale-hall in Suffolk: the ſeat of his ſon and ſucceſſor Sir William Barker Bart. [I].

Before Sir William retired into Ireland, he had, as far as we can find, mortgaged this eſtate to Priſca Coburne, widow, of Stratford-le-Bow, brewer. And the inheritance of the mortgaged premiſſes being decreed to her by the Court of Chancery, that charitable perſon, by her will, dated 6 May 1701, gave the maner and capital meſſuage of Bocking-hall, and all her eſtates there, except one, to the Corporation and Governors for the relief of poor Widows and Children of the Clergy of the Church of England: and for placing out ſuch children to ſome honeſt trades and employments. So as no one Clergyman's widow be allowed more than 5l. in any one year; or more than 10l. be allowed for the placing out of any child to ſuch trade or employment. Theſe eſtates were lett at that time for 341l. a year.

But one farm there, then in the occupation of Joſeph Eades, ſhe gave to the Miniſter of Bow (p).

From this noble Maner of Bocking hall ſprung up ſeveral ſubordinate ones; the moſt conſiderable of which is ſo named from its ancient owners the Dorewards; and otherwiſe corruptly called Durwards or Durants-hall. The manſion houſe ſtands pleaſantly on a riſing ground with a proſpect ſouthward, a little way ſouth-eaſt from the Church, near the road leading from High Garret to Braintree. It was partly new-built by Edward Thurſby, the owner, in 1579.

This maner was holden of that of Bocking-hall, by fealty, and ſeveral parcels of rent.

About the reigns of K. John and Henry III. it belonged to Robert de Bocking; whoſe ſon——Oſbert was father of——Richard de Bocking (q). The latter, in March 1316, granted and releaſed his right and claim to all the meſſuages, lands, fealties, ſervices, &c. which were his late father Oſbert's in Bocking, to

Ralph, ſon and heir of Roger Doreward of Bocking, and to his heirs; to hold them as fully and freely as he, the ſaid Richard, or any of his anceſtors uſed to enjoy them. And Gilbert Baylol of Bumpſted Steple, releaſed the premiſſes to Ralph Doreward, 29 Septemb. 1316 (r).

The Doreward family hath been already mentioned above, p. 148, 162, 192, 299. The firſt of the name I meet with is Alwine Durward, who lived in this pariſh about the reign of K. Henry III. and had two ſons, Roger, and Thomas.——Roger, the eldeſt, was father of—Ralph, the purchaſer of this eſtate; who had two wives, named Cecily, and Agnes. By the laſt he had no iſſue, and ſhe was remarried to . . . Morrell: but by the firſt he had William, and Roger.——William his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, married Joane, only daughter and heir of John Oliver of Stanway; [ſee above, p. 192.] Their ſon——John, had two wives. 1. Catharine . . . by which he had John, born in 1390; and three daughters, Joane, wife of Sir Richard Waldegrave; Eleonora, wife of John Knivet Eſq; and Elizabeth, of . . . Chamberleyn. By his ſecond wife, Iſabella daughter of John Baynard of Meſſing, he had no iſſue. Having greatly increaſed his patrimony [K] he dyed 12 November 1420, and he with his ſecond wife are buried in

He was a great lawyer, Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, 1 Henry V. and Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1425, and 1432. By his marriage with Blanch, eldeſt daughter of Sir William de Coggeſhall, he obtained a conſiderable addition to his eſtates. [ſee above, p. 162.] She dyed in 1460, and he 30 January 1462, or 1465, and both lye buried in this Church. They had four ſons, John, William, Richard, and Ralph; and a daughter, Elizabeth, to whom he gave 100l. for her portion. By his will, dated 25 Auguſt 1456, he gave to his eldeſt ſon John his maners of Dorewards, Harryes, and Bradfords, with the advowſon of two Chantries, and his Hoſpital, as below: The maners of Olivers, Bellhous, &c. in Staneway: And, after the deceaſe of his mother Blanch, the maners of Alresford, Coggeſhall-hall, Ewell-hall, Rawreth-hall, and Delamares; the maner of Shardelows in Goſfeild: and the moieties of his maners of Codham-hall, and Sharne-hall; with his place, or houſe, in St. Mary Staynings, London. To his ſecond ſon, William, he gave the maners of Great Geldham, and Barwick-hall in Toppeſfeild. To his third ſon, Richard, the maner of Leaden Rothing: This Richard was of Barking in this county. To his youngeſt ſon Ralph, who was a Clergyman, the advowſon of the Church of Tendring during life, and the maner of Sturmere, till he was poſſeſſed of ſome ſpiritual preferment worth 100l. per ann. and Borrels in Rawreth, during the life of his mother Blanch. —— John, the eldeſt ſon married Anne daughter and coheir of Tho. Urſwick Eſq; by whom he had —— John, who, at the time of his father's deceaſe in 1476, was aged 21 years (t). He dyed in 1480, holding, beſides the above-named eſtates, 103 acres called Goſys, Maſons, Petons, and Mottes in Bocking, Branktree, and Stiſted; the maner of Shardelowes in Goſfeild; and of Hakewell, with the advowſon of that Church (u). Whether he was ſingle or married appears not; however, leaving no iſſue he was ſucceeded by his uncle — William Doreward Eſq; who married Margery, eldeſt daughter and coheir of Sir Roger Arſick of South-Acre in Norfolk: [Joan the youngeſt daughter being married to his brother Richard, of Barking.] I cannot find when the ſaid William dyed. He left —— John, his ſon and heir; and Elizabeth, married to Thomas Fotheringhay of Woodriſing in Norfolk Eſq; The ſon lived at Spains-hall in Great Yeldham, and dying the laſt day of February 1495, left no iſſue by his wife, Margery daughter of John Nanton Eſq; whereupon the three daughters of his ſiſter Elizabeth Fotheringhay became his coheirs; namely, Margaret, wife of Nicolas Beaupre of Norfolk (w), Elena, wife of Henry Thurſbie Eſq; and Chriſtian, wife of John de Vere, afterwards the 14th Earl of Oxford. [ſee above, p. 162, 300.] The male line of the Doreward family thus ceaſing here [L], their large eſtate which conſiſted of above twenty lordſhips and capital eſtates in this County, beſides what they had elſewhere, was divided between the three Nieces juſt now mentioned. The maner of Dorewardes in Bocking, Shalfords, and Bradfords, came to the ſhare of Margaret Beaupre, who dyed poſſeſſed of it 10 Febru. 1513; as alſo of the maner of Rawreth, and of part of the eſtate at Alresford (x). But they ſoon came, we know not how, into the family of Elen, the ſecond daughter. For Thomas Thurſby Eſq; who dyed 10 April 1532, was found to hold the maner of Dorewards in Bocking, and the maners of Shalfords and Bradfords, 2 meſſuages, 2 water-mills, 1000 acres of arable, 200 acr. of meadow, 1000 of paſture, 70 acres of wood, and 10l. rent in Bocking, Steiſted, Branktree, Shaldeford, Goſfeild, and Wetherſfeild, of the Prior of Chriſt-Church in Canterbury; worth then 20l. per ann. He had alſo Alresford. [ſee there.] He was the eldeſt ſon of Henry Thurſby Eſq; by Elen Fotheringhay above-mentioned: Beſides him they had two other ſons, viz. Chriſtopher, and another Thomas that ſettled at Gainton in Norfolk. Elen was remarried, after H. Thurſby's deceaſe to Thomas Paleman Eſq; The ſaid Thomas, their eldeſt ſon, who dyed in 1532, was of South-acre in Norfolk, and by his wife . . . . Calybut of the ſame place, [remarried to . . . . Spilman] he had —— Thomas, then aged 11 years (y).

The Thurſby, or Thoreſby, family derive themſelves from Ankfrith, a Daniſh nobleman, who flouriſhed about the year 1014, in the time of King Sweyn, and had vaſt poſſeſſions in the north parts of this realm. They took their ſurname from Thurſby, a place in the North-riding of Yorkſhire. For a more particular account of them we beg leave to refer the Reader to Mr. R. Thoreſby's excellent Topography of Leedes; wherein is inſerted a long pedigree of the Family.

Edward Thurſby Eſq; was the firſt of this family that reſided at Doreward's-hall, and dyed poſſeſſed of it, with a Park, and ſeveral parcels of land [M], 11 Octob. 1602 (z). He married Mary, daughter of Philip Bedingfeild of Norfolk Eſq; She was buried in this Church 13 Nov. 1585, and had by him 3 ſons, Chriſtopher; John and Edward twins, born in July 1561, and 6 daughters [N] —— Chriſtopher, the eldeſt ſon, aged about 50 years at the time of his father's deceaſe, ſucceeded him. He married Audrie, daughter of Nicolas Timperley of Hintleſham in Suffolk Eſq; She was buried here 7 March 1626.

By her he had 4 ſons; William; Henry; John; Edward: and 3 daughters. Dying 23 Octob. 1628,—William, his eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded him in theſe eſtates. He married Elizabeth daughter of William Perte of Middleſex, by whom he had Chriſtopher; William; Edward; Tindal; John: Elizabeth, Anne, Penelope, Mary, and Sarah. ——Chriſtopher Thurſby Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, had four wives. 1. Jane, daughter of Thomas Smyth, alias Nevill of Holt in Leiceſterſhire Eſq; married to him in 1627. She dyed in 1631, and by her he had his only ſon and heir, Thomas. [See above, p. 114.] His ſecond wife was . . . Dove, of the ſaid County. But what further children he had, and the names of his two other wives, we cannot find [O]. About the year 1637, he alienated the ſeveral Maners of Dorewards, Bradfords, and Harryes to

John Le Motte Honywood of Markeſhall Eſq; and from him they deſcended to —Robert Honywood Eſq; and are now in his youngeſt ſon Lieutenant-general —— Philip Honywood Eſq; [ſee above, p. 169, 170.]

. United to Dorewards-hall are the two maners of Bradfords, and Harryes; the court being held at the ſame time for all three.

BRADFORDS.

The ſite of this is on the ſouth ſide of the river Blackwater, very near Braintree. Its name is derived from the ancient family of Bradford, that lived here in the reigns of K. John and K. Henry III. as appears from ancient deeds.

In 1420, John Fullere, citizen and baker of London, releaſed all his right in the lands, tenements, &c in Bocking and Braintree, which were late John de Bredefords, to John Doreward; who, among other eſtates, held this at the time of his deceaſe, it being then ſtiled a tenement with 100 acres of arable and meadow called Bredfords (a). —— John his ſon held it in 1476, as part of the maner of Dorewards (b). And ſo it hath continued ever ſince.

HARRYES.

The manſion houſe ſtands on the left hand, about a quarter of a mile off the great Bridge leading from Halſted to Braintree.

The name, ſometimes written Harriots in records, came from its ancient owner Henry de Bocking: Between whom, plaintiff, and William de Goldyngton, deforc.' a fine paſſed, in 1315, for this meſſuage, 1 carucate of land, 3 mills, 30 acres of meadow, 24 of wood, and 40 s. rent: which were then granted to the ſaid Henry for life; remainder to William de Goldyngton, and his heirs for ever.

In 1352, John de Goldington granted this maner with appertenances, formerly Herryes of Bocking, to

Alban Frere citizen of London; whoſe ſon and heir —— John Frere ſold them to John Doreward Eſq; from which time they became veſted in the Doreward family. And in the Inquiſition taken after the death of John, ſon of John Doreward, in 1476, this is deſcribed, to be 2 tenements, with a water-mill, and 200 acres of arable and meadow thereto belonging, one of which is called Harries in Bocking, and the other Renkyns in Bocking and Stiſted (c).

The maner of FRYERS, lieth in Bradford-ſtreet; one lane in which is called Fryers-lane. It hath a court baron, and divers quit-rents. The manſion-houſe is on the right-hand ſide of the road leading from this pariſh to Braintree.

From Alban Frere, mentioned juſt before, it is ſuppoſed to have received the name it ſtill bears. His ſon —— John Frere, or Fryer, married Elizabeth daughter and heir of Henry Powers of Witham [P]: [ſee above, p. 107.] and by her had an only daughter

Elizabeth, who brought this eſtate in marriage to William Brokeman Eſq; — John Brokeman Eſq; their ſon married Florence, daughter of — St. Leger. He dyed 22 Auguſt 1500, and ſhe 18 March following (d). Their ſon and heir, —— Thomas, had by . . . his wife, daughter of . . . Rocheſter, 2 ſons, John, and Emerias; and 4 daughters, Abigail, Anne, Agnes, and Frances. —— John, the eldeſt ſon was living in 1544 (e). [ſee above, p. 108.]

Jonas Windle, of this pariſh, clothier, who dyed 8 Decemb. 1625, held this eſtate, of the maner of Bocking-hall (f). —— Richard his ſon ſold it, 4 June 1632, to

Hercules Arthur: And he dying without iſſue left it to his brother and heir —— John Arthur of Clapham in Surrey, D. D. who married Anne, daughter of Miles Corbet Eſq; the regicide, and had by her John; Henry, killed in a duel; Anne, Elizabeth, and Dorothy. —— John the eldeſt ſon and heir, ſold this eſtate, 13 Febr. 1696, to John Mayſent of Bocking, Gent. He was the ſon of John Mayſent Gent. of Juſtices in Finchingfeild, by Judith daughter of Henry Pye and Margaret his wife ſiſter to Hercules Arthur Gent. He married Judith daughter of Joſeph Mayſent of Hatfeild-Peverell, Gent. which dyed 21 March 1705, and had by her 3 ſons that dyed young: and 6 daughters; of whom Suſanna was born 26 March 1691, and Judith 29 March 1696. Departing this life 7 Octob. 1723, he was buried in this Church-yard; near his wife, to whoſe memory and that of his children, he had erected a neat tomb. By his will dated 8 Aug. 1723, he left this eſtate to his younger brother —— Jeremiah. Suſanna, one of his daughters abovementioned, was married to the Rev. John Palmer of Coventry: and Judith, the other, to William Rayment, Gent. attorney at law, then of Braintree, and now of Black Notley. [See above, p.

The maner of FENNES

lies on the confines of Goſfeild pariſh; and the manſion-houſe ſtands on the right hand ſide of the road leading from that pariſh to Braintree. It takes its name from the ſituation of the houſe. A family of note, ſurnamed att Fenn, lived here in the reign of K. Edward III.

The 20th of June 1580, Robert Rampſton of Chingford, Gent. ſold this maner and eſtate to

Robert Dawes of Stiſted, Gent. who, 9 June 1582, ſold it again to

Martha, widow of Thomas Heigham of Denham in Suffolk Eſq; and ſhe, in October the year following, conveyed it to

William Bendlowes of Finchingfeild Eſq; Serjeant at law. He dyed 19 November 1584, holding this eſtate of the maner of Bocking, in free ſocage, and by rent of 20 s. per ann. (g) — William, his ſon and ſucceſſor dyed 18 Novemb. 1613. His ſon Andrew was dead before him, ſo that he was ſucceeded by his grandſon — Edward, then aged 11 years and upwards (h). He was of Brent-hall in Finchingfeild: And, on the 3d of March 1655, he and his coheirs joined in ſelling this eſtate to

Nathan Wright of London, Eſq; and paſſed a recovery in Eaſter-term 1657. [ſee above, p. 368.] His ſon—Sir Benjamin Wright of Cranham Bart. did convey the premiſies, 3 May 1662, to Jeremiah Reve of High-garret in this pariſh, Gent.—It now belongs to Mrs. Baynes.

As does Willoughbys to John-Thomas Baynes.

Edward Bendlowes Eſq; 30 June 1635, ſold a yearly rent of Twelve pounds for ever iſſuing out of this maner to Ellen Goulſton of London; which her ſon Theodore Goulſton M.D. gave by deed to the College of Phyſicians in London, moſt probably for the maintenance of the Anatomy Lecture founded by him there (i).

The maner of BOONES

ſo called from a family, that held it in ages paſt. It is holden of Bocking-hall in ſocage by fealty only. The manſion houſe ſtands about a mile and a half from the Church, by the road ſide, almoſt oppoſite to High-Garret.

Roger Wentworth Eſq; had licenſe, 22 June 1547, to alienate this eſtate to . . . . William Goodwin, alias Goding Eſq; by the name of lands, woods, and underwoods formerly Richard Boone's, in Bocking; one grove called Hedgeland; two others named Halywell-weld, and Boones-weld (k). He dyed 30 Novemb. 1554, poſſeſſed of this and ſeveral parcels of land here: [R] and of four marſhes in Mundon; one called Inmarſh of 55 acres; Outmarſh, 40 acres; Lynewood-marſh; and Cadnowes marſh, 30 acres.— Thomas, his ſon and heir then aged 8 years (l), ſold this eſtate afterwards to John Fitche Gent. who dyed 12 Octob. 1569, poſſeſſed of it; and his brother —— Oſwald, then aged 26 years, ſucceeded him. He came and reſided at Lyons in this pariſh, where he dyed 28 Janu. 1612, and lies buried in the Chancel. Beſides this, and Lyons of which we ſhall ſpeak preſently, he had a farm called Morrels in Bocking, which he ordered to be ſold for the payment of his debts. His brother ——Stephen, aged 60 years, had livery of this eſtate the 16th of Febru. following. It belongs now to Joſeph Reeve, Gent.

BOCKING PARK, and the Lodge farm, belong to the Earl of Eſſex.

LYONS is a capital meſſuage, lying above a mile eaſt ſouth-eaſt from the Church, and about a mile ſouth from Boones. It is ſo called from an ancient family ſurnamed Lyon, which flouriſhed here in the reigns of K. Edward II. and III.

Being holden of Bocking-hall, Roger Wentworth Eſq; by licenſe dated 5 May, and 27 Nov. 1548, ſold it to . . . William Goodwin Eſq; abovementioned, with a yearly rent of 5s. and ſervices iſſuing out of this meſſuage and lands; together with certain meadows and paſtures called Molphus Downe, Perkers Land, Chalcroft, and Oſterford Brome: and Ranoldeſweld, and Clarkſweld (m). This William, at the time of his deceaſe, as mentioned above, held this tenement called Lyons, and 20 acres of arable demiſed therewith; and 12 acres called Little Lyons; and ſome parcels of meadow called Cowleaze, &c. (n). His ſon —— Thomas ſold it, as well as Boones, to

John Fitche Eſq; who held all the premiſſes at the time of his deceaſe (o): and from him they paſſed to his brothers —— Oſwald —— and —— Stephen; and to Robert Hawkins Eſq; whoſe only daughter Frances brought it in marriage to Sir John Dawes Bart. and it now belongs to Lady Dawes.

HIGH-GARRET, a capital meſſuage by the weſt ſide of the great road leading to Goſfeild and Halſted, received that name undoubtedly from its form. The old houſe ſtood on the oppoſite ſide of the way, incloſed with deep moats, ſome parts of which are ſtill viſible. About the year 1428 it belonged to John Barret, from whom it took the name of Barrets; and ſometimes is called a Maner (p). In 1526 William Heggeman and Edmund Rede, releaſed it to John Clerke: and either he, or his ſon, of London, draper, had it in 1538. From him it came to Clement, and to Andrew, Clerke, of Bocking Gent. the latter of whom ſold it, 6 Febr. 1584, to John Reeve. It belongs now to Mr. Jonathan Reeve jun.

Bovington-hall, about a mile northweſt from the Church in the road to Wethersfield, was given by Richard Bovyton, in 1353, to the Prior and Convent of Chriſt-Church in Canterbury (q).

The following perſons have alſo ſome eſtates here. Jeremiah Brock, Gent. Samuel Ruggles, Eſq; Samuel Richardſon; William, and John Walford; William, and John Myhill; James Peers; Iſaac Medcalfe; Tho. Challis; George Candler; Stephen Reynolds; John Nottidge, John Tabor, &c.

Charitable Foundations and Gifts.

About the year 1438, John Doreward of this pariſh Eſq; founded an Hoſpital at the corner of Church-lane, upon two acres of his own ground; and named it Maiſon de Dieu: To be an habitation for Seven poor people, one whereof was to be called Prepoſitus ville de Bocking, and to have the government of the ſaid Houſe and Poor for ever. He procured a licenſe to endow it with the maner of Tendring, and with 10l. yearly rent out of ſeveral of his lands and tenements in Eſſex (r). This Houſe continues to this day an habitation for ſeven poor people.

An Almſhouſe for eight dwellers.

William Bendlowes Eſq; by deed, dated 4 July 1571, gave out of an eſtate in Gr. Bardfeild, to the town of Bocking for ever Three pounds of yearly rent to be diſtributed to the Alms-houſe people there, above the age of 40 years, not having any child or children with them: or otherwiſe to honeſt people married or unmarried, being no vagrants or idle perſons: and to be given them within 14 days after the receipt of it by the truſtees. If the Almſhouſes ſhould fall down, or be in decay, 20s. of the ſaid annuity to go yearly to the repair of them. . . He further gave a yearly rent of Two pounds thirteen ſhillings and four-pence for the uſe aforementioned, to be paid out of Rookwoods in this pariſh.

William Marten of Halſted, by deed 26 May 1573, gave a meſſuage with appertenances in Caſtle-Hedingham to the Poor of Bocking for ever, to raiſe the ſum of four pounds per ann. to be paid at Michaelmas and Lady-day, by equal portions in the Church-porch here, and to be diſpoſed of amongſt the poor of this pariſh.

Mrs. Joanna Smith of London, widow, bequeathed by her will, 1 April 1601, 400l. to be laid out in the purchaſe of lands of 40 marks yearly value; to be beſtowed and employed for the relief of the poor of Coggeſhall and Bocking. The twenty marks belonging to this pariſh are diſtributed to the Poor at five ſhillings in bread every Sunday; and the diſtributors have 6s. 8d. yearly for their pains. This annuity is paid out of the monaſtery of Launde in Leiceſterſhire, and managed by feoffees. . . . Out of this annuity was raiſed the ſum of one hundred and fifty pounds; which being joined to thirty pounds, bequeathed by Sir Stephen White, Knt. to the Poor of Bocking, 21 Janu 1680; the whole was laid out in the purchaſe of four cloſes of land near King's Corner in Bocking, for the yearly uſe of the poor. The yearly rents and profits of which are diſpoſed of by the Rector and Feoffees as they think fit, on a certain day and hour, in the Church of Bocking, upon Notice given on a Sunday between Michaelmas-day and Nov. 10.

John Stocker Jekyll Eſq; gave to the Poor of Bocking, forty pounds for ever. It was laid out with other monies for the purchaſe of the Work-houſe. But the profit of that ſum, being forty ſhillings per annum, is received of the Overſeers by the Miniſter and Church-wardens, and diſtributed by them.

Mr. Skinner by his will, dated 10 Janu. 1628, gave two crofts called Wentlands in Bocking, for the uſe of the Poor for ever. The rents and profits of them to be laid out in linnen and woollen upon the pooreſt and honeſteſt ſort of people upon St. Andrew's day.

Thomas Trotter of London, merchant, born at Braintree, by deed 20 Septemb. 1630, gave an Annuity of three pounds ſix ſhillings and eight pence out of a houſe in Braintree. The money to be paid yearly, and to be diſpoſed of to Thirty poor people of honeſt life, that are men of trade, viz. weavers, combers, and fullers, 14 days before or after St. Thomas's day.

Mr. Garrard did ſettle on truſtees one meſſuage, or tenement, and a field belonging to it of two acres, lying in Black Notley; yielding about three pounds per annum, to be paid at Michaelmas and Lady-day, to be given to the Poor according to the will of the donor.

George Elkin by his laſt will gave to this pariſh Fifty pounds, to purchaſe ſome meſſuage, lands, or tenement, that the yearly rents and profits ſhould remain to the uſe of the poor for ever: to be from time to time diſtributed by the Church-wardens to poor deſerving people as they ſhall think fit, upon All Saints day, which was his birth-day.

John Aylett of Bocking, did, by his will, dated 16 Auguſt 1707, give the reverſional moiety of a houſe and land in Bocking, of the yearly value of ſeven pounds, to the poor of Braintreee and of this town for ever.

John Mathum of Braintree, bricklayer, by his will, dated 14 Novemb. 1721, gave ſome meſſuages, or tenements, in Braintree, with the outhouſes, &c. to John and William Mayſent, Henry Ray, Matthew Jeep, truſtees, to pay the ſum of Twenty one pounds for ever to 20 poor people in Bocking taking no collection, to be diſtributed at the diſcretion of the ſaid truſtees and their ſurvivors for ever.

John Mayſent of this pariſh, Gent. by his will, dated 8 Auguſt 1723, gave an annuity of forty ſhillings per annum for ever, for the repairing of his tomb and vault, and the overplus to the Poor of this pariſh. He tyed the Queen's-head in Bocking for the payment of it. The Dean of Bocking and the Church-wardens for the time being, are perpetual feoffees.

Dr. John Gauden Rector of Bocking, and afterwards Biſhop of Worceſter, in the laſt century, gave the ſum of four hundred pounds; to purchaſe an endowment for a Charity-School. With ſome part of it was bought a tenement or meſſuage in Church-lane; for a School-maſter to dwell in, and teach School. The other part of the gift was employed in the purchaſe of a farm and lands in Much Lees, called Langlands. Sixteen pounds a year out of the profits of that eſtate was to be aſſigned to the School-maſter by the feoffees for his maintenance; and the remainder, if any, to be paid into the hands of the Dean of Bocking for the time being, as a ſtock for the neceſſary repairing or improving of the premiſſes. The School-maſter, and every Scholar, is to be nominated and elected, and alſo to be ſuſpended from the School, by the Dean of Bocking, Rector of Stiſted, and Vicar of Braintree, for the time being, or any two of them, whereof the Dean to be always one, who are overſeers of the ſchool. The ſchool is for teaching 30 poor Boys, born and living in this pariſh, to read and write; whereof each to be of the age of 7 years at the leaſt at the time of his admiſſion; to continue there for the ſpace of 3 years; and none to remain beyond the age of 12 years.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is ſpacious and handſom: both Church and Chancel having north and ſouth iſles. In the tower there are 6 Bells. 'Tis ſuppoſed to have been built about the reign of K. Edward III. [S].

This valuable Rectory hath been all along in the collation of the Archbiſhops of Canterbury. It hath a Glebe of 108 acres.

Bocking is the head of the Archbiſhop's Peculiars in Eſſex and Suffolk. Theſe Peculiars conſiſt of Seven Pariſhes; namely 4 in Eſſex, Bocking, Stiſted, Lachendon, and South-Church; together with their appendents, Little Coggeſhall; Runſell, a hamlet in Danbury; Callow-green, a hamlet in Purley; and Milton in Prittlewell. The 3 other Peculiars, in Suffolk, are Hadley, Monks Ileigh, and Molton. They are all exempt from the authority of the reſpective Dioceſans, and their ſubordinate officers, and ſubject only to the juriſdiction of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, or his Commiſſary, who is called Dean of Bocking.

There were formerly three Altars in this Church, namely, thoſe of St. Mary; St. Nicolas; and St. Catharine. And five Chantries; 1. One founded about the year 1253 by Robert, Archdeacon of Stafford, and Dean of Bocking: Endowed by him with a meſſuage and lands [T] valued at the ſuppreſſion 6l. 17s. 8d. and granted in 1549 to Edw. Bury (s). 2. Another founded in 1362 by William Doreward Eſq; and endowed with 2 meſſuages, 140 acres of arable, 8 of paſture, 4 of meadow, and 12d. rent, in this pariſh and Stiſted: valued at the ſuppreſſion 8l. 0s, 5d. granted to Antony Aucher and Henry Polſted (t). 3. One founded in 1396 by John Doreward Eſq; endowed with a houſe, and 7l. per annum rent iſſuing out of Bocking-hall. 4, and 5. Two leſs conſiderable, founded by William Clarion, and John Wanne.

In the Certificate of Chantry-lands, it is ſaid, that this was then a Market Town, and had in it to the number of 800 of howſeling people.

STISTED-HALL.

The Prior and Monks continued poſſeſſed of this maner till their diſſolution, 20 March, 1539. Then it coming to the Crown, K. Henry VIII. made it part of the endowment [W] of the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, 26 May 1542; it being valued at 18l. 16s. 2d. qa. They remained poſſeſſed of it but a little while: For, 23 Nov. 1545, they aſſigned it, with others, to the King, in diſcharge of 200l. a year which they were obliged to pay for the maintenance of Scholars at Oxford and Cambridge. And, in recompence, the King granted them the maner and parſonage of Godmerſham in Kent, then valued at 80l. 11s. 00. ½. (g). K. Henry having kept Stiſted maner but a few weeks, granted it 20 January 1545, to Sir Richard Rich; with thoſe of South Church, Middleton, and Lawling; in exchange for the maner of Little Badow, and advowſon of that Rectory and Vicarage (h). [See above, p. 21.] And Sir Richard obtained a licenſe, the 5th of March following, to alienate this maner of Stiſted to

Henry Pigott of Abbington in Cambridgeſhire Eſq; The latter, 16 January 1549, conveyed it to

Thomas Wiſeman, Gent. of North-end in Great Waltham. [ſee above, p. 88.] Upon purchaſing this eſtate, he came and reſided here. He had two wives. 1. . . . daughter of . . . Lindſell, and widow of . . . Sorrel of Gr. Waltham. 2. Dorothy, daughter of . . . Latten, of Gray's-inn, relict of . . . White: She was married to Tho. Wiſeman in 1557, and dyed 28 June 1589. By the firſt he had three ſons; John, who married a daughter of . . . Paſcall of Gr. Badow, but dyed without iſſue; William; Stephen, who dyed 1 April 1567, [leaving no iſſue by his wife, Mary, ſiſter of John Jenour Eſq; of Stonham Aſpall in Suffolk, one of the protonotaries of the King's-Bench (i)]: and two daughters; one married to . . . Gooche of Roxwell; the other to Richard Man of Braintree. By his ſecond wife he had Thomas, who dyed 15 July 1584, without iſſue; Dorothy, wife of . . . Mompeſſon; and Elizabeth, married to Clement Clarke; and afterwards to Richard Jennyngs. Their father, Thomas Wiſeman aboveſaid, departed this life 22 November 1579. All his ſons by his firſt wife being dead before him, he was ſucceeded in this and the chief of his other eſtates [X], by ——John eldeſt ſon of his ſecond ſon William (k). This William married Alice Bedell of Notley, and had by her John, born in 1556; William ſeated at Mucking-hall; Thomas who took to wife . . . daughter of . . . . Walle of Fering, and dyed in 1598: and Joanna. John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, married firſt Elizabeth, daughter of John Glaſcock of Roxwell, by whom he had an only daughter, Anne, wife of William Clopton of Liſton. This firſt wife dyed 10 Jan. 1584, and was buried in this Church, with an epitaph. His ſecond wife was Mary, daughter of Richard Everard of Gr. Waltham, Gent. and by her he had 5 ſons, Thomas; John; Richard; Theophilus; Joſeph; and 4 daughters, Elizabeth, wife of John Freſhwater of Heybridge, Gent. Clemence, wife of James Whetcomb of Writtle; Mary, wife of Robert Maydeſton of Boxſted; and Judith. He dyed 20 Decemb. 1615.——Thomas, his eldeſt ſon and heir, then aged 29 years (l), ſucceeded him in the maners of Stiſted and Milles: and had Burgeſwell in Chelmſford, and the reverſion of the maner of Barringtons in Chigwell; but not the eſtates in Gr. Badow, Hatfeild-Peverell, Oveſey, Tilbury, &c. mentioned in the note [X]. He married Catharine, one of the two daughters and coheirs of Dionyſius Palmer of Felſted, Gent. and had by her Thomas; Nathanael; John; Dionyſius; and Joſeph; which laſt four dyed without iſſue: and two daughters, Anne, and Mary. This Thomas, and his wife Catharine, having mortgaged this eſtate [Y] to Sir Thomas Wiſeman of Rivenhall; They, jointly with their ſon Thomas, conveyed it by deed, 20 June 1671, unto Edward Sabbs of London, Gent. in truſt for the uſe of Mary widow of Sir Thomas Wiſeman the younger of Rivenhall Knt. and her then huſband Thomas Turner. This lady Mary Wiſeman had three huſbands. 1. Sir Thomas Wiſeman the younger. 2. Sir Henry Appleton of Gr. Badow, Bart. 3. Thomas Turner, who lived at Stiſted-hall. She dyed 30 April 1685, and is buried in the chancel of this Church, with an epitaph. On the 7th of Auguſt 1685, Edward Sabbs conveyed all his right in this eſtate to the ſaid . . . . Thomas Turner, Eſq; who, in October following, ſold it to

William Lingwood of Braintree Eſq: The firſt of this family, whoſe name hath occurr'd to us, was John Lingwood, deſcended from the Lingwoods of Herefordſhire and Glouceſterſhire. He ſettled in Qu. Elizabeth's reign, at Braintree, where he was buried 11 April 1571. He had 3 ſons, Geffrey, Thomas, and John: and 2 daughters, Jane, and Sarah. ——Geffrey Lingwood, the eldeſt ſon, was one of the chief inhabitants of Braintree. By his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of John Sibthorp of Gr. Bardfeild, he had, William, Elizabeth, Mary, Geffrey, John, Mary, Martha, and Sarah. —— William Lingwood of Braintree, Gent. was an Attorney of Bernard's-inn, and appointed by K. Charles I. 23 Novemb. 1629, Eſcheator general for this county [Z]. He had two wives. 1. Mary daughter of Thomas Wilſon of Jenkins in this pariſh. 2. Bridget, widow of Thomas Wynne of Enfield in Middleſex Eſq; who ſurvived him. By this laſt he had no iſſue: but by the firſt he had, William; Thomas, Mary, both which dyed young; another Mary; and John. He was buried at Braintree 13 Aug. 1665. ——William, his eldeſt ſon and heir, the purchaſer of Stiſted-hall, was baptized at Braintree 6 Janu. 1614; and bred to the law in Gray's-inn: many years in the commiſſion of the Peace for this county. He was thrice married, 1. on the 9th of April 1655, to Bridget daughter of Tho. Wynne abovementioned: She was buried at Braintree 20 July 1668. By her he had an only daughter, Bridget, buried 14 Febr. 1673. His 2d wife was Cecily, daughter of Paul Buckingham of Suffolk Eſq; who was interred 18 Decemb. 1681. His 3d wife was Elizabeth, ſecond daughter of John Jones of Chiſwick in Middleſex, Eſq; He departed this life Febru. 19, 1699—1700, in the 86th year of his age; and having no iſſue, left this eſtate to his ſaid wife

Elizabeth. She dyed 19 Auguſt 1719, aged 79, and both lye buried in the Chancel of this Church, with an epitaph [A] She bequeathed this eſtate by will to John Saville Eſq; counſellor at law. He dyed in February 1734-5, unmarried; whereupon this eſtate deſcended to his next brother —— Samuel Saville of Colcheſter Eſq; choſen one of the repreſentatives in parliament for that Burgh in 1741. He married Sarah, ſecond daughter of Edward Huſbands of Little Horkſley Eſq; She dyed 12 Janu. 1762, and He himſelf 2 April 1763, and both were buried in this Church. They left two daughters coheirs, Anne, who had for her part Stiſted-hall, and the other eſtates in this pariſh. She was married in 1763, to the Rev. Charles Onley. Sarah, the other daughter, had the maner of Great Fordham, and eſtates elſewhere. [ſee above, p. 228 [B].

Beſides Stiſted-hall, there are in this pariſh the Maners of Milles; Jenkins; and Raynhatch, alias Boltwoods.

The maner of Milles hath only a court baron; and about five tenents. The manſion houſe ſtands by the right hand ſide of the road leading from Stiſted Church to Blackwater, near the bridge.

This maner was anciently part of the lordſhip of Stanſted-hall in Halſted, which then extended into Stiſted and Pateſwick; and paid to it a relief of 11s. 6d. It was ſo named from John Mille, who had it about the reign of K. Henry V. or VI. As had John Andrew in 1456 (m).

On the 6th of April 1510, K. Henry VIII. granted a ſpecial livery of this maner of Milles, among others, to John Baſſett of Bradwell-hall (n).

Griſild, one of the daughters and coheirs of Ralph Writtel Eſq; was poſſeſſed of it ſome time after (o). She was married, firſt, to John Rocheſter; then to Tho. Weſt; and laſtly to Edward Waldgrave, Eſquires. By her firſt huſband ſhe had, Robert; John; and William.—Robert Rocheſter, the eldeſt ſon, was knighted, and made Controller of the houſhold to Qu. Mary I. He held this maner of Milles of the Queen, in capite, by knight's ſervice; and lands called Harvies, in Stiſted, of Tho. Wiſeman, Gent. as of his maner of Stiſted-hall by the rent of 19s. 6d. per ann. Departing this life 28 Novemb. 1557, without iſſue, he was ſucceeded by his youngeſt brother ——William, then aged 61 years (p). He dyed 2 September or 31 Auguſt, 1558, leaving by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of Thomas Newton——John, his ſon and heir, 38 years old (q). [ſee above, p. 127.] The latter ſold this eſtate to

Thomas Wiſeman Eſq; who dyed poſſeſſed of it 22 Novemb. 1579 (r); as did his grandſon — John Wiſeman Eſq; 20 Decemb. 1615 (s). —— Thomas, ſon of this latter inherited it, but moſt probably mortgaged it with Stiſted-hall. It was lately in [Z] He was one of thoſe who received a compelling Letter from the then uſurping Powers, to advance Money for paying the Scottiſh forces; the original of which was found among his Papers, and begins as follows.

"To Mr. Lingwood off Braintree. April 22th 1644. Whereas the ſumme of two hundred thouſand pound is to be paid to our Brethren of Scotland, for their aſſiſtance in this Warre, for the ſpeedy raiſing whereof, ſome courſe by Ordinance of both Houſes is already taken, for the forcing of thoſe to lend thereunto, who ſhall not doe it willingly, and further courſe will bee taken therein. And whereas we are informed that you are able to lend towards this ſervice the ſumme of Ten pounds. And whereas thoſe who ſhall willingly lend are firſt to be paid, theſe are to deſire you to manifeſt your good affection to the buſineſſe, as that which will be moſt for your advantage, being loath to execute the ſaid Ordinance upon any without an abſolute neceſſity: Wee deſire your anſwer by this bearer, and that the ſaid ſumme of Ten pounds may be paid within eight days after your receipt of this preſent unto Mr. Robt. Aylett, at his houſe in Braintree, &c."

It was accordingly paid 24 Apr. 1644, to John Wade of Little Waltham, glover.

married in 1747, this eſtate came to his eldeſt ſiſter's huſband

Windſor Sandys Eſq; who was married to her 9 Novemb. 1724, and ſerved the office of high ſheriff for the county of Glouceſter in 1725.

The maner of IENKINS.

The manſion ſtands about a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church, on the ſouth ſide of the river Pant. A conſiderable part of the demeſne lands belonging thereto are in the pariſh of Bocking.

It is called Jenkins, from an ancient owner, one John [nicknamed Janekin], de Bocking. By a yet greater corruption of names, it is ſometimes ſtyled Renkyns de Bocking (t).

This maner is derived from the maners of Stiſted and Bocking-hall, and holds of the latter by fealty, ſuit of court, and a yearly rent of 28s. 6d. It very anciently belonged to a family ſurnamed de Bocking, which flouriſhed there till about the end of K. Edward the third's reign, when John de Bocking dying without iſſue, it came among his female heirs. This eſtate was then deſcribed as a capital meſſuage, and a carucate of land, containing 160 acres of arable, 26 of meadow, 40 of paſture, 10 of wood, and 60s. yearly rent in Stiſted, Bocking, and Gr. Reynes. One of his couſins and heirs named Joane . . . in 1371, brought a writ [C] and recovered a fourth part of John de Bocking's lands againſt Clement Spice, and Richard Withermerſh, two other of John de Bocking's heirs. But by deed, dated 12 Octob. the ſame year, ſhe ſold her ſhare to the ſaid Clement Spice, who in right of Alice his wife, daughter and heir of Reginald de Bocking couſin to the above-mentioned John de Bocking, was intitled to a fourth part. And in 1373 Clement purchaſed another fourth part of Robert de Nailingherſt Rector of Stiſted, and John de Sudbury, feoffees for John Litle and Alban Frere. In 1375, he bought the remaining part of Richard Withermerſh [D], and ſo became poſſeſſed of the whole. This Clement Spice was ſon of Robert Spice of Bocking. [For an account of the reſt of the Spice family, ſee above, p. 75, 116, 123. and under Stapleford Tany.] He did not long keep this eſtate: For, in 1397 he ſold it to

Robert Sewalle of Coggeſhall Gent. who had bought of him, in 1372, the water-mill in Stiſted: which mill he demiſed, in 1404, to

Stephen Fabian; and ſoon after he ſold to the ſaid Stephen the maner of Jenkins: releaſing to him, in 1426, his right and claim to all the lands and tenements, rents and ſervices, that were ſometimes John de Bocking's. This Stephen Fabian was a cordwainer at Coggeſhall, but undoubtedly a man of ſubſtance. However, his poſterity became conſiderable, and flouriſhed here in plentiful circumſtances. —— John was ſon of Stephen, and ſucceeded by his ſon —— John Fabian Gent. whoſe ſon —— Edward Fabian Eſq; dyed 4 February 1561, poſſeſſed of this maner or meſſuage, and 20 acres of arable, 100 of meadow, 40 of paſture, 20 of wood called Jenkins in the pariſh of Bocking; and lands and tenements called Kentiſhe, parcel of Jenkins, holden of the maner of Bocking. [ſee above, p. 173.] —— William his ſon ſucceeded him (u). But in 1569 he ſold this maner by the name of Jenkins, alias Bockings, with a tenement called Hatches, and other copyhold lands called Matenſall in Braintree, and the water-mill in Stiſted, to

Thomas Wilſon of Bethnall-green, an eminent brewer at the Red-Lion in the pariſh of St. Botolph's Algate, London. He gave it, with other eſtates he had purchaſed in this county, to his eldeſt ſon —— Thomas, who came and reſided here [E]. He married, 12 June 1571, Suſan daughter and heir of Philip Jocelyne of Braintree, by whom he had, Thomas; John; Philip; Chriſtopher; John: and ſeven daughters, whereof Jane was married to Tho. Trotter; Mary, to William Lingwood, as abovesaid; Winifred to . . . Brock; Dorothy, to Antony Filol of Old-hall in Raine; Elizabeth to John Spooner. The time of their father's death is not recorded, but it was before 1615 (w). His widow was buried at Braintree 1 June 1616. — Thomas, their eldeſt ſon and heir, baptized 10 October 1577, ſucceeded to this and other eſtates. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew Clerke of Braintree, Gent. by Mary his wife daughter of Robert Bonham and Dorothy daughter and heir of Gregory Baſſett of Bradwell near Coggeſhall Eſq; and had by her 5 ſons and 5 daughters. He dyed 21 Octob. 1627, poſſeſſed of the maner or capital meſſuage of Jenkins; and of a meſſuage called Hatches, otherwiſe Kentiſhes, holden of the maner of Layer de la Hay; with 16 acres, and 12 acres, parcel of the ſame, holden of the maners of Bocking and Stiſted, &c. (x). By his will, dated 16 Octob. 1627, he bequeathed to his three daughters then living, lands of a good value. John his eldeſt ſon, then 20 years old, he diſinherited, for his diſobedience to his mother and himſelf, aſſigning him only an annuity of 20l. for his life.—Thomas his 2d ſon he conſtituted his heir. He was baptized at Goſfeild 8 Decemb. 1608; and dyed at Jenkins 5 Octob. 1676; having had two wives. 1. Jane daughter of Arthur Johnſon of Bocking. 2. Jane, daughter of James Chaplyn of Corniſhhall in Finchingfeild. By this laſt he had no iſſue, but by the firſt he had William; Thomas: Jane, wife of Robert Grinder, M. D. and Helena, wife of William Mayhew. She dyed 13 Febr. 1696, and her huſband Mayhew in March 1714.—— William, the eldeſt ſon dyed in his father's life-time. He had married Mary, daughter of John Draper of Felſted Gent. remarried afterwards to . . . Baſey of Goſfeild, where ſhe was buried 10 May 1690. By her he had, Thomas, baptized 27 July 1660; and William, of Goſfeild. ——Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, of Jenkins, married

[D] This Richard Withermerſh was of an ancient knightly family in Stoke by Neyland, where he had a conſiderable eſtate.

[E] He had two other ſons: To the ſecond he gave 100l. a year at Bethnall-green, and places adjacent in Stepney: and to Richard the 3d ſon, whom he had by a ſecond wife, he left 100l. a year in White-Chapel, and about Charing-Croſs.

Elizabeth, daughter of . . . . Byatt of Felſted, Gent. and had by her Thomas, William, Philip, Charles. He departed this life 25 Septemb. 1716, without iſſue ſurviving [F]; whereupon this eſtate came to William Baſey.

The maner of RAYN-HATCH, and BOLTWOODS.

The manſion houſe of Rayn-hatch is about a mile and a half north-eaſt from the Church, towards Halſted. A Hatch, or Gate, there, at the extremity of the pariſh of Braintree, anciently called Rayne, undoubtedly occaſioned the name. For ſome of the lands are within the pariſh of Braintree, and rated there at about 12 or 15l. a year, though Bocking intervenes. The lands of theſe two farms lye in Stiſted, Braintree, and Bocking.

As for Boltwoods, Bolthoods, or Boltheds, it is ſo called from ancient owners, who were poſſeſſed of it about the reign of K. Henry IV. and ſome of whoſe deſcendents were in theſe parts till after the reign of K. Henry VIII.

Theſe two tenements, with the maner, were holden of old by the conſiderable family of Naylinghurſt, mentioned partly above, p. 19. and again under Braintree, and Felſted. —— Thomas Naylinghurſt, who dyed in 1409, held two tenements called Reynehous, and Stiſteds, in this pariſh, of the Prior of Canterbury. —— Hugh his ſon ſucceeded him (y): and —— Ralph Naylinghurſt, in K. Edward the Sixth's reign, held this eſtate of the maner of Boons.

Edward Jackman, who dyed 23 Septemb. 1569, held the maner of Raynehatch, with appertenances, lying in Bocking, Braintree, Styſtede, Goſfeild, and Halſted: and 60 acres called Frythes in Styſtede, of the maner of Dorwards-hall in Bocking. —— John, his ſon and next heir, was then aged 18 years (z).

This maner of Rayn-hatch and Boltwoods appears afterwards in the Wiſeman family, and by Anne, ſole daughter and heir of William Wiſeman of this pariſh Eſq; was brought into the Clopton-family; and given by Dr. Clopton to the town of St. Edmund's-bury for charitable uſes. [ſee above, p. 321, 327.]

The Farm called Boltwoods belonged formerly to the Naylinghurſt family, as well as Rayn-hatch. From them it came to the Davenants of Sible Hedingham; namely, to . . . Edward; and then to . . . Robert Davenant, whoſe widow Joane became wife of John Peppes Eſq; living in the reign of K. Edward VI. It was then called the Maner or meſſuage of Bolteheds holden of the maner of Boones.

We find it next in William Aylett, Gent. who dyed poſſeſſed of it 31 March 1583, by the name of one meſſuage with appertenances in Sticſted and Halſted, called Boultwoods alias Raynehatch, whereof the chief part was holden of the maner of Boones in free ſocage, and by the rent of 7s. 4d. per ann. another part held of the maner of Piggotts in Pateſwick, in free ſocage, and of 22d. rent. The remainder was holden of the maner of Rayne-hatch in free ſocage, by rent of 5d. per ann. (a). He had alſo eſtates in ſeveral other places [G]. —Richard, his ſon and heir, was then aged 40 years (b).

The Aylet family ſprung from Boydin Aylet, who had 4 pounds worth of lands in Bradewell, in K. Henry the Second's reign (c). They grew ſo conſiderable, that Richard Eylotte was returned among the chief Gentlemen of this county in 1433 (d). Some of them ſettled at Rivenhall, then at Hovells in Coggeſhall, from whence came the Ayletts of Braintree, Stiſted, and Brackſted.

Robert Aylett, third ſon of William abovementioned, married . . . . daughter of . . . . Thorowgood by whom he had Thomas, of Hovells; Robert; Jeremiah; and Dorothy. He dyed 26 Sept. 1603 (e). —— Robert Aylett, his ſecond ſon, ſettled at Boltwoods, and married Elizabeth daughter of . . . Burroughs of Boxford in Suffolk, by whom he had Robert, William, Richard, and Edward (f). —— Robert, the eldeſt ſon and heir, born in 1615, married Mary Hawes of Stiſted, 10 July 1665, and had an only ſon and heir —— Robert, baptized 16 July 1666. He took to wife Sarah daughter of Benjamin Loudham of Goſfeild, and had by her, Robert; Sarah; and Mary that dyed young. This Robert was a clothier at Gr. Yeldham, and departing this life 27 Decemb. 1715, aged 29 years, was buried in this Church, with an epitaph [H]. His widow was married again to Richard Reeve, Gent.

For a further account of the Aylett family, ſee above, p. 148, 161. and under Eythorp and White Roding . . . . Of this family was R. Aylet, LL. D. and Maſter in Chancery, who publiſhed a collection of Poems in 1624, reprinted in 1653, 1654. 8vo. He lies buried at Gr. Brackſted.

KENTISHES, is a capital meſſuage here, very pleaſantly ſituated. It belonged in K. Edward the Third's reign to a family ſurnamed Polley. Then to perſons of conſiderable note, in the reigns of K. Henry IV. V. and VI. ſurnamed Kentiſh, from which it took its name.

William Wrothe Eſq; who dyed 25 Decemb. 1614; held this meſſuage called Kentiſhes, with Jackman Gent. as of his maner of Raynhatch, in free ſocage: And ſome other parcels of land in Bocking, of Edw. Wentworth, Eſq; as of his maner of Bocking, in free ſocage, and fealty (g).

It was next in the Boltwoods. John Boultwood, by his will dated 14 Auguſt 1615, gave this tenement called Polleys to his ſon and heir Joſias.

Sir Garrard Sammes, the next poſſeſſor, 13 March 1629, gave this eſtate to his daughter Iſabell: who 13 April 1631, ſold it to

Robert Plumme: and he 5 July the ſame year, alienated it by the name of Polloy, alias Kentiſhes, to . . . . John Alſton, Gent. of Hawkiſhalls in Topeſfeild. The latter gave it by will to his ſon Leſtrange Alſton; and Leſtrange bequeathed it, 20 April 1678, to John Alſton, his nephew; and after him to another nephew named Leſtrange. This laſt gave it by will, 22 April 1689, to his ſiſter Elizabeth, that was married to . . . William Jegon, Gent. and her heirs for ever. From them it paſſed to their ſon . . . . Charles Jegon, Gent. who dying in January 1761, his heirs ſold it in March 1762 to . . . Samuel Saville, Eſq; of Stiſted-hall: And it is now in his eldeſt daughter. [See under Stiſted-hall.]

Andrew Fuller; Jonathan Peacock; Nath. Sommers; Daniel Wood; Abr. Smith; John Coe; Samuel Walker; Joſeph Brackley, &c. have alſo ſome eſtates here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1060l. 2s. 2d.

The Church conſiſts of a middle pace, and a north and ſouth iſle, all covered with lead. The Chancel, with a veſtry on the north ſide, are tyled. The pillars are of the Tuſcan order. On the South ſide of the Church, and partly of the Chancel, ſtands the Tower, containing 5 Bells, above which is a ſpire, ſhingled. Foundations have been dug up near the Chancel, which is a ſign that it was formerly larger than it is now.

We find mention of a Gild of St. Mary in this Church (h), which makes it probable, that it was dedicated to St. Mary. There were in it two Obits; no other foundations, or charities.

This valuable Rectory is in the gift of the Archbiſhops of Canterbury; being one of their Peculiars. It hath a Glebe of about 133 acres.

The Parſonage-houſe was new-built in 1712, by Peter Wagoner, the then Rector.

42. BRAINTREE.

This Town ſtands in a good countrey, tolerably high, at the diſtance of 42 miles from London, in the road from thence to Halſted, Hedingham-Caſtle, Sudbury, &c.

Its name is variouſly written in antient records, as Blanketre, Branchetreu, Branctoe, Brantree, Braintree, Branketre, Branktre, Bromptre, Raines, Raine-Magna, and Hamlettum de Magna Raines.

Raines and Branchetreu are the names it had at the time of the grand ſurvey, the one of Saxon, and the other of Britiſh original.

Branchetreu or Branktre is compounded of Bunk, or Bank, which in old Engliſh, ſtill uſed in the North, ſignifies a riſing ground, and Tre, a town (q. d.) a town upon the hill. —— Raines is made up of Rey, which ſignifies a river, or Reyne, water; both which derivations agree well enough with the ſituation of this town, upon an hill, and encompaſſed on each ſide with a river. Unleſs it ſhould be formed from the Saxon pann, deer.

Raines, as entered in Domeſday-book, contained all that tract of land of which this pariſh and that called Raines do now conſiſt.

The place known at preſent by the name of Braintree, was called Raine till the time of King John, or the beginning of the reign of Henry III· when the town was made a diſtinct pariſh from Raine. One Robert de Welles lord of the manor of Welles, now Raine-Hall, founded the Church; and with one Harvey de Raines endowed it with houſe and glebe (n). After this Braintree was called Great Raine, to diſtinguiſh it from the other; which thenceforward was called Little Raine. And then Branktree was ſtiled Hamlettum de Magna-Raines, till in proceſs of time growing great, and a Market being kept there, it inſenſibly ſtole away the name from its mother.

The lands of this pariſh belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to William biſhop of London; Goding, and ſome freemen: but, at the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by three different perſons, viz. the biſhop of London, Hamo Dapifer, and Richard ſon of Gilbert, Earl of Clare.

This William biſhop of London, who held this maner in the reign of Edward the Confeſſor, was a Norman, and came into England with Emma wife of King Etheldred, mother of K. Edward, by whom he was promoted to this See about the year 1051.

Upon the reconciliation of Earl Godwin, who hated the Normans, with K. Edward; this William, and Robert Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Ulf biſhop of Lincoln, retired with great difficulty into Normandy, thereby eſcaping impriſon-ment. The other two died there. But the biſhop of London was ſoon after recalled and reſtored to his ſee. The city of London profeſſeth itſelf greatly obliged to this Biſhop: for by his authority and influence he prevailed with William the Conqueror to grant them all kind of liberties, in as ample a manner as they enjoyed in the time of his predeceſſors. In gratitude hereof, the citizens cauſed an honourable epitaph to be engraven on his tomb. He dyed in 1079 (o).

This Pariſh was divided afterwards into three maners. 1. The Biſhop's. 2. Naylinghurſt. 3. Marks; and a Leet called Sandpit Leet.

1. The BISHOP'S MANER.

This is by far the largeſt [I]. The capital houſe of this lordſhip was not only the maner-houſe, but alſo a palace for the biſhops of London to reſide in when they came to viſit this part of the dioceſe. It is entirely ſunk under its ruins. It ſtood on the ſide of an hill, at the foot of which lies Braintree mill, which probably is the mill mentioned in the ſurvey. Either on the ſame ſpot, or very near it, ſtands the Parſonage-houſe of Braintree.

This lordſhip continued in the poſſeſſion of the biſhops of London, till Nicolas Ridley biſhop of that ſee paſſed it away, in 1550, by the name of the maner of Branketry, to K. Edward VI. and to his ſucceſſors for ever.

It did not long reſt in the crown; for that Prince, on the 6th of April the ſame year, granted it with the advowſon of the vicarage of Coggeſhall to the Lord Rich, to be held in capite by the 40th part of a knight's fee. It was enjoyed by his poſterity till upon the death of Charles Earl of Warwick in 1673, without iſſue, the large inheritance of this family was divided among the ſaid Earl's Siſters and Aunts, and then this lordſhip fell to the ſhare of his Siſter

The Lady Frances, wife of Nicolas, ſon and heir to Sir Francis Leake, Lord Deincourt and Earl of Scarſdale, who dying in 1680, left two ſons, Robert, and Rich, and a daughter, called Mary. He was ſucceeded by —— Robert, his eldeſt ſon, 3d Earl of Scarſdale of this family, who marrying Mary, one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir John Lewis of Ledſtone in Yorkſhire, Knt. and Bart. by her he had only a daughter that dyed an infant. This lord ſold this eſtate in 1701 to Herman Olmius, of St. Peter le Poor, London, Eſq; who, by Judith, ſole heireſs of John Drigue, of London, Eſq; had ſix daughters, of whom only Judith the 4th lived to any age, and four ſons, namely, John who dyed an infant; a 2d John, Herman, and Driguey. In 1706, Herman the father ſettled this maner on his eldeſt ſon John, upon his marriage with Elizabeth daughter and afterwards ſole heireſs of Mr. Thomas Clarke, of London, Merchant, (a deſcendent of the Clarkes of St. Ives in the county of Huntingdon) by Mary daughter and heireſs of Mr. John Billers, citizen and ſkinner of London, originally of Leiceſterſhire. The ſaid Herman Olmius dyed 7 Aug. 1718, and with his wife lies buried in a vault in the Church of St. Peter le Poor. —— John Olmins Eſq; his eldeſt ſon, was high ſheriff of Eſſex in 1707, a juſtice of the peace, and deputy lieutenant for this county. He dyed 20 Dec. 1731, being then deputy-governor of the Bank of England, and was ſucceeded by his only ſon and heir —— John, born 18 July 1711, who married 8 Sept. 1741, Anne daughter of Sir William Billers Knt. and Alderman of London, by whom he had a ſon named John Drigue, and a daughter Elizabeth. On the 8th of May 1762, he was created Baron Waltham of Philipſtown in the kingdom of Ireland: but dyed 4 Octob. the ſame year, and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— John Drigue, the preſent Lord Waltham. [ſee above, p. 15, 84, 114, &c.] [K].

2. The Maner of NAYLINGHURST.

The maner-houſe is ſituated about a mile weſt from Braintree, on a green called Braintree-green, near Felſted-common. It is now vulgarly known by the name of Nannegals.

This maner was ſo called from a family ſurnamed Naylinghurſt, that lived in this pariſh about the reign of K. Henry III.

It was anciently holden of the Earls of Oxford, as of their Honor of Hedingham-Caſtle, by the ſervice of a knight's-fee.

Stephen de Haia held it about the reigns of K. Richard I. K. John, and till the 30th of K. Henry III.

Simon de Rennes held it from about the 30th of K. Henry III. to the 53d of that reign. And ——Robert, and —— Walter de Rennes ſeem to have been his ſucceſſors.

Roger de Naylingherſt was poſſeſſed of it ſome time after.

John Oxeneye, John Naylingherſt Prior of Dunmow, and William at Parke, held it under John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1358 (p). And the ſaid Thomas Naylingherſt, and William at Park, held the ſame under Thomas Earl of Oxford who dyed in 1370 (q). This family of Naylingherſt was enrich'd by Robert ſon of John de Naylingherſt, an eminent clergyman in the reign of Edward III. at the ſame time Rector of Styſted, Sible Hedingham, and Great Leighs, and ennobled by Catharine the daughter and heir of Sir Hugh Badewe, niece of Richard Badewe, chancellor of Cambridge in 1326, and firſt founder of Clare-Hall, then called Univerſity-Hall; which Catharine was married to Thomas ſon of Thomas de Naylingherſt, in the time of Edward III. —— John Naylingherſt married Alice daughter of Geffrey Glanvile of Felſted, and thereby added the maner of Glanvile to this eſtate. He dyed in 1362, leaving his ſon and heir —— Thomas (r), who departed this life, in 1409, holding one tenement in the villages of Great and Little Reynes, of the biſhop of London; and one tenement called Reyn-houſe, and another tenement called Stiſteds, both lying in Stiſted; [ſee above, under Stiſted.] —— Hugh was his ſon and heir (s). He dyed 24 June 1493, holding this meſſuage called Naylinghurſt of the Biſhop of London.——Clement, his next heir (t), then aged 30 years [L], alienated it to

John Joſceline ſenior held it in the reign of K. Edward VI. As did

Henry Hazelfoot about 1636. And Haſtleford Bridges, who dyed about 1676. Elizabeth Bridges his widow had it in 1677. She dyed about 1695.—Elizabeth her daughter and heir was wife of Robert Lewin or Levinz. She dyed much about the ſame time with her mother.

Rowland Holt Eſq; brother to the Lord Chief Juſtice of that name, held it ſome time after: He dyed without iſſue.

William Smith of Old-Warden in Bedfordſhire, Knt. ſome time ſince high ſheriff of that County, is the preſent poſſeſſor.

3. The maner of MARKS.

The manſion-houſe lieth on the left-hand of the road leading from Braintree to Coggeſhall, about a mile off.

Goding had it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign. At the ſurvey it was holden by Hamo Dapifer, ſteward of Normandy, and under him by Ralph de Marci; from whom it took the name of Marks, and continued in this name and family till the reign of K. Edward III. [M].

William de Mark was preſented in 1254, before William Bretton one of the King's Judges itinerant at Chelmsford, becauſe he had a whole knight's fee, and yet had not received the honour of Knighthood. He was ſucceded by —Richard his ſon and heir, who left it unto his ſon —— John that held it in the reign of K. Edward III. of the Honor of Clare. For the large eſtate of Hamo Dapifer became merged in the Honors of Glouceſter and Clare. [ſee under Gr. Dunmow.]

John de Bokkyng, in 1346, releaſed unto Sir John de Bourgchier, Knt. all his right in the lands and tenements called Le Markes tenements, in the villages of Great Reyns and Bokyng (u). By that means this eſtate paſſed into the very antient and noble family of the Bourgchiers of Stanſted-hall in Halſted.

Sir John Bourgchier, Lord Bourgchier, governor of Flanders, dyed in 1400, ſeized of one meſſuage and 30 acres of arable, in the village of Great Reynes, holden of the King by the yearly rent of 4d. paid to him by the hands of the ſheriff of this county (w). Of this noble family I have given a very particular account above, p.253—255, under Halſted, to which I beg leave to refer; only giving the names of the ſucceſſors of Sir John Bourgchier. —— Idonea, his widow, had this eſtate in dower, then called 60 acres of arable, 3 of paſture, 3 of meadow, and rent, in Branktrie (x). Their daughter, and ſole heir —— Elizabeth brought it in marriage to Sir Hugh Stafford [M], but having no iſſue, it came to—— Henry Bourgchier Earl of Eu, and Eſſex: and to his grandſon ——Henry Earl of Eſſex. Anne his ſole daughter and heir, brought this maner with a vaſt inheritance in mariage, in 1541, to Sir William Parr, Lord Parr of Kendall, afterwards created, in her right, Earl of Eſſex, and Marquiſs of Northampton, 6 Febru. 1546. For ſiding with Lady Jane Grey in eſpouſing her title to the crown, he was attainted of high-treaſon 18 Auguſt 1553, and his eſtate forfeited to the crown.

Qu. Mary, 9 November 1555, granted this maner of Marks, with others to

Sir Robert Rocheſter, Comptroller of her houſhold; who gave it by will, 7 May 1557, to the Priory of Shene in Surrey. Upon the ſuppreſſion of that houſe, this being given by parliament to Qu. Elizabeth, ſhe reſtored it again to the Marquiſs of Northampton. He dyed in 1571, and his Lady Anne the 26th of January following.

Upon their deaths this maner returning to the crown, was, with ſeveral others, granted by Qu. Elizabeth 25 November, the ſame year, unto Walter Devereux Viſcount Hereford (to be holden by fealty of her maner of Eaſt-Greenwich) whom ſhe created Earl of Eſſex, the 4th of May 1572, being great granſon to John Devereux, and Cecily, ſiſter of Henry Bourgchier Earl of Eſſex, couſin and next heir to the ſaid Lady Anne. This Walter was made Knight of the Garter, and Marſhal of Ireland. He died at Dublin 22 Sept. 1576, and by Lettice daughter of Sir Francis Knolles, had ſeveral ſons and daughters. His ſon—Robert Earl of Eſſex, was beheaded the 25th of Febru.

Ralph Wiſeman, of Rivenhall Eſq; ſon of John Wiſeman late of Wimbiſh, Eſq; who paid his ingreſs fine 18 Elizabeth 1576. He dyed in 1594, and left three ſons, Richard, Thomas, and Robert. It deſcended to —— Richard his ſon and heir, and continued in his poſterity till Elizabeth widow of Sir William Wiſeman Knt. and Bart. together with Samuel Wiſeman Eſq; his nephew, ſold it about the 9th of William and Mary, unto Thomas Weſtern of Rivenhall Eſq; He gave it to his yougeſt ſon —— Robert Weſtern of London Eſq; whoſe daughter Sarah Weſtern had it after him. [ſee above, p. 147.] It belongs now to Tho. Maſhiter Gent.

SANDPITT-Leet..

This Leet is an appendix to the honour of Clare, and part of the Dutchy of Lancaſter; but of it ſelf no maner.

That the Clare Family held lands in this town in the reign of William the Conqueror, is evident from Domeſday Record, under the title of Encroachments made on the King's demeſnes in Eſſex [O].

This Leet lies on the north-weſt ſide of the town, beginning at a pond adjoining to the road leading from Bocking to Raine, called Sandpit-Pond, and from thence extends itſelf on the right hand by the Boar's-head, ſo far as the houſes go on that ſide.

There uſed to be a court kept on the Leet every year upon the 22d of September, in which a Conſtable was choſen for this Leet ſeparate from the maner of Braintree. And there is a tradition, that it was formerly called in the aforeſaid pond: but, however, the cuſtom hath not been obſerv'd, nor any Court held on this Leet, for many years paſt.

Beſides the conſiderable Eſtates already mentioned, the following perſons have ſome lands in this pariſh. Mrs. Draper; Rev. John Harriſon; Ed. Turner; Thomas Shepherd; William Mitchell; John Johnſon; William Flack; William Stacey.

The Family of Hawkins was conſiderable in Braintree many years, and became poſſeſſed of a great eſtate, which fell at laſt to Frances, daughter of Robert Hawkins of Braintree only ſurviving ſon of John Hawkins, Eſq; Alderman of London, who dyed 5 Sept. 1633. This Frances was married to Sir John Dawes of Putney, Knt. and Bart. by whom ſhe had 3 ſons, Robert, John, and William; and a daughter, Elizabeth, wife of Peter Fiſher D. D. Sir John Dawes dying, was ſucceeded by Sir Robert his eldeſt ſon; who, with his brother John, dying without iſſue, the title fell to the youngeſt brother Sir William Dawes, D. D. born at Lyons in Bocking 12 Sept. 1671, Dean of Bocking, Maſter of Catharine-hall in Cambridge, Biſhop of Cheſter, and Archbiſhop of York. He left one ſon Sir Darcy Dawes, and a daughter, wife of Sir William Milner of Yorkſhire, Bart. which children he had by Frances one of the ſiſters and coheirs of Sir Robert Darcy of Great Brackſted, Bart. [P].

Charitable Benefactions to this Pariſh.

John Payne, by his will, dated 18 March, 1533, gave a tenement in this town, called Coppid-Hall, for the weekly relief of the poor.

John Surinam, ſervant to Mr. John Gooday ſenior, Patron of the Living, did by will give to his ſaid Maſter, the ſum of 100 l. upon condition he built four Alms-houſes for the Poor of this pariſh; he was buried 22 May 1565. This truſt was accordingly performed by his ſaid maſter, who, by indenture, dated 1 Apr. 1574, ſettled them on divers truſtees for the uſe of the Poor to inhabit in: but to be diſpoſed of at the diſcretion of the ſaid truſtees, together with the Church-wardens and Overſeers of the Poor, or the major part of them. And for the convenience of the Poor inhabiting theſe Alms-houſes, Robert Lord Rich, then lord of the maner of this town, did give a piece of waſte ground of his ſaid maner; which, about the year 1630, was by a grant from Robert Earl of Warwick much inlarged, and thereupon was that year erected, at the charge of the pariſh, an houſe for the entertainment of poor children and poor people, call'd the Hoſpital.

Alice Grigle, alias Griggs, widow, did in the year 1579, give unto the poor inhabitants of Braintree, one piece of arable land, containing about four acres, and one meadow, of about one acre; the profits to be yearly diſpoſed of by the Church-wardens for the time being at their diſcretion.

John Lawrence, in the year 1626, gave his orchard, rented at four nobles per annum, to the Poor of this pariſh; it was formerly part of the Vicarage orchard, but with the conſent of Edmund, then Biſhop of London, and John Gooday patron, exchanged for a field of greater value.

Henry Smith Eſq; commonly called, undeſervedly, Dog-Smith, deſerves ſome notice here; for though he was not immediate donor to the Poor of this pariſh, yet it is through his benevolence that they enjoy a charity, in common with ſeveral other pariſhes. The proportion whereof for this town was 6l. per annum when firſt ſettled: But we refer the reader to the hiſtory of Tolleſhunt Darcy, where lies the eſtate purchaſed with his money.

Thomas Trotter, of London, merchant, a native of this place, did, in the year 1630, ſettle on divers truſtees, a houſe, barn, and four acres of arable land, then of the yearly value of 5l. 10s. to be diſpoſed of, viz. 10s. towards the reparation of the Church, 6s. and 8d. to the Vicar of Braintree, 5s. to the Church-wardens, 5s. to the Overſeers of the Poor, 3s. and 4d. to the Sexton, aud the remaining 4l. to 20 aged poor and impotent people of Braintree, being of honeſt life and converſation, by two equal payments, viz. 2s. each on the 18 Nov. and the like ſum on the 24 Febr. or within 14 days, either before or after : and did provide, that if there ſhould be any increaſe of rent, it ſhould be all towards the repairs of the Church ; but if any decreaſe, proportional deduction ſhould be made from the Church, Vicar, Church-wardens, Overſeers, Sexton, and Poor. In the year 1651, the tenement on the premiſſes was burnt down, and thereby this charity is reduced to 4l. per annum.

Thomas Hobb of Gray's Inn Eſq; did, by his will, dated 6 Dec. 1631, give and bequeath a farm in Braintree, called Brooms, as followeth, viz. 6l. per annum to the Vicar of Braintree, 5l. per annum for a Catechiſing Lecture in Katherine-Hall in Cambridge ; and the remainder to 2 or 3 poor ſcholars, ſtudents in Cambridge, either in Katherine-Hall, or Emmanuel-College.

Mark Mott, anceſtor of the family of that name, late at Wethersfield, gave an houſe and a little field, then of the yearly value of 40s. to be diſpoſed of to the Poor of this pariſh upon St. Andrew's day yearly, in ſhirts and ſmocks, of 12d. per yard : His ſon Adrian Mott was alſo a benefactor to the Poor of this pariſh ; for, upon the 4th of March 1638, he brought into the veſtry 100l. which he paid to the Miniſter and the reſt of the veſtry, deſiring that it might be laid out in land ſo ſoon as conveniently it might, and in the mean time to be improved to the beſt advantage ; the profits thereof to be diſpoſed on 5th of Nov. yearly, as his Father did direct in his Charity. But this charity never had the deſired effect, for the donor lived to ſee a great part of the money loſt by thoſe to whom it was lent.

Sir Stephen White, that married Sarah, daughter of John Hawkins Eſq; did in the year 1640, ſettle a charity of ſix pounds thirteen ſhillings and four-pence yearly out of a farm lying in Black and White Notley, for the giving, upon All-Saints-day, unto ſix poor women of Braintree, of honeſt and good behaviour, and frequenters of the Church and divine ſervice there ; to each a gown of good cloth ready made of the value of 14s. and to each of the ſaid women, four two-penny loaves, of wheaten-bread, upon the firſt Sunday of every month in the year, after Sermon in the afternoon, and to the upper Church-warden, one ſhilling and four-pence. The conſideration of this Charity is declared in the feoffment, to be the love and affection which he bore to his late wife aforeſaid, and to the pariſhioners of this town, for the ſake of her and her friends.

Ralph Diggin of Liſle in Hampſhire Eſq; did in 1649, give to the Maſter and Fellows of Clare-Hall in Cambridge, 3 Eſtates, one in Liſle aforeſaid, another at Mile-End in Middleſex, the laſt in Braintree, called by the name of Hubbalds and Malland, of the yearly rent of 30l. the whole amounting to the value of about 140l. by the year, for the founding of Fellowſhips and Scholarſhips, at the diſcretion of the College, who accordingly founded two fellowſhips and ſix ſcholarſhips.

Iſaac Skinner of Wivenhoe, in this county, mariner, but born in this town, gave by his will, dated 8 Octob. 1691, the reverſion of his houſe in Wivenhoe aforeſaid, to the Church-wardens and Overſeers of the Poor there, upon condition that they did yearly pay to the Church-wardens of Braintree, the ſum of 4l. for the uſe of the Poor of this pariſh for ever.

Henry Summers of London, merchant, by his will, dated 18 April 1698, gave unto divers truſtees, a rent charge of ſeven pounds and ten ſhilllings per annum out of his maner of Gains in Huntingdonſhire, to be diſpoſed of in the manner following, viz. five pounds in bread to the poor of this pariſh, on the 4th of Febr. being the day of his baptiſm, yearly for ever ; and the remaining fifty ſhillings to be paid to the Miniſter and Church-wardens of the ſaid pariſh, and by them and the truſtees to be ſpent in a convenient dinner, or otherwiſe as they ſhall think fit. This gentleman was born at Braintree 1643. He was at firſt intended for the woollen manufacture, but his father dying, and leaving him very young, and that occupation not ſuiting his inclination, he left the place of his nativity, and went to London, where, for ſeveral years he follow'd the trade of a Hat-maker, in Southwark, to his no little profit and advantage. After he had fix'd himſelf in the world, he married Anne, widow of James Hannot of London, a wealthy ſilk-dyer, who brought him a conſiderable fortune. After this match, he ſoon left his former trade, and fell to the way of merchandizing, wherein he proved very ſucceſsful, and acquired a great eſtate : He generally traded to Ruſſia, and was a mighty benefactor to the Hudſon'sbay company, who make an honourable mention of him on all occaſions. He dyed at Hackney without iſſue 5 May 1698, and was buried in St. Olave's-church in Southwark, leaving his couſin, and name-ſake, Henry Summers of Sibble Hedingham Eſq; his ſole heir, late one of the Juſtices of the peace for this county.

James Coker, late of Black Notley, but formerly a draper and grocer in Braintree, where he was born, gave by his will, dated 27 October 1702, a farm at Stoke by Neyland, in the county of Suffolk, of about 10l. per annum, for the teaching and educating of 10 poor children of Braintree, to read and learn Engliſh and Latin in the pariſh ſchool.

John Aylett, by his will, dated 16 Aug. 1707, gave the reverſional moiety of an houſe and land in Bocking, to the Poor of this pariſh for ever.

In this pariſh there hath been immemorially a Select Vestry for Pariſh-buſineſs. When or how it firſt began, doth not at this diſtance of time appear, but that it hath been of long continuance, may be demonſtrated from the Pariſh Regiſters, Ledgers, and minute books ; in the firſt of which it is recorded, that Auguſt 11, 1565, William Skinner, one of the 24 was buried, and the like is ſaid of John Joſlin, Nov. 19, 1597. And they were ſometimes called Headboroughs, Governours of the Town, and Town-Magiſtrates [Q]. But this laudable cuſtom was [Q] They are called the 24 Headboroughs, in an ancient Ledger of this pariſh, in 1574 ; and they are ſtyled Governours of the Town, and Town-Magiſtrates, in an Award made 3 Decemb. 1584, by Edward Stanhope, LL. D. Chancellor of the Dioceſe of London, and Julius Cæſar, LL. D. appointed, by the Queen's High Commiſſioners for cauſes eccleſiaſtical, to determine a diſpute then depending between Richard Gooday Gent. and Anne his wife, and Joſeph Man and Eleanor his wife, about a pew in this Church.

A weekly MARKET, on Wedneſdays, was granted unto William de Sta Maria Biſhop of London in his maner of Branketre, by K. John, 16 June 1199. . . At the ſame time was granted the annual FAIR, on 21 Septemb. St. Matthew's day, now on the 2d of October.

The annual FAIR, on the 27th of April, now 8 May, was granted to Herman Olmius Eſq; by Queen Anne, 30 October 1705.

This Pariſh is rated to the Land-tax at 2796l. 1s. 6d.

The CHURCH is dedicated to St. Michael. Both Church and Chancel have a north and ſouth iſle, all leaded, except the Chancel, which is tyled: At the weſt end a ſquare Tower of ſtone, with a ring of 6 Bells, and a lofty ſpire ſhingled.

The Church now ſtanding is not the ſame as did antiently belong to this pariſh. For the old Church, which was founded before the Conqueſt, ſtood upon a hill about half a mile eaſt from the preſent Church; which was begun about the latter end of the reign of K. Edward III. as appears from a clauſe in the will of John de Naylinghurſt of this Town, dated 2 April 1349, whereby he bequeaths a black bullock to the work of the Church. From this paſſage in that will, and from the arms in the Church of moſt of the neighbouring gentry, who lived about that time, it is concluded that this preſent ſtructure was erected towards the latter end of Edward IIId's reign.

The occaſion of removing the Church, was not only its decay, but for the better conveniency of the inhabitants of this town; which being ſituate upon the road to London, aroſe probably at firſt from inns and ale-houſes built there for the reception not only of paſſengers to that city, but of pilgrims travelling out of the ſouth to St. Edmunds-Bury in Suffolk, and to our Lady of Walſingham in Norfolk, and other ſaints and roods of great fame in thoſe days, and by this means became populous. It would doubtleſs by this time have ſunk into the ſame condition with ſeveral neighbouring villages, had not ſome of the clothiers, which the Duke of Alva's cruelty drove out of the Netherlands, ſeaſonably ſeated themſelves in the forſaken inns. Athough this Church owes its foundation to the time of Edward III. yet it hath received divers augmentations, the moſt antient of which is the north iſle. When it was built, does not appear; but in an old Ledger belonging to this Church, the new porch is found to be added to it in 1522, and the date of the iſle itſelf does not much exceed it, becauſe in 1525 it is, in the ſame book, called the new iſle. This was ſoon followed with the building of the ſouth iſle, which happened in 1532; and the roof of the Church, which was before ſhingled with wood, was now taken down, raiſed a ſtory higher, and covered with lead, of which Henry Eve, who dyed in 1535, is recorded to have laid the firſt ſtone. Towards the charge of this building, beſides the large contributions of the inhabitants, there were three plays acted in the Church; the firſt of which was St. Swithin, in 1523. The ſecond of St. Andrew, on the Sunday before Relique Sunday, in 1525. The third and laſt was of Placy Dacy, alias St. Eweſtacy, acted in 1534. Theſe were not only for pleaſing the eye and ear, but likewiſe for ſatiſfying the belly; for which great proviſion was always made, the accounts of which the Churchwardens of thoſe times were very particular and exact in. After the Reformation the Churchwardens not only lent the players garments, but at laſt ſold them for 50s. and the play-books for 20s.

Here was formerly a Rectory and a Vicarage. The Rectory was of old a Sine-cure in the collation of the Biſhops of London, and the Vicarage in the gift of the Rector.

About the year 1416, the patronage of this Church was in the prior and convent of the monaſtery called the Charter-houſe, and afterwards appropriated to them by Richard Clifford Biſhop

of London, in which appropriation the Biſhop reſerved to himſelf, and ſucceſſors, a penſion of 6s. and 8d. per annum, which is paid to this day. Upon this the ſaid prior and convent became patrons of the vicarage, and ſo continued till the diſſolution of that houſe, when it came to the Crown, where it continued not long, for Henry VIII. after having preſented once, in 1544; by letters patent, dated 1 November 1545, granted the rectory and advowſon of the vicarage to James Michell and his heirs for ever, by the ſervice of the 40th part of one knight's fee (y). — William Michell, Gent. ſon of the ſaid James, after he had preſented once in 1551, got a licence, 10 Octob. 1552, to alienate this rectory and this advowſon of the Vicarage to John Gooday (z); an eminent clothier of this town, whoſe family and poſterity is mentioned in the hiſtory of Bower's-Hall in Pentlow. He preſented thrice to this Church, and in 1565 ſold the premiſſes to Richard Lord Rich (a); who founding a Free-ſchool and Alms-houſe at Felſted, gave ſomething to each of them out of this Rectory. [ſee under that pariſh.]

Upon the diviſion of the Earl of Warwick's eſtate, this rectory fell to the ſhare of the Earl of Nottingham, and was, till of late, held by leaſe for life by the Vicars of Braintree, they paying yearly to the Alms-houſe and Free-ſchool at Felſted 30l. 1s. 8d. in money, and in wheat 16 quarters, and the ſame in malt. It was ſettled by the ſaid Earl upon Mr. George Dell Rector of Foulneſs, to augment his living.

But the advowſon of the vicarage fell to the Earl of Scarſdale, who ſold it, together with the maner, to Herman Olmius Eſq; and he ſettled it on his ſon John Olmius, and his heirs for ever; from whom it paſſed to John Olmius Eſq; the late Lord Waltham; and is now in John-Drigue Olmius, the preſent Lord Waltham.

This Vicarage was augmented, in 1725, by the Rev. Steph. Newcomen, the then Vicar, with 200l. to which were added 200l. of Qu. Anne's bounty.

A Chapel, for a Chantry-prieſt to ſing maſs daily for all the Saints departed, was founded near the old Church, and dedicated to St. John the Baptiſt. This Chapel was of the foundation of the Biſhops of London, and the firſt time we find it mentioned was in 1364 (b). It had a yard, 2 meſſuages in Black Notley, 4 meſſuages in Braintree, and a Barn: all which were granted, with many others, to Thomas Golding, Eſq; being then valued at 8l. 2s. 3d. And in the Certificate it is ſaid, that the 'Towne of Braintree 'was then a great populous Towne, and a Mar- 'ket-towne, having yn yt to the number of 480 'of howſeling people, and more.' This Chapel is now converted into ſeveral little tenements.

Above twelve Obits were founded in this Church. And alſo ſeveral Gilds, or Fraternities; particularly thoſe of Jeſus; of St. John Baptiſt; of Criſpin and Criſpina; a Plow-gild; a Torch-gild; and a Gild of women of our Lady's Lights, to which belonged an Alderwoman, and two wardens.

43. RAYNE

lies weſt of Braintree, in the road to Dunmow. The name is otherwiſe written in records Raines, and Reynes. 'Tis called Little Rayne, in contradiſtinction to Great Rayne, now Braintree, both which are comprehended in Domeſday-book under the name of Raines. It was ſeparated from Great Rayne about the time of K. Henry II. as we have ſhewn above.

Gudmund, and Aluin, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, had the two chief Lordſhips in this Pariſh, Rayne-hall, and Old-hall; but, at the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by Hugh de Montfort and his under-tenant Alcher; and by Roger de Raines, or as corruptly written, de Ramis.

1. Rayne-hall was the part which was holden by Hugh de Montfort [S]. This Hugh is juſt mentioned above, p. 166. He was the younger ſon of Turſtin de Baſtenburc, a Norman, and commonly called Hugh with the Beard, the Normans at that time being uſually ſhaved. K. William, whom he attended in the conqueſt of this kingdom, rewarded him with 114 lordſhips, of which 16 were in Eſſex [T]. He loſt his life in a duel with Henry de Ferrers, leaving —— Hugh his ſon and heir, who by his firſt wife had two ſons, Robert; and Hugh a monk of Bec; Robert the eldeſt, was general of the army of William Rufus. But afterwards eſpouſing the title of Robert Curthoſe againſt K. Henry I. and being queſtioned for it, he got leave to go to Jeruſalem, leaving all his poſſeſſions to the King. Both He, and his brother Hugh, dyed in a pilgrimage without iſſue. Their father Hugh, by a ſecond wife, left one daughter, married to Gilbert de Gaunt, who had by her a ſon called Hugh, who, from his mother's being ſo great an heireſs, aſſumed the ſurname of Montfort (d).

[T] Among the reſt, beſides this, were Markeſhall, Layton, Purley, Goldangre, Totham parva, Blindknights in Layer de la Hay, &c.

Some time after, this lordſhip became veſted in the family of Welles, of which, Robert de Welles lived in the reigns of Henry II. Richard I. and K. John. In the reign of K. Henry III.—Thomas Wells held the maner of Little Raynes, of the King in capite, as of the honor of Rayley, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee (e).

Nicolas Lewkenor, keeper of the wardrobe, dyed poſſeſſed of this maner, in 1268, holding it in the ſame manner as juſt now mentioned, and by the ſervice of 10s. yearly to Dover-Caſtle, and ſuit at the monthly court of Haghele, or Hawle, —— Roger was his ſon and heir, to whom K. Henry III. did confirm the fee of this maner (f).

Afterwards this eſtate was in the family of Welles again; for Henry Welles had it at the time of his deceaſe in 1293, it being then deſcribed (g) as 1 meſſuage, 235 acres of arable, and 19s. 8d. aſſize rent, with 96 days work, 6 acres of paſture, 8 acres of meadow, and 8 acres of wood, with a view of frank-pledge, pleas of court, and a water-mill, paying 10s. yearly to Dover-caſtle. His ſon and heir——Thomas de Welles held the ſame eſtate, and dyed in 1315, leaving Walter Welles his ſon and heir. In this inquiry the rent is ſaid to be 16l. per annnm (h). His ſon —— Walter Welles dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1325. Joane was his daughter and heir by his firſt wife, Iſabell ſiſter to Edmund de Kemſek, that held Great Samford, and a maner called Kemeſeks in Felſted. But Alice his ſecond wife was left with child (i). The Welles of Eſſex were a branch of the noble family of Welles originally of Lincolnſhire. From the long continuance of this eſtate in that family, Rayne-hall received the name of Welles-hall.

Joan daughter of Walter Welles brought this lordſhip in marriage to William de Ruſhbrooke, or Roysſbrooke. He was living in 1362; for Thomas Baynard held lands of him then (k). When he dyed does not appear. He had by Joane his wife,

Eleanor his daughter and heir, wife of John Pyke. They had a ſon named Nicolas Pyke, who having preſented to this Church in 1439, dyed without iſſue, and

Maud Pyke an only daughter and heir upon her brother's deceaſe. She became the wife of John Beamont, and their ſole daughter and heir

Alice, was married to John L'Eſtrange Eſq; deſcended from Sir Hamon L'Eſtrange, or Le Strange, of Hunſtanton in Norfolk, ſecond ſon of John Lord Strange of Knocking in Shropſhire (l).

Eleanor out-living her huſband and ſon, dyed in 1471, ſeized of the maner of Little Raynes, and advowſon of the Church, which ſhe held of the King in ca. by the 4th part of a knight's-fee. She left them to Henry L'Eſtrange Eſq; her great grandſon, and heir; being ſon of Roger L'Eſtrange, ſon of Alice, daughter of Maud, daughter of the ſaid Eleanor (m). Henry L'Eſtrange moſt probably alienated this lordſhip to Richard Turnant or Tournants, Gent. who preſented to this Church, from 1479 to to 1482 (n).

This Richard Turvant, as he is called in the fine, did paſs away, in 1486, this lordſhip and the advowſon of the Church to Sir William Capel (o), in which family it has continued to this day.

The family of Capel is originally of Suffolk, and takes its name from the maner of Capel in Stoke-Neyland in that county —— Hugh Capel is the firſt of the name we meet with, to whom K. Henry I. gave Jakeham, by the ſervice of two knight's-fees (p).—Sir Richard de Capel was Lord-Juſtice of Ireland in 1261 (q)——Sir John Capel was chaplain to Lionel Duke of Clarence, who gave him by will a girdle of gold (r). ——John Capel of Stoke-Neyland Eſq; who dyed in 1449, left three ſons and a daughter, all in minority.—John the eldeſt ſon, had the eſtate in Suffolk. . . . William, the ſecond ſon, anceſtor of the preſent noble family of the Earls of Eſſex, was a moſt eminent Merchant in London. There he acquired a vaſt eſtate [V]; which tempted Empſon and Dudley to ſqueeze out of him 1600l. and to attempt to get of him 2000l. more, under pretence of his neglecting to puniſh a falſe coiner; which extortion he not ſubmitting to, was committed to the Tower, Decemb. 17. At the coronation of K. Henry VII. he was knighted: ſerved the office of one of the Sheriffs of London in 1489; of Lord Mayor in 1503, and was one of the Repreſentatives for that city in the Parliaments which met in 1491, and 15 Janu. 1512, and 12 Decem. 1514. At an entertainment, he gave the King, he is ſaid to throw into the fire ſeveral bonds the King owed him; and at another, to drink in a frolick a diſſolved pearl of great value to the King's health. He dyed 6 Sept. 1515, poſſeſſed of a conſiderable eſtate in this county, particularly Rayne-Hall [W], and was buried in a chapel of his own building, in St. Bartholomew's-church, near the Exchange, London. By Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Arundel, of Lanhern in Cornwal, he had Giles, his ſon and heir; Elizabeth, wife of Sir William Paulet, afterwards Marquis of Wincheſter; and Dorothy married to John Lord Zouch of Harringworth.——Sir Giles Capel ſucceeded his father; having been knighted in 1513, for his valour at the ſieges of Terouenne and Tournay. He attended K. Henry VIII. into France in 1520, where, with ſome others, he challenged all comers in feats of arms for 30 days; and was afterwards appointed Sheriff of Hertford and Eſſex in 1528. He reſided at Rayne-Hall, and was one of the Juſtices of the Peace for Eſſex. He died 29 May 1556 (s) [X], and lies buried with his firſt lady in the Chancel of Rayne-Church. By his firſt wife, Mary, daughter of Sir Richard Roos, younger ſon of William Lord Roos, of Belvoir; he had Henry his ſon and heir. By his ſecond, Iſabell, daughter and coheir of Sir John Newton of Wake in Somerſetſhire; where he lived ſome time after his ſecond marriage, he had Margaret, wife of William Ward of Brooks Eſq; and Edward.—— Sir Henry Capel ſucceeded his father at the age of 49 years, and marrying Anne, daughter of George Maners Lord Roos, died without iſſue, and was ſucceeded by his half-brother —— Edward Capel, Eſq; Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1560; and knighted the ſame year. By Anne, daughter of Sir William Pelham, anceſtor to his Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle, he had three ſons, Henry, Giles, and William; and four daughters, Elizabeth, Mary, Anne, and Grace; this laſt was buried at Rayne 1587. Sir Edward Capel dyed 19 March 1577 (t), and was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon and heir —— Henry Capel Eſq; Sheriff of Eſſex in 1579, and knighted in 1587. His firſt wife was Mary, daughter of Antony Brown, Viſcount Montacute. By Catharine, his ſecond wife, fourth daughter of Tho. Maners Earl of Rutland, he had ſix ſons, Arthur, William, Edward, John, Gamaliel, and Robert: and four daughters, Agnes, Frances, Anne, and Mary. Sir Henry Capel dyed June 22, 1588, and lies buried with Catharine his wife at Rayne. —— Arthur Capel, Eſq; his eldeſt ſon and heir, ſucceeded him; famous for his hoſpitality. He lived at Little Hadham in Hertfordſhire, as well as at Rayne-Hall, and was knighted 7 May 1603. By Mary, daughter of John Lord Grey of Pirgo, brother to the marquis of Dorſet, he had 11 ſons, Henry, Edward, Arthur, Robert, Humfrey, William, Giles, John, Roger, Gamaliel, James: and 8 daughters. Henry, his eldeſt ſon, dying, before him, in 1622, left iſſue by Theodoſia, ſiſter to Edward Lord Montague of Boughton, Arthur; Henry, buried in 1633, at Rayne; Elizabeth, and Theodoſia. His firſt lady was buried at Rayne in 1615. By his ſecond wife, Dorothy Alderſay, widow of —— Hoſkins Knt. he had three daughters, and a ſon, Thomas buried at Rayne in 1621, ſoon after he was born. ——Arthur, eldeſt ſon of Henry, ſucceeded his grandfather. In 1639 he was choſen knight of the ſhire for the county of Hertford; and again in the long Parliament, which began 3 Novemb. 1640; being very eminent for his hoſpitality to his neighbours, and great charity to the poor. He was created 6 Aug. 1641, BARON CAPEL of Hadham. Upon the breaking out of the civil war, he raiſed for the King about 900 horſe at his own charge, and lent him 12000l. in money, and plate. After ſignalizing himſelf in ſeveral battles, and attempting to reſcue the King from his impriſonment in the Iſle of Wight; he was at laſt taken priſoner at Colcheſter, and afterwards beheaded by ſentence of the High Court of Juſtice, 19 March $164\frac{8}{9}$. He dyed with great reſolution and courage. He wrote a book of Meditations. With Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of Sir Charles Moriſon of Hertfordſhire Knt. and Bart. he had a noble inheritance, among the reſt Caſhiobury, in the pariſh of Watford in Hertfordſhire, the preſent ſeat of this noble family. He had by her nine children; Arthur; Henry, created 1692, Baron Capel of Tewkſbury; Edward, Charles: Mary, wife of Henry Lord Beauchamp, ſon of the Marquis of Hertford, and afterwards of Henry Duke of Beaufort; Elizabeth, of Charles Earl of Carnarvon; Theodoſia, of Henry Earl of Clarendon; and Anne, of John Strangeways of Dorſetſhire Eſq; ſhe dyed 26 Janu. 1660, and they both lie buried under a black marble ſtone in the chancel of Little Hadham-Church in Hertfordſhire. He was ſucceeded in his honour by his ſon and heir—— Arthur, created by K. Charles II. Viſcount MALDON, and EARL OF ESSEX, 20 April 1661. In 1670, he was ſent embaſſador to the King of Denmark, and returning with great applauſe, was ſworn of the Privy-Council in 1672, and made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. In 1680, he was appointed firſt Commiſſioner of the Treaſury, which office he reſigned. He was a great oppoſer of Popery, and of the violent meaſures which ſome then promoted; and, with other Peers, delivered a petition againſt the Parliament's ſitting at Oxford. Whereupon, being accuſed of the Fanatick Plot, he was committed to the Tower, and there found, July 13, 1683, lying on the ground in his blood with his throat cut. It was confidently aſſerted at the time, that He had done it himſelf: and as ſtrongly ſuggeſted, that this cruel deed was committed by the procurement of James Duke of York. Time, the revealer of all ſecrets, hath not yet cleared this point. We ſhall not preſume to be poſitive on either ſide; but refer the curious Reader to ſuch Books as give the beſt light in this matter [Y]. By Elizabeth only daughter of Algernon Earl of Northumberland, this noble perſon had ſix ſons, and two daughters; of whom only Algernon the fifth ſon, and Anne wife of Charles Howard Earl of Carliſle ſurvived him.—— Algernon ſucceeded his father 1683, and was highly eſteemed by K. William, whom he attended in moſt of his expeditions into Holland and Flanders. In Qu. Anne's reign he was made Conſtable of the Tower, and Lieutenant-General of her Majeſty's forces. By Mary, eldeſt daughter of William Bentinck Earl of Portland [remarried after his deceaſe to Sir Conyers Darcy, brother to the earl of Holderneſs] he had Elizabeth, Mary, and William born in 1697.

Moſt writers have ſpoken of this matter according as they were byaſſed by favour or prejudice towards K. Charles and K. James II. So that it is one of thoſe ſecret things which will not be fully known till the great day of accounts.

William the late earl of Eſſex married in 1718 Jane daughter to Henry Hyde Earl of Rocheſter, by whom he had four daughters; one of whom, Charlotte, was married to Thomas Villiers Eſq; brother to the Earl of Jerſey. His Counteſs dying 3 Janu. 1723-4, he married 2 Febru. 1725-6, Elizabeth ſiſter to the preſent duke of Bedford, by whom he had two daughters, Diana, and Anne; and his only ſon —— William-Anne-Holles, born at Turin 7 Octob. 1732: who, upon his father's deceaſe, 8 Janu. 1742-3, inherited his honor and eſtates: and hath married Charlotte, daughter of Sir Charles Hanbury Williams, Knight of the Bath.

The bounds of our work not permitting us to enlarge further upon this noble Family, we beg leave to refer the Reader, for a more particular account of them, to the Peerages [Z]. Only ſhall obſerve, that the late Lord was Embaſſador extraordinary to the King of Sardinia, in 1731, &c.

The manſion houſe of Rayne-hall was not built all at once. It conſiſts of two parts. The old part ſeems to be built by the Welles, and the new by Sir Giles Capel [A].

2. The maner of OLD-HALL, alias BAYNARDS.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, this maner was parted between two freemen, named Aluin, and Edric: but at the time of the general Survey the whole belonged to Roger, one of William's companions in his conqueſt of this kingdom [B], mentioned above under Meſſing, p. 175; undoubtedly this Roger took the ſurname of Raines or Ramis [C] from this pariſh, in which the family reſided for ſeveral ages at or near the maner of Old-Hall.

The maner-houſe of Reynes was ſituated in the north part of this pariſh, in an encloſure called Chapel field, upon a ſmall aſcent near the river; where there are ſtill viſible marks of the houſe and motes that incompaſs'd it, and in the hollow from the road to the houſe were fiſh-ponds, now turned into hop-grounds. When this field was ploughed up within the memory of ſome lately living, the rubbiſh and ſtones of the old manſion-houſe were laid bare.

Roger de Ramis held ſeveral Maners in Eſſex, which were erected into a barony, and called the Barony of Little Raines, conſiſting of ten knights fees, whereof the maner of Old Hall in this pariſh was the head [D].

In 1140, Roger de Rennes was amerced 40 marks, for making a Park without the King's leave (w).

In 1167, William de Reymes paid a mark for each knight's-fee to K. Henry II. when Matilda his eldeſt daughter was married to Henry Duke of Saxony; from whom his preſent Majeſty King GEORGE is lineally deſcended. —— William, and Richard, de Raines paid 20s. for each Knight's fee, for the war in Ireland, in 1172. And, in 1194, the ſame perſons paid 20s. for each knight's fee for the redemption of K. Richard out of captivity. —— Robert, Richard, and William, deſcendents of Roger de Ramis, above-mentioned, were brothers. Robert, the eldeſt, dying without iſſue, the Barony deſcended to Richard, who dying about the end of King John's reign, left this Barony to be divided between his three daughters and coheirs (x). Alice the eldeſt was widow of Roger de Marmos. Amicia the ſecond was given in marriage by the King her guardian to William de Marini. And Joan, the youngeſt, was wife of William de Harlaw.

About the end of K. Henry the Third's reign, this lordſhip was poſſeſſed by the Baynards of Meſſing in this County, but how it came to them does not appear. From this family it came to be called the maner of Baynards.

Imania Baynard, who dyed about 1272, held of the King in capite one hide of land in Little Rayne, with pleas of court and view of frank-pledge (y). [ſee above, p. 176.] She had 4 children, Reginald who dyed young; Roger; Richard; and Alice.—Roger Baynard, the eldeſt ſurviving ſon and heir, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1295, beſides a knight's fee in Meſſing, held here one meſſuage, 67 acres of arable, 3 of meadow, 4 and a half of paſture, 12 of wood, and 10s. 6d. of rent of aſſize. ——Thomas, ſon of his brother Richard, was his heir (z). This Thomas Baynard dyed in 1344, and held the maner of Little Reynes, of the King in capite, by the ſervice of the fourth part of a knight's fee. He held alſo in this pariſh, jointly with his wife Joane, 40 acres of arable, and 2 acres of meadow, of John Baynard, by the ſervice of a pair of gilt ſpurs, or 6d. per ann.——John was his ſon and heir (a). ——Thomas Boynard, ſuppoſed to be brother to the ſaid John, and Catharine his wife, held one meſſuage, 160 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, 20 of wood, and 20s. rent in Little Rayne and Saling: Part of which was holden of the King in ca. by the ſervice of the eighth part of a knight's fee, and the reſt of William de Royſhbrooke by the ſervice of 6s. 3d. per annum. He dyed in 1362 (b).

Walter the ſon of Geffrey de Raynes was the laſt of the family that dwelt in this village. He ſold this maner of Reynes, conſiſting of 110 acres of arable, 11 of meadow, 8 of wood, 10 of paſture, 6 of alders, 10s. rent, and the rent of two capons and one plough-ſhare in Reynes, with the homage and ſervice of his freemen and villans, with all wards, reliefs, heriots, eſcheats, &c. to

John Oxenſey, who had another meſſuage in this pariſh called Oxenſeys [E]. His daughter Catharine brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband

Richard Downham Eſq; He had by her Ralph and Humfrey. He dyed in 1454, and — Ralph, his eldeſt ſon, dying without iſſue —— Humfrey, the ſecond ſon, became heir to the eſtates here; which were the maner of Oldehall; the firſt time we find it ſo called in the Inquiſitions; two tenements named Oxenſeys and Teyes in the ſame vill, holden of Richard Turnant as of his maner of Welles in Little Reynes, by the ſervice of 8s. per annum; and 1 meſſuage, 60 acres of arable, 6 of paſture, 8 of wood, and 5s. rent in this pariſh, holden of the King in capite by the ſervice of the fifth part of a knight's fee; and a tenement called Fletchers in Felſted, of the maner of Felſted-Bury, by the ſervice of 6s. per ann. He dyed in 1478, leaving——Henry his ſon and heir, then aged 2 years (c), who dyed young: and a daughter named

Mary: ſhe brought this eſtate in free marriage to her huſband, Richard Fillol Eſq; ſecond ſon of William, one of the ſons of John Fillol of Kelvedon Eſq; [ſee above, p. 151.] He had livery of this eſtate 29 Octob. 1504, and himſelf and wife are both mentioned in a fine of the firſt of Henry VIII. when they paid a relief to the King (d). They had iſſue John; William; and Mary, wife of——Cranford of Lindſel, in this county. ——John the eldeſt ſon and heir dyed 1 Septemb. 1551, leaving by Joan daughter of — Bruges of Weſt-ham, John, aged 3 years; (e) Mary, afterwards wife to Francis Lindſel of Horſhead; and Elizabeth married to Nicholas Long of Dunmow. ——John the ſon and heir, dyed 25 Sept. 1617 (f), having been twice married. By his firſt wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Bonham of Bradwell-hall Eſq; he had Antony; Henry: Mary, wife of Thomas Emery of Little Badow, and Margaret of Thomas Tyrell of Heron Eſq; By his ſecond wife Joan, daughter of John Brown of S. Weald-hall, he had ſeven ſons and two daughters.——Antony his eldeſt ſon and heir got livery of this eſtate 29 May 1618, and by Dorothy daughter of Thomas Wilſon of Stiſted, had ſeven ſons, Antony; John, buried at Braintree, in 1647; Thomas, who dyed in 1625; James; William, buried at Rayne, in 1644. Charles; Thomas; and ſix daughters, Dorothy, buried here in 1615; another Dorothy, wife of Edward Beauſy, of Braintree; Jane; Margaret; Suſan, buried at Braintree, in 1634; and Elizabeth, buried at the ſame place, in 1647. Upon his death in 1629, Dorothy his wife had the cuſtody of——Antony his ſon and heir granted by K. Charles I. in 1630. This Antony married Mary daughter of John Tarver of Ringwood in Hampſhire. He made his will 29 Novemb. 1643, and dyed the ſame year, leaving two parts of the maner of Baynards, alias Old-hall, to James his fourth brother. But John his elder brother and heir, had livery of the third part of the eſtate, 12 May 1645. The ſaid John dying in 1647, ——James had the whole eſtate. This James Fillol had by Suſan his wife, James buried at Rayne, in 1709 Antony, buried there alſo in 1698: Dorothy, wife of Robert Brent; and Suſan, wife of Francis Enever of Porter's-Hall in Stebbing. He was buried at Rayne in 1694, and his wife at the ſame place in 1704. Upon his death he left this eſtate to his nephew——James Fillol, who ſold it in 1720, to

Thomas Smith of Bardfield magna, in this County, Eſq;

The body of it is by far the moſt antient building in theſe parts, and ſuppoſed to have ſtood ever ſince the firſt foundation. The floor is paved with tiles about four inches ſquare, and ſet lozengy-wiſe. The ſteeple, which is of brick, and very ſubſtantial and lofty, with a ſmall ſhingled ſpire at the top, was built by Sir William Capel above-mentioned, the purchaſer of Rayne-hall. He took for his arms an Anchor: accordingly an Anchor within an Eſcocheon is emboſſed upon the brick-work near the foundation, on one ſide of the belfrey-door. On the other ſide is a Lion rampant, emboſſed in like manner: Both probably being the ancient Arms of the Capel family. The latter hath a great affinity to their preſent Arms, which are, a Lion rampant between three croſs croſslets, fitché. . . This Steeple contains 4 bells.

Robert de Welles, and Harvey de Reynes, endowed this Church with manſe, and glebe, in 1199, as appears from the original deed ſtill extant. The Glebe is about 20 acres.

In the eaſt end of the ſouth iſle was an Altar and Chapel dedicated to the Virgin Mary, which were much frequented in former ſuperſtitious times by Child bearing women [F].

There were two Obits founded in this Church.

Two eminent perſons were Rectors of this pariſh in the laſt century; namely, Edward Symonds, M. A. who was concerned in the publication of K. Charles the Firſt's Pourtraicture [G]. And Richard Kidder, M. A. admitted to this Rectory 29 Octob. 1664, where he continued till 23 Decemb. 1674. 44. PANTFIELD.

This pariſh lies north-weſt of Braintree, on the ſouth-ſide of the river Blackwater, antiently called Pant [H], from whence it took the name of Pantfield, or Pentfeld. It is otherwiſe written in records, Pangfield, Pamfield, Pantisfeild, Paunfield, Penfeld, and Puntfend.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the lands in it belonged to Wiſgar, and a free woman: But, at the time of the general ſurvey, the two Manors, of Pantfield Hall, and Pantfield-Priory, it contains, were holden, by Richard Fitz Giſlebert, whoſe under-tenant was Robert de Watevile; and by the Abbey of St. Stephen at Caen in Normandy [I].

1. PANTFIELD-HALL

Stands near the Church.

Robert de Watevile, beſides this lordſhip, held that of Hamſtede in this County, under the ſaid Richard Fitz-Geſlebert.

William de Watevile held High Roodinges and Hanningfeild in the reign of William the Conqueror, as appears from the grand ſurvey. The deſcendants of a branch of this William, from their abode at Hanningfeild, took their denomination from thence, being in old evidences written promiſcuouſly de Hanningfeild, and de Watevile. Robert was probably either brother or ſon to that William.

From Robert deſcended Sir Robert de Watevile, who lived at Hempſted in the reigns of K. Richard and K. John, and by Maud his wife had Sir William de Watevile, of the ſame place; to whom K. Henry III. in 1253, granted a charter of free-warren in his lordſhips of Hempſted and Pamfield (g). He married the daughter and heir of Peter de Godvile of Hempſted, and had by her Sir William de Watevile, his only ſon, who marrying Thorema, daughter and heir of Sir Robert Roos of Radwinter, had by her his only ſon and heir —— Sir John de Watevile, that by Alice his wife left an only ſon, and a daughter, Sir John de Wateville, and Joan. [F] The occaſion of it is related to have been this. In the reign of K. Edward III. the wife of John de Naylinghurſt, of the neighbouring pariſh of Braintree, being in labour, and no hopes of delivery, ſome of the women that attended her reſolved to go and pray for her to our Lady of Mercy, in her Chapel here. While they were at their devotions, imagining, that the Holy Virgin, overcome with the zeal and fervor of their petitions, did caſt a gracious ſmile upon them, they took it as a certain omen of the Lady's ſafe delivery. Big with that expectation, they ran back: and, at their firſt entrance into the houſe, being ſaluted with the glad tidings of the ſafe delivery, they ſaid, 'It is no news to us: 'we knew it would be ſo, for our Lady of Mercy ſmiled 'upon us.' This ſtory gained ſo much credit and repute to the Virgin, and her Chapel at Rayne, that it grew into a proverb, 'You will eer long go ſay your prayers at Reyne,' that is, 'You will eer long be with child.'

[G] Otherwiſe called Εικων Βασιλικη. Some have affirmed, that this Book was both written and publiſhed by Biſhop Gauden. But in reality if he was any way intereſted in it, 'twas only in taking care of the publication of a part. See what hath been written upon that ſubject by Dr. Antony Walker, Dr. Hollingworth, T. Wagſtaffe, Edm. Ludlow, J. Toland, J. Young, Bp. Burnet, &c. which is all ſummed up in the article Gauden, in Biographia Britannica, Vol. IV.

[H] That it was anciently called Pant, appears from this paſſage in the Chronicle of Ralph de Coggeſhall, when ſpeaking of the old city Ithancheſter, or as he calls it Stancaſter, he ſays, 'Civitas Stancaſter ſtetit ſuper ripam rivoli de 'Pante, currentis per Maldunum.' Sir William de Langham was ſon and heir of Sir William de Langham, of Langham in Suffolk, deſcended from Ralph de Langham, a perſon of note about the reign of K. Henry II. Upon his marriage with this heireſs, he came and reſided at Hempſted-hall, and ſometimes at this place. By her he had four ſons, William, Robert, John, and Thomas—— Sir William Langham the eldeſt ſon ſucceeded his father, and married Margaret, daughter and coheir of William ſon of Geffrey de Darſham. By her he had two ſons, John, and Robert; and Catharine, wife of Ralph de Hemenall.——John de Langham Eſq; his eldeſt ſon and heir, had two wives, but iſſue only by the firſt, who was Alice, one of the daughters and coheirs, of Sir William Coggeſhall, of Little Samford-hall, widow of Sir John Tyrell, of Herons. He dyed about the year 1417, in the life-time of his father. —— George Langham Eſq; his ſon and ſucceſſor, was ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, in 1449. Beſides the lordſhips of Langham in Suffolk, Hempſted, and Pantfeild afore-mentioned, he dyed poſſeſſed of the maner of Little Cheſterford in this county, which 'tis ſuppoſed came by Iſabel his wife, daughter of William Haſilden, lord of that place, with whom he lies buried in the chancel of Little Cheſterford, with an inſcription on his grave. Iſabel his widow out-lived him ſome time, and preſented to the rectory of this pariſh in 1469. Their only ſon and heir —— Richard Langham Eſq; had to wife Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Southcote Eſq; remarried after his deceaſe to Richard Welden Eſq; By Richard Langham ſhe had an only daughter named

Alice, who being a great heireſs had two huſbands if not more [L]. Thomas St. John Eſq; was her firſt, to whom ſhe bore five daughters. After his deceaſe ſhe contracted marriage with John Cotton Eſq; ſon and heir of John Cotton, of Ridware Hamſtall, in Staffordſhire, Eſq; deſcended from William Cotton, of Cotton in Cheſhire, who liv'd in the reign of Henry III. From a younger branch of this family, ſprung that renowned antiquary Sir Robert Cotton, Knt. and Bart. founder of the famous Cottonian Library. This gentleman upon his marriage with this heireſs came and liv'd at Hempſted and Panfield. He had by her three ſons, and as many daughters. He lies buried in the church of Panfield. His eldeſt ſon was Nicolas, who lies buried in Braughing Church in Hertfordſhire. Alice his widow ſurvived him, and dyed 16 May 1525, holding the maners of Hempſted and Panfield, of Catharine Queen of England, as of her Honor of Clare. Sigiſmund her ſon and heir, was upwards of four years old (h). She is interred with her huſbands in the middle pace of Panfield-church, with an inſcription on the grave-ſtone. —— Sigiſmund Cotton Eſq; ſucceeded her. He married firſt Brigett daughter of Thomas Sale of Callis and London, Gent. by whom he had—— William his ſon and heir. Jane, daughter of — Garniſh was his ſecond wife. He departed this life 5 January 1590, and was ſucceeded by —— William Cotton Eſq; his ſon, then aged 33 years (i). He married Anne, daughter of John Veſcay, of Cambridgeſhire, Eſq; and had by her Thomas, Henry, John, and Robert, all which dyed without iſſue; George, Giles, William: and two daughters, Anne, married to —— Goldingham I. C. D. and Catharine to——Rivet of Suffolk. He departed this life 16 Auguſt 1561, leaving his ſon and heir ——George Cotton Eſq; 18 years old (k): who had livery of Panfield-hall, and the advowſon of the Church before the year 1568. He took to wife Frances, daughter of Thomas Felton, of Playford in Suffolk, Eſq; and had by her Thomas, George, Antony, William: and five daughters, Beatrix, married to Robert Berners, of Greys-Inn, Eſq; Frances, to——Pepper, of Hempſted; Abigal to Robert Cooke, of Langham or Lanham, in Suffolk, Eſq; Anne, and Mary. He re-edified ſome part of the manſion-houſe, and dying 15 March 1592 (l), was buried the next day in Panfield church. He left the maners of Hempſted, Panfield-Hall, and Langham, to his eldeſt ſon and heir, ——Thomas Cotton Eſq; who married Anne, daughter of Sir Henry Warner, of Milden-hall in Suffolk, Knt. [M]. —— About the year 1611, he ſold the maner of Panfield-Hall to

Sir Henry Gawdy, of Claxton-Caſtle, in Norfolk, Knt. He left it to his ſon Antony, who about 1613, alienated it to

William Hart and William Stoke: Of whom it was purchaſed in 1616, by Laurence Waſhington; from him it paſſed by ſale to

James Heron Eſq; about 1617; who did in 1641, convey the premiſſes unto

Richard Fitz-Symonds, of Yeldham-magna, in this county, Eſq; [N]. He held this lordſhip for [K] Of this family was Sir William Watervile, who with other gallant gentlemen accompanied K. Richard I. to the Holy Land, and did ſignal ſervice againſt the infidels at the taking of Ptolemais, of whom the old poet Robert of Gloceſter, thus rymes;

Of the ſame family were no leſs than three Knights Bannerets, all living at the ſame time in this county, in the reign of Edward I. bearing theſe arms; —— Sir John de Watevile, Argent, three chevrons gules,——Sir Robert de Watevile, the ſame, within a bordure, indented ſable.——Sir Roger de Watevile, Argent, three chevrons gules, a martlet ſable. many years, not dying till 26 Septemb. 1680, aged 83. [ſee above, p. 303.] He left this eſtate by will to his nephew —— John Symonds of the Pool, in Great Yeldham, Eſq; who, by his will, dated 20th March 1691, gave it to his nephew

Martin Carter, of Great Saling-hall, Eſq; The latter on the 3d of July 1702. ſold this eſtate to

Richard Beale of Maidſtone in Kent, Eſq; who dyed without iſſue in 1712, and is buried at the upper end of the north-ſide of the Chancel of Pantfield-church. This maner then deſcended to his nephew —— Alexander Beale, of Hale-Place, in Kent Eſq; and belongs now to Guy's Hoſpital.

This lordſhip was from the Conqueſt holden of the Honor of Clare, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee, and to it was annexed the advowſon of the Church.

The maner-houſe is a large building, partly old and partly new. The hall was built in 1546, and the other new building of this houſe was erected in 1583. By whom this was done, may be learnt from theſe Capitals $_{\mathrm{G}}{}^{\mathrm{C}}{}_{\mathrm{F}}$ carved upon the mantle-piece in the dining-room, which ſtand for George Cotton, and Frances his wife.

2. Pantfield Priory.

William the Conqueror having founded an Abby at Caen in Normandy, in 1064, dedicated it to God, and St. Stephen the Proto-Martyr, and ſoon endowed it not only with lands in France, but alſo with ſeveral lordſhips in his newly acquired kingdom of England (m). His example was follow'd by ſeveral of the nobility and gentry, and amongſt the reſt, by Waleran Fitz-Ralph, a nobleman of Normandy, who, about the year 1070, gave to this Abbey his little maner [O] of Pantfield (n).

This donation was confirmed by K. William I. Henry II. Richard I. and Henry IV. (o).

What the ſtate of this maner was at the time of the general Survey, appears by the extract below, out of Domeſday-book [P].

How long after Waleran's gift the Priory-houſe here was founded, is not eaſy to be determined. Probably it was built either in the reign of King John, or Henry III. for in the year 1250, the Prior and Monks of this place had licence for a free warren [Q].

The Priory being thus founded [R], became a Cell to that great Benedictine Abby of St. Stephens at Caen in Normandy: and the reaſon of erecting thoſe cells was either for the increaſe of their own Order, or rather to have faithful ſtewards to their own lands; and by this means to augment the number of donations to the chief Convent. The Priors of this Convent had greater power, and were more conſiderable perſons than is generally thought; for ſeveral of them were Procurators-general to that Abbey throughout all England, to look after all their lands and rents.

Such was the ſtate of this Priory, till wars happened betwixt France and England; and then it was ſeized as a Priory-Alien.

The Alien Priories were firſt ſeized by K. Edward I. in 1285, upon the breaking out of a war between France and England (p). And they were alſo ſeiz'd by K. Edward II. though it is not mentioned by any of our Hiſtorians [S]. In 1337, or 1338, K. Edward III. on account of his wars with France, cauſed to be confiſcated all the goods and eſtates of the Alien Priories in England, that is, ſuch Priories as were cells to any monaſteries in France. He let out theſe Priories to farm with all their lands and tenements, at his pleaſure, during the ſpace of 23 years (q). Amongſt others, this of Pantfield, with that of Wells, were let to Sir Hugh Faſtolf, at the yearly rent of 40l. per annum, payable by equal portions, at Eaſter and Michaelmas; and 10l. per annum to a certain monk remaining there, for his maintenance. The reaſon why theſe Alien Priories were thus ſeiz'd, was, to prevent the carrying out of vaſt ſums of money to France, an enemy's country. When the King ſeized them, there were in England to the number of 110, beſides thoſe in Ireland, Aquitaine, and Normandy. But, after the end of the wars between the two neighbouring Nations, K. Edward III. reſtored the Alien Priories, with all their houſes, lands, and tenements (s).

This Priory being thus reſtored, continued in its former eſtate till the year 1414, when the Alien Priories throughout England, not conventual, were totally ſuppreſſed; being given by the Parliament of Leiceſter to K. Henry V. and his heirs for ever, except lands granted to the college of Fodringhay; and after the ſuppreſſion of theſe Monaſtic. Anglic. Vol. II p. 956, &c. Vol. I. p. 571. Frampton was afterwards made a cell to St. Stephens at Caen.

[S] This appears from the great Roll of K. Edward III. wherein it is ſaid, That Edward, the father of Edward III. having wars with France, did ſeize this Priory, and that of Wells, into his hands, and granted the cuſtody thereof to Robert de Stokes, then Prior of Pantfield, paying the accuſtomed farm of 76l. a year. From an original Roll, in the cuſtody of the late William Wright Eſq; and now we ſuppoſe of Sir Martin Wright, Priories, to the number of more than 100 Houſes, gold weights were appointed (t).

Few of theſe ſorts of lands were alienated by our former Kings to the laiety, till the total ſuppreſſion of Monaſteries in the reign of Henry VIII. but were, for the moſt part granted to ſome other religious houſe in this kingdom. However, this being thus veſted in the Crown, K. Henry V. in 1415, granted it, with the Priory of Wells, in fee to John Woodhouſe of Norfolk Eſq; to hold by the ſervice of a red roſe. His ſon John Woodhouſe Eſq; enjoyed it after him (u).

After this it returned to the Crown again, for K. Henry VI. did, 14 Febru. 1460, grant it in free alms to King's College in Cambridge (w).

In 1440 he had given ſeveral portions of Tithes belonging to this Priory out of the churches of Alveley, and St. Mary Bures in this county, and Fulborne in Cambridgeſhire, to his newly-founded College of Eton in Buckinghamſhire.

On the 5th of December 1461, K. Edward IV. granted the maner of Panfield, alias the Priory of Panfield, with all lands thereto belonging in Eſſex and London, to Greſild, widow of John Hende Eſq; to hold by the ſervice of one red roſe yearly, on St. John Baptiſt's-day, for all ſervices (x). The 25th of May 1471, Greſild Hende enfeoffed the Biſhop of Durham and others in the Maner of Panfield Priory, in truſt for Thomas Bourchier, Cardinal of St. Cyriac, and Archbiſhop of Canterbury: who, by licenſe, 30 November 1472, gave it, 8 February following, to the Prior and Convent of Canterbury. This Priory coſt the Archbiſhop 800l. a great ſum in thoſe days: and he was forced to make uſe of his intereſt with K. Edward IV. who was his kinſman [T], to have it ſettled according to his mind [V]. And, to preſerve it againſt an Act of reſumption paſſed 12 and 13 Edward IV. a Proviſo was inſerted, importing, that the 'ſaid 'Act, or any other Act made, or to be made, in 'that parliament, ſhould not extend, or be prejudicial to the letters patent, beryng date the 5th 'daie of December 1461, made to Greſilde, wyfe 'of John Hende the elder, ſquyer, of the lordſhip or maner of Panfield, with th' appurtenances (y).' Notwithſtanding which ſaving clauſe, this eſtate ſtill continued in the Crown, during this reign and that of K. Richard III. by reaſon of ſome defect in the Cardinal's feoffment. But, upon the Prior and Convent's petition to King Henry VII. the letters patent of K. Edward IV. to Greſild Hende, and the eſtate of the Prior and Convent were confirmed by Act of Parliament, 7 Henry VII. c. 12.

The eſtate continued in the Church of Canterbury till the general ſuppreſſion of Religious Houſes, when they ſurrendered it to the Crown. K. Henry VIII. 12 March 1538, granted it, with Bocking Park, and 400 acres of wood there; to

Sir Giles Capell of Raine-hall, to hold in capite to him, and his heirs for ever, by the ſervice of the 10th part of a knight's fee, and the yearly rent of 54s. 8d. at Michaelmas; with frank pledge, waifes, eſtrayes, &c. as fully as the late Prior held the ſame (z). Sir Giles obtained a licenſe, 12 Octob. 1549, to alienate it to

John Gooday of Braintree, clothier, and enfeoffed him with it three days after (a). The latter ſold it to his ſon—— John Gooday, 2 May 1575 (b) who, 7 June 1579, conveyed it to

John Seaman, of Chelmsford, woollen draper; ſome parcels excepted, which John Gooday the elder did, in May 1587, convey to John his ſon and heir, who, 1 June the ſame year, granted the parts excepted to John Seaman, upon a leaſe of 2000 years: and both father and ſon releaſed, 13 Auguſt 1599, all their right and title to Pantfield-Priory, &c. to the ſaid John Seaman, Gent. [W]. He lived at the Priory-houſe, where he dyed 6 Novemb. 1604, and was buried in this Church, under a marble ſtone. wih an epitaph. —— John his ſon and heir, LL. D. then aged upwards of forty years, ſucceeded him (c). He held this maner and meſſuage, and divers lands with appertenances; and Bocking-park: and departing this life 29 June 1623, was ſucceeded by his ſon——John Seaman Eſq; 20 years old (d): upon whoſe death, without iſſue, this eſtate fell to his brother —— Seamuel Saman Eſq; He dyed 27 March 1632; leaving, by Anne his wife — Richard his ſon and heir, then aged 7 years (e). He lived at Painſwick in Glouceſterſhire, and had for wife Catharine, one of the daughters of Martin Wright, of Oxford, Gent. one of the Aldermen of that city. He left his only daughter and heir, Catharine Seaman, who brought this eſtate in marriage to John Weſt Gent. ſon and heir apparent to John Weſt the elder, of Hampton Poyle, in the County of Oxford, Eſq; By indenture bearing date 14 October, 1664, this maner was ſettled on John Weſt, and Catharine his wiſe, and the iſſue of that marriage: and for default of iſſue, on the children of the ſurvivor of the huſband and wife. 45. SALING, GREAT, or OLD.

There are in this county two Salings, contiguous, but in different Hundreds; namly, Great, or Old, Saling, which we are going to treat of, and Little, or Bardfield, Saling, in the Half-Hundred of Freſhwell. They were not originally diſtinct; but, even at the time of the general ſurvey, comprized under the general of Salinges; which John ſon of Walerann, and his under-tenant Turſtin Wiſcart, held then, but had belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to a certain Freeman [Y]. The name ſeems to be formed from the two Saxon words, ꞅalh, ſallow, willow, or ꞅal, ſale, or reins, and inᵹ, a meadow.

Old Saling ſtands ſouth-eaſt from Little Saling, and is bounded on the other ſides by Shalford, Pantfeild, Raine, Felſted, and Stebbing. The village, which is 4 miles ſouth from Great Bardfield, is pleaſant, of a triangular form, incloſing a little common, or green, of five acres and a half, about which the houſes are all ranged in order, and very neat. At the north corner is the road to Gr. Bardfield, which, for about three furlongs, forms an avenue of tall elms, at the end of which ſtand the Church and the Hall. From Old Saling grove may be ſeen the Church and town of Danbury, and all the high grounds towards the ſouth from Tiptree-heath to Pleſhey.

Through part of this pariſh runs a Brook called Podds, or Ponds-brook, which riſes about Gr. Bardfield, and after having watered Panfield,

In Old Saling are two Maners. 1. Saling hall. 2. Picotts. And a capital meſſuage called Parks.

1. SALING-HALL.

Towards the end of K. Henry the firſt's reign, Sir Baldwin Wiſcart, ſon of Turſtin above-mentioned, held this maner with the Advowſon of the Church. His ſon and heir —— Sir Hugh Wiſchard paid ſcutage for his lands in Eſſex, in 1199, towards the charges of K. John's expedition into Normandy (g): whoſe ſon —— John Wiſchard, was the next and laſt of this family that had this eſtate.

From them it came to the knightly family of Bibeſworth, mentioned above, p. 86, ſeated at Bibbyſworth-hall in the pariſh of Kimpton in Hertfordſhire. —— Sir Walter de Bybbeſworth dyed poſſeſſed of this maner in the beginning of K. Edward the firſt's reign, and was buried before the altar of St. Peter, in the Church of Little Dunmow (h). His ſon —— Sir Hugh flouriſhed in the reigns of K. Edward I. and II. —— Sir John de Bibeſworth, his ſon and heir, held the maner of Saling of the Lord de Saye by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee; and alſo thoſe of Southhouſe, and Latton; and advowſon of Springfeild Church (i): He was ſucceeded by his ſon — Hugh de Bybeſworth Eſq; who by Amicia . . . . his wife had —— Edmund, that lived in the reigns of K. Henry IV. and V. and to the 13th of K. Henry VI. (k). He married Goditha . . . and had by her John; and two daughters, Joane, wife of . . . Glowſeter, and Agnes wife of Thomas Cotys of Warwickſhire, Gent. ——John the ſon dyed in 1448 or 1449, leaving his ſon and heir——Thomas, then 3 years old (l). He departed this life 29 Septemb. 1485; and in the Inquiſition taken after his deceaſe, we find this eſtate thus deſcribed: a capital meſſuage; and 26s. 8d. of free-rents: 46s. 8d. cuſtomary rents: 100 acres of demeſne lands, each acre worth 2d. four acres of meadow, each valued at 12d. three acres of common paſture; 11 acres of wood; another wood of 40 acres, in Stebbing. [Z]. Having no iſſue, his heirs were, Joane, [daughter of the aboveſaid Joane Glowſeter] wife of Thomas Barley junior; and John Cotys, ſon of the aforeſaid Thomas Cotys and Agnes: Joane Barley being aged 34, and John Cotys 24 years (m).

John Cotys had Saling-hall for his purparty. But, 10 Octob. 1486, he aſſigned it, with the appertenances, to Richard Pole, and others; and gave them peaceable poſſeſſion 12 Septemb. 1487. They conveyed it to

John Knight Eſq; and Emelyne his wife, widow of John Maxey Eſq; and to their heirs and aſſigns. And theſe laſt, 8 Decemb. 1487, gave poſſeſſion of the premiſſes to John Maxey, Gent. ſon of the aforeſaid Emelyne (n). We have given ſome account of this family above, under Bradwell, p. 156. What hath occurred further to us concerning it, properly comes in here.

It was originally of Cheſhire. The firſt of the name, was Organ Maxey, who had two ſons, Jordan; and Albert.——Jordan was father of — John, who, by a daughter of Tho. Grovenor, had, Thomas; John: Alice wife of Brian Pever, and Iſabell of Tho. Bengham. —— Thomas had 3 ſons; James, Antony, Francis: and a daughter. ——Sir James Maxey, the eldeſt ſon, by his firſt wife, ... daughter of . . . . Buckley, had, Robert, Chriſtopher; and two daughters. By his ſecond wife, daughter of . . . Goodman, he had no iſſue. Sir James's ſucceſſors, down to John Maxey Eſq; who became poſſeſſed of Saling-hall in 1486, were —— Robert, that married a daughter of William Bramme, and had two ſons, Antony, and Matthew; and two daughters. —— Sir Antony Maxey, by a daughter of Sir Thomas Ledſon, had his only ſon —— Sir John, that was twice married, 1ſt to Margaret daughter of . . . Doane, and had by her, James, Robert; and one daughter. By his 2d wife, daughter of . . . Aſhen, he had no iſſue. — James, the eldeſt ſon, by his wife, daughter and coheir of . . . Milbrome, had Thomas, Robert, Henry; and two daughters.——Sir Thomas his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, had by his firſt wife, daughter of Thomas Venables, George, Robert, Oliver; and two daughters. His ſecond wife was a daughter of John Davenport. His eldeſt ſon, ——Sir George Maxey, by a daughter of Richard Cholmley, had Thomas, Edmund; and two daughters. —Thomas Maxey Eſq; by . . . Marcy, of Puddington in Devonſhire, had his only ſon — John, who married a daughter of Humfrey Barrington Eſq; and had by her Edward, Richard, and John. —— Edward, the eldeſt ſon, by a daughter of Robert Huddleſton had Thomas, and John.——Thomas, heir and ſucceſſor to his father, by a daughter of Nicolas de la Pole, had Brian, John, and Thomas. ——Brian Maxey Eſq; by a daughter of Leonard Wolland was the father of —— John Maxey Eſq; He married Emelyne, daughter and heir of . . . Anger [A]; and had by her his only ſon, John. She took to her ſecond huſband John Knight Eſq; the purchaſer of Saling-hall, as above-mentioned. And he having no iſſue by her, conveyed that eſtate to her ſon John Maxey Eſq; as related above. She kept her firſt court here in May 1497, being then widow of J. Knight; and purchaſed, in 1509, half of the eſtate called Glanvills, of Henry Turner Eſq; Her ſon —— John Maxey Eſq; kept his firſt court at Saling-hall in 1516. He married a daughter of . . . Strangwich, by whom he had his only ſon——John Maxey Eſq; He held this maner of Great or Old Salynge; a windmill; meſſuages called Porlikks, Hickwrites, and Glamfeilds, in this pariſh; of Catharine Queen of England, as of the Honor of Clare; the former by the fourth part of a knight's fee; and the three others in ſocage: the Rectory of this

Martin Carter Eſq; This family is originally of Lincolnſhire [B]. The firſt of that name who came into this county was Martin Carter, Gent. who lived at Redfanns in Shalford. He married Mary widow of Tho. Hunwick of Slowhouſe in Halſted; by whom he had his ſon and heir Martin, &c. He was living about the year 1642, but when he dyed, and where buried, we cannot find. —— Martin Carter Eſq; his eldeſt ſon, and the purchaſer of Saling-hall, &c. was of Queen's College in Cambridge, and of Gray's-Inn. He married, 5 Auguſt 1663, Elizabeth, only daughter of Antony Wolmer of Lincolnſhire, Eſq; by Elizabeth daughter of John Symonds of Gr. Yeldham Eſq; and had by her four ſons, 1. Martin; 2. John, an Attorney at law at Braintree, who, by Mary, one of the daughters of James Milbourne of Merks in Gr. Dunmow Eſq; had Milbourne Carter Eſq; [ſee above, p. 157.] &c. 3. Thomas, captain, or maſter, of a merchant-ſhip. 4. William, a bookſeller in London. He had alſo four daughters; Elizabeth, wife of Antony Maxey Eſq; [ſee above, p. 157.] Mary, wife of . . . Knowlſworth, of London; Anne; and Jemima. — Martin Carter Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, was of Chriſt's college in Cambridge, and of Lincoln's-inn, an accompliſhed Gentleman, and of ſingular learning. His wife was Mary Weſtwood, or Butler, by whom he had no iſſue. He made great alterations and improvements in the Houſe and Gardens here in 1699; but he ſold them, 11 April 1717, to Hugh Raymond Eſq; And they are now in his ſon —— Jones Raymond Eſq; who hath alſo the Great Tithes, and a good eſtate in lands here.

The manſion-houſe ſtands pleaſantly near the Church; by the road to Gr. Bardſeild, which, for about three furlongs forms an avenue of tall elms.

2. The maner of PICOTTS took its name from an ancient owner, Sir Ralph Picott, living in the reigns of K. Richard I. and K. John (q); and deſcended from . . . Picott, ſewer to Alberic de Vere, in K. Henry the firſt's time (r). Sir Ralph was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir William Picott, who, in the reign of King Henry III. held of the King in ca. in this vill of Saling, 180 acres of arable, by the ſervice of keeping one Spar-hawk; and 20 acres of meadow, 6 acres of paſture, and 13s. 9d. rent. —— Sir William his ſon and heir was 22 years old (s). [They had alſo the maner of Picotts in Ardley.] Sir William held this maner by the ſame tenure, of keeping one ſpar-hawk in the King's court at the King's coſt: and dying in 1283, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir Ralph (t): that held this maner by the aforeſaid tenure: only it is added, that the King was to find him maintenance for three horſes, three boys or grooms, and three grey-hounds; and the ſaid Ralph was to change the Spar hawk at his own charge (u). By Maud his wife he had two ſons, William; and Robert, which laſt was of Pateſwic: and departing this life in 1334, was buried in Dunmow Priory, to which he was a benefactor. The eſtate he held here is deſcribed to be 1 meſſuage, with a curtilage adjoyning of 12 acres, and 280 acres of arable, 11 acr. of meadow, 16 of paſture, 20 of wood, 17d. rent, and a pound of cummin. —— John, ſon of his ſon William then deceaſed, was his heir (w). This eſtate [of which 165 acres were holden of the King, by the ſervice aforeſaid; and 137 acres of Sir John Bibbeſworth, and the heirs of Geffrey de Reynes, lying in this pariſh, Shalford, Reynes, and Panfeild;] was ſold by John Picott [C], about 1349, to

Thomas de Maundevill, and Elizabeth his wife (x). This Thomas was of Black-Notley, where ſome account may be ſeen of him, p. 123. He ſold this eſtate to

Sir John Hende, who dyed poſſeſſed of it, and ſeveral others, 1 Auguſt 1418 (y). Of this Sir John, and his poſterity and ſucceſſors, we have given ſo full and particular an account above, under Bradwell, p. 155, 156, that we ſhall beg leave to refer thereto: only juſt mention here the Names of his ſucceſſors to this eſtate. —— John Hende the elder dyed in 1461. —— Greſild his widow in 1473. —— Joane, their only daughter, brought it in marriage to Walter Writtle Eſq; who was ſucceeded by his ſon and grandſon, both named

In Old Saling are two Maners. 1. Saling hall. 2. Picotts. And a capital meſſuage called Parks.

1. Saling-hall.

Towards the end of K. Henry the firſt's reign, Sir Baldwin Wiſcart, ſon of Turſtin above-mentioned, held this maner with the Advowſon of the Church. His ſon and heir —— Sir Hugh Wiſchard paid ſcutage for his lands in Eſſex, in 1199, towards the charges of K. John's expedition into Normandy (g): whoſe ſon —— John Wiſchard, was the next and laſt of this family that had this eſtate.

From them it came to the knightly family of Bibeſworth, mentioned above, p. 86, ſeated at Bibbyſworth-hall in the pariſh of Kimpton in Hertfordſhire. —— Sir Walter de Bybbeſworth dyed poſſeſſed of this maner in the beginning of K. Edward the firſt's reign, and was buried before the altar of St. Peter, in the Church of Little Dunmow (h). His ſon —— Sir Hugh flouriſhed in the reigns of K. Edward I. and II. —— Sir John de Bibeſworth, his ſon and heir, held the maner of Saling of the Lord de Saye by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee; and alſo thoſe of Southhouſe, and Latton; and advowſon of Springfeild Church (i): He was ſucceeded by his ſon — Hugh de Bybeſworth Eſq; who by Amicia . . . . his wife had —— Edmund, that lived in the reigns of K. Henry IV. and V. and to the 13th of K. Henry VI. (k). He married Goditha . . . and had by her John; and two daughters, Joane, wife of . . . Glowſeter, and Agnes wife of Thomas Cotys of Warwickſhire, Gent. ——John the ſon dyed in 1448 or 1449, leaving his ſon and heir——Thomas, then 3 years old (l). He departed this life 29 Septemb. 1485; and in the Inquiſition taken after his deceaſe, we find this eſtate thus deſcribed: a capital meſſuage; and 26s. 8d. of free-rents: 46s. 8d. cuſtomary rents: 100 acres of demeſne lands, each acre worth 2d. four acres of meadow, each valued at 12d. three acres of common paſture; 11 acres of wood; another wood of 40 acres, in Stebbing. [Z]. Having no iſſue, his heirs were, Joane, [daughter of the aboveſaid Joane Glowſeter] wife of Thomas Barley junior; and John Cotys, ſon of the aforeſaid Thomas Cotys and Agnes: Joane Barley being aged 34, and John Cotys 24 years (m).

John Cotys had Saling-hall for his purparty. But, 10 Octob. 1486, he aſſigned it, with the appertenances, to Richard Pole, and others; and gave them peaceable poſſeſſion 12 Septemb. 1487. They conveyed it to

PARKS, a capital meſſuage in this pariſh, about half a mile ſouth from the Church, was holden in the time of K. Richard I. of the maner in Felſted belonging to the Holy Trinity at Caen, by a family ſurnamed de Salinges. The firſt of this name I meet with, was Roger de Salyng, living in the reign of K. Henry II. who, by Alice daughter of Walter de Reynes, had —— Walter, father of — Alan, whoſe wife was Hawiſe daughter of Geffrey Botiler. By her he had — Robert de Salynge, an eminent Clergyman; that ſold the reverſion of it to Roger att Parke, ſon to William de Parco of St. Oſith, in 1293. It took its name from that family, which remained poſſeſſed of it till after the reign of K. Henry VIII. [D]; when they mortgaged it to Antony Maxey Eſq; and he conveyed it to John Ellis of Rayne, Gent. who was buried at Braintree 19 June 1651. Upon his deceaſe it deſcended to divers perſons, who ſold it to James Porter, Gent. that was ſucceeded by his ſon Nathanael Porter. . . . By the Arms of Vere, in the Hall-window, with quarterings of their ſeveral intermarriages, one would imagine that it once belonged to that noble Family.

It belongs now to John Yeldham, Eſq; who hath alſo a conſiderable farm called Onchors in this pariſh, and the ſite of the parſonage, and glebe-lands; and reſides in a good brick houſe, by the ſide of the Green, fronting the Hall, built in 1754.

Bleak-end farm, is a large farm belonging to the Right Hon. the Earl of Eſſex. And is undoubtedly what is deſcribed, in the Inquiſition taken after the death of Sir Giles Capell (z), as one meſſuage, 2 gardens, 60 acres of arable, 20 acres of meadow, 100 of paſture, and 10 of wood, holden of the maner of Great Salinge; and then worth 4l. a year.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 863l. 1s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. James, is neat, and of one pace with the Chancel; both tyled. In the Tower there are 3 Bells.

From the ſurvey in Domeſday-book, it appears that here was then a Prieſt; from whence it may be reaſonably inferred that this was then a diſtinct Pariſh, and had ſome place of worſhip. But the preſent Church is not ſo ancient, having moſt probably been erected about the reign of K. Henry II. when Sir Baldwin Wiſchard was lord of this place.

This Church was appendent to the maner of Saling-hall; and originally a Rectory, till the ſaid Baldwin gave it to the Priory of Little Dunmow [E]. It was appropriated, in 1131, to that Monaſtery, and a Vicarage ordained [F], of which the Prior and Convent continued patrons till their diſſolution. In 1536, K. Henry VIII. made a grant of this Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, to Robert Earl of Suſſex (a). But, 18 Decemb. 1539, he made a freſh grant of the ſame to John Maxey the younger Eſq; And 22 Septemb. 1542, a precept was iſſued to the ſheriff of Eſſex, that he ſhould order the Earl of Suſſex to yield poſſeſſion of this Rectory to the ſaid John Maxey (b). It hath ever ſince gone along with the maner of Old Saling-hall.

In the reign of K. Edward I. Amicia Baynard, of Little Reynes, gave 2 acres of land in that pariſh, to the Light of the Virgin Mary, in the Chapel ſituated in the Church-yard of Saling.

Emeline, widow of John Knight Eſq; gave an annuity of 12s. 4d. out of a tenement called Mares, for one Obit for ever.

46. STEBBING

lies weſt ſouth-weſt of Saling. The name is otherwiſe written in records Stabinge, Stebinge, Stebings, Stebbinge, Stibingham, Stobinge, Stubing: and ſeems to be derived from the two Saxon words, ſteb, a ſtump, or ſtock, and inᵹ, meadow, or paſture.

The lands of this pariſh belonged in Edward the Confeſſor's reign to Siward; but, at the time of the general ſurvey were holden by two great Norman Lords, Henry de Ferrers, and Ralph Peverell [G].

What was held by theſe two Lords is now contained in the Maners or Lordſhips of 1. . . . Stebbing-hall, 2. . . Porters-hall, and 3. . . Frier's or Prior's-hall.

1. STEBBING-HALL.

Though what was held by Ralph Peverell was the largeſt half, yet the Lordſhip of this pariſh ſeems to have been always in the Ferrers family; to whom likewiſe this eſtate of the Peverells came, as will be ſeen preſently.

Ralph Peverell married Maud, daughter of Ingelric, founder of the Collegiate church of St. Martin's le Grand in London, who having been concubine to William the Conqueror, then Duke of Normandy, had by him a ſon, William ſurnamed Peverell, from his father-in-law. This William was by the Conqueror made Earl of Nottingham. —— William his ſon and heir, having poiſoned Ralph Earl of Cheſter, about the latter End of K. Stephen's reign, fled away, leaving all his caſtles and poſſeſſions to the King's pleaſure; which were afterwards given by K. Henry II. to John, Earl of Mortain, his brother. Some, however, came to the family of the Ferrers in marriage with Margaret, daughter and heir of the ſaid William; as Higham in Northamptonſhire, afterwards called Higham-Ferrers. Ralph Peverell had by Maud three ſons, Haman, one of the Barons of Roger de Montgomery, Earl of Shrewſbury; William, Caſtellan of Dover, and founder of Hatfield-Priory, called Hatfield-Peverell; and Pain, ſtandard-bearer to Robert Curthoſe in the Holy-Land, to whom K. Henry I. gave the Barony of Brunne in Cambridgeſhire.

The other part of this pariſh, holden by Henry de Ferrers, continued in his Family for many ages, till it came to Sir Edward Grey, ſecond ſon of Reginald Lord Grey of Ruthin, who married Elizabeth the daughter and heir of Henry Ferrers, ſon of William Lord Ferrers of Groby.

The Ferrers were one of the moſt noted families in England, as appears from the hiſtory at large, in Dugdale's Baronage; in Auguſtine Vincent; and in the Black Book of the Exchequer, p. 219. &c. Henry de Ferrers was one of the Commiſſioners appointed by the Conqueror to take the Survey of Worceſterſhire. He held at that time 210 Lordſhips, of which 5, namely, Tileteia, Stibingham, Stepla, Udeham, Cinga, [rather Ginga, now Butſbury] lay in Eſſex. The chief ſeat of this family was Tutbury-Caſtle, in Staffordſhire. He was ſucceeded by —— Robert his ſon and heir, who, for his valour in the battle of North-Alverton, was created Earl of Derby by K. Stephen; and dying in 1139, was ſucceeded by his ſon and heir. —— Robert, Earl of Derby, founder of the Abbey of Merevall in Warwickſhire, where he was buried, being wrapped up in an ox-hide. —— William his ſon, ſucceeded him, and marrying Margaret, daughter of William Peverell Earl of Nottingham, had by her Robert, and Walcheline de Ferrers, Lord of Eggington in Derbyſhire. —— Robert, Earl of Derby and Nottingham, had by Sibilla, daughter of William de Braoſe of Brecknock, William, Melicent wife of Roger Lord Mortimer of Wigmore, and Agatha, concubine to K. John. He founded the Abbey of Tiltey, jointly with Maurice Fitz-Geffrey. —— William Earl Ferrers his ſon, was with King Richard I. in the Holy-Land, and dyed at the ſiege of Acon in 1191, leaving his ſon —— William, who, in the year 1199, was created Earl of Derby, by a ſpecial charter, and girt with a ſword by the king's own hand; being the firſt of whom in any charter that Expreſſion is uſed. [ſee above, p. 31.] In 20 Henry III. inquiry was made of lands belonging to the Normans and Britans in Eſſex; and it was found, that William de Ferrers held in Stebbing 20l. worth of land per annum of the king's gift, which Hugh de Colume held. This land doubtleſs was the eſtate holden by Ralph Peverell, which, coming to the crown, was given to this William. He married Agnes, one of the ſiſters and coheirs of Ralph Earl of Cheſter; and living with her 75 years, they both dyed the ſame month in 31 Hen. III. leaving —— William his ſon and heir, who, by Sibil, one of the coheirs of William Mareſchal, Earl of Pembroke, had ſeven daughters; and by Margaret his ſecond wife, one of the co-heirs of Roger de Quincy, Earl of Wincheſter [H], two ſons, Robert; and William, who ſeated himſelf at Groby in Lincolnſhire; alſo a daughter, Joane, married to Thomas Lord Berkley. —Robert de Ferrers was the laſt Earl of Derby of this family. Siding with the Barons againſt K. Henry III. he was taken priſoner at Cheſterfield, and by the Parliament ſtript of his vaſt poſſeſſions, which were ſettled on Edmund, the King's ſecond ſon. But after 3 years impriſonment his lands were reſtored to him, on condition he ſhould pay, on a certain day, fifty thouſand pounds to Prince Edmund; which he failing to do, his ſureties, to whom his lands were aſſigned for ſecurity, made over the ſame to the ſaid Prince and his heirs for ever [I].

William de Ferrers, father of this Robert, gave in 36 Hen. III. 1251, to his ſecond ſon William the maners of Woodham, Stebbing, and Fairſtead, with one meſſuage in Chiche in Eſſex, to hold of him by the ſervice of five knights-fees (c). By this grant the Eſſex eſtate was prevented from being ſwallowed up with the reſt of the Ferrers's inheritance. Of the gift of Margaret his mother, one of the daughters and co-heirs to Roger de Quincy, Earl of Wincheſter, this William had the maner of Groby in Leiceſterſhire. And by Joan, daughter of Hugh le Diſpenſer, he had William his ſon and heir, and Ann, married to John Lord Grey of Wilton. —— William his ſon ſucceeded him, and was ſummon'd to parliament 25 Ed. I. He dyed in 1324, leaving—Henry de Ferrers of Groby, his ſon and heir, who, in 1338, obtained a charter for a market every Monday at his maner of Stebbing; and a fair upon the eve and day of St. Peter and St. Paul, and two days enſuing. He dyed in 1343, poſſeſſed of this maner, leaving——William de Ferrers of Groby, who, by Margaret, daughter of Robert de Ufford Earl of Suffolk, had Henry his ſon and heir. His ſecond wife was Margaret, daughter of Henry de Percy, who ſurviving him, held the third part of the maner of Stebbing as part of her dowry. He dyed in 1371, holding this maner of the Duke of Lancaſter, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee (d).

Henry de Ferrers ſucceeding, had by Joan, daughter of Sir Thomas Poynings, two ſons William and Thomas. He died in 1388, having, on the 20th of December before, demiſed the maners of Stebbinge, Woodham-Ferrers, Fairſted, Merkes, and Blounts, to Robert Biſhop of London, and others (e).——William his ſon and heir had a ſon called Henry, who dyed before him, leaving a daughter named Elizabeth, to whom William left the eſtate of the Ferrers in this County (f): Thomas his brother, enjoying all thoſe lands that were entailed on the male heir (g). [See above, p. 31, 32.] From him are deſcended the Lords Ferrers of Chartley and Tamworth.

Elizabeth, daughter of Henry, eldeſt ſon of William, Lord Ferrers of Groby, juſt now mentioned, brought the Eſſex eſtate in frank marriage to Sir Edward Grey ſecond ſon of Reginald Lord Grey of Ruthin, who thereupon bore the title of Lord Ferrers of Groby, and by that title was ſummoned to Parliament 27 Hen. VI. to diſtinguiſh him from Lord Ferrers of Chartley. He dyed 18 Decemb. 1457, leaving —— Sir John Grey his ſon and heir, Edward created Lord L'Iſle, Reginald, ſlain in the battle of Wakefield; and Ann, wife of Sir Edward Hungerford. Sir John Grey married Elizabeth, eldeſt daughter of Richard Widvile, Earl Rivers, and was killed at the battle of St. Albans, 7 Febr. 1460, on the ſide of K. Henry VI. leaving two ſons, Thomas and Richard, both Knights. K. Edward IV. falling in love with Elizabeth their mother, when ſhe came to wait upon him in behalf of herſelf and ſons, made her his Queen. Her ſon Thomas, was advanced to the dignity of Earl of Huntingdon and Marquis of Dorſet, but being attainted of high-treaſon in the reign of Richard III. fled into Flanders, and followed the fortune of Henry Earl of Richmond; by whom, when King of England, he was reſtored to his eſtates and honors. By Cecily, daughter and heir of William Lord Bonvile, he had 7 ſons and 8 daughters. The eldeſt ſon, —— Thomas Grey Marquis of Dorſet, ſucceeded his father. By Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Wotton of Bocton in Kent, he had 4 ſons; Henry, who ſucceeded him; John of Pirgo in Eſſex; Thomas, and Leonard; and 3 daughters, Elizabeth, ſecond wife of Thomas Lord Audeley of Walden; Catharine wife of Henry Fitz Alan, Earl of Arundel; and Ann, of Henry Willoughby of Wollaton in Norfolk, Eſq; He dyed 10 1530, poſſeſſed of this maner, and of that of Woodham-Ferrers (h). His eldeſt ſon —— Henry Marquis of Dorſet, was created Conſtable of England during the Coronation of K. Edward VI. And, in right of his ſecond wife, Frances, eldeſt daughter of Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk, by Mary third daughter of K. Henry VII. widow of Lewis XII. King of France, was created Duke of Suffolk, 11 Oct. 1551. By her he had 3 daughters, of whom the Lady Jane was married to Guildford Dudley, 4th ſon of John Duke of Northumberland, and proclaimed Queen of England at the death of Edward VI. by which ſhe and her huſband both loſt their lives [K]. Her father, Henry Duke of Suffolk, was alſo beheaded, 23 Febr. 1544, for joining Sir Thomas Wyatt. But, before that time, he had alienated this lordſhip of Stebbing to

Sir Robert Southwell, it being then valued at 62l. 10s. 2d. an by him it was ſold to

K. Henry VIII. who, in 1545, exchanged it with

Sir Giles Capel of Raine-Hall, for the maner of Honeyland and Pentriches in the pariſhes of Enfield and Cheſthunt in the counties of Hertford and Middleſex; the moiety of the maner of Reveſhall, in the pariſh of Eaſt-Merſey in Eſſex; and the maner of Ditton Vallaunce in the county of Cambridge (i).

Sir Giles dyed 29 May 1555, poſſeſſed of the maner of Stebbing, and one park, with the appertenances, in Stebbing, and 20 meſſuages, 16 tofts, 40 gardens, 2 water-mills, 600 acres of arable, 200 acres of meadow, 500 acres of paſture,

2. The Maner of PORTERS-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands on the left ſide of the highway leading from Braintree to Stebbing-Church: It ſeems to be very old, and is moated round. From a family ſurnamed de Porter, it took the preſent name.

As far as we can obſerve, this is the eſtate that anciently belonged to Peverell, or at leaſt a main or chief part of it. John, ſurnamed de Stebbing, a younger branch of the Ferrers family, held it of the Honor of Peverell, and paid ſcutage for the ſame, almoſt all K. John's reign (l). It appears afterwards in Families ſurnamed Dunſtavill, Umfravill, Porter, and Badleſmere. In 1265, an extent was taken of this maner of Gilbert Dunſtavill; and of ſome tenements and lands of Robert Crevekers, in this pariſh (m). William de Umfravill, who dyed in 1296, held here of the heirs of Robert de Ferrar Earl of Derby, 1 meſſuage, 116 acres of arable, 5 acr. of meadow, 6 of paſture, 12 of wood, the 8th part of a water-mill, and 47s. rent. And of William Gifford, 10 acr. of arable, by the rent of 2s. 9d. per ann. And of Henry de Porter 4 acr. of arable, by the yearly rent of 1s. 1d. ——Ingram was his ſon and heir (n). This Sir Ingram was of the Angus family. For Margaret Percy, widow of Gilbert de Umfravill Earl of Angus, ſecond wife to William de Ferrers, Lord of Groby, abovementioned, did by her will, dated 26 April, 1347, give to this Sir Ingram a golden cup with a cover, having the arms of Percy and Ferrers thereon (o). Henry de Porter, and John de Porter [L], were owners of ſome part, in the reigns of K. Edward I. and II. Bartholomew de Badleſmere, who dyed in 1328, held, in Stebbing, 100 acres of arable of Henry de Ferrers by the ſervice of 8s. a year, and 1 pound of pepper, payable at the maner of the ſaid Henry de Stebbing. And 8 acres of Nicolas Fitz-John, by the ſervice of 12d. per ann. (p).

It was at length incorporated into the large poſſeſſions of the Capels, now Earls of Eſſex. Sir Giles Capel, who dyed 29 May 1555, held it of Qu. Mary, as of the Caſtle of Plecy, alias Plaſhey; it being thus ſet down in the Inquiſition, The maner of Porters-Hall, with appertenances, in Stebbing, and 20 meſſuages, 10 tofts, 40 gardens, 1 water-mill, 600 acres of arable, 60 acres of meadow, 500 of paſture, 100 of wood, with appertenances in Stebbing, Dunmow-Priory, Little and Great Saling (q). That noble Family hath alſo a farm called the Mount, and other eſtates, in this pariſh.

John de Stebbing held in this pariſh the fourth part of a hide of land, by the ſervice of keeping one Spar-hawk for the King. It was worth 40s. and K. Henry III. gave that ſervice to the Earl of Ferrers (r).

In the reign of K. Henry II. William Parmentanus held an eſtate here, by the ſervice of being the King's cheeſe-monger (s).

3. The CHURCH and Maner of PRIOR's or FRIER's-HALL.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, ſtands pleaſantly on a riſing ground at the upper end of the village: It is a large and lofty ſtructure. The body of the Church conſiſts of a middle pace, and two iſles. The Chancel is large, and the whole one of the beſt illuminated Churches in the Hundred.

It was originally a Rectory annex'd to the chief Lordſhip of this town, holden by the Ferrers. William de Ferrers Earl of Derby, about the reign of K. Henry II. gave this Church to the Knights Hoſpitallers of St. John of Jeruſalem; the grant being confirmed by his ſon Robert. Upon which the Rectory, or great Tithes, were appropriated to their Hoſpital, and a Vicarage ordained; of which the Priors continued Patrons till the diſſolution of that Order (t) [M]. This was no inconſiderable gift; for the Rectory formerly was of the yearly value of 260l. per ann. and the vicarage 120l.

Upon the diſſolution of the Abbies, this Rectory, &c. fell to the Crown: but it was ſoon diſpoſed of. For K. Henry VIII. in 1543, granted the Rectory of Stebbing, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, to Thomas Cornewall and his heirs; to hold in ca. by the 40th part of a knight's-fee (u). On the 22d of October 1548, he had licenſe to veſt them in truſtees for the uſe of himſelf and Joan his wife during their lives, remainder to Humfrey Cornewall, and Mary his wife, and their heirs (w). Humfrey, by licenſe, dated 9 Febr. 1567, alienated them to William Tiffyn, Gent. (x). And he, jointly with Mary his wife, by licenſe obtain'd 1 Octob. 1575, ſold them to William Fitch Eſq; being then deſcribed as 4 meſſuages, 1 dove-houſe, 4 orchards, 4 gardens, 200 acres of arable, 30 acr. of paſture, 10 of wood, 20s. rent, with the Tithe of grain and hay (y). In 1585, Thomas Fitch ſold them to William, and Bartholomew Brook: and, by licenſe dated 7 Septemb, 1601, the latter conveyed

Thomas, marrying Suſanna daughter of Tho. Calye had by her John, Thomas, William, Margaret, Alice, and Suſan. . . . John, the eldeſt ſon dyed 2 Octob. 1666. By Dorothy his wife, one of the daughters of Robert Lane of Campſey-abbey in Norfolk, Gent. he left his only ſon . . . . John Sorell, Gent. who dyed in 1671, and is buried in this Church [N]. Before his deceaſe, he and his mother ſued a fine of the premiſſes, and gave them to —— John Lane of Norfolk, Gent. that dyed in 1678; and is interred here. He had three ſiſters; one of which was married to Henry Manſir; and to his eldeſt ſon, Roger, Mr. Lane gave this eſtate. But he dying unmarried, it came to his father and mother, for term of their lives. And, after their deceaſe, it fell to Roger, ſon of Francis ſecond ſon of Henry aforeſaid. This Roger ſold it to Arthur Batt of London, merchant; who dying in 1731, left it to his brother —— Chriſtopher Batt Eſq; of Saliſbury.

The Impropriator, in right of the Rectory, hath the maner of Frier's-hall, or Prior's, ſo called from the Prior of the Hoſpital of St. John of Jeruſalem: and to it belongs a Court-Baron.

In this Church were a Chantry, and an Obit. The Chantry was founded by Sir John Bultell, clerk, and endowed with lands and tenements in this pariſh, valued at the ſuppreſſion, 10l. 18s. 10d.

The Obit was founded by John Gunnock, and endowed with a tenement and 16 acres of land [O]. The whole was granted to Thomas Golding Eſq; (z).

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 2168l. 1s.

47. FELSTED

comprehends the ſouth-weſt corner of this Hundred, and is a pleaſant and healthful pariſh.

The name is formed from the two words, Fell, a hill, ſtill uſed in the Northern parts of this kingdom; and ſtede, a place, qu. a hilly place: it being one of ſuch hills as this county affords. It is otherwiſe written in records, Feldelſted, Feleſtelda, Phenſted.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, this pariſh belonged to Algar, the great Earl of Mercia, ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 17, 362, 305, &c. Upon his deceaſe in 1059 his ſon Eadwine inherited it; but revolting againſt King William, his eſtates became forfeited, and the Conqueror gave This, with great Badow, to the Monaſtery of the Holy Trinity in Caen [P].

There were anciently ſeveral Maners in this pariſh.

1. Felsted-Bury is that which belonged to St. Stephen's Abbey. K. Richard I. and Henry III. granted them free-warren in Felſted (a). But they had no cell here; having one in the neighbouring pariſh of Pantfield.

This lordſhip remained part of the poſſeſſions of that Abbey, till, upon the breaking out of a war between England and France, the Priories Alien were ſeized by K. Edward I, and again by K. Edward II. and III. [ſee above, p. .] And though K. Edward III. by his letters patent, 6 Febru. 1361, generally reſtored to the Priories Alien their lands and revenues, yet theſe remained in the Crown, as appears by a Certiorari, 21 Ric. II. Upon this account K. Richard II. preſented to this Church in 1384, as his grandfather K. Edward III. had done in 1344 (b). This eſtate remained thus confiſcated to the Crown, till the Priories Alien were entirely ſuppreſſed, and their goods and revenues given to K. Henry V. in 1414; their yearly incomes then being valued at 322,000 marks per annum.

As it was not in that age grown a cuſtom to ſecularize thoſe endowments, but to annex or appropriate them to ſome other religious foundation; therefore K. Henry V. beſtowed this eſtate on the Monaſtery of Sion in Middleſex, founded by him in 1413, and dedicated to St. Saviour, St. Mary, and St. Bridget, for Nuns and Prieſts (c). Accordingly, the Abbeſs and Convent of Sion preſented to this Church in 1428; and this Lordſhip, and Advowſon of the Church, continued in that Houſe, till the general ſuppreſſion of Religious Houſes. Only the Maſter and Scholars of Queen's College in Cambridge preſented twice viz. in 1452, and in 1453, but by what right does not appear (d). In Sion-Houſe were ſixty Siſters, thirteen Prieſts, four Deacons, and eight Lay-Brethren. Near this was the Monaſtery of Carthuſians, called Bethlem. Theſe two convents had but one Church in common. The Nuns above, and the Friers below (e).

The laſt Abbeſs of this Houſe — Agnes — did, on the 17th of March, 1537, by ſpecial licence, alienate, among other things, to Sir Richard Rich, Chancellor of the Court of Augmentation, the maners of Felſted, alias Felſted-Bury, and Graunt-Courts, and one meſſuage in Felſted, in the tenure of Roger Wentworth Eſq; to hold to him and his heirs for ever, of the King, by fealty only (f). What a ſweet morſel this was for a hungry Courtier, will appear from the grant itſelf, which contained 40 meſſuages, 1000 acres of arable land, 100 acres of meadow, 1000 acres of paſture, 200 acres of wood, 40 of furze and heath, and 20l. rent, in Felſted, Barneſton, Stebbing, Plecye, Great and Little Dunmow, Great and Little Waltham, Great and Little Leighes, Reynes, the two Notleys, Braintree, Bocking, and Mapleſted, in the county of Eſſex. This extenſive grant contains whatever did of old belong to the Abbey of Caen, in Felſted and the neighbouring pariſhes. But how it was obtained, whether by purchaſe, or otherwiſe, does not appear.

The Maner of GRAUNT-COURTS, alias GRONKERS, mentioned in the grant, was part of the demeſne lands belonging to the maner of Felſted, to which it is now united.——The manſion-houſe was very large, and pleaſantly ſituated, on a riſing ground near the great road, leading from Reyne to Dunmow.

It took its name from an antient family of note, that flouriſhed here in the reigns of King Henry III. and Edward I. [Q].

Beſides Graunt-Courts, there was in this pariſh another Maner called HAVERING, which held of Felſted-bury, and contained part of the demeſne lands of that maner: But the manſion houſe ſtands in Rayne.

Another eſtate holden of Felſted-bury, and part of the demeſnes of the ſame, belonged to Roger Wentworth Eſq; third ſon of Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall, by Anne Tyrell. It conſiſted of a capital meſſuage, 40 acres of arable, 5 acres of meadow, 30 of wood; and, by licenſe dated 12 October 1539. was ſold by the ſaid Roger to Sir Richard Rich (g).

This very great acquirer engroſſed, ſoon after, all the conſiderable eſtates in this pariſh, as will appear by examining them ſeverally.

What has hitherto been mentioned, includes only the maner of Felſted-bury, with its appertenances. The following Maners, which are but nominal at preſent, had no dependance on the Abbey of Caen.

2. The maners of GLANVILLS, LAVER, and ENFIELDS, . . . that of FRENCHES, . . . WHELPSTON, or HELPESTON, . . . and CAMSEYS.

GLANVILLS, LAVER, and ENFIELDS. This maner lies in the pariſhes of Felſted, Little Leighes, Great and Little Waltham. It is made up of ſeveral parts, called by the names of the perſons that formerly held them.

Walter de Glanvill, who died in 1329, held in the Vill of Felſted, one Meſſuage, 44 acres of arable, 2 acres of paſture, 2 of meadow, and 2 of wood, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of 2s. 6d. per ann. except 4 acres of arable which he held of the Abbeſs of Caen, by the ſervice of 8d. a year (h). Geffrey was his ſon and heir: he had alſo two daughters, Margaret, wife of Stephen Aliſtre: and Alice.——Geffrey ſucceeded his father in this eſtate, and left it to his only daughter and heir

Alice, wife of John de Naylinghorſt. She died in 1342, poſſeſſed of Glanvills in Felſted, then conſiſting of 33 acres of arable, 3 acres of meadow, 2 acres and a half of wood, and 3s. rent. Alice Glanvill her aunt, was one of her heirs. John her huſband ſurviving her, held two parts of one meſſuage, 90 acres of arable, 7 acres and 3 roods of meadow, 1 acre and a half of paſture, 3 acres of wood, and 4s. 3d. rent, in Felſted of the king in ca.

The aboveſaid Margaret, and her huſband Stephen, had licence from the king to releaſe all their right in theſe lands to the ſaid John, which he held by the courteſy of England, after the death of Alice his wife (i).

ENFIELDS or Glandfields is a farm lying between Felſted and Hertford-End.

John de Enefield held in the vill of Felſted, of the king in ca. by the ſervice of 2d. per ann. 1 meſſuage, 40 acres of arable, 1 of meadow, and 6 of wood. He dyed in 1342, leaving —Robert his ſon and heir, and a daughter called Agnes, who are ſaid to hold one meſſuage, 40 acres of arable, 1 of meadow, 1 of paſture, 4 of wood, and 12d. rent, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of paying yearly 2d. to the ſheriff of Eſſex, for the time being (k).

William de Enefeld was high-ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, in 1356 (l).

This maner came afterwards to the Tyrells, for we find that Robert Tirrell had licenſe, 23 May 1540, to alienate the maner of Enfields and Glanfields, with the appretenances to Sir Richard Rich (m).

This maner has no Court, being ſwallowed up by that of Felſted-Bury.

The maner of FRENCHES, is ſo called from a family of note that flouriſhed in the reigns of the three firſt Edwards, Kings of England [R]. The maner-houſe is ſituated in Felſted on the great common, and is now called Frenches at the Fairy, near the Windmill, where the court was formerly held in a gravel-pit.

It centered, like the reſt, in the Rich family. For, Robert Lord Rich, ſon and heir of Richard firſt Lord Rich, held the maner of Frenches, and divers lands and tenements in Felſted, late Roger Wentworth's, of HENRY CAPEL Eſq; of his manor of Little Raine, in free ſoccage, by fealty and rent of 2s. 2d. (n).

The maner of WHELPSTON, alias HELPSTON. The manſion-houſe ſtands on a riſing ground by the road-ſide, as you go to Leigh's Priory; great part of it is demoliſhed.

It was antiently held by a family of this name. Thomas de Helpeſton held this eſtate in 1358 (o). And, in 1366, another of the ſame name was high-ſheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire.

Edmund de Helpeſton held it about the year 1373 (p).

Edward Bury, of Hadley in Suffolk, did, by deed, dated 8 July 1540, ſell to Sir Richard Rich Chancellor of the Court of Augmentation, all his maner of Whelpſton, alias Helpeſton, in Eſſex. And in the fine paſſed in Michaelmas-term, the ſame year, it is deſcribed as 70 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 40 of paſture, 10 of wood, and 20s. rent, in Felſted, Rayne, Braintree, and Little Leighs.

The maner of CAMSEYS, lies at the fartheſt part of this pariſh near Hertford-End, bordering upon Great Waltham.

It is called in Domeſday-Book, Keventuna [S], and is otherwiſe written in records, Camſey-hall, or Kemeſeke, as well as Kemeſec, Camſec, and Keuſec.

Geffrey de Mandeville, Earl of Eſſex, held Keventuna in the reign of K. Henry II. and under him it was holden by Henry de Camſe, as a knight's fee (q). He held alſo the maner of Samford.

Edmund Kewſek, who dyed in 1287, or 1288, held in Felſted 1 meſſuage, 126 acres of arable, 6 of meadow, 8 of paſture, and 7s. and a half-penny rent of aſſize of John de Balencomber, and his partners, paying yearly ſix marks, and 2s. for all ſervices. He had alſo the maners of Samford; and lands in Tilbury (r). He was ſucceeded in his eſtates by —— Edmund his ſon and heir, who by his wife Joanna had two daughters, Petronilla, and Iſabella wife of Robert de Wells, betwixt whom his eſtate was divided. Petronilla de Kemeſek dyed unmarried in 1313, leaving to her ſiſter Wells her part of the eſtate (s).

Joanna widow of Edmund de Kemeſek, dyed in 1331, leaving William ſon of Philip de Wells her next heir (t).

This lordſhip, together with the ſite of the Priory of Leighs, was granted by K. Henry VIII. to Sir Richard Rich, to be holden by knight's ſervice. [See above, p. 101.]

This Sir Richard was created, 16 Febru. 1546, Baron Rich of Leez; aud departed this life 12 June 1556, at which time he was found poſſeſſed of an immenſe eſtate, collected out of the ſpoils of the Monaſteries. He had particularly, in Felſted, the maner of Felſted-bury, and Grauntcourts; the maners of Enfeilds, and Glanfeilds; the maner of Whelpeſton, alias Helpeſton; the maner of Frenches; and of Camſey-barnes; the Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage: tenements called Butlers, or Gales, Rumbolds, Otefeild; and many other meſſuages, lands, tenements, &c. in Felſted, and places adjacent; with ſuch of the demeſnes of Lees Priory as extended within the bounds of Felſted (u): That is, the moſt valuable part, nay almoſt the whole, of this pariſh.

Theſe he tranſmitted to his poſterity and ſucceſſors: which were —— Robert Lord Rich, who dyed 27 Febru. 1580-1. —— Robert, created Earl of Warwick, 6 Auguſt 1618, and dyed 24 March following. —— Robert, Admiral to the Long Parliament [T]; who, beſides his two ſons Robert, and Charles, had, Anne married to Edward ſon of the Earl of Mancheſter; Lucy to John Lord Roberts; and Frances, to Nicolas Earl of Scarſdale. He dyed 19 April 1658 [V]. His eldeſt ſon —— Robert, by his firſt wife had his only ſon Robert, who married Frances daughter of Protector Cromwell, but dyed before him without iſſue. By his ſecond wife he had, Anne

[V] There hath been a kind of contradiction obſerved in Lord Clarendon's Hiſtory, which we ſhall take an opportunity of clearing here. It is in Vol. II. Part I. or as it is commonly numbered Vol. III. of the 8vo. edit. 1731. p. 210, where we have theſe words, ſpeaking of the Earl of Warwick, he "lived in ſo entire a Confidence and Friend- "ſhip with him, that when the Protector dyed, he exceed- "ingly lamented him." Compared with Vol. III. Part. II. or, as commonly numbred, Vol. VI. p. 647, where we meet with this paſſage, "He, [i. e. the Protector] ſeemed to be "much afflicted at the death of his Friend the Earl of War- "wick; with whom he had a faſt Friendſhip; though neither "their humours, nor their natures, were like." This laſt is true. But the former cannot be ſo: for the Earl of Warwick did not lament the death of the Protector, ſince the Protector outlived him ſome months. But this ſeeming contradiction was cauſed by the Editor of the foreſaid Hiſtory; who, not rightly apprehending his Lordſhip's meaning, altered the copy, by putting the word Protector, which was not in the original, inſtead of He; there being two He's near one another, which rather perplexed the ſenſe. The original ſtands thus in the Earl's MS. "When he died, he had "the honour to be exceedingiy lamented by him." Where, by the firſt He, is plainly meant the Earl of Warwick, qu. d. "When he [viz. the Earl of Warwick] died, he had the "honour to be exceedingly lamented by him, [i. e. the Protector.]

married to Thomas Barrington Eſq; Mary to Sir Henry St. John; and Eſſex to Daniel Finch Eſq; afterwards Earl of Nottingham. Their father Robert Earl of Warwick, dying without male-iſſue, 19 May 1659, was ſucceeded by his brother —— Charles, who dyed, 24 Auguſt 1673, without ſurviving iſſue. Mary his widow, ſiſter to the ever-memorable Robert Boyle, Eſq; departed this life 12 April 1678. [For a more particular account of this noble Family, ſee above, p. 101, 102.]

After the death of this Lady, the great eſtates of the family were divided between the Coheirеſſes of the two laſt Earls of Warwick, of the name of Robert.

Sir Charles Barrington, and Sir Henry St. John, had nothing in Felſted.

The Earl of Nottingham had only the nomination to the Free-Schoool, and the Alms-houſe.

The Earl of Scarſdale had but little of the eſtate in Felſted [W], what he had is now in poſſeſſion of John-Drigue Olmius, Lord Waltham; namely Whelpſtons.

The Earl of Mancheſter had that part of Leigh's houſe, and of the Park, which lie in this pariſh, and which the late Duke of Mancheſter, ſold to the Duke of Buckinghamſhire; whoſe heir Sir Charles Sheffeild, alienated it to Guy's hoſpital; being part of Leigh's-Priory, the Lodge, and Pond-park.

The greateſt ſhare by far in this pariſh fell to John Lord Roberts of Truro, in right of Lucy his Lady, namely, the maners of Felſted-Bury, Grant-Courts, Camſees, Enfields, Lavers, and Frenches, with the Rectory, and the Advowſon of the Vicarage, and ſeveral other farms [X].

John Earl of Radnor ſold this eſtate to. . . . Vandenbendy and John Rotherham Eſq; in truſt. Theſe Gentlemen conveyed it to Sir Joſiah Child, Knt. and Bart. from whom it deſcended to Sir —— Richard Child, late Earl Tilney, of Caſtlemain, in the kingdom of Ireland, of whoſe family we ſhall give an account in the Hiſtory of Wanſted, where he has a noble ſeat. It belongs now to —— John Earl Tilney.

Other eſtates in this pariſh; many of them diſmembred from the great Warwick eſtate. The demeſnes of Frenches, with two other farms, belonging to Mrs. Porter of London; [The name of Frenches is now loſt.] Felſted-place, and another farm, . . . to General Honeywood: Chablocks, . . . to Stane Chamberlayne Eſq; Stevens . . . to John Yeldham Eſq; Pot-aſh farm . . . to Thomas Brand Eſq; Shatter-glaſſes . . . to Scott, Gent. Pies-bridge to William Rayment, Gent. Moors . . . to Mrs. Wyatt: Greenfields . . . to Mr. Sorley's three daughters: Sawards . . . to Mr. Joſ. Nottage, jun. Garlands, and Loſſons . . . to Mr. Ambroſe Lilly: Brook-farm, and another, . . . to Mr. Sayer: Woods, . . . to Mrs. Minſhull: Stebbing-ford-farm . . . to Mrs. Smart. The Rev. Thomas Chapel; William Townſend, Gent. Daniel Richardſon; Henry Seabroke; and about 12 more, have alſo ſome lands here.

How large and extenſive, in this pariſh, were the Demeſnes of Lees Priory, [which I omitted taking notice of above, p. 100.] will appear by the following grants to that Houſe: Namely, 126 acres of arable, ſeven acres and a half of meadow, 13 of paſture, 2 and a half of wood, and 6s. 8d. rent, given, in 1369, by John French, Henry Dale, and others (w). One meſſuage, 1 toft, 1 mill, 110 acres of arable, 16 acr. of meadow, 16 of paſture, 6 of wood, 2s. rent, and 2 capons, given, in 1373, and 1415, by J. French, H. Dale, Roger de Wolfreton; John de Bohun Earl of Hereford, Sir Gerard Braybroke, John Doreward, and others (x). — One meſſuage, 84 acres of arable, 5 of meadow, 2 of alder, and 10s. rent, given, in 1392, by William Smith, William Couland, and Thomas Cook (y). — One meſſuage, 320 acres and a half of arable, 6 of meadow, 1 of paſture, 10 acr. and a half of wood, 28s. rent, in Felſted, the two Notleys, Gr. Leighs, Raynes, Gr. Saling, and Fairſted, given, in 1362, by Joh. de Oxeney, Richard Perrot, Roger Keteriche, and Richard le Rowe, to pray in the chapel of St. Mary in this Priory, for the ſoul of Tho. de Chabham (z). Theſe were undoubtedly included in the grant of the Priory to Sir Richard Rich; and a great deal of that land taken into the Parks.

Remarkable Tenures in this Pariſh.

Adam de Glanvyle held land of the yearly value of 100s. by the ſerjeancy of keeping a palfry in the King's ſtable. This ſervice was changed afterwards into a payment of 11s. 6d. per annum.

Walter de Glanville held 40 acres of land, by the ſerjeancy of carrying a ſeam of oats, at his own charge, to the king's horſes, whilſt the King remained between the Bridges of Stratford by London, and Colcheſter: That land was rented afterwards for 2 s. 6 d. payable yearly into the Exchequer.

John de Liſton held 10 acres of land, by the ſerjeancy of making three wafers for the King, on his coronation-day (a).

Geffrey de Glanville held certain lands and te-

[X] John Lord Roberts was ſon of Richard Roberts of Truro in Cornwall, Eſq; who was made a Baron 26 Janu. 1624, not by his own deſire, it ſeems; for in the ninth article of impeachment by the Houſe of Commons, in 1626, againſt the Duke of Buckingham, it is ſaid, "that knowing him to be rich, he forced him to take that title of honour; and that, in conſideration thereof, he paid ten thouſand pounds to that Duke's uſe." This John Lord Roberts was the perſon that adviſed the Earl of Eſſex to march into Cornwall, where his army was cooped up by the King, and all the foot forced to ſurrender to the King's mercy. After the Reſtoration, in which he had a great hand, he was made by Charles II. Lord Privy-Seal, and afterwards Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland. In 1679 he was created Viſcount Bodmin, and Earl of Falmouth, which title was ſoon chang'd for that of Radnor. He dyed in 1685.

Dionyſius Palmer Eſq; gave 2l. 12s. for one dozen of bread, to be diſtributed as before.

Mr. Tanner for a dozen of bread weekly, as before, 2l. 12.

Mrs. Sidney Boteler, of Felſted, by deed, in the year 1690, gave 7l. 12s. payable for ever out of the yearly rents of a certain meadow in Felſted, for the following purpoſes: For a dozen of bread, as above, 2l. 12s. For cloathing three boys and three girls, from eight to twelve years old, with coarſe ſtuff or bays of a dark colour, 2l. 8s. For teaching the ſaid poor children to read Engliſh, and inſtructing them in the principles of the Proteſtant Religion, at the rate of 8s. 8d. for each, per ann. 2l. 12s.

Mr. Thomas Woodroffe, late Vicar of Felſted, by his laſt Will, dated March 31ſt, 1711, augmented the Vicarage with twelve pounds a year for ever.——As there is no glebe land belonging to the Vicarage, he has given a meadow of near twenty acres to the Vicar, only out of it is payable Mrs. Boteler's charity above-mentioned.

Of the FREE-SCHOOL and ALMS-HOUSE.

Richard Lord Rich did, in the year 1564, found a Free-ſchool in Felſted, with good proviſion for a School maſter and Uſher, and appropriated to the uſe of the ſame, as follows: A good School-houſe ſtanding juſt before the ſouth-ſide of the Church, fronting the ſtreet: A good Dwelling-houſe for the Maſter, with a garden and cloſe adjoining, of about two acres, and other conveniencies, ſtanding upon the road leading from Felſted-Church towards Stebbing or Braintree: A convenient Chamber adjoining to the School for the Uſher.

He ordered the Chaplain of the foundation to be a Prieſt, choſen by the heirs of the founder, named and collated in writing. The Chaplain to be a School-maſter, to teach eighty male-children born in Eſſex. The Uſher to teach the Children in ſuch manner and form as the School-maſter ſhall direct. Upon complaint of the Maſter to the heirs, the Uſher is to be diſplac'd, and another put in his room. The School-maſter and Uſher not to be abſent above eight days in a quarter, without good excuſe. If the School-maſter or Uſher be removed, another to be put in within ſix weeks, or elſe the Biſhop of London may collate. If the Chaplain or School-maſter have any ſpiritual promotion other than by the gift of the heirs, then to be removed. A Sermon to be preached on Whit-Sunday in the afternoon, and at the end thereof this Pſalm, Deus miſereatur noſtri; and then a Collect, which is ſet down in the writings. The Church-wardens are to pay thirteen ſhillings and four-pence for the Sermon.

The Church-wardens are to make their account on Low-Sunday before the heirs, or any one whom they ſhall appoint, with the Vicar of Felſted, and the Chaplain and Uſher, or two of them, and two other honeſt perſons of the pariſh. The Church-warden to pay ſix ſhillings and eight-pence to the Vicar of Felſted, for his looking after the true execution of the foundation, and calling upon the Church-wardens to that purpoſe.

The ſame Lord founded alſo a good ALMS-HOUSE in this pariſh, 23d September 1564, for ſix poor people, with an orchard, a brew-houſe, barn, and other out-houſes, and a ſufficient quantity of paſture-land in Felſted, for keeping ſix milch-cows towards their maintenance; and a grove of wood, with liberty to fell ſome wood yearly for their fire-boot, and many other advantages and conveniencies, for their comfortable ſubſiſtence. Five poor, weak, old, impotent, lame perſons, and a grave woman to attend them, (i. e.) continually to provide, dreſs, and prepare their meat and drink, waſh and cheriſh the ſaid five poor people to the utmoſt of her power. If the Heir puts not in another poor man or woman into the place vacated, within one month's time, then the Chaplain and Church-wardens may place one. The woman of the houſe is to be removed out of her place, in caſe ſhe, through ſickneſs or weakneſs, become unable to perform her office; and if removed on any ſuch account, ſhe is to have the next place of the five that falls vacant; but not if ſhe be removed for leud living, falſe dealing, and miſuſing of her office. If any of the five poor people be of evil living, or converſation, a tipler, alehouſe-keeper, common drunkard, or common brawler and diſturber of the reſt, or a wilful waſter of any the goods and poſſeſſions belonging to the Houſe, or ſhall marry, or ſhall have any evil haunt to their lodging, or keep any children in the ſaid houſe: Then upon complaint made to and proved before the heir, or upon writing made hereof by the Chaplain, Church-wardens, or the Vicar of Felſted, and the farmer of the Bury, with two or three of the moſt ſubſtantial men of the ſaid pariſh, every ſuch perſon's place to be forthwith void.

Money-rents payable quarterly to the Church-wardens of Felſted, for the uſe and ſupport of this foundation, &c.

From Felſted-bury 20l. From Bromfeild parſonage 50l. 6s. 11d. more from thence by grant of the late Earl of Nottingham, 18l. In all 68l. 6s. 11d. From Braintree parſonage, 30l. 1s. 8d. From Matching parſonage, 29l. 4s. 6d. From a farm in Morton, 16l. 13s. 6d. more from thence by the late Earl of Nottingham's gift 22l. 13s. 4d. Tot. 170l. 6s. 5d.

(b) Inquiſ. 15 Edw. III.

[Υ] This gentleman was a native of Suffolk, of a good family. His univerſity education was at Trinity college in Oxford, as a gentleman commoner, where he commenced Maſter of Arts in 1633. Some years after, he travelled thro' Spain, Italy, Germany, and France, with Robert Devereux, the laſt Earl of Eſſex of that name, who had a particular friendſhip for him; and put him upon writing the Life and Reign of K. James I. which was printed at London in 1653, after his deceaſe, and is inſerted in the third Volume of the Complete Hiſtory of England. After the death of the Earl of Eſſex, he was received into the family of Robert Earl of Warwick, and was his ſteward. He dyed here, in October 1652, and lies buried in the Chancel of this Church. See An. Wood Athenæ, edit. 1721, Vol. II. col. 155.

Out of theſe rents are yearly paid as follows. To the Maſter, by quarterly payments, for his ſalary, 50l and by a late grant of the Earl of Nottingham to the Maſter, 14l. Tot. 64l. To the Uſher, 25l. and by a grant from the Earl of Nottingham to the Uſher, 7l. Tot. 32l. By the ſame grant, 3l. to be yearly put into the Foundation-cheſt.

Corn-rents quarterly to the Alms-houſe.

From Bromfeild-parſonage, 18 buſhels of wheat, and 29 of malt. From Braintree-parſonage, 16 buſhels of each. From Matching-parſonage, 18 buſhels of wheat, and 33 of malt. From Morton-farm 4 buſhels of wheat, and 4 of malt.

Four buſhels of each to be delivered monthly, accounting 28 days to the month, to the ſix poor people, and five ſhillings and four pence per month to one of the women, being the Houſekeeper, and three ſhillings and four-pence a-piece to the other five. The Church-wardens of Felſted ten ſhillings betwixt them out of Braintree-Parſonage; the reſt of the money ariſing from Braintree Parſonage, is for the reparation of the Alms-houſe.

And there are yearly provided, out of the rents, Herrings, to be given to the poor of the pariſh, not in the poors rate, on every Sunday in Lent; namely, Eleven barrels of white herrings, and eleven cades of red herrings, of which are diſtributed three barrels, and ſome part of the red, to the Church-wardens of Much Waltham, for the poor there; and two barrels, and a cade to Little Leighs, and the reſt to the poor of Felſted.

The names of the Maſters of this Free-ſchool, from the firſt foundation, are,

The Rev. Mr. Wharton.—Berryman, 1566.—Greenwood, 1577.—Manning, 1597.—Martin Holbeach, 1626,—Chriſtopher Glaſcock, 1650.—Simon Lydiat, 1690.—Hugh Hutchin, 1713.—John Wyat, 1725.—William Drake, 1750.

Among the remarkable Perſons bred at Felſted-School, were, Oliver, Richard, and Henry, three ſons of Oliver Cromwell, who came to this ſchool for ſome time after the Civil Wars broke out (c); undoubtedly by means of the Earl of Warwick, who had a great intimacy with their father.

And no leſs remarkable, were the moſt learned Dr. John Wallis, and Dr. Iſaac Barrow, who had part of their education at this ſchool (d).

The Church, dedicated to the Holy Croſs, is pleaſantly ſituated on a riſing ground in this village; and conſiſts of a middle pace, and two iſles. The Chancel is of one pace, but hath adjoyning to the ſouth ſide of it a chapel built by Robert the ſecond Lord Rich, for the burial place of his father and family. At the weſt end ſtands a ſquare Tower of ſtone embattled, with a lanthorn on the top, containing 5 Bells.

The patronage of this Church hath been all along appendent to the maner of Felſted-bury. When the great Tithes were appropriated to the Holy Trinity at Caen, a Vicarage was here ordained and endowed, of which the Abbeſs and Convent continued patrons till their lands were ſeized. Afterwards, when K. Henry V. conferred them on his Monaſtery at Syon, the patronage was, and remained in that Houſe till the general ſuppreſſion of Monaſteries, only the Maſter and Scholars of King's College in Cambridge, preſented twice, as I have obſerved above.

In 1539, K. Henry VIII. granted this Rectory, and Advowſon of the Church, to Sir Richard Rich, and Elizabeth his wife, with a field of 6 acres in Felſted, called the Rydeing (e): And from him they paſſed to the preſent patron, John Earl Tilney [Z].

There were two Obits in this Church; one endowed with a piece of land called Dunſtall: and another founded by Robert Collyns, and endowed with 2 acres and a half of land. All which were granted by Queen Elizabeth to William Tipper, and Robert Dawe (f).

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 375l.

In this pariſh was formerly a Free Chapel, called the Chapel of Camſeke or Camſey's, alias Hertford-Chapel, of which the Prior and Convent of Leighs were patrons. This chapel was dedicated to St. Margaret, and the Chaplain was called Keeper of St. Margaret's Chapel. When this Chapel was founded, or by whom, does not appear; but it is ſuppoſed to be very antient, and erected by ſome of the Kemſec family, near Hertford-end. In the London-Regiſtry it is called Capella de Hertford in parochia de Felſted. And we find there, that one John Boſch, of Great Bardfold, preſbyter, was preſented to it, 9 July 1329, by William de Teye, after the death of Richard de Theydon, the laſt Rector (g). The lands belonging to this Chapel were granted by Qu. Elizabeth, to Edward Wymark, 21ſt October 1591, to be holden of the maner of Eaſt-Greenwich, by fealty in free ſocage (h).

There are now no remains of this Chapel, though ſome falſely imagine it to be the ſame with Black-Chapel, about two miles from Hertford-End, lying in Great Waltham.

DUNMOW

THE HUNDRED OF DUNMOW.

THE Hundred of Dunmow is bounded on the Eaſt by part of the Hundreds of Chelmsford, Hinckford, and Freſhwell; on the North by part of the ſame Hundred of Freſhwell, and of that of Utlesford; which laſt bounds it partly on the weſt, as it is on the reſt of that ſide by thoſe of Harlow, and Ongar; and on the South by this laſt. It is long and narrow; being about 20 miles in length, and not above 8 in breadth, where broadeſt. From the chief town in it, that of Dunmow, it receives its name: And, as to Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, it is within the Archdeaconry of Middleſex.

This Hundred is in the diſpoſal of the Sheriff of Eſſex for the time being; though the Bailiffs are ſeldom changed, unleſs it is for abuſes offered or committed.

In this Hundred are 26 Pariſhes, which I treat of in the following order.

Dunmow-Great.
Dunmow-Little.
Eaſton-Little.

Willingale Dou.
Willingale Spain,

The name of Dunmow ſeems naturally to be formed from the two Saxon words, Dun, a hill, and mop, an heap; implying, according to ſome (i), a raiſed way: it ſtanding upon the old cauſey, or Roman road, that leads from Biſhop's Stortford to Colcheſter. Others derive the laſt Syllable from mapan, to mow, becauſe of the fruitfulneſs of this hill, where the mower ſoon fills his hand, (k). Others have derived it from two old Celtic words. Dunum, a dry gravelly hill, and Magus, a town; and placed here the old Roman ſtation, or city, Cæſaromagus (l). But the diſtances in the Itinerary ſufficiently confute this ill-grounded notion. And Cæſaromagus is better placed about Writtle or Chelmsford, as I have done in the Hiſtory of Colcheſter (m): from which opinion I have not yet found any reaſon to depart.—The name of this place is otherwiſe in records, Dunemauue, Dunmaw, Dunmage, Dunmawge, Dommauua, Dunmore, &c.

This Town ſtands upon a hill, in a good and pleaſant country; about 37 miles from London; but being no great thoroughfare, hath but a ſlender trade. The market-day is on Saturday; K. Henry III. granted it to John de Berners in 1253 (n): And here are two Fairs; on the 6th of May, and the 8th of November. It is within the Duchy of Lancaſter.

The Inhabitants were incorporated by letters patent 16 Febru. 2 & 3 Philip and Mary, by the name of the Bayliff and Burgeſſes of the Borough of Great Dunmow: confirmed by letters patent of Qu. Elizabeth, 19 May, 32 of her reign. The Burgeſſes are 12 in number, out of which a Bayliff is yearly choſen. The market-houſe and toll of the Fairs belong to them.

The Pariſh of Great Dunmow is large, containing within its extenſive bounds the following Maners. 1. The maner of Great Dunmow. 2. . . . . that of Merks. 3. Newton hall; and Mynchons. 4. Shingle-hall, or Olaves. 5. The maner of Martels. 6. The maner of Bigods, or Alsfereſtune. 7. South-hall, vulgarly Suſſe-hall.

1. The maner of GREAT DUNMOW.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Wiſgar, and a freeman, or two, held it: But at the time of the general ſurvey, part was holden by Richard ſon of Earl Giſlebert, tho' claimed by a Knight named Vitalis: and Hamo Dapifer, with his under-tenant Serlo, held the reſt [A]. Richard Fitz-Giſlebert hath been mentioned before, p. 249, 363. and will be more particularly mentioned under Thaxſted. This eſtate ſeems to have centered in Hamo, Dapifer, Sewer to the Conqueror, who had alſo Stambourne, and other eſtates in this county. Hamo left his inheritance to Mabel, eldeſt daughter and co-heir of Robert Fitz-Hamon his brother, who was married to Robert Earl of Gloceſter, natural ſon to K. Hen. I. from whom, by marriage, it became incorporated into the Clare family, wherein it continued till the Honors of Gloceſter and Clare were united to the Duchy of Lancaſter.

A family ſurnamed Fitz-Richard held this maner under the Earls of Clare. For we find it recorded, that Simon Fitz-Richard held twelve knights-fees and a quarter in Dunmowe, Finchſeild, Bolemere, and Bumſted in Eſſex, and in Penethorp, &c. in Norfolk, under Richard de Clare, Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, who dyed in 1262 (o).

Gilbert Fitz-William was ſummoned, at the pleas, or aſſizes, at Chelmsford, in 1285, to ſhew by what right he held a view of frank-pledge in Dunemauue-Magna; and Simon Fitz-Richard, why he held a court in Dunmore and Bernerſtone (p).

It was found that year that Nicolas Attenaſſe held a virgate of land here, by the tenure of providing a pound, for the King's bayliffs of this hundred to impound cattle, by the ſheriff's precept and ſummons of the Exchequer, and the bailiffs uſed to receive 6d.

Richard Fitz-Simon impleaded ſome in the King's-bench at Weſtminſter, in 1298, for hunting in his free-warren in Gr. Dunmowe (q). He held the ſame Knights-fees as above under Gilbert de Clare, who left three ſiſters his co-heirs.

Elizabeth his only daughter and heir, wife of Lionel Duke of Clarence, third ſon of K. Edward III. He dyed in 1368. Philippa, his ſole daughter and heir, was afterwards married to Edmund Mortimer Earl of March, who dyed in 1381, leaving——Roger his ſon and heir, whoſe ſon—Edmund dyed in 1424, and was ſucceeded by his ſiſter, Anne, wife of Richard de Coningſburgh, brother of Edmund Duke of York, by whom ſhe had—Richard Duke of York, father of K. Edw. IV. (r).

K. Henry VIII. granted this lordſhip, 10 June 1509, by letters patent under the ſeal of the Duchy of Lancaſter, to his Queen Catharine of Arragon, in ſatisfaction of dower. It was confirmed the ſame year by an act of parliament.

There belonged to it a park, which K. Edward VI. granted 12 June 1550, to William Marquis of Northampton, by the name of The Park of Dunmow, and all lands, arable, meadow, paſture, wood, and hereditaments, called by the name of Dannocke Park, with appertenances (s).

Sir Richard Weſton one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, was poſſeſſed of it, at the time of his deceaſe 6 July 1572. And his grandſon——Richard Earl of Portland, who dyed 13 March 1634, held Dunmow Park of the King in ca. of his Duchy of Lancaſter. —— Jerome his ſon inherited after him (t). It was undoubtedly granted by the crown to that family.

Dunmow Park lies at the Brook, on the right hand ſide of the road going to Braintree; the houſe was called the Lodge. Hereabouts ſtands a houſe of Sir John Barrington's Bart.

The Maner and Lordſhip of Dunmow continued in the crown til 1634, when William the firſt Lord Maynard bought it in fee-farm, from whom it hath deſcended to the preſent Right Honourable —— Charles Lord Maynard.

At the time of the ſale, this maner, beſides 12l. 8s. 11d. ½ for free rents, and 9d. for allowance of rents, was reckoned 24l. 19s. 7d. per annum, clear; which, at 28 years purchaſe, was 619l. 8s. 4d. The rent to be reſerved was 37l. 8s. 6d. ½.

2. The Maner of MERKS took its name from Adelof de Merc, who held it, at the time of the general ſurvey, under Euſtace Earl of Bologne. It had belonged in Edward the Confeſſor's reign to Edmar, a freeman [B].

The family of Merc has given name to many places in Eſſex, as Merks-Tay, Merks in Layton, and High Eſter, Merk-hall in Latton, &c. Simon de Merc held two fees, in Dunmow and Ronewell, in 1210, and 1211 (u).

Ingelram de Merc held, in 1258, this maner of the King in ca. of his Honor of Bologne; in comprehending then 500 acres of arable, 8 of meadow,

He had two ſons, Henry and Thomas; Henry dyed in his father's life-time, and left Elizabeth, married to Sir Edward Grey, who in her right was Lord Ferrers of Groby: [ſee above, p. 31,].

Sir Thomas, ſecond ſon and heir of William Lord Ferrers, granted a life eſtate in this maner to Sir John Bourchier and Elizabeth his wife (b). But Sir Thomas had it at the time of his deceaſe, in 1458 (c). He married Elizabeth one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir Baldwin Frevill of Tamworth, and had by her —— Sir Thomas, who dyed 22 Auguſt 1498, without iſſue. His next heir was his couſin,

Sir John Ferrers (d), who dyed 26 July 1511 (e). He married Anne, ſiſter of William Lord Haſtings, and had —— John, that dyed in his life-time; having had by Maud, daughter and coheir of John Stanley of Elford, his ſon —— John, who, by Dorothy, daughter of William Ruſhall, had —— Humphrey (f). This laſt married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Pegott ſerjeant at law, and had —— John Ferrers of Tamworth, who married Barbara, daughter of Francis Cockayne of Aſhborn.

John Melborn bought this eſtate of —— Ferrers of Tamworth: He married Eleanor, daughter of —— Mead of Great Eaſton; and departed this life 17 May 1594, leaving —— John his ſon and heir (g), who, by Joane daughter of John Slade of Warwickſhire, had —— Robert, that married Alice, daughter of —— Brage of Bulmere, and left —— Robert Milborn of Merks, born in 1621. This eſtate was holden of the Honor of Bologne and Mandeville both. Robert Milborn Eſq; ſold this maner and eſtate, about 600l. per ann. to

Sir James Hallet Knt. He died 31 Jan. 1733-4, and lies buried at Little-Dunmow, with Mary his wife. —— James Hallet Eſq; his ſon and heir, married Mary, daughter of Sir Ambroſe Crawley Knt. and their ſon and heir — James Hallet Eſq; is preſent Lord of Merks.

He hath alſo the maner, or reputed maner, of MYNCHONS in this pariſh, which belonged in Qu. Elizabeth's time, and in the laſt century, to William, Richard, and Philip, Glaſcock, Eſqrs. (h).

3. NEWTON-HALL,

ſtands about half a mile weſt from the Church. Uluric Cauua had it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; at the time of the general ſurvey, it was holden by Geffrey de Magnaville, and his under-tenant Hugh de Berners [C].

Some new buildings here, diſtinct from the town of Dunmow, muſt undoubtedly have given this the name of New Town.

An account of the Berners family will be more at large under Bernſton. The deſcendents of Hugh Berners held this eſtate down to the latter end of K. Edw. III.

Margery, wife of John de Gyſors, who dyed in 1305, held a moiety of Newton-Hall of Edmund de Berners, by the ſervice of the 8th part of a knight's fee. And 35 acres there of the King, as of the Honor of Albemarle (i). —— John de Berners held this, among other eſtates, under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Eſſex and Hereford, who dyed in 1372 (k).

John de Goldington, at the time of his deceaſe in 1419, held this maner, and 100 acres of arable, 20 acr. of paſture, 7 of meadow, and 10 of wood (l). —— Thomas was his ſon and heir. [Concerning this family ſee above, p. 8, 127, 197, 219.]

William Kymwolmerſh, who dyed 1 Octob. 1487, held the maner of Newton-hall of the Maſter of Pleſhey College, as of his maner of Bernſton-hall; —— Nicolas, his ſon and heir, was aged 47 (m). —— Richard Kindwellmerſh held it in 1562 (n), and —— Robert Kindwellmerſh, dyed poſſeſſed of it Thomas his brother and heir being forty years old (o) [D].

Robert Goſnold Eſq; had it in 1627, and ſold it to Richard Deards Gent. who dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1630 (p). He had a ſon — John, that dyed ſoon after him.

The next we find in poſſeſſion was Sir John-Swinnerton Dyer, Bart. ſon of Sir William Dyer of Tottenham in Middleſex, Bart. who had married Thomaſine, daughter and heir of Thomas Swinnerton of Stanway-hall, Eſq; [ſee a further account of the Swinnerton family above, p. 191.] Sir John Swinnerton Dyer married Elizabeth daughter of Rowland Johnſon of Gray's-Inn, Eſq; by whom he had 5 ſons and 4 daughters. He dyed 17 May 1701. His eldeſt ſon and heir was —— Sir Swinnerton Dyer, who, by his firſt wife, Anne, daughter of Edward Belitha, of Kingſton upon Thames, Eſq; had one daughter, Anne, maried to Paul Whitehead Gent. In 1741, He ſold Newton-hall to the truſtees of Sir Brownlow Sherrard, Bart. But that purchaſe not going forward it hath been ſince purchaſed by John Henniker Eſq; one of the Burgeſſes in Parliament for Sudbury; who has ſeveral other eſtates in this neighbourhood.

4. The MANER of SHINGLE-HALL, or OLAVES.

Olaves is about a mile ſouth from the Church. A great yew-tree ſtands near the manſion-houſe. Shingle-hall, and Olaves, moſt probably have been united, and went ſometimes by one name, ſometimes by the other.

Anſgar, and a Sochman of his, held theſe two parcels in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; but at the time of the ſurvey they belonged to Geffrey de Magnaville, whoſe under-tenant in one part was William [E].

William Glyne who dyed in 1361, held with Joane his wife, the maner of Shyngled-hall, of William de Bohun, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee.——William was his ſon and heir (q).

John Joſſelyn Eſq; purchaſed this maner of . . . Lloyd, and . . . Hevenden: and dying in 1525, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Thomas (r).

Richard Jennings Eſq; held this eſtate in 1627, and after him his ſon——Thomas (s). Of . . . . Jennings, woollen-draper in London, it was purchaſed by . . . Aſhton, whoſe daughter Elizabeth brought it in marriage to Mr. John Parker linnen-draper in London. His ſon and heir is —— John Parker of Whaddon in Surrey, Eſq; Here is a Court-leet and Baron: and this maner is called in the Rolls, the Maner of Shingled-hall, alias Olaves, cum Waldraines.

5. The Maner of MARTELS, is on the right hand ſide of the road leading from the Town to the Church.

It took its name from Martel, tenant to this and the next Maner, under Geffrey de Magnaville; who, as we ſee, had the chief part of the pariſh. But this maner had belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Anſgar, already mentioned [F].

We do not find for a long time through whoſe hands this eſtate paſſed.

In 1637, Robert Smith, Gent. held the maner of Martels in Great Dunmow. It was purchaſed of one of that family by

Geffrey Stane of Riſe in Hatfield Broad-oak, Eſq; from whom it came, as the Hatfield eſtate, to his grandſon ——Stane Chamberlain Eſq;

6. The Maner of BIGODS, or ALFERESTUNE.

The manſion houſe ſtands about a mile north north-eaſt from the Church, towards Stebbing, and Lindſell. There hath been near it a Church, or Chapel, from which a field is ſtill called Chapel-field. This was a hamlet belonging to Great Dunmow.

It took the name of Bigood from its ancient owners. For Walter Bigood Eſq; dyed 16 March 1387, and was buried in this church (t).

Alfreſton, or Alfereſtun, ſeems to have been denominated from ſome ancient poſſeſſor; perhaps named Alfred. qu. Alfredſtown. We find mention here of Great and Little Alfreſton; and ſometimes as diſtinct from Dunmow.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, this belonged, as well as the laſt, to Anſgar: and, at the time of the general ſurvey, to Geffrey de Magnaville, and his under-tenant Martel [G].

Hugh de Chatillion, Count de St. Paul, had this eſtate in 1201 [H]. —— Thomas Count de St. Paul is recorded to have had two fees in Donemowe, Alferſtone, and one of the Rodings, in 1210, and 1211: valued then at 34^{l}. per ann. (u).

Some time after it eſcheated to the Crown, and was granted, by the name of the maner of Alfetheſtun, to Reimund de Burgo, about the year 1226 (w).

And, afterwards, to Bartholomew Bygod, or le Bigod, who had free-warren here, in his maner of Anferton, or Alferton (x).

William de Bigod was enfeoffed in 1277, of the moiety of this maner, by —— Ralph Bigod: which Ralph dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1315 (y). As did ——Sir Walter Bigot 27 Nov. 1372, leaving—— Walter his grandſon, by his ſon Thomas, his heir (z). This laſt Sir Walter dyed in 1398, and held, with Iſabel his wife, the maner of Bacons in Daneſey of the Abbey of Bilegh; —William was his ſon and heir (a).

Iſabella, wife of John Doreward, held this maner, in 1426, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of one knight's fee (b). [See above, p. 192.]

Richard Fox dyed in 1434, ſeized of a third part; ——Anne was his daughter and heir (c).

Joane, wife of John Hotoft, held a third part alſo, at the time of her deceaſe in 1445; —— John Nowers was her ſon and heir (d).

We find it next in the Jenoure family; for a particular account of which, and of their ſeveral intermarriages, we beg leave to refer to the Baronettage, Vol. II. p. 112. This family was originally of Stonham-Aſpall in Suffolk. And the firſt that obtained this maner was John Jenoure, Eſq; ſon of William Jenoure of that place; and one of the Protonotaries of the Common Pleas. The 20th of April 1529, K. Henry VIII. granted him, and others, a pardon of intruſion into the maner of Alferſton, alias Bigoods, and 200 acres of arable, 500 of meadow, 150 of paſture, 200 of wood, and 10s. rent in Great-Donmow, alias Cheping-Donmow, to be holden in capite (e). He dyed 18 Septemb. 1542. ——Richard his ſon and heir, was then aged 31 (f). He departed this life 26 Novemb. 1548. Beſides this maner he held Lacheley-hall in Lindſell; Howbridge-hall in Witham, &c. (g); in which he was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Andrew, who dying 11 April 1620, left his ſon and heir —— Kenelm Jenoure, Eſq; born in 1573 (h). He was created Baronet 30 June 1628, and dyed 30 Auguſt 1629, leaving by Jane his wife, daughter of Sir Robert Clark Baron of the Exchequer,— Sir Andrew his eldeſt ſon and heir, who married Margaret, daughter of . . . . Smith, citizen of London, and had ſixteen children: Andrew his eldeſt ſon, married Sarah, daughter of Robert Milborn of Merks, Eſq; but dyed in the lifetime of his father, leaving —— Sir Maynard Jenoure his ſon, who ſucceeded his grand-father, and married Elizabeth, only daughter of Sir John Marſhal of Sculpens, Knt. by whom he had John; Maynard; Joſeph; and Mary wife of James Bellenden Eſq; ſon of the Lord Bellenden. —— Sir John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, dyed 28 April 1739, having married Joane, ſole daughter of Richard Day of Epping, Gent. by whom he had his only ſon —— Sir Richard-Day Jenoure, who dying 23 March 1743-4, aged 26, was ſucceeded by his kinſman——John, ſon of Joſeph aboveſaid; who married Anne daughter of John Sandford of Biſhop's-Stortford Eſq;

In 1763, this eſtate was purchaſed by Michael Pepper of Stanſted-Thele, a rich merchant; who hath alſo Lower-hall in this pariſh.

7. The Maner of SOUTHALL, vulgarly SUFFE-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands above a mile ſouth from the Church.

This maner ſeems to be made up of two parcels; belonging in the Saxons time to Algar Earl of Mercia, and a Freeman: and at the general ſurvey holden by William de Warenn, and Suene of Eſſex, and their under-tenants Guibert, and Edmar [I].

About the year 1263, Jollan de Durmers held the maner of Suffe-hall in Great-Dunmow of the King in ca. of the Honor of the Earl of St. Paul, by ſervice of a pair of gilt ſpurs, or 6d. per ann. (i). He held alſo of the fee of Ralph de Berners half a virgate, of the fee of John de Apeldersfeld half a virgate, two acres and half of the fee of Walter Fitz-Robert. —— Jollan was his ſon and heir (k), and is named in the Inquiſition de Dureſme. He held this maner, of the King, as above; it being deſcribed as one meſſuage, with a cloſe, 180 acres of arable, 14 acr. of meadow, 15 of paſture, and 70s. yearly rent. He held alſo 80 acres of land of John de Giſors; and of Warine Martell 14 acres——Edmond was his ſon and heir (l). He held this tenement called Southalle, containing then 200 acres of arable, 4 of meadow, and 8 of paſture: and he held of Stephen Cantebrigg and John Giſors 50 acres of arable, by the ſervice of 16s. 8d per ann. of the Prior and Convent of Dunmow 10 acres; 1 acre of Geffrey Glaſcoute, &c. Ada, Elizabeth, and Maud, were his daughters and heirs [K].

It became ſoon after veſted in the Priory of Dunmow. For K. Richard II. in 1389, granted licence to Robert Rikedon, Robert Knechbole, Tho. Houlet, and John Eleyne Clerk, to give the maner of Southalle to the Prior and Convent of Little-Dunmow, holden of the King. But 85 acres were holden of others; 47 acres of which were named Thurſtone's-lond, and Graunteſlond (m).

Nothing plainly ſhews who enjoyed this eſtate after the Diſſolution; but it may be preſumed, that it was the noble family of Radcliffe Earls of Suſſex; for Clopton-Hall, which was another name for this eſtate, or a part of it, was granted, among the reſt of the Priory's poſſeſſions, to Robert Earl of Suſſex (n); and holden by William Withipole, in right of Joane his wife, widow to Henry Radcliffe Viſcount Fitz-Walter. . . . The Lord Petre poſſeſſed it in 1634. It is now in the Drapers Company, purchaſed with the money of Mr. Bancroft, founder of the Alms-houſes at Mile-End.

Other Eſtates in this pariſh.

Four houſes and lands in this pariſh, about 15l. a year, are for the reparation of the Church.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 3647 l. 3s. 10d.

Roman coins have been found at Merks-hill, which is a ſign that there was a villa hereabouts, upon this Roman road from Colcheſter to Biſhop's-Stortford.

The Church ſtands near a mile north from the main ſtreet, in a bottom where it is naturally ſuppoſed the chief part of the Town formerly ſtood.

This Church, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is very lofty and large, conſiſting of a body and two iſles. The Chancel hath a ſouth iſle, and a Veſtry on the north, all leaded. At the weſt end a large and lofty tower, embattled, containing 6 Bells. About the door of this Tower on the outſide are thirteen ſhields. Some of the arms are well known, being thoſe of England, Mortimer, Bohun, Bourchier, Braybroke, Lovein, Coggeſhall, Quincy, Baynard; and alſo thoſe of Dureſme, &c. Theſe great men had, probably, been at one time or other, contributors to the building or repair of this conſiderable Church, which was the head of the Deanry of Dunmow [L].

Anciently it was a Rectory, and a Sine-cure, the Rectors preſenting to the Vicarage. The patronage of the Rectory was in the Duke of Clarence, and afterwards in the Mortimers Earls of March; till about the year 1479, when the Rectory was appropriated to the Dean and Chapter of the Collegiate Church of Stoke near Clare (o). From that time, the Biſhop of London, and the Canons, alternately preſented the Vicar till the diſſolution. In 1554 and 1559 the Biſhop of London alone preſented; and ſo have his ſucceſſors ever ſince in full right. Qu. Elizabeth, in 1590, granted the Rectory of Great Dunmow, which is a Maner, to John Aylmer Biſhop of London; and his ſucceſſors for ever (p). It is now leaſed to Sir George Beaumont, who hath a good Houſe in this pariſh: But the Parſonage-houſe ſtands down in a field near the Common going to Little Eaſton.

In 1678, Biſhop Compton endowed this Vicarage with ſix pounds a year.

2. LITTLE DUNMOW

lies eaſt of Great Dunmow, bordering upon Felſted and Bernſton.

The lands in this pariſh belonged in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Ailid, a free-woman; and to a certain free-man; and a Sochman. At the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by Ralph Baignard [M], or Baynard, one of K. William's attendants in his conqueſt of this kingdom; and ſo conſiderable, and high in his favour, that he rewarded him with 25 lordſhips in this county [N], and many more elſewhere. [ſee above, p. 21, 36, 135.] Baynard's-caſtle in London was his capital manſion, and head of his Barony. —— Geffrey. his ſon and ſucceſſor, was father of —— William, who, for ſiding with Helias Earl of Maine againſt K. Henry I. was deprived of his Barony and large eſtates; and they were given to Robert, a younger ſon of Richard Fitz-Giſlebert progenitor of the ancient Earls of Clare; from which Robert deſcended the noble family of Fitz-walter. His poſterity held this lordſhip after him, for ten generations; as parcel of the Barony of Fitzwalter; and the following are expreſly mentioned in the Inquiſions. Robert Fitz-walter, who dyed in 1328. John in 1362. Walter in 1386. Walter in 1432. Elizabeth, widow of this laſt, dyed poſſeſſed of it 14 June 1464 (q).

The PRIORY

here was founded in the year 1104 by Juga Baynard, ſiſter of Ralph Baynard. The Church was conſecrated by Maurice biſhop of London, at which time the foundreſs endowed it with half a hide of land. Saer de Quinci gave it 10s. yearly rent in Bradenham in Suffolk (*). Roger de Cantebrigg, in 1302, 10 acres of arable, and half an acre of meadow in Gr. Saling (r). They had alſo the Rectory of that Church, and advowſon of the Vicarage. In Burnham, the maners of Eaſtwic and Weſtwick; and the Rectory, and advowſon of the Vicarage. The Rectory, and advowſon of the Vicarage of Henham. A portion of tithes in Finching-field. Two parts of the tithes of the lordſhip of Norton. The tithes of the lordſhips of Paſfeld and Packleſham. The tithes of all the land that was Ernald Blake's in Bernſton. Two parts of the tithes of Eſſewell; and tenements in Clothale, and Wallington, in Hertfordſhire. A marſh in Belton, a tenement in Poſling-worth, and advowſon of the Church of Berton Bendiſh, in Suffolk. All the oblations in the Chapel in this pariſh, belonging to the Lord Fitz-walter's houſe [P]: the maner of South-hall or Clopton, &c. (s). In this Priory were maintained a Prior, and ten or eleven Canons regular of St. Auguſtin. At the ſuppreſſion, the yearly value was 150l. 3s. 4d. per ann. Dugdale. 173l. 2s. 4d Speed. The Liſt of the Priors may be ſeen in Newcourt (t).

There belonged to this Priory, a MANER, or reputed Maner, in this pariſh, as appears by the Letters patent of K. Henry VIII. wherein he granted to Robert Earl of Suſſex, and his heirs, the ſite of the Priory of Dunmow, the maners of Dunmow parva, and Clopton, with appertenances; and the Rectories and advowſons of the Vicarages of Little-Dunmow, Henham, Old Saling, Burnham; lands in Little-Dunmow called Rokewoods, and Newbought-lands; a water-mill called Brome-mill; lands called Bergholts in Tolleſhunt; meſſuage and land called Bumpſted in Great-Dunmow (u). This eſtate was ſold by Edward Earl of Suſſex, to Sir Henry Mildmay of Moulſham, Knt. who held it in 1640.

The Maner, in particular, known by the name of Priory-Place, or of Little-Dunmow, late the Priory, came, ſoon after the Reſtoration, into the hands of Sir William Wylde, Knt. and Bart. Recorder of the City of London; made, 16 April 1668, one of the Juſtices of the Common-Pleas; and, 21 Janu. 1672, one of the Juſtices of the King's-Bench. He had alſo the chief eſtate in the adjoining pariſh of Bernſton; and departing this life 23 Novemb. 1679, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir Felix Wylde, whoſe ſiſter and heir

Anne brought it in marriage to John Cockman, M. D. His only daughter was married to

Nicolas Tooke Eſq; and it now belongs to John Tooke Eſq;

The Monaſtery, which is now entirely razed, was pleaſantly ſituated upon a riſing ground.

Foundations of the old building are viſible on the ſouth-weſt ſide of the Church. And the preſent Maner-houſe ſtands where the offices of the Priory were.

The Collegiate Church was a large ſtately fabrick, the roof ſuſtained with rows of pillars of the Tuſcan order, of which ſome remain. The part which makes the Pariſh-church is the eaſt-end of the choir, with the north iſle. The Church dedicated to St. Mary, was for the uſe of the Pariſh as well as the Convent. The Prior and Canons preſented one of their body to the Biſhop to ſerve the cure, but he was not inſtituted as into a Rectory or Vicarage. Since the ſuppreſſion it is only a Donative, or Curacy, in the gift of the lord of the maner; and now of James Hallet, Eſq;

Here were buried ſeveral of the family of Fitz-Walter. Walter, the firſt of the name, ſon of Robert, dyed in 1198, and was buried with one of his wives in the midſt of the choir of Dunmow under a tomb of marble, ſtill to be ſeen, having on it their effigies curiouſly done in alabaſter at full proportion. This has been removed to the ſouth wall, and injured by the workmen. Robert, the ſecond, his ſon, was buried before the high altar; he died in 1234. Walter, ſecond ſon of Robert, dyed in 1259, and was buried in this Conventual church.

Walter Lord Fitz-Walter, laſt male of this houſe, was buried in this church under an arch in the wall, near the body of his mother; he dyed in 1432.

Sable, a croſs, argent, between 4 molets, or.

Between two pillars on the north ſide of the choir lies the figure of the fair Matilda, daughter of the ſecond Robert Fitz-Walter, concerning whom a fine ſtory hath been invented by the Monks of this Convent. The ſubſtance of it is, That K. John coveting this fair and precious Lady, and the father not conſenting to his unlawful deſires, that occaſioned a war, between him and his Barons. And the latter being received into the city of London, did the King and his friends a great deal of miſchief: As, on the other hand, the King deſtroyed principally Baynard's-caſtle, and ſeized the other caſtles and tenements of the Barons. Whereupon Robert Fitz-Walter, Roger Fitz-Robert, and Richard de Muntfichet croſſed the ſea, and went to invite the King of France to come and revenge their quarrel. Matilda abode [perhendinavit] in the mean time at Dunmow, where a meſſenger came to her under pretence of love, and becauſe ſhe would not conſent, he poiſoned all her liquors, and ſo ſhe dyed. And the King of France began to ravage England; but a truce [dies amoris] being made between the two Kings, Robert Fitz-Walter, who had been forced to fly the realm, was reſtored to K. John's favor, for his knightly atchievements and great ſtrength of body, in vanquiſhing an Engliſh Knight at a Tournement in France, before the two Kings; between whom peace was made by Robert's mediation. And afterwards the ſaid Robert, and the two Barons above-named, ſtaid always with K. John (w). This ſtory appears to me a fiction, fabricated by the Monks in favour of their patron Robert Fitz-Walter, partly to excuſe his raſhneſs and folly, in being one of the ringleaders that ſtirred up the King of France to come and invade this kingdom. A remedy, every unprejudiced perſon muſt think, worſe than the diſeaſe! Poor injured K. John's memory hath much ſuffered from the Monks. 'It can't be 'denied, as Mr. Rapin obſerves (x), but that 'the Monks have endeavoured to paint him in 'the blackeſt colours, in order to make the pro'ceedings of the Pope againſt him paſs the 'more ſmoothly down.' And I muſt add, that He doth not appear to have had any great Veneration, but rather a contempt, for them (y); enough to incenſe them againſt him. It is alſo well known from our beſt Hiſtorians, that the reaſon of the quarrel between him and his Barons, was not the ſame as this ſtory ſuggeſts.

Sir William Dugdale ſays (z), that a Chantry was founded in this Church, of two prieſts, to celebrate divine ſervice for the ſoul of Eleanor wife of Walter, the 3d Lord Fitz-Walter. John de Bohun Earl of Hereford, Sir Gerard Braybroke, Sir William Marny, John de Boys, and Clement Spice, obtained a licenſe, in 1411, to found ſuch a Chantry in this Church, and to give to the Prior and Convent the Church of Great Teye, for their own proper uſe for ever (a). But this grant ſeems not to have taken effect: for that Church doth not ever appear to have been in the diſpoſal of this Priory. [See above, p. 208.]

Roger de Salinges, about the year 1274, founded a Chantry, in the Chapel of St. Mary ſituate in the Court of this Priory, for the reception of ſtrangers, to pray for his ſoul, and the ſouls of ſome other perſons for ever; and endowed it with Much-mill, and the mill-pond, Much-feild, Much-feild-meadow, and other lands in Rayne (b).

Amongſt the JOCULAR TENURES of England, none have been more talked of than the Bacon of Dunmow. It does not appear who inſtituted this cuſtom; but 'tis generally thought it was one of the family of Fitz-Walter. The Prior and Canons were obliged to deliver it to him that took the Oath, by virtue, we may believe, of ſome injunction of a Founder or Benefactor, by which they held lands, rather than their own ſingular Frolick and Wantonneſs; or, moſt probably, it was impoſed by the Crown, either in Saxon or Norman times, and was a burthen upon the eſtate [Q], as the ſame cuſtom was at Wichenor in Staffordſhire. The Pilgrim, as he was upon this occaſion ſtyled, was to kneel on two ſharp pointed ſtones in the church-yard, now loſt, and to perform a ſerious act in jeſt.

The Form of the Oath he took before the Prior and Convent, was,

" You ſhall ſwear by cuſtom of confeſſion,
" That you n'ere made Nuptial tranſgreſſion;
" Nor ſince you were married Man and Wife
" By houſhold Brawls or contentious Strife,
" Or otherwiſe, in bed or at board,
" Offended each other in Deed or in Word;
" Or ſince the Pariſh-Clerk ſaid Amen
" Wiſhed Yourſelves unmarried again;
" Or in a Twelve month and a Day
" Repented not in Thought any way,
" But continued True in Thought and Deſire
" As when you joined Hands in holy Quire;
" If to theſe Conditions without all fear
" Of your own accord you will freely ſwear,
" A whole Gammon of Bacon you ſhall receive
" And bear it hence with love and good leave.
" For this is our Cuſtom at Dunmow well known,
" Tho' the Pleaſure be ours, the Bacon's your " own [R]."

[Q] This is ſufficiently evident from the Entries in the Regiſter, where it ſaid, that the party was ſworn, 'Secundum Charte formam,' and 'ſecundum formam donationis.' —— The Engliſh of the oath, as printed in the Monaſticon, Vol. II. p. 79. is not ſo ancient as the laſt being of the Monaſtery. We have made a few alterations in it, from a correct copy before us. —— It ſeems, the Oath was miniſtred with ſuch long proceſs, and ſuch ſolemn ſinging over the perſon whilſt kneeling, as doubtleſs made his pilgrimage ſufficiently painful. See Monaſtic. p. 78.

[R] The Oath for the Bacon at Whichenour is much more eaſily ſwallowed than this: And ſuch may that here of Dunmow have been, which the Lord, perhaps, got thus modelled to ſave his Bacon.

" Here ye, Sir Philip de Somervile Lord of Wichenour,

In the margin of Blount's Ancient Tenures the method of viding and demanding the Bacon Flyke is ſaid to be lated in K. Henry VII's time from a Roll in Fre

Then the Pilgrim was taken on mens ſhoulders, and carried firſt about the Priory-church-yard, and after through the town with all the friers, brethren, and towns-folk, with ſhouts and acclamations, with his Bacon borne before him, and ſent home in the ſame manner.

In the Chartulary, or Regiſter-book, of this Priory, now in the Britiſh Muſeum, there are entries, and memorandums, of Perſons that received the Bacon at ſeveral times; namely, Richard Wright, of Badeburgh near Norwich, yeoman, 27 April 1445.—Stephen Samuel, of Little Ayſton, huſbandman, in 1467.——Thomas Fuller, of Coggeſhall, 8 Septemb. 1510.

Since the ſuppreſſion of the Priory this cuſtom is ſtill kept up, and the ceremony is performed at a Court-baron for this maner, by the Steward, of which we have the following inſtances.

At a Court-baron of Sir Thomas May, Knt. holden 7 June 1701, before Thomas Wheeler, Gent. Steward, the homage being five fair Ladies, ſpinſters, namely, Elizabeth Beaumont, Henrietta Beaumont, Annabella Beaumont, Jane Beaumont, and Mary Wheeler; they found, That John Reynolds of Hatfield-Brodoke, Gent. and Anne his wife, and William Parſley of Much-Eaſton, butcher, and Jane his wife, by means of their quiet and peaceable, tender and loving cohabitation for the ſpace of three years laſt paſt and upwards, were fit and qualified perſons to be admitted by the Court to receive the antient and accuſtomed oath, whereby to entitle themſelves to have the Bacon of Dunmow delivered unto them according to cuſtom of the maner. Accordingly, having taken the oath, kneeling on the two great ſtones near the Church-door, the Bacon was delivered to each couple.

The laſt that received it, were John Shakeſhanks, wool-comber, and Anne his wife, of Wetherſfield, 20 June 1751.

EASTON.

There are two pariſhees of the name of Eaſton in this Hundred, contiguous, and lying north north-weſt from Dunmow; which are diſtinguiſhed from each other by the names of Little and Great, Eaſton.

The name of Eaſt-ton, or Eaſt-Town, ſeems to have been given them with reſpect to ſome of the adjoyning weſtern pariſhes; perhaps Stanſted. In Domeſday-book they are called Eſtanes, which appellation might be derived from the two Saxon words Eaꞅꞇ ꞅꞇan, i. e. eaſt ſtone; but why that name ſhould be given them we cannot diſcover, they ſtanding at ſome diſtance from, and not upon, the Stane-ſtreet, that paſſes through Dunmow. They are otherwiſe written in Records, Eſtames, Eiſton, Eyſtanes, Eyſton, Eſtaynes, Eſtaynys, Eſtones.

is the neareſt to Dunmow. Beſides Little, as being the leaſt of the two Pariſhes, 'tis called Eaſton ad Turrim, Eaſton at the Tower; becauſe this Church had a Tower, and Great Eaſton had not.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the lands in this pariſh belonged to a free-woman named Duna; and to a free-man. At the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by William de Warenn; and by Geffrey de Mandeville, and his under-tenant Richard [S].

Even as early as William the firſt's reign, they were holden, of the Honor of Windſor-caſtle, by a family ſurnamed de Windſor. Walter de Wyndſor, caſtellan of Wyndſor in that reign, had ſeveral children, —— Robert Wyndſor, a younger ſon, was Lord of the Barony of Ewſton, [or Eaſton] in Eſſex and Suffolk. —— William his ſon, had a daughter and heir married to

Robert de Haſtings a Baron [T]. Delicia, daughter and heir to the ſaid Haſtings, was married to Henry de Cornhyll, then [V] to Godfrey, ſurnamed de Lovain, a valiant knight, brother to Heury Duke of Brabant, and his lieutenant of the Honor of Eye in Suffolk [W].

Matthew Loveyn, ſon and heir of Godfrey, in 1262, held this maner of Eyſtances at the Tower, of the King by Barony, and as the head of his

From hence it may be preſumed that this Bacon Tenure at Dunmow was originally from the Crown. —— It is obſervable that this Whichenour flyke, which was to be " hanging in the hall " ready arrayed at all tymes of the Yere, bott in Lent, to " be given to everyche mane or womane married, after the " day and yere of their marriage be paſt;" was alſo " to " be given to everyche mane of Religion, Archbiſhop, Prior, " or other Religious, and to everyche Preeſt after the yere " and day of their profeſſion finiſhed." And there were 60 acres of the fee of Mandeville, holden of the heirs of John Giſors by the yearly rent of 6s. 8d. to the maner of Newton (e). [This laſt is what belonged, at the ſurvey, to Geffrey de Mandeville.] The Lovain family had alſo eſtates in Wykes, Little Bromley, and Little Cheſterford in this County; Bildeſton in Suffolk; and in Godemanſton in Dorſetſhire (f).—Thomas Loveyn, ſon and heir of the laſt Matthew, held the ſame eſtates; and dying in 1345, was ſucceeded by his ſon — John (g). He dyed in 1347 (h). By Margaret his wife, daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas Weſton, he had two daughters, Alianore, and Iſabell. Margaret their mother dyed in 1349, and Iſabell in 1359 (i) [X]; whereupon

Alianore became ſole heir to the aboveſaid eſtates, and alſo to the maner of Brokeſheved. She was born in 1343 (k), and brought her conſiderable inheritance in marriage, on or about the year 1365, to her huſband . . . Sir William Bourgcher, or Bourchier. He dyed in 1420, poſſeſſed of this eſtate; and advowſon of the Church (l), wherein he was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Henry Bourchier, Earl of Eu, afterwards created Earl of Eſſex. He dyed 4 April 1483 (m). William his eldeſt ſon, who lies buried in this Church, dying before him, he was ſucceeded by his grandſon —— Henry Earl of Eſſex, who had the misfortune of being killed by a fall from his horſe, 13 March 1540, at his maner of Baſſe in Hertfordſhire, and was buried in Bourchier's chapel, adjoyning to this church. [ſee a further and particular account of this noble family, above, p. 253, 254.]

Anne, his only daughter and heir, was married in 1541, to Sir William Parr, Baron of Kendal; created, 23 Decemb. 1543, Earl of Eſſex; and Marquis of Northampton, 6 Febru. 1546. [ſee above, p. 254, 255.] By licence, dated 12 Oct. 1540, he alienated this maner, among others, [illegible]

Sir William Wriotheſley, afterwards Lord Chancellor of England (n). This is ſaid to have been for a ſettlement. It was afterwards ſome time in the Throckmortons: Sir Kenelm Throckmorton preſented to the church in 1558; and Kenelm Throckmorton Eſq; in 1581, and 1582 (o). Queen Elizabeth granted it, in the 32d year of her reign, to

Henry Maynard Eſq; by the name of the maner of Eſtaynes ad Turrim, alias Little Eſton, with appertenances; and a farm called Ravens, two meſſuages ſtyled Garrolds and Graynes; and the Park: to be holden in capite by the 20th part of a knight's-fee, and payment of ward ſilver to the caſtle of Windſor (p). The name of Mainard, or Maignard, appears in the liſt of thoſe that came in with William the Conqueror (q). This family was early ſeated in Kent, and longeſt in Devonſhire. Nicolas Maynard, of Brixton in the laſt-mentioned county, by his firſt wife, Margaret, daughter of John Ellys, of Ellys in the ſame county, had a ſon, John; and by his ſecond wife . . . had a ſon alſo named John; a thing common in thoſe times, to have two or more children of the ſame name. — John, the younger ſon, was ſeated at St. Albans in Hertfordſhire, and ſteward of that borough for life; which he repreſented in the Parliament that met in 1553; and was one of thoſe 39 members who abſented themſelves from the Houſe, rather than join in admitting the Pope's authority into this realm. He dyed 21 October 1556, and was buried in the Church of St. Michael in St. Albans; having of Lorrain and Brabant, had married Maud, the grand-daughter of Stephen King of England by his daughter Mary, who had been a nun, and at length abbeſs of Rumſey in Hampſhire, and after that was married to Matthew, ſon to the Earl of Flanders. Matthew had by her two daughters, whereof Maud the youngeſt had for huſband the forementioned Henry Duke of Lorrain. Mary, the daughter of K. Stephen, by the conſent of K. Henry II. poſſeſſed all the lands of her father in England, amongſt which was the honor of Eye in Suffolk, that came by marriage with her daughter Maud to the Duke of Lorrain. Theſe lands were confirmed to the ſaid Duke by K. Richard I. and his brother K. John; and the Duke held them for ſome time; but, in the beginning of K. John's reign, Duke Henry made a grant of them to his brother Godfrey, who upon that account came into England and took poſſeſſion of the honor of Eye, &c. Patent and Fine, 10 Hen. III. m. 5. From Godfrey of Lovain, ſurnamed Barbatus, or the Bearded, becauſe he had made a Vow never to cut off his beard till he had added to his dominions the Duchy of Lorain, are derived ſome of the beſt Families in Europe. The late Earl of Hertford, as ſon to the late Ducheſs of Somerſet, had a right to name him among his illuſtrious anceſtors, and conſequently to make good his pretenſions to a deſcent from Charlemagne, as well by him as by Jocelin of Lovain. And not only the Earl of Hertford, but alſo his Lady, and indeed all the poſterity of the late Lady Weymouth have a juſt claim to the ſame honour by their extraction from the Devereuxes Earls of Eſſex, who drew their blood from the Bourchiers Earls of Eſſex, that married the heireſs of the Baron of the Lovain.——Concerning the Deſcent of the Piercys from Charlemagne we have the Teſtimony of Mr. Camden in his Britannia: "William d'Aubney Earl of "Arundel, gave Petworth, together with a large eſtate, to "Jocelin of Louvain, a Brabander, brother to Adeliza ſecond "Queen of K. Henry I. a younger ſon of Godfrey duke of "Brabant, deſcended from the ſtock of Charlemagne, upon "his marriage to Agnes, one of the daughters and heirs of "Percy. Since which time the poſterity of that Joceline, "having aſſumed the name of Percy, have held it. A "Family certainly very ancient and noble, which derive their "deſcent from Charlemagne, by Gerberga daughter of "Charles, younger brother of Lotharius, the laſt King of "France of the Caroline Stock."

From Godfrey's elder brother Henry V. Duke of Lorrain, the preſent Landgrave of Heſſe is deſcended. We find many alliances of this family: Ogiva, the wife of Carolus Poſthumus, ſurnamed alſo the Simple, was daughter to Edw. I. King of the Weſt-Saxons before the Conqueſt. And Maud the wife of Duke Henry IV. was grand-daughter to King Stephen. Add to theſe, the ancient Dukes of Suevia and Saxony, the Landgrave of Thuringia, the Counts of Flanders and Limburg; and the marriage of the Emperor Louis le Debonaire with Judith the daughter of Welph the firſt Count of Altorp, one of the earlieſt anceſtors of the potent Houſe of Brunſwick; which Judith was mother of the Emperor Charles the Bald. The laſt of the male line of Charlemagne was Charles Duke of Lorrain, ſon of Louis IV. King of France, called Outremer, and right heir to the Crown of France after the death of [illegible] Louis V.

had two wives: firſt, Margaret, daughter of Ralph Rowlet, of St. Albans and Sandridge Eſq; ſiſter and coheir of Sir Ralph Rowlet, by whom he had Ralph, and two daughters. His ſecond wife was Dorothy, daughter of Robert Perrot, Eſq; widow of John Bridge, and by her he had Henry; Robert that dyed unmarried; and Dorothy married to Sir Robert Clarke, of Pleſhey, one of the Barons of the Exchequer. —— HENRY, the eldeſt ſon by this ſecond wife, and the firſt of this family that became ſettled here, was Secretary to the famous Sir William Cecil Lord Burleigh. He was a repreſentative in parliament for the borough of St. Albans in 1586, 1588, and 1597; alſo for the County of Eſſex in 1601; and ſerved the office of Sheriff in 1603, when he received from King James I. 7 May that year, the honor of Knighthood. By his Lady, Suſanna, daughter, and one of the co-heirs, of Thomas Pierſon, Eſq; Gentleman Uſher of the Star-chamber, he had eight ſons, William, his ſucceſſor; John, made Knight of the Bath at the Coronation of K. Charles I. who married Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Middleton of Stanſted - Montfichet; Charles, one of the Auditors of the Exchequer [Y], from whom is deſcended the preſent Sir William Maynard, Bart. Francis; and two others that ſurvived him; alſo two daughters, Elizabeth, wife of Sir Edward Bainton of Bromham, in Wiltſhire; and Mary, who was never married. He dyed 11 May 1610 [Z]. His eldeſt ſon — Sir William Maynard, Knt. ſucceeded him (r), He was educated in St. John's College in Cambridge, where he founded a Logick Profeſſor's place, with a ſalary of a year. Being one of the moſt conſiderable perſons in this county, he appears in the liſt of the firſt Baronets: which title was conferred upon him 22 May 1611. On the 30th of May 1620, K. James I. created him Baron Maynard of Wicklow in Ireland; and K. Charles I. advanced him, 14 March 1627, to the degree of a Baron of this realm, by the title of Baron Maynard of Eſtaines parva, otherwiſe Eſtaines ad Turrim and Little Eaſton. His Lordſhip departing this life 18 December 1640, aged 55, was buried near his father in this Church. By his firſt wife, Frances, ſole daughter of William Cavendiſh, [the firſt earl of Devonſhire of that family] which dyed 1 September 1613, in the 20th year of her age, he had one daughter, Anne. To his ſecond wife he had Anne daughter and heir of Sir Antony Everard of Great Waltham, Knt. [ſee above, p. 87.] And his numerous iſſue by her was, William the only ſon that ſurvived him; and 5 daughters, Suſan, and Jane, both which dyed unmarried; Anne, that became the wife of Sir Henry Wrothe of Durance in Enfield, Middleſex, Knt. Elizabeth married to John Wrothe of Loughton in this county Eſq; and Mary to Sir Ralph Bovey of Caxton and Longſtone in Cambridgeſhire, Knt. —— William the ſecond Lord Maynard, born in 1622, was one of thoſe truly worthy patriots, who did not run headlong with the Incendiaries in the laſt century, but were for taking proper meaſures to deliver this nation from the Tyranny of the Army, and reſtoring peace to theſe diſtracted Kingdoms: for which He, and the reſt of thoſe patriots, were impeached of high-treaſon, 8 September 1647 (s). A copy of the articles of their impeachment is in the poſſeſſion of the preſent Right Hon. the Lord Maynard; who hath alſo an original Letter of K. Charles II. to the ſaid William Lord Maynard his anceſtor, by which it appears how great a ſhare he had in the Reſtauration [A]. In conſideration of which ſervices, he was of the Privy-Council, and Comptroller of the Houſhold, both to K. Charles II. and K. James II. and Cuſtos Rotulorum of this county. His Lordſhip dyed 3 Febr. 1696. æt. 76, having had two wives: firſt, Dorothy, daughter and ſole heir of Sir Robert Banaſtre of Paſſenham in Northamptonſhire, Knt. ſecondly, Margaret, daughter of James Murray, Earl of Dyſert. By the firſt he had Banaſtre; and William, father of Thomas, and Preſcot, Maynard, Eſqrs. By his ſecond Lady he had Henry; and Elizabeth married to Sir Thomas Brograve of Hamels in Hertfordſhire, Bart. —— Banaſtre, the eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, married Elizabeth, only daughter to Henry de Grey Earl of Kent; and by her, who dyed 24 Sept. 1714, had eight ſons, and three daughters. His Lordſhip departed this life 4 March 1717, æt. 76. His ſons were, William who dyed unmarried 7 March 1716-17, Banaſtre, who dyed young; Henry; Antony, and Robert, both which dyed young; Grey; and Charles. The three daughters were, Amabella, married to William Lowther of Swillington in Yorkſhire, Eſq; Dorothy, to Robert Heſilrige Eſq; of Noſeley in the county of Leiceſter, ſon of Sir Robert Heſilrige Bart. and Elizabeth, who dyed ſingle, 4 Octob. 1720. —— Henry, the eldeſt ſurviving ſon, ſucceeded his father in honour and eſtate: and dying unmarried 7 Decemb. 1742. æt. 70. was ſucceeded by his next brother —— Grey, Lord Maynard, who dying alſo unmarried 27 April 1745, æt. 65. had for ſucceſſor his youngeſt brother —— Charles, the preſent Lord Maynard.

To the Right Honourable Charles Lord Maynard,
BARON of ESTAINES.

Eaſton Lodge is an ancient Edifice, but more convenient in ſeveral reſpects than many modern brick-buildings. It ſtands high, having a beautiful northern proſpect, of which the capital point of view is the noble Church and Spire of Thaxted: And within that view are included the four Churches in his Lordſhip's gift, with a conſiderable part of his demeſnes. It doth not want the modern Improvements of Shrub berries, Serpentine-walks, &c. And round about it is a very fine Park. The worthy owner hath been pleaſed to adorn this work with a proſpect of it, which faces this page. Adjoyning to the Eaſt end of this chearful and pleaſant ſeat is a very neat Chapel, built by William Lord Maynard in 1621 [B]. At the eaſt end of which is a beautiful window of painted glaſs in ſix compartments, repreſenting the Birth of Jeſus Chriſt; the Adoration of him by the wiſe-men; Judas betraying him; his Condemnation before Pontus Pilate; his Crucifixion, Reſurrection, and Aſcenſion. This Chapel hath been all along put to its proper religious uſe, by the pious exemplary owners.

They are poſſeſſed of the chief part of this pariſh; only, Embrige-mill-farm belongs to Lewis Way Eſq; and a few others are poſſeſſed of ſmall parcels of land here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 806l.

Charitable Gifts.

Dame Margaret Banaſtre, widow of Sir Robert Banaſtre, by a codicil to her will, dated the 3d of Oct. 1662, gives out of her perſonal eſtate twenty pounds yearly for the maintenance of four poor women of the pariſh of Little Eaſton, in the County of Eſſex, five pounds to be paid yearly to each of them by quarterly payments, and orders lands to be purchaſed for that purpoſe: accordingly her grandſon Banaſtre Lord Maynard purchaſes lands both freehold and copyhold in Magdalen and High Laver, ſettling the payment of twenty pounds yearly by quarterly payments as a proviſion for thoſe women clear of all taxes and charges whatſoever: he builds likewiſe houſes for their habitation, and orders them to be kept in good and ſufficient repair by money ariſing from the ſaid farm, lands, and premiſſes; and the women to be nominated and appointed by his Heirs; and declares this to be in compliance with and ſatisfaction of the direction and appointment of his late dear Grandmother Dame Margaret Banaſtre contained in a codicil to her will.

The CHURCH is of one pace with the Chancel; only, adjoyning to the ſouth ſide of this laſt there is a handſome Chapel, called Bourchier's Chapel, having been erected for the Burial-place of ſome of that family. It is now uſed for the place of Interment of the noble Lords of this maner; and monuments are erected to their memory. Both Church and Chancel are tyled, and kept extremely neat through the munificence and encouragement of the worthy patron. A ſquare tower at the weſt end contains 4 bells, and is enlivened at the top with ſome ornaments.

The Parſonage-houſe was handſomely rebuilt of brick by the Rev. John Pinſent, late Rector of this pariſh, and now Rector of Great Eaſton.

The Advowſon of this Rectory hath been always appendent to the Maner of Little-Eaſton.

Charles Lord Maynard hath ſettled for ever upon the Church-Clerk of this pariſh, and his ſucceſſors in the ſaid office, one meſſuage, or tenement, with its appertenances; to be at all times kept in ſufficient repair at the proper coſts and charges of the ſaid Charles Lord Maynard, his heirs and aſſigns, owners of the maner of Little-Eaſton. The like hath been done by his Lordſhip at his other pariſhes of Great Eaſton and Tiltey.

lies north of the other. It is otherwiſe called Much Eaſton, and in one place Eaſtaver (t); and Eaſton ad montem, either becauſe the Church ſtands upon a little hill, or on account of an artificial hill like that of Bures, that ſtands near the Hall.

One Achius, a freeman, was poſſeſſed, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, of this Maner; which belonged at the time of the general ſurvey, to Matthew Mauritanienſis [C], or of Mortaing; who had no more in this county beſides part of the pariſh of Margaretting. [ſee above, p. 52.]

This eſtate was holden by the Serjeancy of being the King's Lardner at his coronation. When this tenure began, doth not appear. William de Clinton held it ſo in the reign of K. Richard I. (u) [D]. And ſo did

Ralph le Moyne [Monachus] in K. Henry the Third's reign (w) [E]. There were four before him, ſurnamed de Moyne, or le Moyne; namely Geffrey, lord of Oreſhampton —— Sir Robert; another —— Sir Robert, father of —— Robert, and grand-father of the aboveſaid Ralph.

This Ralph had —— William, father of —— Henry, who gave the King 18l. for a relief for lands he held in Eyſton by the ſerjeancy aforeſaid, that had been ſo enjoyed by his anceſtor Ralph (x). He dyed in 1314, and Joane his widow in 1340 (y). —— John was their ſon and ſucceſſor; but we do not find the time of his death.—Sir Henry Moigne, the next mentioned, held this maner by knight's ſervice, at the time of his deceaſe in 1375. —— Sir John, his ſon and ſucceſſor (z); had a daughter named Elizabeth, that brought this maner, with the advowſon of the Church, in marriage to — Sir William Stourton, of a family of great antiquity in Wiltſhire, ſo denominated from the town of Stourton on the banks of the river Stour. He held this maner by great ſerjeancy (a). His ſon and heir —— Sir John was created Lord Stourton in 1447, and dyed in 1462, holding this maner, with the advowſon of the Church thereto belonging, by knight's ſervice, namely, of being the King's Lardner on the day of his coronation (b). His ſucceſſors were —— William, Lord Stourton —— John —— William —— Edward —— William and —— Charles. This latter being guilty of murther, and executed for it 6 March 1557 (c), his eſtates eſcheated to the Crown. But, before that, this eſtate was out of the Stourton family; For . . . . Sir Ralph Warren, Lord Mayor of London in 1537, dyed 11 July 1553, poſſeſſed of this maner, and advowſon of the Church, holding them by the ſerjeancy of being the King's Lardner, and Purveyor of his kitchen, on the Coronation-day [F]. — Richard his ſon (d), held it after him. But probably left no iſſue. For, dying 25 March 1597, he was ſucceeded by his ſiſter Johanna's ſon.

Oliver Crumwell, or Cromwell (e), of Hinchingbroke in Huntingdonſhire, Eſq; but Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Rowland Haward, widow of Richard Warren Eſq; and wife of Sir Tho. Knyvet, afterwards Baron of Eſcrick, enjoyed this eſtate for life, as her jointure. In 1597, Oliver Cromwell ſold, by licence dated 2 Septemb. the maner of Eſton, with the appertenances, and thirty meſſuages, twenty tofts, two mills, three dovehouſes, thirty gardens, thirty orchards, four hundred acres of arable, two hundred of meadow, four hundred of paſture, three hundred of wood, 60s. rent of aſſize, common of paſture, free-warren and fiſhery, view of frank-pledge, and advowſon of the Church, to Henry Maynard Eſq; and they have continued ever ſince in that noble family.

Blamsters,

another eſtate in this pariſh, took that denomination from a family. 'Tis vulgarly called Blanſted-hall.

Beatrix, daughter of William de Blammſter, who dyed 9 Edw. I. about 1280, held two carucates of land in the village of Eſtegnes ad montem, of John de Warren Earl of Surrey, by the ſervice of one knight's fee; and alſo lands in Little Canevel [ſee there] —— Elianor le Strange; Joane, wife of Sir William de Barentyne; and Maud, wife of Sir William de Bracey, were the ſiſters and heirs of the ſaid Beatrix (f).

George Pikenam Eſq; who dyed in 1499, held the maner of Blomeſters of William Lord Sturton, as of his maner of Great Eſton. —— Margaret and Elizabeth, daughters of Thomas his brother, were his co-heirs (g). [ſee above, p. 345.]

We find it next in the Jennings family. For George Mead, who dyed 22 May 1602, held lands called Great Ickley; in Eyſton-magna of Richard Jennings Gent. as of his maner of Blauncetors-hall (h).

The Kendall family, of Baſſingbourns in Takeley, became poſſeſſed of it afterwards. And of the executors of John Kendall Eſq; it was purchaſed by John Tayleure Eſq; Remembrancer of the Exchequer. 'Tis now in his grandſon —— John Tayleure Eſq;

A Grange here called Croys belonged to Tiltey Abbey. The 63 acres of land in Great Eaſton, given to Tiltey-Abbey by John de Aſhe and John de Newport, were probably part of this farm. K. Henry VIII, on the ſuppreſſion, granted it to James Gunter and William Lewis (i).

They ſold it to —— Thomas Everard, who, by licenſe dated 10 Octob. 1550, conveyed it to — William Fitch. And Fitch ſold it, in 1554, to John Meade of Henham, that had three ſons, John, Robert, and George. George Meade Eſq; his third ſon, had Nortofts in Finchingfield, &c. [ſee above, p. 366.] John the father dying, 22 May 1602, was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon and heir —— John (k); that married Ellen daughter of Nicollas Colin of Broxted, by whom he had four ſons. 1. Thomas of Henham, whoſe ſon John was of Matching. 2. John, to whom he gave Duton-hill in this pariſh. His two other ſons were, Robert, and William. He dyed 20 Decemb. 1614, aged 67 years. —— John his ſecond ſon, of Duton-hill, married Jane daughter of John Glaſcock of Roxwell, that dyed 23 Auguſt 1626. Their ſon and heir — John Mead, Gent. married Elizabeth daughter and co-heir of Robert Samford of Chapel in this county, and had by her 14 children. John, Robert, Thomas, George, Philip, William, Andrew, &c. and five daughters, Anne, Elizabeth, Agnes, Suſan, and Eſther. He dyed 8 Novemb. 1666, aged 84, having only 4 ſons, John, Robert, Philip, William, and 3 daughters, Elizabeth, Ann, and Eſther, ſurviving (l).——John, the eldeſt ſon, was a merchant in London, and dyed 9 Febr. 1689, aged 70. By his wife Sarah . . . he had John, who dyed 9 Decemb. 1710, aged 38, and two daughters, Anne that dyed 2 Janu. 1758, aged 87, and Rebecca, who dyed 20 June 1761, aged 85, both unmarried (m). This laſt was a Benefactor to this pariſh, as we ſhall ſee preſently. . . . Henry, youngeſt brother to their father, purchaſed of theſe two coheirs Dutton-hill, about 1721, and built a handſome brick-houſe there, which is enjoyed by his widow. She hath an only daughter, Elizabeth, unmarried. They had a ſon, but he dyed young.

Beſide the eſtates already ſpecified, there are ſeveral parcels in this pariſh, known by the ſeveral names of Nicolas's, Hornes, Cambridges, Williams, Brownes, Woolmers, Mayes, Crowes, Diars, Cocks at the Hill, Stevens, Algors, Segors, Edes, Cranes, Grymes, Rowes and Fiſhes, Rickſiers, Andres, Roſeloopers, Turners, Burges, Binwoods, Barres, Parkers and Garrards, Wolſies, Hedge-crofts, Birdſlands, Acremans and Wyats, Buttolphs, Muſkbridges, Hopkins, George's, Sereds, Freemans, Birdſcrofts, Fridayes, Segors of the Hide, Kirbyes, &c.

A Charity-School was founded in this pariſh, 11 Septem. 1759, by Mrs. Rebecca Meade, and endowed with a tenement, and one yard-land in Great Eaſton, called Kirbys; which being copy-hold was enfranchiſed by Charles Lord Maynard; lett at 30l. a year: and alſo two cloſes, called Cronehill, or Cramps, 12 acres; lett for 8l. a year, in Wethersfield; for clothing 10 poor Girls, natives of the pariſh of Great Eaſton, and teaching them to read, knit, and do plain-work; and inſtructing them in the principles of the Church of England.

As a proper Appendage to this Charity-ſchool, the Right Honourable Charles Lord Maynard, in 1761, did give for ever, one annuity or yearly rent-charge of Five pounds, to be paid out of Great Eaſton Hall Farm, without any abatements or deductions whatſoever, for a School-maſter to teach and inſtruct ſix poor boys of the pariſh of Great Eaſton, and the like number of the pariſh of Little Eaſton, if ſo many there be, or for want thereof to be made up of poor boys belonging to Great Eaſton aforeſaid, in reading and writing and common arithmetick. The ſaid poor boys to be choſen, and the ſchool-maſter to be nominated and appointed by the ſaid Charles Lord Maynard, his heirs and aſſigns, owners for the time being, of his capital meſſuage called Eaſton Lodge, in the pariſh of Little Eaſton aforeſaid. The Church Clerk of the aforeſaid pariſh of Great Eaſton for the time being, ſhall be appointed ſchool-maſter, if thought a fit and able man for that office, and if not, then the Church Clerk of Little Eaſton aforeſaid, if a fit and able man for that office, ſhall be appointed ſchool-maſter preferable to any other perſon.

A Houſe and Field, of about 4l. a year, was given for the uſe of the Poor. The Donor unknown.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1353l.

The Church, dedicated to St. John, is of one pace with the chancel, and tyled. The wooden Turret, which contains 5 Bells, hath lately been properly ſtrengthened and ſecured by brick-walls. This Church, like all the reſt in the noble Patron's gift, is kept extremely neat, and in very good repair. It is a very good Rectory, and hath been always appendant to the Maner of Great Eaſton.

The Right Honourable Charles Lord Maynard, by a deed inrolled in Chancery, 19 January 1761, did ſettle for ever upon the Church Clerk of this pariſh of Great Eaſton, and his ſucceſſors in the ſaid office, one meſſuage or tenement with its appertenances, lying and being in Great Eaſton aforeſaid; the ſaid meſſuage to be at all times kept in ſufficient repair, at the proper coſts and charges of the ſaid Charles Lord Maynard, his heirs and aſſigns, owners of the maner of Great Eaſton aforeſaid.

5. TILTEY

lies north of the two Eaſtons. The name ſeems to be formed from the Saxon Tilða, tilled or cultivated land. It is otherwiſe written in records Tileteia; and by miſtake, as we imagine, Tireteia.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Doding was owner of this pariſh; which at the time of the general ſurvey, belonged to Henry de Ferrers [E], mentioned above, p. 31. And it was holden afterwards of the Ferrers Earls of Nottingham and Derby. One Geffrey held it ſo about the reign of K. Henry I. as did his ſon——Maurice Fitz-Geffrey, in the time of K. Stephen. Leland calls him Muricius Ingliſch, once Earl of Eſſex, (n), and others ſtyle him Sheriff of Eſſex; but in neither of thoſe qualities doth his name occur in authentic vouchers.

On the 20th of May 1133, he founded here an Abbey for Ciſtercian Monks, dedicated to St. Mary, and endowed it with his whole land of Tileteia, without any exception. Robert Earl Ferrers, lord of the fee, or lord paramount here, confirmed this grant. From the Regiſter, or Ledger-book, of this Abbey, in the poſſeſſion of the Rt. Honourable Charles Lord Maynard, it appears, that it had lands and revenues in Chaurey, or Brokſted [F]; in Eiſtan ad montem [G], beſides Croys-grange; in Thackſted [H]; in Depeden; in Widington; in Newport; in Wenden; Littlebury; and Langley; in Elmedon, viz. Dudenho-grange; in Criſtehale; and Criſhale-grange [I], in Fulmere. They had alſo, a grange in Chigwell (o); 280 acres in Chickney; four parts of a fee in High-Eſtre; in Suffolk, a carucate of land in Bentley; paſture for 300 ſheep in Fakenham: And lands in Babraham, and Duckſworth, in Cambridge-ſhire (p).

Their Church was conſecrated in 1221, at which time ſeveral grants were made to them, in Gr. Eiſtan, Thacſtede, Dunmawe, Caneveles, Chaurea, Plicheden, Stebbing, Wetherfelde, Little Berdefelde, Arkeſden, Criſtehale, Rothyng Marci, Gr. Lees, Woodham Ferars, and Thorley (q).

Their revenues, at the time of their ſurrender, which was 28 Febru. 1535 (r), were valued at 167l. 2s. 6d. Dugdale. 177l. 9s. 4d. Speed. And the number of Monks here then, were ſeven.

The names of ſuch Abbots as have occurred to us, are as follows. Thomas Chiſhull in 1370. John Leighs in 1407. Simon Pabenham in 1437. John Oxford. John Browne, in 1520. John Palmer, the laſt Abbot, who ſigned the ſurrender [K].

K. Henry VIII. in 1542, granted to Sir Thomas Audeley, Lord Audeley of Walden, and his heirs, the ſite of this Monaſtery, and the Church, belfrey, and chapel; a manſion called the Founders lodging, and the Gueſt-hall; Tiltey grange; the maner of Tiltey; the Rectory, with a chapel belonging to the ſame: lands and tenements called Rycrofts; Bingemores meadow in Tiltey; Chawreth, Pleſdon-greene, and Broxſted, &c. To be holden in capite, by the 20th part of a knight's-fee (*). He dyed 8 May 1544, poſſeſſed of this maner of Tiltye, with the advowſon of the Church, and a grange there, and 200 acres of arable, 60 of meadow, 300 of paſture, in Eaſton, Broxted, Chaurothe, Henham, and Pleſdon (s). ——Margaret his eldeſt daughter, and at length ſole heir, brought this, with the reſt of her vaſt inheritance, to her two huſbands, Henry Dudley who was ſlain at St. Quintins in 1557; and Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk. By this laſt ſhe had Thomas, afterwards created Earl of Suffolk, and three other children. She departed this life 9 Janu. 1563 (t).

Thomas Howard Eſq; her eldeſt ſon and heir enjoyed it after her; but by licenſe dated 2 March 1587, he ſold the premiſſes, 1 April following, for the ſum of 5000l. to Henry Maynard Eſq; (u), and in his family it hath continued ever ſince, being now in the Rt. Hon. Charles Lord Maynard.

This Pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 528l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is of one pace with the Chancel, tyled. A ſmall Belfrey belonging to it contains only 1 Bell.

This Church was appropriated to the Abbot and Convent, who enjoyed all the Tithes great and ſmall till their ſuppreſſion. After which, it became a Donative, or perpetual Curacy, in the gift of the noble owner of the ſite of the Abbey and Maner.

The Rt. Hon. Charles Lord Maynard hath ſettled a Houſe, with appertenances, on the Church-Clerk of this pariſh, and his ſucceſſors in that office, for ever; in the ſame manner as he hath done at both the Eaſtons.

6. THACKSTED, or THAXTED.

This name ſeems to be formed from the two Soxon words Ðace, hay, and ſτeðe, place: and is otherwiſe written in records, Tacſtede, Tacheſteda, Taſtede.

The Town, and large Pariſh, of Thackſted, comprehends all the northern point of this Hundred, adjoining to thoſe of Utlesford and Freſhwell, and is watered by the river Chelmer. The earlieſt mention we find of this place is in the Monaſticon (w), where we learn, that the Col-

[I] The Ciſtercians, or White Monks, had Granges, that is Barns, in ſeveral places. And the reaſon of it was, That the lands they held in their own hands being diſcharged of Tithes, by Pope Paſchall II. and Hadrian IV. therefore in order to cheat the ſecular clergy, that is the Incumbents of Churches, of the Tithes, they held moſt of their Lands in their own hands, and had large Barns, or Granges, to lay up their crops in. [K] Some writers have greatly puzzled themſelves, by confounding this Monaſtery with that of Bicknacre in Woodham-Ferrers, and making them the ſame. They were miſled chiefly by the Monaſticon, where the title of this Abbey, is Tilteyenſis Abbatia, alias Wudeham, and where two charters belonging to theſe two different Houſes are placed together, as if they had been one and the ſame. What ſerved to increaſe their miſtake, was, theſe two Houſes having been founded by the ſame perſon, Maurice Fitz-Geffrey. Whereas, had they but obſerved, that they were founded at different times; ſtood at a conſiderable diſtance from each other; and were dedicated to different Saints, they might ſoon have found the truth. lege of St. John Baptiſt at Clare in Suffolk, founded by Eleuric in Edward the Confeſſor's time, had the Church of Tacheſted among other Revenues.

The Lordſhip of this town did then belong to Wiſgar, [ſee above, p. 226.] but was taken from him by Wm. the Conqueror, and given to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert [L], often mentioned before, p. 250.

We ſhall firſt give an account of him and his ſucceſſors in this, the chief Lordſhip of this town, and then take proper notice of the other Maners.

This Richard was ſon of Giſlebert, ſeated at Brion in Normandy, and grandſon of Geffrey natural ſon of Richard, firſt of the name, Duke of Normandy. Being related to the Conqueror, he came over to England with him, who loaded him with immenſe eſtates; [ſee above, p. 252.] and among the reſt Clare in Suffolk, from whence the family took the ſurname de Clare (x). His ſucceſſors were——Gilbert, who dyed in 1152.—Richard in 1156.——Gilbert——Roger in 1174.——Richard in 1218.——Gilbert in 1230.——Richard in 1262.——Gilbert in 1295; of all which we ſhall give a conciſe account [M].

Richard Fitz-Giſlebert married Rohaiſe daughter of Walter Gifford Earl of Buckingham, and had by her Gilbert, Roger, Walter, Richard, Godfrey, and Robert.——Gilbert the eldeſt ſon, and the firſt that bore the name of Earl of Clare, by his wife Adeliza daughter of the Earl of Clermont, had four ſons, Richard, Gilbert, Hervey, and Walter; and a daughter named Rohaiſe.—Richard, his eldeſt ſon, married Adeliza ſiſter of Ranulph Earl of Cheſter, by whom he had Gilbert, Roger, and Alice wife of Cadwallader-ap-Griffith Prince of North-Wales.

Gilbert his eldeſt ſon and heir, dying without iſſue in 1151, his brother——Roger ſucceeded, and married Maud, daughter of James de St. Hilary.——Richard de Clare Earl of Hertford his ſon and heir married Amicia daughter to William Earl of Glouceſter, who was heireſs to that Earldom.——Gilbert their ſon and heir, Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, married Iſabel, third daughter of William Marſhal Earl of Pembroke, and left——Richard his ſon and heir. This Richard being under age, Hubert de Burgh had the guardianſhip of his perſon and eſtate. King Henry III. intended to marry him to a daughter of the Earl of March, that he might ſecure that Earl to his ſide; but failing herein, he granted the benefit of this marriage to John de Lacy Earl of Lincoln and Conſtable of Cheſter, to the intent that he ſhould marry him to his eldeſt daughter. But Earl Richard clandeſtinely married Margaret daughter of Hubert de Burgh then Earl of Kent, which highly diſpleaſed the King, ſo that he procured their divorce, and married him to Maud, daughter of the Earl of Lincoln, as he deſigned; whereupon he endowed her with a third part of all his lands. He dyed in 1262, (y), and was buried at Tewkſbury; it was ſuſpected that he was poiſoned at the table of Peter de Savoy the Queen's uncle. His ſon and heir —Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, ſurnamed the Red, married, firſt, Alice, daughter of Guy Earl of Angouleſme, niece to K. Henry III. who gave her five thouſand marks. She becoming lunatic, he was divorced from her in 1285; but, in conſideration of her noble birth, he freely granted to her the maner of Thaxted and the Park, with ſome eſtate in Norfolk. His ſecond wife was Joane of Acres, daughter of King Edw. I. by whom he had Gilbert his ſon and heir, and three daughters, Eleanor, Margaret, and Elizabeth; he dyed at Monmouth-Caſtle, 7 Dec. 1295 (z), and was buried at Tewkſbury; Joane his Lady took to her ſecond huſband Ralph de Monthermer a plain Eſquire. Her ſon by her firſt huſband——Gilbert de Clare, ſurnamed the Red, Earl of Clare, Hertford, and Glouceſter, being then under age, had not livery of his lands; and when he obtained it, in 1307, he was forced to give ſatisfaction to the King for the time he wanted of being of full age. He was ſlain 8 July 1314 (a), at the battle of Bannockſburn near Striveling, where he commanded the vanguard of the Engliſh; but his body was ſent to K. Edward at Berwick without ranſom. By Maud, daughter of John de Burgh, ſon of Richard Earl of Ulſter, he had a ſon John, who dyed before him, ſo his three ſiſters became his co-heirs (b) [N].

Eleanor, the eldeſt ſiſter, was wife of Hugh le Deſpenſer junior. Margaret, the ſecond, was married firſt to Piers de Gaveſton, afterwards to Hugh de Audley, created in 1337 Earl of Glouceſter. Elizabeth, the youngeſt, had for her firſt huſband John de Burgh, ſon and heir of Richard Earl of Ulſter; for her ſecond Theobald de Verdun; and for her third, Roger Damory, who had ſummons to parliament 11, 12, 13, 14 Edw. II. (c).

[M] For a more particular account of this powerful family, which was very active among the Barons againſt K. John, and K. Henry III. ſee Mat. Paris, ed. 1640, p. 262, 995, &c. Richard Earl of Clare was the firſt of the 25 Barons that were Conſervators of Magna Charta. We ſhall give a Liſt of their very large eſtates in this county, under Great Bardfeild.

[N] Arms of the Clare family. Or, three cheveronels, gules.

Thaxted, then valued at 80l. per annum, came to the ſhare of Hugh de Audley. He was taken at the battle of Burrough-Brigg with the Earl of Lancaſter; and his lands were ſeized by the King, but his life was ſpared for the ſake of his wife.

Bartholomew Lord Badleſmere, who married Margaret, eldeſt daughter of Thomas de Clare, brother to Gilbert the great Earl of Clare that had married Joane de Acres, enjoyed this eſtate in the reign of K. Edward II. as a member of the Earldom of Glouceſter; and had ſummons to Parliament from the year 1309 to 1320. He obtained from the ſaid King a Fair to be kept here on the eve, the day, and the morrow of St. Luke; and Free-warren here and in the other parts of his eſtate, and was made Conſtable of Tunbridge-caſtle. The Bailiwick, or Stewardſhip, of the Foreſt of Eſſex came into his family by the marriage. Bartholomew forfeited this and his other eſtates by his adherence to the diſcontented Barons; and joining in their rebellion, loſt his head about 1321 (d). But by the favour of K. Edward III. his ſon —— Giles de Badleſmere recovered his eſtates, and was ſummoned to parliament from 1335 to 1338 (e). By Elizabeth his wife daughter of William de Montacute Earl of Saliſbury he left no iſſue. So that upon his deceaſe, which happened in 1338 (f), his eſtate was divided among his four ſiſters. Margery, the eldeſt, was married to William Lord Roos of Hamlake; Maud, to John de Vere Earl of Oxford; Elizabeth to Edmund Mortimer [O], and, after his death, to William de Bohun Earl of Northampton; and Margaret to Sir John Tibetot. Sometime after his death there was a diviſion of his eſtate, and after his widow's death a farther partition in 1341. This maner of Thaxted was equally divided between the four coheirs (g).

The part of William Lord Roos was inherited by——William his eldeſt ſon, who dyed in 1352, in the Holy Land; and afterward by——Thomas the younger ſon. After which it is preſumed it was ſold to the Earl of Northampton, or his Lady for her ſon, who alſo probably purchaſed the Lady Oxford's part, at leaſt the reverſion of it: For in 1360, it was found, that—— William de Bohun Earl of Northampton had, with the inheritance of the Earl of March, three parts of the maner of Thaxted, which was holden of the King as parcel of the County or Honor of Glouceſter by knight's-ſervice (h).

The other, or the fourth part, being that of John Tibetot, and Margaret his wife, deſcended to ——Robert their ſon and heir, who married Margaret, daughter of William Lord Deincourt, and dyed in 1372 (i), leaving three daughters. Richard Scroop Lord Treaſurer having the care of them, married Margaret, the eldeſt, to — Roger his eldeſt ſon and heir (k); Milicent, the ſecond, to Stephen his third ſon; and Elizabeth, the youngeſt, to Philip le Deſpenſer the younger, whence this fourth part was diſtinguiſhed from the reſt of the maner, by the name of SPENCER'S FEE. Philip le Deſpenſer dyed in 1423, leaving his only daughter and heir——Margery, wife of Roger Wentworth Eſq; of the age of 26 years (l). They had a ſon Philip Wentworth Eſq; father of —Henry. [See above, p. 361.] And this fourth part was not reunited to the Maner till it was purchaſed long after with the other three, and then only joined by unity of poſſeſſion, but kept diſtinct by name and title.

The other three were, after the death of William de Bohun Earl of Northampton, grafted into the ſtock from whence they had been ſlipt; being reunited with the Honor of Clare in the poſſeſſion of Edmund ſon of Roger de Mortimer Earl of March, who enjoyed the ſite of that Honor, and the greateſt part of the revenues and knights fees, in right of Philippa his wife, daughter of Lionel Duke of Clarence by Philippa his wife, who was daughter of Elizabeth de Burgh, ſiſter and coheir to Gilbert de Clare the laſt Earl of Glouceſter of that family. This Edmund de Mortimer, who had the title of Earl of March and Ulſter, Baron of Wigmore, Trim, Clare, and Connaught, and Marſhal of England, dyed in 1381 (n). But, before his deceaſe, he had leaſed out his three parts [P] of the maner of Thaxted to William Latymer of Dannebury, and others for life; which is the reaſon that no notice is taken of this maner in the Inquiſition after the death of his ſon —Roger Mortimer Earl of March Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, who was ſlain there in 1397 (n). But after the death of Edmund, ſon of Roger, in 1424, it is to be ſuppoſed that one third part of the demiſed eſtate was fallen in; for it was then found, that this laſt Edmund held at the time of his death a third part of the three parts of the Maner of Thaxted of the King in capite, by the ſervice of a third part of three parts of one knight's fee; and that — Richard Duke of York, of the age of fourteen years, was his heir, being the ſon of Anne his ſiſter by Richard de Coningſburgh Earl of Cambridge (o); for Edmund dyed without iſſue, and ſo did his other ſiſter Eleanor [Q].

[Q] The great eſtates which the noble Family of Mortimer, Earls of March had in this county, were as follows. In Thaxſted, 1 knight's-fee; and that which was afterwards called Richemondes; and Cornerth here and in Finchingfeild; 3 fees here, and in Broxted, holden by the heirs of Walter de Clare. In Danbury, and Liſton, 2 fees. Walkefares, in Boreham. Berwes, in Little Thurrocke. Bovyles, in Ardley. The maners of *Gr. This Richard Duke of York, in proſecution of his title to the crown, was killed at the battle of Wakefield; whoſe ſon, by Cecily daughter of Ralph Nevill Earl of Weſtmoreland, recovered his right, and aſcended the throne by the name of K. Edward IV.

The Honor of Clare and Glouceſter was in jointure to Cecily his mother, who probably had Thaxted, as a branch of that Honor. Afterwards, ſhe had a grant for life of the maner and borough of Thaxted, from her other ſon Richard III. in 1483. She lived till 1494. Then the maner of Thaxted, with the reſt of this Honor, deſcended to her grand-daughter

Elizabeth daughter of K. Edward IV. and Queen of England by her marriage with King Henry VII. On the 19th of June 1509, King Henry VIII. ſettled, by letters patent, both the Honor, and this Maner, among other eſtates, lands, and tenements, on Catharine of Arragon, in recompenſe and ſatisfaction of dower; either by virtue of her marriage with Prince Arthur his brother, or of a marriage intended to be celebrated between the ſaid Princeſs and himſelf. This Queen Catharine, by indenture dated 17 March 1514, granted the Maner and Borough of Thaxted to

Sir John Cutt, who had a great intereſt at court [R], to hold during her life, under the rent of 57l. 7s. and by letters patent of K. Henry VIII. dated 29 June following, he had a grant of the reverſion of the ſame in fee-farm under the ſame rent (p). He dyed 4 April 1520, and held not only the Maner and Borough of Thackſted, but alſo divers eſtates and parcels of land, here and elſewhere, as mentioned in the note below [S].——John Cutts Eſq; his ſon and heir, then aged 13 years, ſucceeded him. He dyed 1 July 1528, poſſeſſed of much the ſame eſtates as his father; leaving his ſon——John, but three years old (q). He was knighted, and Sheriff of Cambridge, and Huntingdon, ſhires, in 1551; but he ſeems to have leſſened the eſtate: for, at the time of his deceaſe, 9 May 1554, he had only the Maner and Burgh of Thaxſteede, and knights-fees, advowſons of Churches, and other eccleſiaſtical benefices; the great Park of Thaxſtede; the maners of Horeham-hall, and Richmond; Spenſers-fee being the fourth part of Thaxſted maner; and divers meſſuages in this and pariſhes adjoyning, holden of the Honor of Clare. But he had the maner of Amberden-hall in Depden.——John, his ſon and heir, was then ten years old (r). He was afterwards knighted; and ſo noted for his houſe-keeping, that Qu. Elizabeth ſent to him the Spaniſh Embaſſador to be entertained during a ſickneſs in London (s). But, being more magnificent than prudent, by licence dated 2 April 1599, he alienated the Maner and Borough of Thaxted, and Spenſers-fee, to

Thomas Kemp Eſq; in truſt (t); who had before purchaſed of his father COLDHAM'S-FEE, a reputed Maner in this pariſh.

Sir William Smyth, of Hill-hall in this county Knt. became poſſeſſed of it ſoon after; and dying 12 Decemb. 1626, he left it to his ſecond ſon——Thomas Smith Eſq; from whom it hath deſcended to the preſent poſſeſſor——Sir Charles Smith of Hill-hall, Bart. He is Lord paramount of this town, and hath the Leet; but the Maner-houſe is down. He is alſo Lord of Horam-hall, where a Court-baron is kept. See an account of this family under Theydon Mount.

The aboveſaid Fee-farm rent of 57l. 7s. became in the laſt century, part of the jointure of Catharine Queen-conſort of K. Charles II. Being ſettled on the Truſtees for ſelling the Fee-farm-rents of the Crown by act of parliament, the reverſion of it was purchaſed, 13 Septemb. 1672, by Sir John Banks Bart.

Beſides the capital Lordſhip of the Maner and Burgh of Thackſted, there are in this pariſh the five following Maners, or reputed Maners. 1. Horeham-hall. 2. Richemondes. 3. Fitz-Ralph. 4. The maner or grange of Venors. 5. Stanfold-garden. 6. The maner of Gerdelai, or Yerdeley-hall.

[R] Of this family Leland gives the following account; "Syr John Cutte Knight, and undre Treaſorer of England, "bought of one Savelle, a man of fair landes in Yorkſhir "then beying yn troble, the lordſhip of Godhurſte, with "the ruines of a caſtelle that ſtandith aboute a 2 miles from "the bank of Medwaye river, and a 2 miles from Maidſtone. . . Old Cutte maeried the doughter and heyre of "one Roodes about Yorkſhir, and had by her a 3 hunderith "markes of landes by the yere. . . . Old Cutte buildid "Horeham-Haule, a very ſumptuus houſe in Eſt-Sax by "Thaxſtede, and there is a goodly pond, or lake, by it, "and faire parkes thereabout.

"Cutte buildid at Childerley in Cambridgſhir. . . . Cutte "buildid at Salſbiry-Park by St. Albans. . . . Young Cutte, "ſun and heire to old Cutte, married one , and "by her , by the procurement of my Lady "Lucy." . . . Itinerary, Vol. IV. p. 30. Part. I.

By old Cutte muſt be meant Sir John, who built Horam-Hall, becauſe none before his time came into the eſtate. This muſt be the ſame who, according to Fuller, was of Childerley, and Sheriff for Cambridge and Huntingdon ſhires, 8 Hen. VIII. and in the liſt of Sheriffs for Eſſex and Hertfordſhire he is found to have ſerved the office in the tenth year of the ſame reign. He had a brother Richard, as appears from an Epitaph in Arkſden Church, whence John Lord Cutts deſcended. See more of the family under Arkeſden, Rickling, and Matching.

[S] Particularly, in Thaxſted, the maner of Horeham; Spencers fee; two meſſuages and lands called Richmonds in the wood; a tenement and garden late John Pollarde's; a meſſuage at Benicutler-green; with Juglers-croft, and Sotemanyſlep; ſix Alms-houſes; part of Collecroft; ſix acres, late John Pigott's, and others; Damorys mead in Menkaſtreet; Dellflatts; Cowghton-Shott, 30 acres; Dunches, Sandfeild, Tentor-meadow; Waſſinger-meadow; a meſſuage and lands in New-biggin-ſtreet; a meſſuage and divers lands in the Hamlet of Plegeden. The above he held of his ſon John Cutt, jun. As he did a meſſuage and lands called Ponts of Sir Lewis Pollard, as of Spencers fee. He had alſo lands in Park-ſtreet in Broxſted; and in Weſtwood-ſtreet, and elſewhere, in Samford; and the maners of Overhall and Little Hockley. Worſtal mead in Chickney, &c. Inquiſ. 13 Hen. 1. The maner of HOREHAM.

The manſion-houſe ſtands about two miles ſouth-weſt from the Church. Part of it is in Broxted pariſh.

This is ſuppoſed to be part of the two fees and a half which the heirs of Walter de Acre held in Thaxted, Chaure and Brokeſheued, under Richard de Clare, who dyed in 1262 (u). It was afterwards in the conſiderable family ſurnamed de Wanton. For William de Wanton, or Wauton, who dyed in 1347, held the maners of Chaureth and Horam, of the Lady Elizabeth de Burgh, and her anceſtors, by the ſervice of three fees, as of the Honor of Clare.—William was his ſon (w).

The next poſſeſſor upon record was Sir John Cutt, mentioned juſt now, who built a fine Houſe here. He held, at the time of his deceaſe, the maner of Horeham, with appertenances, of the Queen as of her Honor of Stanborne, by fealty and ſuit of Court, and it was then valued at 20l. per ann (x). From him it hath paſſed to about a mile and a half ſouth-eaſt from the church, towards Lindſell, was once called Bewconders, otherwiſe Bewcothers, or Bewcotors, from an owner. It conſiſted of a knight's-fee, holden by Wm. Beaucondre under the Earl of Clare, who dyed in 1262 (y). And by Richard Beaucondre, under Roger de Mortimer Earl of March, who dyed in 1398 (z). One Ralph Beaucondre, ſon of Roger was a benefactor to the Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem. After him Nicolas Richemonde poſſeſſed it, and by his name it hath gone ever ſince. Sir John Cutt held it at the time of his deceaſe by the name of the maner of Richmonds at Richmonds-green: with two meſſuages and divers lands, called Richmonds in the wood (a). In 1528 Nicolas Fuller held the maner of Richmonde (b). In 1590, Sir John Cutts ſold it to William Godfrey, alias Cooper, and Joane his wife; it conſiſting of 4 meſſuages, 4 gardens, 240 acres of arable, 70 acres of meadow, 300 of paſture, and 40 of wood (c) [T].

Sir Charles Smith, with the capital Maner.

2. RICHEMONDES,

It belonged in the beginning of this Century to Richard Beale Eſq; of Hale-place in Kent, [ſee above, p. 407.] who dyed in 1712, and left it to his nephew —— Alexander Beale, of whom it hath been purchaſed by Guy's Hoſpital. To which alſo belongs Thaxſted Lodge.

3. FITZ-RAFE, was ſo denominated from its ancient owners.

Sir John Fitz-Raphe held half a knight's-fee in Thaxted and Berdfeld-parva of the Honor of Clare (d). This family held ſeveral knights-fees in this county; their reſidence was at Pebmarſh. [ſee above, p. 261.]—Bateman, lord of Little-Samford maner, is ſaid to have been lord here: but of this I find no proof.—It was in William Chiſſul Eſq; who dyed 12 Aug. 1570, leaving—Giles his ſon and heir, aged 35 years (e).

Iſrael Owen Gent. purchaſed this maner of William Smith Gent. and Catharine his wife, and paid his ingreſs fine 35 Elizab. He dyed in 1632, and left ——John his ſon and heir (f). This lies toward Little Bardfeld, and belongs to Henry Wale of that place, Eſq; moſt of the lands are in Little Bardfeld.

This maner hath a Court-leet, and Court-baron.

4. The Maner or Grange of VENORS.

It is otherwiſe called Verner, Vernors, Bernowrys, and Fenners. Anciently it belonged to Tiltey-Abbey; and was then valued at 4l. 2s. 5d. (g). This Grange called Venors, and ſaid to be in Thaxted and Eſton ad Montem, was granted by K. Henry VIII. in 1538, to Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk (h). He had licence, 20 March the ſame year, to ſell it to . . John Wiſeman: who, by licenſe dated 2 May 1551, alienated it to . . . Matthias Bradbury (i). Bradbury ſold it again to . . John Wiſeman, in 1552: and the latter, by licence, dated 2 Janu. 1569, ſold it to . . . George Mead (k). About 20 years after, this eſtate of Venors was in —— Pigot; who alſo held Norfolks in Broxted. John Pigot had it in 1640.—Mr. Thomas Fenn is the preſent owner. —— It pays quit-rent to the maner of Thaxted.

5. STANFOLD-GARDEN.

This has been reputed a Maner, I preſume, becauſe it was independent of any other maner in Thaxted. It is the eſtate which Sir John Cutt held, at the time of his deceaſe, 4 Apr. 1520, of Henry Turnor as of his maner of Pleaſſendun-hall, by the name of one meſſuage, and divers lands lying in the hamlet of Plegeden in the pariſh of Thaxted (l). The maner of Pledgden in Henham, now called Priſon-Hall, belonging to William Cartwright Eſq; by gift of the late Nathanael Lord Crew, Biſhop of Durham, extended hither, as may be ſeen under Henham.

6. The Maner of GERDELAI, now YERDELEY, about a mile from the Church, is reckoned as a Hamlet to Thaxted. Two Freemen were poſſeſſed of it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign. But, at the time of the general ſurvey, it was holden by Tihell Brito [V], mentioned above, p. 334,

It continued in Tihell's deſcendents, ſurnamed de Helion, till —— William de Helion did, by charter, about the reign of K. Henry II. convey all the ſervice of Yerdlie to Aubrey de Vere Earl of Oxford (m). Some under-tenants of that noble Family took from thence the ſurname of Gerdelei, or Yerdeley, and are mentioned from the reign of K. Henry III. to that of K. Henry VII. [W]. John Yardley was attainted in the 1ſt year of K. Richard III. and his lands in Thaxted were given to John James, being 100 acres of arable and paſture, 4 acr. of meadow, 4 of wood, and 12s. rent (n).

In 1558, John Wiſeman, of Felſted Eſq; held this maner of Yardely-hall of John Earl of Oxford, as of his caſtle of Hedingham, by the 40th part of a knight's fee (o): and, in his poſterity, ſeated at Wimbiſh, it continued till after the death of Wiſeman Claggett Eſq; in 1741. Of his executors it was purchaſed, under a decree in Chancery, in 1749, by the Right Honourable Charles Lord Maynard, with Bradokes in Wimbiſh.

Goddards-farm, of good value, in the north part of this pariſh, belongs to Charles Wale, Eſq;

Rayner Heckford Eſq; and his brother Daniel; William Lagden; Ralph, and John, Fitch; Thomas, and William, Smith; John, and Thomas, Brand; Laurence Hills; John Gray; David Perry; Robert, John, and Abraham, Bernard; Laurence Unwin; Joſeph, and Thomas, Jarvis; John Newman; David Barkley; Thomas Green; Edw. George; John Weſtley; Richard Stubbing; Joſeph Boutel, Robert Cock; John Clopton, &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

THAXTED was incorporated by the name of the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the Town of Thaxted, by Philip and Mary, which Qu. Elizabeth confirmed. K. James I. encreaſed their liberties. From a Viſitation of the Heralds, 20 Auguſt, 1637, it appears, That Robert Humphreys was Mayor, and a Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum within the Liberty and Borough of Thaxted; George Scot of Lincoln's-Inn, Eſq; was Recorder; John Halls and Thomas Clerke Bailiffs; and about twenty chief Burgeſſes, of which ten had been Mayors: They had a common Seal, but no Arms. K. James II. ſerved a Quo Warranto againſt this Corporation, which they did not think fit to defend.

The Market-day is on Friday; but now diſuſed. And they have two Fairs, one Auguſt 10: the other was on the Sunday after the Aſcenſion, but hath been changed to the Monday following.

The Charities belonging to this Pariſh.

YARDLEYS receives its name from Thomas Yerdele, deſcended from a younger branch of the Yerdeles, who reſided on the maner of that name in this pariſh. Some ſmall portions of it were given for pious or charitable uſes before and after his time; the reſt, and indeed almoſt the whole of it, belonged to him, and was left at his death 21 Henry VI. to certain feoffees in truſt for his four ſons, and their iſſue, and for want of ſuch iſſue to be ſold, and the monies ariſing by the ſale to be applied in equal ſhares for the benefit of the Church and Poor of the pariſh, and of the highways in or adjacent to it.

The ſons all dying childleſs, the principal inhabitants of the place, 5 Henry VII. purchaſed this eſtate of Yerdele's feoffees, and eſtabliſhed it as a fund for the payment of the Tenths and Fifteenths of the whole pariſh, excepting the Farms of Horeham, Fitzralphs, Mileths and Venours; directing withal, that when the revenues of the eſtate were not wanted for theſe purpoſes, they ſhould be applied for ſuch other good and helpful uſes for the town, as the maſters and rulers thereof for the time being ſhould think fit. The eſtate continued to be employed according to this diſpoſition, ſo long as the method of Taxation by Tenths and Fifteenths laſted; but has now for more than a century paſt been wholly in charity.

The preſent ſtanding uſes, to which this is applied, are 15 pounds paid annually towards the reparation of the Church; 20 pounds to a ſchool-maſter, which, with the rents of the cellar under the Croſs, and the chambers over the School, goes for the education of 22 boys, ſons of the poor; and 15s. for playing and cleaning the Engines twice in the year: the remainder of the rent is applied occaſionally in further grants to the Church, in the improvement of the Highways, and in ſuch other good uſes for the benefit of the pariſh, as the feoffees to whoſe care it is intruſted, in their diſcretion think beſt. The annual rent of this farm has been greatly improved within theſe few years, and is now eighty pounds.

The lands and rents formerly given for Lights and Obits; the farm called Hunts; and other lands and houſes belonging to the Poor; with Prince's-croft belonging to the Church.

Theſe eſtates are under the care and direction of the Feoffees commonly called of HUNTS.

1. The lands formerly given for Lights and Obits. Plumes, 5l. a year. Aſſies, or Darcies, or Obit-mead, 2l. 10s. Theſe two given by Qu. Elizabeth, for the indigent, impotent, and aged alms-people. Underthorps, 1l. Reynold's-croft, 3l. Damory's meads 4l. 4s. Jeſus-croft, 1l. 4s. Vicarage-mead, 3l.

And in 1427, John Benge, and John Zerdlie held alſo a knight's fee in Thaxted. John Yerdely occurs as low as the reign of K. Henry VII.

2. The eſtates formerly charged with rents for Lights or Obits. Rode, or Tinkers pightle 10s. Chamberlayne's, 10s. Hanchetts, 13s, 4d. Goddard's mead, and Barker's, 6s. 4d. Flemings-mead, 4s. 2d. 3. Hunts, and divers other charities. Hunts, given by Walter Paterſhale, diſtributed, at ſixpence a piece, to twelve widows, 16l. The four following are given to the poor yearly in bread. Richard Wilton's gift, out of Wilton's-houſe, 1l. The gift of Dan. Moore Eſq; paid out of Moore's mead, 2l. Out of Rayner's houſes, donor Tho. Rayner of Brentford, 2l. Hayward's lands, 4l. A rent charge of 1l. 15s. out of Wragg's houſe, to ſix poor widows yearly, given by . . . Rayner. Prince's croft, 1l. paid to the Church-wardens for repairs of the Church. Total 27l. 15s. Total of the Charities committed to the Feoffees of Hunts, 50l. 9s. 9d.

4. Other charities received by the Church-wardens and Overſeers. Out of Bell-rope piece, parcel of Goddards, 5s. to purchaſe Bell-ropes. Two rent-charges, of ten ſhillings each, given to the poor of this pariſh, by William Ellis of Biſhop's-Stortford, glazier, out of his two houſes in B. Stortford, one now belonging to the Rev. Mr, Emerſon, and the other to Mr. James Scott, 1l. Six pounds and nine pence, for clothing the poor aged people of this pariſh, payable out of the Exchequer, given by K. Henry VIII. —— 7l. 5s. 9d. The cloth purchaſed with the annuity out of the Exchequer is called the Queen's Cloth, and generally underſtood to be the Benefaction of Queen Elizabeth, who was reſident at Horeham-Hall during ſome part of the reign of her ſiſter Mary; which probably gave occaſion for her returning to the pariſh the lands and rents formerly belonging to the Lights and Obits. But, as the Vicar of the place and the Church-wardens, in a paper reſpecting this Charity, and dated ſo far back as 1616, call it the grant of Hen. VIII. it is more likely that it was given by that Prince in the firſt year of his reign, in the ſame progreſs, wherein we have mentioned his being a Benefactor at Walden.

Willian Bendlowes, ſerjeant at Law, had a houſe in this town, in which he ſometimes reſided, and was probably the firſt Recorder here after the Charter of Philip and Mary: By his deed bearing date 4 July 1571, he gave, and confirmed unto Thomas Pettiſhall, Richard Emeric, and ten others of the principal Inhabitants of Thaxted, an annuity of three pounds, going out of his lands, tenements, &c. in Much Bardfield and Little Bardfield in this County, called Wangford-Hawes, Hawes-Millfield, and Millfield, ten acres, Poles, and Poles-Broome, to be paid half yearly at Michaelmas and Lady-day to two at the leaſt of the ſaid twelve inhabitants, their heirs and aſſigns for ever; upon condition that they ſhould within four days after the receipt thereof, beſtow the ſame upon the poor aged folk, being married or unmarried, for the time being, dwelling in the three Almeſhouſes at Thaxted, ſituate over againſt the ſouth porch of the Church, at the weſt end of the ſouth ſide of the Church-yard, and under the Guild-hall of the town for ever, ſo as the ſaid poor folkes ſhould be above the age of forty years, and have no child or children there abiding with them, or any of them, and ſhould be no vagabonds, or vagrant idle folke, to be diſtributed among them according to the greatneſs of their neceſſities, as in buying of wood for them, buying them apparel, or giving them money, as ſhould be thought moſt convenient for them at all times; with a further proviſo for beſtowing twenty ſhillings yearly of the ſaid rents for the re-edifying or repairing of the ſaid three Almſhouſes, when the ſame ſhould happen to fall down or be in decay, and with a further condition, wherein is provided for the raiſing a new Truſt from time to time, ſo often as eight out of the twelve Truſtees ſhall be deceaſed. This Grant was further confirmed by his laſt will dated 17 Nov. 1544. This annuity is ſtill kept diſtinct from the other Charities, under the direction of its own Truſtees.

The laſt, and greateſt, of the Benefactions beſtowed on this Pariſh, is that of the Right Hon. William Lord Maynard, who by his laſt will, dated 30 May 1698, directed and appointed the ſum of Four thouſand pounds to be laid out by his Executors in purchaſing the Rectory impropriate of Thaxted, if it might be had; or elſe ſome other Rectory impropriate, Glebe, or Tythes, to be ſettled on Truſtees, and their heirs for ever upon the Truſts following. Namely, in the firſt place to pay out of the profits thereof to ſuch orthodox Miniſter, being vicar of Thaxted, as ſhould duly and diligently perform his function of preaching and reading Divine Service according to the Laws and the Religion of the Church of England now eſtabliſhed, for the increaſe of his maintenance One hundred pounds per annum; and ten pounds yearly more for ever towards the repairs of the fabricke of the Church of Thaxted aforeſaid, as need ſhould require in ſuch particular matters and things as the Pariſhioners there, or ſome others, ſhould not be compellable to repair or make good, and for the beautifying the ſame fabrick within and without as the ſaid Truſtees, with the advice of the vicar there for the time being ſhould think fit; and the reſt and reſidue of the rents and profits of the premiſſes, over and above all charges of executing the truſts, which the Truſtees were to be allowed, to go and be for binding out poor men-children and women-children apprentices, and marrying poor virgins, and ſetting up poor apprentices to trades at the end of their apprenticeſhips, and the relieving poor people over-burthened with children, and other like charitable uſes, as the heir of his family for the time being, and the Vicar, Church-wardens, and Overſeers of the poor of Thaxted aforeſaid, ſhould agree upon and think fit; of which will He made his ſon Banaſtre, afterwards Lord Maynard, ſole Executor.——The Rectory of Thaxted being ſettled and entailed in ſuch manner, that it could not be obtained, there were purchaſed with the ſaid 4000l. in lieu thereof, under a decree of the Court of Chancery, the Rectory of Potton in the County of Bedford, and the maner, farm, and lands called Giffords and Clopton-houſe in the pariſh of Wickham-brooke, and county of Suffolk; and it was ordered by the decree, that theſe purchaſes ſhould be made in the names of ſeven Truſtees, to be nominated by Banaſtre Lord Maynard; and after his deceaſe, by the heir male of the family of the Lord Maynard, deceaſed; and for want of ſuch heir male by his right heirs; and when by death they ſhould be reduced to the number of Three, that then the ſurviving truſtees ſhould convey the premiſes to the uſe of themſelves, and other new truſtees, to be nominated as aforeſaid, and their heirs upon the ſame truſts; and that the Vicar and Churchwardens of Thaxted for the time being, ſhould receive the rents, iſſues, and profits of the eſtates, and lett and ſett the ſame as occaſion ſhould require, and ſhould apply the rents and profits thereof according to the ſaid will, and ſhould yearly account for the ſame to the ſaid Truſtees, or the major part of them. The preſent yearly income from theſe eſtates is as follows:

From Sir Roger Burgoyne, Bart. the yearly compoſition for the tythes of his lands in Potton — —	28	0	0
From the tenant at Wickhambrooke	62	0	0
The yearly quit-rents due to the maner of Giffords — —	5	2	5½
Total of the rents of theſe eſtates, the fines, and other profits of the maner of Giffords. — —	215	2	5
The total amount of this, and all the preceding charities, is --	355	17	11½

Here are four ALMS-HOUSES.

That ſituate over-againſt the ſouth porch of the Church is probably the oldeſt; the ſecond a little to the weſtward of it belongs to the maner of Horeham, and is under the patronage of Sir Charles Smyth, Bart, who repairs the fabric, and puts in the inhabitants; the third, formerly ſituate under the Guildhall, was removed from thence in the year 1700, and rebuilt at the end of the Chantry Houſe [W].

The Chantry Houſe, with its yards and gardens, having paſſed through ſeveral hands, after the ſuppreſſion, was purchaſed, in 1589, by Thomas Croſbee, Vicar of this place, and others, veſted in feoffees, and converted into Almſhouſes for the habitation of three or four poor perſons.

The Guildhall, mentioned in the grant of Serjeant Bendlowes, ſtands near the vicarage, and probably belonged originally to the Gild of St. John Baptiſt; but was uſed in after times by the reſt of the religious Gilds, excepting that of the Rood, which had a hall of its own. Theſe Gilds being all ſuppreſſed at the Reformation, the Houſe was for ſome time lett out for the keeping of public weddings, on which occaſions the fee paid for the uſe of it was ſixteen pence, and called a Bridal; but in 1562, it was converted into a ſchool, in which ſtate it continued till the year 1711, from which time it has been the pariſh workhouſe.

Ever ſince 1684, when the corporation was diſſolved, the Gild or Motehall of the Borough, ſituate in the market-place, remained uſeleſs till the year 1714, when the feoffees of Yardley's repaired it, and the SCHOOL, which from 1711 had been kept in the Chantry-houſe, was removed to this hall.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 2790l. 10s.

Some Roman coins have been found in the garden of Rayner Heckford, Eſq; in this town.

The Rectory, and Maner called PRIORS-HALL, belonged before the conqueſt to the Collegiate Church of St. John Baptiſt of Clare in Suffolk; removed, in 1124, to Stoke near that town, by Richard ſon of Gilbert de Clare.

To this College or Priory, was the Rectory firſt appropriated by Richard Biſhop of London; which appropriation was confirmed, and a Vicarage endowed, by Roger Niger Biſhop of London (p). The Convent, turned afterwards into a College with the title of Dean and Chapter, continued proprietors both of the Rectory and of the Advowſon of the Vicarage, till the general ſuppreſſion of Religious Houſes.

Upon that ſuppreſſion, the Rectory, and Maner of Prior's-hall, with the Advowſon of the Vicarage, came to the Crown. K. Edward VI. in 1551, granted the Vicarage, by letters patent, with the maner of Stoke, to his Præceptor Sir John Cheeke, but he was forced to ſurrender all to Qu. Mary. What became of theſe afterwards I do not find, till Qu. Elizabeth's time; who granted them, by patent, 25 Febru. 1569, to William Lord Howard of Effingham; and confirmed them, in 1580, to his ſon — Charles Lord Howard (q). He, by licenſe, dated 26 Febru. the ſame year, alienated them to Robert Petre, Eſq; fourth ſon of John Lord Petre, thus deſcribed: The maner-houſe, ten meſſuages, 20 cottages, one dove-houſe, garden, and orchard, 200 acres of arable, 100 of meadow, 200 of paſture, 20 of wood, 50 of furze and fern, and 6l. rent, and the Rectory of the ſame called Pryors-Hall, and the tithes of ſheaves, grain, hay, wool, and lamb, and all tithes whatſoever growing and being there (r).

John Lord Petre ſold them in 1605, to Sir Henry Maynard, Knt. from whom they have deſcended, with the Advowſon, to the preſent Rt. Hon. Charles Lord Maynard.

There was a diſpute between William Lord Maynard Impropriator of Thaxted, and Patron, and Norman Leader, Vicar, who ſhould have the tythe of hops. It was referred to Dr. Laud then [W] The Chantry founded in this Church was ſo conſiderable, that at the diſſolution it was valued at 11l. 19s. 10d. and in the Certificate it is ſaid, 'that this towne was then a 'great and populous towne, and a markett and thoroughfare towne, havyng in yt by eſtimation about the number 'of 800 houſeling people.' The endowment of it conſiſted of meſſuages and lands, with the appertenances called Colmans, Chapmans tenement, Chapmans worthen, Buckinghams, Tailors, Glovers, Smythes under Eldfright, Stelmans tenement, and Ripleys land, in Thaxted and Finchingfeild. K. Edward VI. granted them, in 1548, to Tho. Brand, and Tho. Heyburne.——The meſſuage called Colmans, with 50 acres of arable, 30 of meadow, 50 of paſture, 30 of wood, and 4l. rent, late belonging to this Chantry, were holden in 1554, by Chriſtopher Alleyn Eſq; who had alſo 4 meſſuages, 150 acres of arable, 70 of meadow, 150 of paſture, 70 of wood, and 20s. rent in Thaxſtede, Finchingfeild, and Thunderſley. Biſhop of London, who made the following deciſion, to which the Patron and Vicar ſubmitted; That the Vicar ſhould receive yearly, beſides his uſual oblations and dues, twenty pounds of good and well dried hops; that he ſhould be diſcharged from his uſual payment of five marks for reparation of the Chancel; and that he ſhould have from the Rector a yearly penſion of 30l. Theſe five marks ſeem to have been the money payable from the Vicar to the Prebendary of Ringers of London at Stoke, mentioned in the Monaſticon (s).

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. John Baptiſt, or, according to others, to the Virgin Mary, or to St. Laurence; is ſpacious and ſtately, and upon all accounts may be called the beſt in this county. The Right Honourable the Lord Maynard, and a number of Gentlemen, have cauſed a curious Print of it to be engraved, with which they have been graciouſly pleaſed to adorn this work.

The length of it is 183 feet, and the breadth 87 feet, in the inſide, excluſive of the thickneſs of the walls, and the projection of the buttreſſes: its circumference, buttreſſes and all included, is 345 yards. It is built cathedral-wiſe, with a croſs iſle; and conſiſts of a ſpacious and lofty body, with north and ſouth iſles. At the weſt end ſtands a noble Tower, and Spire, all of free-ſtone, the perpendicular height of which, from the ſummit of the vane to the ground-floor, is 60 yards, and one foot. In it are ſix Bells.

When, and at whoſe charge, this coſtly Edifice was raiſed, can only be conjectured. That it was not ſolely at the charge of the pariſh, is beyond all doubt. For though this town was formerly of much more conſequence than it is now, yet ſtill the abilities of the inhabitants, even in its moſt flouriſhing ſtate, muſt have been greatly inadequate to an undertaking, which in our time would require at leaſt ten years rent of the whole pariſh, and in former days, when lands were leſs improved, and artificers better paid in proportion than at preſent, muſt have coſt more than double that ſum [X]. The beſt Endeavours therefore of the Inhabitants were aſſiſted by the zeal, ſtanding Charity, and caſual benefactions abounding in ancient Times for thoſe ſacred buildings; and ſupported by the Munificence of the great patrons of this place, the deſcendants of the illuſtrious Houſe of Clare; beſides what the Priory of Stoke could furniſh. From the architecture, it appears not to be older than the time of K. Henry III. or rather to have been built by degrees. The ſouth iſle, and ſouth end of the croſs iſle, are unqueſtionably its oldeſt parts; they not being adorned with pillaſters within, and ſeeming originally to have had no buttreſſes on the outſide; and the compartments of the windows are plain. Elizabeth Lady Clare, daughter of Gilbert the Red Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, and patroneſs of the Monaſtery of Stoke, to which this Church belonged, is reaſonably ſuppoſed to have been at the charge of this part [Y]. The arms of William de Burgh, Earl of Ulſter and ſon to Lady Clare, in four of the windows of the Nave, indicate him the builder, or encourager, of that that great work [Z]; which therefore muſt have been built before the time of his death, which happened, about the year 1340. His ſon-in-law Lionel Duke of Clarence, is juſtly ſuppoſed to have built the South Porch, between the years 1362 and 1368. Of which the Ducal coronet, cut in ſtone, over the principal entrance is a tolerable evidence. The north end of the croſs iſle, and the north iſle were erected by Edmund Mortimer Earl of March, ſon-in-law and ſucceſſor to Lionel, a nobleman not leſs diſtinguiſhed for his ſkill in architecture, than for his piety and munificence. The effigies of a man in armour, in the principal window on this ſide of the Church, bearing on his ſhield the arms of Mortimer, is juſtly ſuppoſed to be his. In this part of the Church ſuperior elegance and good taſte are diſcernible, and it was done about the year 1380.

The Chancel, a neat and well-proportioned edifice, was built by ſome of the Houſe of March, and finiſhed by K. Edward IV. as is evident from ſeveral cognizances of his, [namely, white roſes, lions, heads and paws of lions, with dragons, pelicans, falcons, ſwans, and a golden ſpread eagle] which are painted and carved in divers parts; eſpecially his royal Arms in the windows of the north iſle, intire, with the remains of two other ſhields, in both which the firſt quarter is wanting, and in one of them the ſecond; but in their perfect ſtate they contained the Arms of York, March, and Geneville, the heireſs of which laſt was married to Roger Mortimer, afterwards created Earl of March.

From the croſs-like form of the Church; from ſome alterations which have been made in the two ends of the croſs iſle to the parts of the roofs adjoining to its centre; and from the omiſſion to raiſe this central part at the ſame time with the reſt of the croſs iſle; it appears, that the Tower was intended at firſt to be erected in the middle of the Church. But it ſtands now at the weſt-end: and the arms of March and Ulſter ſtill remaining in the arches of this Tower, point out to us the munificent hand of Edmund, the laſt Earl of March, the builder, or at leaſt generous encourager of this great work [A].

The north Porch is juſtly ſuppoſed to have been erected by K. Edward IV. which ſuppoſition is countenanced by the Arms of France, of England, and of the Houſe of York, on two large eſcucheons ovor the entrance. In the arches of the two windows over theſe Arms are two crowns in baſſo relievo, each ſupported by a hand. Below

[X] The rent of the land in this pariſh, in 1372, was ſix pence an acre; as appears from the return upon a writ ad quod dammum in the Regiſtry of Tiltey Priory in the poſſeſſion of the Right Hon. the Lord Maynard. And in 1360, the wages of a common Carpenter by the day was four-pence. This laſt appears from the Bailiff's account on the Court-rolls belonging to Sir Charles Smith.

[Y] But a pomegranate upon the roof, the arms of the kingdom of Granada; a Roſe or Sun flower, with a bend, afterwards uſed by Qu. Mary I. and the martyrdom of St. Catharine, upon the freeze of one of the pillaſters which ſupports the arch at the eaſt end of this ſouth iſle; import that it was ſomehow beautified, or repaired, by Catharine of Arragon firſt Queen to K. Henry VIII.

[Z] The Nave is much too narrow in proportion to its height, and the width of the ſide iſles.

[A] In the roof of this Tower, or belfrey, are ſcallop-ſhells, and pelicans, between the Arms of March and Ulſter.

which on the jambs of each widow are two heads of men; with thoſe of women on the other ſide, anſwering to them: undoubtedly benefactors of the Houſe of York to this Church.

There was formerly an Organ in this Church; and the Organiſt had, in 1549, a ſalary of 1l. 6s. 8d.

In the windows are ſome remains of painted glaſs, but none conſiderable or hiſtorical enough to deſerve our attention; only in the eaſt-window at the ſouth end of the croſs iſle, are ſeveral golden Falcons, accompanied with white Roſes; and the motto Min Grace; and at the north end of the croſs iſle, is a Dragon wreathing round a ſtump, or ragged ſtaff, both argent.

In 1757, and the following year, near 600l. were expended in the reparation of the Tower and ſpire of this Church, at that time fallen into great decay; on which occaſion, for the aid of their tenants, and of the other pariſhioners, the Right Hon. the Lord Maynard gave 100l. Charles Smyth, Eſq; now Sir Charles Smyth, Bart. 25l. the Preſident and Governors of Guy's hoſpital 20l. the late John Wale of Colne Priory, Eſq; 10l. in gratitude for which donations, the Arms of theſe their benefactors were ſet up over the weſt door by a voluntary contribution among the principal inhabitants [B]. The north window of the croſs iſle having alſo been blown down by the high wind laſt winter, is now repaired.

There were twenty Obits founded in this Church; and Donations for our Lady's Light; and other Lights; for Jeſus Maſs; and the like ſuperſtitious uſes: the endowments of which are not mentioned, except Milletts mead; Rowleis, Abraham's, Long-croft, Hanchetts, Abel's mead, Rood-hall, Broad Fann mead, and Crabbes land (t). Moſt of them are now part of the Charities belonging to this Town.

Proportionable to theſe many Obits were the Altars and Chapels in this Church. For, beſides the High Altar, there were the Altars of St. Margaret, St. Thomas of Canterbury, St. Laurence with our Lady's Light there; and the Lights of St. James, St. Catharine, St. George the Martyr, &c. beſides thoſe mentioned above.

7. LINDSELL,

Joins to the South-eaſt part of Thaxted, and borders upon Hinckford Hundred.

There are two Saxon words, Linꝺ, a linden tree, and ꞅel, good, which are neareſt to then ame; how they can be applied to this place, I ſubmit to the reader's judgment. In records it is otherwiſe written, Lindeſeles, Lyndeſele, Lindezel, and Linſell.

Ulmar, a free-man, was poſſeſſed of it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; but at the time of the general ſurvey it was holden by Eudo Dapifer [C].

In this pariſh are three Maners, 1. Lindſell-hall. 2. The maner of Lacheley. 3. . . . . that of Prior's-hall.

1. The maner of LINDSELL-HALL.

Lindſell-hall ſtands near the Church. The Pirot family held this under Eudo, as well as the maner of Hawkſwell. In 1210 and 1211, Ralph Pirot held Lindſele by the ſervice of one kninght's-fee (u).

Ralph Pyrott, who dyed in 1251, held the ſame of the King in ca. viz. half a fee in demeſne, and a fee and a half was holden of him. — Sir Ralph Pyrott was his ſon and heir (w). ——John, and ——Simon, Perott, are mentioned as holding it in the reign of K. Edward I. (x).

The family of Clare became afterwards poſſeſſed of this Maner, as appears by the Knights-fees of that Honor (y). From them it came by marriage to

Bartholomew Lord Baddleſmere; and after the death of his ſon Giles de Baddleſmere, his youngeſt daughter Margaret brought it to her huſband

John de Tibetot: He dyed 13 April 1367, having this maner in right of his ſaid wife Margaret. His ſon —— Robert de Tibetot, or Tiptoft, ſucceeded him (z): and dying in 1372, left three daughters. Elizabeth, the youngeſt of them, was married to

Philip le Deſpenſer, or Spencer; who at the time of his deceaſe in 1423, held the maner of Lindeſell of the King, in capite (a). Margery, his only daughter and heir was married to Sir Roger Wentworth, and brought him the eſtate. His ſucceſſors were,——Sir Philip——Sir Henry ——Sir Richard. [ſee above, p. 361, 381.] This laſt dyed 17 Octob. 1528, poſſeſſed of this maner, and 5 meſſuages, and 50 acres of land (b). His ſon —— Sir Thomas Wentworth was created Baron Wentworth of Nettleſted, 2 Decemb. 1529, and was ſucceeded by his ſon——Thomas Lord Wentworth; who moſt probably ſold this eſtate, as well as Camoys-hall, [ſee above, p. 361.] to

William Fitche, Eſq; Thomas ſon of Thomas Fitche of Widdington, married Agnes, daughter and heir of Robert Alger, owner of a capital meſſuage in this pariſh, called BRA SON-HEAD, becauſe a Wolf's head of braſs, well caſt, was affixed to the top of the outer gate. This Houſe became the reſidence of the Fitche family here: but the capital branch of them was ſeated at Little Canfield, where proper notice will be taken of them. Thomas Fitche dyed 21 April 1514. —— Richard his ſecond ſon ſucceeded him here. He had two wives; firſt, Eleanor daughter and heir of Thurſtan Storke; ſecondly, Ioanna. . . . By the firſt he had Thurſtan, and John: by the ſecond, Richard, and William. But they all dying without iſſue, —— Thomas his next brother ſucceeded him. By his wife Margaret Meade he had, Thomas of Margareting; and —— Robert, of Braſon-head. He married Helena, daughter of John Carver, and had by her —— Thomas his ſon and heir, living in 1614, who by his wife, Mary, or Margaret, daughter of John Munk of Sabridgworth, had his ſon Thomas (c).

Afterwards, this maner belonged to Sir Francis North, Lord Guilford, and is now in the Right Hon. —— Francis, Lord North and Guilford.

2. The Maner of LACHELEY.

Lacheley-hall ſtands about three quarters of a mile ſouth of the Church, on the top of a hill, as you go to Stebbing.

This maner belonged to the Honor of Clare. Batholomew de Baddleſmere held it, with the Advowſon of the Chapel belonging to the ſame: 40 acres of which land called Carecter lands, were holden of the King in capite, as of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of 10s. per ann. And a capital meſſuage, 380 acres of arable, 18 acres of meadow, 24 of paſture, and 10 of wood, were holden of Elizabeth de Burgh Lady of Clare, in ſocage, by payment of 1d. per Ann. —— Giles his ſon enjoyed it after him (d). Upon whoſe death, in 1338, it deſcending to his ſiſters and coheirs, William de Bohun, who had married Elizabeth the third ſiſter, and was afterwards Earl of Northampton, held it at the time of his deceaſe in 1360 (d).

We have no farther account how this eſtate deſcended from Bohun; only we find, that it did, as his maner of Thaxted, come to Richard Duke York (f), and ſo fell to the Crown. There it was in the time of K. Henry VIII. That Prince ſettled Thaxted on his Queens [D]; and granted the maner, farm, and tenement, called Lachley-Hall to Richard Jenour Eſq; (g) He dyed 26 Novemb. 1549, poſſeſſed of the maner of Latcheley hall, and 6 meſſuages, 10 cottages, 200 acres of arable, 40 of meadow, 100 of paſture, 60 of furze and broom, 40s. rent in Lindſell, Stebbing, and Great Dunmow. Andrew was his ſon and heir (h). From him it deſcended to his heirs, and ſucceſſors, mentioned above under Bigoods in Great Dunmow.

3. PRIORS-HALL,

Is a conſiderable maner belonging to New College, in Oxford. In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Horolf, a free-man, was poſſeſſed of it; but, at the the time of the ſurvey, it belonged to the Monaſtery of St. Valery, in Picardy [E]. It is placed in Domeſday-book under the hundred of Harlow.

As it belonged to a Priory Alien, it was ſeized, and given by the Parliament of Leiceſter to K. Henry V. At what time it was ſettled on New College I do not find, but they were poſſeſſed of Wariſh, or St. Valery's-Hall, in Takely, in 1508.

Edward Wood, and George Purkis, have alſo ſome eſtates in this pariſh.

The CHURCH is of one pace with the Chancel, tyled. The Steeple has three Bells, and ſtands on the ſouth ſide, but at the weſt end.

This Church was appropriated to the Abbey of Walden, [F] and a Vicarage endowed, to which the Convent added, about 1433, ſix marks per ann. Both the Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage continued in them till their ſuppreſſion. K. Henry VIII. granted the Rectory and Advowſon to Thomas Lord Audeley, in 1538; and five years after a licence to alienate it to William Fitch Eſq; He dyed poſſeſſed of it 20 Decemb. 1578. — Thomas his ſon ſucceeded him (i); and dying 29 Novemb. 1588, left his ſon and heir —— William, three years old (k): whoſe ſon —— Sir Richard Fitch had it till 1635.

Dudley Lord North of Carthlage had it next, and preſented to the Vicarage in 1661 (l). His ſecond ſon —— Sir Francis North, Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and Lord Guilford, enjoyed it afterwards; from whom it has deſcended as Lindſell-Hall, to the Right Hon. —— Francis Lord North and Guilford.

This pariſh is rated to the Land-tax, at 692l. 3s.

[F] Geffrey, Abbat of St. Alban's in the reign of K. Hen. I. is ſaid to have given, with the conſent of his Abbey, to the Hoſpital of St. Julian, near that town, two parts of the Tithes of corn of Ralph Perot's, out of his lordſhip of Lindeſele and Hakewell. But it doth not appear that the Abbat ever had any Tithes at either of theſe places. And in the Life of the Abbat Geffrey, written by Matthew Paris, where he gives an account of his founding St. Julian's, he ſays nothing of the Tithes of Lindeſele, or of Hakewell, though he ſpecifies twelve other places, whoſe Tithes were in whole or in part given to that Hoſpital. Newcourt, Vol. II. p. 390.

8. CHICKNEY

Stands ſouth-weſt of Thaxted, bordering upon Henham. The name ſeems to be formed from the two Saxon words, Cicen, and ea, qu. Chicken's water: and is otherwiſe written in records, Chikeneye, Chigney, Cicchenai; and ſometimes is called Great Chickney.

Siuuard, a King's Tegn, or Thegn, was poſſeſſed of this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; but, at the time of the ſurvey, it was one of the 35 Lordſhips in this county holden by Ranulph Peverell: and his under-tenant here was one Garin [G].

Of this Ranulph Peverell an account is given above, p. 130, under Hatfield-Peverell. He was one of thoſe Adventurers who came in with William the Conqueror (m); and is written in Domeſday-book Piperell; but he cannot reaſonably be ſuppoſed from thence to have been a Saxon. He married Ingelrica, a caſt-off concubine of the Conqueror, daughter of Ingelric, a noble Saxon, founder of the Collegiate Church of St. Martin's le Grand, London. Ranulph had by her, Haman; William of Dover; Pain of Brunne: and her ſon by the Conqueror before marriage was William Peverell of Nottingham (n). From one of theſe ſons ſprang the Peverells, that were a long time in poſſeſſion of this eſtate.

In 1210 and 1211 William Peverell held five knights fees of the Honor of Peverell of London (o). —— Hugh Peverell had free warren here in 1247 (p), and, at the time of his deceaſe, in 27 Edw. I. (q) held the maner of Chickeney [H] of the King in capite, as of the Honor of Peverell, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee.——John his ſon and heir, and Joanna his wiſe, held jointly the maner of Chikeney of the king in like manner, as of his honor of Peverell: He died in 1314.——Hugh was his ſon and heir (r).

We have a chaſm here for an hundred years or more, before we come to the Bourchier family, which appears to have had long the Advowſon of this Rectory; and moſt probably the Maner. K. Edward III. preſented four times to the living, by which one would imagine the maner to have been in his hands. Thomas Wrench, Sir William Coggeſhall, Geoffrey Michel, under age, John Halughton, Eſq; preſented alſo from 1385 to 1448 to the Rectory, but there is no other proof of their having had the lordſhip.

Henry Viſcount Bourchier preſented in 1456; Henry Bourchier Earl of Eſſex, in 1472 and 1480; and Henry Earl of Eſſex down to 1531 [I]. Henry Earl of Eſſex dying without iſſue male, 13 March 1540, —— Anne, his daughter and ſole heir, inherited. She became wife of William Parr Earl of Eſſex, and Marquis of Northampton; upon which he had livery of her lands, and of Chickney amongſt them, and preſented to the living in 1542 (s). The Marquis joining with the Lady Jane Grey, forfeited his eſtates, and was attainted, but not executed. He was reſtored in blood by Queen Mary, and had this and other maners granted him; but he was not reſtored to his honour and the reſt of his eſtate till 13 Janu. 1558. [ſee above, p. 253.]

This Maner and Advowſon was afterwards in the Collyn family. Henry Collyn, who dyed 31 Decemb. 1606, held lands in this pariſh, and the advowſon of the Church of Chickney. John his ſon and heir of full age, ſucceeded him (t).

After him Colonel Evan Lloyd enjoyed this eſtate, and preſented twice to the living.

Then it was purchaſed by Mr. Cranmer. —— Joſeph Cranmer firſt Secondary of the Pipe Office in the Exchequer, dyed 18 April 1722. The Eſtate is now in Joſeph Cranmer, Eſq; grandſon of the purchaſer.

Chickney-hall ſtands near the Church.

On Chickney-green is an Alms-houſe for two dwellers.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 350l. 10s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, ſtands on a riſing ground, with a good inland proſpect. Both Church and Chancel are of one pace, tyled. A tower of ſtone, with a ſpire, ſhingled, contains 2 Bells. The windows are of free-ſtone, and neat.

This Rectory is appendent to the Maner.

9. BROXTED, alias CHAWRETH,

Hath Chickney on the north, and joins to Henham on the weſt. It ſeems named from the Brook, which riſing here falls into the Chelmer at Tiltey. Tradition will have it that Broxted was but a hamlet to Chawreth, or Chaure; but we find it twice in Domeſday-book, and Chaure not at all.

Broxted is otherwiſe written in records, Brokeſed, Brokeſefede, Brokeſhend, Brokeſheved, Broxhed, Broccheſhevot, Brocheſhevet: and we find it diſtinguiſhed into Great and Little Broxted.

[H] It is, by miſtake as we think, called Chigenhale in the Inquiſition, 27 Edw. I. And by Inquiſition, 20 Edw. I. it appears, that John Peverell's firſt wife, was Beatrix, ſiſter of Simon de Scaccario. See above, p. 270.

[I] Sir William Burgcher, or Bourchier had the neighbouring maner of Little Eaſton, in 1365. Inquiſ. 39 Edw. III. and poſſibly might have this.

Two Sochmen held part of this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; which part was holden at the time of the ſurvey by Eudo Dapifer, and an under-tenant named Richard [K]. The other part, belonged, both before and after the Conqueſt, to the Monaſtery of St. Etheldred at Ely.

Theſe ſeveral parts formed the two Maners. 1. . . . of Broxted. 2. . . . of Chaureth. The Rectory is alſo a Maner.

1. The maner of BROXTED.

The manſion-houſe is about three quarters of a mile ſouth-weſt from the church.

This is ſuppoſed to be the half fee, which the Earl of Clare held, about the year 1210, in Brokeſede (u), and part of the two fees and a half which the heirs of Walter De Acre held in Thaxted, Chaure, and Brokeſheved, of Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, who dyed in 1262 (w).——The heirs of Walter de Clare [L] held three fees in theſe three places as aforeſaid, under Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford, who dyed in 1314 (x). It appears afterwards in the family of Lovayne, ſeated in the neighbouring pariſh of Little Eaſton. For John de Lovayne, who dyed in 1347, held the Maner of Brokeſhend of Elizabeth de Burgh, Lady of Clare; —— Margery his wife held it after him; Iſabell and Alianor were his daughters and coheirs (y). Iſabell dyed in 1359, poſſeſſed of this maner, which then deſcended to her ſiſter Alianor, wife of Sir William Bourchier [M]. Thus this eſtate came into the Bourchier family. This Sir William, and Alianor, were found in 1365, to hold, of the Duke of Clarence, lands and tenements in the village of Chaurethe, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, worth 40l. per ann. (z).——Henry Bourchier Earl of Eſſex, held at the time of his deceaſe, 4 April 1483, the maner of Broxted of the Prior of St. John of Jeruſalem; —— Henry, ſon of William, ſon of the ſaid Henry, was his heir (a). Anne, ſole daughter and heir of this laſt Henry, brought it in marriage to her huſband

William Parr, Marquis of Northampton. For in the account of lands belonging to the Marquis of Northampton attainted, in the reign of Queen Mary, it is thus entered; 'Broxhed-Hall maner
' farmed by Kenelm Throckmorton Bailiff, at 12l.
' 7s. ob. per ann. Broxed-hall-magna maner went ' at 17l. per ann. Broxted-hall-parva 110s.'

Theſe maners of Broxhed hall-magna and Broxhed-Hall-parva, lately parcel of the poſſeſſions of William Marquis of Northampton, were granted by Qu. Mary and K. Philip, in 1558, to Sir Thomas White (b).

But Qu. Elizabeth, in 1590, made a grant of the maner of Brokehall, alias Little-Broxhedhall, the ſite of the maner there, and Broxhedwoods, and wood-grounds, there and in Chareth, to Henry Maynard Eſq; to be holden in capite, by the 20th part of a knight's fee (c). From him they have deſcended to his preſent ſucceſſor, The Right Honorable——Charles Lord Maynard.

2. The maner of CHAURETH, or Chaure.

The houſe ſtands about half a mile north of this Church, near Chickney-hall; and is vulgarly called Cherry-hall.

This Maner is that which belonged at the time of the ſurvey to the Monaſtery of St. Etheldred at Ely [N].

Among the knights fees holden of the Biſhopric of Ely about the year 1210, Ralph Gernon held one fee in Brokeſefede (d). But it doth not appear that the Biſhop of Ely had any concerns here after that. The noble Houſe of Clare were lords paramount of all theſe lands, holding ſome in demeſne, and having tenants for the reſt.

This Pariſh having gone by two different names, Chaure and Broxted, it is not always eaſy to diſtinguiſh which owner had only that called Chaure-hall. In all that relates to the hoſpital of St. John of Jeruſalem here, the name of Chaure is uſed, and the Church is called the Church of Chaura.

In 1294, William de Wanton held this maner of Chareth, being the inheritance of his wife Maud, of John de Lovetott, ſen. by the ſervice of two knights fees; and alſo half of the maner of Roger de Bacheſworth, and a rent of 13s. 8d. (e)——William, moſt probably his ſon, dyed in 1347, holding the maners of Chaureth and Horam of Lady Elizabeth de Burgh, and her anceſtors, as of the Honor of Clare.——Sir William Wanton his ſon (f) [O], at the time of his deceaſe, held this maner, of William Swaulond of Hertfordſhire: and his coheirs were, his ſiſter Joane, and Anne a daughter of his other ſiſter Alianor by her huſband John Edneſore (g). —— Joane was married to William Chalke (h) [P].

It appears afterwards in Sir Richard Greſham, Alderman of London; who, 13 Novemb. 1540, ſold it, for the ſum of 600l. to

Thomas Crawley, of Wendon Loughts: it containing 500 acres of arable, 200 of paſture, 40 of wood, and 40s. rent [Q]. T. Crawley dyed 29 Septemb. 1559, holding this maner of John Newdigate, Eſq; as of his maner of Harefeild in Middleſex (i). [See under Wendon Loughts]

According to the Book of the Duchy of Lancaſter, this has ſince been in Bendiſh, then in Adams, then in Jocelyn; for in that book we find theſe entries. ‘ Maner of Chawreth, alias Chaure- ‘ Hall, in Broxted.—23 Car. Sir Charles Adams ‘ Bart. after the death of Sir Thomas his brother.’ The family of Adams is ſeen at Elſenham.

This eſtate was purchaſed by Sir Strange Jocelyn of Sabridgeworth in Hertfordſhire, Bart. whoſe family is to be ſeen at High-Roding. By will he gave it to——Conyers Jocelyn, M. D. his younger ſon, to whom the title of Baronet is ſince fallen. He ſold it ſome time ago to the Rt. Honorable Charles Lord Maynard.

Here have been fiſh-ponds ſo conſiderable as may have given occaſion to the name of Brokeſhead.

A rent-charge of 20s. per ann. to the Poor of this pariſh, in the diſpoſal of the overſeers, is payable out of Ewins, an eſtate a little above Broxted-hall, belonging to Mr. William Kendall, of Thackſted.

Here are alſo Almſhouſes for two families, purchaſed with pariſh-money.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, ſtands on the ſide of a hill, and is tyled, as well as the Chancel: but a north iſle adjoyning to the Church, is leaded. The Chancel is a lofty ſtately building; and there is, a partition, for a ſchool that uſed to be kept there. In a little low wooden Belfrey there are four Bells.

The Rectory, which is a Maner, was given in 1151, by Alured de Bendaville and Sibill his wife, with Roger Picot's land, and all appertenances, to the Hoſpital of St. John of Jeruſalem, for the ſouls of the noble Houſe of Clare, and for their own ſouls. Gilbert Earl of Clare is called here their lord. This was confirmed by Richard de Clare Earl of Hertford, by K. John, and Hubert Archbiſhop of Canterbury (k).

The Rectory was afterwards appropriated to that Houſe, and a Vicarage ordained, of which they continued patrons till their ſuppreſſion.

In 1541, K. Henry granted this Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, to George Harper (l). He, by licenſe, dated 20 July 1543, alienated them to Sir Thomas Audeley, Lord Chancellor (m). He had them at the time of his deceaſe, 8 May 1544 (n), and left them by will to his nephew—Thomas Audeley of Bere Church, Eſq; that dyed poſſeſſed of them (o). As did his ſucceſſors ——Thomas, 31 Decemb. 1572.——Robert 27 Sept. 1624, and—Henry. Mrs. Audeley of Ramſden-Bellhouſe, of the family of Bere-Church, ſettled it upon Mrs. Coffin her god-daughter.

It is now in Richard Beauvoir Eſq; whoſe ſeat is at Downham.

Church-hall, the Rectory maner-houſe, ſtands near the Church.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1348l. 1s.

10. BERNSTON

Is ſouthward of Dunmow, on the river Ohelmer. The name denoting Berners-town, is ſuppoſed to be derived from Hugh de Berners, who was tenant of this maner, at the time of the general ſurvey, under Geffrey de Magnaville: But it had belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Uluuin [Q]. The name of Berners occurs in the Roll of Battle-abbey; and that of Bernieres in D'eudemare; ſo that there is no need of ſuppoſing him a Saxon owner: Since there was ſpace enough between the conqueſt and the ſurvey for this place to have received, and been known by, the name of Berners-town. This Hugh Berners had alſo Roding Berners. And the capital ſeat, of himſelf and deſcendents, is ſaid to have been Everſden in Cambridgeſhire.

The Berners continued long tenants of BERNSTON-HALL, which is the only Maner in this pariſh, under the Family of Magnaville, Earls of Eſſex, and their noble ſucceſſors. Sir Ralph de Berners who dyed in 26 Edw. I. held the maners of Berneſtone, Rothinges, and Berwick, of Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford, by the ſervice of three knights fees and half;—— Edmond was his ſon and heir (p).——Sir John de Berners held in 1375, under Humfrey de Bohun, 4 fees in Berneſton, Rothing-Berners, Berewyke, High Eſtre, and Newton in Dunmow, and Strathal, which Sir John de Berners held before (q), and dyed in 1375.—— Sir James Berners, ſon of the laſt-named Sir John, of Weſt Horſeley in Surrey, was beheaded in 1388, on account of treaſon, for giving K. Richard II. evil Counſel, as the expreſſion was, and his eſtates were confiſcated, 1 Octob. 1386 (r).

Upon the confiſcation, this maner is ſaid to have been ſold by the King's Treaſurer and others to the feoffees of Thomas of Woodſtock Duke of Glouceſter, who, according to the Monaſticon (s), ſettled it upon his College of Pleſhy.

That college was poſſeſſed of it in the reign of K. Henry VII. for William Kymwolmerſh held, in 1487, the maner of Newton-hall in Great Dunmow, of the Maſter of the College of Pleſhey, as of his maner of Berneſton-hall (t). But the Advowſon of the Rectory was in the heirs of Thomas of Woodſtock; and never in the College (u).

After the diſſolution of Religious Houſes, K. Henry VIII. 31 Decemb. 1546, granted the maner of Bernſton to Sir John Gate, with Pleſhey (w), Sir John forfeiting all his eſtates by attainder, for taking part with the Lady Jane Gray, this maner fell to the crown.

Queen Mary, in the firſt year of her reign, granted the maner of Barneſton, alias Barneſted, and the Advowſon of the Church, and Rectory, to Robert Rich (x), brother, as we have reaſon to believe (y), to Richard Lord Rich —— Catharine Burgen, widow of Robert Burgen Eſq; ſiſter, or formerly wife, to Robert Rich, held, at the time of her deceaſe, 22 Janu. 1561, the Maner of Barneſton, alias Barniſton, and woods in Hall-garden in Ringhers, and Aſquells grove, with Court-leet and view of frank plege, and the Advowſon of the Church, of the Queen in ca. val. 21l. per an. —— Richard Rich, Knt. Lord Rich was next heir to the ſaid Catharine (z), and dying 12 June 1566, was found to hold the third part of this maner (a).——Robert Rich Earl of Warwick dyed poſſeſſed of them in 1618, whoſe ſon Robert and two grandſons —— Robert, and —— Charles, ſucceeded. Upon the failure of the iſſue male, this eſtate came to

Daniel Earl of Nottingham, who had married Lady Eſſex, one of the daughters and co-heirs of the laſt Earl of Warwick. He ſold Bernſton to

Sir Felix Wylde of Town-Marden in Kent, Bart. Sir Felix's ſiſter married

John Cockman of Maidſtone in Kent, M. D. The Dr. enjoyed the eſtate, which came in marriage with his daughter to Nicolas Took Eſq; as did Priory-Place, in Little-Dunmow. And it is now in ——John Tooke, or Toke, Eſq;

About a mile weſt from the Church, towards High-Roding, ſtands a capital Meſſuage called Albanes, wherein reſided for ſome generations the Collard Family. William Collard dyed 9 April 1668, aged 88, and Judith his wife, daughter of Nicolas Exton of London, merchant, 13 April 1665, aged 76. Their Children were, William; Nicolas, who dyed ſingle 11 Febr. 1680; Stephen: Judith, Dorothy, Sarah, Alice, Anne, and three more.—— William, the eldeſt ſon, who dyed 17 Auguſt 1674, in the 35th year of his age, left by Dorothy his wife, daughter of Thomas Ady of Wethersfeild, M. D. two ſons and two daughters: She dyed 17 Auguſt 1722, aged 84. William, the eldeſt ſon dyed 13 May 1698, without iſſue, and was ſucceeded in this eſtate by his brother - —— Ady Collard Eſq; who dyed unmarried 31 July 1747, in the 74th year of his age. The two daughters were, Barbara, wife of Nicolas Stiles, and Dorothy, which dyed ſingle, 4 April 1743, in the 82d year of her age [S].

Samuel Ruggles, Eſq; and Richard Barnard, have alſo ſome eſtates here.

Robert Scott of this pariſh, Gent. who dyed in 1625, gave 100l. to buy land for the Poor of Barnſton for ever, for their better relief, over and above their yearly collection: And with that money was purchaſed one cloſe of five acres, Well-field Spring one acre, four acres a parcel of Great Well-field, Rolves-croft of four acres, all in Great Dunmow; and Roding Ley of three acres, in High Roding; which are veſted in Truſtees, and rented all together, at 8l. a year.

Daniel Barnard did convey, 1 Auguſt 1654, Mayden-croft in this pariſh, rented at 1l. 10s. for the uſe of the Poor.

William Collard, Gent. gave, 3 January, 1657, one annuity or rent-charge of forty ſhillings, iſſuing out of thoſe two tenements, with a garden, called Belſton-garden, and the houſes, gardens, &c. to the ſame belonging; and alſo out of one acre and a half of land to the ſame garden adjoining, near Ounſloe-green; and alſo out of Pondfield, two acres, in Great Dunmow, abutting on the ſaid Green: to be diſtributed, within three days after Decemb. 21, by advice of the Miniſter and ableſt inhabitants, among the poor of this pariſh, for their better relief over and above their ordinary collection.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 716l. 1s.

The Church, which ſtands in the higheſt part of the pariſh, is of one pace with the Chancel, tyled. At the weſt end there is a ſpire, ſhingled, containing 1 Bell.

This Rectory was at firſt appendent to the Maner, and belonged to the noble family of Bohun; it ſince paſſed into the hands of their ſucceſſors Dukes of Buckingham, &c. till the attainder of Edward Stafford. Then it came to K. Henry VIII. and was in the Crown, till granted to the Rich family; from whom it paſſed to Sir Felix Wylde, Dr. Cockman. and John Toke, Eſq; is now only an obſcure village, but anciently was a very conſiderable Townſhip. For, even from the earlieſt times, down to after the year 1400, it was the ſeat of the High Conſtables of England (b).

But it ſeems to have been a conſiderable place long before the Conqueſt; and even in the Roman times to have been a fortreſs or villa: for there is a ditch, or intrenchment, encompaſſing the weſt, north, and eaſt parts of the preſent village: i. e. all that is north of the road; and having the remains of another correſponding on the ſouth ſide. I have often traced it myſelf; it begins in the field a-croſs the road, north of the Church. . . . On the ſame ſide of the way, in a field about a quarter of a mile from the Church, in the road leading to High Eſtre, was found a fine glaſs urn, with ſome burnt bones in it, which Samuel Tufnell, Eſq; ſhewed to the Society of Antiquaries.

J. Leland was informed, that this town and place was anciently called Tumbleſtoun (c).

The name of Pleſhy is generally derived from the French word Plaiſir, Pleaſure; the place ſtanding pleaſantly on a high ground, with a pretty good proſpect, eſpecially ſouthward; and watered with a brook on the north, and with a rill on the ſouth, ſufficient to feed any canals, or other collections of water. Thoſe that gave it that name undoubtedly thought it ſufficiently pleaſant; though there is no meaſuring of the ancient taſte by the preſent. However, it was rendered very pleaſant by the fine buildings, fortifications, and parks, wherewith it was adorned.

The various names it hath in records, beſides Pleſhy, are, Placy, Plaiſy, Plaſhe, Pleſhetes, Pleſſys, Pleycie, and Belhous.

Mr. Camden's authority is alledged, for making William de Magnaville, or Mandeville, the firſt founder of the Caſtle here (d). But where Mr. Camden ſays ſo, I cannot find. It was certainly much ancienter. Of this caſtle there are no remains now, but an earth-work [S], fortified, or ſurrounded, by a double moat. The outer-part, called the caſtle yard, contains about two acres of ground, and was the ſite of the caſtle; from whence, by a brick bridge of one arch, very lofty, is a paſſage over a deep moat to the Keep, an high artificial mount of earth, of an oval form, 45 paces in length, and 25 over, or in the width.

It has been pretended, that the name of this place is not in Domeſday-book; and that it is included under the adjoyning pariſh of High-Eſtre: but we meet in that record with Pleſinchou, which we cannot ſo well fix to any place, as to this.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, a freeman was poſſeſſed of this Pleſinchou; which, at the time of the ſurvey, belonged to Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and one Bernard was his under-tenant [T].

An incroachment had been made here upon the King, of one hide of land by Humfrey Aurei teſticuli, that before had been the property of one freeman [V].

Maud, the grandaughter of Euſtace Earl of Bologne, was married to K. Stephen, and by that means Pleſhey became veſted in the Crown with the reſt of Euſtace's vaſt inheritance.

We have great reaſon to believe, but no certain proof, that when K. Stephen created Geffrey de Mandeville Earl of Eſſex, he conferred upon him this caſtle and maner of Pleſhey. Thus much is certain, That he was poſſeſſed of it in that reign: and having ungratefully forſaken K. Stephen, and gone over to his competitor the Empreſs Maud, for which he was ſeized and impriſoned by the King; in order to obtain his liberty, he was forced not only to give up the Tower of London, whereof he had the cuſtody, but likewiſe his own caſtles of Waledene and Pleiſiz, Plaſcis, or Plaiſſers (e). But K. Henry II. reſtored to his ſon — Geffrey de Mandeville all the honors, lands, and poſſeſſions that had been his father's and grandfather's (f). He dyed 20 Oct. 1167. ——William his brother and heir, taking to wife Hadewiſe, ſole daughter and heir of William le Gros, Earl of Albemarle, their marriage was ſolemnized, 12 Janu. 1180, at this caſtle of Pleizet (g): which caſtle K. Henry II. gave him leave to fortify (h). He departed this life 14 Novemb. 1190, without iſſue [W], and was ſucceeded by Beatrix de Say, grandaughter of his aunt Beatrix, that had taken for her huſband William de Say. Beatrix, his ſaid heireſs, was married to Geffrey Fitz-Piers of Ludgarſhall-caſtle in Wiltſhire, Chief Juſtice of England, who, in her right, was made Earl of Eſſex, and his ſons took the ſurname of Mandeville. They were Geffrey, and William, ſucceſſively Earls of Eſſex. And he had a daughter, Maud, married to Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, and Lord High Conſtable of England. Geffrey, the father dyed 2 October 1213, as did his ſon——Geffrey in 1216, and —— William, 25 Decemb. 1227 (i): both without iſſue. This laſt intailed all his lands, with the Earldom of Eſſex, upon his ſiſter

Maud. She was wife of Henry deBohun, created by K. John, 28 April 1199, Earl of Hereford, in right of his grandmother Margaret eldeſt daughter of Milo Earl of Hereford; and alſo

He had two wives, firſt, Maud daughter of Ralph de Iſſodun; and his ſon by her, named Humfrey, dyed before him, about 1265. By his ſecond wife, Maud de Avenefbury, he had John, and Milo [Y]. He dyed 24 Septemb. 1275, and was ſucceeded in honours and eſtates by his eldeſt ſon Humfrey's ſon, named alſo Humfrey. At the time of his deceaſe, he held this maner of Plecys, and alſo thoſe of Waltham, and Heigh-eſtre, of the King in capite (l). —— Humfrey juſt now mentioned, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, and alſo in his mother's right Baron of Brecknock, ſucceſſor to his grandfather; obtained leave of K. Edward I. in 1320, to incloſe 150 acres of his demeſne lands, adjoinging to his PARK of Waltham and Haut Eſtre, called Le Pleſſie, to enlarge that Park (m): which comprehended ſome of the lands belonging to Waltham-bury, and was known by the name of Pleſhey Great Park as low as the year 1566. [ſee above, p. 102.] This Humfrey de Bohun, the third poſſeſſor of this eſtate of that family, dyed at Playſie in 1298, holding the maners of Pleſſet, High Eſtre, and Gr. Waltham, of the King in ca. of the Honor of Mandeville (n). By Maud, ſiſter of William, Lord Fines, he had his only ſon — Humfrey, ſlain at Burrow-bridge, 5 March 1322. He married in 1303, Elizabeth ſixth daughter of K. Edward I. widow of John Earl of Holland, and had by her ſix ſons; and two daughters, Margaret, wife of Hugh Courtney, Earl of Devonſhire, and Eleanor, wife of James Butler Earl of Ormond. —— As to the ſons, John, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, had two wives, but no ſurviving iſſue by either; and dying 20 January 1335, was ſucceeded by his next brother — Humfrey, who dyed at Plaiſie, in 1361, without iſſue. William his next brother, Earl of Northampton, was dead before him, in 1359, or 1360; but his ſon — Humfrey ſucceded his uncle Humfrey; being Earl of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, Baron of Brecknock, and High Conſtable of England. He married Joane, daughter of Richard Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel and Surrey; and departing this life 17 Janu. 1372, poſſeſſed of an immenſe eſtate [Z], left only two daughters co-heirs, Elianor and Mary. His widow dyed 7 April 1416. Of the two daughters, Elianor was married to Thomas of Woodſtock, ſixth ſon of K. Edward III. who in her right was Earl of Eſſex and Northampton, and Conſtable of England, created in 1377 Earl of Buckingham; and in 1385 Duke of Glouceſter. With her he had this caſtle and maner of Pleſſity, and the maners of High Eſtre, Waltham, &c.

Mary, the other daughter, was married to Henry Earl of Derby, afterwards King Henry IV. [ſee above, p. 62, 83.]

The Duke of Glouceſter being uncle to the then reigning King, Richard II. and a man of ſhining valour, as well as probity and virtue, could not but have a great ſway in public affairs. However, that honeſt, but over-zealous and indiſcreet patriot, reſtleſs, turbulent, and conceited, ſo clogged the wheels of government, and treated his nephew the King ſo much like an imperious Uncle, that the King imprudently reſolved to get him out of the way. For that purpoſe, he came to him here to Pleſhey one ſummer's evening, and required his uncle to accompany him to London that night. When they were come near Stratford by Bow, the King riding off, a party that lay in ambuſcade, with Thomas Mowbray Earl Marſhal, ſeized the Duke, and hurried him to the water-ſide, where a ſhip was ready, that conveyed him to Calais [A]. There he was kept cloſe priſoner, till 8 Septemb. 1397, when he was ſtifled between two feather-beds: And being in the enſuing Par-

[X] Maud, his widow, was remarried to Roger de Dantſey, but divorced from him about 1227.

[Y] This appears from the Letters patent 53 Hen. III.

[Z] By the Inquiſition taken after his deceaſe, it appears, That he held, as parcel of the Barony of the Earldom of Eſſex, the Caſtle and Maner of Pleſhet or Plaſshis, with the Advowſon of a Chapel within the Caſtle; and the maners of Great Waltham, High Eſtre, Writele, Hatfeild Regis, Great Badave, Shenfeild, Fobbing, Depeden, Walden, Quendon; view of frank-pledge at Chiſhall; the Court of the Honor of High Eſtre; the maner of Wikes, holden of William Bourgcher; and that of Little Hallingbury: Horsfrythe Park of 300 acres, near Writele; and the half-hundred of Herlowe.

In right of Joane his wife, he held the maners of Great and Little Wakering, of Northorp, Ramſden-Belhous; and in Barling, 1 meſſuage, 60 acres of arable, and 20 acres of marſh.

He was ſeized in his demeſne, as of fee, of four knights fees and a quarter, in Bromfeild, Black Notley, Gr. Waltham, and Redlegh: of four fees, in Berneſton, Rothing Berners, Berewyke, High-Eſtre, Newton in Dunmowe, and Strathale: of three fees, in High Eſtre, Teye Mandevile, Aldham, Kyneton in Springfeild, Aſheldam, Danſeye, and Wolwyche: the like in South-Wokyndon, Kyneſwood, and Bartleſden; and in Staundon; Chikenhale, and Stamburne: two knights fees, in Maſchebery, and Moſe; the like in Little Burſted, and in Stowemarys, and in Schellegh, and in Chiſhull, Chikenhale Trencheford, Shellow, and in Terling: and one knight's fee in each of the ſeveral following pariſhes, Dunton, Tilbery, Eaſt Tilbery, Ardley, Matching, High-Eſtre, Chygenhale Tany, Chygenhale and Elſinham, Rothing Abbeſs, Wigborowe near Salcote, Dunmow, Chaldewell, Wike, Bobbingworth, Ramſden Greye, and Ramſden Belhous, Lamerſhe. And half-fees, and many other parcels of fees, in the above-named, and other Pariſhes, in this county.

Moreover, he had the Advowſons of the Churches, of Depeden, Quendon, Shenfeild, Fobbing; of the free Chapel within the Caſtle of Pleſhes; of the free Chapel of Badowe; of the Hoſpital of the Abbey of Walden, and of the Hoſpital of the Priory of Wikes. Inquiſ. 46 Edw. III.

[A] This is the ſubſtance of the account given of this tragical affair by Sir John Froiſſart, a contemporary Hiſtorian, l. iv. c. 33, 36. with theſe few additional circumſtances. That the King deſired the Duke to accompany him to London, with five or ſix of his ſervants, for that he himſelf, with his two uncles of Lancaſter and York, was to hold a council the next day, in which he wanted alſo his advice, what anſwer to give the Londoners, to a petition they were to preſent to him. Upon this the Duke, who ſuſpected no harm, taking along with him only three Eſquires, and four ſervants, accompanied the King towards London, who took the way of Bondelay (Epping-foreſt we ſuppoſe) to avoid the great road, and Behode (perhaps Brentwood) and other Towns, ſtill talking familiarly with the Duke, as they went along. ——In revenge for this, as is ſuppoſed, John de Holland, Duke of Exeter, the King's uterine brother, and his faſt friend, was beheaded here by the populace, either Sept. 22, or 15 Janu. 1400, on account of a conſpiracy he had entered into againſt K. Henry IV. T. Walſingham, p. 363, ed. 1603, and Dugdale's Baron. Vol. II. p. 79.

liament declared a Traytor, all his lands and poſſeſſions were forfeited to the King (o). However, his widow Elianor, at the time of her deceaſe, 3 Octob. 1399, enjoyed this caſtle and maner of Pleſſy, the maners of Gr. Waltham, High Eſtre, and moſt of the eſtates that had belonged to her anceſtors; with the office of High Conſtable of England (p). Her huſband was at firſt interred in his Collegiate Church here, but removed afterwards to Weſtminſter-Abbey: where ſhe was alſo intombed. Their iſſue was, Humfrey, who dyed before her, unmarried; and three daughters, Anne; Joane; and Iſabell. The latter was a Nun; Joane, married to Gilbert Lord Talbot, dyed 1 Henry IV. She had the maners of Waltham, and Wikes; 73s. 4d. out of the maner of Shenfeild, and the view of frank-pledge at Chiſhall. (q) Her only daughter dyed young; ſo that Anne, the eldeſt daughter, became ſole heireſs to the Bohun eſtate. She was married firſt to Thomas, and then to his brother Edmund, both ſucceſſively Earls of Stafford, and afterwards to William Bourchier Earl of Eu. But this eſtate did not come to her. For, a partition being made, in 1421, of the eſtates of Humfrey de Bohun the laſt Earl of Eſſex of that name, between K. Henry V. ſon of Mary youngeſt daughter of Thomas of Woodſtock, and Anne Counteſs of Stafford, this Caſtle and Maner with the Park, then valued at 106l. 8s. fell to the King's ſhare. —Statut. 9 Hen V.— From which time they were united to the Duchy of Lancaſter.

K. Edward VI. in 1547, granted to Sir John Gate the maner of Plecy, and thoſe two Parks called Plecy Parkes, alias le great park and le litle parke de Plecy; to hold in capite, by the 20th part of a knight's fee (r) [B]: Upon his attainder in 1553, for embracing the Lady Jane Grey's intereſt, all his eſtates fell to the Crown. And there this Maner remained (s).

The GREAT PARK OF PLESHEY came, by purchaſe or otherwiſe, to Richard Lord Rich, who had it at the time of his deceaſe in 1566. [ſee above, p. 102.] And it became incorporated with the demeſnes of Waltham-Bury, and hath paſſed with them to the preſent owner.

The LITTLE PARK OF PLESHEY, with a meſſuage thereto belonging, in Pleſhey and Great Waltham, was purchaſed by Sir Robert Clerke, or Clarke, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, who held it in fee-farm, of the Honor of Mandeville, and dyed poſſeſſed of it, 1 January 1607, and of other eſtates in this pariſh; namely, Tervettes, Harris, and Romboldes place; a meſſuage called Odyons, with appertenances; Wrightes; Corneborowes; Garradeſpleſhes, Bradelepleſhes, and Michelſponde; and other lands in Southend, Moltlane, &c.——Robert, his ſon, then aged 25, ſucceeded (t). He was knighted, and held this Little Park of Pleſhie, and the Mount, and other the ſame eſtates as his father. He dyed 18 May 1629——Robert, his ſon and ſucceſſor, being aged 17 years (u). Either He, or his Father more probably, built the great Brick-houſe here called The Lodge; and, as undoubtedly the old Materials of the Caſtle and the College were employed about it, no wonder there appear now no remains of them; only a few foundations were diſcovered ſome time ago in planting trees. For a further account of the Clarke Family, ſee under Good-Eaſter. The heirs and ſucceſſors of the laſt-named Robert remained poſſeſſed of the Lodge and eſtate here, of the ſite of the Caſtle and the College, and of the Tythes of this pariſh, till —— Robert Clarke Eſq; of Riſehams [ſee above, p. 25.] joining with his mother, ſold them, in 1720, to Sir William Jolliff, Knt. He dyed 7 March 1749-50, in the 85th year of his age, and was buried in this Church. Being unmarried, he left the premiſſes to his nephew.

Samuel Tufnell of Langleys in Great Waltham, Eſq; and to his eldeſt ſon. [ſee above, p. 88.]

PLESHY-BURY is another eſtate in this pariſh; the manſion-houſe of which lies near a mile weſt from this church, towards High Eſtre. We take it to have been part, or the whole, of High-Eſtre Park, mentioned above. It holds a court; and belongs now to the Rt. Hon. Earl Tilney.

In a ſurvey of the King's eſtates, taken in the laſt century, and now remaining in the Augmentation-office, I found the following Memorandums relating to the Maner of Pleſhey.

Memorandum, That there is a Court Baron and Court Leet belonging to the ſaid Maner, uſually holden upon Wedneſday in Whitſun-week. —— That the Mayor of Pleſhey for the time being is to collect and gather all the Quit-rents, Fynes, and Amerciaments of Courts, without any concideration allowed him for his paynes.——That the Tennants holding of the ſaid Maner do uſually pay one yeares Quit-rent, upon deſcent or alienation, as a releiſe, unto the Lord thereof.

A COLLEGE was founded here, about the year 1393, by Thomas of Woodſtock duke of Glouceſter (w), for nine chaplains; one of which to be Warden, or Maſter, two of them Clerks, and two Choriſters. It was dedicated to the Holy Trinity. He ſet aſide ſix acres of ground, upon which he built the College, on the ſouth ſide of the preſent Church: and endowed his foundation with nine acres more of land in this pariſh; with the maner of Berneſton in this county; that of Wells in Hertfordſhire; thoſe of Bokyngfeld, and Whitſtable, in Kent, and the Advowſon of the Church of Whitſtable; and power to appropriate the Churches of Bokyngfeld and Whitſtable to their own uſe. The whole being valued at 104l. 3s. 4d. per annum. As for ſubſequent Benefactions to this Houſe, Sir John Cobham, Sir John Harleſton, and others, obtained a licenſe, in 1395, to give thereto the maner of South Fambridge in this county (x). The Collegiate Church was in form of a croſs, as uſual, and from that time became alſo the Pariſh Church; for he had a licence from the King and Biſhop to transfer hither the Pariſh Church, which ſtood on the oppoſite ſide of the road. There had been before a Rectory, the Patronage of which Geffrey de Mandeville had given to his Abbey of Walden, and they had preſented till 1389.

Iſabel the Duke of Glouceſter's daughter, gave 20l. per an. for twenty years, for three Prieſts to celebrate for her. —— Humphrey Stafford Duke of Buckingham, who was killed at the battle of Northampton 10 July 1460, and was buried here, with his wife, and three of his ſons, one of whom, John, was Earl of Wiltſhire, by will gave one hundred marks to purchaſe lands for augmenting the number with three Prieſts and ſix poor men to pray for his ſoul, and the ſouls of his anceſtors, &c. He alſo appointed a chapel to be built and hallowed to the worſhip of the H. Trinity, and our Lady, on the north ſide of the Church, for a maſs of our Lady to be ſaid daily.——Anne his widow, who lies buried with him here, ſettled forty marks upon them. —— Sir Henry Stafford, who married Margaret Counteſs of Richmond, mother to K. Henry VII. (third ſon to Anne) appointed his body to be buried here, and gave 160l. to buy twelve marks worth of land to be amortiſed to find a fitting Prieſt to ſing for his ſoul, in this College for evermore (y).——Edward Stafford, Earl of Wiltſhire, founded alſo a perpetual Chantry here, of 13l. 4s. yearly rent (z). In purſuance of which, Robert Wittlebury, and others obtained licence in 1498, to give the maner of Grymeſbury in Bolnehurſt, 2 meſſuages, 300 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 60 of paſture, 40 of wood, and 30s. rent in Bolnehurſt, Caſhoo, &c. in Bedfordſhire, holden in capite, and of the yearly value of 13l. 4s. to Thomas Wootton, Chaplain of this Chantry (a).

This College was valued, at the time of the ſuppreſſion, 143l. 12s. 7d. ob. in the whole, and 139l. 3s. 10d. per ann. clear. The patronage of it was in the Staffords Dukes of Buckingham.

The names of moſt of the Maſters are in Newcourt, Vol. II. p. 471, 472. Thomas Walker was the laſt Maſter.

K. Henry VIII. 31 Decemb. 1546, granted to John Gate Eſq; one of the Gentlemen of his Privy Chamber, the whole College of Placy, alias Plecy, and the houſe and ſite of the ſaid College; and the Rectory and Church of Plecy, and all the Maners of South Fambridge, and Barnſton, with appertenances, to the ſaid College belonging; alſo the Advowſon of the Vicarage of the Pariſh Church of Placy, belonging to the ſame College; and a portion of tithes of corn, grain, and hay, and all other tithes whatſoever: alſo the maner and parſonage of Whitſtable, and the maner of Bockingfeld in Kent; and the maner of Wells in Hertfordſhire; with the bells, lead, goods, chattels, ornaments, and debts, belonging to the ſame, except all the plate (b). This covetous man pulled the Chancel down, for the ſake of making money of the materials; notwithſtanding ſo many noble Perſons had choſen it for their reſting place; namely, Humfrey Stafford Duke of Buckingham, Anne his wife, and three of their ſons, particularly Sir Henry Stafford, who had taken to wife Margaret Counteſs of Richmond grandmother of K. Henry VIII. from whom he had obtained this College; John Stafford, Earl of Wiltſhire, and Edmund. One would have thought that theſe bones might have protected the fabrick; and that ſuch a deſecration could not have been committed but by the hands of Julian, or the Saracens. It would have been better judged, if he had left this ſtanding, and pulled down the Body of the Church. But the pariſhioners purchaſed it, with the Steeple and Bells, that they might not be deſtitute of a place of worſhip.

Upon his arraignment and condemnation, 19 Auguſt 1553, they came again to the crown. — Qu. Elizabeth, 29 April 1564, granted the ſite of the College of Pleſhey. with appertenances, to William Poole and Edmund Downing (c): And in 1589, ſhe made a freſh grant of the ſame to William Tipper and Robert Dawe (d); of whom undoubtedly it was purchaſed by Sir Robert Clarke.

The 21ſt of May 1560, her Majeſty granted a portion of the tithes, and a tenement here, to the Dean and Chapter of Weſtminſter (e): who have ever ſince leaſed them out, and laſt to Sir William Jolliff. All the other tithes, great and ſmall, have gone with the College, and belong now to John-Jolliff Tufnell, Eſq;

Ever ſince the building of the College, and the Appropriation of all the profits of this pariſh thereto, the Maſter had the cure of Souls, and performed all the parochial duties.

After the diſſolution, the Church became a Donative, or perpetual Curacy, in the diſpoſal of the owner of the ſite of the College; with a ſtipend of 8l. a year. But it was augmented, in 1721, with 200l. by the pious and munificent Lady Moyer, one of the ſiſters of Sir William Jolliff; and, in 1728, with 300l. more, by her daughter and executrix Mrs. Jennings.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 413l. 10s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, or the H. Trinity, was large, and in the form of a croſs; the Tower ſtanding in the middle. What was left ſtanding of it by Sir John Gate, was purchaſed, as I have already ſaid, by the Pariſhioners. But the abſence of ſo powerful and opulent a family, as the Lord High Conſtables of England (for every ſuch noble Family muſt be a ſupport as well as an ornament to a place) and the deſtruction of the College, which could not but have been ſome additional ſupport, having brought Pleſhey to its preſent mean condition, the few poor inhabitants could not keep up their Church, ſo that it became quite ruinous; till, chiefly by the munificence of the good Biſhop Compton, a neat little one was built of brick, about the year 1708. The Tower ſtill remained ruinous, and there was no Chancel, till the late Samuel Tufnell Eſq; built a handſome Chancel, and under it a vault for his family: He alſo had the five Bells new caſt; the top of the Tower repaired; and erected a Monument for Sir William Jolliff.

Before I diſmiſs this Pariſh, which was ſo long the ſeat of the High-Conſtables of England, it will be proper to give ſome little account of that great Office, now diſuſed, and almoſt forgotten in this nation. The name of Conſtable is formed from the two Saxon or Teutonic words, Cing, or Konig, and Stapul, qu. the King's ſtay, or ſupport. He was in this nation the ſeventh great officer of the Crown. His power and juriſdiction was the ſame as the Earl Marſhal's, and he ſat as Judge, having precedence of the Earl-Marſhal in the Marſhal's court. By ſtatute 13 Ric. II. c. 2. It 'pertained to him to have cogniſance of 'Contracts touching deeds of Arms and of War 'out of the realm, and alſo of things that touch 'war within this realm, which could not be determined nor diſcuſſed by the Common Law, with 'other uſages and cuſtoms to the ſame matters 'pertaining.' It was a hereditary Office in the Bohuns, and their heirs, by tenure of the maners of Harlefield, Newnham, and Witenhurſt. In right of Anne, daughter of Thomas of Woodſtock, it came into the family of Stafford, Dukes of Buckingham, and expired anno 1521, in Edward Stafford Duke of Buckingham's condemnation and death. Since which time there have been only occaſional High Conſtables appointed, as at Coronations, Trials by combat, &c.

A Liſt of the High Conſtables of England may be ſeen in Holinſhed's Chronicles, Vol. II, edit. 1587, p. 865, &c. by which it appears, that there were Nine of the ſurname and family of Bohun, beſides Thomas of Woodſtock, and three of the Stafford Family in right of them, which enjoyed that high office.

12. HIGH ESTRE, or ESTER,

Lies weſt north-weſt of Pleſhey, and is called High, either becauſe the ground, or the Church, is higher than that of the adjoining pariſh of Good Eſtre.

Whether the name of Eſtre is a contraction of Eaſt-ſtreet (f), or was given to theſe places becauſe they ſtand more eaſterly than the Rodings, we are not able to determine.

High-Eſtre belonged, before the Conqueſt, to the Abbey of Ely, but Eſgar, or Alfgar, Stallere, i. e. Conſtable of the Army, in the Confeſſor's reign, ſeized it; and they could not regain it without granting him therein a life eſtate. But he was thrown by the Conqueror's order into priſon, where he ended his days (g).

Eſgar being thus diſpoſſeſſed, this Eſtra, as it is called in Domeſday-book without any other diſtinction, was given to Geffrey de Mandeville [C], more particularly mentioned under Walden: It not being reſtored to Ely-Abbey, becauſe ſome of the Conqueror's enemies had found there favour and protection.

In this pariſh are the following Maners. 1. The maner of High-Eſtre. 2. . . that of Hayrons. 3. The maner of Mannocks, otherwiſe Belhouſe, and Powers. 4. The maner of Garnets and Marks. 5. The maner of Berwicks, partly in this pariſh; but the greateſt part is in Roding-Abbeſs. 6. The Rectory, or Parſonage, is alſo a maner.

1. The maner of HIGH-ESTRE.

High-Eſtre-Bury, which is the Maner-houſe, joins to the Weſt-end of the Church-yard.

Geffrey de Mandeville had for ſucceſſors in this eſtate, his ſon —— William; his grandſon —— Geffrey, Earl of Eſſex, who dyed in 1144; and the two ſons of the latter, both ſucceſſively Earls of Eſſex; —— Geffrey, who dyed in 1166; and —— William in 1189. Then

Beatrix de Say, brought it to her huſband, Geffrey Fitz-Piers, in her right Earl of Eſſex; and to their two ſons —— Geffrey, ſurnamed de Mandeville, who departed this life in 1216; and —— William in 1227. [ſee under Pleſhey.]

Maud, their ſiſter and heir, brought it in marriage to Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, and Lord High-Conſtable of England. —— Humfrey de Bohun, their ſon, fifth of the name, had it at the time of his deceaſe in 1274 [D]. And ſo had his grandſon —— Humfrey, that dyed in 1298. —— Humfrey, who was ſlain in 1322. And then his two ſons —— John: the time of whoſe death was in 1336, and —— Humfrey, in 1361 — Then it came to their nephew —— Humfrey, tenth of the name, ſon of their brother William de Bohun Earl of Northampton (h). wife, this maner, and the Court of the Honor of High Eſtre (i). She herſelf held alſo this maner at the time of her deceaſe, 3 Octob. 1399, with 30s. rent of aſſize iſſuing out of the maners of Aileſdon and Oxenhede in Norfolk, and belonging to this maner (k).

Anne, one of their daughters and co-heirs, brought the ſame to her huſband Edmund Earl of Stafford, who had it at the time of his deceaſe in 1403 (l).

After that it came, as Pleſhey, to K. Henry V. who annexed it to the Duchy of Lancaſter.

Indeed, K. Richard III. to engage Henry Stafford Duke of Buckingham to his party, made him a grant of it, and of the reſt of the Bohun eſtates, 13 July, 1483 (m); but his enjoyment of it was very ſhort; and it reverted to the Crown, as part of the Duchy of Lancaſter.

In 1629, K. Charles I. ſold the ſite of this Maner, that is High-Eſtre Bury-farm, to the city of London, for money they had lent him. It was valued at 10l. 13s. 6d. clear per ann. which, at 28 years purchaſe, made 284l. 18s. The rent reſerved was 10l. 3s. 6d. This farm, valued at about 100l. a year, belonged lately to the Rev. Richard Maſter, Rector of Woodford, of whoſe ſon, the Rev. Mr. Maſter, it hath been purchaſed by John-Joliff Tufnell, Eſq;

A Court-leet, for the Honor of Mandeville and Tutbury, is kept here yearly on the Tueſday after Michaelmas-day. The payments to this Court are according to the number or quantity of knight's-fees, after death only. But to the Honor of Clare fines are paid, after Alienation as well as Death, in this maner: For a houſe 12d. for every acre of meadow and hop-ground 12d. and for every acre of arable and paſture, 6d.

2. The maner of HAYRONS.

The manſion-houſe is about a mile and a half ſouth from the Church, on the left hand of the road leading to Good Eſtre: It is old, and moated round. It ſeems to have taken its name from Ralph de Hayron, who, together with William Pincerna, held half a fee of Geffrey de Mandeville in the reign of K. Henry II. (n).

James Gedge Eſq; who dyed 22 Auguſt 1556, held the maner of Hayrons of the Queen as of her Duchy of Lancaſter; three daughters were his coheirs (o). [ſee above, p. 54, and under Good Eſtre.]

William Glaſcock, at the time of his deceaſe, 26 October 1632, held this maner of Hyrons in High-Eaſter, of the King as of his Honor of Mandeville; —— William, ſon of William his eldeſt ſon, was his next heir (p). It hath ever ſince continued in the Glaſcock family: [concerning which, ſee above, p. 198, 361, and under Bobbingworth, and Fernham].

3. The maner of MANNOCKS,

Is ſo named from a family which had it as early as the time of K. Edward IV. [E], in which reign it conſiſted of two maners, called Belhouſe, or Bellowes, and Powers. The manſion-houſe is about a mile or more, eaſt north-eaſt from the Church; and a quarter of a mile, on the right hand, out of the road leading to Dunmow. John Mannock, Eſq; held two tenements in High-Eſterne, one called Bellhows, the other Powers, of Anne Ducheſs of Bucks as of her hundred of Ongre (q): He married Jane Waldgrave, and dyed about 9 weeks after, in 1476. —— George his ſon by a former wife, was his heir; and married Catharine, daughter of Thomas Waldgrave of Smallbridge, Eſq; ſiſter to his mother-in-law. He was fined for refuſing to be made Knight of the Bath at the creation of Henry Prince of Wales, afterwards K. Henry VIII. his pardon is dated 11 Novemb. 1504. —— William Mannock of Camoys-Hall in Topsfield, Eſq; was his ſon and heir; he married Audry, daughter of John Allington of Weſtele in Cambridgeſhire, Eſq; and departing this life 8 June 1557 (r), left —Francis his ſon, who married Mary, daughter of William Fitch of Little Canfield, Eſq; and dyed 3 Nov. 1590 (s).——William was his ſon and heir, who married Etheldreda, daughter of Ferdinando Parys of Linton in Cambridgeſhire, Eſq; he died in 1615 (t), and was buried in Mannocks Chapel in the Church of Stoke.—His eldeſt ſon Sir Francis Mannock, was created a Baronet 1 June, 1627; he married Dorothy, daughter of William Saunders of Welford in Northamptonſhire, Eſq; and dyed 20 Novemb. 1634. —— Sir Francis, the eldeſt ſon, married Mary, eldeſt daughter of Sir George Heneage, by whom he had a numerous iſſue of five ſons, and five daughters. And being worried with ſequeſtrations, he ſold this eſtate.

It belonged ſince to the late Timothy Brand, of Hide-hall in Ingateſton, Eſq; and now to his ſon —— Thomas Brand, Eſq;

4. The maner of GARNETS, and MERKS.

The manſion-houſe is two miles north-eaſt from the Church, on the right-hand as you go to Dunmow, near Biſhops-green.

This maner took its name from the two ancient families of Garnet and Merks. For about the year 1165, Geffrey Garnet held one knight's fee here, under Geffrey de Mandeville Earl of Eſſex (u). —— Walter Garnet held one fee in High-Eſtre of Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, who dyed in 1301 (w). —— Henry Gernet held, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1345, 1 meſſuage, 140 acres of arable, and three acres of wood in High Eſtre; and 30 acres of arable, 40 acres of meadow, in Berneſton, of the Earl

They were ſeated at Stoke by Neyland in the reign of Edward III. and purchaſed Gifford's-hall in that of K. Henry VI. Among many other eſtates, they had Camoys hall, [ſee above, p. 361,] and are ſaid to have been lords of the maner of Great Gravenſdon in Huntingdonſhire, from the Conqueſt till lately. of Hereford. He had alſo the maner of Wenyngton, and eſtates at Alvethele, Reynham, and Aſhndon (x). Afterwards it was in the Gate family; of which family we have this further account, beſides what is ſaid of them above, p. 146. ——Thomas Gate Eſq; living in the reign of K. Edward III. was father of——William, who had five children, Geffrey, Ralph, Chriſtopher, Agnes, and Jane. —— Sir Geffrey Gate, the eldeſt ſon, was a famous ſoldier; ſix years governor of the iſle of Wight; and afterwards Marſhall of Calais. He dyed 22 Septemb. 1477, and was buried in the north iſle of this Church, with Agnes his wife, daughter and heir of Thomas Baldington of Adderbury in Oxfordſhire. At the time of his deceaſe, he held the lands and tenements call'd Garnetts, Merkes, Trikkets, Tarmers, and Sawall; in High Eſtre, Dunmowe, and Barnſton; of Elizabeth Queen of King Edward IV. as of her Earldom of Hereford (y). Agnes his widow, remarried to William Bromlac, enjoyed them till her deceaſe, 9 December 1487 (z).——William, their ſon, who dyed 28 Septemb. 1485, held this ſame eſtate (a). By Mabil, or Mirabel, his wife, daughter and heir of Tho. Copdow of this pariſh, [F], he had Geffrey, and Anne married to Tho. Darcy, Eſq; uncle of Thomas Lord Darcy of Chich.——Sir Geffrey, the ſon and heir, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of William Clopton, Eſq; had four ſons, John, Geffrey, Henry, all Knights; William that dyed without iſſue, and a daughter, Dorothy, married to Thomas Joſcelyn. Departing this life, 7 May 1526, poſſeſſed of this eſtate (b), he was ſucceeded by his ſon, the famous —— Sir John Gate, ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 146, who much enlarged his patrimony by the following ſpoils of the Monaſteries; namely, the College of Pleſhey with appertenances, then valued at cxil. 1s. 11d. ob. the ſite of St. Peter's Malden, with the Rectory, and Advowſon; the ſite of Bileigh Abbey: the maners of Aileſthorp, and Knivetts, in Norfolk; and the lordſhip of Cheſhunt in Hertfordſhire (c). He was condemned, and beheaded 22 Auguſt 1553, for eſpouſing the Lady Jane Grey's intereſt, and all his eſtates fell to the Crown.

On the 21ſt of July, 1558. Qu. Mary granted the maner of Garnetts and Marks; and the maner of Long-Barnes, and Fraies in Belchamp-Rothing, with appertenances [G], to Richard Weſton, Eſq; and Margaret his wife (d). Richard Weſton, one of the Judges of the King's-Bench, had licence, 15 September, 1561, to alienate Garnetts and Markes to Kenelm Throckmorton and John Paviott (e). Throckmorton got licenſe, 6 Febr. 1563 (f), to ſell it to William Fytche, Eſq; He dyed and Thomas was his ſon and heir (g).

This maner hath been of late in the family of Dyer of Dunmow.——Sir Swynnerton's executors ſold it, in 1740, together with Newton-Hall, to Sir Brownlow Sherrard. But that purchaſe not going forward, they were both bought by John Henniker Eſq; [ſee above, p. 425.]

5. The maner of BERWICKS

Is partly in this pariſh.

Sir Ralph Berners held this maner in the time of K. Edward I. under Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex.——Edmund was his ſon, aged 30 years (h).

In the reign of K. Edward VI it was in the Crown; for that King 3 July 1547, gave it, with appertenances, parcel of the Duchy of Lancaſter, to Sir John Gate, by way of exchange; it being then valued at 13l. 13s. 4d. (i). Afterwards it was in the Capel family. See under Roding-Abbeſs.

There is in this pariſh, a Hamlet, vulgarly called Pantlo, or Pentlow End, about a mile northward from the Church, towards High-Roding.

Under Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, Gilbert de Stamford held one fee in this pariſh, in 1301. The heirs of Gilbert de Stanford held the ſame: And, Peter att Hide, and John Gouldeſborough, held a fee each here, under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford, &c. who dyed in 1372 (h). But where to fix them we cannot tell.

Beſides the above-named, the following perſons have alſo ſome eſtates here. Geo. Scullard Eſq; Will. Haſlefoot Gent. Robert Burton; James Bridge, and a few more.

This large pariſh is rated to the land tax at 2152l. 3s. 10d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is very large and lofty, conſiſting of a body, and a north iſle, the upper end of which is called Garnetts Chancel, becauſe it was the burial-place of the Garnett family, all leaded; the Chancel is of one pace, bur hath a good veſtry on the north ſide. At the weſt end there is a high Tower, containing 5 large Bells, and on the top a ſmall ſpire leaded, with a Saints bell. At the two corners of the Chancel are ſeveral Bricks, which ſeem to be Roman; at leaſt are in that form and ſize.

This Church was given by Geffrey de Mandeville to his foundation of Walden-Abbey; and the donation confirmed by K. Stephen, and K. Henry II. (l). The Rectory and great Tithes were, from time immemorial, appropriated to that Monaſtery, and a Vicarage ordained and endowed, of which the Abbot and Convent continued patrons till their ſuppreſſion. After the general diſſolution, the Rectory impropriate, which is a Maner, was granted by K. Henry VIII. in 1538, to Thomas Lord Audeley. But K. Edward VI. in 1547, ſettled it by way of exchange,

13. GOOD ESTRE

Lies ſouth of High-Eſtre. The name of Good, which diſtinguiſhes it from High, was given to it ſince the Conqueſt; for in Domeſday-book it is denoted only by the plain name of Eſtra. Ailmar, a King's Theign, held it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: Earl Euſtace gave it to the Collegiate Church of St. Martin le Grand in London [H], founded about A. D. 700, by Victred, or Wythred, King of Kent; but rebuilt and chiefly endowed by two Saxon Noblemen, Ingelric, and Edward or Girard his brother, about the year 1056 [I]. That foundation was confirmed by William the Conqueror in 1068 (n).

The name of this place, beſides Good Eſtre, is written in records Godiceſtra (o), and Godicheſter (p).

This pariſh was of old called the Prebend of Good Eaſter, and the pariſh Church a Prebendal Church, becauſe wholly appropriated to the College of St. Martin: Four Prebendaries of which had their corps, or endowments, in this pariſh; named Paſlowes, Imbers, Fawkeners, and Bowers. And to each of them belonged a houſe here, viz. Fawkeners, on the ſouth ſide of the Church, which is ſtill in being. Imbers ſtands oppoſite to it, on the right hand. Bowers, and Paſlowes, are both down: the former ſtood behind the vicarage houſe; and the latter below it, being a large building moated round.

Theſe four were reckoned as ſo many diſtinct Maners; and afterwards ſubdivided into two others; named, Newarks or Newlands Fee; and Wares.

Peter de Cuſance, mentioned more particularly under White Roding, held to farm, in the reign of K. Edward I. or II. two carucates of land here, under two of the Prebendaries that were Aliens: and was ſo diſhoneſt as to ſell great part of that land to one John Pointon and his heirs: for which the Dean and Chapter of St. Martin were forced to prefer a petition to the King and Council (q) [K].

K. Henry VI. confirmed to the College of St. Martin's le Grand this Eſthere, with the adjoining Berewic of Maiſſeberie, and the reſt of their poſſeſſions (r).

But K. Henry VII. in 1492, gave Good Eſter, with the Collegiate Church of St. Martin le Grand, and the Sanctuary belonging to it, to the Monaſtery of St. Peter Weſtminſter, where it continued till the ſuppreſſion. It was exempt from the juriſdiction of the Biſhop or Archdeacon till K. Edw. VI. brought it under the government of the Biſhop of London.

Weſtminſter-Abbey being diſſolved in 1539, and all its poſſeſſions becoming veſted in the Crown, K. Henry VIII. made, 17 Decemb. 1540, This part of the poſſeſſions of his new-erected Biſhoprick of Weſtminſter: After the ſuppreſſion of which, he granted 28 March 1542, the maner and hereditaments called Newarks in Good Eaſter, formerly belonging to St. Peter's Weſtminſter, and all the tythes of corn, grain, and hay, and all other tythes whatſoever of and in the maner aforeſaid, and Newlands Fee in Good Eaſter; and all thoſe Prebends and capital meſſuages of Paſlows, Imbers, Fawkeners, and Bowers; the Rectory of Good-Eaſter, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, to Sir Richard Riche and his heirs. Two years after the King granted him the yearly tenth, or reſerved rent to the Crown, of 6l. 3d. out of the ſaid maner of Newarks, and divers other lands in Good Eaſter, &c. parcel of the poſſeſſions of the ſaid Monaſtery and other Religious Houſes, a-

God and Good are both expreſſed by the ſame Saxon word Goꝺ, and very properly, God being the fountain of Good. What was given to thoſe religious foundations, was ſaid to be given to God, as is abundantly plain from the uſual beginnings and preambles of their Charters.

The Maner of NEWARKS, or NEWLANDS FEE.

The manſion houſe lyes in a bottom, about a mile and a half ſouth eaſt from this church, by the ſide of the road leading to Roxwell. A Court is kept there. It was purchaſed of Richard Lord Riche by Sir Robert Clarke, Baron of the Exchequer, who made it the place of his reſidence. He dyed 1 Janu. 1606, poſſeſſed of it, of Pleſhey-lodge, and other eſtates [L]: particularly, in this pariſh, the tenements, rents and ſervices of all the free and cuſtomary tenents belonging to the maners or prebends of Fawkeners, Borrowes alias Bowers, Imberdes, and Paſſelowes, and the Tithes of them: a tenement, with appertenances, called Batemans: a tenement and 28 acres of land called Halls, here, and in Good Eſter: Crouchfeild, Whitech, and Kingſland, &c. late belonging to the maner of Wares, &c. (u). He had two wives, firſt, Dorothy daughter of John Maynard, Eſq; and ſiſter of Sir Henry Maynard, by whom he had two ſons, and eight daughters, of which Jane was married to Kenelm Jenoure, created a Baronet; Melicent to Sir Thomas Nightingale, alſo a Baronet; Eſther to . . . King; another to . . . Cutting; and another to . . . Still; Sarah, and Clemence. The two ſons of Sir Robert, were Robert; and Jeremiah, to which laſt he gave the maner of Gibcrakes. —— Robert, the eldeſt ſon and heir, knighted 23 Octob. 1614, had alſo two wives; but the name of neither of them is mentioned. By the firſt he had —— Robert, his ſon and heir: of the ſecond no iſſue is recorded [M]. . . . Jane a daughter of Sir Robert Clarke was married to . . . Utbert, whoſe daughter . . . . Elizabeth, by her huſband Thomas Hutchinſon, Eſq; had —— Mary, now, or lately, widow of . . . . Harriſon, poſſeſſor of this maner of Newarks, &c.

The Maner of WARES

Hath a large houſe moated round, in a bottom, by the ſide of the road leading from Good-Eſter to Maſhbury. It was holden of the Collegiate Church of St. Martin.

Alice Straunge, which dyed in 1459, held the maner of Wares of the Dean of St. Martin's; her grandſon——John Skrene, was her next heir. He died in 1474 (w).

James Gedge Eſq; of Newland-hall in Roxwell, [ſee p. 70, 73, 74.] held this maner of Wares, of the Queen, as of her Duchy of Lancaſter; and at the time of his deceaſe, 22 Aug. 1555, left three daughters his coheirs (x).

Sir Samuel Thwayt, Knight, of Newland-hall in Roxwell, [ſee p. 74.] who dyed 14 Novem. 1636, had not only this maner, but alſo Batemans, the tithes of Fawkeners, Paſſelowes, Imberds, and Bowers; and the tithes of ſeveral feilds belonging to the maner of Newarks, &c.——Samuel his ſon, was then aged upwards of 19 years (y). Thoſe tithes are partly in Mrs. Thwayts, partly in the heirs of John Sanford Eſq; but the maner belongs to John Naſh of London, Gent.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1181l. 2s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Andrew, conſiſts of a body leaded, and a ſouth iſle tyled. The Chancel is of one pace, and tyled: in it are ſeveral cells, or arches, of ſtone, cut in the wall. The Tower, of ſtone at bottom, and of timber above that, with a ſpire, partly ſhingled, partly leaded, contains 5 Bells.

After the ſuppreſſion of the College of St. Martin's le Grand, which had this Church, with the Advowſon of the Vicarage, and all eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction therein; the nomination to the Vicarage came to the Rich family, and continued in them till the death of Charles Earl of Warwick; being excepted and reſerved in the ſale to Sir Robert Clarke. 14. MASHBURY Lies ſouth-eaſtward from Good Eſter. It is otherwiſe written Maſcebery, Maſſebirig, Maiſſebery, Mayſbury, Meſſebery.

The word Bury commonly ſignifies a capital manſion : And the firſt ſyllable of this Pariſh's name is taken from one Macy, whoſe fee here I find mentioned in an old deed. qu. Macy'sbury.

Alueua, a free-woman, held this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, but it had been invaded by Geffrey de Magnaville, though William the Conqueror had given it to Uluric. Part of it was a Berewic, or Hamlet, to Good-Eſter, and lay in Chelmsford-Hundred [N].

It continued in the Mandeville family [of which ſee an account under Walden, and Pleſhey] till by the failure of iſſue-male it came to Fitz-Piers; and by Maud, daughter of Geffrey Fitz-Piers Earl of Eſſex, was brought in marriage to

Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex. —— Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, who dyed in 1372, held two fees in Maſchebery and Moſe, that had been holden before by William Boteveleyn (z) [O]. His two daughters and coheirs, Elianor, married to Thomas of Woodſtock, Duke of Glouceſter, and Mary to Henry Plantagenet, Earl of Derby, afterwards King Henry IV. ſhared his large eſtates. In the partition of which, made in 1421, between K. Henry V. and Anne Counteſs of Stafford, this Maner with appertenances, then valued at 13l. 19s. 3d. fell to the King's ſhare; and was by him annexed to the Duchy of Lancaſter.

It ſeems to have been uſually part of the dower of the Queens of England. For Margaret, Queen of K. Henry VI. preſented to this Church, which was appendent to the maner, in 1448 ; as did Elizabeth Queen conſort of K. Edward IV. in 1471, and 1491, and Qu. Anne Boleyn in 1535 (a). And K. Henry VIII. granted it, 10 June 1509, under the ſeal of the Duchy of Lancaſter, to his firſt Queen, Catharine of Arragon, in part of her jointure.

In 1544, K. Henry VIII. granted this maner of Mayſbury, with appertenances, Aſh-wood of 8 acres and a half, and the advowſon of the Rectory, to Geffrey Lukyn, and his heirs (b). This Geffrey had two ſons, Thomas; and William, of Sir Hughs in Great Badow. [ſee page 19.] He dyed, 1 Novemb. 1549, poſſeſſed of this maner, and alſo of thoſe of Matching, and Mountney's in Roxwell.——Thomas, his eldeſt ſon, and ſucceſſor, was then aged 34 years (c). He obtained licenſe, 10 May 1550, to alienate this maner and advowſon, and Matching to —— William Lukyn (d) : who, by the name of fermer of this maner, preſented to the Church from 1550 to 1555 (e). [ſee a further account of the Lukyn, or Luckyn, family, p. 19, 82, 91, 177.] William Luckyn had licenſe 16 Septemb. 1554, to alienate the maner of Mayſbury, alias Marſhbury, the rectory of this church, and the maner of Matching to Sir William Petre (f). He dyed 13 Janu. 1570, poſſeſſed of this maner, &c. (g). His ſon—— John, Lord Petre, had alſo this maner of Maſhbury, and advowſon of the Church, at the time of his deceaſe, 12 Octo. 1613 (h). His Lordſhip gave this eſtate, among others, to his ſecond ſon —— John Petre Eſq; He had it at the time of his deceaſe, 2 Janu. 1622. —— John, his ſon, ſucceeded him (i): And his poſterity, ſettled at Fidlers in Writtle, have enjoyed it ever ſince. [ſee above, p. 47, 63, 65, 80.].

Maſhbury-Hall ſtands on the ſouth-ſide of the Church; being the moſt conſiderable eſtate in this pariſh. But Eliſha Biſcoe Eſq; and Daniel Burton, have alſo ſome Eſtates here.

This ſmall pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 36l. 0s. 8d.

The CHURCH is of one pace with the Chancel, tyled. At the weſt end there is a ſteeple, with a ſpire ſhingled, containing three Bells.

This Rectory was all along appendent to the Maner; but hath been alienated from it for ſome time.

CANEFIELD.

South of Little Eaſton, and weſt ſouth-weſt of Great Dunmow, lie the two pariſhes of Great and Little Canefield : The meaning of Cane, and field, is obvious enough [P]. The name is otherwiſe written in records, Canfeild, Canedfeld, Kaneveles.

15. GREAT CANEFIELD

Is the largeſt of the two, as the name denotes. It is otherwiſe diſtinguiſhed by the appellation of Ad caſtrum, at the Caſtle ; becauſe here anciently was a Caſtle. The artificial Mount of earth, on which it ſtood, doth ſtill remain, being planted with trees: and the Caſtle-yard, encompaſſed with a pretty deep moat, over which there is a Bridge, the only entrance into the Caſtle, contains about two acres, now converted into an orchard. When this Caſtle was built, we have no certain account [Q]. Only thus far we know, that it was one of the Caſtles belonging for many years to the moſt noble family of De Veres, Earls of Oxford, and probably built by one of the firſt of them. [ſee above, p. 292—296.]

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, this Pariſh belonged to Uluuin, and Eddeva. At the time of the general ſurvey it was holden by Alberic de Ver, or Vere; and Alan Earl of Bretagne; and Alberic held this latter part under Alan [R].

The noble Family of De Vere, Earls of Oxford, held this maner and eſtate for ſeveral generations. There is ſo full an account of them above, p. 292—296, that we ſhall beg leave to refer the Reader thither; and only take notice of a few of them, as mentioned in the Inquiſitions poſt mortem, and ſome other records.

Hugh de Vere, Earl of Oxford, who dyed 16 Decemb. 1263, held this maner of Kaneveles of the King in capite; and it belonged to his Barony, that he might be Chamberlain to the King (k). His ſon —— Robert held the ſame, as part of his Barony (l). —— John de Vere, Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1358, had two quarters of a fee here, that were holden by John Waleys, and Simon Fitz-John (m). The reſt of the noble Family of De Vere, are ſaid in records to hold it, as part of their Barony; as parcel of their Earldom of Oxford; and among others, by the ſerjeancy of being great Chamberlain of England (n).—— Edward, the 17th Earl, by virtue of a licence dated 7 March 1579, alienated the maner of Gr. Canfeild, and 100 meſſuages, 20 cottages, 20 tofts, 2 mills, 1 dove-houſe, 100 gardens, 1500 acres of arable, 260 acr. of meadow, 2000 of paſture, 100 of wood, 100 of furze, and buſhes, and 5l. rent, with appertenances, in Great and Little Canfeild: And a view of frank-pledge, free-warren, free fiſhery, in Gr. Canfeild, &c. to

John Wiſeman, Eſq; His father Sir John Wiſeman, was one of the Auditors to K. Henry VIII. and had bought, in 1548, of John Earl of Oxford, a meſſuage, and 260 acres of land called Moche Canfeild Parke, in Great and Little Canfeild, Takeley, and Hatfeild-Regis (o). He died 17 Auguſt 1558 [S], and was buried in this Church, with Agnes his wife, daughter of Sir Ralph Joſſelyn, Lord Mayor of London in 1464. They had 5 ſons, and 6 daughters. The ſons were, John; William, and another ſon, who both dyed without iſſue; Robert, Gentleman-penſioner to Qu. Elizabeth, who had 5 wives, and yet left no iſſue; Thomas, that dyed in July 1563, and lies buried in Chelmsford Church. The daughters were, Philippa, wife of William Glaſcock, and of Andrew Paſcall; Margaret, wife of . . . Everard, and of . . . . Church; Margery, wife of John Paſcall of Gr. Badow, and afterwards of . . . Reade; Clemence, wife of Ric. Everard of Waltham; Catharine, wife of Tho. Young of Roxwell; and Anne, wife of . . . Lindhill, and afterwards of John Glaſcock of Roxwell. Wingate Eſq; The 6 ſons were, John; Robert; William, a monk abroad; Thomas; Edmund, of Little Mapleſted; and Andrew, who dyed without iſſue, as well as Robert. — John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, married Anne daughter of John Leventhorp, by whom he had an only daughter that had no iſſue. [Q] Some gueſs, that Eddeva might build a fortification here, before the Conqueſt, after ſhe had ſold the Caſtle of Stortford to the Biſhop of London: Or Alberic de Ver might do it during the war between Maud and Stephen, at which time it appears that Geffrey de Magnaville aimed at getting Stortford into his hands, through Maud's intereſt, by ſome exchange with the Biſhop, or to have the fortreſs there demoliſhed. Or elſe it is ſuppoſed, that De Ver might fortify here upon K. John's deſtroying the Biſhop's caſtle of Weytemore in Stortford, for executing the Pope's interdict. Weytemore was the chief place of ſtrength hereabouts, which ſeems to have been erected during the Heptarchy, becauſe the eſtates which were ſubject to pay caſtle.guard lie on the Eaſt-Saxon, or Eſſex, ſide the Bank, which ran through Hertfordſhire from Theobalds to Barley; and this was their defence againſt inroads from Mercia. But Sir Thomas had ſold, before his deceaſe, this maner to

Thomas Hucks, or Godfrey Woodward of Berking, Eſqrs. Tho. Hucks conveyed his intereſt in it to Nathan Cooper of St. Giles's, Gent. whoſe daughter and coheir brought it in marriage to William Perkin of Weſtminſter, and they had iſſue Sarah and Elizabeth. Theſe two daughters ſold it to William Peers.

This maner; a farm called Peckers, with other ſmall parcels; and a wood called the Hart, belong now to John Jones Eſq; who hath married Dr. Weller's widow.

From time immemorial, the Copy-holders of this Maner have a right to fell and cut down any the woods and underwoods growing upon their copyholds and cuſtomary lands, to be expended and imployed about and upon any of their copyhold or freehold lands and tenements holden of the ſame Maner: And alſo to fell any timber-trees growing upon their ſeveral copyhold lands for the repairing or new-making of any houſes and buildings in and upon any of their ſeveral copyhold lands and tenements, without any licence of the Lord of the ſaid Maner: And the Lord of the Maner hath no right to cut down any timber-trees growing upon the copyhold lands holden of the ſaid maner. The Copyholders have alſo a right, without any ſuch licenſe, to make Leaſes of any of their copyhold lands for three years: And to carry marle, or yearly compoſt, from any of their copyhold tenements to another holden of this maner, without any licenſe: And that without forfeiting or endangering their copyholds. The Fine hath been always certain, and not arbitrary at the will of the Lord, viz. Five ſhillings an acre, and after that rate for every leſſer quantity, and nothing for the meſſuage or tenement. The better ſorts of copyhold tenements having no lands but a yard or back-ſide, pay Five ſhillings upon every admittance; and the worſer ſort of tenements having no lands nor yard, Two ſhillings and ſix-pence upon every admittance. . . . Theſe were confirmed by a Decree in Chancery, 25 November 35 Elizab. by Sir John Puckering Lord Keeper, after a ſuit in Chancery between the copyhold Tenents and John Wiſeman Eſq; . . . . Great Canfeild PARK was purchaſed, as we have ſeen above, by Sir John Wiſeman.——*Tho. There is an Almſhouſe near the Church-yard, and two others, not worth mentioning.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1196 l.

The CHURCH, which is leaded, is of one pace with the Chancel: the latter is tyled. The Tower which is of ſtone, topped with wood, has a ſhaft leaded, with a gallery round. There was formerly a lofty ſpire, but it being much decayed was taken down by the Biſhop's order, before the great ſtorm in 1703. Here are 4 Bells.

This Church was given by Alberic, the firſt Earl of Oxford, to the neighbouring Priory of Hatfeild Regis [W]. The Rectory was appropriated to them, and a Vicarage ordained, of which they continued patrons till their ſuppreſſion.

16. LITTLE CANEFIELD

is otherwiſe called Childs, and Childer Canfield.

This Pariſh belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to two Freemen, and to Anſgar, and Uluuin: but at the time of the general ſurvey it was holden by William de Warenn; Geffrey de Magnaville; and Alberic de Vere [X].

From hence aroſe three maners in this pariſh. 1. Little Canfield-hall. 2. The maner of Langtorns, alias Langthorns. The Earl of Oxford's maner of Great Canfield extended into this pariſh; or at leaſt he had lands here. To which may be added, the capital meſſuage, or reputed Maner of Stone-hall.

1. The maner of LITTLE CANFIELD-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands about a mile north of the Church. As this maner belonged at the time of the ſurvey to William de Warenn, ſo it continued in his poſterity Earls of Warenn and Surrey, till the extinction of that family in John the eighth and laſt Earl of Warenn, Surrey, and Suſſex, who dyed in 1347; then it deſcended to his ſiſter

Alice, wife of Edmund Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel, and Surrey: whoſe ſucceſſors were —— Richard: —— another Richard, beheaded 21 Sept. 1397: His ſon——Thomas was reſtored in blood, 14 Octob. 1399. But he dying without iſſue, 13 Octob. 1414, his 4 ſiſters became his coheirs: viz. Elizabeth, married firſt to William, ſon of William Montacute Earl of Saliſbury, then to Tho. Moubray Duke of Norfolk, and Earl of Surrey, next to Sir Robert Gouſhill, and laſtly to Sir Gerard Uffleet; Joane, married to William Beauchamp Lord Abergavenny; Margaret, married to Sir Rowland Lenthall, and after to . . . Treſham; and Alice to John Charleton Lord Powis (s). Under them this eſtate was holden by —— Sir John Hende, and afterwards by his heirs,—— Walter Writtel, and —— John Baſſett Eſqrs. ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 155, 156. (t).

By purchaſe, I imagine, it came into the Fytche family, which bought ſeveral Eſtates in this county about the middle of the ſixteenth century.

They were originally of Fitches in Widdington, and ſpread into two branches; one of which ſettled at Braſon-head in Lindſell, and the other at this place. [ſee above, p. 446.]

Thomas Fytche, of Braſon-head, had for his eldeſt ſon—— William Fytche Eſq; owner of this maner of Little Canfield (u), who dyed 20 Dec. 1578 (w), aged 82. By Elizabeth . . . his firſt wife, he had two ſons and three daughters; and by his ſecond, who was Anne, daughter of John Wiſeman of Felſted, and dyed 3 Decemb. 1593, he had four ſons (x), Thomas; William; Sir Francis; both which laſt dyed without iſſue; and another, a monk. —— Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, dyed 29 Novemb. 1588. By his wife Agnes, daughter of John Wiſeman of Great Canfield, Eſq; he had 3 ſons and 3 daughters (y). —— William, his eldeſt ſon, dyed 24 Decemb. 1608, without iſſue; and was ſucceded by Sir William Fytche, Knt. his brother Thomas's Son (z), who married Dorothy daughter of Sir Charles Cornwallys. But we ſhall purſue the pedigree no further: For this eſtate was ſold by Sir William to

Sir Henry Maynard, Knt. who dyed poſſeſſed of it 11 May 1610 [Y]; and from him it hath deſcended to the Rt. Hon. Charles Lord Maynard.

Some lands here, called HODINGS, belong alſo to his Lordſhip. They were holden of the Earl of Oxford by Walter de Hoding in 1302 (z). and by Thomas de Hoding in 1372 (a): from whom they took their denomination. [ſee that family mentioned above, p. 277, 290, 380.] It is ſuppoſed to be the fourth part of a knight's fee that was holden by Margaret Sheering in 1397; by

But they are not more particularly deſcribed. However, as they were holden of the Earls of Oxford, they muſt have been ſome of theſe lands.

2. The maner of LANGTHORNS ſeems to have been what Geffrey Magnaville had, which, in time, came to the Arundel Family. Richard Earl of Arundel held half a fee in Little Canfield of Humfrey de Bohun that dyed in 1372 (d).——Thomas Earl of Arundel had the reverſion of the maner of Little Canefeld, called Longetones, which John Someray Eſq; held as of his gift for term of life. He dyed in 1416, and his ſiſters above-mentioned were his co-heirs (e).

William Scott of Chigwell Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe, 3 November 1492 (f), held this maner of Langtons, of the Duchy of Lancaſter; —— John Scott his ſon and heir, dying 6 Feb. 1526, was ſucceeded by his couſin —— Walter Scott, [ſee above, p. 99.]

It was lately in Ady Collard of Bernſton Eſq; who left it by will to

. . . . Howland, Gent.

STONE-HALL, was ſo called becauſe built of ſtone, and with windows like thoſe of a Church. It ſtands on the right hand ſide of the Stane-ſtreet as you go from Dunmow to Takeley; the lands reaching to Little Eaſton and Dunmow. It hath been reputed a Maner; but of which of the forementioned ones it was formerly parcel, doth not appear. Very likely it was part of the 360 acres of arable, 20 acres of meadow, 12 of paſture, and 70 of wood, in Childs-Canefeld, Dunmow, and Eyſton, which Nicolas de Aldithely, or Audley, claimed againſt Drogo ſon of William de Barentyn, and Robert de Bray (g). Thomas Raven is mentioned, as of this place, in a deed dated 1385. From Raven the eſtate came to Thomas Nuttal, and thence to

Thomas Rampſton. —— Robert Rampſton Eſq; Yeoman of the Chamber to K. Edw. VI. Qu. Mary, and Qu. Elizabeth, had it. He charged his whole eſtate with 22l. in yearly charity, to the Poor of eleven pariſhes in Eſſex and one in Middleſex, which at length fell on this part of his eſtate; viz. To Chinckford 3l. To Waltham St. Croſs 2l. To Walthamſtow 2l. Woodford 1l. Loughton 1l. Chigwell 2l. Wanſted 1l. Eaſt-Ham 1l. Weſt-Ham 1l. Layton 1l. Enfield 2l. To Newgate, King's Bench, and Marſhalſea priſons each 1l. To both Counters 10s. a-piece. He dyed 3 Auguſt 1585 and lies buried in the ſouth iſle of Chinckford Church; with his wife Margaret. She was widow of Blencoe. To her, R. Rampſton left this eſtate; reverſion to her ſon Nicolas Blencoe Eſq; At the time of his deceaſe, 19 Septemb. 1625, he held the maner, meſſuage, or ferm, called Stone-Hall in Childs-Canfeld, alias Canfeld-Parva (h). Nicolas Blencoe Eſq; mortgaged it to Thomas Gwillim of Highgate, Eſq; who, in 1647, ſold it to Charles Howland, third ſon of William Howland of this pariſh. He left it to his brother George, whoſe ſon——George, was father of —— Charles, that married Elizabeth daughter of Matthew Pincheback of Gr. Dunmow, and had by her 7 ſons, Matthew, Charles, John, George, &c. and 2 daughters. —— Matthew, the eldeſt ſon, married Hannah, daughter of George Coldham of Haverhill, Eſq; by whom he had, Hannah wife of the late Mr. Thomas Patrick; Matthew; Elizabeth; George; Anne; Mary; Dorothy; Rachel married to Sir George Beaumont, Bart. and two of the name of John. —— Matthew, the eldeſt ſon, married Suſan Newman; but dying without iſſue, was ſucceeded by his brother ——George [Z].

This pariſh is rated to the Land-tax at 778l. 2s.

The CHURCH is of one pace with the Chancel, tyled. At the weſt end there is a ſpire, ſhingled.

This Church and Rectory was given to the Priory of Lewes in Suſſex, moſt probably by William de Warenn their founder, in 1078. After the ſuppreſſion of the Monaſteries, it was granted by K. Henry VIII. to Thomas Cromwell Earl of Eſſex (i); by whoſe attainder it falling again into that King's hands, he granted it, 17 July 1545, to James Gunter, Gent. and William Lewis, yeoman. The 21ſt of the ſame month, they ſold the Advowſon of this Rectory to William Glaſcock, Gent. and his heirs and aſſigns for ever: and that family preſented to it about 100 years. It was purchaſed ſome time ago by Chriſt's-College in Cambridge.

There are ſome inſtances of Longevity in this pariſh; and the adjoyning one of Great Canfield [B].

THE RODINGS.

We are now come to the Rodings, a fruitful ſpot, though not ſo much famed for good Roads as many of the Places which we have been deſcribing. But the proverbial ſaying is well known,

That Countrie is beſt for the 'Byder,
That is moſt cumberſome to the Rider.

The name of Roding, is either derived from the river Rodon, which runs through theſe pariſhes, or from the two Saxon words, Rode, a croſs, a rood, and ing, meadow, or paſture: from ſome noted Croſs erected hereabouts. As for deriving it from the Britiſh words Er odar, or Yr odr, a limit or boundary, there is no ſufficient reaſon: it not appearing to what it could be a boundary there; ſince it is in general neither wide nor deep enough. Rothing is another way of writing the name, as alſo Roothing, & Roinges.

Theſe Rodings were formerly nine in number, now only eight; Morrels having long been united to that which is denominated by the appellation of White. The eight Rodings are, Roding — High — Aythorp — White — Leaden — Margaret — Berners — Abbeſs — and Beauchamp. The ſix firſt are in this Hundred of Dunmow: and the two laſt in Ongar Hundred, under which we ſhall treat of thoſe two.

17. High-Roding

was ſo named, either becauſe it ſtands higher up the river, or upon higher ground than the reſt. It is alſo ſtiled Great Roding, being anciently looked upon as the chief.

Theſe Pariſhes are known in Domeſday-book, by no other name than the general one of Rodinges, or Roinges; ſo that the only method we have of knowing where each Maner therein deſcribed lay, is by tracing it from the Lords there mentioned down through the ſubſequent poſſeſſors.

High, and Aythorp Rodings, belonged before the conqueſt to the Monaſtery of Ely. But the Monks having incurred the Conqueror's diſpleaſure, for ſheltering ſome Engliſh who would not quietly ſubmit to his yoke, he ſtript them of many Lordſhips, and this among the reſt, which he gave to William de Warenn [C].

This William de Warrenn, is mentioned before, p. 11, 37, 75, 226, 426, 430. as is William de Wateville, p. 405.

William de Warenn Earl of Warenn in Normandy, being nephew to the Counteſs Gunnora, and related to William the Conqueror, accompanied him in his expedition into England, and was rewarded by him with 21 lordſhips in this county; 139 in Norfolk; and many others elſewhere (k). He was made Earl of Surrey by William Rufus, in 1088 and dyed 24 June 1088. His ſucceſſors, Earls of Warenn and Surrey, were —— William, who dyed in 1138. —— William in 1148. —— William of Blois, who married Iſabell, only daughter and heir of the laſt, and dyed in 1160. —— Hameline Plantagenet, in 1201. —— William Plantagenet, held, in 1210 and 1211, Roinges by the ſervice of 13 knights-fees [D], and had a Park here. He dyed in 1240. —— John, dyed in 1304. William his ſon dyed before him, in 1286. —— John, ſon of this William, ſucceeded his grandfather in 1304, and dying in 1347, without legitimate iſſue, was ſucceeded by Alice, his ſiſter, wife of Edmund Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel (l): mentioned under Little Canfield. He was beheaded in 1326, through the artifices of Qu. Iſabell, and Roger Mortimer: His ſon —— Richard. being reſtored in blood, dyed 24 Janu. 1375, whoſe ſon —— Richard, was beheaded in 1397. His ſon —— Thomas was reſtored to his honor and eſtates; and held, among the reſt, the maner of High-Rothing, out of which the Prioreſs of Cheſhunt in Hertfordſhire received yearly ten quarters of wheat (m). This laſt Thomas Earl of Arundel dyed 13 Octob. 1414, without ſurviving iſſue; whereupon his eſtates fell among his ſiſters and co-heirs. But Beatrix. his widow, enjoyed this maner of High Rothinge till her deceaſe in 1439, or 1440 (n). The ſaid Earl's ſiſters and coheirs were, Elizabeth Ducheſs of Norfolk, and at his deceaſe wife of Sir Gerard Ufflet; Joanna de Beauchamp Lady Abergavenny; and Margaret wife of Sir Rowland Lenthall: They had their reſpective ſhares of his eſtate (o); namely, Elizabeth the third part of two parts of this maner and the advowſon of the Church (p). Margaret, and her huſband Sir Rowland the ſame: Their ſon, Edmund Lenthall, dying without iſſue, his ſhare came to the heirs of the two other ſiſters, John Duke of Norfolk, and Geo. Neville (q).

Thomas Boteler, Earl of Ormond, was poſſeſſed of this maner in 1477 (r). His daughter was married to Sir William Boleyn, father of Tho. Boleyn Earl of Wiltſhire, who had two daughters, Queen Anne Boleyn, and Mary married firſt to William Carey, and afterwards to Sir William Stafford. This Sir William had licenſe, 16 April 1541, to alienate this maner to William Nevill, &c. But he ſold it, by licenſe, dated 9 March, 1554, to [D] So it is entered in the Red Book of the Exchequer, fol. 16. though it doth not appear how William of Warenn could hold 13 knights fees in Roings, [the Rodings] ſince he had only three of them, namely, High, Leaden, and Margaret. Therefore ſome of his other eſtates muſt have been included. —— William Plantagenet father to John the laſt Earl of Surrey, married Joane daughter of Robert de Vere Earl of Oxford, who gave in marriage with her, the maners of Wolfhamſton in Chigwell, Oveſham in Matching, Margaret-ing, Prittlewell; which K. Edward III. confirmed in fee to his ſon John Earl of Surrey, with thoſe of High-Rothing; and Wenge, and Blakewell, Com. Bucks. Lett. pat. 2 Edw. III.

Sir Thomas Joſſilyn, or Jocelyn (s), who, at the time of his deceaſe, 24 Octob. 1562, held of the Queen, as of the Honor of Mandeville, parcel of the Duchy of Lancaſter, by the ſervice of two whole knights fees; the maner of High Rothinge, with all its rights and appertenances, and divers other lands and tenements in this pariſh, and in Eythorp Rothing, Hatfeild Regis, and Canfield: and the maner of Davies, alias Newhall Joſſelyn, with ſeveral other lands, &c. thereto belonging, and a water-mill, in this pariſh. (t). Sir Thomas was knighted at the Coronation of K. Edward VI. He married Dorothy daughter of Sir Geffrey Gate, [ſee above, p. 457.] and had by her, 6 ſons, and 7 daughters. Of the ſons, Thomas, and Leonard, the firſt and third, dyed without iſſue; Richard, the ſecond, ſucceeded his father; Henry, the fourth, married Anne, the heireſs of Humfrey Torrell, of Torrell's-hall in Willingale Dou; John, the next ſon, was a very learned antiquarian, ſecretary to Archbiſhop Parker, and had the chief hand in collecting and writing Antiquitates Britannicæ, publiſhed by that great Prelate [E]; Edward was the youngeſt ſon. ——This family is confeſſedly of very great antiquity, there being 24 ſucceſſive generations in their Pedigree, which be pleaſed to conſult in Sir Henry Chauncy's Antiquities of Hertfordſhire, p. 183, and in the Baronettage, Vol. IV. p. 481. &c. Thomas, the 9th in deſcent, married, in 1248, Maud daughter and co-heir of Sir John Hyde of Hyde-hall, in Sabridgeworth in Hertfordſhire, by which match that lordſhip came into this family, and hath continued in it upwards of 500 years; a longer poſſeſſion than any in that county can produce.

Richard, the eldeſt ſurviving ſon, ſucceeded his father Sir Thomas, in the maner of High Roodeinge-Bury, with the advowſon of the Church; and in the maner of Davies-hall, alias New-hall-Jocelyne (u). He dyed 4 Octob. 1605, leaving by Anne his wife daughter of Thomas Lucas of St. Edmund's-bury,—— Robert Jocelyn Eſq; his ſon and heir, that married Joyce, daughter of Robert Atkinſon Eſq; —— Sir Robert Jocelyn Knt. his ſon and heir, married Bridget, daughter of Sir William Smith of Hill-Hall, and had by her ſix ſons——Robert, the only ſurviving ſon, was created Baronet 8 June 1665: He married Jane, daughter and co-heir of Robert Strange of Somerford in Com. Wilts, Eſq; and dying in June 1712, aged about 90, was ſucceeded by —— Sir Strange Jocelyn his eldeſt ſurviving ſon, who married Mary, daughter of Triſtram Conyers Eſq; ſerjeant at law. She dyed 25 May 1731, and he himſelf in Septemb. 1734, having had ſeven ſons, though only two ſurvived him; namely,—— Sir John, who dyed 1 Novemb. 1741, unmarried; and Sir Conyers Jocelyne, Bart. and M. D. the preſent poſſeſſor.

High Roding-hall, or Bury, ſtands about the Church.

Newhall-Jocelyn, or Davies-hall, is near a mile weſt from this Church. It ſeems to have been built by ſome of the family, in the beginning in the laſt century, for their reſidence. It was a large houſe, with a court and a Chapel, but much decayed. In the windows of the hall, and parlour, there are, or lately were, ſeveral Coats of Arms [G].

Bowells, a capital meſſuage in this pariſh, ſtands not far from Aytrop-Roding Church; and belongs to   Spiltimber, of Little Hallingbury.

Matthew Barnard, who dyed 8 June 1603, held in this pariſh, of the maner of Roothingbury, 60 acres of arable, 10 acres of meadow, 40 of paſture, and 20 of wood, called the maner and ferm of Potters and Millers. —— Thomas Aylett, ſon of his daughter Joanna, was his next heir (w).

George Jocelyn of Sabrigeworth, Eſq; and John of High-Rothing, his ſon, gave ſix milch kine for ever; the profit of two for reparation of the Church, the other four for an obit for themſelves and the ſouls of their anceſtors.

James Chopping, gave in 1616, 13s. 4d. to the Poor, out of a cottage called Hils, a tenement, and two crofts of land, called Tooleys; and two other crofts called Kinſleys; in Dunmow; charged by George Raynbeard with the payment of 20s. per ann. for ever, to the Poor of this pariſh. He alſo gave Little Rowland field here.

A School-houſe in the ſtreet was endowed by Sir Strange Jocelyn and his brother Edward, Rector here, for teaching poor children.

Towards founding a Hebrew Lecture in his College he gave 100l. which was employed toward a new building, and the rent of a chamber of 5l. a year allotted for that uſe. The writer of his Epitaph intimates, that the Archbiſhop wronged him, by taking the honor of that Book to himſelf, viz.

In Learning tryde whereto he did his mind alwaies incline.
But others took the Fame and Praiſe of his deſering Witt,
And his Inventions as their owne to Printing did committ.

But the Archbiſhop had certainly the chief hand in compiling this work, as well as in collecting the materials, for the moſt part out of the Regiſters of his ſee, which in the moſt material paſſages are under-ſcored with the Archbiſhop's red-lead pencil. See Mr. Strype's Life of Archb. Parker, and Biographia Britannica, under Parker.

The Church, dedicated to All-Saints, ſtands well, but is a ſmall low building, of one pace with the Chancel; the whole tyled. A little wooden turret, with a ſpire ſhingled, contains 3 Bells.

This Rectory was given by ſome of the noble family of Warenn, to the Priory of Lewes in Suſſex, which was of their foundation. It continued in their diſpoſal till the ſuppreſſion of Monaſteries; when it coming to the Crown, was given by K. Henry VIII. to Thomas Lord Cromwell (y). Upon his attainder it reverted to the Crown, and was paſſed with the maner to the Jocelyn family, in whoſe gift it has remained ever ſince.

There is no Parſonage-houſe here, nor any trace of one to be found. According to Mr. Newcourt's copy of the Terriers there were twenty acres of land together, and a hoppet, where the ſite ſhould be looked for: But it has been ſo long loſt as not to be recovered. This may be attributed to the Monaſtery of Lewes, who fleeced the living in form of penſion; and, perhaps, for the cure employed a Monk of Hatfield or Tremhale, who had an abiding place of their own, ſo the Rector's houſe might ſilently fall to the ground.

18. RODING-AYTHORP,

Stands ſouth of High-Roding; and took its diſtinguiſhing name from an owner named Aitropius, or Aytrop, before the reign of K. Edward I. It is otherwiſe written, Eythorpe, Aylthorpe, Gytrop, and Roinges Grumbalds.

Before the Conqueſt it belonged to one Leofwin; a nobleman, who, to atone for his cruel matricide, or murder of his mother, gave the lands here to the Abbey of Ely (z). And K. Edward confirmed to them this and the former Roding (a). But they were taken from them after the Conqueſt, for the reaſon mentioned under that laſt pariſh; and William de Warenn had a part of it, at the time of the ſurvey Samar, a freeman, held a part in the Confeſſor's reign, which Eudo Dapifer, and his under-tenant Turgis had afterwards [G].

Beſides the maner of 1. Aythorpe-Roding-hall, of which the manſion-houſe ſtands at the weſt end of the Church; there are two other maners in this pariſh, namely, 2. Keeres, and 3. Friers-Grange.

1. The maner of AYTHORP-RODING-HALL.

It ſeems to have been made part of the endowment of the Biſhopric of Ely. For Nigel, the ſecond Biſhop of that ſee, granted it to Alberic de Vere Earl of Oxford, by the ſervice of two knights, &c. [H]. In 1165, Simon de Roinges held two fees here of the Biſhop of Ely; but Alberic had the ſervice of them. And in 1221, the Earl of Oxford held four fees of the Biſhop, in theſe Roinges, or Royinges, as they are called (b). Robert and William de Roothing, were poſſeſſed of them in the reign of K. Henry III. Afterwards this appears in a ſucceſſion of five generations ſurnamed de Aytrop, or Eythorpe, but they ſeem to have been under the Earls of Oxford; nor do I meet with the name of Eythorp before the time of Edward I.

That King and Alianor his conſort gave to Guido de Ferre and Margery his wife, daughter of Roger, ſon of Peter, ſon of Oſborn, for their good ſervice, the maner of Roothing-Aytrope, which was formerly Robert de Rothing's, and which the ſaid Robert releaſed and ſurrendered (c). This Guido de Ferre preſented to the Living in 1322. In 1310, he had licence to impark his wood of Eytroppe Rothing in this county (d); and at the time of his deceaſe, in 1322, held this maner of Roding Aytrop, with the advowſon of the Church, of the Earl of Oxford, in capite by knight's ſervice (e). [ſee above, p. 307.]

In 1337, Sir Thomas Weſton, brother to Sir Humfrey of Preſted-hall, [ſee above, p. 171.] had this eſtate. A fine was levied between him and his wife Margery plaintiffs, and Richard de Tywereſle, deforc', of this maner and advowſon. — Margaret, their daughter and coheir, brought the eſtate to her huſband John de Lovain, of Little Eaſton; ſee above, p. 431.] Alianor, one of her daughters and co-heirs, was wife of Sir William Bourchier, to whom Iſabella, her ſiſter, the other daughter of Sir Thomas Weſton, gave her eſtate (f). The part that lay in this pariſh conſiſted of two knights fees, which Henry Lord Viſcount Bourchier held of the caſtle of Hengham, in the time of K. Henry VI. (g). It continued in that family (h) till it came to Anne, daughter of Henry Bourchier, the laſt Earl of Eſſex, of this line, and wife of William Marquis of Northampton. Though he forfeited for aſſerting the right of Lady Jane Gray, yet the ſaid Anne Marchioneſs of Northampton, enjoyed this till her deceaſe, 26 Janu. 1570 (i), notwithſtanding ſhe was divorced, and her children declared illegitimate by parliament. Thomas Aylett, who dyed 3 June 1607, held this maner, and advowſon of the Church. He had alſo the maner of Keeres here; and lands called Bygoods, Chalkes, Taylefield; &c. and ſeveral parcels of land in Leaden-Roding; Stockhall in Matching, &c. —— Thomas, his ſon and heir [l], was then 40 years old (l).

This eſtate was ſpent in the ſervice of King Charles I.

In 1670, the maner and advowſon were in Richard Luther Eſq; who then preſented to the Living.

Since that time it was purchaſed by one of the family of Barrington of Hatfield Broad-oak, and is now in John Barrington, Eſq;

2. The maner of KEERES.

The manſion houſe ſtands about a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church.

This may have been detached at ſome time or other from the maner of Aythorpe; or probably was one of thoſe holden under Geffrey de Magnaville. The firſt mention I find of Keeres, is, that Thomas Aylett, who held the other maner, in K. James the firſt's reign (*), held alſo this of Peter Palmer, Eſq; And in that of King Charles I. John Eve had it by the name of Caros (m). In 1661 Sir John Barrington purchaſed it with 600l. left by John Gobert Eſq; and ſettled it upon charitable uſes, as may be ſeen under Hatfield Broad-oak. The maner is in John Barrington Eſq; and a court is kept here.

3. The maner of FRIERS-GRANGE

Was ſo called, becauſe it belonged to Tiltey-Priory. The houſe is about a mile and a half ſouth-eaſt from the Church. Thomas Eve farmed it of Tiltey Priory (n). After the ſuppreſſion, K. Henry VIII. granted it, among other things, to Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk (o); who ſold it, by licenſe 20 Janu. 1538, to

Robert Trappes (p). It belonged afterwards to a family ſurnamed Stokes, who lived here for ſome generations. One of them alienated it to.... Dey; whoſe deſcendant——Edward Dey, a ſhip-carpenter, ſold it to

Joſeph Sayer Eſq; Richard Eve; William Marriage; Iſaac Nokes; and Simon Knight, have alſo ſome lands, beſides the above-mentioned, in this pariſh.

It is rated to the land tax at 722l. 1s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is ſmall, of one pace with the chancel, and tyled. A wooden turret, with a ſpire ſhingled, contains three bells.

This Rectory was for a long time appendent to the chief maner, but hath been ſeveral years ſold away from the ſame.

Eudo Dapifer gave the whole tithes of this Roynges to his Abbey of St. John's in Colcheſter. And Alberic de Vere gave to his Priory of Earls Colne, the whole tithes of his demeſnes here, and the Church with its appertenances; which laſt grant was confirmed by Alberic Earl of Oxford, and William de Mandeville [K], grandſon of this Alberic by his mother Roeſia (q). Hugh, ſon of Geffrey, took this Church from the Monks, but reſtored it afterwards, and gave four acres of land to expiate his ſacrilege (r). However, theſe Grants did not take effect; for this Church continued a Rectory with all its Tithes.

[l] From him deſcended the heroic Captain Aylett, mentioned upon Magdalen-Laver, whoſe memory is kept up at Colcheſter for his deſperate defence of that place, and particularly for one ſtratagem which has been a nurſery ſtory ever ſince. When the beſieged had fed upon dogs, cats, and horſes, till their diet was more dreadful than death, the cavalry, of which body he was, reſolved upon a ſally, to ſell their lives dear, or cut their way through the enemy. He had kept a Bull for that purpoſe, whom he beſmeared all over with pitch, tar, and greaſe, then ſet fire to him and turned him out of the gate amongſt the beſiegers in a dark night; the conſternation occaſioned by the unuſual ſight and horrid roaring he judged proper for his deſign: But the foot in garriſon, ſuſpecting that, if they were deſerted by ſo great a part of their ſtrength, they ſhould all be put to the ſword, oppoſed and fruſtrated the attempt.

[K] William de Mandevill, Earl of Eſſex, is ſaid to have given them two parts of the tithes of all his demeſnes in Roinges, vouching the charter of his grandfather Alberic de Ver, father of his mother Roeſia. Ledger-book of Colne-Priory.

19. WHITE-

19. WHITE-RODING.

The ſoil being no where WHITE, we may ſuppoſe the name was given to it from the whiteneſs of the Church, when new: many Churches having been denominated from the ſame circumſtance.

Turchill, a freeman, held part of this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; but William the Conqueror had it afterwards, as part of his royal demeſnes. Some of it was holden by Roger de Otburville [L]. After this Roger we find not the name of any Lord here till the reign of K. Henry III.

The chief Lordſhip in this pariſh is promiſcuouſly called, the Maner of White-Roding; and Merks, from ancient owners. 2. Maſcelſbury is the other Maner here.

1. The maner of WHITE-RODING; or MERKS.

White-Roding Bury ſtands not far from the Church. But the Houſe called Merks is about a mile north from the ſame.

In 1226, Walter del Merc held lands in Blanche-Roung, worth 10l. per ann. by the ſerjeancy of keeping the King's Falcons (s). —— Sir Walter de Merk held in Roing, 180 acres of arable, one acre of meadow, half an acre of paſture, 15s rent of aſſize, and the advowſon of the Church, of the King in capite; —— William, his ſon and heir was eighteen years old (t). Iſabella, daughter of William de Bynayns, had in 1268, the grant of a Market and a Fair in this pariſh (u).

In 1296, or 1297, K. Edward I. granted to John de Merks in tail-general the maner of White-Roding, and the advowſon of the Church, with remainder to —— Cecily de Haſtings, ſiſter of the ſaid John (w). This Cecily was wife of Humfrey de Haſtings, and held this maner, and that of Cumbreton in Cambridgeſhire, at the time of her deceaſe, in 1304, by the ſervice of keeping two lanar falcons, or hawks, for heron-hawking; and a greyhound trained to make a heron riſe, from Michaelmas to the Purification, for the King's uſe. This maner was a little before given to John de Merk, and Mary his wife, by the King's charter (x). From this John it received the name of Merks, which was afterwards promiſcuouſly uſed with that of White Roding.

Mary wife of this John de Merk held, for the term of her life, this maner, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of keeping two of the King's falcons at the King's charge. It was of the inheritance of Beatrix, daughter and heir of Philip de Haſtings, who had been married to Thomas de Longeville (y). She dyed in 1329.

But in the mean time Peter de Cuſance mentioned above under Good Eſtre, held this maner and advowſon for the life of Mary, wife of Stephen Hovell, by the ſervice of keeping a hayron falcon for the King's uſe, at the King's charge. He dyed in 1317 (z). —— Sir William Cuſance, his ſon and heir, preſented to the living, in 1322, and 1329 (a).

Thomas Longevill is ſaid, at the time of his deceaſe in 1346, to have held jointly with his wife Beatrix, this maner and advowſon by the free ſervice of keeping two Falcons, as above (b) [M]. Beatrix his widow was re-married to

Sir William de Queneton [N], and ſeems to have given him this eſtate (c): For he was the next poſſeſſor; preſented twice to the Living; and held it as joint-feoffee with his wife Iſabell; the remainder being in Henry, ſon of Henry Grene of Iſham, and his heirs (d). Sir William dyed in 1374 (e) [O], as did Iſabell in 1387.

Sir Henry Grene was her heir, by virtue of a fine levied (f). He was ſecond ſon of Sir Henry Grene of Grenes Norton in Northamptonſhire; he had three ſons, upon one of which named—— Ralph, and Catharine his wife, this eſtate was ſettled. Catharine, after his deceaſe, was remarried to Sir Simon Felbrigg, whom ſhe out-lived, and preſented thrice to the living (g). Then the eſtate went to —— Henry, ſon of John, and grandſon of Sir Henry Grene abovementioned. This laſt Henry had a daughter Conſtance, wife of John Stafford, third ſon of Humfrey Duke of Buckingham, made Earl of Wiltſhire, to whom ſhe brought this eſtate, and he preſented to the living in 1469. She dyed in 1475, leaving —— Edward her ſon, five years old (h).

But it went no farther in that family: For it came to Humfrey Browne, ſerjeant at law, in right of Anne his wife, one of the daughters of Sir Henry Vere of Addington, who was ſon of Iſabella Grene, ſiſter of Henry Grene of Drayton in Northamptonſhire, Eſq; father of Conſtance,

[M] John Longevill was his ſon; but he doth not appear to have had this eſtate; only Kitchen-hall in Harlow. When Beatrix dyed, in 1349, John Whyteband and Roger Greenekertell were her couſins and heirs. Inquiſ. 23 Edw. III.

[N] At the time of her deceaſe ſhe is recorded to have held one meſſuage, and one carucate of land, and 36s. 7d. rent called Merkes prime tenement, in this pariſh, with the advowſon of the Church, by great ſerjeancy. Inquiſ. 23 Edw. III. —— Her huſband Sir William de Quinton enfeoffed John Aylward and Alice his wife in one meſſuage, 40 acres of arable, and 2 of meadow in this pariſh, by the ſervice of keeping a falcon for the King's uſe when he came into theſe parts. It was holden of the King, as parcel of this maner. Inquiſ. 45 Edw. III.

juſt now mentioned (i). This Humfrey Browne was knighted, and conſtituted one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, 20 Novemb. 1543. By licenſe, dated 2 May 1537, he alienated the maner of Markys, and advowſon of the Church to—John Browne Eſq; (k) who dyed 27 Octob. 1550, holding the third part of this maner, and of the advowſon of the Church, of the King, by knight's ſervice, in ca. He had alſo Colville hall [P], of which we ſhall ſpeak preſently.—George Browne his ſon, then aged 40 years, ſucceeded him (l). He dyed 26 Febr. 1558, poſſeſſed of this whole Maner, and Advowſon of the Church (m).——Sir Winſton Browne, his ſon,, and ſucceſſor, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— John, who departing this life 26 Febru. 1585, left his ſon and heir —— Antony, then aged 21 years (n), afterwards knighted. He held his firſt court here 3 Decemb. 1589. His widow, Elizabeth, was remarried to Peter Latham, who held a court here 3 Febru. 1626. —— John Browne Eſq; ſon and heir to Sir Antony, held a court here 24 April 1633.

Sir Richard Everard having purchaſed it, held his firſt court here 8 April 1634. [ſee above, p. 87.] As did his ſon —— Sir Richard, 14 April 1648.

John Le Neve bought it, and held his firſt court here 8 June 1686. His ſon —— John Le Neve, ſold it, in 1717, to Robert Summer, Eſq; a merchant in Cuſhion-court, Broad-ſtreet, London. It belongs now to his heirs.

Colville, now called Coverts-hall, went a while with this maner of White-Roding. John Browne Eſq; held it, by the name of White-Roodinge, alias Browns-maner, of the Marquis of Northampton, as of his maner of Aythorpe Roodinge (o). —— George Browne, his ſon, held it alſo, by the name of Browne's-maner, alias Colville-hall, alias Knights: As did his ſon Sir Antony (p). The Everard family had it next. And afterwards the late charitable Mrs. Priſca Coburne; who left it by will, 6 May 1701; and it is now ſettled for the relief of ſeamens widows of the pariſh of Stepney. It is ſaid to be 110l. a year. The houſe ſtands about three quarters of a mile north-weſt from the Church. It was large, but part of it is pulled down. [ſee above, p. 384.]

2. The maner of MASKELSBURY.

The manſion is about half a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church, and moated round.

This ſeems to have been originally part of the maner of White-Roding, from the ſervice being the ſame, of keeeping greyhounds for the King. The preſent name occurs in the reign of K. Edw. III. and not before. The eſtate was, probably, once in the family of St. Paul, mentioned above, p. 425. For, in 1291, Henry de Broke held in White Royngges one meſſuage, 31s. rent, three ploughs, the rent of 250 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, 8 of paſture, 26 of wood, a wind-mill, and market (q); he dyed in 1314, at which time he is recorded to have held in this pariſh one meſſuage, 300 acres of arable, 14 acres of meadow, 6 of paſture, 20 of wood, a wind-mill, and 68s. rent of aſſiſe, with perquiſites of the leet, holden of the King in capite as of the Honor of the Count of St. Paul:——John de Broke was his ſon and ſucceſſor (r); he dyed in 1351, poſſeſſed of it by the name of Maſkelſbury; and left — Thomas his ſon and heir (s).

It was afterwards in Bartholomew de Freſteling, who alienated it in fee to

John de Pikenham jun. of whom it was purchaſed by

Sir John Hende, citizen and cloth-worker of London, and others. They thought fit, for their greater ſecurity, to ſue for a writ Ad quod damnum, in 1370. This maner was then holden of the King in ca. by the ſervice of keeping two greyhounds for the King's hunting in theſe parts (t). For a particular account of Sir John Hende and his family, we ſhall beg leave to refer to page 155, 156, and ſhall juſt mention his ſucceſſors that enjoyed this eſtate.——John Hende, his eldeſt ſon dyed in 1461. —— Joane his only daughter, brought it in marriage to her huſband — Walter Writtel Eſq; whoſe ſon ——John, left his only child —— John, that dyed poſſeſſed of it 28 July 1507 (u). His only daughter and heir Julian dying ſoon after, this eſtate came into the Belknapp family. To account for which, we are to obſerve, that Elizabeth widow of Sir John Hende abovementioned, took to her ſecond huſband, Sir Ralph Boteler, created afterwards Baron of Sudley; and from her gift, or by ſome other means not diſcoverable at preſent, he got poſſeſſion of this eſtate. He dyed 2 May 1473, ſeized of it, but without iſſue. Joane one of his ſiſters had been married to Hamon Belknapp, Eſq; who had by her —— William, father of —— Sir Edward Bellknapp, poſſeſſor of this eſtate, and of that of Stondon-Marci. Upon his deceaſe 26 March 1521, his heirs were found to be three of his Siſters then living, Anne, Mary, and Alice; and Antony Coke ſon of Elizabeth his third ſiſter, by John Coke of Gidding-hall. Anne was wife of Sir Robert Wootton of Bocton-Malherb in Kent; Mary widow of . . . Dannett; and Alice wife of William Shelley (w).

On the 10th of April 1544 Sir Edward Wotton ſon of Robert, and Mary Dannett, had licenſe to alienate two parts of this maner of Malcallſbury to Antony Cooke Eſq; (x) He was the learned Præceptor to K. Edward VI. and had this eſtate at the time of his deceaſe, 11 June 1576 (y); but his ſon —— Richard, who dyed 3 October 1579, had it not then (z).

Eſq; who dyed 18 Septemb. 1607, held this maner of Maſcalls-bury of the King in ca. His next heir was the moſt famous and learned —— Sir Robert Cotton of Conington Knt. ſon and heir of Thomas brother of the ſaid Philip (a).

Sir John Poyntz, ſon and heir of Sir John Morris of Cheping-Ongar, who married Catharine, daughter and heir of Gabriel Poyntz of North-Okingdon, Eſq; and aſſumed the name of Poyntz, had this eſtate at the time of his deceaſe, 31 Jan. 1618, it being deſcribed as one meſſuage, 170 acres of arable, 40 of meadow, 80 of paſture, 40 of wood, and view of frank-pledge (b).—— Sir James Poyntz his ſon ſucceeded, and dyed 31 Auguſt 1623, leaving —— Richard his ſon and heir (c). This gentleman dyed ſingle in 1643, at Montauban in France. A ſiſter of his was married to William Duncomb of Bedfordſhire, Eſq; Anne, another ſiſter, was married to Sir Fulke Grevile, of whom took its name from an owner [Q] ſurnamed Morell. [ſee above, p. 380.] It was formerly a diſtinct pariſh; but is now annexed to, and a hamlet in, White-Roding: yet the inhabitants do their ſuit and ſervice to the Leet belonging to the Hundred of Harlow.

Sir Robert Abdy, grandfather of the late Sir Robert one of the repreſentatives in parliament for this county, bought it, and it hath ever ſince continued in his family.

20. RODING-MORELL

Wiſgar and his free-tenant Coleman, held this in Edward the Confeſſor's reign. At the time of the general ſurvey it was holden by Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, anceſtor to the Earls of Clare [R]. And that this was the Roding he had, is evident from the account of the Knights-fees of the Houſe of Clare [S].

It was afterwards in the noble Family of Stafford, Earls of Stafford. Namely, in Thomas, who dyed in 1392, and under whom it was holden by Thomaſine wife of William de Wanton: In William, brother of this Earl Thomas, in 1398: In Edmund Earl of Stafford in 1402: And in Henry Stafford Duke of Buckingham in 1548 (d).

The maner-houſe received the name of Cames, or Kemys, hall, from ſome owner, probably one of the great family of Camoys. [ſee above, p. 360.]

Andrew Prior, who dyed 1 June 1507, held the maner of Roothing-Morell, alias Cames, of Edward Duke of Buckingham, as of his maner of Hatfield-Brodock, by the ſervice of a knight's fee;—— John was his ſon and heir (e).

John Preſt, Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe, 30 Auguſt 1546, held this maner of Kemys-Hall, alias Morrell-Rodynge, and 4 meſſuages, 300 acres of arable, 30 of meadow, 100 of paſture, 60 of wood, and 60s. rent, in White, Morrell, and Aythropp Rodynge; of Sir Richard Riche, as of his maner of Hatfield aforeſaid. By Alice his wife he had John, and Frances (f). This Alice ſeems to have been married again to Blackwall. For Alice, wife of William Blackwall, dying 8 September 1561, was found to hold this maner of Kemys-hall, &c. Frances Blackwall was her only daughter and heir (g): John Preſt her ſon being undoubtedly then dead. She had alſo Miles, &c.

From the time of K. Charles I. this eſtate has been in the family of Luther.—— Richard Luther who dyed 8 Febru. 1638, held the maner of Kemis Hall, alias Canways-Hall, alias Morrel-Rothinge,—— Antony was his ſon and heir (h). This has deſcended, as Miles in Kelvedon-Hatch, to Richard Luther Eſq; the preſent owner.

There are but four Farms in this Hamlet of Morrell: namely, 1. Cames-hall, about 140l. a year. 2. Walkers, about 60l. 3. Prows-farm, about 35l. per ann. Theſe three are Mr. Luther's. 4. Philpots-farm, belongs to . . . Stock, Gent.

The little Church, or Chapel, belonging to this place, was a framed timber-building. It is now converted into a pigeon-houſe, and ſtands near Cames-hall.

Beſides the above-named, Mr. Daniel Brown; William Lewis; Richard Marſh; Human Leader; Robert Felton; John Holmſted, &c. have ſome eſtates in White and Morell Roding.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 848l. 3s.

The CHURCH of White Roding, dedicated to St. Martin, is a fair building, and may be ſeen a great way round, much exceeding all the reſt in the Rodings. It is of one pace with the Chancel, the whole leaded. A ſquare Tower at the weſt end, with a lofty ſpire leaded, contains 5 Bells.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the maner of White-Roding, till it was alienated from it by the Brown family.

There are about four acres and a half of land appropriated to this Church, of which 3 acres and one rood are arable, and 1 acre and one rood meadow. Two acres and a half of the arable lye in Aythorp Roding.

Sir Charles Leventhorp, Bart. was about 63 years Rector of this pariſh, having been inſtituted 22 Septemb. 1617, and dying 30 Auguſt 1680. [ſee under Ugley.]

21. LEADEN-RODING, or PLUMBEA,

Stands eaſtward from White Roding. It ſeems to be denominated from the Church being leaded before the reſt, or becauſe the reſt were not ſo then.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, a free woman held this pariſh; which, at the time of the general ſurvey, was holden by William de Warenn, and his under-tenant Walter [T]. This was part of the 13 knights fees, which Earl Warenn held in Roings, in 1210, and 1211 (i). [ſee above under High-Roding.]

There is but one Maner in this pariſh: and the manſion-houſe ſtands a little way north-eaſt from the Church.

John Earl of Warenn granted this Maner, among others, to Edward Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel [V], and K. Edward II. confirmed it to him in fee, in 1314 (k): From which time it became veſted in the Arundel family. Of the Earl of Arundel it was holden by Sir Hugh Blount, who dyed in 1361.——John was his ſon (l).

It was next in the Doreward family, ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 192, 384.

John Doreward held it in 1392, of Thomas Duke of Glouceſter, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee (m). His ſon and heir —— John Doreward Eſq; dyed poſſeſſed of it 12 Novemb. 1420, with a yearly rent of 66s. 8d. out of divers tenements in this pariſh, White-Roding, and High-Eſtre (n). His ſon —— John, who dyed in 1462, or 1465, gave it by will to his third ſon Richard. [ſee above, p. 385]——John Doreward Eſq; held it, at the time of his deceaſe in 1476, of John Wretill Eſq; as of his maner of Maſcalſbury in White-Roding (o). His ſon —— John dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1480 (p). As did — John Doreward Eſq; who dyed the laſt day of February 1495 (q). The three daughters of his ſiſter Elizabeth were his coheirs. [ſee above, p. 315.] But they ſeem to have parted with this eſtate to ſome of the Waldegrave family.

For William Waldegrave Eſq; who dyed 13 May 1538, held the maner of Leden-Rothinge, of Sir Edward Wootton, and Antony Cooke Eſq; as of their maner of Mariſcallis Burie. —— Sir William Waldegrave, ſon of George, brother to the ſaid William, was his heir (r). In 1568, this eſtate was in Julian Waldegrave, third ſon of Antony, and Elizabeth daughter and heir of Ralph Grey of Brent-Pelham in Hertfordſhire, which Antony was brother to George Waldegrave of Smallbridge, and ſon of Sir William of the ſame place.

Julian Waldegrave, in obedience to a precept from the Sheriff, delivered to John Sherecroft this maner, with appertenances, and 14 meſſuages, 6 gardens, 400 acres of arable, 200 acres of meadow, 200 of paſture, 60 of wood, and 8l. rent in this pariſh, White Roding, and High-Eſtre (s). But it returned again ſoon into the Waldegrave family: For Thomas Waldegrave, Eſq; had it at the time of his deceaſe 17 March 1612, leaving —— Thomas his ſon aged upwards of 30 years (t).

Hugh Everard Eſq; held it, 24 Auguſt 1637, at the time of his death: and was ſucceeded in it by his ſon——Sir Richard Everard Bart. (u). [ſee above, p. 87.]

It was afterwards in Timothy Brand, of the Hide in Ingatſtone, Eſq; and is now in his ſon —-- Thomas Brand, of the ſame place, Eſq; Their anceſtor Mr. Thomas Brand was Rector of this Church, and died in 1654. He had two ſons, Thomas and John: Thomas gave 5l. per ann. charged upon the eſtate here, for teaching Children to read.

Michael Green; Stephen Algar, Jeremiah Lee; John Milbank; George Wilſon; and Samuel Upſher, have alſo ſome Eſtates here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 489l.

The CHURCH is ſmall, of one pace with the Chancel; and both of equal breadth, and tyled. At the weſt end, a wooden frame, with a ſhingled ſpire, contains 3 Bells.

This Rectory was given by William de Warenn, afterwards Earl of Surrey, to the Priory of Caſtle-acre in Norfolk, founded by him in 1085. The Advowſon continued in that Monaſtery till their ſuppreſſion, when it came to the Crown, where it has continued ever ſince [W].

22. MARGARET-RODING

Stands ſouth of Leaden Roding, and was ſo named from St. Margaret, to which the Church is dedicated.

This is ſuppoſed to have been ſome of the lands in Roding, given by Leofwin to the Monaſtery of Ely, as mentioned above, under Aythorp-Roding. Anſgar, ſpoken of above, p. 425, and a Freeman, held this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: At the time of the general ſurvey it was holden by Geffrey de Magnaville, William of Warenn, and their under-tenants Rainalm, and Marcel, or Martel [X].

Here are two Maners. 1. The maner of Roding-Margaret, and Garnetts. 2. The maner of Marks.

1. The maner of RODING-MARGARET, and GARNETT'S-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands at the eaſt end of the Church.

It is called Olives and Garnetts from ſome of its ancient owners; and vulgarly Garniſh-hall.

The noble Family of De Vere Earls of Oxford held very early this, as part of two knights-fees they had in Roding-Margaret; probably included in the grant of Nigel, mentioned under Aythorp-Roding. —— Henry Garnett, their under-tenant, from whom it took the name of Garnetts-hall, preſented to this living in 1329, and 1332 (w). From the Feodary of that illuſtrious houſe (x), we learn, That in 1268, Robert de Rootinge held under them theſe two fees, of the Fee of the Biſhop of Ely.—— John de la Lee in 1350.—— John de la Lee, and Robert Derſham in 1360, and 1371.

William de Bohun Earl of Northampton, and William Olive, held them in 1360 (y).——John de Bampton in 1371 (z). The reverſion of the maner of Roding Gernet, which John de Botiller had a life-eſtate in, was in Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex in 1372; as well as the reverſion of the maner of Roding Margaret, which Thomas Symond had unjuſtly taken (a).

It appears longeſt in the Legh family; namely, in Thomas Legh, or de Leighs in 1390 and 1400. ——In John de Leigh in 1424 (b).— In Robert in 1437.—In Roger in 1442.—In Thomas Leigh Eſq; in 1479.—Thomas Leigh Eſq; who held this maner of Garnetts and Olyffs, in the pariſh of Rodinge St. Margaret, and the advowſon of the Church, of John Earl of Oxford, dyed 23 April 1509. Joanna his wife 24 Auguſt following, and Henry his ſon, 25 Novemb. 1495, ſo that—— Giles, ſon of Henry, became his grandfather Thomas's heir (c). And, at the time of his deceaſe 7 Auguſt 1538, he left two daughters coheirs, Margaret and Agnes, who were married to two brothers; namely,

John and Chriſtopher, Alleyn. [ſee above, p. 131.] Between them was this eſtate divided, of which they had livery 20 Octob. 1539 (d). Chriſtopher, and Agnes his wife, both died on the ſame day, 1 Febru. 1554.——Giles was their ſon and heir (e).—John Alleyn junior dyed 22 June 1558, poſſeſſed of this maner of Garnets and Olliffs (f). As did——Giles, 26 March 1608, holding this maner of Sir Francis Huberd as of his maner of Stanſted Montfichet. ——Samuel his ſon then aged 42 years (g), dyed poſſeſſed of the ſame 5 June 1614 (h).——Iſaac his brother ſucceeding him, had for ſucceſſor——Giles Alleyn of Haſeley Eſq; The latter ſold this maner and eſtate 27 Septemb. 1672, to John Godebold of Terling-hall Eſq; [ſee above, p. 126.] and both have ever ſince continued in his poſterity. It is ſaid to be about 140l. per ann.

2. The maner of MARKS, or MARCAS-FEE, ſeems to have taken that name, either from Marcellus who had it at the time of the general ſurvey [Y], or from the family of Mark, or Merk, often mentioned above, p. 166, 202, 423.

The houſe ſtands about half a mile ſouth from the Church, partly moated round, and is a good brick building.

This maner ſeems to have been originally a diſtinct Pariſh, or at leaſt a Chapelry independent from the Church here, and belonging to Standon-Marci; the pariſhioners of which have imbounded it within the perambulation of their pariſh of Standon, in Rogation-week: At leaſt it pays tithes to the Rector of Standon (i).

But that is no certain proof of its being within that pariſh, and out of this of Roding Margaret. For, before the year 1200, thoſe that had Tythes at their own diſpoſal, could give them to what Church they pleaſed (k). And, by the name, it is moſt probable, that this maner of Marks, and Standon Marks, or Marci, both belonged once to the Merk family. Formerly it had a Chapel of its own, ſtanding where the Barn is, or near it, but now demoliſhed. Inſtitutions to it are recorded in the London Regiſtry.

K. Henry IV. and Walter Skirlaw, Biſhop of Durham, ſettled this maner, with appertenances, 14 Febr. 1403, on Univerſity College in Oxford, which hath remained poſſeſſed of it ever ſince.

Through whoſe hands it paſſed before that, appears from the following account. (*) ‘In the Treaſury of that College are the Rolls of this maner from Apr. 22, anno 1296; but the firſt Deed that now remains ſets forth that Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, paſſed this maner, in 1371, to Simon Biſhop of London, and Richard Fitz-Alan Earl of Arundel and Surrey, Guy Brian, &c. Then Guy Brian, after the death of ſeveral mentioned in the foregoing Deed, on May 15, 1387, paſſes the ſame to Thomas (Arundel) Biſhop of Ely, and to Richard Waldegrave, and others. On Nov. 22, 1403, Thomas Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Richard Waldgrave, ſurvivors of the other Truſtees, paſs it to their excellent Lord Henry King of England, &c. Jan. 20, 1403, Joan de Bohun Counteſs of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, and Richard Waldgrave, Knt. &c. quit claim the ſaid maner to K. Henry IV. who, on the 14th of February, paſſes the ſame maner to the College.’ But though the King's name name is uſed with Biſhop Skirlaw's, yet the Biſhop was the ſpecial Benefactor. He was the purchaſer of Marks-Hall, and procured it to be paſſed to the King, and from him to the College: All which was done to avoid the charge and trouble of an Inquiſition that uſually goes before all mortmains, and that the maner might be holden of the King. This eſtate is ſaid to be 180 l. a year.

Mr. William Foſter; Edward Saltwell; Bradbury Forſter; Robert King, &c. have alſo ſome Eſtates here.

There are computed to be 900 acres of land in this pariſh; which is rated to the Land-tax at 555 l.

The CHURCH and Chancel are of one pace, and both tyled. A wooden Turret, with a ſpire ſhingled, contains 4 Bells. The weſtern door hath a neat arch indented, ſupported by wreathed pillars.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the Maner of Roding Margaret, or Garnett's-hall.

The Abbey and Convent of St. Albans had a portion of Tithes in this pariſh, which were compounded afterwards for a penſion of 46 s. 8 d. payable, as Dr. Salmon ſuppoſes, out of Marks.

23. RODING-BERNERS

Vulgarly called Berniſh Roding, is the moſt ſouthern of the ſix Rodings in this Hundred, and the leaſt. It took its name from Hugh de Berners, who, at the time of the general ſurvey, held it, as well as Bernſton, and Newton-hall in Dunmow, under Geffrey de Magnaville: In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it had belonged to Uluric [Z].

There is only one Maner here, named Berners-Hall. The manſion-houſe ſtands a litile way ſouth from the Church, and is partly moated round.

The Berners Family held this eſtate for ſome generations under the deſcendents of G. Magnaville. Ralph Berners held this, and the two abovementioned maners, of Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford: and had licenſe, in the 20th of Edward I. to incloſe 60 acres of land here within the bounds of the foreſt of Eſſex for inlarging his park (l). He dyed in 1297, leaving ——Edmund his ſon, aged 30 years (m).——Sir John de Berners held four knights-fees here and in Berewyke, High Eſtre, Newton, and Strathale, under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, in 1372 (n). His ſon —— Sir James Berners was one of K. Richard the ſecond's evil counſellors, and being impriſoned upon that account was executed as a traytor in 1388 (o). His eſtates being confiſcated to the crown, Thomas Archbiſhop of York, and other feoffees, purchaſed this maner and eſtate for the uſe of Thomas of Woodſtock Duke of Glouceſter. [ſee above, under Berneſton.]

That good Duke, at the time of his death, held it of Joane Counteſs of Hereford, as of the Honor of Mandeville (p). Of his feoffees it was purchaſed for the ſum of 400l. by Richard Torrell of Little Thurrock.—Thomas Torrell his ſon, held it at the time of his deceaſe, in 1442, of the King as of his Caſtle of Plecy, which was of the Honor of Mandeville.—John, his ſon (q), had it in 1444, when Sir John Bourchier, Lord Berners, and Margery his wife, daughter and ſole heir of Richard, ſon of the ſaid Sir James Berners, impleaded him for it. But, in 1452, a final agreement was made at Weſtminſter, between both parties, by which John Bourchier, with Margery his wife, gave up all right and claim to this eſtate, upon receiving fifty marks of Silver. How much longer the Torrels had it I do not find.

In Qu. Elizabeth's reign, it was in the family of Mordaunt, mentioned under Finchingfeild, Hempſted, Deben, and Wimbiſh.

Philip Mordaunt, who dyed 27 Septemb. 1569, held this maner with all its appertenances, of the Queen as of her Duchy of Lancaſter, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee. — John his ſon ſucceeded him (s); being then aged 17 years: but he dyed 7 July 1574, unmarried, and was ſucceeded by his next brother —— James, who living but a few months after, made room for his brother —— Robert Mordaunt of Little Maſſingham in Norfolk Eſq; (t). The latter departing this life 27 May 1604 was ſucceeded in this, and other very large eſtates, by his brother Henry's ſon —— Leſtrange Mordaunt Eſq; (u). He ſold this eſtate to Sir Arthur and Sir Edward Capel (w). Henry Capel Eſq; had it afterwards.

Then it was in James Thwayts Gent. who by a niece of Sir Joſias Child had his ſon and heir —— Joſias, captain, or maſter, of a merchant ſhip.

George Barker, chirurgeon, was the next poſſeſſor. And it is now, or lately was, in Mrs. Judith Thwayts, and Mrs. Hanchet, of Cheping-Ongar. Roding-Berners-hall is ſaid to be above 200 l. a year.

Thomas Joſlin hath alſo lands in this pariſh: which likewiſe is Aſfeldens, a farm holden with Torrells-hall.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 354 l.

The Church is a ſmall edifice, tyled, near the Hall; and the Chancel is ruinous, unleſs it hath been lately repaired. A mean wooden turret contains 1 Bell.

This Church wrs given to the Monaſtery of St. Leonard Bromley near Bow, in Middleſex: And the Prioreſs and Convent procured the whole tithes and profits to be appropriated to their own uſe; the Cure being ſupplied by ſuch Curate, as they hired for a ſmall ſtipend. So it was at the time of the ſuppreſſion, and it hath ever ſince continued a Curacy, or Donative.

As to the Rectory and Tithes, K. Henry VIII. granted them, in 1540, to Sir Ralph Sadleir; who had licenſe, 30 Janu. 1542, to alienate them to Stephen Sampford (x). They were for a while in the Mordaunts, lords of this maner. But John Waylett, who dyed 2 April 1587, held this Rectory, with all penſions, portions, tithes, offerings, &c. and the advowſon of the Church (y). His ſon Robert held a moiety of this impropriate Rectory, &c. at the time of his deceaſe, 4 November 1599, and William was his ſon and heir (z). He dyed 23 May 1604; as did Averius Waylett, 16 Octob. 1611, each poſſeſſed of his moiety of this Rectory (a). The whole was afterwards in Capel. About the beginning of this century John Meade of London, perfumer, had a moiety of it; which he ſold to John Ramſhaw of Little-Waltham, Gent. The other moiety being in two hands, Mr. Ramſhaw bought one part of John Turnidge of Roxwell, and his father purchaſed the other part of Richard Lake of Langdon-Hills.

About the year 1731, Mr. Ramſhaw ſold the whole to Mrs. Jennings, a daughter of the Lady Moyer.

24. SHELLOW-BOWELLS

Is the next pariſh ſouth-ward from Roding-Berners. The name ſeems to be formed from the two Saxon words ꞅcel, a hedge-hog, and lope, a hillock.

It is otherwiſe written in records, Shelewe, Schelewe, Schelowe, Scelga, Selges, Schelve. And to diſtinguiſh it, I ſuppoſe, from Shelley near Ongar, which ſounds ſomething like it; it hath, almoſt ever ſince the conqueſt, had an additional name, as Boells, Jocelyn, Torrell, &c. What is placed in Domeſday-book, under Scelga, is ſuppoſed to be meant of this pariſh; and if ſo, it was then a vaſt deal larger than it is now. For that Scelga comprehended three conſiderable Maners, holden by Eudo Dapifer, and Geffrey de Magnaville; and had belonged in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Harold, Uluric his under-tenant a freeman; Ulmar, another freeman; and to another perſon. Part of it then adjoined to Rodinges the maner of Eudo Dapifer [A]. Moſt probably it was curtailed, by ſome of the Torrels annexing a great part of it to their adjoining maner of Torrels-hall.

There is at preſent but one Maner in this pariſh, and the manſion houſe lies a little way ſouth-weſt from the Church.

* Sic orig.

In the earlieſt times it belonged to a family ſurnamed de Bowell, Boell, or Bowles, from which it took one of its diſtinguiſhing appellations [B].

Soon after, Sir John de Sutton, appears poſſeſſed of it; and gave it to the Jocelyn family of Sabridgworth [C]; from which it received one of its other names of Shellow-Jocelyn. For, under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, in 1301, Ralph Jocelyn held one fee and a half in the vill of Shelewe, and in Sabrithſworth (b). [Concerning the Jocelyn family, ſee further under High-Roding.] This Ralph had married Maud daughter of Sir John de Sutton (c), which is the reaſon why he gave him this eſtate. His ſon and heir —— Geffrey Jocelyn, granted this maner, 28 Decemb. 1338, to Robert le Marſhall of Northweld, and Margery his wife; but it was only during their lives, and charged with a rent of 6 l. a year while his mother lived (d). It came ſoon after into the Torrell family.

This family was originally ſeated at Torrell's-hall in Little Thurrock in this county, where they were of great antiquity. [ſee under that pariſh.] By the ſound of the name they might reaſonably be ſuppoſed to be derived from Turold, who at the time of the general ſurvey held South-Okingdon under Geffrey de Magnaville. But they ſeemed to derive their name from Taurus, a Bull, and took for their Arms a feſſe between three Bulls heads coupé.

They muſt not be confounded with the more ancient family of Tyrell of Herons, though ſome of them inter-married.—— Richard Torrell is the firſt who is recorded to have had this eſtate. At the time of his deceaſe, in 1404, he held two parts of this maner of Shelwe, with the reverſion of the third part of the ſame in Shelwe-Joſſelyn, of John de Bohun Earl of Hereford. —— Thomas was his ſon (e).—— Henry, moſt probably ſon of Thomas, dyed in 1480, holding this maner of Shellowe-Torell, and 200 acres of arable, 20 acr. of meadow, 40 of paſture, 10 of wood, 4 marks rent, and the rent of 40 acr. of wood with appertenances, in Shellowe, Willingale, Berners Rothing, Bromfeild, and alſo in the pariſhes of Naveſtoke, Kellendon, Dodingherſt, and Brendwood, of the King as of the Duchy of Lancaſter.—— Humfrey, his ſon and heir, was but one year old (f). Emma his widow, re-married to Richard Heigham, held it till her death, which happend 11 Auguſt 1492. In the Inquiſition taken after her deceaſe, the paſture is ſaid to be 140 acres; and, inſtead of the rent of the wood, it is ſaid to be the rent of 40 cart loads of wood. Humfrey, her ſon above-mentioned, is ſaid to be her heir (g). But — Thomas Torrell Eſq; who dyed 7 Febru. 1518, held all the premiſſes; and left —— Henry his ſon aged 20 years (h). He departed this life 7 Janu. 1525, holding the maner of Torrels-hall, alias Shellowe-Torrell, alias Shellowe-Joſſelin, with divers other lands and tenements in Willinghale, Berners-Rothing, Shellowe-Bowells, Bromefeild, &c. [D].—— Humfrey his ſon and heir was ſix years old (i) [E]. But, before this, the Jocelyn family was poſſeſſed again of this maner. For John Joſſelyn Eſq; who dyed 4 July 1525, held the maner called Shellow-Bowells, Shinglehall, Olyves, and Midlinges, and meſſuages in Shellow-Bowells, Willingale-Doo, and Speyne. He had alſo the advowſon of this Church. —— Thomas Joſſelyn, his ſon and heir, was then 18 years old (k). After this we do not find who had this maner for ſome years, unleſs it was the Samford family, which preſented to the Living from the year 1545 to 1585; though that is far from being a certain rule: For perſons of the ſurname of Champneis were patrons from 1331 to 1405. Kent from 1426 to 1453. Clyffe and Brittell from 1457 to 1523 (l), and yet none of them appear by the Inquiſitions to have been poſſeſſed of this Maner in all that time.

In the laſt century it was in the Wiſeman family, of Torrells-hall in the adjoining pariſh of Willingale-Dou.

Then it belonged to . . . Foſter, and to John Ange Eſq; who married his widow. Next to Richard March of Enfield, Eſq; and to his ſon —— Thomas March, or Marſh, Eſq; The latter ſold it to Thomas Bramſton of Skrene's, Eſq;

The Priory of Blackmore had lands here called Capell, given them by Thomas, ſon of John Joſcelyn, and grandfather of Ralph above-mentioned. John ſon of Richard de Bowles, impleaded the Prior, at Chelmsford, for diſſeiſing him of his free-tenement in Scheloges-Jocelin (m). But the Convent kept poſſeſſion, and held this land by the name of one fee, under Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, who dyed in 1372 (n).

This ſmall pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 216 l. 1 s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul, being ruinous, was rebuilt by a Brief in 1752.

This Rectory ſeldom went along with the Maner, but was in various Patrons, as may be ſeen in Mr. Newcourt's Repertorium.

Ralph de Boell, and Elias de Boell, are witneſſes to a Deed, ſans date, of Margery de Rokella. Walter de Bowells was living at Willingale 12 March 1339. Ex cartis Rev. Edw. Jocelyn.

[D] Almoſt the ſame Inquiſition is for Willingale as for Shellow; and it muſt be confeſſed the verdict is ſometimes ſo confuſed, that the jury only, or he that dictated to them, knew what they meant. We have here Torrells-Hall, alias Shellow-Torrell, alias Shellow-Joſſelyn, as if they were deſcribing the ſeat at Willingale, with land belonging to it in Shellow.

[E] This Humfrey had a daughter named Anne, which was married to Henry, fourth ſon of Sir Thomas Jocelyne of Sabridgeworth.

WILLINGE

WILLINGEHALL.

Two pariſhes ſo called terminate the ſouth-end or extremity of this Hundred; being diſtinguiſhed from each other by the appellations of Willingehall-Dou, and Willingehall-Spain, from their ancienteſt owners. They are otherwiſe written in records, Willinghale, Wylinghale, Willengeham, Willingehala, Wigenhale, and vulgarly Willingale. From whence the name is derived is not quite certain; whether from the Saxon ƿillen, woollen, and hall; denoting the plenty or goodneſs of wool here: ȝe is known to be a common Saxon expletive. At the time of the general ſurvey, they ſeem to have been but one Pariſh; the lands herein being holden by Suene of Eſſex, and his under-tenant Garner: by Ralph Peverell, and his under-tenant Ravenot; and by Adam ſon of Durand de Malis Operibus. In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, theſe lands were holden by ſix Freemen, and Siward [D]. When they firſt appear under their two preſent Names, will be taken notice of in its proper place.

25. WILLINGE HALL DOU, is the largeſt of the two, ſo named from the ancient Family De Ou, or D'eu [E]: and Rokele from the Rokele family.

In it are two Maners. 1. The maner of Willingehall Dou. 2. . . . that of Torrell's-hall.

Wardons-hall, the manſion-houſe of the firſt maner, is about half a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church. Its name is ſuppoſed to have been a corruption from Wanton's; becauſe William de Wanton who dyed in 1347, held jointly with Joane his wife the maner of Willinghale of Maurice de Brune, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee (o). — William was his ſon. Who were the intermediate poſſeſſors of this maner and eſtate from the Conqueror's time to William de Wanton, doth not plainly appear. But, for reaſons ſet down at large in the note [F] below, it is reaſonably inferr'd that it belonged in K. Stephen's reign to William de Ou: Afterwards to a family ſurnamed de Rokele, or Rochelle: Then to de Brune, or Bruyn: and to Sir Robert Marny, &c. [ſee under South-Okingdon.].

To return to Sir William Wanton, juſt mentioned above, ſon of William; He dyed in 1393, holding this maner of Willingale-Doo, [the firſt time we find it ſo called] of Sir Robert Marny as of his maner of South-Okingdon, by knight's-ſervice. [ſee under Chaureth.] Joane his ſiſter, and Anne his niece were his coheirs (p). This maner was holden of the Honor of Mandeville (q).

Next, we do not find for a while who enjoyed this eſtate. That it was a conſiderable time in the Torrell family is probable, becauſe Sir Thomas Torrell preſented to the Living from 1445 almoſt to the end of that century [G]. And as the Pa-

[E] William de Ou held four knights fees, and Hugh de Ou one, under Geffrey de Mandeville Earl of Eſſex, in the reign of K. Henry II. Liber Niger Scaccarii, p. 228, 229.

[F] Thoſe reaſons are deduced from the following evidences and records.

In the conveyance of this eſtate from Fytche to Brocket, as mentioned above, it is obſervable, that a parcel of lands belonging to it went by the name of Brungars, alias Brungus. —— Sir Robert de Marney married Elizabeth daughter of Sir Ingelram Bruyn, and had a releaſe made to him from Sir Ingelram, of the maner of Beckenham in Kent, and others, in the year 1377; one of which the Inquiſition above-cited upon Wanton may admit to be Willingale. This family of Bruyn were at South-Okingdon ſince the reign of K. Edw. I. to whom Sir William Bruyn was of the Bed-chamber. They held Okingdon for ſome generations, have Epitaphs in the Church there ſtill ſubſiſting, and their maner-houſe now in Mr. Kinſman retains the name of Bruyn. —— Sir William Bruyn married Iſolde, daughter and co-heir of Philip de Rupellis, alias de la Rokele; ſhe was Lady of the Bed-chamber to Qu. Elianor. This Rokele is a name well known hereabouts: Margery de Rokele conveyed Shellow to William de Seleges; and Ralph, and Elias de Boell, were witneſſes to the deed. —— William de Monchenſy, who held Willingale-Spain of the Earl of Oxford, had a ſmall annual rent of the heirs of John Rookele, who held a fourth part of a fee in Willinghale of Edmund Earl of Kent, who dyed in 1330. Joane, wife of Sir John Grey, at the time of her deceaſe in 1425, was ſeized in fee-tail of the fourth part of a fee in Willingale, which John de Rokeley held. Grey came into a ſhare of Philip de Rokele's eſtate, by marrying Maud his daughter, co-heir with Iſolda wife of Sir William de Bruyn. Maurice de Brune, of whom the firſt Inquiſition makes Wanton to hold Willingale, was ſon of Sir William and Iſolda. ——Philip de la Rokele, the father of Iſolda, was ſon of Richard de la Rokele, who dyed in 1277, being grandſon of Richard de la Rokele, that dyed at his maner of S. Okingdon in 1222. This laſt was the ſon of Geffrey de la Rochelle, alias William de Ow, to which the Regiſtry of the Priory of Hatfield-Peverell is voucher. And this William de Ow, uncle to the Earl of Angus, is ſaid to have lived in the reign of K. Stephen. He ſeems to be the perſon meant in the Red Book; where it is ſaid, Hugh de Ou held one knight's fee, and William de Rochelle three parts of a knight's fee, under Geffry de Mandeville, of the new feoffment, in the reign of K. Henry II. Hugh ſeems to have been a deſcendent from Hugo who held Weſt-Therrock and Rainham of the Biſhop of Bayeux. Probably William de Rochelle took the name of d'Ou from Hugh his partner in Okingdon, which for ſome time obtained, and was then totally abſorbed in Rokele. William might come into the eſtate by marriage of a daughter of Hugh; for this name Rokele paſſed thro' many generations, and outlaſted the other. The family of Rokele had a maner at Arkſdon, which Robert de Rokele held under Humfrey de Bohun in 1372, and it went by their name, which is now ſunk there; only a wood retains it, which is the joy of fox-hunters. The Inquiries above-cited will juſtify carrying the Lordſhip of Willingale to Wanton from Marney, and to Marney from Bruyn. The proof upon Okindon that Bruyn inherited there from Rokele, and Rokele from d'Ou, which name of Rokele is found at Willingale, will ſupport a conjecture, that the name of d'Ou was from them given to that vill, though certainty is not to be arrived at. See Inquiſ. 5, 14 and 23 Edw. I. 4 Edw. III. 4 Hen. VI.

[G] It is printed in Newcourt, Tyrell, which we apprehend to be a miſtake inſtead of Torell. For we do not find that the Tyrell-family had ever this eſtate or advowſon. Newcourt, Vol. II. p. 668.

tronage went along with Wardon's, it may be preſumed he had this maner too as well as Torrell's-Hall. It was certainly in the Torrell family: how it paſſed from them doth not appear. Torrell's-Hall went from them to Jocelyn and ſo to Wiſeman. But this of Wardon's was, before it came to Wiſeman, in the hands of Mr. Bedle, then in Mr. Samport, or Samford, then in Richard Wiſeman, ſenior (r), then in Mr. Fytche.

Thomas Fytche, ſon of William Fytche of Little Canfield, Eſq; married Agnes, daughter of John Wiſeman of Great-Canfield, Eſq; by whom he had Sir William Fytche.

In the 29th of Q. Elizabeth, 1586 or 1587, this Thomas Fytche, and Agnes his wife, did ſell all the maner of Wardens alias Wardens-Hall, alias Willingale-Doe, with appertenances, court-leet, view of frank-pledge, wayfes, goods of felons, &c. woods, commons, feedings, &c. in Willingale-Doe, Willingale-Spain, Fyfield, and Shellow; together with the advowſon of the Rectory of Willingale-Doe to Nicolas Brocket, of Sabridgworth, and Joanna his wife, with an entail to their ſons. But out of this ſale was excepted a parcel of land, arable and paſture, called Brungus, alias Brungars. The purchaſe, firſt and laſt, was 1800 l. On the 7th of June 1589, the ſaid Agnes then widow, and John Wiſeman, Adminiſtrators of Thomas Fytche, confirmed this ſale (s).——John Brocket, ſon of Nicolas, conveyed the premiſſes to Geffrey Nightingale; and they two jointly conveyed them, on or before the year 1634, to

Robert Cole, Eſquire of the Body to K. Charles I. He dyed 13 Janu. 1652. His wife was Mary, daughter of Geffrey Nightingale, of Newport-Pond in this County, Eſq; by whom he had Edmund; Elizabeth wife of Edmund Lambert of Boyton in Wiltſhire, Eſq; and three other ſons, and two daughters. —— Edmund, the eldeſt ſon and heir, dyed 28 Novemb. 1662. By Deborah his wife, ſiſter of Edmund Lambert, juſt now mentioned, he had Robert and Deborah, twins; and three other daughters elder than them, named Anne, Heſter, and Mary, which three laſt dyed unmarried. Deborah was married to Thomas Salter, Eſq; citizen and draper of London. —— Robert Cole Eſq; the only ſon, married Anne Beverley. She dyed 28 Novemb. 1732, aged 75 years; and he himſelf 21 Auguſt 1733, aged 81. Having no children, he bequeathed this eſtate to his twin-ſiſter Deborah's ſon

Sir John Salter, Knt. and Alderman of London, Sheriff of that City in 1735, and Lord Mayor in 1740 [H]. At the expiration of that important office, he received the Thanks of the Common-Council, on the 22d of October, ‘for his ‘juſt and impartial execution of that high office, ‘and particularly giving this Court ſuch frequent ‘opportunities of preſerving that part of the ad‘miniſtration of the affairs of this great Metro‘polis that juſtly belong to it.’ —— To which were added, ſeven days after, the Thanks of the Court of Aldermen, being an eſpecial Court, ‘for ‘his careful, prudent, and impartial diſcharge of ‘that high office during his Lordſhip's Mayor‘alty.’

He rebuilt the maner-houſe of Wardenshall, and much improved the roads about it: He was alſo a benefactor to the Churches of Willingale, having built neat and ſpacious galleries in them both, with other decorations. He married Anne, daughter of Humfrey Brooke, M. D. and dying 1 June, 1744, aged 60, left this eſtate to his wife for life, and then to his only daughter and heir

Selina, who is married to William Milles, Eſq;

2. The maner of TORELLS-HALL

Seems to have been taken out of Wantons, the capital maner of Willingehall.

The manſion houſe ſtands about a mile north-eaſt from this Church.

We find the Torrell family both here and at Shellow at the ſame time; but firſt at Shellow. They probably built here, and removed hither from thence. The Inquſitions poſt mortem have too much confounded theſe two eſtates; but I ſhall give them as I find them. Richard Torell, who dyed in 1404, held two parts of the maner of Shelwe, and the reverſion of the third part of the maner of Shelwe-Joſſelyn (u), but no particular mention of this eſtate. —— Thomas Torell, of Willingale Dou, Eſq; was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire 6 Henry VI. (w).—— Henry Torell, who dyed in 1480, held the maner of Shellowe-Torell, and 200 acres of arable, &c. as deſcribed above under Shellow; which deſcription certainly includes Torells-hall. — Humfrey was his ſon (x). This Humfrey was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, 18 and 24 Henry VII. (y), but we do not find the time of his death. —Thomas Torell Eſq; who dyed 7 Febru. 1518, held the maner of Shellowe-Torrell, and divers lands in Willingale, Shellowe, &c. as above. —— Henry his ſon and heir, then 20 years old, ſucceeded him (z). He had the maner of Torrels-hall, alias Shellowe-Torrel, alias Shellowe-Joſſelin, with divers other lands in Willinghale, Berners-Rothing, &c. And dying 7 Janu. 1525, left Humfrey his ſon, aged ſix years (a), that poſſeſſed the foreſaid eſtates, and two meſſuages, with divers lands and tenements called Bures and Aſtlyns, with appertenances in Jermayns, Willingale-Doe, Barners Rothinge, &c. He married Alice, daughter of . . . . . Leventhorp, by which he left, at the time of his deceaſe 12 Septemb. 1544,

Anne, his daughter and heir, then two years old (b). She was afterwards married to Henry Jocelyn, Eſq; fourth ſon of Sir Thomas Jocelyn of Sabridgworth Eſq; They had ſix ſons, and four daughters. He was buried in this Church 25 Auguſt 1587, and ſhe 30 May 1589. During her widowhood ſhe held this maner of Torrells, and a meſſuage called Dukes, Burres, and Aſt-

They lived in Wedlock forty-four years, and had fourteen children, but only ſeven ſurvived him. Sir Robert Wiſeman Knt. his eldeſt ſon (d), ſucceeded him. He was a man of an amiable character; but dyed unmarried 11 May 1641, in the 65th year of his age. By his ſecond wife, Lucy daughter of Sir Thomas Griffin, of Braybrook, he had Mary, who dyed 18 October, and Margaret the 29th of the ſame month in 1631, the firſt aged 9 and the other 7 years: alſo Edward, who dyed 17 Decemb. 1634, not quite 8 months old, and Lucy, married afterwards to Sir Gobert Barrington. [ſee above, p. 22.] Sir Richard dyed 30 Janu. 1654, and his wife Lucy 29 June 1660, and were both buried in the chancel of this Church. His ſon and heir —— Sir Richard Wiſeman Knt. married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of John Towſe, citizen and alderman of London; and had a ſon of his name mentioned in the next pariſh. In 1688, his ſiſter and heir ſold this eſtate to

John Brocket of the Middle Temple Eſq; ſon of John Brocket, citizen of London. He dyed in 1704, and by Sarah his wife, daughter of John Hern of Cliffords-inn, Gent. left John Brocket Eſq; his ſon, who, in 1719, ſold this eſtate to

Charles Blunt, of London, merchant. After his death his widow held it in jointure, and then it came to their ſon —— William Blunt, Eſq; who dyed 22 November 1752. Some years ago it was purchaſed by

This pariſh is ſaid to contain 1400 acres of land; and it is rated at 439 l. 1 s. and Torrell's-hall hamlet at 259 l. 1 s. to the land-tax.

In this pariſh are theſe diſtinct Conſtables; one for the Townſhip; one for Torrells-hall hamlet; a third for the Hamlet of Birds-green, part of which is in Roding-Beauchamp.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Chriſtopher, conſiſts of a body and Chancel tyled. At the weſt end, a ſquare Tower embattled contains 4 Bells.

This Rectory is appendent to the Maner of Willingehall-Dou, or Wardon's-hall.

[I] This Anne Torrel, or Jocelyn, is ſaid to have been a ſecond time married to John Sackfild of Buckhurſt. But that is a miſtake, occaſioned by an Epitaph in this Church, for Anne Sackfild daughter of Humfrey Torrel of Torrels-hall, late wife of John Sackfild, &c. 'which Anne departed 'this world the 13th day of April, in the year of our Lord, '1582, and in the yere of her age fourſcore;' as the concluſion of her epitaph, not printed, informs us. So that ſhe was born in the year 1502, and conſequently was daughter of the firſt Humfrey above-mentioned, Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, the 24th of Henry VII. For Anne Torrell, wife of Henry Jocelyn, was but two years and ſome weeks old in 1544, and conſequently born in 1542.

[K] He had alſo two meſſuages, in this pariſh, and Willingale-Spain, and Shellow, called Ducks Churchfeild, and Dreamers; Elkins, alias Smythes, in Shellow; two fields called Riddens in Berners-Roding: Alſo the maners of Buteſhall in Chobhams in Weſtham, Pudſey-hall in Canewdon; the meſſuage of Tabrams in Cranham, and houſes in London. 26. WILLINGEHALL-SPAIN

Was ſo named from the ancient Family of Spain, or de Iſpania, mentioned above, p. 301, and 363, who had alſo Spains-hall in Great Yeldham, and in Finchingfield.

There are two Maners in this pariſh. 1. Willingehall-Spains-hall. 2. . . . that of Mynchens.

1. WILLINGEHALL-SPAINS-HALL

Stands a little way ſouth-eaſt from the Church.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Edeva was poſſeſſed of this maner; but, at the time of the general ſurvey, it was holden by Alan Fergent, and his under-tenant Hervey de Iſpania, by the name of Ulingehala [L]. It was one of the three knights fees, which Alan the Savage gave to Alberic de Vere, by the title of the ſervice of William de Iſpania: From which time it came to be holden of the Earls of Oxford [ſee above, p. 363.]

William de Monchenſy who dyed 14 Edward I. held the maner of Wylingehale of the Earl of Oxford by the ſervice of one third part of a knight's fee, and payment of 60 s. 4 d. yearly rent to the heirs of John de Bretagne, for the ward of Richmond-caſtle. —— William was his ſon and heir (e).

Thomas Grey, held one fee in Willingehale under John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1358 (f). And under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, who dyed in 1372, Roger Fitz-Andrewe held two quarters of a fee here (g). But the capital Maner of Willinghale-Spain was holden at that time by the Spice family, mentioned above, p. 116, 125, and under Stapleford-Tany. Thomas Spice held it under Thomas de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1370 (h). In the reign of K. Henry VI. Clement Spice held this fee, which formerly had been Richard de Spain's (i). — Roger Spice held it in the reign of K. Edward IV. His ſon—Clement Spice of Black Notley Eſq; married Alice, daughter of John Montgomery, ſiſter and coheir of Sir Thomas Montgomery Knight of the Garter, and had by her ——Humfrey Spice Eſq; who dyed 28 Octob. 1485, leaviug ——Philippa his daughter and heir, one year old (k).

She afterwards became the wife of John Forteſcue Eſq; who had with her Falkborn-Hall. Her father Humfrey Spice was never poſſeſſed of it, but it deſcended to her; as well as this maner of Willingehall, and thoſe of Falkborne, Black-Notley, Walley hall in Fairſted, Blunts-hall in Witham, lands in Rivenhall, Morehall in Writtle; and the maners of Eyworth and Gilden Morden in Cambridgeſhire; and Brookmans in Northmims, Hertfordſhire.

It doth not appear how this eſtate went out of the Forteſcue family: But it was next, as well as Black-Notley, in Joane Bradbury. Who ſhe was is not clearly known; but ſhe ſeems to have been a ſiſter of Humfrey Spice, at leaſt of his family, becauſe ſhe enjoyed the eſtate of Spice at Black Notley, and Gr. Lees, when Forteſcue had the reſt. She was married firſt to Thomas Bodley, by whom ſhe had James and Dionyſia. Her ſecond huſband was Thomas Bradbury, Lord Mayor of London. [ſee above, p. 123.] She dyed in 1530, and her ſon James being dead, her heir was her grandſon ——John Bodley, aged 18 years (l). He ſeems to have lived but a little while, for all the eſtates centered in his aunt

Dionyſia Bodley. She was married to Nicolas Leveſon Eſq; Sheriff of London in 1534; and had by him 4 ſons, and 3 daughters. John the eldeſt married, but dyed before her without iſſue. She departed this life 10 September 1561, holding of the Earl of Oxford as of his Caſtle of Hedingham, the maner of Willingale-Spayne, and 400 acres of arable, 40 acres of meadow, 400 of paſture, 100 of wood, and 100 s. rent. —— Thomas Leveſon, her ſecond ſon was her heir (m). He dyed 21 April 1576, poſſeſſed of this eſtate; leaving —— John his ſon aged 20 years (n): whoſe ſecond ſon —— Sir Richard Leveſon Knight of the Bath, [ſee above, p. 124.] ſold this eſtate to

Sir Robert Wiſeman, of Torells-hall in the adjoining pariſh.—— Sir Richard, his brother, enjoyed it after him. As did——Sir Richard, ſon of the latter: and, by his wife Elizabeth daughter and coheir of John Towſe, alderman of London, had his ſon —— Richard, on whom this eſtate was ſettled. He married Winifred, daughter of Sir John Barrington of Hatfeild-Broad-oak, but doth not appear to have had any iſſue; ſhe dyed 7 May 1684. In 1684 he was killed at the ſiege of Buda, where he went voluntier, with John Cutts Eſq; afterwards Lod Cutts, and other Engliſh gentlemen. Some time after, his ſiſter and heir ſold this eſtate to John Brocket Eſq; deſcended from Sir John Brocket of Brocket-hall in the pariſh of Hatfeild-Biſhop's in Hertfordſhire (o). He dyed in 1704, and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— John Brocket Eſq; —— William Brocket Eſq: is the preſent poſſeſſor.

2. The maner called MYNCHENS was part of the poſſeſſions of the Monaſtery of Clerkenwell. But, before that, it belonged to the family of Scroop of Maſham. For Stephen Le Scroop, who dyed in 1405, held two tenements here, one called Mynges of the Honor of Richemond by the ſervice of 10 s. per ann. and the other called Pelhams, of the caſtle of Anſty.— Henry was his ſon and heir (p). — Thomas Scroop Eſq; held them at the time of his deceaſe in 1475; and Mynges is more particularly deſcribed to be 40 acres of land, holden of the Earl of Richmond; Pelhams the ſame quantity, holden of

When and by whom this eſtate was given to Clerkenwell-Nunnery, doth not appear. At the ſuppreſſion it coming to the Crown, K. Henry VIII. gave it in 1539 to Sir Richard Riche: it being then called 30 acres of arable, 4 of meadow, and 30 of paſture, in Willingale Spaine, and Doo, and Fyfeild (r). Richard Lord Riche obtained a licenſe 2 January 1562, to alienate this meſſuage or tenement called Mynchins, to John Waylett (s). He dyed 5 Septemb. 1567, poſſeſſed of this meſſuage, called Michins, with all the lands thereto belonging: and left — John his ſon and heir aged upwards of 19 years (t), but we hear no more of him here. See under Norton.

In 1578, Qu. Elizabeth granted a meſſuage called Mynſons, alias Myttons, containing 7 acres of land, in this pariſh, to Edward Thomlinſon and Antony Page (u).

Anne widow of Antony Nicolas remarried to George Price, by deed dated 7 June 1683, ſettled in truſtees a capital farm called Minſons, or Minſtons, in this pariſh.

Since that time it belonged to Jeremy Shaw of Colcheſter Eſq; who ſold it to

Mr. John Hammond of Waltham-Stow.

Mr. Thomas Pool hath alſo ſome eſtate here.

There are computed to be 900 acres of land in this pariſh. It is rated to the land-tax at 547 l.

The Church is ſmall, and ſtands in the ſame Church-yard as the other. It hath a ſpire ſhingled. 'Tis dedicated to St. Andrew and All-Saints; on which account the Pariſh is ſometimes called Willingale All Saints.

William de Hiſpania, or Spain, gave this Church to the Priory of St. Laurence at Blackmore, for the health of the ſouls of his father and mother, of himſelf and his wife, &c. Some time after, a Vicarage was ordained by Fulk Baſſet, and the Profits of the Living divided between the Convent and Vicar, who was thenceforth nominated by the Biſhop of London, and preſented by the Priory. At length the Prior finding the Vicar's income, which was only five marks a year, too ſmall, they petitioned Biſhop Braybroke, that the ordination of the Vicarage might be annull'd, and the whole Profits go to a Rector, reſerving to the Convent a penſion of 40s. a year, to pray for William de Spain, and his relations. All which was ratified under the Biſhop's ſeal, 13 January 1398. At the diſſolution, the right of Preſentation came to the Crown, but the Nomination remained in the Biſhop of London, and hath continued ſo ever ſince.

THE

THE HALF HUNDRED OF HARLOW.

THE Half-Hundred of Harlow has that of Waltham on the ſouth; part of the Hundreds of Ongar and Dunmow on the eaſt; of Utlesford on the north; and its weſtern boundary is the Stort, which parts it from Hertfordſhire, except at Hide-hall, and ſome lands about Hockerill, that are on the eaſtern ſide of that river. In its greateſt extent from North to South it is about twelve miles long, and from Eaſt to Weſt about ſix miles broad. It ſtands in a pleaſant and healthful part of the county; and received its name from the chief Town in it, that of Harlow.

This Half-Hundred ſeems to have belonged of old to the noble Family of Bohun, Earls of Hereford and Eſſex, and to their ſucceſſors. Humfrey de Bohun, who dyed 17 Janu. 1372, held it of the King in capite (w). And ſo did Humfrey Stafford Duke of Buckingham, in 1458 (x). Probably, upon the attainder of Edward Stafford Duke of Buckingham, it came to the Crown. The Riche family obtained a grant of it afterwards. For Richard Lord Riche dyed poſſeſſed of it 12 June 1566 (y). His ſucceſſors Earls of Warwick were ſeized of it in fee: and the Rt. Hon, Daniel Earl of Nottingham, who married one of the coheireſſes of that noble family, enjoyed it by the ſame title.

With regard to the Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, this Half-Hundred and Deanry are in the Archdeaconry of Middleſex.

Within the Half-Hundred of Harlow, are Eleven Pariſhes, of which we treat in the following order.

Harlow.
Latton.
Nettleſwell.
Roydon.
Parndon-Great.

1. HARLOW.

There are four Saxon words, from which the firſt ſyllable of this name may be formed, namely, Haꞃ, hoary, white; Haꞃa, a hare; Heꞃe, an army; Heꞃe, bigger; but from which of them it is, we are not able to determine. As for loƿe, it ſignifies a hillock, or riſing ground.

This town is 23 miles from London: It had formerly a Market on Saturday, now diſuſed. But it has three conſiderable Fairs; on Whitſun-monday, September 9, and November 28, for horſes and cattle.

Within its extenſive bounds it contains the following Maners. 1. Harlow-Bury. 2. The maner of Brent-hall, now New-hall. 3. The maner of Kechin-hall. 4. The maner of Huberts-hall. 5. . . . that of Moore-hall. 6. The maner of Weld, or Sewells.

The lands here belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to St. Edmund's-bury-Abbey: to five Freemen; and to Godwin, another freeman. At the time of the ſurvey, they were holden by the ſaid Abbey; by Ranulf, brother of Ilger; and ſome little by Euſtace Earl of Bologne.

1. HARLOW BURY

Abbot's-inns in his way to Parliament, lying near the great road leading from Bury to London [M]. The large Chapel ſtill ſtanding near the Houſe would hardly have been built for the uſe of his Tenant ſo near the Church.

This eſtate was given to the Abbey of St. Edmund's-bury, by Thurſtan ſon of Wina, a noble Saxon in Edward the Confeſſor's reign (z). The Abbot held this maner of the King in capite, as parcel of his Barony (a). K. Stephen remitted to him the aſſarts of Herlaw (b). King John granted, that the woods here ſhould be exempt from the regarders of the foreſt, hunting only excepted; that they might aſſart their wood of Rokey belonging to this maner; and that they might make their land wainable, that is turn it to tillage without being ſubject to the regarders (c). Pope Boniface IX. appropriated it to the maintenance of the Abbot's table (d).

It continued in that Abbey till the ſuppreſſion, when it came to the Crown.

K. Henry VIII. in 1544, granted this maner of Harlow, alias Harlowbury, the Rectory of Harlow, and advowſon of the Vicarage, &c. to Catharine Adington, a Knight's widow, and to Thomas Adington Eſq; (e) [ſee under Little Ilford.] This Thomas, at the time of his deceaſe in 1554, held the maner of Harlowbury, the Rectory, and advowſon of the Vicarage, a Market, and a Fair there, with 10 meſſuages, 20 cottages, a water-mill, 500 acres of arable, meadow, paſture, and wood, by the 20th part of a knight's-fee: then valued at 60 l. per ann. Dying without iſſue, his next heir was his couſin —— Ralph; a lunatic (f). He dyed 26 April 1564, and his next heir was —— John Addington of Bediford in Devonſhire, Gent. ſon of Chriſtopher [N], brother of William the ſaid Ralph's father. (g). He departed this life 11 May 1587, being ſucceeded by his ſon —— William (h); who dyed 5 January 1591, poſſeſſed of two parts only of the premiſſes during the life of Philippa Adington —— John his eldeſt ſon and heir was then but 4 years old (i). And he dying in minority 29 July 1607, was ſucceeded by his next brother — Thomas, then aged 17 years (k). He preſented to the Vicarage in 1617 (l). Of the Addington family this conſiderable eſtate was purchaſed by Francis Lord Guilford. He was ſecond ſon of Dudley Lord North of Kirtling: Sollicitor, and Attorney General, Lord Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and Lord Keeper, in the reign of K. Charles II. created Baron of Guildford 27 Septemb. 1683. Dying 5 Septemb. 1684, he left by his lady, Frances daughter and coheir of Thomas Pope Earl of Down, two ſons and one daughter. —— Francis Lord Guilford, the eldeſt ſon, born 14 Decemb. 1673, had no children by his firſt lady; but by his ſecond lady, Alice, ſecond daughter and coheir of Sir John Brownlow of Belton in Lincolnſhire, he had three ſons and one daughter. He dyed 17 Octob. 1729. —— Francis, the eldeſt ſon and heir, and preſent Lord Guilford, born 13 April 1704, ſucceeded to the title of Lord North, on the death of William Lord North and Grey, and was created Earl of Guilford 8 April 1752. He hath alſo the maner of Lindſell, &c. [ſee p. 446.] For a further and more particular account of this noble Family, and of the Right Honourable owner, we beg leave to refer to the Peerages.

2. The Maner of BRENT-HALL, now NEW-HAL,

Was derived from the Maner of Harlow-bury: whether the lordſhip only, or the lands, were in the Abbot, nothing plainly ſhews. The houſe was burnt down, from whence came the name of Brent-hall; but New-hall is riſen out of its ruins, and ſtands near the Church. There belongs to it a wood, called Brentwood.

David de Fletewyke, who dyed in 1355, held this maner of Brend-hall of John de Inſula de Rubio Monte; — David was his ſon and heir (m).

It was afterwards in the family of Bugge, who had Kechen, and Huberds, Halls. John Bugge Eſq; that dyed in 1442, held Brend-hall of the King as of his Duchy of Lancaſter, —— Stephen his ſon was his heir (n). By this Tenure it appears to have been then out of the Abbot. —— Thomas Bugge held it in the ſame manner at the time of his deceaſe in 1548 (o).

Whether this maner was holden after the Bugges, by the ſame perſons as we find at Kechin-Hall, we cannot learn for certain. But it was purchaſed in 1694, by Henry Lamb, citizen and goldſmith of London. Of this gentleman, it is remarkable, that in a diſpute with a highwayman he was ſhot at, and the ball lodged in his watch. Of him, or his heirs, Robert Cheſter Eſq; a South Sea Director, purchaſed it: Upon whoſe forfeiture it coming to the South Sea Company, was ſold. It is now in William Batt Eſq; of Nunton near Saliſbury.

3. The Maner of KECHIN-HALL.

The manſion-houſe is about a mile and a half ſouth from the Church, near Potters-ſtreet.

This name would incline one to believe the eſtate derived from Harlow-bury, becauſe Pope Boniface IX. appropriated the revenue of that maner for the maintenance of the Abbots kitchen and table (p). It was not holden of the Abbot after the reign of K. Edward III.

In 1317, Robert de Haſtings Knt. held, in Harlow, Birdbrook, and Foxherd, two Knights fees, of which a maner called Kechin hall was part.

Thomas Longevill, who dyed in 1346, beſides the maner of White-Rothing, held, jointly, with Beatrix his wife, a certain tenement called Kechenhall, in the town of Herlowe, of the Lady Elizabeth de Burgh, by the ſervice of the fourth part of a knight's fee; ——John was his ſon and heir (q).

In 1403, and 1404, John Roundall held this maner, lately bought of Robert Webb (r).

John Bugge Eſq; held this maner of Kichenhalle in 1442, of Richard Duke of York (s). He was ſucceeded by his ſon——Stephen; and his other ſucceſſors——Thomas——Edward—— and — Antony (t). Of the latter it was bought by George Benſon Eſq; in 1605.—— William Benſon had it in 1644. He ſold it to Sir Abraham Reynardſon, Knt. His widow held it afterwards and paid ingreſs fine in 1663.

Mr. Lamb bought it at the ſame time as New-Hall; and Mr. Cheſter after him. The South Sea Company ſold it, as the former. William Batt Eſq; is the preſent poſſeſſor.

4. HUBERTS-HALL

Stands about three quarters of a mile ſouth from the Church.

This maner was holden of that of Harlow-Bury, and probably was one of the three Hides occupied by five Freemen; which William the Conqueror added to St. Edmonds maner, as mentioned in Note [M]. Nothing ſhews whether he added them to the Abbot's demeſne. This eſtate takes its name from the Family of Huberd, or Hubert, one of which, Robert Huberd of Herlawe, in K. Edward the Third's reign grants to John Evy Vicar of Herlawe, all his lands and tenements in the village of Epping (u).

Sir John Shaa, Lord Mayor of London in 1501, was the next poſſeſſor, upon record. [ſee above, p. 156.] He had, in this neighbourhood, the maner of Paris, and 500 acres of arable, 120 acres of meadow, 200 of paſture, 60 of wood, and 100 s. rent, with appertenances, in Harlowe, Latton, Netherweld, and Theydon-Gernon; and the reverſion of this maner of Hobards, which he held of Edward Duke of Buckingham, as of his Hundred of Harlowe. He dyed in December 1502, leaving — Edmund, or Edward Shaa Eſq; his ſon (w), who, at the time of his deceaſe, 24 March 1532, held this maner of Hubbard of the Abbot and Convent of Bury St Edmund's, as of their maner of Harlowe, Alice, his only daughter and heir, then four years old (x), afterwards brought this and other eſtates in marriage to William Poley of Boxted in Suffolk Eſq; He dyed 17 December 1587, holding this maner of William Addington Eſq; as of his maner of Harlowe-bury.——John, his ſon, then aged 30 years (y), and afterwards knighted, held alſo this maner at the time of his deceaſe, 7 Decemb. 1593, and ——William, his brother (z).

It was afterwards in the Family of Reve, deſcended from John Reve of Long Melford in Suffolk. His ſon—Walter, had, by . . . Hide,—Tho. Reve, Alderman of Colcheſter; that married Margaret daughter of Gerard Shilbery, and had by her, William and Ann. —— William, ſeated at Mollenden Park in Suffolk, by his wife, Roſe, had 8 ſons, and 2 daughters; namely, George; Robert, of Hornedge; Thomas, D. D. Henry; William; Francis, of Huberts-hall; John; Charles: Elizabeth; and Margaret. ——Francis Reve, of this place, married Joane daughter of Richard Jocelyn Eſq; ſon and heir of Sir Thomas Jocelyn, with whom he lived in Wedlock 60 years; he dying 4 January 1639, and ſhe 26 October 1642. Both are buried in this Church. He was a benefactor to this pariſh, as will be ſhewn preſently [O]. —— Robert his ſon, left—— John, father of ——Wiltſhire; whoſe ſon, named alſo —— Wiltſhire, ſold this eſtate to

5. The Maner of MOORE-HALL.

The houſe is near a mile north eaſt from the Church.

Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant Britman, held here half a hide, and half a carucate, which had belonged to a Freeman in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; but whether it was this, we are far from being certain.

Under Robert Lord Scales, who dyed in 1324, Matthew de Wodeham, and John Snow held the maner called le Mour-Hale in Herlowe, as of his maner of Rewenhale, by the ſervice of one knight's fee. (a) [ſee above, p. 145.] Afterwards, it came into the Bugge family, already mentioned more than once. Thomas Bugge, who dyed in 1458, held this maner of Morehall of Humfrey Duke of Buckingham by the ſervice of 16d. per ann. and ſuit at his Hundred-court of Harlowe (b). We ſhall take our leave of that Family, by this further account of them. The firſt was, John Bugge, of London, Eſq; who dyed in 1442. His ſon——Stephen, married Elizabeth daughter of Thomas Marſhall, and had —— Thomas, who by his wife daughter of . . . . Tilleſley, had —— Edmund, that married Alice, daughter of . . . . Colte Eſq; by which he had Antony, and Edward.—— Antony married Anne, daughter of William Barrett, Eſq; and had Edmund, Thomas, and John.——Richard, ſon of Edward juſt now mentioned, dyed 31 May 1636, and is buried in this Church. He had two wives, 1. . . daugh-

6. The maner of WELD, SEWALES, or SEWELLS.

It is otherwiſe called, in records, Walda, Waldes, Waldons, and Wells [R]. And the name ſeems to be derived fron the Saxon word pealð, a wood. The addition of Se might be a contraction from South. and intended to denote the South-wood.

Godwin, a freeman, had it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; but, at the time of the general ſurvey, it was holden by Ralph brother of Ilger, and his under-tenant Richard [S].

We have no account of its ſucceeding owners till the reign of K. Edward IV. when it belonged to the Colt family, with ſeveral other large eſtates [T]. Joane, widow of Thomas Colt, remarried to Sir William Parre, dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1475.——John Colt, his ſon, ſucceding him (d), departed this life 22 Octob. 1521, and held this maner of Welds or Sewalls, of the King, by knight's ſervice. —— George, his ſon and heir, afterwards knighted, was then aged 30 years (e). He held this maner by the fourth part of a knight's fee: and dying 21 March 1578, had for ſucceſſor his couſin and next heir —— George Colt Eſq; then 38 years old (f). He dyed 6 January 1616. —— Sir Henry Colt Knt. was his ſon and heir (g). But before his death he had parted with this eſtate, for it is not mentioned in the Inquiſition taken after his deceaſe.

It was mortgaged to Mrs. Howland of Stretham; and ſhe having entered upon it, it came to her daughter Elizabeth Ducheſs of Bedford, and then to his Grace —— John Duke of Bedford; who ſold it to Thomas Holt, of Rochford, Eſq; It belongs now to Mr. White of London.

Charitable Gifts.

John a Gods-hale, Vicar of this pariſh, gave, in 1590, two tenements, an orchard, and two acres of land, for the uſe of the poor.

John Wright, Gent. who was buried here, 1 June 1659, gave 160 l. to purchaſe lands for the uſe of the poor of this pariſh.

John Swerdera, goldſmith of London, gave, in 1480, the rents and profits of a tenement, and 20 acres of land, for the repairs and ornament of this Church. —— And Thomas Cramwell, in 1560 gave the rents and profits of two acres of land, to be layd out upon the ornaments of the ſame. . . . What belongs to the Poor is about 30 l.——and what belongs to the Church, about 19 l. a year.

There are Alms-houſes in the Church-yard for two dwellers, given by William Newman. —— Some fronting the Street, by Alexander Stafford Eſq;——In the ſtreet, below the Church, given by Francis Reve of Huberds-hall, Gent. for four poor widows.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary and All Saints, is pleaſantly ſituated on a riſing ground, and is one of the fineſt and beſt adorned Churches in this County.

It was anciently of a Cathedral form, with the Steeple in the middle; but the greateſt part of it having been accidentally burnt down, by a fire that began 28 April 1708, it was rebuilt, or repaired, in its preſent form, by the direction and intereſt of Mr. Taylor the Vicar, who employed much of his own money in beautifying and embeliſhing it with painted glaſs and other ornaments. Many of the Gentlemen of the country, in approbation of his zeal, gave their arms curiouſly painted on glaſs, with which the Church, and Chancel windows are adorned.

The Arms are placed in this order. In the Chancel, on the North ſide whereof are two fair windows: —— One of the windows contains, 1. The Arms of Sir Charles Barrington, with quarterings, in two parts, and ſix coats. 2. The Arms of the Right Hon. the Lord Guilford, with quarterings, in three parts, and eleven coats. 3. The Arms of Sir Edward Turnor of Gr. Hallingqury. The other Chancel-window on the ſame ſide, contains, 1. The Arms of John Comyns, Eſq; Serjeant at law. 2. thoſe of William Fytch Eſq;—Of the two South windows of the Chancel; one contains in two parts, 1. the Arms of White

Mr. Taylor had an Organ ſet up in this Church, and left a houſe for the Organiſt to dwell in; and another, the rent of which he receives.

Francis Lord Guilford built a Gallery in this Church.

Robert Cheſter, Eſq; was at the expence of a curious rail about the Font [V].

The Tower, which is now at the weſt end, and of brick, hath a cupola and and a lanthorn at the top of it, leaded.

This Church was originally a Rectory, appendent to the maner of Harlow-bury, and as ſuch in the patronage of the Abbey of Bury St. Edmund's, which preſented to it as a Rectory till about the year 1398. When Pope Boniface IX. appropriated it to the maintenace of the Abbot's table, he was left at liberty to have the cure ſupply'd by one of his own Monks, or by ſuch a ſecular Prieſt as he ſhould appoint. But, in obedience to the laws, and for the benefit of the pariſhioners, he condeſcended to have a Vicarage ordained and endowed, which was accordingly done by Commiſſioners impowered by Robert Braybroke Biſhop of London, 23 December 1398. The preſentation to the Vicarage from that time continued in the Abbot and Convent till their diſſolution; when it came to the Crown, and was granted to Thomas Addington; but, notwithſtanding, the Crown preſented at the two next vacancies (h). From Addington it paſſed to the Right Hon. the Lord Guilford, and hath been ever ſince in the gift of that noble family.

There were formerly two Chantries in this Church. —— One founded at the Altar of St. Petronilla, the Virgin.——The other, at the Altar of St. Thomas, was founded by John Stanton, the firſt Rector of this Church we find entered in the London Regiſtry; to pray for the ſouls of himſelf, his father and mother, John formerly Abbot of St. Edmund, and others. It was endowed with a houſe, outhouſes, &c. 40 acres of arable, 2 of meadow, 2 of paſture, and 60s. yearly rent; and a plat of 12 acres, called Water at the Mill; in Harlow, Great Parndon, North-Weld, and High Laver. At the ſuppreſſion it was valued at 9 l. 0 s. 10 d. And in the Certificate it is ſaid, that this was then a great and populous Town, having in yt about the number of 400 houſeling people (i).

On the 1ſt of July 1575, Qu. Elizabeth granted a 21 years leaſe of this eſtate to William Calcote of Lamyat in Somerſetſhire, Gent. who, 1 Feb. following, aſſigned his term to William Newman of Harlow, Gent. The Queen, 10 April 1585, granted another 21 years leaſe to William Hannys, Gentleman of her Chapel. This was to take place after Newman's; for Newman did, 17 April 1591, grant his Intereſt to Nicolas Sibley of Harlow, draper. The rent reſerved to the Queen was 4 l. 6s. 8d. On the 4th of April 1607, K. James I. granted this eſtate to Michael Cole and John Rowdon and their heirs. They ſold it, 7 March 1609, to Francis Neve merchant-taylor of London. And, 13 January 1615, Neve, and Alice his wife, conveyed the premiſſes to Alexander Stafford of Holborn, Gent, the ſame that founded the Almſhouſes at the bottom of Gray's-inn-lane. He was deſcended from the moſt noble and ancient family of the Staffords, and dying 28 Septemb. 1652, was buried in this Church, with a monument. By deed, dated 8 Janu. 1617, he enfeoffed divers perſons and their heirs in this Chantry eſtate, after his own and his wife Julian's life, for ſuch uſes as ſhe ſhould appoint. Julian, by her will, dated in 1630, veſted this eſtate in certain truſtees and their heirs, upon truſt, That twenty pounds per ann. be equally diſtributed to four poor ſcholars of Catherine-hall in Cambridge, that ſtudy Divinity, to be nominated by the Maſter of that Hall for the time being: And that they ſhould pay five pounds apiece unto two poor Scholars of Pembroke-college in Oxford for ever (k).

Samuel Harriſon of Harlow, Gent. purchaſed this eſtate, and in his life-time ſettled it upon his ſon Richard Harriſon, Gent. Attorney at Law, who left it to Mrs. Harriſon his widow.

Mr. Bernard Harriſon has now the Chantry, and good part of the eſtate of the late Mr. Ric. Harriſon. His three ſiſters, and Edward Wiſe, Gent. and the Rev. Samuel Wiſe, have a ſixth part with him in the farm called Squiers, the Crown-inn, and lands belonging to the ſame.

John Waylet, Thomas Cramwell, and John Terling, appointed by their reſpective wills, Obits to be kept for them in this Church, and gave lands and tenements for that purpoſe, but too trifling to be mentioned.

This large pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 2743 l.

2. LATTON.

This pariſh lies weſt of Harlow, and being very long, extends ſouthward as far as the pariſh of Epping.

The name ſeems to be formed from Late town, denoting a town or pariſh lately erected out of the Foreſt; meaning the ſame as New Town.

In the Saxons time, the owners of the lands here, were Turgot, a freeman; Ernulf, alſo a freeman; and another freeman. At the time of the ſurvey, they were holden by St. Edmund's-bury Abbey; by Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant Adelolf; and by Peter de Valoines, and his under-tenant Turgis [W].

What Bury-Abbey had, was afterwards converted into a Priory here, as we ſhall ſhew preſently; Euſtace's part took its name from his under-tenant Adelolf de Merc, mentioned above, p. 423, and made Mark-hall; and the part of Peter de Valoines came by a female heireſs into the Family of Fitz-Walter, and was in time incorporated into the other Eſtates here. In 1165, Ralph de Latton held one knight's fee and a quarter of Robert de Valoines (l).

There are two Maners in this pariſh. 1. Latton-hall. 2. Mark-hall.

1. The maner of LATTON-HALL

Seems to have been what belonged to St. Edmunds-bury Abbey. According to the beſt information we can get, this is what was converted into a Priory here, independent of that great Abbey: But when and by whom it was founded, we cannot learn. 'Tis ſuppoſed, that it had the Rents of Harlow-bury, till the Abbat got them appropriated to his table, jointly with this maner: For, from that time we hear no more of the Abbat here.

But either under, or jointly with, the Abbat, this maner of Latton, or a moiety of it, and the advowſon of the Church, were holden by the families of Tani, or de Thani; de Colcheſter; Tyrell; Wery; and eſpecially of Bibbeſworth, from 27 Edward III. to 1 Henry VII.

The Tani family is mentioned above, p. 79, and alſo under Stapleford-Tani. Sir Peter de Taney was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, 20, 21, 22, and 23 Henry III. as was Richard, 44, and part of 45 of the ſame king (m). John was ſon of Peter, and father of Richard. This Richard de Tani held the maner of Latton of Sir William Comyn, belonging to the Honor of Beneton, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, rent of 36s. to the Hundred of Herlawe, and ſuit at the Court there every three weeks; but it was formerly holden of the Honor of Bologne, with a part holden by Henry de Merk, and another part by the Abbat of St. Edmund's: which three parts fell among three ſiſters. Half of the advowſon of the Church belonged to this maner, and half to the Priory of Latton. —— Richard Tany was his ſon and heir (n). From this family this pariſh received the name of Latton-Tany; but we hear no more of them here.

About the year 1314, Elias ſon of John de Colcheſter held the maner of Latton of the King, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee (o).

By the ſame ſervice, this maner, and advowſon of the Priory of Latton, were holden by Auguſtine le Walleis, and Maud his wife in 1348 (p). In him the two Maners in this pariſh, ſeem to have been united: for, at the time of his deceaſe in 1354, he held the maner here called Merkhalle, with the advowſon of the Priory, of the King as of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of a quarter of a knight's fee. His two daughters, Margery wife of John Maleweyn, and Margaret wife of William Carleton, were his heirs (q).

But, in 1353, Thomas de Sakevill had paſſed by fine, a moiety of this maner of Latton, and the maner of Southouſe, &c. to John de Bibeſworth; remainder to his ſon Hugh and Amicia his wife (r): John, at the time of his deceaſe in 1361, held the maner of Latton of the Earl of Hertford (s). We find this moiety of the maner of Latton-hall in the Bibbeſworth family, as low as the year 1485. [Concerning this family, ſee above, p. 86, 410.]

In the mean time we find, that in 1445, Thomas ſon and heir of Sir John Tyrell, releaſed to Robert Rolleſton, and others, all his right in the maner of Latton-Merks, and the advowſon of the Priory. And, the next year, Gregory Wery releaſed all his right in the ſame to Peter Ardern, and his heirs (t).

Thomas de Bibbeſworth, who dyed in 1485, held the moiety of this maner of Latton-hall.

His heirs were, Joane wife of Thomas Barley, and John Cotys. [ſee above, p. 86, 410.] In 1487, John Cotys paid his relief for a moiety of this maner (u); and, the next year, he and Jocoſa his wife, paſſed by fine this moiety of the maner, and other lands in Latton, to Thomas Sall, William Harpur, and others (w).

In 1566, Richard Weſtwood, and Margery his wife, conveyed to James Altham Eſq; and Mary his wife, 8 meſſuages, 3 cottages, 4 tofts, 10 gardens, 10 orchards, 150 acres of arable, 30 acres of meadow, 40 of paſture, and 20 of wood, with appertenances, in Latton and Harlow (x).

He alſo purchaſed the maner of Merk-hall; and the ſite of Latton Priory; of which laſt we proceed to give the beſt account we can collect: For there is very little ſaid of it any where.

This PRIORY was for Canons of the Order of St. Auguſtin, and dedicated to St. John Baptiſt: but by whom founded we cannot learn, nor when, only that it was before the year 1270. It ſtood on the ſouth ſide of the Church, and was a ſtately building; in form of a croſs, with arches and windows of free-ſtone curiouſly done. Moſt of it is ſtill ſtanding, but converted into a Barn. John Taylor, the laſt Prior, held, 9 Sept. 1534, the ſite of this Priory of Thomas Shaa, in pure and perpetual alms, with all the houſes, lands, tenements, and hereditaments thereto belonging, containing as follows; viz. 200 acres of arable, 200 acres of paſture, 30 of meadow, 10 of wood, and 3 l. rent; and the advowſon and patronage of the Church of Latton; the whole then valued at 10 l. per ann. (y). This ſhews us what was the chief of its endowment. Thoſe lands are ſuppoſed to be what lies three miles or more ſouth from this Church, ſome of them coming up to the road that leads from Harlow to Epping. The Houſe ſtands half a mile from the road in a ſolitary place, ſurrounded by a moat. The old houſe is down, and a mean farm houſe in its room. There ſeem to have been but a ſmall number of Monks in this Priory; for the Biſhop of London often put in the Prior, for want of a ſufficient number of Canons, to chuſe a Prior according to their ſtatutes.

After the ſuppreſſion, K. Henry VIII. granted the ſite of this Priory, in 1536, to Sir Henry Parker and his heirs, to hold by the 20th part of a knight's fee (z); John Hethe had licenſe, 3 June 1556, to alienate the ſite of this Priory to John Titley, Eſq; who preſented to this Church in 1559, and 1561 (a). In 1561, or 1562, John Titley conveyed it to James Altham, Eſq;

2. MARK-HALL

Stands near the Churnh.

This maner took its name from Adelolf de Merc, who held it under Euſtace Earl of Bologne, as well as Merks in Dunmow. [ſee above, p. 423.]——Henry de Merk, who dyed in 1267, held in Latton one carucate of land of the Honor of Bologne, belonging to this maner.——Henry was his ſon (b). ſee above, p. 202.] In 1275, Alda, daughter of Geſfrey Dynant held in this place of the Counteſs of Liſle, 260 acres of land, which was aſſigned to her by way of dower. —— Andrew was her next heir (c).

In 1290, Juliana, widow of Henry de Merk, held half a knight's-fee here of the Honor of Bologne, and alſo by way of dower (d).

Elias ſon of John de Colcheſter, mentioned above, held it in Edward the Second's reign. As did Auguſtin le Wallei's, in the next reign (e). And John de Ludewyk; William de Forde, clerk; John Biſhopeſton, clerk. The latter releaſed, in 1375, unto William Berland, and his heirs, all his right in the maner of Merkehalle, and the Fair of Latton; and in all other lands and tenements in the Hundred of Harlow. Ludewyk had alſo the advowſon of the Priory (f).

Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Sir William Berland brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband, John Baud, Eſq; [concerning that family, ſee above, p. 231. and under Goldangre.] He held it at the time of his deceaſe in 1422. — William Baud, his ſon, married Elizabeth, daughter of William Rokeſburgh of Stanſted-Abbots in Hertfordſhire (g). He dyed in 1426, holding this maner of Merkhale, alias Latton-Merke, of the King in ca. as of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of the 4th part of a knight's-fee. His next heir was his uncle —— Thomas Baude, aged 60 years (h).

Sir John Shaa, mentioned above, p. 156. who dyed in December 1503, held this maner of Markhall, and 100 acres of arable, 50 of meadow, 40 of paſture, 30 of wood, with appertenances, and the advowſon of this Church (i).——Edmund Shaa, his ſon, lett this maner for 99 years to

Henry Parker, Lord Morley: to whom Tho. Shawe ſold this maner, by licenſe dated 3 Aug. 1538 (k). And the ſaid Lord had licenſe, 12 July 1562, to alienate it to James Altham Eſq; and Elizabeth his wife (l): By which means that Family became poſſeſſed of almoſt this whole pariſh, which they ſtill enjoy. It is now time to give ſome account of them.

Edward Altham Eſq; deſcended from an ancient family of that ſurname in Lancaſhire, where is a maner and town ſo called, was Sheriff of London in 1531, and by a daughter of . . . Hilderſham Eſq; had —— James Altham Eſq; the purchaſer of this eſtate; Thomas; and Edward. James, the eldeſt ſon, was Sheriff of London in 1557, and of Eſſex in 1570. He had two wives: The firſt was a ſiſter and heir of Sir Thomas Blanck. Mary widow of Sir Andrew Judd, Lord Mayor of London in 1550, was his ſecond wife, who erected a ſtately tomb for him in the Chancel of this Church. He dyed 28 Feb. 1583, and ſhe 15 Janu. 1602. By her he had no iſſue; but by the firſt wife he had 3 ſons, Thomas; Edward; and James, afterwards knighted, made one of the Barons of the Exchequer 9 February 1606-7, and who dyed 21 February 1616-17 [X], Thomas, the eldeſt ſon of James Altham Eſq; being dead before him without iſſue, —Edward his next brother ſucceeded to this eſtate.

He married Elizabeth, youngeſt daughter and co-heir of John Barnes of Willſden in Middleſex, Eſq; and he dying 8 April 1605, and ſhe 7 Janu. 1621, both lie buried under a monument in this Chancel. They had 3 ſons, James; Edward; Emmanuel; and Mary wife of Ralph Hawtry of Riſelip Eſq; The eldeſt ſon —— Sir James Altham married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Francis Barrington Knt. and Bart. He dyed 15 July, 1610, leaving Joane his only daughter, married afterwards to Oliver St. John Eſq; (m). Dying thus without iſſue male, his brother—— Sir Edward Altham Knt. ſucceeded him. He married Joane, daughter of Sir John Leventhorp Knt. and Bart. and had by her James; Edward; John; Leventhorp; Edward; Emmanuel, a ſea-captain that dyed in the Eaſt-Indies in 1635: and Joane wife of Thomas Smith of Oveſham-hall; Elizabeth; Mary wife of William Halton of Little Samford Eſq; [ſee under that pariſh] and Bridget. — Sir James the eldeſt ſon and heir was created a Knight of the Bath 23 April 1661, at the Coronation of K. Charles II. and having married Alice, ſole daughter of Sir John Spencer of Offley in Hertfordſhire, he left Mary, an only daughter, married to Sir John Tufton Knt. and Bart—— Leventhorp Altham Eſq: ſucceeded his brother upon his deceaſe without iſſue male. He married Joane, daughter and co-heir of David Edwards of Oſweſtry in Shropſhire Eſq; both lie buried here; he dyed 21 Auguſt 1681, and ſhe 15 Octob. 1691. They had 4 ſons, Edward, James, John, Edward; and 4 daughters.—James Altham Eſq; the ſecond ſon and heir, married Mary, the beautiful daughter of John Tinker Eſq; [Y] and had by her Peyton, and James; and 4 daughters, Mary married to Roger Altham, D.D. Rector of this pariſh, and of St. Botolph's Biſhopſgate, and Archdeacon of Middleſex; Jane to Richard Strutt of Biſhops Stortford, Attorney at law; Elizabeth, to Daniel Turner, M.D. and Dorothy. He dyed 28 Dec. 1697, aged 35 years. James the ſecond ſon late Rector of this pariſh, is now Rector of Woodford, and Vicar of St. Olave Old Jewry. — Peyton Altham Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, ſucceeded his father in this eſtate, and was educated at St. John's College in Cambridge. He married Mary daughter of . . . Beard Eſq; and dying about 20 years ago, was ſucceeded by his ſon and heir —— William Altham Eſq; [Z].

John Bugge, mentioned under the foregoing pariſh of Harlow, held there, and in Latton, 140 acres of land of John Bibbeſworth, in 1442 (n).

Latton-park is about two miles ſouth from the Church.

Mr. John Denn; Joſeph Wright; David Langton, &c. have alſo ſome eſtates in this pariſh.

It is rated to the land-tax at 946 l. 2 s. 8 d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, ſtands pleaſantly on a riſing ground near the Hall. It is tyled; and of one pace with the Chancel: only, adjoyning to the north ſide of the Chancel is a Chapel, dedicated to the Holy Trinity and the Virgin Mary, built by Sir Peter Ardern, Serjeant at law, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and Juſtice of the King's-Bench, in the reigns of K. Henry VI. and Edward IV. [A], wherein was founded a Chantry by him and Dame Catharine his wife. Brian Rouclyffe, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, had licenſe in 1476, to give a meſſuage in Latton to the Chaplain (o). A Confeſſionary is remaining in this Church. A ſquare Tower embattled. at the Weſt end, contains 4 Bells.

This Church was of old appropriated to the Priory of Latton, and a Vicarage here ordained and endowed, which continued in the gift of that Convent till its diſſolution. Since which it hath gone along with the Maner. Sir James Altham ſettled the great tithes of this pariſh upon the Vicarage; ſo that it is to be conſidered as a Rectory.

3. NETTESWELL,

Lies ſouth ſouth-weſt of Latton.

In records, beſides Netteſwell, the name is written Netheleſwelle, Nethleſwelle, Netheſwelle, Nettleſwell, Netyſwell, Nicheſwelle, and may be formed, either from too well known words, Nettle, and Well; or from the Saxon Neat, cattle, and well: but not from Nether Weald, Nethleſwelle, with all its appertenances, was one of the ſeventeen lordſhips in this county given by Earl, afterwards King, Harold to his great Abbey of Waltham: and confirmed thereto, with the Church, by K. Henry II. and Richard I. (p).

[Y] John Tinker Eſq; was a famous Captain, who ſignalized himſelf in the Venetian ſervice againſt the Turks in ſeveral naval engagements; and received as a reward of his valour, a gold Chain with a Medal, having on it the Arms of Venice, and very weighty and valuable. He was afterwards Maſter-attendant in the King's yard at Deptford.

[A] Sir Peter Ardern, and his wife, lie buried under the arch between the Church and this Chapel, with a monument. And by the inſcription hanging near it, we find that he was a Juſtice of the King's-bench, which Sir William Dugdale doth not take notice of. . . . "In ſcācco Baro "primus, ac poſt Juſticiarius in Banco."—Arms of Ardern. Or, 3 pallets azure, on a chief gules 3 lozenges, argent.

No mention is made of this Pariſh in Domeſday-book. How this omiſſion happened is hard to ſay; if it had been a lay eſtate ſubject to livery and wardſhip, it would hardly have been miſſed. According to that record, Waltham St. Croſs poſſeſſed nothing in the Hundred of Harlow.

After the diſſolution of Religious Houſes, K. Henry VIII. in 1543, granted the maner of Netteſwell, and Netteſwell or Bray's-grove, and the advowſon of this Rectory, holden of the King in capite, to Richard Higham Eſq; and his heirs (q). He dyed 11 Novemb. 1546, poſſeſſed of this eſtate, in Nettyſwell and Sabridgworth, and deſcribed as 6 meſſuages, 200 acres of arable, 40 acr. of meadow, 200 of paſture, 60 of wood, and 6 l. rent; holden by military ſervice, and payment of 59 s. 10 d. —— William, his brother and next heir, was upwards of 62 years of age (r). He dying 17 Octob. 1558, was ſucceeded by his ſon——John (s) [B]: He, and Martha his wife, had licenſe, 3 Octob. 1560, to alienate this eſtate to

Sir Richard Weſton, one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas. [ſee above, p. 71, 171.] He dying 6 July 1572, was ſucceeded by his ſon — Sir Jerom, who departed this life 31 Decemb. 1603.— Sir Richard Weſton Knt. his ſon, afterwards created Baron of Neyland, Earl of Portland, and conſtituted Lord Treaſurer of England, inherited this Eſtate, and preſented to the Church in 1607 and 1617 (t),

We find them next in the poſſeſſion of Sir William Marten Knt. who preſented to the living in 1634, and 1640.—— Sir Henry Marten Knt. LL. D. was lord of this maner in 1635. — Sir William Marten Knt. was buried here 14 Decemb. 1679. His ſon—Cuthbert was alſo buried here 9 March 1697-8. He married Anne eldeſt daughter of Sir William Nutt of Chigwell Knt. by whom he had —— William Marten Eſq; born 23 June 1664, who dyed 28 Novemb. 1717. His wife was Mary, ſiſter of Sir Thomas Croſs, of Weſtminſter, Bart. Having no iſſue by her, he left her this eſtate for her life; and, after her deceaſe, to the firſt ſon of his niece Anne Lewen, and ſo on in taile-male for ever: expreſly ordering, that whoever of them came to be poſſeſſed of this eſtate, ſhould take the ſurname of Marten. For failure of iſſue, he left it to Matthew Bluck of Honſdon Eſq;

By a codicil to his will, dated 21 June 1711, Mr. Marten appointed his truſtees to raiſe 500 l. out of his eſtate, and lay it out on an eſtate, rent-charge, or fee-farm rent, for a Free-ſchool here. By another codicil, inſtead of that 500 l. he gave 1000 l. for erecting, maintaining, and ſupporting a Charity-ſchool in this pariſh [C].

Netteſwell-ſtreet is a collection of ſcattered houſes, in the road from Latton to Parndon.

There is a Mill upon the river Stort, which goes by the Name of Burnt-Mill, from having been deſtroyed by fire ſome years ago: It has of late been burnt again.

Thomas Laurence, who was buried here 24 April 1522, gave 5 s. yearly for ever out of his lands, for relief of the poor.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 930 l. 2 s. 11 d.

The CHURCH is ſmall, of one pace with the Chancel, and tyled. At the weſt end, a wooden turret, with a ſpire ſhingled, contains 3 Bells.

This Rectory belonged of old to the Abbey of Waltham: After the ſuppreſſion it was granted to Higham, with the maner of Netteſwell-bury, that ſtands near it, and has uſually gone along with the ſame.

4. ROYDON,

Is the weſtern part or angle, of this Half-Hundred, towards Hertfordſhire; from which it is divided by the river Stort. On the South it hath Waltham Half-Hundred, into which indeed extends Roydon Hamlet

A part of it ſtands on a hill commanding the pleaſant meadows watered by the river juſt now mentioned. And the Saxon words Roy, and dun, ſignifying a ſweet hill; that may have given occaſion to the name, qu. Mount Pleaſant. It is otherwiſe written in records, Reydone, Reyndon, Ruindune.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, this pariſh belonged to Inguar, a freeman; and to five other freemen. At the time of the ſurvey, it was holden by Ranulf brother of Ilger; and there was adjoining to it a Berewic, or hamlet, which Richard held of the ſaid Ranulf [D].

Theſe lands were divided afterwards into four Maners. 1. The maner of Roydon. 2. The maner of Temple-Roydon, alias the Rectory. 3. The maner of Dounes. 4. . . . that of Nether-hall.

1. ROYDON-HALL is at the bottom of the Green, about a furlong from the Church.

From Ranulph's heirs, who to all appearance were the Baynards, it came to the noble family of Fitz-Walter, by grant from the Crown, upon the felony and forfeiture of William Baynard, in the reign of K. Henry I. (u). Robert Fitz-Walter was found, in 1319, to hold this maner of Reyndon of the King in ca. of the Honor of Baynard, as part of his Barony (w). And, in 1285, K. Edward I. granted him 200l. per ann. lands and rents in this maner, and that of Burnham: Alſo, in 1290, a charter for a Market here every Thurſday, and a Fair on the 1ſt and 2d of Auguſt (x). Robert gave this eſtate, and ſeveral tenements with the Church, to the Knights Templars (y). Upon whoſe extirpation in 1311, they were conferred upon the Knights-Hoſpitallers. They enjoyed them till the general diſſolution of Religious Houſes,—Then this maner of Temple-Roydon fell to the Crown; and continued in it till 23 May 1602, when Qu. Elizabeth granted it to

Francis Lord Norrys, and others, with the ſite of the maner, and all the demeſne lands, containing by eſtimation 249 acres (z). The 23d of June following, ſhe made a grant of the ſame to Thomas Bellett, and Richard Langley [E]. And they had licenſe the ſame year, to alienate to

Sir Robert Cecil, afterwards Earl of Saliſbury, this maner, and rectory, of Temple-Roydon, and advowſon of the Vicarage. He dyed poſſeſſed of them 24 May, 1612, and they continued in his poſterity till his great grandſon James, Earl of Saliſbury, ſold them to Sir Joſiah Child Bart. from whom they have deſcended to the Rt. Hon. John Earl Tilney [F].

2. The maner of the RECTORY of TEMPLE-ROYDON,

Paſſed with the Maner aforeſaid. The Parſonage-houſe is of the ſame ſide as the Church, adjoining to the Church-yard.

3. The maner of DOUNES,

Was holden of the Prior of St. John of Jeruſalem.

It ſeems to have belonged in Edward the Third's reign to the Wanton family [G], next to one of their deſcendants, Robert Pekenham (a) [ſee above, p. 345, 349.] And afterwards to Harleſton.

Ivo de Harleſton, who dyed in 1403, held this maner of Dounes of the Prior aforeſaid, by fealty, and yearly rent of 5 s. and 1 d.——John was his ſon (b). In 1466, Henry and Robert Harleſton, brothers of this John, releaſed all their right in this maner of Down-hall, with appertenances, to Sir Robert Danby, Sir Walter Blount, and others (c).

It was afterwards in the Colt family, of which we give a particular account under Nether-hall [H].

George Colte Eſq; who dyed 6 Janu. 1616, held this maner of Downe-hall, and a meſſuage called the New Weare, with the Iſland, of the Earl of Saliſbury (d).

It belonged lately to Edmund Feild Eſq; and now to Paul Feild Eſq; of Stanſted-Bury.

4. The maner of NETHERHALL

Is ſo named from the low ſituation of the houſe, near the confluence of the rivers Lea and Stort, about a mile and a half ſouth-weſt from the Church: It is old and large. Formerly it was holden of Waltham-Abbey, which purchaſed here in 1280, one meſſuage, 25 acres of arable, and 5 of paſture, of Alex. de Alricheſey (e).

The firſt mention I find of this maner is in 1401, when Thomas, ſon of John Organ of London, mercer, conveyed all his tenement called Netherhalle in Reydon and Naſinge to Nicolas Collern, and others: And Thomas Prudance, who had it before of the gift of the ſaid John Organ and Margery his wife, releaſed, in 1407, all his right in the ſame unto Simon Barnewell of London (f).

We find it next in the Colt family juſt mentioned under Harlow; and as they made this the place of their reſidence for many years, and ſeveral of them were buried in this Church, it will be proper to give ſome account of them here. The firſt we find mentioned is Thomas Colt of Carliſle, father of——Thomas Colt Eſq; living in the reign of K. Edward IV. and employed by that Prince in ſome honorable poſt abroad [I]. He dyed 10 Auguſt 1476, and was buried in this Church; leaving, by Joane his wife, daughter of [H] T. Fuller tells a ſtory in his Church-Hiſtory, b. VI. p. 317. concerning one of the Colt-family; the ſubſtance of which is, "That Sir Henry Colt of Neither-hall in Eſſex, "much in favour with K. Henry VIII. for his merry conceits, "came late one night to Waltham-Abbey, where being in-"formed by his ſetters, that ſome of the Monks of Waltham "were harboured in Cheſhunt Nunnery, he pitched a buck-"ſtall in the narroweſt part of the marſh, or meadow, where "they were to paſs over, leaving ſome of his confederates "to watch the ſame; and encloſed them as they were re-"turning in the dark to their Convent. He brought them, "and preſented them, next morning to King Henry VIII. "who often had ſeen ſweeter, but never fatter veniſon."—It is pity any thing ſhould diſparage the ſtory, as that minute circumſtance, that there was no Sir Henry Colt at that time; a critic may turn him into John, or George. He may have been a very uſeful man in his days if he taught King Harry to impound the monks. But it is beſides to be conſidered, that the Colt family, on account of their alliance with the great Sir Thomas More, and for ſome other reaſons, were far from being enemies to the monks.

Joane daughter of Sir John Elrington of Hackney in Middleſex. 2. Anne daughter of Sir John Anle. By them he had two ſons, George, and Thomas; and five daughters; Jane, married to the great Sir Tho. More, Lord Chancellor of England; Alice, to Edmund Bugge of Harlow Eſq; Brigit to Laurence Foſter of Cambridgeſhire, Gent. Mary, to William Kempe of Spains-hall in Cambridgeſhire, Eſq; and . . . . wife of . . . Copledike. Thomas, the ſecond ſon, by . . . Magdalene daughter of . . . Middleton, had two daughters coheirs, Catharine wife of . . . Cave, Eſq; mother of Sir Alexander Cave of Leiceſterſhire; and Jane married to Nicolas Brooke ſewer to Qu. Elizabeth. —— Sir George Colt, the eldeſt ſon and heir, married Elizabeth daughter of Henry Mackwilliam. [ſee above, p. 357.] 2. Elizabeth daughter of Tho. Stopham of London. By the firſt he is ſaid to have had two ſons, Henry, and John; and two daughters: and alſo two daughters by the ſecond. His ſons moſt probably dyed before him; for, at the time of his deceaſe, 21 March 1578, his next heir was his couſin —— George Colt Eſq; aged 38 years. He married Elizabeth daughter of John Coningſby of North-Mymmes in Hertfordſhire Eſq; and had by her five ſons, and 6 daughters. He departed this life 6 Janu. 1615; and beſides the maners of Netherhall, Downehall, and other lands in this pariſh, he had Woodlands, Merrywethers, Partriches, Potters; beſides other eſtares at Cavendiſh, and elſewhere, in Suffolk. —— Sir Henry Colt, Knt. his ſon and heir, was then aged 30 years. He ſold moſt of his eſtates; for, according to the Inquiſition, he held, at the time of his deceaſe, 27 March 1635, only one meſſuage in this pariſh worth 60s. per ann. a new built houſe in Little Paringdon where he dwelt; and Colt-hall in Cavendiſh [L] —— George was his ſon (g), and heir to very little.

This eſtate is now in John Archer of Cooperſale Eſq;

Cramhornes tenement, and the third part of Baldwins, in this pariſh, were holden by Richard Heigham (h), or Higham, mentioned under the foregoing pariſh of Netteſwell.

In 1522, the Maſter and Fellows of Chriſt's College in Cambridge are recorded to have had the Maner of Roydon (i). But what Maner is meant, and how they loſt it, I cannot learn.

Charitable Donations.

To the Church: A houſe called Church-houſe, and ſome land, lett together at 4 l. a year; the Donor unknown.

To the Poor: The rents of Priors-houſe, being 20 s. a year. The Donor unknown.

A Noble a year, payable out of an eſtate in Roydon-Hamlet; given by one Mr. Newman.

The Church, dedicated to St. Peter, ſtands in the Village, which is a kind of little Town. It hath a north iſle; but the Chancel is of one pace: The whole tyled. At the weſt end, there is a Tower embattled, in which are 6 Bells, and a Clock.

The Rectory hath been mentioned before. As to the Vicarage, it was appendent to the Maner of Roydon-hall, and in the gift of the Knights Templars and Hoſpitallers; from whom it paſſed to the Earl of Saliſbury, and to Earl Tilney.

This poor Vicarage was augmented, in 1729, with 200 l. by the Ducheſs Dowager of Marlborough; to which were added 200 l. of Queen Anne's Bounty.

PARNDON.

Eaſt of Roydon are the two Pariſhes of Great and Little Parndon. The name is otherwiſe written in records, Parendon, Parringdon, Perenden, Perenduna, Perindun; and may be formed either from the Saxon words Peꞃ, inᵹ, ꝺun; i. e. Pear-paſture-hill: or Peaꞃꞃoc, a wood, a park, and ꝺun, a hill, or ꝺen, a valley. When theſe two Pariſhes were divided, doth not appear. They are mentioned in Domeſday-book only under the general name of Perenduna, without any other diſtinction.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the owners of them were, Ulf, a king's thegn; Alſius Bella, a freeman; Berking Nunnery, and another freeman. At the time of the ſurvey, they belonged to Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant Junain; to Ranulf brother of Ilger, and his under-tenant Roger [M].

5. GREAT PARNDON

Is the largeſt of the two Pariſhes, as the name imports; and comprehends the Maners, 1. of Great Parndon, and Jerounds: . . and of Katherines. 2. Of Paſſmers. 3. . . . of Canons.

1. The Maner of GREAT PARNDON

Is what belonged to Earl Euſtace, and afterwards to the Wytſand family, mentioned above, p. 356. In 1210, or 1211. William de Whitſane, or Whitſand, held one fee in Perenden of the Honor of Bologne (g). His ſon——Richard Whitſand held of the ſaid Honor, in Great Perendon, 350 acres of arable, 15 acr. of meadow, 7 of paſture never broke, 40 of wood, by knight's ſervice, and 13 s, 6 d. rent of aſſiſe, and the advowſon of the Church. And of the Abbey of Byleigh in this village 24 acres, by the rent of 2 s. 1 d. per ann. And of the Hoſpitallers ſix acres of arable: He dyed in 1253 (h).

His ſon——Baldwin de Wytſand, who died in 1262, held of the Honor of Bologne, then in the King's hands, 1 meſſuage, 240 acres of arable, 40 acr. of wood, 12 of meadow, 4 of paſture, and 17 s. 9 d. rent, in Perndon, and Reyndon, and the advowſon of Perndon Church, in capite, by knight's ſervice. And 180 acres of arable, of the Abbot of Byley, the Hoſpitallers, and Wm. Paſſemers, in this pariſh. And 8 acres of meadow in Reyndon, of the Templars (i). Three daughters were his co-heirs, who carried their Purparties of the eſtate and advowſon to their huſbands. 1. Agnes was married to Walter Jeround. 2. Lucia to . . . of London. 3. Elizabeth to Tayleferris of Wynton. Amongſt them was this Maner of Gr. Parndon parcelled out.

JEROUND,

Gave name to the maner of Jerounds, or Gerons, corruptly called Garards. The manſion houſe ſtands on the north ſide of the Church. Walter Jeround dying in 1307, left ——John his ſon and heir (k). As for Tayleferrys of Wynton, or Wincheſter, he dyed in 1332, holding here, in right of his wife, 1 meſſuage, 120 acres of arable, 8 acres of meadow, 6 and a half of paſture, 20 of wood, 9 s. rent of aſſize per ann. and the third part of the advowſon of the Church.——Richard was his ſon and heir (l). Who were the next ſucceſſors doth not appear, unleſs it was Richard de Nottingham, who preſented to the Living in 1325 (m). And Richard Wyncheſter, that dyed in 1348, holding the third part of the maner of Great Perndon of the King in ca, as of the Honor of Bologne, by the third part of a knight's fee, and ſuit from month to month at the court of the Honor of Bologne at Wytham, and ſuit at the Hundred of Harlow (n). Joane his widow having enjoyed it after him, departed this life in 1361, and her two daughters and coheirs, were Meliora wife of William Rolf, and Catharine wife of John at Church (o). This John dyed in 1396, poſſeſſed of one meſſuage, 60 acres of arable, 4 of meudow, 22 of wood, and 6 s. rent of aſſize in this pariſh (p). We hear no more of Rolf; and therefore moſt probably his ſhare centured in the Church family. For Robert Chirche, who dyed in 1420, held, in this pariſh of Great Perendon, 1 meſſuage, 240 acres of arable, meadow, paſture, and wood, and 13 s. 4 d. rent. Half of which, and 60 acres, were holden of the King as of his Honor of Bologne; and the remainder of the Counteſs of Hereford, and the Abbeſs of Byleigh. Joane, his only daughter and heir, was married to Richard Maiſter (q), who preſented to this Church in 1407. The next owner, as far as we can find, was R. Steward, Gent. who preſented in 1467 (r).

It was afterwards in Fynch, who had eſtates in Harlow and Stondon. For in 1529, 1 May, Andrew Finch, and others, had licence to alienate this maner of Gerons, alias the maner of Paringdon magna, and the third part of the advowſon of the Church to John Hales, one of the Barons of the Exchequer (s). How it afterwards came into the Crown I cannot find: But in 1553, K. Edward VI. granted to the Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of London, the maner of Gerons, with appurtenances, meſſuages, and lands, called le Newhouſe, and Tailſeers, and Stewards in Great Perington, al. Perndon (t). They preſented in 1571 to the Church, as Governors of the Hoſpitals of Bridewell, St. Thomas, and Chriſt's. And they have remained poſſeſſed ever ſince of the premiſſes.

The Maner of KATHERINES, vulgarly called ST. KATHERINES.

The houſe ſtands on the ſouth ſide of the Church, and is old.

This is the ſhare that Lucia de Wytſand, brought to her huſband . . . . de London: and which took its name from their daughter Katherine de Londou.

It was afterwards given to Waltham-Abbey; by whom is not known, unleſs it was by the Rokeſburgh family, who were benefactors to that Monaſtery. In 1383, William Rokeſburgh held a carucate of land of the Honor of Bologne, in Great Peryndon (u). In 1434 Iſabella Rokeſburgh, widow, and Walter at Wode, preſented to the living. As did the Abbey in 1452 (w). At the ſuppreſſion it coming to the Crown [N], K. Henry VIII. granted it by the name of the maner of Katerins, Paryngdon wood, and the third part of the preſentation or advowſon of the Church, to Richard Higham Eſq; and his heirs (x). [ſee under Netteſwell.] He ſold it by licenſe dated 19 June 1544, to

Andrew Finche, who dyed 12 April 1563, poſſeſſed of the lordſhip or maner of Katerynes, and the third part of the advowſon of the Church — John his ſon was aged upwards of 40 years (y). He ſold them to

Thomas Skipton in 1580.

Robert and Symon Adams preſented to the Church in 1558; Nath. Tracy Gent. in 1588, and Joh. Welden in 1645 (z).

2. The Maner of PASSEMERS

Took its name from the Paſſemer family, ſettled here in K. Henry the third's reign. Baldwin de Wytſand held lands here then of William de Paſſemer, as mentioned above.

The Houſe ſtands about a mile eaſt from the Church, by the ſide of a brook.

Great Part of this eſtate hath been ſold off. It was ſome time ago poſſeſſed by a family ſurnamed Naylor: Then by Mr. Sale of Wadesmill in Hertfordſhire. He ſold it to George Brewer, Gent. who conveyed it to the Rev. Tho. Browne [O]. From him it paſſed by ſale to Mrs. Pink: and from her to Jonathan Nunn Eſq; He dyed 16 July 1730; and his widow enjoyed it after him; then it deſcended to their daughter and heir —— Hannah, married to Richard Glover of London, Eſq;

3. The Manor of CANONS.

Is ſo called becauſe it anciently belonged to a Monaſtery of Canons of the Premonſtratenſian Order, ſtyled the Canons of Perendune, founded, or at leaſt endowed, by Roger and Robert de Perendune, and Clement ſon of Reginald (a).

Theſe Canons were removed, in 1180. to Bileigh Abbey near Malden, founded by Robert Mantell, and dedicated to St. Nicolas. But tho' they were ſo removed, this eſtate continued in their poſſeſſion, and was confirmed to them by the Charter of K. Richard I. wherein it is deſcribed, as woods called Weſtwood, Elvinewood, Middlewood, Eaſtwood; Great Weſtfield; eight acres in Aldineland; and other lands: ſix ſcore acres of aſſarts in the Foreſt of Eſſex, &c. [P]. They continued poſſeſſed of them till the general diſſolution of Monaſteries; when they came to the Crown.

It was then leaſed for the yearly rent of 16l. 4 s.

On the 6th of July 1546, K. Henry VIII. granted this eſtate to Sir Thomas Darcy, Gentleman of his Privy Chamber, in exchange for another (b). Sir Thomas, by licence, dated 4 Auguſt 1547, alienated it to

John Hanchet and Brigett his wife [Q]. They left only a daughter, Martha, who carried Canons to her huſband

Edward Turnor Eſq;

John Hanchet in 1551 ſold to Reginal Sumpner ſome parcels of this manner (c). Sumpner alienated them in 1595 to Edward Turnor, they amounting to one hundred and fourteen acres. And in 1568, Turnor ſold two fields called Canons-Fields, two crofts of arable, called Loſt-Croft and How-Croft in Hamers-lands, a cloſe called Brookeleez-bottom, Park-mead, and twelve acres of arable in South-field, to John Fynch (d). Of theſe Cannon-fields, and of the maner of Cannons, alias Parringdon-Cannons, Sir Edward Altham dyed poſſeſſed 28 May 1632 (e).

The Farmer family had it next; and Sir Edward Farmer reſided here.

It was purchaſed by Sir Joſiah Child, Bart. in the laſt cenrury, and deſcended to the Right Hon. John Earl Tilney, the preſent poſſeſſor.

There was a magnificent houſe here, built probably with the materials of the monaſtery: It ſtands about a mile north from the Church, on the right hand ſide of the road leading from Harlow to Roydon, in a bottom. Great part of it was lately pulled down.

Mr. James Bailey; John Stiles; Jerem. Plumer; Thomas-Plumer Byde, Eſq; Richard Collins: Daniel Weſt; Thomas Milward; John Johnſon; Jon Rayment, &c. have alſo ſome eſtates in this pariſh.

The two pariſhes of Great and Little Parndon are rated together to the land-tax at 1435l. 1s. 4d.

[Q] The Hanchet family is ſtill conſiderable, and hath eſtates at Haydon and Arkeſden.

John Celye, Ceely, or Sealy, a native of this pariſh, by his will, dated 30 Novemb. 1588, gave one hundred pounds, to be laid out in the purchaſe of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, of the yearly value of 5 l, or more, clear. And he ſettled it on the Parſon and Church-wardens of this pariſh for ever; to the intent, that they and their ſucceſſors, with the overſight of the chiefeſt and moſt ancient pariſhioners, ſhall yearly for ever diſtribute all the yearly rent and profit of the ſame lands, &c. amongſt the pooreſt pariſhioners, and poor people of this pariſh, where it ſhall be moſt needfull.

The Church, which is ſituated on a riſing ground, conſiſts of a body and a ſouth iſle: The chancel is only of one pace, with a veſtry on the north ſide; the whole tyled. At the weſt end there is a ſpire ſhingled.

This Rectory was originally appendent to the Maner of Great Parndon. Upon the diviſion of Wytſand's eſtate amongſt his three coheireſſes, it came into three hands, and hath continued ſo ever ſince; namely, in the Governors of Chriſt's, St. Thomas's, and Bridewell Hoſpitals, and two others.

6. LITTLE-PARNDON.

This little pariſh lies near the river Stort, in a delightful ſituation.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it belonged to one Free man. At the time of the general ſurvey, it was one of the twelve lordſhips which Peter de Valoines held in this county [R]. By Alfreda, ſiſter to Eudo Dapifer, he had —Roger his ſon and heir, father of —— Peter, who having taken to wife Gundred de Warren, had by her three daughters, coheirs; viz. Lora, married to Alexander de Balliol, brother to the King of Scots; Chriſtian to William de Mandeville, afterwards to Peter de Maine; and Elizabeth to David Comin.

Alexander, in right of his wife Lora, had the maner of Benington in Hertfordſhire, of which this of Little Parndon was afterwards reckoned a part (f).

Sir John de la Mare was owner of this eſtate in the reign of K. Henry III.

But Alexander Balliol having ſold the fine eſtate of Benington to John de Benſted in 1284, Little Parndon went along with it. This John was conſtituted one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, in 1310, and afterwards ſummoned to parliament. [ſee under Waltham-Stow.] —— Petronilla, wife of John de Benſted, who dyed in 1342, held the maner of Little Pernden, with the Advowſon of the Church, during her life, of the gift of John de la Mare, who held them of her maner of Bennigton by the ſervice of one knight's fee and a half; —— John de Benſted ſon of Edmund was her heir; remainder to Edmund ſon of John and his heirs (g). —— John, ſon of John de Benſted, who dyed in 1376, held the maner of Little Perndon of the King in ca. as parcel of the maner of Benyngton, by knight's ſervice. —— Edward was his brother and next heir (h). Either he or another Edward, at the time of his deceaſe in 1432, held the advowſon of this Church, and the Maner of the King in ca. except 140 acres of arable, of which 80 acres were holden of the Counteſs of Suffolk, and 60 acres of the Abbot of Bylegh. And 16 acres of paſture he held of Roger Spice, as of his maner of Eſtwyke. —— Edmund his ſon was aged 44 years (i) [S].

It was next in the Colt family, fully mentioned under Roydon; and continued in them till the middle of the laſt century (k).

About that time it was purchaſed either by Arthur Turnor Eſq; of Canons, or by his ſon Edward. This Family, which is of great antiquity, was originally ſeated at Haverhill in Suffolk; and therefore a more particular account of the ancient branches of them belongs properly to the Hiſtory of Suffolk, to which we ſhall beg leave to refer. Henry is the firſt we find mentioned. And his ſucceſſors were —— John — Henry; another —— Henry. This laſt was of Little Wratting in Suffolk, and had four ſons. 1. Henry, of the ſame place. 2. Bartholomew, of Barnack in Northamptonſhire. 3. William. 4. Edward. Bartholomew had two ſons, Stephen, of Saltrey in Huntingdonſhire; and Chriſtopher of Little Parndon, who married Mary daughter of Edward Turnor of Canons, widow of Roland Rampſton, Gent. but by her had no iſſue. —— Edward, the 4th ſon, married firſt, Martha daughter of John Hanchet of Canons Eſq; in Great Parndon; and ſo came into that Eſtate. He had by her, Edward; Richard who dyed without iſſue; Mary, wife of Rol. Rampſton, and Chr. Turnor, as juſt now mentioned; and Mary. His ſecond wife was Frances, daughter of . . . Baker, by whom he had ſix ſons, and five daughters. — Edward, the eldeſt ſon and heir, lived at Canons, and was bred up to the Law, being a member of

He married Anne, daughter of James Morrice Eſq; of Cheping-Ongar, and of the Middle-Temple, by whom he had Morrice, Arthur, Edward; and eight daughters.—Morrice dyed without iſſue.—— Arthur, the ſecond ſon and at length heir, was of the Middle Temple, and created Serjeant at law in 1636. He married Anne daughter of John Jermy of Gunton in Norfolk Eſq; and had by her two ſons, Edward; John, killed during the civil wars, unmarried: and a daughter, Anne, married to Leſtrange Calthorpe, ſerjeant at law. Dying 1 July 1651, he was buried in the Temple-Church by his father. —— Edward, the only ſurviving ſon and heir, was educated at Abbington-ſchool, and Queen's-College in Oxford; and was afterwards of the Middle-Temple (l). After the Reſtoration, he became Attorney to James Duke of York; received the honor of knighthood; elected one of the repreſentatives in Parliament for this county in 1660, and for the Burgh of Hertford in 1661; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons in the Parliament which met 8 May 1661 [T]; Sollicitor-General; created Serjeant-at-law, 19 May 1671; and conſtituted Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer the 23d of the ſame month. He dyed at Bedford on the Circuit, 4 March 1675-6, and was buried in this Church. Of Thomas, the laſt Lord Morle and Mont-Eagle, he got the Maner of Great Hallingbury, and reſided there.—He was married firſt, to Sarah daughter and heir of Gerard Gore Eſq; Alderman of London; by whom he had 4 ſons, and 2 daughters; namely, Edward; Arthur, and Gerard, who both dyed young; Arthur, of Shillingley Park in Suſſex. The two daughters were, Sarah, married to George Clarke of Watford in Northamptonſhire, Eſquire, and Anne. This firſt wife dying 19 Febr. 1651, he took to his ſecond wife Mary, daughter and heir of Henry Ewer of South Mimms in Middleſex, Gent. but by her had no iſſue.——Edward, his eldeſt ſon and heir, was knighted by K. Charles II. and ſerved as one of the Burgeſſes for Orford, in all the Parliaments of Queen Anne. He dyed 3 Decemb. 1721, and was buried at Hallingbury, where he reſided. By his wife, Iſabella, daughter of William Earl Mariſcal of Scotland, he had two ſons, Charles, to whom K. Charles was godfather, and the Ducheſs of Monmouth godmother; Edward that died young: and five daughters, whereof Sarah was married to Francis Gee. He was ſucceeded by——Charles his only ſon, upon whom he ſettled, in his life-time, the eſtate of Little-Parndon; he married Dorothy, daughter of William Fenwick of Bywells in Northumberland, Eſq; and by her had two daughters, Sibilla, and Dorothea. He dyed 1ſt Auguſt 1726, and his two daughters are ſince dead [V]: ſo that the deſcendents of the Turnors are all extinct except Sarah, grand-daughter of the laſt Sir Edward Turnor: Her mother was Sarah, Sir Edward's daughter, married to Mr. Francis Gee. Edward Turnor Eſq; of Shillingley-Park in Suſſex, ſon of Arthur, ſecond ſon of Chief Baron Turnor, was heir to the family. He gave his eſtate to Sarah, grand-daughter of the laſt Sir Edward, who is married to Mr. Garth, and claims the reverſion of Parndon. Another perſon claims it by virtue of a will made by Sibilla, elder daughter of Charles Turnor Eſq; who deviſed and bequeathed it to . . . Petre, of Ongar, attorney at law; and Thomas Crawford, Vintner in London. They have ſince ſold this maner, with appertenances, to Edward Parſons Eſq;—The maner houſe ſtands on the right hand ſide of the road leading from Harlow to Roydon, and is pleaſantly ſituated.

Mr. Thomas Coulſon hath alſo an eſtate in this pariſh.

The CHURCH, which ſtands near the river Stort, is very ſmall; both Church and Chancel being of one pace and breadth, only to the Chancel belongs a north iſle: all tyled. A little wooden Turret at the weſt end contains 1 Bell.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the Maner. The Bensteds preſented to it from 1334, to 1441, and the Colt family from 1467 to 1565.

7. MATCHING

Is north-eaſt from Harlow, and joins to Ongar Hundred.

The ſignification of the Saxon word Ing, for a meadow or paſture, is well known. But the Engliſh word Match, or the Saxon Mæcce, equal, even; do not afford any tolerable meaning here. It is otherwiſe written in records Macching, Matcinga.

This pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign belonged to Eſgar, mentioned above, p. . to Alured Cild, a freeman, and to another freeman name Holefaſt. At the time of the general ſurvey it was holden by Robert Gernon, and his under-tenant Hugh [W], and by Geffrey de Magnaville, whoſe part was Stock-hall; and William de Warenn had Oveſham-hall.

At preſent the ſeveral Maners in this pariſh, are thoſe, of 1. Matching-hall. 2. Waterman's. 3. Stock-hall. 4. Oveſham-hall.

1. The Maner of MATCHING.

Matching-Hall, which is the Maner-houſe, ſtands on the ſouth ſide of the Church. It is evident, that this was the eſtate Gernon had, becauſe it was holden afterwards of the Lords of Stanſted-Montfichet, derived from Gernon, [ſee under Stanſted Montfichet.]

Humfrey de Waleden, who dyed in 1331, [ſee under Rickling.] held the maner of Matching of John de Lancaſter, Lord of Stanſted Montfichet;——Andrew, ſon of Roger, brother of the ſaid Humfrey, was his next heir (m) [X].

The noble family of De Vere having acquired the lordſhip of Stanſted, this maner was found to be holden of John and Thomas de Vere Earls of Oxford, who dyed in 1358, and 1370 (n).—John Walden, who dyed in 1401, had the maner of Macching-halle, without any mention of the tenure. But his ſon —— Sir Alexander Walden held it, at the time of his deceaſe in 1408, of the Earl of Oxford by knight's ſervice. ——Alexander Walden was his couſin and next heir (o). —— John Walden, the next we find mentioned, dyed in 1419. — Catharine, wife of John Barley, and Margaret, wife of Henry Langley, were his ſiſters and coheirs (p).

I find no more mention of Barley here, therefore ſuppoſe the inheritance fell to Langley, or was purchaſed by him.

Thomas Langley held it at the time of his deceaſe in 1471, of the Earl of Oxford, of his Honor of Goldhancys: as did his ſon ——Henry in 1488. Catharine, widow of the latter left at her death, 18 Octob. 1487, her daughter and heir Catharine, wife of John Marſhall (q). She dyed 15 February 1517, holding this maner of the Earl of Oxford as of his maner of Stanſted-Montfichet, and her daughters and heirs were Elianor, wife of Henry, ſon of Sir John Cutt, and Mary, wife of John, ſon and heir of Richard Cutt (r).

Henry Cutts, Eſq; dyed 14 January 1573. —— Henry his ſon, then 40 years old (s), and afterwards knighted, held a moiety of this maner, at the time of his deceaſe [Y], 12 Decem. 1603, wherein he was ſucceded by his couſin and heir —— Richard Cutt Eſq; (t). He dyed 4 April 1607, poſſeſſed of a moiety of this maner (u).— Sir William Cuttes was the laſt that had Matching; but he was not poſſeſſed of it at the time of his deceaſe 16 Decemb. 1608 (w). He was great grand-father to Richard Cutts Eſq; father of John Lord Cutts. This Richard removed from Arkſdon to Childerley in Cambridgeſhire, which, with Suaveſea and Boxworth was given him for the ſake of his name, or by ſome diſtant relation.

This maner of Matching was purchaſed by one of the Family of Maſham, and came from Sir Francis, with the maner of Otes, to the Rt. Hon. Samuel Lord Maſham, who ſettled it, with Otes and Little-Laver, on the Honorable Samuel Maſham Eſq;

2, WATERMAN'S MANER

Sometimes called the maner of Matching, or Matching-Green.

The houſe belonging to it ſtood about three quarters of a mile from the Church. It is fallen down, and only ſomething of an orchard remaining. There is a place called Waterman's End, within a quarter of a mile of Stock-hall.

This eſtate was given to Waltham-Abbey; but when, and by whom, we cannot find; nor the occaſion of the name.

By a copy of an old Deed (x), dated 1 Jan. 1359, it appears, that the Abbey granted to John Roberd of High Rothing, and his heirs, lands, tenements, &c. in High-Rothing, and Matching, which William Atte-Ree had given to the Convent; and what lay in Matching is deſcribed, as one Place lying at Machyng-Grene, near the tenement of Richard Giffard [Z]. William Atte-Ree had purchaſed it of Nicolas Brockton; for which, perhaps, Waterman was the alias, as Brockton for Atte-Ree, or At-Water. This leaſe was made for three hundred years, and would not have expired till 1659. The Rent to be paid was 7 s. 11 d. and four capons, to be delivered every Chriſtmas at Netteſwell. Beſides which the leſſee, his heirs, and aſſigns, were to collect all the Abbey's Rents in Matching, Little and High Laver, and pay them into their Treaſury at Waltham.

At the time of the ſuppreſſion, the Rents of aſſiſe were 43 s. 4 d. and perquiſites of Court, one penny half-penny.

In 1544, K. Henry VIII. granted this maner of Matching to George Clifford, and William Wellbore (y). The King ſeems to have been too hard upon the tenant. We may call him the Purchaſer, for he muſt have laid down a good ſum of money, or ſome equivalent in land, for this leaſe: And by the act of ſuppreſſion it does not appear there was any thing coming to the Crown but the quit-rent and the Capons.

Wellbore, by licence, dated 17 Nov. 1547, ſold this eſtate to Geffrey Lukyn (z), who had Maſhbury and Mountneys: [ſee above, p. 460.] One of the name was lately at Maſhbury, Thomas Lukyn, eldeſt ſon of Geffrey, had licenſe, 10 May 1550, to alienate this maner to —— William

Lukyn (a); and the latter, by licenſe 16 Septemb. 1554, ſold it [A] to

Sir William Petre, to hold of the Queen in capite. —— John Lord Petre was his ſon and heir, from whom it came to —— William Lord Petre, and hath continued ever ſince in that noble Family.

Pope Paul IV. by his Bull, dated 27 Novemb. 1555, confirmed this, and many other eſtates, to Sir William Petre, [ſee above, p. 47.]

3. The Maner of STOCK-HALL.

The manſion houſe is about a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church, near Matching-green.

This is the part that was holden before the Conqueſt by Eſgar, and at the time of the ſurvey by Geffrey de Magnaville [B]. It holds a Court Baron.

Thomas Battaill held one fee in Matchyng and Great Waltham, under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, in 1372 (b): which is ſuppoſed to be this eſtate,——Thomas Battayle of London, Mercer, held it in 1453. As did Margaret Boys a little before.

Robert Brown of Rookwood-Hall, in Abbeſs-Roding Eſq; who dyed 30 April 1488, held the maner of Stock-hall of Nicolas Barrington; as of his maner of Matching-Barnes;——William was his ſon and heir (c). Sir Humphrey Brown paſſed this Maner by fine, in Hilary-term 1553, to John Lyndeſell and others (d).

Thomas Aylett [mentioned above, p. 468.] held this maner at the time of his deceaſe 3 June 1607.——Thomas his ſon ſucceeded him (e).

Thomas Gittens, who married Suſan daughter and heir of Thomas Aylett, ſold this eſtate to

Thomas Bennet of North-Weald. He ſettled it on his ſon——John Bennet, and Grace daughter of Thomas Cook of Nether Yeldham, whom he took to wife. Oliver Martin and John Morley Eſqrs. were by him made truſtees. They ſold it about the year 1707, to James Brain Eſq; who was High Sheriff of this County in 1724. He gave it to his daughter, who married Daniel Quare, Gent. ſon of Mr. Jeremiah Quare, Merchant, and nephew of Dan. Quare of London, Watchmaker.

4. The Maner of OVESHAM, vulgarly called HOUSHAM-HALL.

The Hall ſtands about a mile and a half weſt from the Church.

This maner, which is now only one farm, was anciently a Hamlet in this pariſh, and a conſiderable part of the ſame. 'Tis bounded by Shering-brook, and thence, probably, has the name of Over-Ham, or Overs-Hall: Oꝼꝛe, or Oꝼeꝛ, in Saxon, ſignifies, Upon the Bank of a Stream, and in reality means no more than Over, or Upper; ſo that what is on the margin of the ſtream may be ſaid to be above it: And Ham ſignifies a Maner-houſe.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Holefaſt, a freeman, held this eſtate; which at the time of the ſurvey was holden by William de Warrenn, and his under tenant Richard [C].

From the Warrenn-family it deſcended, in the manner above-mentioned, p. 463, 465, by Alice, ſiſter and heir of John the laſt Earl of Warrenn, to Edmund Fitz-Alan Earl of Arundel. And K. Edward II. in 1314, confirmed to him in fee, among others, the maner of Oveſham (f). He was beheaded 10 June 1326, and his ſucceſſors, of his name and family, were——Richard Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel, his ſon, reſtored in blood, who dyed 24 January, 1375. His ſon,—Richard Fitz-Alan, was beheaded in 1397, whoſe ſon — Henry Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel, was reſtored in blood by parliament, in 1399; and he dying 13 October 1414, poſſeſſed of this maner, and of that of Wolfhampſton, &c. (g), without iſſue; his ſiſters and coheirs, mentioned above, p. 363, and 365, divided his eſtates. His eldeſt ſiſter,

Elizabeth, widow of Thomas Mowbray, and then wife of Sir Gerard Ufflet, had, at the time of her deceaſe in 1424, the third part of two parts of this maner of Oveſham-hall. —— John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, her ſon and ſucceſſor (h) dyed 19 Octob. 1432, poſſeſſed of the ſame (i). His ſon —— John Mowbray, Duke of Nofolk, had a moiety of the third part of two parts of this maner (k). He departed this life 6 Novemb. 1461, and his ſon —— John Mowbray, Earl of Warrenn and Surrey, Duke of Norfolk, dying in 1475, without iſſue male; part of this eſtate came to Sir John Howard, Baron Howard, ſon of Sir Robert Howard, and Margaret daughter and coheir of Thomas Mowbray Duke of Norfolk above-mentioned. Another part of the Earl of Arundel's eſtates had deſcended to Joanna, wife of William de Beauchamp, Lady Abergavenny. [ſee above, p. 463.]

A Fine paſſed in 1461, between George Nevill, ſon and heir of Elizabeth late Lady Bergavenny, and others, plaintiffs, and Richard Lukenor Eſq; and Roger Philpot deforc' of a moiety of the maner of Oveſham-hall, the right of the ſaid George. In 1468, another Fine paſſed between

Richard III. another Fine was levied between William Scott ſenior, and others, plaintiffs, and George Nevyle Lord Bergavenny, and Elizabeth his wife, deforc' of a moiety of two parts of three of this maner. John Howard Duke of Norfolk falling at Boſworth battle, and by his attainder in 1485 his eſtates coming to the Crown, his ſhare was undoubtedly granted by K. Henry VII. to

William Scott Eſq; who had the other parts; for he dyed poſſeſſed of the whole maner of Oveſham-hall, 3 Novemb. 1491. He had alſo the maners of Stapleford Tanye, and of Woolhampton in Chigwell (l), under which laſt pariſh a particular account is given of that ancient Family.——John Scott his ſon and heir was then 35 years old. The time of his death is not mentioned. But —— William Scott Eſq; dyed 20 Janu. 1531 (m). As did —— Walter Scott Eſq; 25 Octob. 1549. He held this maner, which is thus particularly deſcribed, 240 acres of arable, 8 acres of meadow, 4 of wood, and 4 l. 12 s. and one capon rent, of the King in ca. by knight's ſervice (n).——Roger his ſon and ſucceſſor, who dyed 9 Decemb. 1583, was father of——George, who, at the time of his deceaſe 4 Febr. 1588, left two daughters coheirs, Elizabeth, and Mary. [ſee above, p. 99.]

Elizabeth brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband Sir Edward Alleyn, of Hatfield-Peverell Knt. created a Baronet, 24 June 1629. Edward his eldeſt ſon dying before him 28 Febru. 1633, he was ſucceeded, at his deceaſe in November 1638, by his grandſon —— Sir Edmund Alleyn Bart. He departed this life 2 November 1656, having only one daughter ſurviving [ſee above, p. 99, 132.] And thus leaving no iſſue male, this eſtate reverted to the collateral Male-line of

Scott of Chigwell. And now belongs to —— George Scott Eſq;

The Hamlet of Oveſham being formerly large, and at a conſiderable diſtance from the Church, there was in it a CHAPEL, endowed with 20 acres of arable, 1 of meadow, &c. [D] Some remains of it near Oveſham-hall are ſtill viſible.

KINGESTONS, an eſtate about three quarters of a mile eaſt from the Church, took its name from the Kingeſton-family. The heirs of Hugh de Kingeſton held it as half a fee under John and Thomas de Vere Earls of Oxford, who dyed in 1358, and 1370 (o). —— Richard Crampe held it in the reign of K. Henry VI. by the ſervice of giving, at Chriſtmas, two little veſſels, new bound with iron, containing four bottles or flaſks full of new wine (p).

STONE-HALL is a little way north-eaſt from the Church.

Mr. Thomas Bernard; Joſhua Brocas; Matthew Palmer; Henry Fowler; Thomas Shipman; John Petts; William Foſter; and a few others, have alſo ſome lands in this pariſh.

It is rated to the land-tax at 1378 l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, conſiſts of a body and two iſles; but the Chancel is only of one pace; the whole tyled. A Tower embattled contains 5 Bells.

This Church was given by Hervey de Boreham, Dean of St. Paul's, to the Priory of Lees. In April 1274, John de Chiſhull, Biſhop of London, appropriated the great Tithes to that Convent, and ordained and endowed a Vicarage, reſerving the Nomination of the Vicar to himſelf and ſucceſſors, Biſhops of London.

After the ſuppreſſion, K. Henry VIII. granted the impropriate Tithes, in 1546, to Sir Richard Rich. He ſettled them in feoffees for the uſe of his Foundations at Felſted. [ſee above, p. 420, 421.] The right of preſenting to the Vicarage is in the feoffees; but the Nomination in the Biſhop of London.

The Vicar receives the great Tythes on the eaſt ſide of the highway leading from Ongar to Stortford. He had a compoſition for the ſmall Tythes from Matching-Barns, as appears from Mr. Newcourt. Of Matching-Barns an account will be on Hatfield, in which Pariſh it has been for ſome time reckoned.

Undoubtedly part of that Farm was originally in Matching, tho' the whole may have been invaded by the adjoyning pariſh of Hatfeild; moſt pariſhes being too guilty of ſtealing from one another, and the largeſt are commonly the greateſt thieves.

A houſe on Matching-green, with ſome land belonging to it, about 8 l. a year, were given for reparation of the Church.

A houſe cloſe to the Church yard, ſaid to be built by one . . . Chimney, was deſigned for the entertainment of poor people on their wedding-day. It ſeems to be very ancient, but ruinous.

8. SHERING.

Inᵹ, the latter part of this name, is well known to ſignify a meadow; and ꞅceaꞃ, ſignifies ſhearing; ꞅceꞃ, a plough-ſhare; ꞅciꞃ, a ſhire, or county. But on which of theſe accounts this pariſh received the name of Shering, I am not able to determine, unleſs it is the laſt, qu. the ſhire, or county, meadow [E].

The name is otherwiſe written in records, Sceringa, Seringe, Snaringe, Cherring. Peter de Valoines mentioned above, p. 487, was poſſeſſed, in the Conqueror's reign, of Scering; which had belonged to three fremen in Edward the Confeſſor's time [F].

SHERING-HALL,

Stands about a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church, and is what belonged to P. De Valoines. This Peter married Albreda ſiſter to Eudo Dapifer. His ſon and heir was —— Roger, who had two ſons, —— Peter and —— Robert. Peter dying without iſſue male, —— Robert ſucceeded, and by Hawiſe his wife, left Gunnora his daughter and ſole heir. She was married to

Robert Fitz-Walter a great Baron, and carried the eſtate to him (*). Of this family was Chriſtiana de Valoines, called alſo de Maul, who built the Chapel here; as we ſhall ſhew a little lower. Shering was parcel of the Barony of Fitz-Walter, and continued in that noble Family, [of which ſee an account under Woodham-Walter] till 1432 (q), when, by Elizabeth, eldeſt daughter of Walter Lord Fitz-Walter, it came to the Ratcliffs; of whom Robert was created Viſcount Fitz-Walter 18 July 1525. and Earl of Suſſex 28 Decemb. 1529 (r). The laſt heir male of this family in the direct line, —— Robert Earl of Suſſex, ſold Shering, with the Advowſon of the Church, to Lionel Cranfield, Earl of Middleſex. After having kept it but a little while, he alienated it again in 1635, to

Thomas Hewit, Eſq; ſon and heir of Sir Wm. Hewit, Knt. by Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Wiſeman, Eſq; He married firſt Frances, daughter of Sir John Hubbard of Blickling in Norfolk, and had by her one daughter, married to Sir William Beverſham, Knt. one of the Maſters in Chancery. His ſecond wife was Margaret, widow of Thomas Hillerſdon of Elſtow in Bedfordſhire, Eſq; daughter of Sir William Lytton of Knebworth in Hertfordſhire: He was knighted in 1640, and 12 July 1660 created a Baronet. By his ſecond wife he had five ſons and eight daughters; —— Sir George Hewit his only ſurviving ſon was, 9 April 1689, created Viſcount Hewit of Goran in Ireland. Dying without iſſue, 1 Dec. 1689, he divided his eſtate between his four ſurviving ſiſters, Elizabeth wife of Sir Richard Anderſon, Bart. Margaret wife of Sir Edward Farmer of Little Parndon, Knt. Arabella widow of Sir William Wiſeman of Gr. Canfield, Bart. and Mary widow of Sir Charles-Crofts Read, Knt. (s). Lady Arabella Wiſeman was his Exeeutrix. This eſtate was ſold, and a little time in poſſeſſion of Lady Filmer, deſcended from Sir William Beverſham above-mentioned. Of her it was bought 18 Decemb. 1723, with two farms, for the ſum of 11325 l. by Robert Cheſter Eſq; one of the South-Sea Company directors (t). Upon whoſe forfeiture, the South-ſea Company ſold it to

Samuel Feake Eſq; [ſee under Henham.] He built a ſeat here, having a little turn'd the great road. It belongs now to his ſon —— Samuel Feake Eſq;

The Maner of COWICK-BURY, now called QUICK BURY.

Cowick-bury, or Cowick Barns, is about a mile north-weſt from the Church. Another houſe called Cowicks, is about a mile and a quarter north north-weſt from the Church.

We find in Domeſday-book, a Maner within this Hundred called Cinca, which we cannot place ſo well as here. And what makes us think we are right, is, that as Will. de Warenn was Lord of it at the time of the ſurvey, ſo a brother of a Counteſs de Warenn gave it to Bermondſey-Abbey, and the lands held afterwards of Houſham-Hall, which was Warenn's.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it belonged to Aluuin Godtun; and at the time of the general Survey, to William de Warenn, and his under-tenant Richard [G].

Cow-wic, or a Wic of Cows, being a very common expreſſion in this County, there is no need of endeavouring to derive the name from Cinca.

In the year 1098, Richard Guett, brother to the Counteſs of Warenn, gave this maner with appertenances to the Monaſtery of Bermundſey in Southwark (u).

The convent held it from thenceforth, by the ſervice of a knight's fee, of the deſcendents of the Family of Warenn; as Edmund Earl of Kent, John Earl of Kent, Joane Princeſs of Wales, Alice George Lord Carpenter, who had married his only daughter. His Lordſhip dyed 12 July 1749, and was ſucceded by his ſon.

James Turvin Eſq; Mr. Joſeph Burles; Nath. Norris; George Warman; Stafford Crane, &c. have alſo ſome eſtates, or lands, in this pariſh.

It is rated to the land-tax at 1173 l.

The Church, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is ſituated on a riſing ground, and both Church and Chancel are of one pace, and of the ſame width. On the north ſide of the Chancel there is a large Veſtry. The Church is leaded, and the Chancel tyled. A ſquare Tower at the weſt end contains 4 Bells.

This Rectory was all along appendent to the Manor of Shering-hall, and in the gift of the noble Families of Fitz walter, Ratcliſt, Hewit, &c. Arabella Lady Wiſeman above-mentioned ſold the Advowſon to a Gentleman who intended it for his ſon: Of him it was bought with Money left by Biſhop Fell to Chriſt's-Church College in Oxford; and it hath been ever ſince in the gift of that noble Seminary of Learning.

A houſe near the Church was given for the reparation of the Church.

In this pariſh, about a quarter of a mile from the Church, anciently ſtood a Free Chapel, dedicated to St. Nicolas, founded about the year 1278, by Chriſtiana de Valoines, who held the Manor of Sheryng in capite, of the King, as part of the Barony of Valoynes (b). She endowed it with 1 meſſuage, 37 acres of arable; 8 acres of meadow, and 5 s. rent in Shering; and other lands, to the amount in all of 11 l. 6 s 8 d. for the maintenance of two Chaplains, to celebrate divine ſervice in that Chapel, for the King, &c. (c). The Patronage of it was in the Lords of that Manor. In 1322, the Chaplain Thomas de Shympling was preſented by Sir Thomas Loveyn (d). At the diſſolution of Chantries it was valued at 42 s. per ann. The place where this Chapel ſtood, ſeems to be a narrow ſlip on the north ſide of the road towards Netherton; where is a field called Chapel-field, and ruins of building have been ſeen.

The Road through this pariſh from Hatfield to Harlow is uncommonly ſtraight, level, and pleaſant [H].

9, HATFIELD-REGIS, or BRAD-OKE,

Is ſituated in the north-eaſt part of this Hundred, joining to the Rodings, and the Canfields.

The name is from the Saxon Hæðꝼelð, a heathy or uncultivated field, as hath been ſhewn above, p. 129, under Hatfeld-Peverell, from which it is diſtinguiſhed by the additions of Regis, or King's; and Broad-Oak.

The diſtinguiſhing appellation of Regis ſeems to have been given at the Conqueſt, becauſe this was the King's demeſne: That of Brad-Oak is from the Saxon, generally thought to be from a tree of extraordinary bigneſs: There has been another ſince, for it will hardly be allowed to be the ſame, the remains of which ſeem to be ſome hundred years old, that covered a great deal of ground. This, called Doodle-Oak, on the foreſt

[H] Dr. Salmon hath inſerted at the end of his Account of this pariſh a wonderful ſtory: As the leaving of it entirely out might appear to ſome Readers a blameable omiſſion, I therefore place it here by way of note. "About the year "1730, a young woman of this pariſh went to London "with the Carrier to be ſervant at the inn which he uſed. "Soon after, a child was born of her in the night: Her "miſtreſs next day turned her out of the houſe; the morning after ſhe begged, at the Green-man upon the Foreſt, "a piece of blanket to cover the child, which ſhe laid "down upon the ground under the blanket at ſome diſtance "from the Road, and walked that day to Shering, about "ſeventeen miles: It was in February or March. The "Carrier coming to town was told by his land lady what "had happened, and that ſhe had ſent her ſervant away. "He alarmed the pariſh, and they, upon ſearch, found her "at her father in-law's houſe; upon being charged with "deſtroying her child, ſhe confeſſed where ſhe had expoſed "it; the officers ſent to the place, and no child being found, "enquiry was made at the neighbouring houſes; there the "meſſengers heard, that the boy was found the morning "before naked, the blanket being blown from him, and "that the Officers of Wanſted had taken care of him: He "had lain in the cold twenty-four, or forty-eight hours; I "think forty-eight. The child was brought to Shering, "and thence, with the Mother, to the Houſe of Correction "at Chelmsford. She returned after her confinement to "Shering, and ſome time afterwards carried off her boy, "and has not ſince been heard of. The time ſhe took for "her journey from London, and that the boy lay on the "ground, was collected from the account given by the "Carrier, by the people who ſaw her come home, and the "officers of Wanſted."

near Stane-Street, looks as if freſh branches had grown out of the roots, as the others decayed, or were cut.

This pariſh is of great extent, and hath been the moſt conſiderable in the Half-hundred, if we judge by the great rent, of 80 l. it brought in to the Sheriff, after the Conqueſt; or if we look at the remains of buildings and foundations for half a mile by the road leading towards Shering and Harlow: This is called Holſted-hill, corrupted, I believe, from Old-Street-hill. The Return of the Chantries, in the reign of K. Edward VI. makes it a very great and populous town, having in it, by eſtimation, five hundred houſeling people.

There has been a Market here, and a conſiderable one. And the Town, till very lately, made ſuch a figure in Maps, that a company of ſoldiers have been frequently quartered here upon a march; who, to their great ſurprize, found only three Ale-houſes in it, and thoſe very mean ones. As this place is no great thorough-fare, it hath of courſe but very little trade.

Here is a Fair on Auguſt 5, where the country is ſupplied with their ſtock of Lambs brought from Norfolk.

This noble Lordſhip, being royal demeſnes, belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Earl Harold, afterwards his ſucceſſor in the throne: And, at the time of the general ſurvey, was in K. William the Conqueror's hands [I].

In this extenſive pariſh are the following Maners. 1. The maner of Hatfield-Bury: on which are dependent the following ones. 2. . . The maner of Barrington-hall. 3. . . of Bromeſho-bury. 4. The maner of Matching-Barnes. 5. . . thoſe of Riſe-marſes, and the Lea.

1. HATFIELD-BURY

Is the capital Maner in this pariſh.

It remained in the Crown till the reign of K. Henry III. [K]. For he granted, in 1217, the maner of King's Haſend to William de Caſſingham, for his ſupport in the King's ſervice (e).

But the Tithes of this royal maner [L] were granted by K. Henry I. to the Priory of St. Botolph's in Colcheſter (f).

In 1237, K. Henry III. granted this maner of Hatefeild, and that of Writtle, in fee, to Iſabella, ſiſter and coheir of John Earl of Cheſter, and wife of Robert de Brus Earl of Anandale, in lieu of her part of the Earldom of Cheſter, which K. Henry had taken into his own hands, leſt ſo fair an inheritance ſhould be divided among females (g). [See above, p. 61.] [M]. — Robert de Brus Earl of Anandale ſucceeded his mother Iſabella in this eſtate. He married Iſabel, daughter of Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter; and was one of the competitors for the crown of Scotland. His ſon and heir was——Robert Brus, Earl of Carrick in right of Margaret his wife, daughter and heireſs of Neil Earl of Carrick. He dyed in 1304 [N], holding the maner of Hatfeild in Bromeſhobery of the King in capite, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee. And the Half-Hundred of Harlow belonged to this maner. Robert, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor (h), born 11 July 1274, ſtrenuouſly aſſerting his Right to the kingdom of Scotland, and being crowned at Scone 25 March 1306, was deprived, by K. Edward I. of This, and all other his eſtates in England, He had two wives, 1. Iſabel, daughter of Donald Earl of Marr; 2. Mary, daughrer of Aymer de Burgh Earl of Ulſter. By the ſecond he had David King of Scots, who dyed

[K] The cuſtom of this maner then was, and may be ſo ſtill, That the woman hath not her free-bench, but the third part of the land; or her thirds, as the common expreſſion is. Inquiſ. 35 Hen. III.

[L] That K. Henry I granted to that Priory the Tithes of his own royal demeſnes here, only, and not the Tithes of this whole pariſh, of which ſome Part belonged to other perſons, is plain from theſe words of the grant.——"Decimam plenarie de omni Dominio meo de Hetſelda, in boſco "& plano quicunque inde aliquid teneat, & de pathnagio, "de porcellis, vitulis, agnis, caſeis, & omnibus rebus "ad dominium pertinentibus. . . . ." [M] In 1244, the ſame King commands Iſabella de Brus to ſatisfy Robert de Quincy and Helene his wife [ſee above, p. 61.] concerning her dowry, which ſhe ought to have of the lands that had belonged to John le Scot, Earl of Cheſter, her former huſband; Upon her refuſal, the King cauſed the third part of Writtle and Hatfield to be ſeized. Placita Term. Trin. 28 Hen. III. coram rege.

[N] This Robert Brus had five ſons and nine daughters. Edward his ſecond ſon was killed in Ireland, the other three, Neil, Thomas, and Alexander, falling into the hands of K. Edw. I. were ſacrificed to his cruelty and revenge by the hands of the executioner: Neil at Berwick, in 1306, Thomas and Alexander at Carliſle, in 1307.

* Hereford and Hertford were anciently ſpelled the ſame way, both being from Heꞃe and Foꞃd, Vadum Militare, excluding the Conceit of A Hart in a Ford, the Arms of Hertford.

without iſſue; by the firſt he had Margery, married to Walter Steuart; ſhe dyed by a fall from her horſe when with child; Robert Steuart King of Scotland was cut out of her belly after her fall.

This Maner remained in the Crown till K. Edward II. gave it to Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, and to his wife Elizabeth, ſeventh daughter of K. Edward I. and the heirs of their body (i). But Richard le Waleys, who dyed in 1330, held the third part of this maner of Hathfield of the King in ca. The ſaid Humfrey dyed in 1321.——John de Bohun, his ſon, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, departing this life in 1335, without iſſue, was ſucceeded by his next brother——Humfrey. And he dying 15 Octob. 1361, unmarried, had for ſucceſſor——Humfrey de Bohun, ſon of his brother William Earl of Northampton (k). He married Joane, daughter of Richard Earl of Arundel; and, at the time of his deceaſe, 17 Janu. 1372, left two daughters, Elianor, wife of Thomas of Woodſtock, ſixth ſon to K. Edw. III. and Mary, wife of Henry Earl of Derby eldeſt ſon of John of Gaunt Duke of Lancaſter afterwards K. Henry IV.

Thomas of Woodſtock enjoyed this eſtate till 1397, when he was taken off by K. Richard II. and his lands confiſcated. He had two daughters, Anne and Iſabel.

Anne was married to Edmund Earl of Stafford ſlain in the battle of Shrewſbury 22 July 1403. In 1421, a partition of the eſtates of Humfrey de Bohun, the laſt Earl of Eſſex of this family, being made between K. Henry V. and this Anne, as coheirs to thoſe eſtates,——Anne had for her purparty, among other things, the maner of Hatfield, then valued at 81 l. 4 s. 7 d. ½. per ann. a Foreſt, a Park, and ſeven woods. [ſee above, p. 453.].

Humfrey Stafford, her ſon, held this maner of Kynges-Hatfeild, and the maner of Bromſho, which was a member and parcel of the ſame (l). On account of his alliance with the royal Family, he was advanced by K. Henry VI. 14 Septemb. 1444, to the title of Duke of Buckingham. And, 27 July 1459, was killed, fighting for that King, at the battle of Northampton. —— Henry, his grandſon [namely, the ſon of his ſon Humfrey, who had been ſlain at the battle of St. Alban's] then only four years old, was his heir (m). But being attainted of high-treaſon, and beheaded in 1483, the maners of Hatfeild Broad-oak, Ongar, and Vances: and the Hundreds of Harlow and Ongre; which he had, fell to the Crown (n).—Edward Stafford his ſon, was reſtored to his Honors and Eſtates: But, 17 May 1521, falling a ſacrifice to the malice of Thomas Wolſey, this became again forfeited to the Crown.

K. Edward VI. in 1547, granted to Sir Richard Riche, Lord Riche, and his heirs, the maners of Hatfeild Braddocke and Bromeſhobury, otherwiſe King's-Hatfeild; Hatfeild Park; the Foreſt, Chace, and Springs of Hatfeild, and Hatfeild maner; and a wind-mill; then worth 80 l. 9 s. 8 d. per ann. clear: To be holden of the King by the ſervice of one knight's fee (o). He dyed 12 June 1566, holding of the Queen, by the 20th part of a knight's-fee, and yearly rent of 13 l. 16 s. 4 d. this maner, park, chaſe, &c. with the Hundreds of Ongar and Harlow, and the Ward-Staff of the ſame Hundreds; then valued at 101 l. 15 s. 10 d. (p) [O]. His ſon—Robert, Lord Riche, who dyed 27 Febru. 1580-1, held this maner; the Park, then diſparked, and all the premiſſes, with the Ward-ſtaff (q). They continued in that noble family till the failure of iſſue-male by the death of Charles Lord Riche, Earl of Warwick, which happened 24 Auguſt 1673. The eſtates being afterwards divided between the ſeveral coheirs mentioned above, p. 102, and 419, Sir Charles Barrington Bart. in right of his mother, Anne, daughter of Robert Riche, the third Earl of Warwick of this Family, had this maner of Hatfeild-Broad-Oak, with appertenances. This naturally leads me to give here an account of that ancient Family of Barrington, which was ſo long ſettled in this pariſh.

2. BARRINGTON-HALL,

Which ſtands a mile and a half north from the Church, was their ancient ſeat. But moſt of it is pulled down; and only a farm-houſe remaining. The maner of Barrington hath been all along in that Family, upon record.

They either gave name to, or took their name from, the Pariſh of Barrington in Cambridgeſhire.

The firſt mentioned in their pedigree, is Sir Odonel, or Odynel, de Barenton, Baron of Wegon, deſcended from . . . . Barenton, who ſerved Emma, Queen of K. Ethelred, father of King Edward the Confeſſor, and had the cuſtody of Hatfeild foreſt. He was deprived of his poſſeſſions at the Conqueſt [P]; but his ſon —— Sir Euſtace de Barenton, being ſervant to K. Hen. I. obtained from him the cuſtody of this foreſt, and withall to hold in peace all his lands in Rameſden, Hatfeild, Writtle, Ravensfeild, Berking, Haring, Slyford, &c. His ſon —— Humfrey lived in the reigns of K. Henry I. Stephen, and K. Hen. II.

[O] Hence it appears that the ſervice of the Ward Staff came as low as Qu. Elizabeth's reign. In the valuation of the Revenues of the Priory in this pariſh, we find, that there was paid into the King's hands 11 s. and to the King's Bailiff of the Hundred of Harlowe for the Ward Staff 3 s. 4 d. There was a rate by the name of Ward-Penny, collected in the Hundred, from all eſtates but thoſe particularly excepted. The proceſſion of the Ward-Staff, and the land-owners under it, is entirely loſt, unleſs a copy might be found in the evidence-houſe in Hatfield Church, where are great numbers of writings relating to the Monaſtery and Lordſhip. For a further account of the Ward-Staff, ſee the beginning of Ongar-Hundred.

[P] Mr. Selden in his Preface to Eadmer, p. 15, acquaints us, That Radulfus de Barentona was one of the perſons ſworn to take the Conqueror's Survey in the Hundred of Trepſlau, in the county of Cambridge. This Ralph I ſhould rather believe a Norman, who had a grant of Barenton; for the text ſhews it had French compilers, and William did not truſt to Engliſh enquirers. Tho' in the place of Mr. Selden's here quoted, Franci & Angli are mentioned.

and had a confirmation of the foreſaid eſtates; and of lands at Bilchanger; and the foreſt of Hatfeild. Alberic de Vere granted him the maner of Barrington's in Chigwell; and he had the maner of Kelvedon, in marriage with Greſild ſiſter of Sir Ralph Marcy. —— Humfrey his ſon, lived in the reigns of K. Henry II. Richard I. and John. He was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1197, an office of great authority in thoſe days. By Amicia his wife, daughter of Sir William, third ſon of Sir Geffrey de Mandeville Earl of Eſſex, who gave him his lands in Sheperide, he had —— Sir Nicolas, the firſt who, we are ſure, lived here. He held the offices of Woodward and chief Foreſter of Hatfield-foreſt, and ſummoned before him the regarders, verderers, and agiſters in the foreſt of Eſſex. His firſt wife was, Mary daughter of John Bovile; and the ſecond, Maud daughter of Sir Ralph Mortoft. By the firſt he had no iſſue; but by the ſecond he had ſeven ſons; and one daughter, Margaret, married to Sir James Umfrevill.—Sir Nicolas Barrington the eldeſt ſon and heir, living in part of the reigns of K. Henry III. and Edward I. married Agnes daughter and heir of Sir William Chetwynd, and had by her three ſons, and four daughters.——Sir Nicolas, the eldeſt ſon flouriſhed in the time of K. Edward II. and III. was Knight of this ſhire in 1308 and 1313, and with Alice his wife, daughter and heir of Sir Richard Belhouſe had 10 l. rent in Weſthall, upon his father's ſettling on him the maners of Triplow, Hatfield, Chigwell, Bullinhach, &c. By his ſaid wife he had four ſons, Nicolas, Thomas, Roger, and Sir Philip; which laſt having Barrington-hall in Ramſden, married Margaret daughter of Sir William Tey, and was father of Nicolas Barrington of Raleigh-Park Eſq; [ſee under that pariſh.] —— Nicolas, the eldeſt ſon, by Emma his wife, daughter and coheir of Sir Robert Baard, acquired a conſiderable addition to his eſtates; and had by her four ſons, and one daughter. —— Sir John, the eldeſt ſon, was one of the Knights of this ſhire in 1330, had King Edward the third's letters patent, confirming to him all his lands at Hatfield; the cuſtody of the foreſt there, at the rent of 17 s. and the office of William de Montfichet in the foreſt, injoyning that all foreſters and officers of the foreſt ſhould be obſervant to him: referring to the charters of K. Stephen, Henry II. and III. Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir John Blomvile, was his wife, by whom he had John, and Edward. —— John, the eldeſt ſon, who firſt bore the name of Barrington inſtead of Barenton, was living inthe reigns of K. Henry IV, and V. and took to wife Alice, one of the daughters of Thomas Battle, younger ſon of Sir John Battle of Onger-Park, and had by her, Thomas; Humfrey: and Elizabeth married to John Sulyard Eſquire, —— Thomas, the eldeſt ſon and heir, was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1451. He dyed 5 April 1472, and Anne his wife, daughter and coheir of Sir John Holbeach, the very next day; and lie both buried in this Church, with an Epitaph [Q]. He doth not certainly appear to have had any iſſue, but to have been ſucceeded, by his brother —— Humfrey, that married Margaret, daughter of —— Bretton. She dyed in 1479, after her huſband [R]; and her ſon and heir is ſaid to be —— Humfrey (r). —— Nicolas, ſon of Humfrey, dyed 27 Septemb. 1505. By his firſt wife, Anne, daughter of Thomas Darcy, of Tolleſhunt Darcy Eſq; he had two ſons, Richard, and Nicolas. Elizabeth, his ſecond wife ſurvived him; but no iſſue by her is recorded: ſhe was married again to Parker.—Richard the eldeſt ſon, dying ſoon after his father without iſſue, was ſucceeded by his brother—Nicolas. He was created a Knight-banneret 28 April 1512, and dyed 22 July 1515 (s) [S]. By Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Sir John Brocket of Brocket-hall in Hertfordſhire, [re-married to William Boughton of Warwickſhire] he left his only ſon and heir —— John, then ſix years old (t). He married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Bonham of Bradwell near Coggeſhall Eſq; by Catharine his wife ſiſter to John Lord Marney; and dyed 23 Septemb. 1537, leaving by her —— Thomas, his only ſon and heir aged ſeven years (u). In 1562 he ſerved the office of High Sheriff for Eſſex and Hertfordſhire; and in 1571 received the Honor of Knighthood. He ſerved again the office of High-Sheriff for Eſſex, in part of the year 1580. And was one of the Knights for this ſhire in the Parliament that met the 14th of Qu. Elizabeth. He had two wives. The firſt was, Alice, daughter of Sir Henry Parker, by whom he had a daughter Elizabeth, married to Edward Harris of Southminſter Eſq; His ſecond wife was Winifred, youngeſt daughter and co heir of HENRY POLE Lord Montacute, relict of Sir Thomas Haſtings; which Henry was ſon to Richard Pole Knight of the Garter, by Margaret Plantagenet ſiſter and heir of Edward Earl of Warwick, and daughter of George Duke of Clarence, younger brother to King Edward IV. hence they quarter the Royal Arms [T]. He held alſo, the maners of Matching-Barnes, and Brent-hall; and 120 acres, in this pariſh: And the maners of Barringtons in Chigwell, and Magdalen-Laver. Inquiſ. 7 Hen. VIII.

[T] The fate of this noble Family of Pole was particularly hard and unhappy; and chiefly on account of their relation to the Crown of England, through this Lady Margaret Plantagenet, who was allowed by Parliament, in 1513, to bear the title of Counteſs of Saliſbury. By her huſband Sir Richard Pole ſhe had four ſons, Henry father of the Lady Winifred Barrington; Geffrey; Arthur; and Reginald. Henry was charged by his brother Geffrey with a deſign to depoſe K. Henry VIII. and advance his brother Reginald Pole, the Cardinal, to the throne, for which he was beheaded. Their mother, the Lady Margaret, at ſeventy years of age, was impriſoned for two years after ſentence, then beheaded, in reality for no other crime but being of kin to her ſon Reginald. At the time of her execution, ſhe would not lay her head down to the block, ſaying, 'That was for 'Traytors;' but ſhook about her gray hairs, and bad the this ſecond wife he had Francis; Henry, one of the Gentlemen-penſioners that dyed without iſſue: and Catharine married to William ſon and heir of Sir Ralph Bourchier Knt. of Beningborough in Yorkſhire.——Francis, the eldeſt ſon and heir, ſucceeded to a great eſtate. He was one of the Repreſentatives for this County in the Parliament that met 43 Elizab. in all the Parliaments of K. James I. except the ſecond; and in the three firſt Parliaments of K. Charles I. Having received the honor of knighthood, 7 May 1603; he was advanced to the degree of a Baronet, 22 May 1611, at the firſt Inſtitution of that Dignity, being the 20th in order. By his wife, Joane, daughter of Sir Henry Cromwell, alias. Williams, of Hinchingbrook in Huntingdonſhire, Knt. he had four ſons, and five daughters. The ſons were, Sir Thomas, his eldeſt ſon and heir; Robert, who married Dorothy, Daughter of Sir Thomas Eden of Suffolk, Knt. widow of . . . Barrett, whoſe Poſterity were at Lacheleys, in Steple-Bumſted in Eſſex; Francis of London, who married a daughter of Richard Dowſet, and left a ſon Francis; John, a captain, who dyed in Germany: The daughters of Sir Francis were, Elizabeth, married to Sir James Altham Knt. and afterwards to Sir William Maſham Bart. Mary wife of Sir Gilbert Gerard of Harrow on the Hill; Winifred, wife of Sir William Mewes, or Meux, Knt. Ruth, wife of Sir George Lamplugh, of Cumberland, Knt. and Joane, wife of Sir Richard Everard of Much-Waltham, Bart. The eldeſt ſon — Sir Thomas Barrington Knt. and Bart. married, firſt, Frances, daughter and coheir to John Gobert of Coventry, Eſq; ſecondly, Judith, daughter of Sir Rowland Lytton of Knebworth in Hertfordſhire, Knt. She dyed in 1657, without iſſue; but by his firſt lady he had three ſons, John, Oliver, and Gobert: and a daughter, Lucy, married firſt to William Cheyney Eſq; afterwards to Sir Toby Tyrell, Bart. both of Buckinghamſhire. Sir Thomas was engaged in the Parliament's ſervice, as a Committee-man for this County, &c. choſen one of the Knights of the Shire 15 Charles I. and one of the Burgeſſes for Colcheſter 1640. He dyed in 1644. His third ſon, Sir Gobert Barrington, Knt. was ſeated at Little Badow, and an account of him and his poſterity is given above, p. 22. ——Sir John Barrington Knt. and Bart. the eldeſt ſon and heir, dyed 24 March 1682. He married Dorothy, daughter of Sir William Lytton of Knebworth in Hertfordſhire, Knt. and had by her five ſons, Thomas; Francis; John; William; and another Francis, who dyed young or unmarried [V].

John Barrington Eſq; the third ſon, being of Dunmow-Park, married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Hawkins of Biſhop's-Stortford, Gent. and had his ſon — John, who, by Suſan, daughter of Mr. George Draper of Hichin in Hertfordſhire, had —— John, that ſucceeded to the title of Baronet, as we ſhall ſee preſently.

Thomas Barrington Eſq; eldeſt ſon of Sir John, was born 29 Auguſt 1643, and dyed 31 Janu. 1681, aged 38, in the life-time of his father. He had married Lady Anne, daughter of Robert, and at length coheir to Charles, Earl of Warwick. [ſee p. 102, 419.] [W]. They had 3 ſons, and 2 daughters; John; Charles; Riche: Mary; and Anne. Riche, and Mary, dyed unmarried. The elder ſon——, Sir John, born 16 October 1670, ſucceeded, in 1682, his grand-father in honour and eſtate: He was educated at Trinity college Cambridge, and gave the plate which bears his name there. Afterwards, for his further improvement he travelled into foreign parts, from whence he returned 20 Octob. 1691, but dyed the 26th of November following, of the ſmall-pox, unmarried.——Sir Charles, his next brother and heir, married firſt Bridget, ſole daughter of Sir John Munſon of Broxborn in Hertfordſhire, Bart. and afterwards Anna-Maria, daughter of William Lord Fitz-William of Milton in Northamptonſhire, but had no iſſue by either. Sir Charles was ſeven times elected Knight of this Shire againſt powerful oppoſers, being extremely beloved; and in the reign of Queen Anne was Deputy Lieutenant and Vice Admiral of Eſſex. He dyed generally lamented, 29 Janu. 1714-15, and is buried in St. Catharine's chapel in the chancel of this church, with his anceſtors [X]. His eſtate in the Iſle of Wight he ſuffered to go to his heir at law Sir John Barrington Bart. ſon of John Barrington of Dunmow, his father's younger brother juſt mentioned before. That in Eſſex he gave to his ſiſter Anne, wife of Charles Shales Eſq; for life, and to her children after her. Upon her deceaſe, the eldeſt ſon, Riche Barrington Shales Eſq; ſucceeded, and upon his death — John Barrington Shales Eſq; his younger brother, was his heir, and is preſent poſſeſſor.

The Priory,

Being part of the eſtate of the Barrington-family in this pariſh, and having been their Seat for a conſiderable time, I therefore place the account of it here.

It ſtood at the eaſt end of this Church, and was a large timber building, but hath been ſome time demoliſhed, and the ſite of it converted into gardens.

J. Weever hath led ſeveral perſons into a miſtaken notion, that it was founded by Robert de Vere, firſt of the name, and third Earl of Oxford of that illuſtrious family [Y]. Whereas in executioner get her head as he could; ſo it was lopt off in a very unſeemly manner. Lord Herbert's Life of Hen. VIII.

[V] Sir John Barrington was Sheriff of this County in 1655.

[W] She had for her ſecond huſband Sir Richard Franklyn of Rickmerſworth, Bart.

[X] Arms of Barrington. Argent, 3 cheveronels, gules, in chief a file of 3 lambeaux, or, a label of 3 points, azure. Creſt. On a torſe argent and gules, a man coupe below the ſhoulders; garment, paly argent and or; crined ſable; a band, argent; eſcarfioned gules. A round cap on his head, ſable, bordered argent. They quartered, the arms of Clarence; being England and France quarterly, a file of 3 lambeaux argent. Pole; parti per pale, or and azure, a ſaltier engrailed, counterchanged. — They quartered alſo the Arms of Nevill, Beauchamp, Warwick, Montacute, Mandevil, &c. —— This account of that family is chiefly extracted from their Pedigree, MS. from their Epitaphs in this Church; from the Baronettage, Vol. I. and other good Authorities.

[Y] This induſtrious Man having found here the Monument of Robert, the third Earl of Oxford, with an Epitaph in old French, which he has printed; he thence concluded, and affirmed, that he really was the Founder. The ſaid truth it was founded, about the year 1135, by Alberic de Vere, ſecond of the name, and father to Alberic the firſt Earl of Oxford, for Black-Monks. He dedicated it to God, St. Mary, and St. Melanius Redonenſis: This Melanius was a Britiſh, or Armorican Saint, to whom a very famous Abbey at Rennes in Bretagne is dedicated. The founder probably made it a cell to that foreign abbey. But Alberic the third, or his ſon Robert who was buried in it, might increaſe the revenues, and make it an independant priory. The Founder endowed it, beſides the ſite and appertenances, with lands in this pariſh, called Tapers mead, 4 acres; South-mead, 4 acres; Sheepcote-field, 10 acres; Brickhill-cloſe, 5 acres; Eaſtland, and Witchfield, 4 acres; Stone field, 11 acres; Nine acres field; Millfield, 18 acres: Caſsfield 16 acres; and Monwood, 20 acres. — They had alſo a Maner here called from them Priors, with the following demeſnes, Sheptons garden, or Shephouſe-yard, Coldwell, Bonehouſe, Maidwells croft, Sewhalls, Sewall, Smyths, Caſſes, Granthams, Boults, More-mead, and Gorrells Noſterfeld-maner. —Alſo Downehall, Buſhes, in Buſh-end: and part of the Tithes in this pariſh.

Likewiſe in this county, the Rectories, or impropriate Tithes, of Great Canfield, Bumſted-Helion, Thunderley, Manuden, Fernham, and of Abingdon and Silverſley, in Cambridgeſhire.—The maner of Fulborne, in this laſt county; and that of Stapleton, in Buckinghamſhire: and meſſuages and lands in Caſtle-Camps, Shady-Camps, and half a fee in Baberham, in Cambrigeſhire. Beſides portions of Tithes in Ulting, and Hedingham-Sible (w).

The whole revenues of this Priory were valued, at the ſuppreſſion, at 157 l. 3 s. 2 d. ½. Speed. 122 l. 13 s. 2 d. ½. Dugdale. And the number of Monks in it were nine.

The Patronage of it was all along in the noble Family of De Vere Earls of Oxford [Z]. But they did not obtain it at the Diſſolution, as they did moſt of the other things of their foundation. For, the ſite and revenues of this were granted by K. Henry VIII. and Qu. Mary, to

Thomas Noke (x). He dyed poſſeſſed of them 27 July 1559.——Robert Noke, his ſon, had licenſe 3 Janu. 1564, to ſell them to

Thomas Barrington Eſq; (y). The Family thereupon quitted Barrington-hall, and removed hither, making it the place of their reſidence; till ſome part of this century. Then it being grown old, and ſomewhat decayed, Sir Charles Barrington conſulted a workman about taking of it down, but gave him no orders to do it. However, the workman, without any orders, demoliſhed it in Sir Charles's abſence; which gave him, as it well might, great uneaſineſs. After that, he came and lived in a little houſe of Sir Richard Everard's, at Great Waltham. His ſucceſſor,

Charles Shales Eſq; repaired a houſe almoſt over againſt the ſite of the Priory. But his ſon ——

John Barrington Shales Eſq; has built an elegant houſe north of the ſite of the Priory, and incloſed it in a Park.

Concerning Barentines or Barrington-Fee, in Balingdon, See above, p. 315.

3. BROMESHO-BURY

Signifies Broom-hill capital manſion. It ſtands above a mile, eaſt from the Church, near High-Roding.

'Tis a Hamlet belonging to this pariſh; and was for many years included in the capital maner of Hatfield. In 1303 it was poſſeſſed by Robert de Brus, who reſided here. There is extant a grant from him, dated from Bromeſhoo, to the Convent of Tremhale, of a ſhoulder of every deer that ſhould be killed in his Park of Hatfeld. It is in old French, and in Mr. Ray's hands.

Humfrey Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, who dyed in 1460, held this maner as member and parcel of the maner of King's-Hatfield, of the King in capite, by knight's ſervice (z). See above, p. 503. It attended the fate of that unfortunate Family, and fell to the Crown.

In 1544, K. Henry VIII. granted this maner of Bromeſhow-bury, with ſeveral parcels of land [A], to Thomas Joſſelyn, and Dorothy his wife, and the heirs of the ſaid Thomas; to hold Roberts's effigies of wood, croſs-legged, and in armour, lies now in the Chancel, having been removed, as it is ſaid, from the Chapel in the Priory: More probably it lay in an old Church, which was re-built. J. Weever's Authority being embraced without examination, his miſtaken account, of Robert's being the founder, paſſed ſo well as to be hung upon a table in the Chancel, importing, That this Priory of Black Monks was founded by him, about the beginning of the reign of K. Henry III. Indeed if Weever were in an error, it is not to be wondered that it ſhould paſs here; and it would have paſſed ſtill, if the truth did not appear from the copy of original Charters, great quantities of which having been left by Edward Earl of Oxford, at his ſeat at Earl's Colne, when he alienated it to Roger Harlakenden; they came from that family to Richard Androwes Eſq; One of them was as follows.

Albericus comes Alberici de Ver filius omnibus hominibus ſuis Francis & Anglis ſalutem. Sciatis me conceſſiſſe & ſuper altare Beate Marie de Hetfeldia poſuiſſe donum patris mei quod fecerat Deo & Sancte Marie, & Sancto Melanio Redonenſi, & monachis ejus, ſuper eccleſia de Hetfeldia-Regis, & de omnibus rebus quas habent monachi Sancti Melanii in terra patris mei & in mea, ſive in terris ſeu in decimis, & hoc inconvulſe tenere & obſervare in capitulo Hetfeldie, coram patre meo, & multis aliis, quorum nomina hic ſcripta ſunt, promiſi, & ſicut eleemoſynam meam dominicam in perpetuum manutenere & defendere aſſecuravi. Pater meus Albericus, fratres mei Gaufridus, & Robertus, Robertus Capellanus, Robertus Conſtabularius, Radulphus filius Garini, Willielmus filius Hunfridi, cum multis aliis.

The inſtrument by which Alberic de Vere enfeoffed the Convent with what Tithes he had in this Pariſh, had affixed to it by a harp-ſtring, as a label, a ſhort black-hafted knife, inſtead of a ſeal. To which theſe words in the grant referred. . . . "Per iſtum cultellum Albericus de Vere tertius "feoffavit Prioratum et conventum de Hatfeild-Regis, cum "omnibus decimis in villa predicta. . . . ." Concerning this old manner of ſealing deeds, ſee Lambert or Lambarde, in his Perambulation of Kent, p. 318, and Biſhop Nicolſon's Hiſtoric. Library, edit. 1714. p. 243.

[Z] The names of the Priors I have been able to recover, are, only, John de Colcheſter Prior in 1372. And Richard Stondon, the laſt Prior, who ſurrendered this houſe in 1534.

[A] Namely Slowfeild, 50 acres; High-feilds, 50 acres; Great Red-lands, 20 acres; Red-land-cloſe, 5 acres, Litlefeild, 20 acres; a paſture, 2 acres; Dovehouſe ſhott, 14 acres; Chaunge, 35 acres; Home-feild; Grove-feild 13 13 acres; Cocks-ſhott, alias Buſhe leaſe, 5 acres; the milking Hope, 3 acres, the Long Hope, 4 acres; Long Mead, in capite, by the 20th part of a knight's fee (a). —Indeed K. Edward VI. made a grant of it afterwards, with the maner of Hatfeild-Braddocke, to Sir Richard Riche (b). —— But this laſt grant was ineffectual, or void. For the Jocelyn Family remained in poſſeſſion of it (c); and do ſtill to this day: it belongs to Sir Conyers Jocelyne Bart. [ſee an account of this ancient family, p. 466.]

This old ſeat is moated round; as were formerly the caſtles and caſtellated manſions of moſt lords of maners, on purpoſe to receive and ſecure tenants cattle, upon an enemy's approach, till the beacons could be fired, and the country raiſed.

4. The Maner of BALLINGTON's, and RISE.

This is now generally called the Rye; and the manſion houſe is about a mile weſt north-weſt from the Church.

Riſe, or Riſes-Marſes, hath for ſome time gone along with Ballingtons, which lies nearer to the Foreſt gate. Theſe together are called a maner, though holden of the grand maner of Hatfield, and upon alienation are ſubject to a fine. The name of Marſes, or Morſes, ſeems to be from Ralph de Marci, who held lands in Hatfield, at the time of the Survey, of the fee of Hamo.

Theſe two are very reaſonably ſuppoſed to be the two parcels, that are entered in Domeſday-book, under the names of Belindune and Siriceſlea; within the uncommon, and at preſent unknown, Diſtrict of the Half-Hundred of Thunreſlau [A]. In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Belindune belonged to Aluric, a free-man; and Siriceſlea to Harold, as part of the maner of Hatfeld. At the time of the general Survey, the former was holden by Peter de Valoines, and his under-tenant Ralph Fatatus; and the latter by Hamo Dapifer, and one Ralph his under-tenant [B].

Who were the owners of them after that, for many years, we do not find.

Riſe-Marſes and Ballingtons maner, with the appertenances, and 40 meſſuages, 20 gardens, 6 dove-houſes, 600 acres of arable, 70 of meadow, 300 of paſture, 100 of heath and furze, and 40 s. rent, with appertenances in Hatfield, were recovered by Edward More and Ralph Morrice, againſt William Towſe Gent. and Roger Marfield (d).

Richard Francke Eſq; who was Sheriff of Eſſex in 1602, held the maner, or meſſuage, called Riſſe-Morſes and Eves, of Sir Francis Barrington, Knt. and Bart. as of his maner of Hatfield, by fealty, ſuit of court, and annual rent of 41s. 5d. then worth 10 l. per ann. And the maner of Bollingtons with appertenances in Hatfield, by fealty, ſuit of court, and rent of 6 s. 8 d. worth by the year 4 l. In this pariſh he likewiſe had a meſſuage called Robert a Brayntres, Ongars, Thomas by the Wood: And Bylegh monaſtery in Malden, &c. He married Dorothy, daughter and co-heir of John Leventhorp of Albury in Hertfordſhire, Eſq; And dying 27 October 1627, was ſucceeded by his ſon—Sir Leventhorp Francke Knt. (e) that married . . . . daughter of Sir Thomas Cottele Knt. a German, and had by her ſix daughters. He ſold this eſtate to

Benjamin Woodroff D. D. This Dr. Woodroff married a daughter of Sir John Stonehouſe of Amberden-Hall in Depden, Knt. and left only two daughters. Of the heirs of Woodroff, Geffrey Stane Eſq; purchaſed it, and improved the houſe by gardens and out-houſes into a very convenient ſeat. It was built after the model of Piſho-Bury and of Hamels, both in Hertfordſhire, deſigned by Inigo Jones, but is ſomewhat leſs than either of them. Mr. Stane had, by Mary his wife, only one daughter Sarah, married to

Richard Chamberlayne Eſq; Sheriff of Eſſex in 1721, on whoſe ſon —— Stane Chamberlayne Eſq; Mr. Stane ſettled the eſtate. He married 22 Auguſt 1745, . . . daughter and heir of Thomas Smith Eſq; of Weſt Kennet in Wiltſhire, niece and heir of Robert Plumer late of Hoddeſdon in Hertfordſhire Eſq;

5. The LEA

Stands about a mile and a half ſouth-weſt from the Church.

'Tis reaſonably ſuppoſed to be what is placed in Domeſday-book under the name of Bineſlea, from whence the name of Lea came, by dropping the firſt part of the word. It was then in the ſame Half-Hundred of Thunreſlau, and holden by the ſame perſon, viz. Peter de Valoines, as the laſt: but had belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Uluuin [C].

It is a reputed maner, dependent on that of Hatfield. We have no account of its owners till K. Edward the IVth's reign. Then Thomas Urſwick, who dyed in 1479, held a meſſuage called le Lee, alias le Lee-Hall, 240 acres of arable, 18 of meadow, 37 of paſture, 12 of wood, and 50 s.

5 acres; Cocks-ſhott, 3 acres. Lett. pat. 36 Hen. VIII. In the Inquiſition after the death of Sir Thomas Joſſelyn, Slowfeild is called 54 acres; High-feild 57 acres; and there is added Downe-Grove 16 acres. Inquiſ. 5 Eliza. June 12.

[A] This Half Hundred of Thunreſlau we find mentioned only in Domeſday-book; as comprehending the Maners of Belchamp, Belindune, Bineſlea, and Walla in Great Hallingbury. How theſe few Maners ſhould conſtitute a Half-Hundred; or whether Thunreſlau is an older name for this Half-Hundred than Harlow, we are by no means able to determine. However, we do not chuſe to indulge ourſelves in trifling and ill-grounded conjectures.

rent, in the vills of Hatfield-Regis, Halingbury-parva, and Matching, of Anne Ducheſs of Buckingham, as of her maner of King's-Hatfield. Catharine, wife of Henry Langley; Anne, wife of John Doreward; Elizabeth, Joane, and Mary, were his daughters and coheirs (f).

This Eſtate ſeems at one time to have gone with Riſe and Ballingtons, for, according to the ſurvey of the lands of the Priory of Hatfield, 2 s. were payable to Thomas Francke, at his maner of Le Ley.

Some years ago the Lea was in Mr. Davenport: He left it to his grandſon —— Mr. Charles Hoy, who ſold it to Geffrey Stane Eſq; and it was ſettled, as Riſe, upon his grandſon —— Stane Chamberlayne Eſq; [D].

6. DOWNE-HALL,

Almoſt three miles ſouth-weſt from the Church, is ſo named from the Saxon ꝺun, a hill; for it is beautifully ſituated on a riſing ground, above the ſtream that runs thro' Hatfield town, having a fine proſpect over the adjacent country. Some of the lands belonging to it are within the maner of Oveſham hall, and holden of it by copy of court-roll. In the compoſition made between the Convent of Lees and the Biſhop of London, to endow the Vicarage of Matching with the tythes of corn and hay on the eaſt ſide of the road leading from Hangre to Stortford, it is called la Donne [E].

This is with great reaſon ſuppoſed to be what is ſtyled in Domeſday-book Belcamp; and had belonged in Edward the Confeſſor's reign to Uluuin [F]. And, indeed, if any part of the pariſh deſerves the name of Belcamp, or Fairfield, for the agreeableneſs of its ſituation, this has the faireſt pretence. At the time of the general ſurvey, it belonged to Alberic de Vere, whoſe ſucceſſor made it part of the endowment of Hatfield-Priory. In the account of its Revenues, taken a little before the ſuppreſſion, the Farm of Downe-hall was let for 6 l. a year.

On the 8th of June 1540, K. Henry VIII. granted the meſſuage called Downe-hall to William Berners, Walter Farre, and William Glaſcock. The 28th of the ſame month Farre had licenſe to alienate his part to William Glaſcock Gent. of Great Dunmow (g). He dyed 3 Dec. 1579. —— Richard, his ſon and ſucceſſor, then aged 32 years (h), married Elizabeth, daughter of William Brown of Bobbingworth, and had by her three ſons, Richard; Robert of Ireland; Philip, who dyed without iſſue; and 7 daughters. —— Richard the eldeſt ſon, married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Bowles of Wellington, in Hertfordſhire, and dying 5 February 1624, left

Elizabeth, his only daughter and heir (i). She was married to John Ballett Eſq; deſcended from the Balletts of Ufford in Suffolk (k), and had by him 8 ſons and 2 daughters. She dyed 13 Dec. 1649, and he 28 Decemb. 1673, and both lie buried in Matching Church. — Richard, the ſon, that inherited, left his eſtate to his nephew ——

John Ballett Eſq; He married a daughter of Richard Marriott, Vicar of Great Canfield, and had by her 3 ſons, and 3 daughters. —— John, the eldeſt ſon, ſold this eſtate to the Rt. Hon.

Robert Harley, Earl of Oxford, who gave it to the excellent Poet Matthew Prior, for his life. After his deceaſe, 18 September 1721, the Earl of Oxford improved it much, by plantations, cutting viſto's through a wood that is near it, and ſometimes made it the place of his retirement. It was purchaſed ſome years ago by

William Selwin Eſq; [ſee under Harlow.]

7. The maner of MATCHING-BARNES, with BRENT-HALL.

This lies upon the borders of Matching, about three miles ſouth from Hatfield Church. How the addition of Barnes came to it, I do not pretend to gueſs, unleſs it once belonged to Berners. If the Priory of St. Valery, to which it belonged at the time of the Survey, was a Ciſtercian Convent, that would eaſily account for the name. [ſee above, p. 436.] It was holden, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, by Godric, a freeman [G].

In K. Henry the Second's Charter of Confirmation to St. Valery, it is called Machekes (l).

The lands belonging to the Priory of St. Valery, which was a Priory alien, were granted away by K. Henry V. after their ſuppreſſion in the Parliament at Leiceſter. [ſee above, p. 407, 446.]

Nicholas Barrington, Eſq; is the firſt we find poſſeſſed of this afterwards, viz. in 1488. He dyed in 1505 (m), and his ſon and ſucceſſor —— Sir Nicolas, at the time of his deceaſe, 22 July 1515, held the maner of Matching Bernes of Edward Duke of Buckingham, and the maner of Brent-Hall (n): This deſcended as the reſt of the eſtate of the Barrington family.

Whether this maner was entirely in Hatfield, or partly in Matching, has been queſtioned upon the ſtrength of a Terrier, and of that inſtrument copied by Mr. Newcourt (o), which entitles the Vicar of Matching to all the Tythe of hay and corn on the eaſt ſide of the high-way between Stortford and Ongar [H]; and to four cheeſes LANCASTERS, a farm, whoſe houſe is ſituated about a mile and a quarter ſouth from the Church, belongs alſo to John Barrington, Eſq; It took its name from a family ſurnamed Lancaſter, who were here in the reign of K. Henry VI. (p).

BRANKTREES, about three quarters of a mile north-eaſt from the Church, was alſo denominated from a Family of this ſurname: a female heir of which brought it to the Jocelyns of Hide-hall. It has no Court kept, but quit-rents to the amount of 22 s. per ann. Some years ago, it was ſettled on charitable uſes by Mr. Lowe, as we ſhall ſhew preſently.

The FOREST and CHACE

Was anciently part of the King's demeſnes, who granted the cuſtody of it to ſome of the Barrington-family. In 1265, Humfrey Barenton held half a virgate in Heteſfeild, by the ſervice of keeping the King's Park and Wood in that Town (q). His ſon Sir Nicolas de Barrington held the offices of woodward and chief foreſter of Hatfield-Foreſt. His grandſon, Sir John, had a confirmation of thoſe offices, by letters patent of K. Edward III. in 1355, referring to the charters of K. Henry II. Stephen, and Henry III.

The Cuſtoms of this Hatfeild, or Takeley-Foreſt as it is otherwiſe called, are as follows. John Barrington Eſq; hath nine copſes of wood, beſides out-lands that lye open. Jacob Houblon Eſq; has as many, about thirty acres in a copſe one with another. When they fell any, they muſt incloſe it for nine years to preſerve the wood, and then it muſt lye open nine years more, before they fell it. The Poor are to have the hedges at the nine years end.

Mr. Barrington's Tenants belonging to the ancient Demeſnes, have the Right of Commoning for all ſorts of commoning cattle, all the year.

Jacob Houblon Eſq; has a Right of Common for Deer only, but not for any of his Tenants for their cattle. John Barrington Eſq; is lord of the manner, all waifs and ſtrays being brought to his court and pound. But Jacob Houblon Eſq; is lord of the ſoil, ſo that Mr. Barrington's Tenants can't dig clay without Mr. Houblon's leave. The whole contains above 2000 acres of land.

Robert Lord Riche, by indenture dated 30 Janu. 1576, did grant to Sir Thomas Barrington, Knt. and his heirs, all woods and trees in Buſh-end quarter, and Takeley quarter, except the land and ſoil, with liberty to incloſe them. See Sir Edward Coke's Reports. Paſch. 8 Jacobi. p. 779.

In 1661 Sir John Barrington, her ſon, purchaſed with the 600 l. the maner of Keers in Aythorp-Rothing, and ſettled it for the uſes appointed. [ſee above, p. 468.]

A Farm called Branktrees, juſt mentioned before, in this pariſh, was purchaſed by Mr. Samuel Lowe, Rector of High-Laver, who dyed 7 Dec. 1709, of Mr. Joſiah Thomlinſon, being 89 l. per ann. and ſettled for ever on the Corporation of the Sons of the Clergy, and Society for the Propagation of Religion in America.

Five pounds a year had been, before this time, ſettled by Mrs. Thomlinſon, the mother of Joſiah, for finding Waſt-coats for ſix poor widows of this pariſh, eight of Stonedon, and as many of High-Ongar, at five ſhillings each. This benefaction of hers not ſtanding good, becauſe ſhe was but tenant for life, Mr. Lowe charged the whole eſtate for the payment of it.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is ſituated in a conſpicuous part of the pariſh, to which the Priory was adjoining. It is a very handſome lofty building, having a ſteeple of ſtone at the weſt end, with a peal of ſix bells. The Church has a ſouth iſle, the Chancel a ſouth and north iſle, with a veſtry on each ſide [I]; all leaded: 'Tis the beſt wainſcotted Church in the county, for the ſupport of which are lands given by ſeveral perſons.

The Tythes of the capital Maner, or royal Lordſhip, in this pariſh, were given by K. Henry I. to the Priory of St. Botolph in Colcheſter; as we have ſeen above. Alberic de Vere gave to his foundation here the Tithes of what elſe he had, or we may ſuppoſe could procure, in the pariſh; namely of Priors-hall, Downe-hall, &c. In proceſs of time, the Priory of Hatfield claimed all the Tithes within this pariſh, and the tithable places thereof, as belonging to them as Rectors and proprietaries of this pariſh church: For the Monks were too apt to cheat even one another, and get wherever they could. But they came by way of compoſition to this final agreement, That all the Tithes of the King's lordſhip, and other places in this pariſh, ſhould be perpetually aſſigned without any contradiction to the Prior and Convent of Hatfield-Regis, and their ſucceſſors; they paying to the Prior and Convent of St. Botolph, and their ſucceſſors, the yearly ſum of three pounds, by way and in lieu of the portion of Tithes aforeſaid. This compoſition was confirmed by Biſhop Stokeſley, 16 Febru. 1532 (r). The Prior and Convent here having the great Tithes appropriated to them, ſupplied the Cure by their own members, till a Vicarage was ordained, which was before the year 1370; and they were patrons of it till their ſuppreſſion. By a compoſition in 1534, between Robert Noke Vicar here, and Richard the then Prior, this Vicarage was endowed in a better manner than it had been before. For, to enable the Vicar to ſupport himſelf, to pay the King's dues, and to maintain hoſpitality, they granted him, beſides his offerings and accuſtomed fees, all and all ſorts of Small Tythes, of what kind or nature ſoever (s).

After the ſuppreſſion, on the 24th of Decem. 1546, K. Henry VIII. granted to the Maſter, Fellows, and Scholars of Trinity-college in Cambridge, of his foundation, this Rectory, and Church, of Hatfield, with appertenances (t). On the 20th of November 1536, he had granted to the Vicar 53 s. 4 d. for his penſion; 13 s. 4 d. for two quarters of wheat; 12 d. for a load of ſtraw; 19 s. 8 d. to the Archdeacon for procurations and ſynodals; and 3 l. belonging to the late Priory of St. Botolphs (u). In purſuance of K. Henry's grant, the Vicarage is in the gift of the Impropriators, Trinity College in Cambridge. No inſtitution to it is found in the Regiſtry from the year 1619 till of late, which is not to be wondered at; the income of it bearing no proportion to the largeneſs of the Pariſh, and the great Burden of the Cure. So that it was, for the beſt part of an hundred years, not worth the Expences of Preſentation and Inſtitution, but went by way of ſequeſtration: the neat profits of it being ſaid to be only 6 l. per annum, beſides ſurplice fees [K].

Indeed Dr. Clarke Dean of Wincheſter, in the year 1679, intended an augmentation of 30 l. per ann. to ſeveral Vicarages, of which this had the favour to be one. But it fell ſo far ſhort that Mr. Stirling did not think fit to hold the Vicarage otherwiſe than by ſequeſtration. Towards the end of the laſt century Dr. Montague, Maſter of Trinity College, and the Fellows, upon granting a new leaſe of the Rectory, made an augmentation to the Vicarage of 24 l. per annum. And it is in their power, by a farther augmentation, to render it a competent maintenance.

There being no Vicarage-houſe in the time of Sir Charles Barrington, a houſe belonging to Sir Charles, having a ſmall ſpot of garden, anciently belonging to the Vicar, laid to it, was, by Sir Charles, given to Mr. Stirling for himſelf and his ſucceſſors, as Mr. Stirling ſaid. Upon this houſe and garden Mr. Stirling laid out 150 l. which he had treaſured up out of his livings of Matching and Hatfield, having been at no expence for diet, as he always did eat at Sir Charles's table. But he neglected to get a proper ſettlement of it, and upon the death of the donor nothing of a conveyance appeared.

A Chantry was founded in this Church, by Walter Percival and Robert Hanbury, to pray for their ſouls. The ſite of it is gueſſed to have been in Bread-ſtreet, that leads to High-Roding. At the ſuppreſſion of Chantries, it was valued at 7 l. 13 s 4 d. It was endowed with a meſſuage and lands in this pariſh; another meſſuage here, and in Matching; a meſſuage called Raynolds in Prittlewell, and Shopland; and divers lands and tenements, with appertenances, in Hadley, Thunderſley, and South Bemfleet.

Theſe were granted by K. Edward VI. in 1548, to Walter Farre, and Ralph Standiſh, who alienated, them in September the ſame year, to George Raye (w): And he, by licenſe dated 10 May 1549, to Thomas Everard (x). This latter had licenſe 12 March 1550, to ſell them to John Core, of London, Grocer, who dyed poſſeſſed of them 6 Decemb. 1552 (y). His ſon Richard Core ſold them, in 1571, to Henry Grey and Anne his wife; being deſcribed as 1 meſſuage, 2 gardens, 100 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 30 of paſture, 6 of wood, and 100 acr. of furze and heath (z). They have been diſperſed many years ago.

In 1568 Qu. Elizabeth granted to Edward Grimſton, and William le Grys, a tenement here called the Guild-houſe: And, in 1571, to Richard Hill, and William James, a tenement alſo here, called the old Guild-hall, with Sundaies-croft, two ſhops, and Dods meadow (a).

[K] If the College leaſed out to their Tenant all, and all maner of Tythes, including the Vicarial, when by the Act of Suppreſſion nothing more came to the King, and conſequently could be granted by him, than what belonged to Monaſteries; then upon the ſame foot the College might as well have leaſed out any other man's private eſtate. Theſe belonged undoubtedly to thoſe Guilds, or Societies, which were ſo common here before the Reformation.

This large Pariſh and Town is rated to the land-tax at 4419 l. 1 s. 9 d.

George Stirling, M. A. who had long poſſeſſed this Vicarage by way of ſequeſtration, did, 13 July 1717, take out the broad Seal, hearing another perſon was applying for it; the taking out of the ſeal was his ſecurity againſt the hungry pretender.

HALLINGBURY.

Two delightful pariſhes ſo called, ſtand in the north-weſt part of this Half-Hundred, upon the borders of Hertfordſhire; and are diſtinguiſhed from each other by the appellations of Great and Little. The name is otherwiſe written in records, Halingebia, Hallingbery, Hallingbury-burgh: And is formed either from the Saxon word, Hal, healthy; and the two words inᵹ, and bury, ſo often mentioned: or elſe from the word haliᵹ, holy, the reaſon of which laſt cannot at this diſtance of time be aſſigned. As for Haſlingbury, and Haſtingbury, they ſeem to be corruptions, or errors, of Map-makers.

It is moſt probable, that they were one during the Heptarchy, or after, by having the ſame name. They were both taken out of the Foreſt of Eſſex, and reckoned in it in 1227 (b).

10. GREAT HALLINGBURY

Is the largeſt of the two, as the name imports: It is otherwiſe called Hallingbury-Morley, from the noble Family of Morley, who were the chief lords here for a while.

At the time of the Survey there were two maners in this pariſh; 1. that of Halingebiri, and 2. that of Walle, now Wallbury. This latter was double the value of the other, and had feed for three times the number of hogs; therefore muſt have extended weſtward beyond the lane leading from Letchmore-Bank to Little Hallingbury; and, for reaſons to be given when we come at it, very probably took in Woodſide-Green, if not the manſion-houſe and gardens.

1. The maner of GREAT HALLINGBURY.

Great-Hallingbury-hall ſtands near the Church.

Two freemen were poſſeſſed of this maner in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: but at the time of the general ſurvey, it belonged to Roger de Otburville [L]. See above, p. 469.

William de Langvallei, mentioned above, p. 190, held this maner in 1200, and dyed in 1210. ——William, his ſon, dying about the year 1217, left an only daughter, named Hawiſe, which being put under the wardſhip of Hubert de Burgh, Earl of Kent, and Chief Juſtice of England, he married her to his ſon John de Burgh: He had with her the maners of Hallingbury and Lexden, in this county, and Walkern in Hertfordſhire. She departed this life in 1249, and her ſon, —— John de Burgh, had livery of her lands, and of this Maner among the reſt, in 1274 (c). He held it of the King in capite of the Barony of Launvaley. At the time of his deceaſe, in 1280, he left three daughters; Devorguill, ſecond wife of Robert Fitz-walter; Hawiſe, wife of Robert Greſley; and Chriſtian, a Nun at Chickſand (d). Devorguill dying about the beginning of K. Edward the IId's reign, her huſband enjoyed her eſtates by the courteſy of England. They had 3 daughters; for one of whom, named Chriſtian, he obtained licence (e) that Hallingbury ſhould be in her purparty [M]. She became a Nun in the Priory of Halwell near London, upon which, it may be preſumed, the inheritance devolved to her ſiſters.

One of them was married to John le Mareſhall, to whom Robert Fitz-Walter paſſed by fine, in 1315 this eſtate (f). Their ſon.——William le Mareſhall, was father of John le Mareſhall of Hengham in Norfolk, and of a daughter named Hawiſe. John dying in 1316, without iſſue, his ſiſter

Hawiſe ſucceeded him in his eſtates, which ſhe brought in marriage to Robert de Morle, or Morley (g), ſon of William de Morle, of Morley in Norfolk, who had ſummons to Parliament in 1299, 1304, 1305, 1306; As had Robert de Morley, the ſon, from 11 Edw. II. to 31 Edw. III. The latter was alſo, in right of his wife, hereditary Marſhall of Ireland; conſtituted Admiral in 1339, and 1355; and Conſtable of the Tower of London; being a famous warrior. He dyed in 1359 or 1360, poſſeſſed of this maner and the advowſon of the Church [N]; and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir William

Morley, then 30 years old (h). He was ſummoned to Parliament in 1361,—64,—65,—68, 69, 1370, 1375, 1376, and in 1377, 1378, and departed this life 30 April 1379 (i). By Cecily his wife, daughter of Thomas Lord Bardolf, which dyed in 1386 (k), he left —— Sir Thomas de Morley, his ſon and heir. He, as well as his father and ſucceſſors, held this maner of Hallingbury, ſometimes called Hallingbury-burgh, as parcel of the Barony of Rye [O]: Being a martial man, he ſerved in the wars of France; and was Admiral. From the 5th of K. Richard II. to the 4th of K. Henry V. he had ſummons to Parliament: And dyed 24 Septemb. 1416. His wife was Anne daughter of Edward Lord Deſpenſer, widow of Sir Hugh de Haſtings: and by her he had—Robert, his eldeſt ſon, who departed this life before him; leaving, by Iſabell daughter of the Lord Molines,——Thomas, who ſucceeded his grand-father, and was much employed in the wars in France. He alſo had ſummons to Parliament from the 5th to the 13th of K. Henry VI. (l). He dyed in 1435, leaving by Iſabell his wife, daughter of Michael de la Pole Earl of Suffolk,—Robert, his ſon, then 14 years old (m). He had ſummons to Parliament in 1442, and dyed in 1443. Elizabeth, daughter of William Lord Roos was his wife, and by her he had

Alianor his only daughter and heir, at the time of his deceaſe but 42 weeks old (n). She became afterwards the wife of William Lovel Eſq; younger ſon of William Lord Lovel of Tichmerſh, who took the title of Lord Morley; and in her right enjoyed this maner of Hallingbury-Morley, the firſt time we find it ſo called, with the advowſon of the Church. By her he had a ſon, Henry, born in 1465, and a daughter named Alice, born in 1466, and dying 23 July 1475, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Henry (o). He married Elizabeth, daughter of John De la Pole Earl of Lincoln and Duke of Suffolk, but had no iſſue. So that upon his being unhappily ſlain at Dixmuyde in Flanders, 13 June 1489, his eſtates deſcended to his ſiſter

Alice, then wife of Sir William Parker of London (p). They had Henry, their only ſon; and 4 daughters, Catharine, Alice, Iſabell, and Anne. The time of his death is unknown. But ſhe dying 22 December 1518 [P], was ſucceeded in this eſtate by her ſon —— Henry Parker, Lord Morley, then aged 33 years (q). He was ſummoned to Parliament in 1529, by the title of Lord Morley; and was one of the Lords who ſubſcribed the famous threatening Letter to Pope Clement VII. (r). Being a man of learning, he was author of ſeveral Pamphlets, Comedies, and Tragedies [Q]. He married Alice, daughter of Sir John St. John of Bletſho, by whom he had, John, who dyed before him without iſſue; Henry; Francis: Catharine; Jane, wife of George Boleyn, Viſcount Rochford; and Margaret, wife of Sir John Shelton. He dyed in November 1556 aged 80 years, and was buried here. Sir Henry, his ſon, created Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Qu. Anne Boleyn, dyed before him in 1550, having had two wives. 1. Grace, daughter and heir of John Newport of Hertfordſhire, Eſq; 2. Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Sir Henry Calthorp, widow of Sir William Woodhouſe. By the firſt he had Sir Henry; Thomas; Charles: and two daughters, Alice, married to Sir Thomas Barrington Knt. and Bart. and Mary, to Sir Thomas Leventhorp Knt. By the ſecond he had ſeveral ſons and daughters, from one of whom deſcended the family of Parker of Arwarton in Suffolk.——Sir Henry Parker Lord Morley, the eldeſt ſon and heir ſucceding his grandfather, married Elizabeth daughter and heir of Sir Edward Stanley Earl of Derby; and had by her Edward; Thomas; and Alice wife of Sir Henry Brunckard. He dyed 22 Octob. 1577, poſſeſſed of this and other eſtates (s) [R] —— Sir Edward Parker Lord Morley, the eldeſt ſon, took his ſeat in parliament 16 Janu. 1580, and was one of the Peers who gave judgment of death againſt Mary Queen of Scots, in 1586; likewiſe againſt Philip Earl of Arundel in 1589; and Robert Earl of Eſſex, in 1601. He married Elizabeth, ſole daughter and heir of William Stanley Lord Montegle, fifth ſon of Thomas Earl of Derby; and had by her 3 ſons, William; Henry; Charles: and three daughters, Mary, wife of Thomas Abington, or Habington of Worceſterſhire, Eſq; Elizabeth married to Sir Alexander Barlow, of Lancaſhire; and Frances to Chriſtopher Danby, of Leighton in Yorkſhire Eſq; Sir Edward had for his ſecond Lady Gertrude daughter of Sir Robert Denys, widow of   Arundel of Trerice, which brought him no iſſue. He dyed 1 April 1618 (t). —— William, the eldeſt ſon, bearing the title of Lord Montegle in right of his mother, had, in his father's life-time, ſummons to the Parliament which was to begin at Weſtminſter 5 Nov. 1605, by the ſtyle of Sir William Parker de Montegle, Knt. eldeſt ſon of Edward Baron Morley (u). To him it was that the famous Letter was ſent which occaſioned the Diſcovery of the Powder-plot. There have been various opinions and conjectures about the writer, or ſender of that Letter, as may be ſeen in the folio Edition of Rapin's Hiſtory; where is an exact copy of that Letter taken from the Journals of the Houſe of Commons. But, as this William Lord Montegle had married a daughter of Sir Thomas Treſham, and one Francis Treſham, of the ſame family, was one of the conſpirators engaged in that Plot; there is the utmoſt reaſon to believe, that the Letter was contrived by ſome of that Family [S], out of an earneſt deſire to ſave the Lord Montegle's life. He married Elizabeth daughter of Sir Thomas Treſham Knt. and had by her Henry, William, and Charles: and three daughters, Frances, a Nun at Doway; Catharine wife of John Savage, ſon and heir of Thomas Viſcount Savage, afterwards Earl Rivers; and Elizabeth, wife of Edward Cranfield. Departing this life here 1 July 1622 [T], he was buried in this Church: As alſo was his ſecond ſon, William, 7 April 1637 (w).—Sir Henry Parker, Lord Parker, Rye, and Montegle, his eldeſt ſon, then 21 years old, ſucceeded him in honors and eſtate (x); having been made knight of the Bath at the creation of Charles Prince of Wales in 1616. His firſt lady was Frances, eldeſt daughterof John Egerton, Earl of Bridgwater by whom no iſſue is recorded. His ſecond lady was Philippa [V], youngeſt daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas Carrel of Shipley in Surrey, Knt. by whom he had his ſon and heir Thomas. One of theſe ladies was buried in this Church 2 January 1647 (y), but which of them it was, we are not able to determine.—He himſelf was buried in this Church, 10 May 1655. ——Thomas, Lord Morley and Montegle his only ſon, ſucceeded him; but was the laſt poſſeſſor of this eſtate, of that noble Family: For Sir Edward Turnor, Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, got it of him, (*) as I have obſerved above under Little Parndon.—Thomas Lord Morley dying in St. James's, Clerkenwell, 7 July 1697, aged 65, was buried here. He married Mary, daughter of Henry Martin of Langworth in Buckinghamſhire Eſq; ſon and heir of Sir Henry Martin, Knt. ſome time Judge of the Court of Admiralty: and ſhe dying at the Golden Ball, in Southampton-ſtreet, in St. Giles's in the Fields, was alſo buried here 13 July 1700 [W].

Of Sir Edward Turnor, and his Family, an account is given above, p. 495. He dyed 4 March 1675-6, and was buried at Little Parndon. ——Sir Edward Turnor his eldeſt ſon and heir, was knighted by K. Charles II. and ſerved in Parliament for the Burgh of Orford, from 1700 to 1714. Departing this life 3 Decemb. 1721, aged 78, he was buried in this Church. He married Iſabella, daughter of William Earl Mariſchal of Scotland, by whom he had——Charles; and two daughters [ſee above, p. 496.] In 1727 an Act of parliament paſſed for veſting the Maners of Great Hallingbury, Wallbury, and Monkbury in truſtees, to be ſold for payment of Debts charged on them purſuant to the will of the late Sir Edward Turnor.

Not long after, this eſtate was purchaſed by Jacob Houblon Eſq; the preſent worthy poſſeſſor. Some of that name and family were eminent merchants in London in Qu. Elizabeth's reign.

James Houblon, of London, merchant, married 11 November 1620, Mary Ducane, and had by her Ten ſons and three daughters. Of the ſons, Peter; James; John; Jacob; Iſaac; and Abraham, married, and had iſſue. Daniel; Benjamin; Samuel; and Jeremiah, dyed ſingle. 1. Peter married Elizabeth Dingley, of London: their male iſſue is extinct. 2. Sir James Houblon Knt. Alderman of London, and one of its Repreſentatives in Parliament in 1698, married Sarah Wynne of London: Their male iſſue is extinct. Elizabeth, his third daughter, married John Harvey Eſq; of Norfolk, and has left children. 3. Sir John Houblon Knt. and Alderman of London, was the firſt Governor of the Bank of England, Lord Mayor, and one of the Commiſſioners of the Admiralty, at the ſame time (z). He married Mary Jurion of London. His male iſſue is extinct. Sarah his third daughter married Richard Mytton of Halſtone Eſq; in Shropſhire, and left children. Suſan his youngeſt daughter is ſtill living ſingle at Richmond. 4. Jacob, Rector of Moreton in this County, married Elizabeth daughter and ſole heir of Thomas Whincopp of Elleſworth in Cambridgeſhire, D. D. and had by her three daughters, and two ſons. Anne was married to Lilly Butler, D. D. Rector of St. Anne's, Alderſgate. Elizabeth to Thomas Wragge, Clerk. Hannah dyed unmarried. Of the ſons, Jacob, the youngeſt, Rector of Bobbingworth in this County, dyed ſingle. But Charles, the eldeſt, married Mary, daughter of Daniel Bates of Abbingdon in Berkſhire Gent. and had by her JACOB, the preſent poſſeſſor of this eſtate. He hath married Mary, daughter of Sir John Hind Cotton of Cambridgeſhire, Bart. and has by her three children, Jacob, John, and Lætitia.

5. Iſaac, the fifth ſon of James Houblon, as above-mentioned by Mary Ducane, married Elizabeth King of Suſſex. Their family is extinct.

Hallingbury-place, or Morley-hall, once the ſeat of the noble family of Morley, and now of Jacob Houblon Eſq; ſtands above half amil ſouth-eaſt from the Church.

2. The Maner of WALLBURY.

The manſion-houſe ſtands about a mile and a half ſouth-weſt from the Church, near the river Stort.

This place was ſo named from its ſituation on an old Roman Vallum, i. e. Fortification, or Camp, which terminates in a precipice above the Stort. It comprehends about thirty acres, double-ditched, very little defaced. The precipice on the north has ſome additional work on the brow of the hill; the other three ſides ſeem to be in their original ſtate. One ſide of the ditch is on the meadow oppoſite to Sabridgworth. 'Tis well nigh a mile in circumference, not four ſquare but rather ſexangular.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign this eſtate belonged to two Freemen; and conſiſted of two Maners and more; having food or maſt, for 1500 hogs. At the time of the Survey it was holden by Peter de Valoines [X]. Richard Fitz-Giſlebert had then alſo in this Half Hundred a maner called Walla, which might be part of this.

This maner, probably, extended northward to the pariſh of Stortford, and ſouthward to the preſent Foreſt, taking in Wall-Wood, which ſtill preſerves its name. There could not otherwiſe have been, at the Conqueſt, wood for feeding fifteen hundred hogs; and, in Qu. Elizabeth's time, when it was converted to grazing and tillage, of the fiſt two hundred and ſixty acres, of the latter ſix hundred.

In 1210, and 1211, Walter de Hannil held 60 s. worth of land in Halingberi de Walla by the ſervice of being the King's falconer. This was given him by K. Richard I. (a).

In the reign of K. Henry III, Roger de Roſs, the King's Taylor, held this eſtate, then called a carucate of land, worth 10l. a year, by the ſerjeancy of paying into the Exchequer, on the 30th of Septemb. yearly, a ſilver needle (*) [Y].

William de Valence held the ſame in 1284 (b). His ſon — Adomar de Valence Earl of Pembroke, who dyed 23 Janu. 1323, held the maner of Walbery of the King in capite, by the ſervice of one ſilver Needle (c).—Mary de St. Paul, his widow, held the ſame at the time of her deceaſe in 1376 (d). [ſee above, p. 35, 227.]

In 1428, it was holden by Richard Rede, who left his ſon —— John (e). He dyed in 1436, and was ſucceeded by his couſin —— Robert Rede, ſon of Philip, brother of Richard father of the ſaid John (f).

It may be preſumed, that the Redes held it of the Crown during a conteſt between Reginald Lord Grey of Ruthyn, and Edward Haſtings, for the right of ſucceeding to John de Haſtings Earl of Pembroke, [ſee above, p. 138.] which Grey carried, as the record ſhews (g). — Edmond Grey Lord Haſtings and de Ruthyn, and Thomas Grey his brother, ratified to

William Whetenhale all his eſtate in the maners of Wallbury, Haſſingbroke, and Fanges, late Reginald de Greys (h). William Whetenhale Eſq; obtained two licenſes in 1488, and 1520, to alienate it (i): And George Whetenhale Eſq; actually alienated it 30 March 1554, to Mary Scott, widow (k). And yet the eſtate deſcended to —— George Whetenhale of Eaſt Peckam in Kent Eſq; who dyed poſſeſſed of it 16 Decemb. 1573, leaving —— Thomas his ſon and heir (l); who, with Dorothy his wife, held the maner of Wallbury, 12 meſſuages, 6 cottages, 2 dove-houſes, 600 acres of arable, 60 of meadow, 200 of paſture, 80 of wood, and 20 s. rent in Hallignbury-Magna, which he, by licenſe, alienated to

Thomas Meade Eſq; one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, 10 April 1576. And the latter ſold the ſame again immediately to

Edward Lord Morley (m). From that noble family it paſſed to Sir Edward Turnor; and was purchaſed with the other by

Jacob Houblon, Eſq;

II. LITTLE HALLINGBURY

Lies ſouth-ward of the other; and is otherwiſe called Hallingbury-Nevill, and Hallingbury-Bourchier, from thoſe two noble Families who were poſſeſſed of it for a while.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the Lands here belonged to Godric, a freeman; Godid a free woman; and to Eſgar. At the time of the ſurvey, they were holden by Suene of Eſſex, and Geffrey de Magnaville [B].

There are two Maners in this pariſh. 1. Little Hallingbury-hall. 2. Monkbury.

1. Little Hallingbury-hall

Stands about a mile ſouth-eaſt from the Church.

Of Suene an account is given under Rayleye, the head of his Barony. His deſcendent, Henry de Eſſex hereditary Standard-bearer of England, forfeiting his eſtates on account of his cowardiſe in a battle with the Welch in 1163, [ſee above, p. 166.] K. Henry II. gave this Maner to

Henry de Cornhill, mentioned above, p. 371, who had a park at Hallingbyri (*). His daughter and heir Joane, brought it in marriage to Hugh de Nevill, that dyed in 1222, and had for ſucceſſors—Jollan;—John, who departed this life in 1245, having for ſucceſſor——Hugh; and then ——John de Nevill. This laſt got leave, in 1277, to take into his Park here a wood adjoining thereto, called Coringhall (q). At the time of his deceaſe, in 1282, he held this maner of the King in ca. by the ſervice of half a fee, and the advowſon of the Church, with other eſtates (r) [C].

Sir Hugh Nevill doth not appear to have had this at the time of his deceaſe in 1335 (s). But ——Sir John Nevill of Eſſex being poſſeſſed of it; in 1357, a Fine paſſed between him and Aleſia his wife, plaintiffs, and Adam, parſon of St. Peter's Cornhill, and others, deforc.' by which this, and their other eſtates, were ſettled on them for their joint lives, remainder to

William de Bohun, Earl of Northampton (t). Sir John Nevill dyed 25 July 1358, as did the Earl of Northampton 16 Sept. 1360, and his ſon Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, 16 January 1372 (u). Aleſia Nevill, widow of Sir John, did not dye till 1394 (w). The laſt mentioned Humfrey de Bohun, had left by Joane his wife, dangher of Richard Fitz-Alan Earl of Arundel, two daughters and coheirs, Elianor married to Thomas of Woodſtock Duke of Glouceſter, and Mary to Henry de Bolingbroke, afterwards K. Henry IV. (ſee above, p. 62, 80, 371, 452.]

Anne, one of the daughters, and at length ſole heireſs of the ſaid Elianor and Thomas of Woodſtock, was married firſt to Thomas, and then to his brother Edmund, both ſucceſſively Earls of Stafford, and afterwards to William Bourchier Earl of Eu. [ſee above, p. 80, 371.] In 1421, whilſt ſhe was widow of Edmund Earl of Stafford, a partition being made between her and King Henry V. of the Bohun eſtates. [ſee above, p. 453.] This fell to the ſhare of the ſaid Anne, being valued at 27 l. 13 s. 4 d. per Ann. By William Bourchier ſhe had a ſon named Henry.

Henry Bourchier Earl of Eſſex, ſon of this Henry, and grandſon to Elianor de Bohun above-mentioned, at the time of his deceaſe, 4 April 1483, held this maner (x). His grandſon, and ſucceſſor, —— Henry Bourchier Earl of Eſſex, dyed 13 March 1540, poſſeſſed alſo of this maner.

Anne, his only daughter and heir, married in 1541 to Sir William Parr, Marquis of Kendal, created afterwards Earl of Eſſex and Marquis of Northampton, enjoyed this among other great eſtates. [ſee above, p. 255.] She dyed 26 Janu. 1570; and, after her deceaſe, this eſtate was deſcribed as 20 meſſuages, 10 cottages, 20 gardens, 20 orchards, a park, a water-mill, 1000 acres of arable, 100 acres of meadow, 500 of paſture, 60 of heath and furze, 10 of wood, and 40 s. rent, in this pariſh and Hatfeild Broad-oak, and the advowſon of this Church (y). Her heir was Sir Walter Devereux, Lord Ferrers of Chartley, ſon of Richard, and grandſon of Walter Devereux, Viſcount Hereford, great grandſon of John Devereux, Lord Ferrers and Chartley, who married Cecily, daughter of William Bourchier Earl of Eu above-mentioned (z). He was advanced to the title of Earl of Eſſex, 4 May 1572, and conſtituted Earl Marſhall of Ireland; and dyed at Dublin 22 Sept. 1576.—Robert Devereux, his ſon and heir, the unfortunate Earl of Eſſex, was beheaded 25 February 1601-2. But ſeveral years before that, namely, by licenſe, dated 2 Decemb. 1588, he, jointly with Richard Broughton and Thomas Crompton Eſquires, alienated this maner of Hallingbury Bourchier, and 10 meſſuages, 40 cottages, 2000 acres of paſture, 100 acres of wood, 200 of furze and heath, common of paſture, 40 s. rent, a pair of gilt ſpurs, 20 capons, 12 cocks, 20 hens, 4 l. rent here and elſewhere, with free warren, and the advowſon of the Church, to William Bawtree Gent. Robert Aſke citizen and goldſmith of London, and John Wright Gent. Theſe three truſtees, by licenſe, alienated the eſtate to

Thomas Sutton Eſq; who ſettled it upon his foundation of the Charter-Houſe, London. His firſt intention was to build his Hoſpital here, in a field ſouth of the maner-houſe called the Hall, near the road leading from Ongar to Stane-Street, for which he obtained an Act of Parliament in 9 Jac. I. But he altered his intention much for the better, by fixing it where it is. Mr. Hern finds in a ſurvey of Charter-houſe lands this entry; ‘Little Hallingbury in Eſſex, leaſehold rents 267 l. 13 s. 4 d. free and cuſtomary 10 l. 10 s. 6 d.’

The Rector and other land owners, maintain the fences againſt the Lord (a).

MONKBURY, a little way ſouth from the Church, ſeems to be the Maner, which Eſgar poſſeſſed in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: and was holden, at the time of the Survey, by Geffrey de Magnaville, and his under-tenants Martel and Hugh [D].

The Mill, which was halved here between the lord of the grand Maner and Geffrey de Magnaville, ſtood very probably where the Silk-mill is now, near which the lands of Sutton's Hoſpital, and thoſe formerly belonging to Bermondſey monaſtery join.

Martel, under-tenant to Magnaville, having obtained his conſent, gave this Maner to the Monks of Bermondſey in Southwark, A.D. 1093. And his donation was confirmed by William Rufus, and K. Henry I. (b) [E].

A fine paſſed between the Prior of Bermondſey plaintiff, and John de Burgo, impedient, of the maner of Chantre, of right belonging to the ſaid Prior, except the advowſon of the Church, the gift of John de Burgo, father of the ſaid John, who engaged that neither himſelf nor heirs would invade the maner of Alynbyr in Eſſex, the right of the Prior (c).

About the ſame time, Peter the Prior, and his Convent, paſſed by fine, two meſſuages and two carucates of land, part of their poſſeſſions in Hallingburgh and Shering, to Adam de Stratton. He being guilty of the felony, they became forfeited to the Crown. But as they were only holden in ferm, or by leaſe, K. Edward I. reſtored them to the Priory in 1290 (d).

Upon the diſſolution I do not find to whom theſe lands were granted. They have ſince been parcelled out into ſeveral hands; and of late ſtill farther ſubdivided. Monkbury belonged to the Rev. Robert Taylor, who dyed about 1719: He gave it, and what elſe he had in this pariſh, to William Taylor, of Hadham, Gent.

Francis Allen Eſq; Mr. Thomas Thredgold; and Francis Elliot, have alſo ſome eſtates here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 636 l.

A Mill here has been for many years employed in twiſting and winding ſilk, invented by Mr. William Alderſey, apprentice to a ſilk-throwſter in London, for which the proprietors have a patent. It was built upon the model of the famous engine at Derby. The work employs a great number of women and girls of the neighbourhood.

FROSHWELL, or FRESHWELL.

THE Half-Hundred of Froſhwell, or Freſhwell, took its name from the river Froſhwell, heretofore called Pant (e), which runs through part of it: or rather from a well, or ſpring, that riſeth within it, called Froſhwell, which falleth into the Pant betwixt Radwinter and Great Samford, and abounds with Frogs: The Saxon ꝼꞃocx, and the German Froſh, ſignifying a Frog (f).

This Half-Hundred is bounded on the Eaſt and part of the South by Hinckford-Hundred; on the reſt of the South, and part of the Weſt, by the Hundred of Dunmow; on the reſt of the Weſt, by Utlesford-Hundred; and on the North, by part of the Counties of Suffolk and Cambridge. It is long and narrow, being from North to South, where longeſt, about nine miles; and from Eaſt to Weſt, where wideſt, about ſix miles.

The King is ſeized in fee of this Half-Hundred.

It contains nine Pariſhes, of which we treat in the following order.

Bardfeild-Great.
Bardfeild-Saling.
Little Bardfeild.
Sandford Little.
Sandford Great, with the Chapelry of Hemſted.
Bumpſted-Helion.
Radwinter.
Aſhdon.
Hadſtock.

BARDFEILD.

Here are three contiguous Pariſhes of this name, diſtinguiſhed from each other by the appellations of Great, Saling, and Little. Bardfeild is otherwiſe written in records, Barfeld, Barfold, Berdfeld, and Birdefeld; and is formed either from the Saxon Baꞃ, a boar, or Bird and Feild. Or elſe it might originally be derived from Barus, a brook, or rivulet that riſes in the Park within this pariſh, and runs directly to Old Saling, then to Braintree, croſſing a rill by the way coming from Raine; after having paſſed by the Notleys, Falkbourn, and Witham, it falls into the Blackwater below Braxted.

1. GREAT BARDFIELD,

As the name denotes, is the largeſt of the three. It is a ſmall Town, tho' the chief in this Half-Hundred; without a Market, which it formerly had on Tueſdays, but hath a Fair ſtill for three days, on the 21ſt, 22d, and 23d of June. Diſtant from London about 42 miles.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Wiſgar and Earl Algar, had this eſtate: At the time of the Survey it belonged to Richard Fitz Giſlebert [F], or the ſon of Earl Gilbert, mentioned above, p. 249, 436.

There are two maners in this pariſh. 1. Bardfield-hall. 2. The maner of Pitley.

1. Bardfeild-hall

Stands near the Church.

Of Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, and his deſcendents, a particular account is given above, p. 250, 437, to which we beg leave to refer. In the Survey for this county he is ſurnamed Fitz-Giſlebert; but in that for Surrey, &c. Richard de Tonebruge, becauſe he was lord of that Caſtle and Town (g); and better known by this title in that county. Upon his deceaſe he was interred at Glouceſter. —Gilbert, his eldeſt ſon, took the title of Earl of Clare, and dyed in 1132. Richard, the fourth in ſucceſſion from him, had with Amicia (his wife) daughter and heireſs of William Earl of Glouceſter, the Earldom of Glouceſter: And, in right of his father, had moreover the Earldom of Hertford (h). —Gilbert de Clare, ſurnamed the Red, Earl of Clare, Hertford, and Glouceſter, the laſt heir male of this family, being ſlain at the battle of Bannockſburn, 8 July 1314, his great eſtates [G] devolved among his three ſiſters and coheirs [H]. [ſee above, p. 437.]

Elizabeth, the youngeſt, had for part of her ſhare this Eſtate, reputed a member of the Earldom of Glouceſter, and holden of the King in capite, by the ſervice of one knight's-fee (i). She dyed 4 November 1359, having had three huſbands. The firſt of them was John de Burgh, ſon of Richard de Burgh Earl of Ulſter in Ireland, by whom ſhe had an only daughter, born in 1337, named

Elizabeth de Burgh, heireſs to this and other conſiderable lordſhips (k), and then wife of Lionel, third ſon of K. Edward III. in her right Earl of Ulſter, and created Duke of Clarence, in 1362. This Lionel was poſſeſſed of this maner at the time of his deceaſe 17 October 1368 (l); and by his daughter and heir

Philippa, wife to Edmund Mortimer Earl of March, it came to that family. From whence, by Anne her grandchild, wife to Richard de Coningſburgh Earl of Cambridge, ſecond ſon of Edmund de Langley, fifth ſon of K. Edw. III. it deſcended to Richard her ſon Duke of York, father to Edward IV. King of England (m).

In 1539, K. Henry VIII. granted the Burgh of Bardfeild to the Lady Anne of Cleve for her life (n).

This maner continued in the Crown till the reign of K. Edward VI. who, 24 July 1550, granted the maner and lordſhip of Bardefeld and the burrough of Bardfeld to

Sir Thomas Wrothe. Beſides the maner of Bardfeld here was the maner of the Burough-Court, which is wont to be kept in the Town-houſe, or chamber over the Market-croſs. An annual rent of 6 l. 13 s. 7 d. was reſerved for the tenth of the lordſhip and maner of Bardfeld with the burgh and parks, and the maners of Chigwell and Weſt-Hatch, which at the ſame time were granted to Sir Thomas Wrothe, and his heirs male (o).

Sir Thomas dyed 9 October 1573.—Sir Robert Wrothe his ſon and ſucceſſor, held this maner, and 6 meſſuages, 4 gardens, 6 orchards, 40 acres of meadow, and 50 of paſture, in this pariſh, and Finchingfeild. He had alſo the maners of Chigwell and Weſt-Hatch, and of Luxborough and Loughton, [where ſee a further account of the family.] Departing this life 27 January 1605, he was ſucceeded by his ſon — Sir Robert Wrothe then aged 30 years (p). He dyed 14 May 1614, poſſeſſed alſo of this eſtate: ——James Wrothe Eſq; his only ſon being but five weeks old (q). And he dying 4 July 1616, his eſtates deſcended to——John Wrothe Eſq; his father's brother (r). This eſtate then comprehended two Parks, the great and the little Park. Of him it was purchaſed about the year 1621, by Sir Martin Lumley Knt. who was one of the Sheriffs of London in 1614, and Lord Mayor in 1623. He built an elegant houſe in a delightful ſituation, where the Keeper's lodge had ſtood. At the time of his deceaſe, 3 July 1634, he held this eſtate, which we find thus deſcribed; the maner of Great Bardfeild, and 10 meſſuages, 1 mill, 3 dove-houſes, 10 gardens, 10 orchards, 600 acres of arable, 60 acres of meadow, 1000 acres of paſture in two parks, 100 of wood, and 200 of heath and furze, in this pariſh and in Finchingfeild, Shalford, Wetherſfeild, Old and New Saling. He had alſo the maners of Aſhwell-hall and Redfans in Finchingfeild and Shalford. [ſee p. 368, 377.] (s).

The family of Lumley, or Lomeley, originally written Lomelin, was of Italian extraction, of great antiquity, and reckoned to be nobly deſcended. They took their ſurname from the Laumelin in the Duchy of Milan. Dominico Lomelini, the firſt who ſettled in England, was Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to King Henry VIII. and commanded a troop of horſe at the ſiege of Bologne. Queen Elizabeth granted him, 5 Auguſt

[G] That family had very large eſtates in this County, as will appear by the following particulars; namely, the Maners of Gr. Bardfield, Thaxted, Clarett, Herſham; lands in Walden, Cheſterford, &c. They had no leſs than ſeventy whole Knights fees, beſides parcels of Knights fees, belonging to their Honor of Clare, Glouceſter, Giffard, Bologne, Lovetot, and Mareſhall; in the ſeveral pariſhes of Berdfeld, Sampford, Aſhen, Finchingfeild, Bolemer, Bumſted, Belcham Halſted, Pebmerſh, Thaxted, Toppesfeild; Buers, Saling, Angre, Fakeburn, Wand, Norton, Creping, Benham, Chaure, Brokeſheved, Geſtingthorp, Gosfeild, Shaldeford, Braxted, Yeldham, Borle, Foxherd, Middleton; and holden under them by ſeveral great perſons: The largeſt of which were, 14 fees holden by Roger de Taleworth, and Roger Becheſworth, in Sampford, Aſhen, &c.—12 fees and a quarter holden by Simon Fitz-Richard, in Dunmow, Finchingfeild, &c.—3 fees holden by Ralph Fitz-William in Pebmerſh, &c.—5 fees and a half, by William Fitz-Humfrey, in Yeldham, Borle, Foxherd, &c. and Clopton in Suffolk;—5 fees and a half, by Gilbert Peche, in Geſtingthorp, Middleton, &c. and Dalham in Suffolk;—5 fees by Robert de Haſtings, in Blake-hall, Wand and Waldingfeild in Suffolk. Inquiſ. 47 Hen. III . . . 24, 35 Edw. I. . . 8 Edw. II.

[H] Under Richard de Clare, who dyed in 1262, Nicolas le Meſſager held half a fee in Berdefend and Salling. And, under the ſame Richard, the heirs of Peter le Boteler held the tenth part of a fee in Berdefend. And, in 1378, Robert Boteler held one Meſſuage in Bardfeld Magna for the life of Alice his wife, and one acre of land in Berdfeild Parva, called Geldenacre. Inquiſ. 47 Hen. III. . . 2 Ric. II.

1560, an annuity of 200l. His ſon, James Lomelin, or Lumley, was an eminent merchant in London, and dyed in 1592, aged 88 years. By his wife Joane, daughter of . . . Litton of Derbyſhire, he had his ſon —— Sir Martin Lumley Knt. mentioned a little before, the purchaſer of this eſtate; who dyed in 1634, and was buried in Great St. Helen's Church, London. He married Margaret, daughter of . . . Witham, and had by her —— Martin, born in 1604 (t); High-Sheriff of this county in 1639; created a Baronet 8 January 1640; and one of the Knights for this Shire in the Parliament which met 3 November 1640. He had to his firſt wife, Jane, daughter of John Meredith of Denbighſhire Eſq; by whom he had only a daughter, Prudence, married to Sir Roger Moſtyn, Bart. His ſecond wife was Mary, daughter of Edward Alleyn, Alderman of London, and by her he had Martin, Thomas, and James, which two laſt dyed ſingle. —— Sir Martin, the eldeſt ſon and heir, was Sheriff of this county in 1663. He married Anne, daughter of Sir John Langham Knt. Alderman of London, by whom he had Martin, and a daughter that dyed young. He departed this life in Auguſt 1702. —— Sir Martin Lumley, his ſon, married, firſt, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Dawes of London, Merchant, by whom he had Martin, who dyed young; and Anne, married to Sir Stephen Anderſon, Bart. He had for his ſecond wife Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Chamberlain of Gray's-Inn, Eſq; by whom he had James, and Elizabeth, wife of the Right Rev. Dr. Cecill, Biſhop of Bangor. His third lady was Elizabeth, daughter of Clement Rawlinſon of Sanſcale in Lancaſhire, Gent. He was Sheriff of this county in 1710, and departed this life 17 January 1710-11, being ſucceeded by his ſon and heir —— Sir James Lumley Bart. (u). In 1725, an Act of Parliament paſſed for veſting his ſeveral eſtates in truſtees, to be ſold, for the payment of his own, and his father's debts and legacies: And in 1729 another Act paſſed to the ſame purpoſe. Whereupon, Bardfeild-lodge, with the Parks, and ſeveral Maners were purchaſed by

Edward Stephenſon, Eſq; once a Governor in the Eaſt-Indies. But now the Lordſhip and Burgh of Great Bardfield, with Bardfield-Saling; the great Lodge, Parks, Blue-gate-hall, and Park-hall, belong to

Jones Raymond Eſq; [ſee above, p. 163.] The great Lodge is entirely pulled down, the ſtables converted into a Farm-houſe, and all the encloſed lands diſparked, except a Paddock of 30 acres, which is ſtocked with deer.

As to the reſt of Lumley's eſtate, Great Bardfield-hall, Coxhills, Claypit-hall, Little Lodge, and the Buſhett, all capital Farms within this pariſh; they were purchaſed for the uſe of Guy's Hoſpital [I].

2. The Maner of PITLEY, otherwiſe called Pitſea, Pitſey, and Packley,

Was originally part of Fitz-Gilbert's eſtate here, and given by his ſon Gilbert Earl of Clare to the Abbey of Bec in Normandy, or rather to the Priory of Stoke near Clare, together with this Church (w). That Abbey had large poſſeſſions in England, and to it Stoke was at firſt a cell. The Abbot of Bec had a houſe at Streatham in Surrey, where he reſided when he came hither upon affairs of his monaſtery. This is what his Grace the Duke of Bedford now enjoys, and his maner there is called the Maner of Tooting Bec.

This maner was ſeized by K. Edward III. in 1337, as belonging to a Priory alien, but reſtored by K. Richard II. in 1395, when Stoke Priory was naturalized, as I may ſay (x). [ſee above, p. 341.]

Upon the ſuppreſſion of Religious Houſes, this eſtate came to the crown. In 1551, K. Edw. VI. granted to his Præceptor Sir John Cheke, among other things, this maner of Pitley, and woods called the Marſhe and Pynkwell grove (y). He being forced to ſurrender it, 12 April 1556, to Qu. Mary, She granted it, 5 Auguſt 1557, to Henry Vavaſor, and others (z).

Thomas French, mentioned above, p. 256, held this maner, and divers other lands in Great Berdfeld, in K. James the firſt's reign (a). It belonged in 1636 to John Owen, Gent. ſon and heir of Iſrael Owen. And afterwards to . . . Plumb, who forfeited it to the Crown, for killing a Bailiff.

K. Charles I. granted it away, and by Mr. Haſtefoot it was given to the Company of Haberdaſhers in London, charged with the following payments. To the Church-wardens of St. Nicolas Cold-Abbey, for the better maintenance of the weekly Lecture there, 8l. To 20 poor houſekeepers of the Company 20l. To the four Hoſpitals 20l. To Ludgate, Newgate, and the two Compters 10l. And to the Company and Officers, as a ſtock for laying up corn (b). The Maner-houſe ſtands in Little Bardfield [K].

Park-gate, an eſtate in this pariſh, was many years in the Searle family. William Searle, the laſt of them, was buried here in June 1692.

And alſo Twenty ſhillings a year out of the maner of Nicholls in Shalford. [ſee above, p. 377.]

Here is alſo a Houſe for the uſe of the Poor.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, has north and ſouth iſles, leaded; the Chancel is tyled. A Tower, with a high ſpire, leaded, contains 5 Bells. This Church was given by Gilbert Earl of Clare to the Abbey of Bec, or rather to the Priory of Stoke near Clare, which grant was confirmed by Thomas Becket Archbiſhop of Canterbury; and afterwards by Pope Alexander the Third's Bull, dated June 1174. The great Tithes were appropriated by Richard Fitz-Neile Biſhop of London, about the year 1194, and a Vicarage here ordained and endowed. All which was confirmed 19 Septemb. 1214, by William de Sta Maria; and 2 November 1227, by Euſtace de Fauconberg, biſhops of London (c). In 1214, by compoſition between the Monks of Stoke and the Vicar here, confirmed by the Biſhop of London and Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, the Vicarage was endowed with the ſmall tythes, and the tythe of hay; and corn to the value of five marks, or the money, if the Vicar ſhould chooſe it [L]; and with all the tythes of corn and pulſe out of the Prior's demeſnes, except the garden.

Upon the diſſolution, K. Edw. VI. granted, 12 March 1550, the Impropriation of this Church, with the advowſon of the Vicarage to Antony Bourchier of Bandeſleigh in Glouceſterſhire, and to John Wiſeman Eſqrs. and their heirs. The 14th of May following, they conveyed the premiſſes to William Bendlowes Eſq; Serjeant at Law, and his heirs for ever. Serjeant Bendlowes hath been mentioned above, p. 259, 367, 368, 369. and had a conſiderable eſtate in Finchingfeild; and alſo in this Town, where he reſided in a houſe called The Place; part of which is now ſtanding, and in the poſſeſſion of Nath. Payne, Gent. In 1556, Serjeant Bendlowes obtained licence from the crown to diſſolve the Appropriation of this Rectory, and erected the Vicarage into a Rectory; and having leaſed out the great tythes for five hundred years for twenty marks per ann. did ſettle upon the Rector and his ſucceſſors the yearly ſum of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. being one moiety of the ſaid twenty Marks, for ever. With the other moiety he erected a Chantry, as we ſhall ſhew preſently. The Biſhop of London and the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's confirmed this, 27 March 1557; and a Clerk was inſtituted at Mr. Bendlowes's preſentation to this Church as a Rectory.

Serjeant Bendlowes dyed 19 November 1584. He and Alienor his wife, lie buried under a marble tomb under the ſouth window of the Chancel, with a long epitaph. This Alienor was his ſecond wife, widow of John Berners of Finchingfeild, and daughter of Sir Edward Palmer of Ankaring in Suſſex (d). —— William Bendlowes Eſq; his ſon and heir dyed 18 November 1613, poſſeſſed of this eſtate called the maner of Priors, and of Brenthall, Juſtices, half of Cockfeilds in Finchingfeild; and the maner of Fenns in Bocking. His heir was Edward, ſon of his ſon Andrew deceaſed (e). This —— Edward Bendlowes was born in 1602, and proved afterwards an ingenious writer [M]. Being an imprudent man, he ſold this Impropriation and Advowſon to . . . Nathan. Wright of London, merchant; [ſee above, p. 368.] whoſe ſon . . . Benjamin alienated them to . . . Robert Richards, of Braintree, clothier. . . . . Roger Richards, his ſon, gave by will the Impropriation, after his wife's deceaſe, to his nephew . . . Robert Adams; and the Advowſon to . . . Thomas Aſhpool, Gent.

As to the Chantry, juſt mentioned before, it was founded in this Church by William Bendlowes Eſq; and dedicated to the Holy Trinity. He endowed it with the yearly ſum of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. payable out of the great or impropriate Tithes. The licence in mortmain was dated 13 Novemb. 1556.

The Chantry Prieſt was to pray for the ſouls of King Philip and Queen Mary living and dead, alſo for the ſouls of Chriſtopher Bendlowes and Elizabeth his wife, father and mother of the ſaid William, and for the ſouls of the ſaid William and Alienor his wife for ever.

The Chantry lands granted ſince the death of K. Edward VI. being given by Parliament to Qu. Elizabeth, ſhe granted theſe, in 1588, to Edward Wymark, a great Chantry-monger (f).

Three Obits were founded in this Church, but of no value.

2. BARDFIELD SALING,

Is about two miles ſouth from the Church of Great Bardfeld, to which pariſh it is annexed as an Hamlet. It has been ſtiled Bardfeld juxta Saling, as lying near Old Saling, and is otherwiſe named Little, and New Saling.

Two Servants of Wiſgar were poſſeſſed of this in the Saxons time; it went afterwards with Great Bardfield, and belonged to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert; and his under-tenant Wielard [N].

Here are two Maners, 1. The maner of Waſtails, or Waſtcoyls. 2. . . that of Wymers

1. The Maner of WASTAILS, or WASTCOYLS, took its name from William de Waſtail, who married one of the three daughters of Stephen de Beauchamp, owner of the maners of Lammarſh and Twinſted, as above-mentioned, p. 268, 270.

In the reign of K. Edward III. Ralph, ſon of William Fitz-Ralph of Pebmarſh, Knt. was lord of Waſtalls in Berdfeld Saling, and granted this maner with all its Royalties to William Vicar of Great-Saling, for his life, paying 5 l. per ann. This William grants it for his life to John, ſon of Walter de Oxenhey of Little Rayne.

We find it afterwards in the Maxey family, of Bradwell, and Old Saling, mentioned above, p. 156, 410, 411.

John Maxey Gent. who dyed 19 Decemb. 1546, had the reverſion of the maner of Waſtcoyles in Berdfeld-Saling, with lands called Algores and Bacon,——Antony his ſon and heir, was fourteen years old (g).

He was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Sir Henry Maxey; whoſe ſucceſſors were — Sir William — Greville, and ——Antony Maxey.

Martin Carter Eſq; had it next; and in 1717, Hugh Raymond Eſq; and now——Jones Raymond Eſq;

2. The Maner of WYMERS,

Had its name from an ancient owner. For, in 1329, Robert, ſon of John Wymer, held half a fee here, of the Honor of Clare. He is ſtyled Wymer of Offington.

Chriſtopher Purple paid ingreſs fine for it after the death of Serjeant Bendlowes, in 1581. He dyed 26 March 1605, poſſeſſed of a capital meſſuage in Berdfeld-Saling, called Wymers, alias Fitz-Symonds, alias Gardevilles, and holden of the maner of Great-Berdefeld; —— Chriſtopher his ſon and heir, was nineteen years of age (h).

This is united to the maner of Great-Bardfeld. It was lately in Sir James Lumley, and ſold with a conſiderable part of his eſtate, to Guy's Hoſpital.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 460 l. 2 s. 6 d.

The Rectory, or great Tythes, of Berdfeild-Saling were granted by K. Edward VI. in 1549, to Tho. Marſh, and Roger Williams (i): They belonged afterwards to Thomas Hayward Eſq; and Sir James Reynolds, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer.

The CHURCH, or Chapel, of Bardfeld-Saling, annexed to that of Great Bardfeld, was dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul 12 March, 1380, and the cemetery, or yard, where it ſtood, was conſecrated the next year by the Biſhop of Piſa, commiſſioned by Courtney Biſhop of London, and confirmed 11 Decemb. 1384, by his ſucceſſor Robert de Braybroke; as was alſo the agreement between the Vicar of Great Bardfeld and the inhabitants of this Hamlet, 'That they ſhould 'have free liberty of burying in their ſaid Chapel, 'or Chapel-yard, ſuch as dyed in their hamlet, 'or deſired to be buried there; and that they 'ſhould yearly, on the feaſt of Aſcenſion and of 'the dedication of their mother-church, come 'thither, and make their accuſtomed offerings; 'and alſo bear the third part, of the third part 'of the charge belonging to the lordſhip's quarter, towards the repairing or rebuilding of the 'mother church of Great Berdfeld. Upon non-'performance, the Chapel and Chapel-yard to 'be interdicted till ſatisfaction made.' There is among the patents 22 Ric. II. an exemplification of the Compoſition made between the Vicar of Gr. Berdefeld, and the pariſhioners of Berdefeild-Saling.

This Parochial Chapel had the misfortune, in the reign of K. Henry VIII. to be by him called, out of its name, a Chantry, and ſo granted, with all that belonged to it, by patent, 20 September 1546, to Henry Nedham (k); who, the ſame month, by licence, conveyed it, by the name of 'The 'Chantry of Great-Bardfeld in Great-Bardfeld,' to George Maxey. William Jenkinſon Cl. chaplain of the Chapel of eaſe of Great-Bardfeld, with the church-warden of the Chapel [O], and other inhabitants, brought a ſuit in Chancery againſt George Maxey for the Chapel and its lands. This, with conſent of both parties, was thus determined, 25 May 1554, by Sir William Paulet Lord Keeper; 'That the Chapel and yard ſhould 'be for the uſe of the inhabitants of this Hamlet; 'the Chaplain to be nominated by George Maxey 'and his heirs, with the conſent of the chief in-'habitants. The Chaplain ſhall enjoy the tene-'ment called the Prieſt's houſe, a garden, a 'little croft, and the church-yard; that he ſhall 'enjoy all the ſmall tythes, offerings, oblations, 'in as ample a manner as any incumbent en-'joyed them before in the memory of man: All 'which were then eſteemed worth 7 l. per ann. 'beſides the Prieſt's houſe, croft, &c. or to be 'made up ſo much by George Maxey. George 'Maxey was to hold all thoſe tenements called 'Lucknors, Hulls, Allponds, and Purley, and all 'other lands and tenements, formerly belonging 'to the ſaid Chapel, except ſuch as are before 'excepted.' George Maxey dyed 24 December 1558, poſſeſſed of the premiſſes (l), the decree unperformed; George his ſon and heir, did, by fine, in June 1574, alienate this Chapel, Chapel-yard, garden, orchard, meſſuage called Hull, and all tythes, oblations, and offerings belonging to it, to William Bendlowes Serjeant at Law, and his heirs (m); who being a pious good man, did give the ſaid Chapel of eaſe and Church-yard to Catharine wife of Richard Downham Eſq; lady of Old-Hall in Little Rayne, by will dated 20 Febru. 1424, gave 3 s. 4 d. to the Chapel of Bardfeld Salyng, in honour of St. Margaret the Virgin. This Chapel may have been originally dedicated to St. Margaret, or here was a private Altar in honour of her.

3. LITTLE BARDFIELD

Lies north-weſt of Great Bardfeld, in the road from thence to Thackſted: and now contains two Maners. 1. Little Bardfield-hall. 2. Mole-hall. The firſt ſtands near the Church.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, one Norman, and afterwards Ingelric, were poſſeſſed of this pariſh: At the time of the ſurvey, it was holden by Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant Adelolf de Merk [P]; mentioned above, p. 202, 423.

From this Adelolf de Merk, or Merks, many places in Eſſex are named. [ſee above, p. 202, 423, &c.]

Henry de Merks, a deſcendent of his, held, in 1210, three knights fees in Birdfeild, Latton, and Sortegrave juxta Newport (n).——Henry de Merk, moſt probably his ſon, who dyed in 1268, held the Maner of Little Bardfeild, and a carucate of land in Latton, of the King in ca. as of his Honor of Bologne.——Henry was his ſon (o).—In 1274, Alda, daughter of Geffrey Dynant, held this maner of the King, as of the ſaid Honor, by the ſervice of one knight's fee and a half; and the advowſon of the Church appendent thereto (p). [ſee above, p. 202.]——Andrew de Merk held it in 1283 (q). Alſo —Henry de Merk who dyed in 1291, held this maner, with the advowſon of the Church; and Julian his wife held half a knight's fee in Latton, by way of dower ( ) [Q].

In 1351, K. Edward III. granted licenſe to Maſter Clement de Rumburgh, Clerk, to give the maner of Little Bardfeld, and the advowſon of the Church, to the Abbat and Convent of St. John's in Colcheſter; with liberty to appropriate the Church to their uſe (s).

Upon the diſſolution of the monaſteries, this maner, and advowſon, coming to the crown, K. Henry VIII. granted them, in 1539, to Rob. Foſter Eſq; who, 3 April 1541, had licenſe (t) to alienate them to

William Chiſhull Eſq; of an ancient family. He dyed 12 Aug. 1570, poſſeſſed of this maner, and of the advowſon of the Church, holden of the Queen in capite by knight's ſervice; and of the maner of Moad-hall in this pariſh alſo, holden of —— Smith Eſq; as of his maner of Candiſh; likewiſe of the maner of Fitz-Raphe in Thaxted. [ſee above, p. 440.]——Giles, his eldeſt ſon and heir, then 37 years old, ſucceeded him (u). He married Margaret widow of . . . Henſhaw, and had by her William, baptized 19 Novemb. 1561, Bartholomew, bapt. 14 March 1566, and nine daughters; of whom Anne became afterwards the wife of William Hart of Orſet, Gent. and Mary of Robert Deering of Hempſted, in the neighbourhood (w). —— William, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, had 4 ſons and a daughter baptized here, the laſt of which children was in 1591. He withdrew into Ireland, where he dyed, having ſold this eſtate to

John Buttal (x), whoſe ſon —— Chriſtopher Buttal ſold it to

Thomas Wale Gent. ſon of Thomas Wale of Radwinter by his wife Jane, daughter of Richard Weſtley of Hemſted (y).

Edward the Third's wars, and was, on account of his great valour, conſtituted one of the firſt Knights of the Garter, at the inſtitution of that noble order. He dyed in Gaſcogne in 1352 (a).

Thomas Wale, Gent. above-mentioned, purchaſer of this eſtate, married Elizabeth, daughter of Geffrey Nightingale of Newport-Pond, Eſq; and had by her 8 ſons, Robert, Thomas, William, John, Henry, Edward, Geffrey, Charles from whom deſcended the family at Walden; and 2 daughters, Elizabeth and Jane. He was buried here 11 May 1659, aged 63 years, and Elizabeth his wife, 5 October 1680 (b).——Henry, the fifth, but eldeſt ſurviving ſon and heir to his father, baptized 12 Novemb. 1624, was ſucceeded by his ſon John; and he by his ſon —Henry, who married Elizabeth only daughter of James Clarkſon of Tendring Gent. and had by her ——Henry Wale Eſq; the preſent poſſeſſor of this eſtate.

2. MOAD-HALL, MOLE-HALL, or MORE-HALL.

Stood between Bardfeld-hall and a farm called Hide: The manſion-houſe was large, but now demoliſhed. 'Tis ſuppoſed to be the quarter of a knight's fee, which was holden in 1317, by John Gacy, or Geney, and Roger Damory and Elizabeth his wife (c).

Moole-hall in Little Berdfeild, formerly John Geveye's, was holden in 1426, by the ſame ſervice, of the maner of Herſham hall, in Haverhill (d). And, in 1428, John Kneſworth and Nicolas Hewyſch had it, being ſaid formerly to have been John Geneys, or Gacy's before-mentioned (e). They purchaſed it of Henry Skinner and William Thymming of Walden.

Robert Boyton and other feoffees, in 1434, bought this maner of J. Kneſworth, N. Hewyſch, and John Baſſet of Chiſhull. It was formerly called Botelers, from the Boteler family mentioned under the foregoing pariſh. But is now incorporated with it; ſo that Moole-hall and Botelers are reputed the ſame in the Rolls.

Johu Chycel, or Chiſhull, was poſſeſſed of it in 1445; as was —— William Chiſhull, at the time of his deceaſe, 12 Auguſt 1570. —— Giles his ſon ſucceeded him (f).

Iſrael Owen, Gent. who dyed 9 Octob. 1632, held this maner of Morehall, with all the lands, hop-grounds, &c. thereto belonging, and the Advowſon of the Church [R]. ——John Owen, Gent. his ſon, then aged 30 years, ſucceeded him (g). He left a ſon named ——John, whoſe inheritance went amongſt four daughters. [ſee p. 440.].

Mr. John, and William, Bernard; Joſeph Colin; John Clement; John Gladwin; and John Joſlin, have alſo ſome eſtates here.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Catharine, is of one pace with the Chancel, tyled, In the Tower, which hath a little cupola at the top, are 2 bells.

The Advowſon of this Church was appendent to the Maner. Together with the Maner, Tho. Wale, Gent. purchaſed 2 Jan. 1643, the Advowſon, of John and Richard Owen, ſons of John Owen. He ſettled it, 26 Decemb. 1650, on his ſon John Wale, Cl. who by will deviſed it to be ſold; and it was bought, in November 1663, by Robert Dawge, of Loughton, Gent. Dawges ſold it, 30 October 1665, to Thomas Lund of Bayleham in Suffolk, Cl. On the 3d of June 1673, Lund ſold it to Thomas Bernard of Little Bardfeld, Gent. who ſettled it, 31 May 1684, upon his ſon Thomas Bernard, Cl. and his heirs. Upon Mr. Bernard's death in 1718, it deſcended to his ſon, the late Rev. Thomas Bernard, who, being patron could not preſent himſelf; and not having made over his right in his father's life-time, he therefore ſuffered a lapſe, and was collated by the Biſhop. This is a favour frequently granted by a Dioceſan. In this caſe it was made a queſtion, whether the Biſhop could collate the Patron before a lapſe? and the Civilians divided upon it: Dr. Henchman was of opinion that it could not be done; but Dr. Andrews thought, it might. In thus ſuffering a lapſe there is this viſible hazard, That if the Dioceſan ſhould dye before he collated, which is poſſible, the Turn would then be loſt to the Patron, and devolve either to the Archbiſhop, or the King, who might preſent another. In ſuch a caſe, it has been thought more eligible for a Patron to pray, or petition the Dioceſan to admit him.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 740 l.

SANDFORD.

Here are two contiguous Pariſhes of this name, diſtinguiſhed from each other by the appellations of Great, and Little. They are called in records Sanford, and Sanfort, from a Sandy Ford over the river Pant, which waters them: and of which Samford appears to us to be only a vulgar corruption; as doth alſo Saford.

When they were divided doth not plainly appear, but they were ſo at the time of the general Survey, and in different hands. From them the Deanry of Sandford took its denomination.

4. LITTLE SANDFORD.

We begin with this, as lying neareſt to the Bardfields which we have been laſt deſcribing. Sometimes it is ſtyled New Samford, in oppoſition to the other, which is called Old Samford.

Wiſgar was poſſeſſed, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, of this pariſh; which belonged, at the time of the Survey, to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert [S], anceſtor to the Earls of Clare and Glou-ceſter; on which account it was afterwards holden of the Honor of Clare and Glouceſter, by the ſervice of two knights fees.

In this Pariſh are three Maners. 1. The maner of Little Sandford-hall. 2. . . . that of Tewes. 3. The maner of Friers.

1. The Maner of LITTLE SANDFORD-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands near the Church, pleaſantly, on the ſide of an eminence, or hill; and below it at ſome diſtance is a beautiful canal made by the river Pant.

The earlieſt poſſeſſors of it upon record after Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, was the Taleworth family; namely Sir Peter de Taleworth, and Sir Peter his ſon; being part of the fourteen knights fees they held, here and elſewhere, under the Earls of Glouceſter and Hertford. For, under Richard de Clare Earl of Glouceſter, &c. who dyed in 1262, Roger de Taleworth, and Roger de Becheſworth, knights, held fourteen knights-fees in Little Samford, Eſſe, Finchingfeld, and Chaure; and in Middleſex, and Suffolk; in Herefeild, Corneth, Sayham, Cavendiſh, Bacheſworth, and Kirketon (b). In 1314 —— Richard de Talleworth and Roger de Becheſworth held the ſame (i).

Afterwards it was holden by William de Clopton, and Simon de Swanlond, Knight; for Thomas de Clopton and William de Pampeſworth bought it, with the advowſon of the Church, of William Clopton, and paid ingreſs fine in 1347. What Clopton had was one knight's-fee and a half; and Simon de Swanland's ſhare, was three quarters of a fee. [Concerning the Clopton family, ſee under Aſhdon.]

This eſtate belonged afterwards to Sir Thomas, and Sir Richard, Tendring (k).

In 1391, and 1392, William Bateman held it of the Earl of March. This Bateman was a great benefactor to the Priory of Dunmow; and was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, from the 19th to the 22d of K. Richard II. (l) [T]. He married Margaret, one of the daughters and coheirs of Sir William Coggeſhall. She was remarried to John Roppeley [ſee above, p. 162]; and at the time of her deceaſe, 5 June 1459, held this maner of Little Sampford of Richard Duke of York, as of the Honor of his Caſtle of Clare (m). By her huſband Bateman ſhe left a daughter, Margaret, wife of William Greene, ſecond ſon of John Greene Eſq; by his wife Agnes, who was daughter and heir of John Duke, of Widdington-hall. William Greene dyed 11 Janu. 1488; and his wife 31 May 1495, poſſeſſed of the moiety of this maner [V], and of the advowſon of the Church; and of the moiety of Great Sampford maner; and of the maner of Blois in Hedingham-Sibil [ſee above, p. 286.] (n). They both lie buried in the Chancel of this Church. Their eldeſt ſon and heir —John Greene Eſq; then thirty years old, ſettled here, and was knighted. They had alſo David Greene, Parſon of Little Samford; and 2 daughters; one married to . . . . Fitz-Geffrey, and the other to Gregory Baſſet of Bradwell. Sir John Green, the eldeſt ſon, who dyed in 1530, had 3 wives: firſt, Anne, daughter of —Ratcliff; ſecondly, Lucy, daughter of Sir William Broughton of Denſton in Suffolk; thirdly, Agnes . . . By the two laſt, he doth not appear to have had any iſſue; but by the firſt he had Edward; and Richard, who married Joane daughter of . . . Cooles, and dyed 17 Auguſt 1566, without iſſue.—— Sir Edward Greene, the eldeſt ſon, dyed 13 June 1554, poſſeſſed of this maner and that of Twys; alſo of thoſe of Bloys and Graſſalls. [ſee above, p. 286.] (o). He married two wives: firſt, Margery, daughter of William Allington: ſecondly, Margaret, daughter of . . . Curſon: By this he had no iſſue; but by the firſt he had, Rooke; Roger: Frances, Joyce, and Mary. The eldeſt ſon and heir —— Rooke Greene Eſq; married Elianor, daughter of William Fitch of Little Canfield-Hall, Eſq; and had by her 4 ſons, and 8 daughters. He dyed 9 April, 1602 (p).——William his eldeſt ſon and heir, married Catharine, daughter of Nicolas Timperley, or Timpernell, of Hintleſham-Hall in Suffolk, by whom he had 4 ſons, and 4 daughters.——John, his eldeſt ſon, born 14 September 1575, married Frances, daughter of Sir John Ruſſel of Strenſham in Worceſterſhire, and dyed in his father's life-time; having had five ſons, Edward Francis, John, William, Rooke; and a daughter named Catharine. William Greene Eſq: the father, dyed 11 July 1621, and was ſucceeded by his grandſon —— Edward, created a Baronet 26 July 1660. This Sir Edward had 3 wives: the firſt was Jeronyma, daughter and co-heir of William Everard of Linſted Eſq; and by her had 6 daughters. Mary, daughter of . . . Taſborough, was his ſecond wife, by whom he had a ſon. And by the third . . . daughter of——Symonds, he had a daughter. He was the laſt of the Greenes that enjoyed this eſtate, having imprudently loſt it by gaming. [ſee above, p. 286.] [W].

The Family of Greene had great poſſeſſions in this county; as here, and at Widdington, Naveſtoke, Stanford-Rivers, and eſpecially at Shelley in Ongar Hundred.

The perſon to whom the laſt mentioned Sir Edward Greene alienated this eſtate, was

William Halton Eſq; who paid his ingreſs fine in 1640, and was created a Baronet 10 Septemb. 1642. He was the third ſon of Robert Halton of Sabridgworth Eſq; who was the third ſon of Robert Halton Eſq; made Serjeant at law in 1580. He was alſo heir and executor to his uncle Sir William Halton of Abbington in Cambridgeſhire, the Serjeant's ſecond ſon. By his firſt wife, Mary daughter of Sir Edward Altham

We ſhall purſue the Hiſtory of this Family no further here; but beg leave to refer, for a more particular account of it, to the Peerage, Vol. II. edit. 1741, p. 365. For Sir William, the ſecond Baronet, ſold this eſtate with that of Tewes, to Edward Peck Eſq; who paid ingreſſ fine in 1670. He was a younger ſon of William Peck of Methwold in Norfolk Gent. Being bred up to the law, he was created a Serjeant at law 29 January 1674, and King's Serjeant 12 April 1675 (q). He married Grace daughter and coheir of William Green of Eaſt Barnet in Hertfordſhire Eſq; By her he had his ſon and heir—William Peck Eſq; who took to wife Gartrude daughter of Sir William Green of Micham in Surrey Bart. and had by her 8 ſons and 3 daughters [X], of which only four ſurvived him; namely William his heir; Philip that dyed 2 June 1717; Grace, wife of John Trenchard of Cutteridge in Wiltſhire Eſq; &c. Their father dyed 27 June 1694, and his wife 10 Febru. 1720, and both lie buried in this Church, with a monument.——William Peck Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, was Sheriff of this County in 1705. He married Bridget daughter of Morgan Randal, or Randyll, of Chilworth in Surrey Eſq; ſhe dyed 14 June 1712, aged 31, having had two ſons, William, and Randyll, and eight daughters. The Father dyed 1 May 1727.——William Peck Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, was Sheriff of this County in 1730, and dyed about 1745. He married Catharine daughter of Thomas Thurſton Eſq; but left no iſſue [Y]. She is ſince remarried to Thomas Stanton Eſq; one of the Burgeſſes in Parliament for Ipſwich, who is ſaid to have purchaſed the reverſion of this eſtate.

2. The Maner of TEWES

Is named from an owner. For Thomas de Tewes hath his name and arms in the eaſt window of the north iſle of the Church [Z]. This eſtate has generally gone with the grand maner, though there is a diſtinct manſion-houſe, not quite half a mile north of the Church. It was poſſeſſed by Tendring, Bateman, and Greene, and afterwards by the Peck family: And holden of the Honor of Clare.

8. The Maner of FRIERS

Is about three miles from the Church: There was a Chapel near the manſion-houſe, the foundation of which is yet to be ſeen. In the Court-rolls it is ſometimes written Frerys de Safort; the manor of Jones, alias Fryers; Freres-Sampford, alias Sampford-Parva. And it is called Friers, and Jones, becauſe it belonged to the Knights Hoſpitallers, or of St. John of Jeruſalem. In ſome deeds it is called the Hoſpital of Samford. There was a perſon ſtiled Keeper of the Hoſpital of Samford. This maner had free-warren, aſſize of bread and beer, and view of frank-pledge, according to the oldeſt court-rolls of it extant, which are of 14 Richard II.

About the reign of K. Henry III. Aliva, daughter of Geſfery Fitz Baldwin, wife of Remfre, ſon of Roger, was ſeized of a manor in Samford; Hugh was her huſhand, after whoſe deceaſe ſhe gives this eſtate to the Knights Hoſpitallers. The grant was confirmed by Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter and Hertford [A].

After the diſſolution of religious Houſes, K. Henry VIII. granted this maner of Little Sampford &c. to Richard Higham Eſq; and his heirs: [See above, p. 490.] The next year, 6 November, Higham had licence to alienate the lordſhip and maner of Little Sampford, alias Fryers, to

William Humfrey, and his heirs (r) [B]. He dyed poſſeſſed of it 31 Auguſt 1573. and——William his ſon, then 30 years old, (s) paying his relief, had livery of this eſtate, 4 Decemb. following. He departed this life 25 April 1592, leaving his eldeſt ſon and heir——William, aged 17 years (t). Beſides him he had four ſons, Robert, John, Samuel, Antony, and three daughters, Joane, Mary, Ellen. William the eldeſt ſon, having only two daughters, ſettled this eſtate on his brother Samuel; and dying 7 June 1607 (u), was ſucceeded by his ſaid brother——Samuel Humfrey of Bocking Eſq; He made his will 4 Octob. 1666, and his ſon and ſucceſſor,——Samuel had his will proved 5 Octob. 1687: the latter married Anne, daughter of William Maſcall of this pariſh, by whom he had——Samuel, who, by Elizabeth . . . his wife, left four ſons William, Robert, Nicolas, and Martin. His will was proved 13 April 1711, wherein he entailed his eſtate on his eldeſt ſon and his heirs, and for want of iſſue on the next.—William ſucceeded his father, and dyed ſingle.—Robert ſucceeded his brother, and dyed alſo ſingle.—Nicolas Humfrey was the laſt poſſeſſor. This eſtate now belongs to John Henniker Eſq; mentioned above, p. 425, 426, 457.

The following Perſons have alſo ſome eſtates here. Mr. Samuel Williams; Tho: Reynolds; John Gibſon; Abraham, and Robert, Bernard; and a few others.

[A] Such is the account we have in Mr. Holman's MS. Collections, without any authority quoted.

[B] The family of Humfrey was antient, and of ſome note, in this pariſh and Thackſted. Robert Humfrey ſenior was chief of the homage at a court holden at Friers in 1389. Robert Humfrey, next brother to William above-mentioned, was Mayor of Thackſted in 1634, Juſtice of Peace, &c. John his brother, was chief Burgeſs of the ſame Town, and reſided at Goldings.

The Church, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, ſtands pleaſantly on the ſide of a hill, or eminence. It hath a north iſle, but the Chancel is of one pace: the whole leaded. The Tower, which is pretty lofty, contains 3 Bells.

This Rectory was appendent to the maner of Little Samford-hall, till it was ſold by William Peck Eſq; who dyed in 1727. However a perſon was preſented, in order to conteſt the Title, with the help of the profits which he enjoyed all the while. But the purchaſer got the affair compromiſed. The Advowſon was afterwaſds bought by the late Rev. Thomas Bernard, Rector of Little Bardfeild, and Vicar of Earl's-Colne.

Geffrey, ſon of Hamon, gave two parts of his great tythes here, and the whole of his ſmall tythes, to the Priory of Stoke near Clare; which was confirmed by Archbiſhop Becket and Pope Alexander III. This was valued at 20 s. per ann. and aſſigned to a Prebendary when that Church became Collegiate.

5. GREAT SANDFORD,

Otherwiſe called Old Sandford, or Samford, is north of the laſt.

It was antiently part of the royal Demeſnes, and belonged to Edeva. William the Conqueror gave it to Ralph de Guader, whom he created Earl of Norfolk and Suffolk: But he forfeiting it, that King took it again into his own hands, and diſpoſed of it to his Sewer Godric [C].

This Ralph was of Engliſh extraction, his father being an Engliſhman, and his mother a Welſhwoman (x). He was ſurnamed de Guader, from a caſtle of his in Bretagne, where he had alſo another caſtle called Montfort (y); but is ſaid to have been a native of Norfolk (z). He married in 1075, at Ixning in Suffolk, Emma, daughter of William Fitz-Oſbern Earl of Hereford; ſiſter of William, Lord of Breteuil in Normandy, and of Roger after his father Earl of Hereford. At this marriage, entering into a conſpiracy with Waltheof, Earl of Huntingdon, and other Noblemen, againſt William the Conqueror, he was deprived of this eſtate (a) [D].

In this pariſh are the following Maners. 1. The maner of Great Sandford. 2. . . . that of Giffords alias Stanley.

1. The Maner of Great Sandford.

The manſion-houſe ſtands in the ſtreet, near the Church, on the ſame ſide of the way.

This maner was early divided into two Parts; one holden under the Crown; and the other granted to the Roos family.

As to the moiety belonging to the Crown: K. Henry II. granted it to a family ſurnamed de Kemeſec; [ſee above, p. 418.] in which it continued for ſome generations, till by females it came to Welles, Coggeſhall, and to Tyrell, Bateman, and Green.

In 1210 and 1211, Henry de Kemeſec, ſon of Arnulf, and Derkin de Lare, held Sanford by the ſervice of half a knight's fee (b).

In 1284, Ralph de Kemeſec held the maner of Great Samford in capite, of the King by the ſervice of a knight's fee (c): —Edmund de Kewſeck, as he is called, probably by miſtake for Kemſeck, held it by the ſame ſervice, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1287 (d). And in 1299 — Edmund de Kemeſet held one moiety of it of the King, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee; and the other moiety of Robert de Roos, by the ſame ſervice. By Matilda his wife, he had two daughters, coheirs, Petronilla, and Iſabella (e). Petronilla dyed ſingle, in 1313; whereupon her ſiſter

Iſabella, then wife of Robert de Welles, inherited the whole eſtate (f); [ſee above, p. 401.] But Joane, ſecond wife of her father Edmund, held the third part of this maner till her deceaſe in 1331, her heir being——William ſon of Philip de Welle (g). He dyed in 1349, leaving Joanna his daughter and ſole heir (h). [ſee under Eaſt-Tilbury.] She was married to Sir Henry de Coggeſhall, mentioned above, p. 162, 346, 372: He departed this life in 1375. Sir William de Coggeſhall, his ſon and heir, dyed about the beginning of the reign of K. Henry VI. He had married Antiochia, daughter of Sir John Hawkwood, ſon of the famous Sir John Hawkwood, ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 287, 288.

By her he had four daughters, coheirs, Blanch, married to John Doreward Eſq; Alice, to Sir John Tyrell of Heron's; Margaret, to William Bateman, mentioned under the laſt pariſh; and Maud, married firſt to Robert Dacre Eſq; and then to John St. George. [ſee above, p. 372.]

This eſtate fell to the ſhare of Alice and Margaret, and their two huſbands Sir John Tyrell, and William Bateman, Eſq;

After Bateman's death, Margaret was re-married to John Roppeley Eſq; At the time of her deceaſe, 5 June 1459, ſhe held this whole maner of Great Sampford, and 308 acres of arable, 19 and a half of meadow, 12 of wood, 103 s. ob. rent of aſſize, in the villages of Great and Little Samford, and Hempſted. One half of this maner was holden of the King in capite, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee: the other of William Roos. Her heir was her only daughter Margaret, then wife of William Greene Eſq; (i). See under the laſt pariſh. He dyed 11 Janu. 1488, and ſhe 31 May 1488, at which time ſhe held one half of all the premiſſes; wherein ſhe was ſucceeded by her ſon——Sir John Greene (k). And he by his ſon——Sir Edward Greene: This laſt dyed 13 June 1554 (l), and his ſon — Rooke Greene Eſq; purchaſed of Henry Tyrell Eſq; the ſhare that family had in this eſtate; and dyed poſſeſſed of the whole, 9 April 1602 (m).

An account of the very ancient Family of Tyrell belongs to Eaſt-Horndon, where for many centuries hath been their capital ſeat, and chief place of reſidence. We ſhall therefore mention here only ſuch of them as had a part, or ſhare, of this eſtate. And the firſt of them was Sir John Tyrell, in right of his wife Alice de Coggeſhall. He was Treaſurer of the Houſhold to K. Henry VI. and ſucceeded in his eſtates by his eldeſt ſon——Sir Thomas Tyrell, who dyed in 1476, poſſeſſed of half of this maner; one part of which was holden of the King in ca. by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, and the other part of William Roos (n). His ſucceſſors in it, were——Sir William Tyrell.—— Sir Thomas Tyrell, Knight Banneret, who dyed in 1510 (o). —— Thomas Tyrell Eſq; and —— Thomas Tyrell Eſq; his ſon, who dyed 3 April 1540, leaving only two daughters, Catharine and Gertrude (p). By fine in Hilary-term 1543, this ſhare of the maner of Gr. Samford, with 200 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 100 of paſture, 40 of wood, and 50 s. rent, was paſſed to Henry Tyrell, and Thomaſine his wife, for life, and their heirs; and for want of heirs, to the right heirs of Sir Thomas Tyrell, father of Henry. Henry, and Thomas Tyrell, had licenſe, 20 May 1570, to ſell their ſhare of this maner of Old Sampford to Rooke Greene Eſq; (q) by which means this Moiety became veſted in that family.

The other Moiety, or Half, of this Maner, belonged, as we have obſerved above, to the Roos family.

They had their ſurname from the lordſhip of Roos in Holderneſſe in Yorkſhire.

Robert de Roos Lord of Helmſley, or Hamlake-caſtle in Yorkſhire, married Iſabell daughter and heir of William de Albini, alias Todeney, Lord of Belvoir-caſtle in Rutlandſhire; and had by her William, Robert, and Emlin married to William de Thany (r).—— Robert de Roos, the ſecond ſon, had the Moiety of this maner. He was knighted by K. Henry III. and had two ſons, Robert, and Sacer. The eldeſt ſon —— Robert was a knight Templar, who, after his return from Jeruſalem, dyed in Yorkſhire; whence his portraiture was brought, and laid amongſt other Knights in the Temple-Church, London (s). The ſecond brother,——Sacer de Roos, inherited this among the reſt of the eſtates. He left two ſons, Robert and John.——Robert was knighted, and one of the Repreſentatives in Parliament, in 1310, for the County of Hertford.—Sir John de Roos was poſſeſſed of this eſtate in K. Edward the third's reign; as was Alice his widow, who dyed in 1375 (t), and was ſucceeded by their grandſon — John de Roos [E]. [ſee under Radwinter, and Aſheldham.] It was afterwards in William Giffard, of an ancient family in Buckinghamſhire, deſcended from Ralph Giffard, who was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1318 and 1319. He was father of John and Margaret. John dyed in 1414 (u), without iſſue: From him took the name of an eſtate, which he had at Gilſton in Hertfordſhire, Giffards.

Margaret, wife of John Chauncy, Eſq; ſon of William late Baron of Scirpenbeck, was his ſiſter and heir (w). Their ſon and heir was ——John Chauncy Eſq; who married Anne, daughter of Sir John Leventhorp of Sabridgeworth, and had John, Ralph, and ſix daughters; but how long the eſtate continued in that family I have nothing to ſhew.

The demeſne lands of this Maner have been parcelled out. Some are in the Harvey family, who have the Maner, and ſome in other hands.

2. The Maner of GIFFARDS

Was ſo called from the Giffard family, and ſtill preſerves its name. It alſo bears the name of Stanle, upon what account we cannot learn, unleſs it formerly belonged to one of that family. [ſee above, p. 262.] The maner houſe ſtands in that part of this pariſh which is called Tinning End. The old manſion-houſe ſtood on a piece of ground encloſed by a moat, containing about two acres, at an equal diſtance from the new houſe, and a farm-houſe called Godmayl.

This maner was holden of the Roos family, as chief lords here. Sir John de Roos, ſon of John, who was ſon of Sacer de Roos, had a daughter named Elen. She was married to Sir Geffrey Brockole (x), who had by her two daughters; ſhe dyed in 1419, poſſeſſed of the maner of Stanley, otherwiſe called Giffards, in Great Samford [F]. Her daughters and heirs, were Joane, wife of Thomas Aſpall, and Margery, wife of John Sumpter, of Colcheſter, whoſe ſon and heir was——John. This John dyed in 1425, poſſeſſed of a moiety of Stanley otherwiſe called Giffords, and left Chriſtian and Elene his daughters, who carried this moiety to their huſbands Holt and Bernard, viz. Elene to Ralph Holt, and Chriſtian to Tho. Bernard, Gent. (y).

[E] The noble family of Manners, Duke of Rutland, derive the title of Lord Roos from Alianore, eldeſt ſiſter and one of the coheirs of Edmund Lord Roos, married to Sir Robert Manners. See Dugdale, Bar. Vol. I. p. 553.

[F] This maner was holden of Philippa Ducheſs of York, as of her maner of Wimbiſh. Elen had alſo the maners of Ros in Radwinter, and of Newhall in Aſheldam. Inquiſ. 7 Hen. V.

Joane after Aſpall's death, married Robert Armburgh Eſq; to whom ſhe granted this eſtate by fine, in 1442, for his life, remainder to John Palmer. She dyed in 1447. There is no mention of her heirs (z).

Chriſtian, wife of Tho. Bernard, dying without iſſue, this whole maner came to her ſiſter Elene Holt (a).

We find afterwards this maner in the Giffard family: from which it took its name. John Giffard had it, but he dying without iſſue, it deſcended to his ſiſter Margaret, wife of John Chauncy Eſq; She held it of the Maſter of the Hoſpital of St. John in Jeruſalem, of Henry Cobham, Margaret Roppeley, and John Grene, by the ſervice of 34 s. 4 d. per ann. and dying in 1448, gave it to her ſon —— John Chauncy, who left it to his brother —— John Chauncy, the younger (b). The Chauncy family were poſſeſſed of it till 1547.

Very ſoon after it was in the Bradburys of Littlebury. For William Bradbury Eſq; who dyed 26 Auguſt 1550, held this maner of Giffords in Great and Little Sampford and Finchingfeild, of the Earl of Arundell and his wife, as of their maner of Wymbiſhe. —— Robert Bradbury his ſon, was 12 years old (c), He held this maner at the time of his deceaſe 11 Janu. 1576, and was ſucceeded by his brother —— Henry (d): who alſo dyed poſſeſſed of it 27 Febru. 1596, leaving his ſon and heir —— William (e).

The Rev. John Baker Cl. had it in 1637 (f). As had lately

The Rev. William Byatt, Rector of Foxearth. And it was paſſed by fine, in Michaelmas-term 1743, by Thomas Luck to John Piper of Aſhen Eſq; and his wife.

ROBERTS, otherwiſe FREE-ROBERTS, is a reputed Maner in this pariſh; the manſion-houſe of which ſtands about half a mile from the Church, towards Hemſted.

Robert Mordaunt Eſq; who dyed 20 May 1572, held here of Rooke Greene Eſq; a meſſuage, anciently called Underwoods, with 200 acres of land thereto belonging; and lands and tenements called Harts and Robarts; by the yearly rent of 9 s. 8 d. —— John Mordaunt, ſon of Philip his ſon, was his heir (g). He dyed 7 July 1574, and was ſuccceeded by his brother—James (b); who dying in 1575, had for ſucceſſor his brother —— Robert (i). [ſee uuder Hemſted.] This belongs now to the Harvey Family.

Mr. Abraham Gibſon; John Turpin; Thomas Barnard; John Andrews; Henry Baker; Thomas Winterfield; Peter Dench; Thomas Day; George Steele, and a few others, have alſo ſome eſtates in this pariſh.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Michael, is pleaſantly ſituated by the high-way ſide. It conſiſts of a body and two iſles, which are all leaded: the Chancel, with a large Chapel on the ſouth, are tyled. A ſquare Tower at the weſt end, embattled, contains 5 Bells.

The Lordſhip of this pariſh, with the advowſon of the Church, being in the hands of William the Conqueror, he gave the Church, entirely free, with the full Tithes, and glebe of the ſame, to Battle-Abbey in Suſſex, founded by him as a monument of his Victory. And his ſon and ſucceſſor, William Rufus, confirmed this grant at the dedication of their Church (k). The great Tithes were afterwards appropriated to them, and a Vicarage ordained, of which they were patrons.

That Convent enjoyed this Church and Rectory, and preſented to the Vicarage till 10 March 1535, when they foreſeeing the ſtorm, as it is ſaid, conveyed them, with Hemſted Chapel, to Robert Mordaunt of Hemſted Eſq; in whoſe Family they remained till after 1634, when they came to that of Harvey.

A Chantry was founded here, when and by whom is not known, for a prieſt to ſing maſs in Great Samford Church, and aſſiſt the Parſon in the Cure, there being 360 of howſeling people in the pariſh. At the return of the Chantries, the yearly value of this was 9 l. 18 s. 1 d. ob. K. Edward VI. granted the revenues of it, in 1548, to Thomas Tyrell Eſq; and his heirs. They lay in the pariſhes of Great and Little Samford, Hemſted, Little Bardfeild, Debden, and Panfeild.

Out of Pound-mead was given for a yearly Obit the yearly Sum of 3 s. 4 d. of which to the Poor 3 s.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 900 l. 3 s.

With reſpect to the Church, is only a Chapel of Eaſe to Great Samford; but is of more extenſive bounds than the lands in the mother-church, being rated to the land-tax at 1565 l.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it was diſtinct from Great Sandford, and in different hands, namely in Wiſgar; and at the time of the Survey belonged to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, and his under-tenant Robert de Watevill [H]. See above, p. 405.

There are two Maners in this Chapelry. 1. The maner of Hemſted-hall. 2. Crochman's, alias Winſlows.

1. Hemsted-hall

Stands near two miles north-eaſt from the Church, towards Birdbrook; and is an old mean edifice.

One of the Earls of Clare, ſucceſſors to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, early gave this Maner to one of the De Veres Earls of Oxford [l], under which noble Family it continued to be holden, as of their Honor of Hedingham-caſtle, by the ſervice of two knights-fees, for ſeveral generations, by the Watevilles, Langhams, and Cottons; but ſtill the Earls of Clare remained lords paramount, it being primarily holden of their Honor of Clare.

Of the Watevilles a full account is given above, p. 405. in Pantfeild. From Robert de Watevill, under-tenant to Richard Fitz-Giſlebert, deſcended Sir Robert de Wateville, who lived here in the reigns of K. Richard I. and K. John: By Maud his wife he had —— Sir William de Wateville, to whom K. Hen. III. granted free-warren in his lordſhips of Hemſted and Pantfeld. He married the daughter and heir of Peter de Godvile of this place; and had by her —— Sir William his ſon, who married Thorema, daughter and heir of Sir Robert Roos of Radwinter. Their ſon and heir ——Sir John de Wateville, by Alice his wife, left Sir John de Wateville, and Joane. This Sir John was a Knight banneret; and beſides him there were two other Knights banneret of this family at the ſame time in this county, in the reign of K. Edward I. namely Sir Robert, and Sir Roger de Wateville. [ſee above, p. 406.]

Sir John de Wateville dying without iſſue, —Joane his ſiſter inherited his eſtates. She was married twice; firſt to . . . Richard de Mutford about 1330, by whom ſhe had no iſſue; and in 1341, to . . . Sir William Langham; who came and reſided here. In her right, Sir William held two knights fees in Hemſted under John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1358, and under Thomas de Vere, who dyed in 1370 (m). They had four ſons; —— Sir William, the eldeſt, ſucceeded his father, and married Margaret, daughter and co-heir of William de Darſham, by whom he had two ſons, John and Robert, and a daughter, Catharine, wife of John de Hemenall.—John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, married to his firſt wife Alice, daughter and coheir of Sir William Coggeſhall of Little Samford-hall, widow of Sir John Tyrell of Heron, and had by her George. By his ſecond wife he had no iſſue. He dyed about 1417, in the life-time of his father.—George, his ſon and ſucceſſor, beſides the maners of Hemſted and Pantfeild, had the Lordſhip of Little Cheſterford in right of Iſabella his wife daughter of William Haſilden, of that Place, where he and his wife lie buried.—— Richard Langham Eſq; their only ſon, married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Southcote, Eſq; and had by her

Alice, his ſole daughter, a rich heireſs, married firſt, to Thomas St. John Eſq; to whom ſhe bore four daughters, Elizabeth, Margaret, Joane, and Iſabell (n). For her ſecond huſband ſhe had John Cotton, or Coton, Eſq; ſon and heir of John Cotton of Ridware-Hamſtall in Staffordſhire Eſq; deſcended from William Cotton of Cotton in Cheſhire. Upon this marriage, W. Cotton came and reſided here, and ſometimes at Pantfeild. By this ſecond huſband, Alice had three [or, according to ſome, five] ſons, and three daughters. She dyed 16 May 1525, poſſeſſed of the maners of Hemſted and Pantfield, which ſhe held of Catharine Queen of England as of her Honor of Clare (o), and lies buried with her huſbands in Pantfeld Church. —— Sigiſmund Cotton her ſon and heir dying 5 January 1541, was ſucceeded by ——William his eldeſt ſon (p), who married Anne, daughter of John Veſcay of Cambridgeſhire Eſq; and dyed 16 Auguſt 1561, leaving —— George his ſon and heir, then 18 years old (q). He married Frances, daughter of Thomas Felton of Playford in Suffolk, Eſq; and had by her four ſons and five daughters, as may be ſeen above, p. 406. Departing this life 15 March 1592, he was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon —— Thomas Cotton Eſq; (r), who took to wife Anne, daughter of Sir Henry Warner of Milden-hall in Suffolk, Knt. —— Antony Cotton Eſq; moſt probably his ſon, did homage and fealty for Hemſted-hall at the court of Hedingham-caſtle, 31 March 1631 (s).

Sir John Soame, Knt. held this eſtate in 1637 (t); and in 1642 Sir Richard Stone, Knt. paid an ingreſs fine for Hemſted-hall (u). There are no Epitaphs in the Church to give any light who was lord at that time. Indeed the confuſion which war and plunder introduced in the laſt century, among Eſtates and Families, occaſions ſuch chaſms in Hiſtory, as cannot be filled up, notwithſtanding the utmoſt care and induſtry.

This eſtate came, about the middle of the laſt century, into the Harvey family, ſeated at Chigwell, where a particular account is given of them: and was purchaſed, either by the learned Phyſician Dr. William Harvey, or by his brother Eliab Harvey Eſq; with Crochman's, and other lands in this pariſh, and Wood-hall in Finchingfield. [ſee above, p. 365.]

A quarter of a Fee in this place was holden of the Earl of Oxford, as of the Honor of Clare, by

2. The Maner of CROCHMAN's, alias WINSLOW's,

Was ſo named from two of its ancient owners, as will appear in the ſequel. In the Rolls it is entered Winſlows, alias Goldinghams, alias Free-Roberts. [See above, p. 365.   ] It was holden of the Earls of Clare. The manſion-houſe ſtands about half a mile north weſt of the Chapel, or Church here, by the ſide of the road.

The earlieſt account we have of its owners is about the beginning of K. Edward the Third's reign.

John Grigge of Hamſtedd, who dyed in 1332, held in this pariſh, and in Sampford and Fynchingfeild, 700 acres of land:

Egidia his only daughter and heir was wife of William Crocheman (w). He dyed in 1351. Under John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1358, ——John, ſon and heir of this William Crocheman, held half a knight's fee in Hemſted, and half a knight's fee in Finchingfeld. He held alſo in Gr. Samford 153 acres of arable, 4 of meadow, 1 of paſture, 4 and a half of wood, and 18 s. rent; at the time of his deceaſe, which happened in 1368.——William his brother and heir, held the ſame: and dying in 1391, left his only daughter and heir [K]

Mariota (x), married firſt to John Wynſelowe [L], who gave name to this place; and afterwards to Thomas Holgyll. She dyed in 1409, holding this meſſuage, as it is ſtyled (y), of the Earl of Oxford; and was ſucceeded by her ſon —— William Wyncelowe. He departed this life in 1419, leaving by Agnes his wife, an only daughter named——Joane, then but 6 years old (z), and which dyed in 1431. Whereupon theſe lands deſcended to

Walter Huntington her couſin and heir, ſon of John Huntington, ſon of Elizabeth ſiſter of William Crochman the younger, father of Mariota; which Walter had the remainder of the ſame (a). He held, at the time of his deceaſe in 1443, 600 acres of arable, &c. as above-mentioned, p. 365, in Great and Little Sampford, &c. and the reverſion of 300 acres of arable, 10 acr. of meadow, 19 of wood, and 3 parts of one meſſuage in Hempſted, Sampford, and Finchingfeild, then holden by the aboveſaid Agnes in dower (b), which I take to be this Maner of Crochman's. — Thomas Huntington, ſon and heir of Walter, did homage for this eſtate in 1444, at Caſtle-Hedingham, and dyed 28 Decemb. 1498 [M]. By Margaret his wife, daughter of William Tyrell, of Beches in Rawreth Eſq; which Margaret dyed 5 Novemb. 1492, he had two daughters, Margaret, and Anne. The eldeſt was married to John Parys, ſon of Robert Parys of Linton, Eſq; Anne to

William Mordaunt chief Protonotary of the Common Pleas: To the marriage ſettlement, dated 14 February 1494, Parys, father and ſon, were parties, whereby the maner of Crochmans, and lands and tenements in Much-Samford and Much-Radwinter were ſettled on William and Anne. The marriage was conſummated 5 June following. This William Mordaunt was ſecond ſon of William Mordaunt of Turvey in Bedfordſhire Eſq; By his wife Anne aboveſaid he had 4 ſons, and 11 daughters. The ſons were, Robert; Chriſtopher to whom he gave Weldbarnes in Depden; Edmund, of Thunderley; George. The daughters were, Anne, wife firſt of Humfrey Torrel of Willingale, and afterwards of Thomas Rudſton; another Anne, wife of John Slade; Margaret, of Sir Laurence Taelour; Alice, of Giles Chiſhull; another Alice, wife of Robert Locton; Elizabeth, of William Heigham; Jane, of Robert Wilkins; Margaret of Edmund Chune; Barbara of . . . Snelling; Elizabeth, of Thomas Heath; Anne, of Thomas Cracherode.—Robert, the eldeſt ſon, who dyed 20 May 1572, had the maners of Winſlowes, alias Crouchmans, and Goldinghams, in this pariſh; Underwoods and Harts in Great Sampford; and Woodhall in Finchingfeild (c). By his wife Barbara, daughter and heir of John Strange of Little Maſſingham in Norfolk Eſq; He had ſeveral ſons and daughters. Philip, the eldeſt, dyed before him, 27 Septemb. 1569, leaving by Mary his wife, daughter of . . . Calthorp Eſq; John, James, Robert, Henry, and Edward. He had the maner of Roding-Berners. [ſee above, p. 475.] (d). —— John, the eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded his grandfather, but dyed unmarried 7 July 1574: as did his two next brothers——James and Robert, in 1575 (e). Theſe two laſt were lunatics.——Henry the next brother ſucceeding them, tranſmitted theſe, and other large eſtates in Norfolk, to his ſon —— L'Eſtrange Mordaunt Eſq; created a Baronet in 1611. This Sir L'Eſtrange married firſt Margaret de Antwerpia, by whom he had Robert, Henry; Jane, Anne, and Elizabeth. His ſecond wife was Frances, daughter of Robert Cheek of Debenham in Suffolk, relict of Thomas Sotherton of Norwich.——Sir Robert Mordaunt, the eldeſt ſon and heir, knighted in his father's life-time, did homage for his maner of Wynſelows, &c. 5 July, 1630 (f). He reſided chiefly at Hemſted, and was buried here in 1638: By Amy his wife, daughter of Sir Auſtin Sotherton of Norfolk, he had Charles, William, and Robert. —— Sir Charles ſucceeded his father, dwelt chiefly at Maſſingham, was a great ſufferer for his loyalty, and dyed at London 10 July 1647. Before his deceaſe he ſold this eſtate either to Dr. Harvey, or his brother Eliab Harvey Eſq; and in that fa-

Blackdon, is a Hamlet, or Maner, in this Chapelry, about a mile north north eaſt from the Chapel. By a charter without date, Robert Wateville gave it to William ſon of Iſabell, by the name of one carucate of land of 160 acres of arable, and 4 acres of meadow, in Hampſted; namely, the whole land of Blackdone, and the land which was Walter Chamberlain's, and the land which was Alwine's the Provoſt. . . . William ſon of Iſabell granted it to Albery de Vere Earl of Oxford: and of the Earl, and of . . . Wateville, it was holden by John de Launde in 1268. . . . George Weſtley had it in the reign of K. Henry VII. (g): and Richard Weſtley, his ſon, or deſcendent, dyed 23 Janu. 1518, and is buried in this Chapel. . . . Thomas Onyon had it afterwards. . . . Sir Martin Lumley Bart. paid ingreſs fine for Blackdons 6 July 1637. And ſome time ago, it was purchaſed for the uſe of Guy's Hoſpital.

John Pound, ſome time of Hemſted, gave a meſſuage and ſix acres of meadow, or paſture, lying here, for the relief of the Poor, and maintenance of the Church.

There is another meſſuage, and ſome parcels of land, amounting in the whole to about ſix acres: the Donors unknown.

The Chapel ſtands upon a pleaſant aſcent, with a good ſouth proſpect. It conſiſts of a middle pace, and two iſles, leaded: The Chancel is only of one pace, and tyled. The Tower contains 5 large Bells. On the north ſide of the Chancel, and part of the Church, is a brick building, or Chapel; one part of it is uſed for an unendowed School; under the whole building is the vault of the Harvey Family, being a fair large room, lighted with three windows partly aboveground.

This Chapel of Eaſe is annexed to the Vicarage of Great Samford, and has been ſo ever ſince the reign of K. William Rufus who ſettled it on Battle Abbey.

As Dr. William Harvey lieth buried in the Vault juſt now mentioned, and hath a Monument in the Chapel, it will be proper to give here ſome account of that truly great Man, the glory of the Engliſh name, who firſt plainly diſcovered and truly ſettled the Doctrine of the Circulation of the Blood. He was the eldeſt ſon of Thomas Harvey of Folkſtone in Kent, Gent. and the eldeſt of ſeven ſons, by Joane Halke, his wife. The day of his birth was 2 April 1578. At ten years of age he was put to the Grammar-ſchool at Canterbury, and thence at fourteen removed to Gonvill and Caius college in Cambridge, in the view of ſtudying Phyſic. Having ſpent five years there, he went for his further improvement through France and Germany to Padua, then the moſt famous Seminary for Phyſicians: and in 1602 was created Doctor of Phyſic and Chirurgery. Soon after this he returned to England, and took his Doctor of Phyſic's Degree at Cambridge; into which he was afterwards incorporated at Oxford. [7 Decemb. 1642.] About the year 1603, he began to practiſe in London, and ſome time after married, but had no iſſue ſurviving. In 1604 he was admitted candidate of the College of Phyſicians, and three years after Fellow. His Treatiſe on the Circulation of the Blood was finiſhed either in 1618 or 1619, but not publiſhed till 1628 at Francfort in 4to. Beſides which, he publiſhed two Pieces more, and left ſeveral others in manuſcript. He was phyſician both to K. James I. and K. Charles I. and faithfully adhered to the Royal Cauſe during the Troubles. In 1645 he was elected Warden of Merton-college; and Preſident of the College of Phyſicians in 1654, which laſt Honor he declined. That year he built a public Hall, a Library, and Muſeum, on ground purchaſed by the College of Phyſicians in Warwick-lane, near Amen-Corner, which he gave to this Society, and endowed it in his life-time, with his paternal eſtate in Kent. He appointed an annual Oration to be pronounced there, with a ſtipend of 10 l. and an entertainment to the Fellows on that day. This Edifice was burnt in the year 1666, inſtead of which the preſent noble ſtructure was raiſed. He has a Statue in the College, and his Picture is placed near the King's Arms. It has been obſerved of this great man, that he lived to ſee his Doctrine of the Circulation of the Blood eſtabliſhed, and that he was the only one that was ſo happy to have his labours approved of in his lifetime. Such indeed is the force of envy, that what will be allowed to the dead, is ſeldom allowed to the living: The force of Truth was here ſuperior to the force of Envy. He dyed 3 June 1657, in the 80th year of his age. See Wood's Faſti, Vol. II. col. 6. 6. BUMPSTED-HELION

Lies weſt of Bumpſted-Steple, from which it is diſtinguiſhed by the appellation of Helion; a name taken from its ancient lords, the Helion Family, which held it by Barony (h). The north parts of it lye on the edge of Cambridgeſhire, and Suffolk.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the owners of this pariſh were Lewin Cilt, and Ulwin: At the time of the Survey it was holden by Tihell Brito, and Alberic de Vere.

The Maners in this pariſh are, 1. The maner of Helions, in Bumpſted-Helion. 2. Bumpſted-hall. 3. The maner of Boblows. 4. Olmeſted-hall. 5. Herſham-hall.

1. The Maner of Helions, in Bumpsted-Helion.

The manſion-houſe is about half a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church.

(g) Feodar. Honoris de Hedingham ad Caſtr. fol. 39.

(h) Camden's Britan. in Eſſex.

This is what Tihell Brito held [N]: And from Ti-hellus, as ſome fancy, was the name of Helion formed. He was ſurnamed Brito, as being undoubtedly one of the Britons, or Armoricans, who ſerved under Alan the Red, captain of the rear of William the Conqueror's Army. [See above, p. 346.]

Robert de Helion, a Baron in K. Henry the Second's reign, though not taken notice of as ſuch by Sir William Dugdale, had ten knights fees of the old feoffment; and ſome parts of fees of the new [O]. —— William de Helyun, his ſucceſſor, and perhaps his ſon, lived in the reigns of K. Richard I. K. John, and part of K. Henry the Third's [P].——Amicia his widow, held land in Bumſted, of the value then of 20 ſhilllings (i). That family had the maner of Bumſted-Helion down to the year 1449.——Andrew, ſon of William and Amicia, dyed in 1289. He held in this pariſh a capital meſſuage, 70 acres of arable, 3 of meadow, 4 of paſture, 8 of wood, and 10 s. 6 d. rent of aſſiſe, of the King in capite, by the ſervice of the third part of a knight's fee: Beſides 25 acres more here (k). So that their demeſnes were not very conſiderable: but they had alſo an eſtate at Haverhill. —— Henry de Helyon, their ſon, held the premiſſes at the time of his deceaſe in 1304. And Alice his widow, a third part of the ſame in 1314 (l). —— Henry their ſon dyed in 1332 (m) [Q]. —— John, his ſon, and Agnes his wife, held this eſtate, and others in Suffolk, of the King as of the Honor of Helyon. He dyed in 1349. As did —— Henry his ſon (n), in 1391; who, beſides this maner, had alſo that of Nortofts in Finchingfeild [ſee above, p. 366.]——John, his ſon and heir, got an immenſe addition to his fortune [R], by marrying Alice, daughter of Sir Robert Swynborne by Joanne his wife, daughter and heir of John Boutetort Eſq; [ſee above, p. 234, 306, 332.] ——John Helyoun Eſq; their ſon and heir, the laſt heir male of this ancient family, dyed in 1449. He married Editha only daughter and heir of Thomas Rolf, of Goſfeild Eſq; by whom he left two daughters, coheirs, Philippa, and Iſabell [S] (o). Editha, at the time of her deceaſe, 1 June 1498, held the third part of this maner (p).

Philippa, the eldeſt daughter, became the wife of Sir Thomas Montgomery of Falkborne, but left no iſſue. [ſee above, p. 116, 117.] Iſabell, her ſiſter and heir, brought her great inheritance to her huſband, Humfrey Tyrell Eſq; of Little Warley, third ſon of Sir John Tyrell of Heron's. [ſee above, p. 306, 381.] They had an only daughter

Anne Tyrell, who was married to Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall in Wethersfeild. [ſee p. 333, 371, it ſhould be 373.] He acknowledged in the courts at Weſtminſter, in 1501, that he held in right of Anne his wife, the third part of this maner of the King, in capite (q). She dyed 28 Auguſt 1534, but this eſtate is not mentioned in the Inquiſition taken after her deceaſe (r).

It came, we know not how, to the Crown. For K. Edward VI. granted it, in 1553, by the name of Denge Hullyons; with Alvithley, Gerons; and the New-houſe, Tailfeers, and Stewards in Great Parndon, to the Maior, Commonalty and Citizens of London (s). It is appropriated to the uſe of St. Thomas's Hoſpital in Southwark.

2. Bumpsted-hall,

Stands in a bottom, a mile eaſt from the Church. The demeſnes of it are very extenſive, and it had formerly a Park. 'Tis by much the largeſt Maner in both the Bumpſteds; its Quit-rents are very conſiderable, and extend far into Bumpſted-Steple.

This was the part of the pariſh that belonged, at the Survey, to Alberic de Vere [T], anceſtor of the Earls of Oxford. On which account it is ſtyled, the maner of Helions Bumpſted, alias Bumſted Comitis, Earl's Bumſted, and the maner of Bumſted called Counteſſe medowe, or mead, in Bumſted-Helyoun.

It continued in the Vere Family from the Conqueſt to the reign of Qu. Elizabeth; with this interruption, that John de Vere [with Albrey his eldeſt ſon] was beheaded 26 Febru. 1461, for taking part with the Houſe of Lancaſter. His eſtates eſcheating to the crown, K. Richard III. gave this maner to John Howard Duke of Norfolk, who being ſlain at Boſworth field,

John de Vere, ſecond ſon of John who had been beheaded, was reſtored in blood and eſtate by K. Henry VII. [ſee above, p. 293.] This maner was holden of the King in capite: and belonged to, or was a member of, the Earldom of Oxford; which whole Earldom was holden of the King by the ſervice of two knights fees and a half (t). The firſt time we find it called in the Inquiſitions Earl's Bumſted, is in 1331, and the diſtinction between Bumſted Helioun and Bumſted Steple [V] firſt occurs in 1371: as does the name of Counteſſe meadow in 1416.

Edward de Vere Earl of Oxford, ſquandering his eſtates, [ſee above, p. 293.] cauſed a recovery of this to be paſſed, 20 June 1571, to Thomas Golding and Thomas Gent, Eſqrs. and obtained a licenſe, 12 May 1580, to alienate this maner, and lands called le Gibbons Fee [W], to

He dyed 30 Decemb. 1603, and was ſucceeded by his ſon —— Richard, then aged 60 years (u).—Edmund Stubbing, Gent. his brother and ſucceſſor, dyed 6 Septemb. 1630. —— William his eldeſt ſon was 30 years old (w): beſides whom he had Thomas, Henry, and John. William married Mary Collin, and departed this life 5 Aug. 1638, leaving —— Edward his ſon and heir 9 years old. Since that time the eſtate hath been poſſeſſed by Thomas: and by another —— Thomas, who dyed 29 Septemb. 1744, and was ſucceeded by his only ſon —— Thomas Stubbing Eſq; made a Juſtice of Peace in January 1744-5.

3. The Maner of BOBLOWES, otherwiſe BOBLO, BOBULO, and BUBLOWE.

The manſion houſe, which ſeems to be ancient, is ſituate on a riſing ground, about half a mile from the maner of Helions, towards Hemſted. This place has given name to a family mentioned in Grants without date, relating to Little Mapleſted Hoſpital. Simon de Bublowe gave two acres of arable in Bumſted-Magna to the Hoſpital of St. John's, alias Mapleſted-Parva: that is to the Præceptory there, belonging to the Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem. [ſee above, p. 282.] Iſabel de Bublowe gave an acre there to the ſame.

This eſtate continued in the Hoſpital of St. John of Jeruſalem till the diſſolution, when it came to the crown. In 1543, K. Henry VIII. granted the maner of Bublow to William Burnel. And he, by licenſe, dated 16 February the ſame year, ſold it to . . . John Golding (x), that dyed 28 Novemb. 1548 (y). Thomas Golding his ſon, by licenſe, dated 12 Febr. 1564, alienated it to . . . Francis Burnham; who, a few days after, conveyed the ſame to . . . Sir William Cordell: And, by licenſe of the 28th of June following, Sir William granted it to William Stubbing Gent. (z), from whom it paſſed to his two ſons—Richard, and — Edmund. The latter ſettled it on his 4th ſon—John, upon his marriage with Mary daughter of Reginald Stock.—William, and—Thomas, Stubbing, had it afterwards. The latter ſold it, 5 Auguſt 1701, to the Rev.

Thomas Took D. D. And by him it was conveyed. 25 April 1713, to

4. OLMSTED-HALL

Stands in the moſt northern parts of this pariſh, near Caſtle-Camps and Aſhdon; in which two pariſhes the lands belonging to it do chiefly lye. It was for a conſiderable time a Hamlet by itſelf, and in Caſtle Camps; though ſtyled the village of Olmſted in Bumſted. The Houſe is very ancient, and moated round.

It was originally part of the De Vere's Lordſhip of Bumſted-hall: and holden under them by the Olmſteds; namely, by — Martin de Olmſted, who gave lands to the Fraternity of Knights Templars at Litttle-Mapleſted (a). —— Maurice Olmſted held it in 1242.—William, his ſon, in the time of K. Edward I. and — John de Olmeſted, who dyed in 1311, leaving—William, his ſon and heir (b). Of this family was John Olmeſted Eſq; of Stanſted-hall. [ſee above, p. 256.]

It belonged afterwards to William Skrene; then to — John Skrene. [ſee above, p. 70, 97.]

Queen's College in Cambridge hath been poſſeſſed of it for ſeveral years. And it was holden of them, by leaſe, by Thomas Heyward Eſq; then by Thomas Ferrand of Hilderſham in Cambridgeſhire Eſq; who left it by will to James Reynolds Eſq; Recorder of St. Edmund's-bury, afterwards knighted, and conſtituted Chief Baron of the Exchequer 28 April 1730.

5. HERSHAM-HALL,

Is alſo in the northern part of this pariſh. The demeſnes of it extend into Caſtle-Camps, and Haverhill: Part of Haverhill lies in Eſſex. It

[V] Apud Bumſted Helioun cum Bumſted ad turrim 1 maner. Inquiſ. 45 Edw. III.

[W] This is called in Inquiſ. 4 Hen. V.—"maner' de "Bumſted ad turrim voc' Gebons, de Rege in ca." . . . Gebon, or Gibbon, is a corruption of Gobion, a very conſiderable Family, which had this eſtate; one at Toppesfield, ſee p. 361; and others in divers parts of the County.

belonged originally to the Vere Family: and at the time of the Survey was holden under Alberic by Aldelelm [X]; being then reckoned within the Hundred of Hinckford.

The noble Family of Vere held it as half a knight's-fee (c.) Under them it was holden by Peter de Tye in the reign of King Henry III. by——Thomas Lacy, and John Lacy, in the reign of K. Edward III. by——Peter Tye, in the ſame reign (d). And by Thomas Bateman in the reign of K. Henry VII. (e). A fine paſſed in 1464, between Hugh Wyche, and others, plaintiffs, and Thomas Bateman and his wife deforc' of the maner of Herſham-hall in Bumpſted Helyon, and Mone-hall, and lands in Bumpſted-Helyon, and Haverill.

The Maner of Herſham in this neighbourhood is alſo mentioned, but ſaid to be in the Town of Haverill, and holden of the Honor of Glouceſter.

In 1262, Richard de Clare, Earl of Glouceſter, had the maner of Herſham, which was Walter de Scoteny's (f).——In 1295, Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Glouceſter, held, in Herſham, of the King, in capite, the third part of a meſſuage, 107 acres of arable, 7 acr. of meadow, 8 of paſture, 4 of wood, 1 wind-mill, and 19 s. rent (g).

The maner of Herſham, was holden afterwards by Gilbert de Clare, and Hugh de Audele, Earls of Glouceſter; by Ralph Earl of Stafford; of the Earl of March, and his wife; by Hugh, Thomas, William, and Edmund, Earls of Stafford; and by Humfrey Duke of Buckingham (h).

Battle-Abbey is alſo recorded in Domeſday-book, as holding Herſam in Hincford-Hundred [Y].

Herſham-hall, together with a Maner called Mole-hall, vulgarly Morehall, formerly Scoteneys, belong now to Queen's College in Cambridge. The Court is kept in Haverhill.

Mr. Tho. Stubbing; Samuel Smith, ſenior and junior; Samuel Cole; Henry Wakeling; Joſeph Smith; and John Caſboult, have alſo ſome lands, or eſtates, in this pariſh.

It is rated to the land-tax at 1454 l. 3 s.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Andrew, is pleaſantly ſituated on a hill, and conſiſts of a body and a ſouth iſle.

The Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, London, were anciently poſſeſſed of the Rectory, or great Tithes of this pariſh; which they leaſed out to the Prior and Convent of Hatfield Regis in 1246, at a yearly rent of thirty-four marks ſterling; the agreement being confirmed, 5 April, 1246, by Fulk Baſſet Biſhop of London (i). It is probable this Convent had ſome lands here, which made them proper perſons to farm the tithes of the Dean of St. Paul's. And, indeed, Roger, Vicar of this Church, and John de Gippewic, Vicar of Gr. Canfield, had licenſe, in 1336, to give lands here to the Priory of Hatfield Bredoke (k): And they might have ſome before. They farmed alſo the tythes of the demeſne lands of Helion's eſtate here of the Prior of Prittlewell [Z]. Hatfield Priory preſented to the Vicarage till the ſuppreſſion. The Rectory is ſaid to fall to the crown, though in truth the convent were but tenants. In 1538, K. Henry VIII. granted this Rectory, and the Advowſon of the Vicarage, to Richard Mabott Cl. Maſter of the Hoſpital of St. Thomas the Martyr in Southwark, who preſented one Vicar (l). Theſe hoſpital lands being ſurrendered again ſoon after, the ſame King granted them to

William Burnell, who, by licenſe dated 8 May 1552, alienated them to

John Stubbing, and others (m). The latter had licenſe, 6 May 1553, to ſell the premiſſes to

Thomas Lond, or Lownd, who preſented to the Vicarage in 1571. And 9 April the ſame year, got a licenſe to alienate the manſion houſe of this Rectory, and all the Tithes thereto belonging, and Advowſon of this Vicarage, to William Lond (n).—William Lamb, ſon of Thomas Lamb, dyed 29 April 1608, poſſeſſed of the ſite of the Rectory of Bumſted-Helion and Advowſon of the Vicarage; and the glebe-lands of the Rectory, containing 41 acres —— Mabel Hawkins was his couſin and next heir, forty years old (o).

Devereux Tallakarne, who dyed 3 April 1628, held the Rectory of Bumſted Helion and the fourth part of the fifth part of the maner of Rands in that pariſh, of the King in capite.——John his ſon and heir, then aged twelve years, married afterwards Frances, daughter of Henry Gent Eſq; (p). This gentleman lies buried in the chancel here with a mural Monument. [ſee above, p. 340.]

The Advowſon of this Vicarage was afterwards in the Cowle, or Cole, family, who preſented to it from 1635 to 1694 (q). The laſt that preſented was Trinity-college in Cambridge.

Here formerly was a Guild, called St. Peter's Guild, to which belonged a meſſuage ſtyled Le Yeld-hall, that was granted by K. Edw. VI. in 1549, to John Herford, and William Williſon (r).

7. RADWINTER,

A large pariſh, lying weſt of the two laſt we have been deſcribing, is otherwiſe written in records Redewintra. From whence the name is formed, cannot eaſily be determined. The Saxon word Raꝺ ſignifies a road, riding, journey on horſeback. Reꝺ, is of the ſame ſignification as the Engliſh word Red. Winꞇeꞃ, is the ſame alſo as Winter: and Winꞇꞃeoþ, is a Vine, or Vine-tree. If there had been Vine-yards hereabouts, the name might have been derived from thence. This pariſh was at one time divided into Great and Little Radwinter, which diſtinction is now ſunk. And to it is laid, as a Hamlet, the maner of Bendiſh, which in all probability was once a ſeparate Pariſh.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the owners of the Lands here, were, Orgar; Aluric, a ſochman; and Leffin. At the time of the general Survey they were holden by Frodo; by Alberic de Vere, and his under-tenant Blanc; and by Tihell Brito, and his under-tenant Goderet [A]: and by Euſtace Earl of Bologne.

There are at preſent reckoned theſe four Maners in this pariſh. 1. The maner of Radwinter-hall. 2. . . . that of Brockhole's. 3. The maner of Bendiſh-hall. 4. The maner of Radwinter-Grange.

1. The Maner of RADWINTER-HALL,

Conſiſts of what Frodo, Alberic, and Tihell originally held.

The manſion-houſe is about half a mile ſouth-weſt from the Church. Frodo was brother to Baldwin, Abbot of St. Edmund's-bury in Suffolk, and progenitor of the ancient Family of Tilney in Norfolk. His ſon ——Gilbert, was father of ——Richard. Theſe two, about the reign of William Rufus, or K. Henry I. paſſed their ſhare of this lordſhip to Alberic de Vere and his heirs [B].

What Tibell had, made afterwards part of the Barony of Helion, which was ſubjected by the Empreſs Maud to Alberic de Vere, Earl of Oxford, as we have ſeen in the foregoing pariſh.

Warine Fitz-Gerold held of the honor of Helion half a knight's fee in Stiveton and Radwinter (s).

What Alberic himſelf held in this pariſh was very conſiderable; for it is ſaid to have been half of Radwinter: and though not ſo much in value as the parts belonging to Frodo and Tihell, yet it had ampler privileges called ſoc and ſaca, &c.

Robert, ſon of Robert ſon of Ailric, one of Albrey de Vere's Knights, held a knight's fee under him in the reign of K. Henry II. He left Beatrix his only daughter and heir, whom Albrey diſpoſed of in marriage to Jordan Chamberlain [C], his Man, with all the land which her father held of him, the ſaid Earl; namely, the Maner of Radwinter, and Advowſon of the Church. Beatrix had a grant of the ſame from Albrey, the next Earl of Oxford: As had her ſon, Martin Chamberlain, from Hugh de Vere, the 4th Earl of Oxford, with the Advowſon (t); of which he only reſerved the third preſentation.

Jordan Chamberlain had by Beatrix 2 ſons, and 1 daughter: John, Martin; and Arabella. —— John, the eldeſt ſon, was mortgaged as a ward to Dionyſia de Montchenſy, for the ſum of 200 l. He and his wife Joane held, in 1309, a tenement in Little Radwinter of the King in capite, as of the Honor of Albemarle, by the ſervice of the 4th part of a knight's fee; in which were 100 acres of arable, 3 acres of meadow, 8 of paſture and wood, and 9s. rent of aſſiſe: They held alſo two parts of the maner of Great Radwinter, of the Counteſs of Oxford, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, and yearly payment of 35 s. 6 d. ob. qa. to the ſaid Counteſs: And the third part of two parts of the ſame maner, paying her yearly 17 s. 5 d. qa. Having no iſſue, he was ſucceeded by his brother and next heir—Martin Chamberlain (u). His wife's name was Joane. . . After whoſe deceaſe, in 1328, he enjoyed, by the law of England, two knights fees and a quarter in Radwinter, worth 8 l. a year, holden of David Strathbolgy Earl of Athol (w). By his ſaid wife he had his ſon and heir, William, and two daughters, Catharine, and Elizabeth or Helen.——William ſucceeded his father, and had only a daughter, [B] This appears from two Charters without date, inſerted in the Feodary book of the Honor of Hedingham-Caſtle, late in the poſſeſſion of Peter Le Neve, Eſq; being as follows. Cecilia, that was married to Andrew de Bures. She dyed in 1351, leaving no child. Her huſband enjoyed in her right this Maner, with the Advowſon, and preſented to the Living in 1361, and 1368 (x).

Upon his death the eſtate fell to the ſiſters of William Chamberleyn; Helen, or Elizabeth, the younger was married to John Oveine, and dyed without iſſue; ſo all came to Catharine, married, firſt, to William Phelip, or Phippe, who held half a fee in Radwinter, under Thomas de Vere Earl of Oxford (y), and dyed without iſſue.—William de Hemeſi was her ſecond huſband; by him ſhe had Brian de Hemeſi.

In purſuance of two Fines paſſed in 1366, and 1367, between Sir Ralph de Hemenhale, and others, plaintiffs, and William Phelip and John Oveine, and their two wives deforc.' this eſtate was, by Indenture, 10 June 1373, ſettled on Brian, ſon of William and Catharine de Hemeſi, and his heirs. If he dyed without heirs, then to come to Helen Ovein and her heirs: And if ſhe dyed without iſſue, then to the right heirs of Ralph de Hemenhale. Brian and Helen dying without iſſue,

Sir Ralph de Hemenhale entered upon this maner (z). Before the year 1386,——Sir Robert Hemenhale was poſſeſſed in his demeſne as of fee, of the maner of Great Radwynter, with the Advowſon of the Church, which he gave to Robert de Aſhefeild, and others (a). In the reign of K. Henry IV. it is ſaid to have belonged to John Roydon, a name that occurs in the Bures family. [ſee above, p. 326.] [D].

Afterwards we find it in the noble Family of Cobham, of Kent. John Lord Cobham, the laſt of that ſurname, had only a daughter named Joane; who by her huſband Sir John de la Pole, left alſo an only daughter, named

Joane, thirty years of age at the time of the ſaid Lord Cobham's deceaſe, 10 January 1407 (b). She had no leſs than five huſbands, namely, 1. John de Havenal, of Suffolk. 2. Gerard de Braybroke, by whom ſhe had a daughter named Joane, afterwards Baroneſs of Cobham. 3. Sir Nicolas Hawberk. 4. The famous Sir John Oldcaſtle, of Cowling, in her right Lord Cobham, cruelly executed under pretence of hereſy (c). 5. Sir John Harpenden, or Harpden. By the laſt ſhe had no iſſue. Her children by the firſt, third, and fourth, dyed young. She herſelf departed this life in 1433, holding the maner of Great Radwynter, with the advowſon of the Church, of John Earl of Oxford, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, and yearly rent of 4 l. And the maner of Little Radwynter of the King, as of his Duchy of Lancaſter, by fealty, rent of 2 s. and ſuit at his court of Walbroke: Alſo the maner of Creſhale. Her ſole heir was her daughter

Joane, by her ſecond huſband, then married to Sir Thomas Brooke, and 30 years old (d). This Sir Thomas was deſcended from William de la Brooke, lord of the maner of Brooke near Ilcheſter in Somerſetſhire. By his wife Joane he had his ſon and heir——Sir Edward, called Sir Edward Brooke of Cobham (e). He dyed 29 May 1464, and was ſucceeded by his ſon—John, then 18 years old; who had ſummons to Parliament 19 Auguſt 1472, by the title of Lord Cobham; and held a whole knight's fee in Radwinter of the Earl of Oxford. He departed this life in Septemb. 1506, leaving, by Margaret his wife, daughter of Edward Nevill Lord Bergavenny——Thomas, his ſon and heir, who was thrice married; and by his firſt Lady had ſeven ſons and ſix daughters, but no children by the other two. Upon his deceaſe, 19 July 1529, his eldeſt ſon——George ſucceeded him; and is recorded to have been poſſeſſed not only of the maner of Radwinter, but alſo of that of Bendiſh-hall in this pariſh (f). Dying 29 Septemb. 1558, his ſucceſſor was——Sir William Brooke his ſon, the eldeſt of eight; who departed this life 6 March 1597, and was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon——Henry Lord Cobham (g). Theſe eſtates continued in this family till 1603, when Henry Lord Cobham and George Brooke his brother, Thomas Lord Grey of Wilton, Sir Walter Raleigh, and others, were arraigned at Wincheſter for high treaſon. George the brother was executed. And Henry Lord Cobham's life was ſpared, but his eſtate, which was very conſiderable, being confiſcated to the Crown, he was ſuffered by his Lady to live in great miſery and indigence, though ſhe had a noble jointure. Her name was Frances, daughter of Charles Howard Earl of Nottingham, relict of the Earl of Kildare. Her unfortunate huſband had periſhed by hunger, if he had not been relieved by his laundreſs; and at laſt he dyed in the utmoſt diſtreſs in a mean garret (h).

This eſtate being veſted in the Crown, K. James I. preſented to the Church in 1603 and 1604. The ſame King granted this maner of Radwinter-hall, with the ſite of the ſame, and 320 acres of arable, meadow, paſture, and wood: and certain lands called Cowleys, Okewood-feld, Bury-feld, and Radwynter-Park; alſo lands called Gravelfeild, Harleyfeild, and Shillethfeild: And the maner and ſite of Bendiſh-hall, to Duke Brooke Eſq; ſon of George Brooke Eſq; ſecond ſon of George Lord Cobham aforeſaid, by Chriſtian daughter and ſole heir of Nicholas Duke.

The patent bore date 11 November 1604 (i). Soon after he had licenſe to alienate this eſtate to Alexander Preſcot, Alderman and Goldſmith of London, and Sheriff in 1612. [ſee above, p. 46.] He dyed 15 January 1621, holding the maner of Radwinter-hall, and Advowſon of the Church, of the King, of his Duchy of Lancaſter, by knight's ſervice: And Bendiſh-hall, alſo of the King, in capite. Likewiſe the maner and Rectory of Hoxon, and other lands in Suffolk: and

2. The Maner of GREAT-BROCKHOLES, otherwiſe Roos.

Was ſo denominated from two ancient Families.

About the year 1301, Robert de Roos held a knight's fee in Radwinter, and Gildeſton in Hertfordſhire, under Henry de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex (l). Sir John de Roos ſon of Robert, married Aleſia, daughter and heir of Sir Robert Aſheldam, and held the maner of Radwynter called le Roos, of the Earl of Hereford, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, and two ſuits at the maner of Blanchapilton: alſo the maner of Aſheldam, after the death of William de Horkeſleigh, &c.——John his grandſon, ſon of his ſon John, was his heir, who out-lived his grandmother but two months, and dyed without iſſue (m). [ſee above, under Gr. Samford, and Hemſted.]

Sir John de Roos and Aleſia, beſides their ſon John, had a daughter named Elene, which became heir to her nephew. She brought this eſtate in marriage to Sir Geffrey de Brockhole, of an ancient Kentiſh family: He was of Great Samford, knight of the ſhire for Hertfordſhire in 2, 17, and 18 Ed. III. and Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1385. She dyed in 1419, poſſeſſed of the maner of Roos in Radwinter: Her daughters, Joane and Margery, were co-heirs (n). Joane had three huſbands, Philip Kedington, John Aſpall, and Robert Armburgh Eſq; but had iſſue by none of them: ſo that, upon her deceaſe in 1447 (o), her moiety of Roos, of Aſheldam, of Giffards in Great Sandford, and other lands in Aſhedon and Berkelowe, fell to the heirs of her ſiſter

Margery, wife of John Sumpter of Colcheſter Gent. (p) [D].—John, ſon of John Sumpter dyed in 1420, leaving

Criſtine and Elen his daughters and coheirs (q). Criſtine was wife of Thomas Bernard Gent. who enjoyed her moiety for life, which, for want of iſſue, went to her ſiſter Elen, married firſt to James Bellers Eſq; that dyed in France, then to Ralph Holt of Griſelhurſt in Lancaſhire. By Ralph ſhe had James and Alan. — Alan held this maner in 1485. He married Agnes, daughter of John Searle, and had by her Robert Holt of Stockland in Oxfordſhire; John Holt of Bury St. Edmunds; and William. John Holt the ſecond ſon, married Anne, daughter of Richard Coote of Morton in Suſſex, and had John his ſon and heir, who, by Anne, daughter of William Roper of Cheſhire, had two daughters, Anne wife of Henry Collin of Northwich, and Elizabeth wife of Antony Boteler, brother of Sir John Boteler of Walton in Hertfordſhire. [ſee above, p. .]

This eſtate appears next in the Wiſeman Family. [ſee above, p. 88, 391, 461.] John Wiſeman of Felſted Eſq; who dyed 5 Janu. 1558, held the maner of Brockholles in Radwynter, Great and Little-Samford, Wymbiſh, and Hemſted, of John Earl of Oxford, as of his caſtle of Hedingham (r); with other eſtates [E].——Thomas his ſon, who dyed 17 Decemb. 1585, held the ſame (s): as did his ſon——Sir William Wiſeman Knt. who had for ſucceſſor his ſon —— Sir John Wiſeman Knt. and he —— Aurelius-Piercy Wiſeman. Upon whoſe death, an[illegible] 1684, the inheritance came between two ſiſters. The eldeſt was wife of Sir John Marſhall Knt. the youngeſt of Richard Claget Eſq; Upon a diviſion of the eſtates, this and Weld-barnes in Depden, fell to Sir John Marſhall, whoſe ſon —— William Marſhall of Wetherſfeld Eſq; enjoyed it afterwards. It belongs now to Mr. Wolf.

3. BENDISH-HALL, vulgarly called BEMISH-HALL,

Stands about a mile and a quarter north of the Church.

This maner belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Ledmar a Prieſt, and afterward to Ingelric, a noble Saxon related to that King. At the time of the Survey, it was one of the Lordſhips holden by Euſtace, Earl of Bologne.

[D] There are lands in the pariſh of St. Mary's Colcheſter, called Brokholes, undoubtedly becauſe they belonged to that family, and came from them to the Sumpters.

[E] Namely, a capital meſſuage in Felſted, wherein the ſaid John dwelt, and divers lands, &c. thereto belonging, in that pariſh, and in Little Dunmow, called Sawards, Oriſland, Petiſcroft or Long Croft, Ingrams, and Cannons croft: the maners, of Brodocks in Wymbiſh; of Weld-barnes," and Tendring, in Depden; of Yardley-hall, and Venors grange, in Thackſted; Belſted-hall, and Stacies, in Bromfeild; Takeley-grange; Seborowe-hall in Langdon; Aſhwell-hall, in Finchingfeild: Mocking-hall; Goſhall, in Chadwell; the maner of Sommers, in Little Thurrock, &c. Inquiſ. 1 Eliz.——This branch of the Wiſeman Family became ſettled at Bradokes in Wimbiſh.

And here were ſome lands that had been unlawfully taken by Wiſgar, and were then in Richard Fitz-Giſlebert's poſſeſſion [F].

At preſent this Maner is only a Hamlet, partly in this pariſh, and partly in the adjoining one of Aſhdon: But is ſuppoſed, and ſaid (t), to have been originally a diſtinct Pariſh, called Bendiſhes; the Church belonging to which hath been long demoliſhed [G].

William Earl of Bologne, youngeſt ſon of King Stephen, gave this eſtate to the Abbey of Feverſham in Kent, founded by his father King Stephen in 1147, as appears by the Authorities below (u) [H]. K. Edward I. granted them free warren in this maner (w). They continued poſſeſſed of it till the diſſolution of Monaſteries, when it came to the Crown. In 1538, K. Henry VIII. granted this whole maner of Bendiſh hall, with appertenances, in Radwinter [I], to Sir Richard Riche and his wife, and their heirs. It was in exchange for the maner of Old-Hall in Boreham, and a water-mill, and the maner of Gladfenne, and Rectory of Matching, and a yearly rent out of the maner of Bradwell juxta Coggeſhall, and a portion of tythes or annual rent of 20 s. in Fobbing in the County of Eſſex. This maner of Bendiſh-hall, according to the patent, contained three tenements, 200 acres of arable land, 30 of meadow, 200 of paſture, twenty of wood, and 10l. rent in Radwinter and Aſton, and a yearly portion of 5l. 10 s. in Radwinter belonging to the ſaid maner: to hold in capite by the tenth part of a knight's fee, and yearly payment of 56 s. 8 d. (x).

On the 8th of June 1546, a licenſe was granted to Sir Richard Riche to ſell this maner to Sir George Brooke Lord Cobham, and a fine paſſed for the ſame in 1547. It was forfeited by Lord Cobham's treaſon, with Radwinter-hall, and by K. James I. in November 1604, granted to Duke Brooke, who, by licenſe, ſold it to Alexander Preſcot, jun. Eſq; —Sir John Preſcot his ſon left two daughters co-heirs; Jane, the eldeſt, was firſt married to Sir Thomas Fiſher of Iſlington, afterwards to William Maynard of Bury St. Edmunds, Eſq; ſecond ſon of William the ſecond Lord Maynard. [ſee above, p 432.] ſhe died 1 March 1675, and is buried at Little-Eaſton; to his ſecond wife Mr. Maynard had Suſanna daughter and heir of Thomas Eyans of London, merchant, by which he had Mary, who dyed 15 Febr. 1687, and William that dyed 9 April 1688; alſo two other ſons, Thomas and Preſcot; and a daughter named Anne. —Thomas Maynard Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, was ſeated at Hoxne-hall in Suffolk, which he rebuilt in an elegant maner; and dying without iſſue, left that fine eſtate, with Bendiſh-hall, &c. to the preſent worthy poſſeſſor

The Chamberlain Family, lords of Radwinter-hall, had ſome of their demeſne lands extending into Benediſhe, the Tithes of which Hubert Chamberlain gave to the Priory of the H. Trinity in London (y). I do not find that this grant ever took place. Hubert calls them his lordſhip (z), or demeſne, and probably they were ſome of the lands which Wiſgar and Ingelric had unjuſtly ſeized, or incroached upon; as above-mentioned.

The conſiderable Family of Weſtley, otherwiſe Bendiſh, ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 350, 351, was once ſeated, and had an eſtate, in this Hamlet, from which they took their ſurname. William Harriſon, Rector of this pariſh from 1558 to 1593, relates a ſtory concerning that Family, and their eſtate here; in ſubſtance as follows. 'That Edmund Bendiſh Eſq; who was living in part of the reigns of K. Edward II. and III. being a martial man, attended K. Edward III. to the ſiege of Calais; and to furniſh himſelf with proper equipage, mortgaged the Maner of Bendiſh-hall in Radwinter, to the [G] As this eſtate was given and belonged to the Abbey and Monks of Feverſham, Dr. Salmon ſuppoſes, that they either took down, or ſuffered the Church here to grow ruinous, and fall of itſelf. 'There were, ſaith he, no more likely people in the world to deſtroy a Pariſh Church, and turn over their tenants and dependants to attend the ſervice where they could, than the Monks. Their Religion conſiſted chiefly in their Vows, and the Religion of the Laity was to ſupport thoſe who made theſe Vows. The Clergy who waited at the Parochial altars were in contempt termed Secular, and cut off by ſhort allowance from the opportunities of hoſpitality and beneficence, which would have rendered their labours more eſteemed and uſeful.—— The County of Eſſex affords too many inſtances of this; Shortgrove was turned over to Newport by the Priory of St. Bartholomew; and, to name no more, Thunderley laid to Wimbiſh; the land holders being diſabled from keeping up the fabrick which Saxon zeal had left them, by the devouring piety of Normans, draining the country to maintain the ſplendor of the cloyſters: So we are told by Travellers, that the ſilver got out of the earth in the Weſt-Indies, is carried to the Eaſt to be buried there.'

Monks of Feverſham. But ſtaying ſomewhat longer than he intended, he came over before the mortgage was lapſed, to conferre with his creditors; who commending his diligence, deſired him not to ſuſpect any hard dealings from them, conſidering his being in the King's ſervice was of itſelf a ſufficient cauſe to excuſe his delay of payment on the day aſſigned: Upon which he returned to the ſiege again, very well ſatisfied with the aſſurances given him. But when the day came, the Monks, for all their good words, made ſure of the Maner, and held it continually, without any farther recompence, maugre all the friendſhip this Gentleman could make. He took this couſening in ſuch diſdaine, that he left this caution in writing to poſterity [K], how they truſted Knave Monk, or Knave Fryer. Thus this noble Lordſhip was extorted from this Family; whereupon they retired to Steeple Bumpſted, and made it the place of their reſidence (a)."

By calling it a noble Lordſhip, W. Harriſon plainly intimates that it was thought to have been the whole Maner, or Lordſhip, of Bendiſh-hall. But it had been long before the Property of Feverſham-abbey, by the gift of William Earl of Bologne. If it was a leaſe of any part of it; the advantage taken againſt him was undoubtedly the ſame as might have been taken by any Layman: otherwiſe, if he was injured, he could have been righted, by applying to the Courts of Law. But it appears by the moſt unqueſtionable evidence, even a Record (b), that the Bendiſh family had an eſtate here many years after. For Thomas Bendiſhe Eſq; who dyed in 1447, held certain lands and tenements in Radwinter, called Bendiſshes, of Edward Brooke Lord de Cobham.

4. RADWINTER GRANGE,

A reputed Maner, formerly belonged to Titley-Abbey. It was rented by John Sexten for 6 l. 18 s. 4 d. (c).

After the ſuppreſſion, it was granted, among many other things, in 1538, to Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk (d). It is ſaid to have been formerly the Roos's, but it does not appear who gave it to Tiltey.

On the 9th of June 1565, Queen Elizabeth granted a licenſe to Giles Powlett, and Mary his wife, and Humfrey Browne Eſq; to alienate this maner, and Friers Grange in Roding Aythorp, to Humfrey Shelton and Henry Norris, Gent. and the heirs of Humfrey, for the uſe of Alice wife of the ſaid Henry (e).

William Birde and Alice his wife, had licenſe 7 Decemb. 1580, to ſell this eſtate to Edward Birde, Gent. and his heirs (f).

Alice Birde, who dyed 7 July 1614, held this maner of Radwinter Grange of the King, in ca. by the 60th part of a knight's-fee; and a moiety of a tenement, or farm, called Jenkin Hodges in this pariſh. Her ſon and heir, Francis Browne, was then aged upwards of 50 years (g).

This eſtate hath been ſome time in . . . Sharp; and is lately ſold.

Mr. Thomas, and John, Carter; Jeremiah Lagden; Will. Woodley; John Thompſon; John Cornell; and David Page, have alſo ſome lands here.

This Pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1749 l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is old, and conſiſts of a middle pace, and two iſles leaded. The Chancel is only of one pace.

There is at the weſt-end a Tower embattled, with a tall ſpire leaded.

This Rectory ſeems to have been originally appendent to the two Maners of Radwinter-hall, and Bendiſh-hall. When they were in the Lords Cobham, they preſented ſolely, namely, from 1460 to 1593. Since the diviſion of thoſe two Maners, the Preſentation hath been alternate, in the Bullock family, and the Right Hon. the Lord Maynard.

8. ASHDON.

This large Pariſh lies weſt north-weſt of Radwinter.

By the ſound, one would imagine that the name was formed from the two Anglo-Saxon words, Aſh, and dun; i. e. Aſh-hill. But then it muſt have been written Æꞅceꞅ-ꝺun, as the learned Biſhop Gibſon hath obſerved (h); whereas in the Saxon Chronicle it is Aꞅꞅan-ꝺun; which Marianus Scotus, Florence of Worceſter, and Roger de Hoveden, tranſlate Collis Aſinorum, & Mons Aſini, deriving it from Aꞅꞅa, and ꝺun.

It is otherwiſe ſtyled in records, and old hiſtorians

This learned writer, Mr. Harriſon, wrote An Hiſtorical Deſcription of the Iſland of Britaine, and The Deſcription of England, which is inſerted in the Firſt Volume of Raph. Holinſhed's Chronicle. He was inſtituted to this Rectory 16 Febr. 1558, and to the Vicarage of Wimbiſh 28 Janu. 1570, which laſt he reſigned in 1581, as he voided the former by death in 1593.

In the ſouth window of the Hall of Radwinter parſonage are painted, if not lately defaced, theſe capital Letters W. This place is memorable for a bloody battle fought here in the year 1016, between K. Edmund Ironſide, and Cnut; wherein, through Eadric Streon's treachery, Cnut got the victory, many of the Engliſh nobles being ſlain; and, in conſequence of it, England was divided between Edmund and the Daniſh invader. Standing monuments of this victory are the four hills, or barrows, here, commonly called Bartlow-hills, becauſe near that Church, though within this county. They were erected over the bodies of thoſe that fell in this battle, according to the Daniſh cuſtom. Some of them being dug into, or opened, there were found, in a ſtone coffin, two bodies, one of which lay with his head towards the other's feet; alſo two other ſtone coffins with pieces of bones in them, and many chains of iron like thoſe on horſes bits (i). In the year 1020, Cnut came to the Aſſandune, and cauſed a Mynſter, or Church, of ſtone and lime to be built, to pray for the ſouls of thoſe men that were ſlain in this battle; which Church he gave to his Prieſt Stigand (k) [L].

The owners of the lands in this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, were, Ailid; Alſy, and Ingelric; Oſlac, a freeman; Aluuin, and Ordric; and Edeva. At the time of the general Survey, they were holden, by Ralph Baignard; Euſtace Earl of Bologne; Tihell Brito, Alberic de Vere, and his under tenant Renold; and Hervey de Iſpania.

It is divided into theſe ſeveral Maners. 1. The maner of Aſhdon. 2. . . . that of Newnham. 3. . . . . that of Waltons.

1. The Maner of ASHDON.

Aſhdon-hall ſtands near the eaſt end of the Church.

This is the part that belonged to Ralph Baignard [M], Lord of Little Dunmow, whoſe capital manſion, and head of his Barony, was Baynard's-Caſtle in London. [ſee above, p. 21, 36, 135, 427.]——Geffrey, his ſon and ſucceſſor, was father of —— William, who, for joining in a conſpiracy with William Malet, Baron of Eye, Great Chamberlain of England, and others, againſt K. Henry I. was deprived of his Barony and eſtates, which that King, in 1111, gave to his Sewer, or Steward, Robert, a younger ſon of Richard Fitz Giſlebert, from whom deſcended the noble family of Fitz-walter: in which this eſtate continued for many generations.

John, Lord Fitz-walter is recorded to have held it in 1361, under the name of the maner of Aſton (l).——Walter Fitz-walter in 1375 (m). Walter his ſon under the name of the maner of Aſhe (n). And——Sir Walter Fitz-walter, who dyed in 1406, held this maner of Aſhedon (o). As did his ſucceſſor——Walter, Lord Fitz-walter [ſee under Woodham-Walter.]

Anne, one of his daughters and coheirs, brought it in marriage to Thomas Ratclyffe Eſq; (p) whoſe ſucceſſors were, — Sir John, — John, knighted, and ſummoned to parliament in 1485, but attainted in 1494, for eſpouſing Perkin Warbeck's cauſe, and beheaded.——Robert his ſon was reſtored to his honor 3 November 1505, and advanced to the title of Viſcount Fitz-walter 18 July 1525; alſo 28 Decemb. following, created Earl of Suſſex. He dyed 27 November 1542. As did — Henry his ſon, 17 Febr. 1556; and— Thomas, ſon of this Henry, 2 June 1583, whoſe brother and ſucceſſor —— Henry, at his deceaſe 14 Decemb. 1593, left ——Robert Ratcliff Earl of Suſſex, his ſon and heir (q): the laſt male of this noble family. By licenſe, dated 20 Auguſt 1619, he alienated this eſtate to

William Bramſton Eſq; and a fine was levied in Eaſter-term following. Elizabeth his widow ſurrendering all her eſtate in it, 15 March 1649, to her eldeſt ſon —— William Bramſton Eſq; upon his marriage with Jane daughter of Sir George le Hunt, it was entailed upon them and their heirs male, in April 1650. They had ſeveral daughters, and 4 ſons. [ſee above, p. 72.]—John Bramſton Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, having levied a fine in 1677, mortgaged it for 700l. 19 June 1679, to William Richardſon of Gray's-inn Eſq; afterwards ſerjeant at law, in truſt for —— Robert Prujean, and his heirs. By leaſe and releaſe Mr Bramſton conveyed it to

Thomas-Sclater Bacon Eſq; He dyed 23 Auguſt 1736, and left this eſtate to Robert King Eſq; upon whoſe deceaſe in January, 1748-9, it came to his widow.——Thomas-Sclater King was his ſon and heir.

2. The Maner of NEWNHAM.

The manſion-houſe ſtands about half a mile from the Church.

This is the part that belonged to Alſy, and Ingelric; and afterwards to Euſtace Earl of Bologne [N].

And, of that, Gilbert de Laſcy held, in Eſſex, Niveham near Walden, in 1210, or 1211 (r). Sir Symonds had by her ſeveral ſons and daughters who dyed in infancy. Of two daughters that lived, Sibill the younger, was married to Sir Tho. Darcy, Bart. who had this eſtate and Kentwell-hall with her. [ſee above, p. .]

A ſmall Maner, called Mortisfaus, Mortis Haus, Mortivaux, or Mortimers, was anciently holden of Newnham-hall, as part of its demeſnes.

In 1381, Sir John Seyton ſold this maner of Mortivaux in Aſshedon to Edmund Bendiſh Eſq; for 200 marks (x).—Thomas Bendiſh, Eſq: who dyed in 1448, held this maner of Mortisfawſe in Aſhton of John Clopton (y). In 1545, . . . William Bendiſh, Gent. paſſed by fine this maner of Mortimers and Cromeſtyde, with appertenances, to . . . . Stephen Cobb of London, haberdaſher (z).

Richard Tyrell, who held the adjoining maner of Waltons, in 1565, held alſo this of Mortymers, then valued at 77 s. 10 d. (a).

The maner of Newnham, with appertenances, and Over-hall, belong to the Right Honourable Charles Lord Maynard.

3. The Maner of WALTONS.

The manſion-houſe is about a mile and a quarter eaſt from the Church, upon the edge of this county, near Caſtle Camps, in a bottom; not far from a village called Aſhdon-Street. It hath been re-built by Sir William Maynard, whoſe place of reſidence it is. Near it is Aſhdon-place, now a farm-houſe.

This is the part of Aſhdon that belonged before the conqueſt to Oſlac, Aluuin, and Orderic; and, at the time of the Survey, to Tihell Brito, and Alberic de Vere [O]. It was then called Stenitune, and Stauintun, and to this day Stevington-end, or Stenton-end.

Some have thought that it was originally a diſtinct vill, or Pariſh by itſelf, becauſe Stevington, and Aſhdon, are mentioned in records as two ſeveral places (b).

To this day it is a diſtinct Hamlet, and the Inhabitants maintain their own Poor, ſeparately from the reſt of Aſhdon. They apply upon all proper occaſions to the Juſtices of the county of Eſſex, and to the Quarter-ſeſſions at Chelmsford; otherwiſe it might have been imagined to have been within the pariſh of Bartlow in Cambridgeſhire, becauſe it is called Bartlow-end, and the dwellers here reſort uſually to Bartlow-church, to which alſo they pay Church-wardens rates. . . . It is commonly reputed in Bartlow, as to ſpiritual juriſdiction.

The maner-houſe is called Waltons, from a very ancient and conſiderable family, which had not only this eſtate, but alſo Wantons, otherwiſe Tiptofts in Wimbiſh, Waltons in Bumpſted-Steple, Chaureth, &c. [ſee ſome account of the Walton family, which was alſo corruptly written Wauton, and Wanton, above, p. 349, 440.]

The poſterity of Tihell, ſurnamed Helion, were poſſeſſed of this maner in K. Henry the ſecond's reign. For, under William de Helion, Warin Fitz-Gerold held then half a knight's fee in Stiveton and Radwinter (c).

In the reign of K. Henry III. it was in the Wangeford family [P]. For, in 1259, John de

Wangeford, and Margaret his wife, paſſed by fine this eſtate, to Sir Richard de Wanton, it being then called a carucate of land, in Eſſendon [Aſhdon] Radwinter, Barklow, Newenham, Bendiſh, Stiveton, in Eſſex; and Brenge in Cambridgeſhire (b). How long it continued in the Walton family we do not learn from records [Q].

This family of Walton was ſo conſiderable, that William de Wawton, or Wanton, was one of the Knights, or Repreſentatives, for this county, in the Parliaments 33 Edw. I. and 4 and 5 Edw. II.

As for the part of this eſtate which belonged to the noble family of De Vere; Henry Gernet, who dyed in 1345, held in Aſhindon, 1 meſſuage, 140 acres of arable, and 4 acr. of meadow, of the Earl of Oxford, and William Chamberleyne, by the ſervice of 50 s. per ann. —— Maud and Margaret were his daughters and heirs (c). —— Under Alberic, and Thomas, de Vere, Earls of Oxford, Robert de Kedington, and Henry de Sandon, held a knight's fee and a quarter here in 1360, and 1371 (d). —— Philip de Kediton, in 1399, held one knight's-fee in Stevington, and Aſhdon, of Alberic Earl of Oxford (e). In the ſame places, the heirs of John Sandon, John Londres, William Crocheman, William Lekaud, and John Cordy, held one fee.—In the reign of K. Henry V. John Arneburgh paid a fine to the Earl of Oxford, for lands formerly Sandon's. . . . And, in the next reign, John Sandon, the Earl of Worceſter, John Palemere, and Roger Huntington, held a knight's fee and a quarter in Aſshedon.

Joane, wife of John Hotoft, which dyed in 1444, held this, ſtyled the maner of Aſhdon-hall, of Elizabeth wife of John Lord Cobham;—John Nowers was her ſon and heir (f).——John Nowers jun. releaſed to Humfrey Duke of Buckingham, and William Duke of Suffolk, his maner of Aſhdon-hall, which they had of the gift of John Nowers the grand-father, and Joane his wife (g).

After this, it came into a branch of the very ancient family of Tyrell. . . . Sir Thomas Tyrell of Herongate, living in 1458, married Emma, daughter of Sir John Marney of Layer-Marney. His third ſon by her, was —— Humfrey Tyrell of Little Warley Eſq; He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Walwyn of Lounsford in Hertfordſhire, Eſq; by whom he had 6 ſons — Robert, the youngeſt ſon, by . . . Dalſton his wife, had 5 ſons. —— Richard Tyrell Eſq; the third ſon, reſided at Aſhdon-Place: and dyed 17 June 1566, poſſeſſed of the maner of Waltons, lying in Aſheton and Barklowe, valued then at 10 l. 13 s. 8 d. a year. By Grace his wife, he had, Edward; Philip: and Mary, married to . . . Wiſeman.——Edward Tyrell Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, was Warden of the Fleet, and married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Valentine Brown, by which he had, Robert, Henry, and Elizabeth.——Sir Robert Tyrell Knt. the eldeſt ſon and heir, knighted in 1607, was alſo Warden of the Fleet, and married Suſanna, daughter of Robert Millicent, Eſq; by Dorothy, daughter of John Maynard of St. Albans, Eſq; progenitor of the Lord Maynard. Sir Robert Tyrell removed to Bartlow and ſold this eſtate to

Here was anciently another Maner called, The Maner of THICKHOE, holden of the Earls of Oxford, of the Honor of Hedingham-Caſtle, as part of the Barony of Helion . . . William de Thickoe, living in the time of K. Henry III. had, by Alianor his wife, John his ſon and heir.——Geffrey de Thickoe, Robert Kirkeby, and his partners, were preſent at the Earl of Oxford's Courts, in 1262, 1268, and 1270.——John de Loundres paid a relief for a tenement in Haſhenden, in 1334. Maud, daughter and heir of John de Loundres, paid for licence to marry, in 1351 (h).

Richard Floud, late ſervant of the Crown [R], held, in 1445, certain lands and tenements in Wawton and Steyntouff and in Aſhdon called Arnowes, by the ſervice of one knight's fee. He held alſo lands formerly Robert Palmer's and Londrez, called Black-Garden. In 1494, a fine paſſed between Sir John Dynham, and others, plaintiffs, and Richard Flode and his wife deforc', of the maner of Tickhoo and Londres, and lands in Aſton, Bartlow, and Stevington (i). Richard Tyrell, above-mentioned, dyed poſſeſſed of this, by the name of the maner of Thicke, then worth 29 l. 12 s.

It belonged in 1747 to Audrey Bucke, widow, then aged near 90 years. She dyed in 1750.

The laſt parcel of land in this pariſh, taken notice of above, was about 40 acres, holden by Edeva, and afterwards by Hervey Spains [S]. It was formerly called Roda, and Rede, now ROTHE END.

Sir William Maynard Bart. Mrs. Fuller; Mr. John Green; Chriſtopher Hymas; William Headland; James Warren; Edward, and Robert, Halls; Thomas Ketteridge; Thomas Miller; Edward Goodwin; Thomas Adams; John Reader, and a few others, have alſo eſtates here.

The CHURCH, dedicated to All Saints, ſtands on a hill, with a fine proſpect. It is large, conſiſting of a body, and a north and ſouth iſles, leaded. The Chancel is tyled; it hath alſo two iſles, of which the ſouth one is of a conſiderable bigneſs. A ſquare Tower of ſtone, at the weſt end, with a ſmall ſpire, leaded, contains 5 Bells.

Some have imagined, that this is the Church which was built, in 1020, by K. Cnute, and Earl Turkill, becauſe it is ſaid, they built it upon the hill called Aſſendun (k). Leland calls it, 'Aſſandune Minſter, now Aſhdown in Eſſex, which ‘ was built of ſtone and lime by King Cnute in ‘ 1020 for the ſouls of thoſe who were ſlain ‘ there 1016, in the battel between Edmond ‘ Ironſide and him (l).’ This laſt author, and ſome that follow him, believe there was here a monaſtery, from the word Minſter being uſed (m). There would ſurely have been more traces of a Religious Houſe, if any had been here: Minſter may mean no more than a large handſome Church, ſuch as the Monaſteries had. Upon the whole, Cnute's Church ſeems to have been built at Bartlow, which ſtands very near if not upon the field of battle; and the round form of the Steeple, which was the Daniſh way of building, fully confirms this opinion; which to corroborate, let it be obſerved, that Aſſandun ſeems to have been the general name for this Aſſes hill, or diſtrict, including alſo what goes by the name of Bartlow; a name unknown before Cnute's time, and taken from the lowes, barrows, or hills, here, and Bart, an eminent and diſtinguiſh'd ſoldier, who is ſaid to have fallen in this battle (n).

This valuable Rectory belonged to the Priory of Lewes in Suſſex, to which it was given by Geffrey Baynard, and his brother Ralph (o). After the diſſolution of that Houſe, the Advowſon, which came to the Crown, was granted by K. Henry VIII. in 1537, to Thomas Lord Cromwell, and his heirs (p). Upon his fall it reverting to the Crown, K. Edward VI. gave it to William Herbert (q). Richard Tyrell, abovementioned, preſented to it in 1552 (r). After which, having paſſed through ſeveral hands, it was at length purchaſed by Cay's college in Cambridge. —— This Rectory is a maner, to which belong ſeveral copyholds.

The Parſonage-houſe is a handſome large modern Edifice, about a quarter of a mile north from the Church, finely ſituated on a riſing ground, with a delightful proſpect.

In this pariſh John Chalne, clerk, put lands and tenements in feoffment, for the maintenance of a Brotherhood Prieſt called our Lady Brotherhood Prieſt, and alſo to diſcharge twenty of the Poor being contributors there. At the diſſolution, the value of this Chantry, with 26s. 8d. copyhold land, was 4 l. And in the certificate of Chantries it is ſaid, that this ‘ Towne of Aſheton was a greate and populous towne, having ‘ in yt to the number of 400 houſeling people ‘ and more.’

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1835 l. 1 s. 4 d.

9. HADSTOCK

Is the northern extremity, or angle of this Half-Hundred, projecting into Cambridgeſhire: and is indeed the moſt northern part of this whole County.

The name ſeems to be formed from the Saxon words Haꝺ, or heaꝺ, and ꞅꞇocce; but how they are applicable to this place, cannot even be eaſily gueſſed. The firſt ſyllable might with greater probability be derived from hæð, or rather from haꞇ, hot; accordingly where the name firſt occurs (s), it is written Hateſtok: and by that name it was confirm'd by K. Edward the Confeſſor to the Monaſtery of Ely.

It is not mentioned in Domeſday-book by its common name; but is with great reaſon ſuppoſed to be what is there called Cadenhou [T]. Nigell, Biſhop of Ely in K. Stephen's reign, having got it into his hands, with-held it a while from the Monks; but he reſtored it to them afterwards, with a double and ample confirmation (t).

Still the Biſhop of Ely continued to hold the Lordſhip of this place of the King, in capite, as part of his Barony; and had here the return of writs, pleas of unreaſonable diſtreſs, gallows, tumbrell, and the aſſize of bread and beer; and alſo free-warren (u). Moreover, he obtained, in 1337, the grant of a market, and a fair here (w). ——The Fair is now June 28, for horſes, &c.

But the demeſnes of this maner ſeem to have belonged to the Monaſtery of Ely, till the diſſolution, when they came to the Crown. They remained in it till 1600, when Qu. Elizabeth granted them, together with the maner of Littlebury, to

Thomas Sutton Eſq; founder of the Charterhouſe (x); who appears to have had the Advowſon of this Rectory before the year 1570 (y). By his will, dated 1 Decemb. 1611, he bequeathed this maner, and that of Littlebury, to

Thomas, Earl of Suffolk, upon condition that he paid for them the ſum of 10,000l. within a year next after his deceaſe; which moſt probably

In 1691, an act of parliament paſſed to enable the Truſtees of —— James, late Earl of Suffolk, to ſell this maner. Accordingly it was purchaſed by Daniel Malthus, Eſq; He had been Apothecary to the very learned Dr. Thomas Sydenham, on which account he cauſed his ſon to be named Sydenham: And was afterwards Apothecary to K. William, and to Queen Anne. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Portman Eſq; and had by her —— Sydenham Malthus Eſq; his ſon and heir; one of the Six Clerks in Chancery; a Director of the South ſea Company in 1741, &c. who by his wife, Anne daughter of Richard Dalton Eſq; hath had —— Daniel; Anne, Catharine, and Elizabeth.

SEGONS, alias VANCES,

Is another Maner in Hadſtocke. Moſt probably it conſiſts of the lands for which a Fine paſſed, in K. John's reign, between Alured ſon of Gilbert and Martin Badekeſter.

Sir Giles Allington of Horſheath in Cambridgeſhire, who dyed 22 Auguſt 1586, held this maner, then valued at 6 s. 8 d. per ann.—— Giles was his ſon and heir (z).

This conſiſts at preſent of a parcel of freehold lands in this pariſh, towards Bartlow, which pay quit rents to Horſheath-hall; and are vulgarly called Seggins alias Vanx. There is no maner-houſe. According to tradition, a Court uſed formerly to be called on the ground.

Some of theſe lands undoubtedly belong to the following perſons, who are ſet down as having eſtates here; namely, Mr. Thomas Adams; Henry Bewick; William Woodham; Robert Spencer; John King.

Charitable Gifts.

Alms-houſes for two dwellers, without endowment; built in the place where formerly ſtood the Guild that was burnt down.

Ten ſhillings per ann. to the Poor of this pariſh, and the like ſum to the Poor of Aſhdon; given by Edm. Sherebrooke, Rector of both pariſhes; payable out of a ſmith's ſhop and ſome lands in Hadſtock.

A Mark per annum, out of lands here, diſtributed in money by the feoffees. The gift of Mrs. Buck.

Five ſhillings a year, out of a farm in this pariſh belonging to the owner of Woodhall in Arkeſdon.

Twenty ſhillings a year, out of a farm here.

The like ſum was alſo paid out of the rent of a houſe in Linton, which hath been ſold for 20 l. The intereſt of that ſum is applied to the uſe of the Poor.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Botolph, ſtands high, and is a ſtately neat building, with croſs iſles, cathedral wiſe. The Church and Chancel are of one pace, and the croſs iſles of the ſame dimenſions. The body of the Church is leaded, but the iſles and chancel are tyled. The Tower, which ſtands in the middle, hath on the top a ſmall ſpire, leaded, and contains 5 Bells.

The north door of the Church is ſaid to have been covered with the ſkin of a Daniſh King (a), nailed on with many hundreds of nails. Only ſmall bits of the ſkin remain round the nails, which is extremely hard. There was the like tradition about Copford-church. See above, p. 196.

This Rectory hath all along been in the gift of the Biſhops of Ely. Qu. Elizabeth ſeized it indeed at her acceſſion, upon what pretence, doth not appear, and made a grant of it to Thomas Sutton Eſq; (b). However, ſhe granted it afterwards, 27 June, 1600, with many other Advowſons, to Dr. Martin Heton, Biſhop of Ely, and his ſucceſſors (c), in whom it hath remained ever ſince.

In the Church yard there is a Well, ſet round with ſtones; a little above which are ſtone ſteps, that lead to an area paved with broad ſtones deſcending ſlope-wiſe into the Well, as is uſual in Baths. The waſte water feeds, or ſupplies, with a continual ſtream, another Well juſt without the fence of the Church-yard, which is called St. Botolph's-Well.

This Pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 630 l.

THE HUNDRED OF UTLESFORD.

THE Hundred of Utlesford is the north-weſt corner of this County.

It is bounded on the eaſt by the Half-Hundred of Freſhwell, and part of Dunmow-Hundred; on the ſouth by the Half-Hundred of Harlow; on the weſt by the Half-Hundred of Clavering, and part of Hertfordſhire; and on the north by the County of Cambridge.

In its ſhape it is very irregular. From north to ſouth it is about 15 miles, and from eaſt to weſt where wideſt about 11 miles, but between Plechedon-green and Broxted it is not above half a mile over.

From what Ford it took its denomination is not eaſy to aſcertain; moſt probably it was from a Ford through the river Grant, or Cam, at Audeley-End, where Sir Edward de Bohun was drowned in 1333 (d). It is written theſe different ways in records; Odelesford, Odelesfort, Udelesfort, Wdelesford, Huddlisford. Sometimes it is diſtinguiſhed into Eaſt and Weſt Odelesford; and Takeley is reckoned in the firſt (e). Undoubtedly the river Cam was the partition between them.

The King is ſeized in fee of this Hundred, which he uſually grants by patent for life.

With regard to eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, it is in the Archdeaconry of Colcheſter,

There are in this Hundred Twenty-ſix pariſhes, which I treat of in the following order.

This Hundred is not a dead flat, but agreeably diverſified with little Hills and Dales, which is the reaſon why ſo many of the Pariſhes Names in it end in don, which ſignifies a hill, or den a valley.

1. WALDEN,

Being the chief Town in this Hundred, claims the firſt notice. The name is formed from the two Saxon words Wealꝺ, a wood, and ꝺen, a valley. It could hardly take its name from the Wall, or fortification, at Cheſterford.

The ſituation of it is healthful and pleaſant, on a chalky ſoil, 42 miles from London.

It hath a market weekly on Saturday; and two Fairs, one on the Saturday in Midlent, for horſes, &c. and the other November 1, for cows, &c.

Heretofore it was noted for the culture of Saffron, which grew plentifully in the adjoining fields [W]; from which it received the name of (e) Inquiſ. 31 Edw. I.

[W] The Saffron, Crocus autumnalis ſativus, is a bulbous root, much like that of the common Crocus: and the flower is of the lilly kind. The ſoil fitteſt for it is a temperate dry mold, ſuch as commonly lies upon chalk, and of a hazel colour. About the beginning of April it is carefully ploughed, the furrows being drawn much cloſer together, and deeper if the ſoil will allow it, than is done for any kind of corn. Any time in May, they lay between 20 and 30 loads of the ſhorteſt rotten dung upon each acre, and having ſpread it with great care, plough it in. About midſummer they plough a Saffron-Walden. But that uſeful plant is removed more weſtward, in and about the confines of Cambridgeſhire.

At the inſtance of John Smith, brother to Sir Thomas, this town was erected by K. Edward VI. anno 1549, into a Corporation, conſiſting of 24 Aſſiſtants, out of whom were annually choſen, a Treaſurer the head Officer for that year, and two Chamberlains (f). But K. William's Charter converted the chief Magiſtrate into a Mayor, with twelve Aldermen, a Recorder, and a Town-clerk. Sir William Maynard, Bart. is the preſent Recorder.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign Anſgar was poſſeſſed of Waledan, which was even then conſiderable, comprehending one Maner and nineteen hides: eight carucates in demeſne; twenty-two among the men or tenants; ſixty-ſix villans; wood or maſt for 1000 hogs; fourſcore acres of meadow, &c. At the time of the general Survey it was holden by Geffrey de Magnaville [X], being one of the 40 Lordſhips he had in this county [Y].

He 'was the firſt, according to Mr. Camden ' (g), who gave life to this place'; for which reaſon a particular account of him, and his poſterity, is here neceſſary. He took his ſurname from Mandeville, a place in Normandy, which was part of his poſſeſſions there: When William the Conqueror undertook his expedition into this Kingdom, he was one of thoſe valorous Chiefs who attended him; and ſo diſtinguiſhed himſelf in his ſervice (h), that he rewarded him with no leſs than a hundred and eighteen lordſhips, whereof forty in this county, and among the reſt Walden (i); where he fixed his reſidence, and began to build a Caſtle [Z]. It became afterwards the Head of the Barony, and of the Honor, of Mandeville. The time of his death is not mentioned, but it was after the year 1086. He married firſt, Athalais, . . by whom he had his children; ſecondly, Leceline (k) —— William de Mandeville, the eldeſt ſon and heir, not inferior to his father in bravery, was made Keeper of the Tower of London. By his wife, Margaret, only daughter and heir of Eudo Dapifer, Sewer to the Conqueror, and alſo Steward of Normandy, he had Geffrey; and Beatrix, married firſt to Hugh Talebot, and then to William de Saye. —— Geffrey de Mandeville, the ſon and heir, renowned for his courage, was alſo Keeper of the Tower of London; and advanced, by K. Stephen, from a Baron to the Dignity of Earl of Eſſex. But he, not long after, forſook his King and Benefactor, being allured by the advantageous offers of the Empreſs Maud. She not only confirmed to him whatſoever his father or grand-father ever had, in lands, forts, and caſtles; particularly the Tower of London, with the caſtle under it to fortify at his pleaſure; but ſhe alſo conferred upon him the office of hereditary Sheriff of London and Middleſex, Hertfordſhire, and Eſſex, and the Pleas and Tryals of all cauſes in thoſe counties, with the third penny from the Pleas of the Sheriffalty. She granted him likewiſe one hundred pounds in lands, at Newport, to hold in demeſne; and licenſe to remove the Market from Newport to his Caſtle at Walden; receiving all cuſtoms, tolls, &c. belonging to the Market: That the Market at Walden ſhould be upon Sundays and Thurſdays; and the Fair there to begin on Whitſun-eve, and to continue all that week. Moreover, ſhe made him very ample grants of lands, at Depdene, Banhunt, of the woods of Chatelege, [Catlidge] and elſewhere: gave him Meldon with its appertenances; and finally, granted to him and his heirs the office of Chief Juſtice in Eſſex of all Pleas and Forfeitures appertaining to the Crown (l). K. Stephen, privately apprized of his defection, cauſed him to third time, and between every pole in breadth leave a broad furrow, or trench. The time of planting the roots is commonly in July: with a ſpit-ſhovel a trench is made, between three and four inches deep, wherein the roots are placed every way three inches from one another, and perpendicular, and then covered with earth. When they begin to ſpire, about the beginning of September, the ground is carefully pared with a ſharp hough, and the weeds, &c. raked into the furrows. As ſoon as the flowers are fairly above ground, they pick them, early in the morning, whether wet or dry, and put them in baſkets. Having brought them home, they pick out the three yellow Chives which are in the middle of the flower, with a pretty long portion of the ſtyle, or ſtring, to which they are joined, and throw away the reſt of the flower, as uſeleſs. The thickeſt and ſhorteſt chives, of a high red and ſhining colour, both without and within alike, are accounted the beſt. They are dryed, between ſheets of white paper, on a kiln made for the purpoſe. About five pounds of wet ſaffron go to make one pound of dry. A plantation laſts three years, and then the roots muſt be taken up and new-planted as before. An acre may produce, at a medium, two pounds of dryed ſaffron for a firſt crop; and twenty-four pourds the two other years. The whole charge attending one acre is about 23 l. Saffron is ſaid to have been firſt brought into England in K. Edward the IIId's reign; and Eſſex and Cambridgeſhire Saffron is accounted the beſt in the world. See J. be apprehended at his Court, then at St. Albans, in 1143; and, to obtain his liberty, he was forced to ſurrender up to the King the Tower of London, and his Caſtles of Walden, and Plaiſiz. [See above, p. 451.] Grown deſperate, he vented his fury upon the demeſnes of the King, and his adherents; and, with a band as deſperate as himſelf, ſeized and plundered the Abbey of Ramſey in Huntingdonſhire, for which he was excommunicated. At length beſieging the King's caſtle at Burwell, he received a wound in the head, of which he dyed 14 Septemb. 1144. Some of the Knights-Templars having got his body, put it into a leaden coffin, and hung it on a crooked tree in their orchard at the Old Temple, London: But his excommunication being taken off, they buried it privately in the Church-yard of the New Temple (m). It was he that founded the Monaſtery of Walden, in the year 1136, as we ſhall ſhew more at large preſently. He married Rohaiſe, daughter of Alberic de Vere, Chief Juſtice of England, and Siſter to Alberic the firſt Earl of Oxford, remarried to Sir Payn de Beauchamp, and had by her, Ernulph; Geffrey; William; Robert. By another wife, he had Alice, married to John de Laci, Conſtable of Cheſter. —— Ernulph, his eldeſt ſon, being in arms againſt King Stephen, was taken priſoner, baniſhed, and dyed without iſſue (n). —— Geffrey, the ſecond ſon, was reſtored by K. Henry II. to all the lands that had belonged to his father, grandfather, and great grandfather, and alſo to the Earldom of Eſſex. He married Euſtachia, a kinſwoman of K. Henry II. but, upon her complaint of want of due affection [A], ſhe was divorced from him, [ſee above, p. 83.] and he dyed without iſſue, 20 October, 1167. He was buried at Walden [B] —— William de Mandeville, Earl of Eſſex, his next brother and ſucceſſor, went in pilgrimage to the Holy Land with Philip Earl of Flanders, in 1177, and returned in 1179. Being a very warlike perſon, he ſpent his time moſtly in Normandy, where he was intruſted with the cuſtody of ſeveral Forts and Caſtles. He had two wives; firſt, Hadewiſe, only daughter and heir of William le Gros, Earl of Albemarle; ſecondly, Chriſtian, daughter of Robert Lord Fitz-walter, remarried to Reymund de Burgh; but had no iſſue by either. Departing this life at Roan, 14 Novemb. 1189, or 1190, his body was buried in the Abbey of Mortemer in Normandy, and his heart was brought over, and depoſited in the Chapter-houſe of the Priory of Walden.

He gave to this Priory the Half of all his Lordſhip of Walden, with half of the meadows and paſtures; the mill; and the little park; and his tenants and their ſervices (o).

Beatrix, widow of William de Saye, and aunt of William de Mandeville laſt mentioned, was his heir. She had two ſons, William, and Geffrey de Saye. . . . William, who had been dead ſeveral years, left two daughters, ... Beatrix, married to Geffrey Fitz-Piers, Chief Juſtice of England; and Maud, to his brother William de Bockland. Beatrix, their grandmother, being much advanced in years, waved her right [C]; and, by intereſt among the great men, and agreement to pay 7000 marks, obtained livery of this great inheritance for her younger ſon, Geffrey de Saye. But, after he had made one payment, not being able to make a ſecond, Geffrey Fitz-Piers, who had a ſuperior intereſt, and was extremely wealthy, obtained this Barony (p) [D]. Upon which he had adminiſtration of the Earldom of Eſſex, and the title of Earl; though he was not actually inveſted with it, or girt with the ſword of the Earldom of Eſſex, till the day after the coronation of K. John, 28 May 1199 (q). The moiety of the Lordſhip of Walden, with appertenances, which his predeceſſor William de Mandeville had given to the Monks here, this Geffrey took from them, notwithſtanding their earneſt ſtruggles, and repeated applications to the King, the Biſhop, and the Pope; and made them ſit down contented with 100 acres of arable between their Houſe and Walden, and the mill, with a meadow towards Periton (r). He was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire from 1191 to 1194 (s); and departed this life, 2 Oct. 1212, with the character of the firmeſt Pillar of the realm, generous, ſkilful in the laws, rich in money, and every thing elſe, and allied to all the great men of England, either in blood or friendſhip. He was one of thoſe counſellors who adviſed K. John not to ſubmit to the Pope (t). By his wife Beatrix aboveſaid, he had three ſons, Geffrey; William; Henry, Dean of Wolverhampton; and one Daughter, Maud, married to Henry de Bohun Earl of Hereford, and Lord High Conſtable of England. —— Geffrey Fitz-Piers, the eldeſt ſon and heir, took the ſurname of Mandeville, and married Iſabell, third daughter and coheir of William Earl of Glouceſter, who had been married before to K. John; but he dyed without iſſue, in 1216. —— William de Mandeville, Earl of Eſſex, his next brother, and ſucceſſor, dyed 25 Decemb. 1227, unmarried (u). The latter entailed his lands, with the Earldom of Eſſex [E], upon his ſiſter,

Maud, wife of Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, Lord High-Conſtable of England; and in her right, Earl of Eſſex. She dyed 27 Auguſt 1236 (w). Of this noble Family we have given a full account above, p. 451, 452, and therefore ſhall only ſet down here the ſucceſſion of them down to K. Henry V. Henry de Bohun dyed 1 June 1220. —— Humfrey, his ſon, 24 Septemb. 1275.——Humfrey, grandſon of the laſt, who dyed 31 December 1298, held this maner of Waldene, of the King, in capite, of the Honor of Mandeville, with other lands and tenements belonging to the ſame Honor, by the ſervice of two knights fees (x). His ſon —— Humfrey had ſix ſons: He dying 5 March 1322, was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon——John; who, at the time of his deceaſe, 20 January 1335, having no child ſurviving — Humfrey his next brother inherited; but had no iſſue. He had licenſe, in 1347, to embattle his maner-houſe of Walden, and departed this life 16 October 1361. His heir was his next brother William's ſon —— Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, Baron of Brecknock, and Lord High Conſtable of England. He dyed 17 January 1372, poſſeſſed of this maner (y), leaving only two daughters, coheirs, Elianor married to Thomas of Woodſtock Duke of Glouceſter; and Mary to Henry Earl of Derby, afterwards K. Henry IV.

Elianor's eldeſt daughter, Anne, married firſt to Thomas, and Edmund, Lord Staffords, and afterwards to William Bourchier Earl of Eu, became heireſs to the moiety of the Bohun eſtates. [ſee above, p. 62, 80, 452.]

The heir to the other moiety was K. Henry V. in right of his mother. [ſee above, p. 83, 453.]

Upon the partition of that noble Inheritance, in 1421, the Maner of Waldene, then valued at 72l. 2 s. 3d. ob. with a Park, fell to the ſhare of K. Henry V.

This Maner was divided into the Maners of Walden, and Brook-Walden [F]; and the noble Owners having granted parcels of them to ſome perſons, theſe Fees, or parts of Fees, took from their ſubordinate owners the names of De la Mares; Cloptons; Weſtleys; Botiller's; Mateines Machams, or Mathums: beſides Kibworthy; and Pirnhoe, or Princehoe: And Pownceys; and Bowles, alias Bowleſgrove; which two laſt, with Mateines, were, in particular, appendages to the maner of Brook-Walden [G]. But theſe diminutive Maners have been ſwallowed by, and incorporated into, the others; and none have for ſome time been reputed Maners here, but the MANER OF WALDEN, alias CHEPING-WALDEN; BROKE-WALDEN; ST. AYLOTTS; MANHALL; and ROOS.

The Maner of Walden continued, as far as we can learn, in the Crown, till it was granted by K. Henry VIII. to Thomas Lord Audeley. For, at the time of his deceaſe, 8 May 1544, he held this manner of Walden, alias Cheping-Walden, with appertenances, and the ſite of that maner, the reverſion of the great Hall for his grange, or barn, and other barns, tan-houſes, and houſes there; with a paſture of 40 acres; and all other lands, meadows, paſtures, &c. to the ſame maner of Walden appertaining: a field called Kepedhey; a rent of 21 l. a warren within the lordſhip of this maner, parcel of the Duchy of Lancaſter: a fee farm of 10 l. payable by the Treaſurer, Chamberlains, and Commonalty of the Town of Walden, for certain mills, a market, and other liberties granted them by the King: a yearly rent of 6l. 6s. 8d. for Walden Park: He held alſo Cheſterford Park; and all thoſe meſſuages, lands, &c. called Bawdys in that pariſh: And 60 other meſſuages, 4000 acres of arable land, 2000 acr. of paſture, 1000 of meadow, 60 of wood, 2 water-mills, faldages, and liberties of faldage [H], with all other profits and emoluments thereto belonging: and a rent of 40 l. in Great and Little Walden, Cheping-Walden, Great and Little Cheſterford, Lytelbury, Depden, and Great Lighes: And the Advowſons of the Churches of Great Cheſterford, Depden, and Great Lighes. He held alſo here the maner of Butlers, which he purchaſed in 1540 of John Lord Mordaunt; Weſtleys, which he bought of James Williamſon, and his ſon and heir Thomas; and the maners of Benghe alias Bourchiers-hall, Manhall, and Bowleſgrove, which were conveyed to him by William Parr Marquis of Northampton (z) [I].

(z) Inquiſ. 36 Hen. VIII. March 2.

[F] The cuſtoms in theſe two Maners are thus far different.——In that of Brook-Walden, two cuſtomary Tenants have power to take all manner of ſurrenders. But, in that of Cheping-Walden, it muſt be done by three cuſtomary Tenants, or one cuſtomary Tenant in the preſence of two others.

In Cheping-Walden, the widow of a Copyholder hath her free bench, except widows of tenants in tail. But not in Brook-Walden.

[G] Duran de Walden held half a fee under Geffrey de Magnaville Earl of Eſſex, in 1166. Liber ruber, fol. 12.

Robert de Mara held a fee in Walden, in 1210 and 1211. Sir Geffrey de la Mare held lands here in 1345. —— Geffrey was his ſon and heir. Liber ruber. & Inquiſ. 19 Edw. III.

Thomas de Clopton, who dyed in 1345, held in Cheeping-Waldene, a capital meſſuage, and 140 acres of arable. The ſaid meſſuage, and 20 acres were held of Geffrey de la Mare by the ſervice of 6 s. 8 d. per ann. Forty-four acres of the heir of Humfrey de Bohun deceaſed, by the ſervice of 5 d. per ann. and 12 d. payable yearly to the Chapel of Pleſſeiz, and ſuit at the Court of High-Eſtre: Twenty-eight acres were holden of the Abbot of Walden, by the ſervice of 2 s. per ann. Twenty acres of Phillip atte Coſhe, by payment of a half penny a year: And ten acres of John de Roos of Walden, by the ſervice, or payment, of one penny a year. —John Clopton was his ſon. . . . Inquiſ. 19 Edw. II.

In 1348, a fine paſſed between William, and Thomas de Clopton, for 3 meſſuages, 266 acres of arable, and 6 of meadow, in Walden and Hadſtock.

Under Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, who dyed in 1372, Richard Wynter held, in right of his wife, half a fee in Walden, which William de Weſtle formerly had: and the fifth part of a fee, which Geffrey de Botiller had. The ſaid Richard Wynter held, beſides, here, a quarter of a fee; and the twentieth part of a fee called Pirnho. The Abbot of Walden held alſo here, under the ſaid Earl, the moiety of a fee called Mateines; another moiety, which had belonged to William de St. Michael; the third part of a fee; the 20th part of another fee; and the 22d part of another. And Sir William Chamberleyn held the tenth part of a fee at Kibworthey. Inquiſ. 46 Edw. III.

Here alſo was a Maner called Havering, and lands holden by William de la Launde.

William de St. Ermine held the maner of Havering at Walden, 200 acres of arable, 6 of meadow, 16 of paſture, 40 s. rent of aſſize, and a capital meſſuage, for which he was to pay the King 6l. 6 s. 10 d. Inquiſ. 44 Hen. III.

William de la Launde, who dyed in 1269, held lands and tenements at Walden, worth by the year 100 s. of the King, in capite, by the fourth part of a knight's fee; he had a ſon nine years old. Inquiſ. 54 Hen. III.

[H] That is, the privileges ſome lords of maners reſerved to themſelves, of folding their tenants ſheep upon their maners, for the manuring of the land.

[I] The maner of Cheping-Walden was then valued at 102 l. 11 s. 11 d. per ann. the maners of Great and Little Cheſterford, 113 l. 17 s. 7 d. ob. qa. Depden, 33 l. 13 s. 4 d. Butler's, 6 l. Weſtlee's, 5 l. Manhall and Bowleſgrove, 13 l. 6 s. 8 d. Bourchiers, 7 l. Inquiſ. 36 Hen. VIII.

From the Lord Audeley theſe great eſtates deſcended to the noble Family of Howard, Earls of Suffolk, of which we ſhall preſently give ſome account. And as they inherited alſo from the Lord Audeley the revenues of the Monaſtery here, and near and upon the ſite of it erected that ſtately Pile, which was their ſeat for many years, therefore the deſcription of it moſt naturally follows next.

The PRIORY and ABBEY of WALDEN.

I call it both a Priory and an Abbey, becauſe it was founded at firſt as a Priory, in 1136, by Geffrey de Mandeville, the firſt Earl of Eſſex of that family: and was converted into an Abbey, anno 1190, in the reign of K. Richard I. which alteration brought it into the King's diſpoſal (a). It was dedicated to the Honor of God, of St. Mary, and St. James; and was of the Benedictine Order. The ſite of it was near the great Pond, by the bowling-green, where foundations and bones have been dug up. And it was placed at the confluence of the Cam and the Brook that comes from this town, whereby it was plentifully ſupplyed with water; and at the meeting of four ways, on purpoſe to give a hoſpitable reception and entertainment to poor travellers (b).

The founder endowed it with the Churches of Walden, Great Waltham, High Eſtre, Shelley, and Great Chiſhell, in this county; thoſe of Sabricheſworth, Thorley, Gedeleſton, and Digenſwell, in Hertfordſhire; of Enfeild, Edmonton, South Mymmes, and Northall, in Middleſex; Chippenham, in Cambridgeſhire; Almodeſham, or Agmondeſham, . . . ; Stratteley, in Berkſhire; Kaingham; and Aynho, in Northamptonſhire; and Long Compton in Warwickſhire. Alſo, with ſix ſcore acres of arable in his eſſarts of Walden; a hundred acres of his wood in Kebworthei, half of all the profits thence iſſuing; and Fulſen mead, with the vineyard above it: and one Mill at Waledon, and another at Enefeld. Likewiſe the Hermitage of Hadeley in Middleſex, with appertenances; and common of paſture for their cattle in his park where that Hermitage ſtood.

Afterwards Beatrix de Say gave the monks the Church of Elſenham; Hawiſe de Boville, daughter of William de Bocland, all her part and right in the mill there; Geffrey de Say, the Church of Rikelyng; Robert, Abbot of Moſterol, Little Cokenhach in Berkway; William de Bohun, Earl of Northampton, the advowſon of Bereden Priory (c).

In 1364, Edward Ive Vicar of Chipenham, and Robert Ive, parſon of Leyngham; gave them the maner of Matenes, and 1 meſſuage, 2 ſhops, 82 acres of arable, 2 of meadow, and 5 of wood, in this pariſh (d).

They had alſo the maner, rectory, and advowſon of the Vicarage, of Arkeſden; the advowſon of Haydon, anciently; the rectory, and advowſon of the Vicarage of Lindſell; and the advowſon of Pleſhey, anciently. —— A Fair was granted them by K. Henry III. [K].

What lands and demeſnes they had in this pariſh, will appear preſently by the grant of them to the Lord Audeley.

A Liſt of the Abbots may be ſeen in Mr. Newcourt, Vol. II. p. 622, 623, and Dr. Willis's Hiſtory of the Abbies, Vol. II. p. 82.

William More, the laſt Abbot, did on the 22d of March 1537, ſurrender this Abbey. . . And, K. Henry VIII. granted it, 14 May 1538, to Sir Thomas Audeley: which grant was confirmed, the 20th of the ſame month, by the Archbiſhop of Canterbury. In 1540, he obtained licenſe to incloſe 200 acres more here into the Park [L]. What he held of the poſſeſſions of this Abbey, at the time of his deceaſe, was, the ſite, circuit and precincts of the monaſtery of Walden, and all meſſuages, buildings, lands, tenements, hereditaments, &c. within the ſame: And the maners of Broke-Walden, Pounces, Mattens, St. Aylotts, Abbots in Thunderley, Mynchon in Arkeſden, and Berden. And the Rectories, and Advowſons of the Vicarages, of Walden, Arkeſden, Great Chyſſel, and Elſnam. And all meſſuages, lands, tenements, hereditaments, &c. with appertenances in Walden, Broke-Walden, Littlebury, Newport, Thunderley, Arkeſden, Berden, Aſhedon, the Wendons, and other pariſhes adjoyning, holden of the King by knight's ſervice (e) [M].

This Abbey was valued at the ſuppreſſion at 406 l. 15 s. 11 d. Speed. 372 l. 18 s. 1d. Dugdale.

ST. AYLOTTS, mentioned in theſe grants, is ſtill reputed a Maner. The manſion-houſe ſtands two miles and a quarter north-eaſt from this Town, upon the edge of Cambridge-ſhire, and hath been a cell or priory. It formerly had a Chapel (f).

Thomas Lord Audeley, to whom theſe large grants were made, was in great favour with K. Henry VIII. He was born at Earl's Colne in this County, in 1488 (g). Being bred to the Law in the Inner Temple, he was Autumn Reader of that Houſe in 1526. Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk, to whom he was chancellor, having recommended him to the King, he was choſen Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, in the Parliament which met 3 Novemb. 1529; ſtyled afterwards the Long, or the Black Parliament (h). And ſo well ſatisfied was the King with his ſervices, that in 1530, he conſtituted him Attorney of the Duchy of Lancaſter, Serjeant at law, and King's Serjeant (i). Upon Sir Thomas More's ſurrender of the Great Seal, 16 May 1532, the King delivered it, on the 20th of the ſame month, to Thomas Audeley Eſq; with the title of Lord Keeper, and knighted him. The 26th of Janu. 1533, he was appointed Lord Chancellor, and continued in that high office till April 1544 (k). Soon after he was made Chancellor the King gave him the Priory of Chriſt-Church near Aldgate, which grant was confirmed by act of parliament in 1534; and this became his town reſidence, as Walden-abbey did his country ſeat. On the 29th of November 1538, he was created Baron Audeley of Walden, and likewiſe inſtalled Knight of the Garter (l). He built the eaſt end of Walden Church (m). On the 21ſt of April 1544, he reſigned the office of Lord Chancellor, after having enjoyed it very near full twelve years [N]; and dyed, according to his epitaph, the laſt day of the ſame month: but, according to the Inquiſitions poſt mortem, the 8th of May, in the 56th year of his age: and was buried on the ſouth ſide of the Choir of this Church. A ſtately altar tomb of touch-marble was erected over his vault, with an uncouth epitaph (n). His wife, living in 1537, was named Chriſtina (o). His ſecond Lady was Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Grey, Marquis of Dorſet [O]. By her he had two daughters, Margaret, four years and a half old at the time of his deceaſe, and Mary, three years and a half old. The latter dying unmarried, Margaret became ſole heir to her father the Lord Audeley. Beſides his great eſtates in and about Walden, as mentioned above, he had large eſtates in and about Colcheſter, at Abberton, Peldon, Layer de la Hay, &c. as will be particularly ſpecified under thoſe pariſhes: and at Woodham-Ferrers, Stanway, Great Tay, Tiltey, Chaureth, &c. Margaret, the only ſurviving daughter and heir of Thomas Lord Audeley, was married, firſt to the Hon. Henry Dudley, a younger ſon of John, Duke of Northumberland, and he being ſlain at the battle of St. Quintins in Picardy in 1557, ſhe was married again to Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk, being his ſecond wife. By him ſhe had two ſons, Thomas; and William: and two daughters, Elizabeth, who dyed in her infancy; and Margaret, married to Robert Sackville, Earl of Dorſet. Their mother dyed 10 January 1569. The Duke of Norfolk being declared guilty of high-treaſon, for endeavouring to deliver Mary Queen of Scots from her impriſonment, and intending to marry her; his eſtates became forfeited, and he was beheaded 2 June 1573 (p). But the Hon.—Thomas Howard, his eldeſt ſon by Margaret aforeſaid, was reſtored in blood by act of parliament in 1584. He was one of thoſe brave Men who ſignalized themſelves againſt the Spaniſh Armada in 1588; and, for his good ſervice therein, received at ſea the honor of Knighthood from the Lord High Admiral (q). Afterwards he diſtinguiſhed himſelf in ſeveral other Expeditions, particularly, as Vice Admiral, at the taking of Cadiz in 1596, where he commanded the attack on the Spaniſh Ships in the harbour; a ſervice challenged and obtained by him, tho' it had been at firſt demanded by the Earl of Eſſex, and next given to Sir Walter Ralegh (r). [P]. The year following, he was ſummoned to Parliament by the title of Sir Thomas Howard, Baron Howard of Walden. On the 24th of May 1597, he was inſtalled a Knight of the Garter: and, 21 July 1603, created Earl of Suffolk. The 11th of July 1614, he was conſtituted Lord High-Treaſurer of England, in which great office he continued four years, till 19 July 1618. It was this noble perſon that built the ſtately and magnificent Houſe here, which in honor of his grandfather was named Audeley Houſe. . . . . . . Departing this life 28 May 1626, he was buried in the Chapel at Walden. He married Catharine, daughter and coheir of Sir Henry Knivet of Charlton in Wiltſhire Kt. and had by her 7 ſons, Theophilus, Thomas, Henry, Charles, Robert, William, and Edward; and 4 daughters [Q]. The three younger ſons were Knights of the Bath; and Thomas, the ſecond ſon, was created Earl of Berkſhire.—Theophilus, the eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded his father, and was inſtalled a Knight of the Garter 24 Decemb. 1628. By Elizabeth his lady, daughter and co-heir of George Hume Earl of Dunbar, he had four ſons, James, Thomas, George, Henry; and five daughters. He dyed 3 June 1640, and was buried at Walden. — James, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, was made Knight of the Bath in 1625, at the Coronation of K. Charles I. He had three wives: The firſt was, Suſan, daughter to Henry Rich Earl of Holland, by whom he had an only daughter Eſſex, who was married to EDWARD LORD GRIFFIN of Dingley, Baron of Braybroke in Northamptonſhire. By his ſecond wife, Barbara, daughter of Sir Edward Villiers Kt. he had one Daughter, Elizabeth, married to THOMAS FELTON Eſq; afterwards a Baronet. His third wife was Anne, eldeſt daughter of Robert Montagu Earl of Mancheſter, by whom he had no iſſue. He dyed 7 January 1688-9, and having had only Daughters, was ſucceeded by his third brother—George, who dying in 1691, alſo without iſſue male, had for ſucceſſor his next brother—Henry. He married, firſt, Mary, daughter and heir of Andrew Lord Stewart, of Caſtle-Stewart in Ireland, and had by her Henry; Edward; Charles; and Diana. By his ſecond lady, widow of Sir John Maynard Kt. he had no iſſue. And dying 10 December 1709, in the 83d of his age, was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon—Henry, who had been created Baron of Cheſterford and Earl of Binden 29 Decemb. 1706, and was conſtituted Lord Lieutenant of this County 14 October 1714. He dyed 12 Septemb. 1718, having been twice married. His firſt Lady was Penelope, daughter of Henry Earl of Thomond, by whom he had 4 ſons, Charles-William; James; Thomas; and Arthur; which three laſt dyed unmarried: and a daughter named Sarah-Henrietta. By his ſecond Lady, Henrietta, third daughter of Henry Somerſet Duke of Beaufort, and widow of Henry Lord O-brien, eldeſt ſon of the Earl of Thomond, which Lady dyed 2 Auguſt 1715, ætat. 46, he had no iſſue.—Charles-William ſucceeded his father, and, 29 October 1719, was conſtituted Lord Lieutenant of this County. But he dyed 9 February 1721-2, in the 29th year of his age, leaving no iſſue by his Lady, Arabella, fourth and youngeſt daughter and co-heir of Sir Samuel Aſtry of Henbury, in Glouceſterſhire Kt. Whereupon he was ſucceeded in the title of Earl of Suffolk, and in his eſtates, by his uncle—Edward, ſecond ſon of Henry the fifth Earl of Suffolk. He dying 22 June, 1731, in the 60th year of his age, unmarrried, was ſucceeded in honor and eſtate by his next brother—Charles, above-mentioned; who departed this life 28 September 1733, aged 58 years; having married Henrietta, ſiſter of John Lord Hobart, by whom he left—Henry his only ſon. He married Sarah, ſole daughter of Thomas Inwen Eſq; but dyed 22 April 1745, aged 39 years, without iſſue . . . . . Whereupon the title of Earl of Suffolk came to Henry-Bowes Howard, a deſcendent from Thomas Howard Earl of Berkſhire, ſecond ſon of Thomas the firſt Earl of Suffolk above-mentioned.

'Whoſe exceeding great magnanimity, courage, and wiſedome, joyned with ſuch an honourable kind of ſweet 'courteſie, bountie, and liberalitie, as is not able by me 'and my weaknes to be expreſſed, hath wonne him all the 'faithfull loving hearts of as many as ever had any maner 'of dealing with him.' [Q] Frances, the ſecond daughter, was married to Robert Devereux Earl of Eſſex, from whom being divorced, ſhe was married to Robert Carr, Earl of Somerſet.

But, in purſuance of a ſettlement made, in 1687, by James Earl of Suffolk above-mentioned [R], who left no ſon, only two Daughters, Lady Eſſex Griffin, and Lady Elizabeth Felton; the Eſtates of this noble Family deſcended to the Heirs of theſe Daughters; namely to—the two Daughters and coheirs of James Lord Griffin; Elizabeth, married, firſt, to Henry Grey of Billingbere in Berkſhire Eſq; afterwards to John Earl of Portſmouth; and Anne, married to William Whitwell of Oundle in Northamptonſhire Eſq; and to——George-William, Lord Hervey, grandſon of the Lady Elizabeth Felton aforeſaid.

Lady Portſmouth in 1749 gave her ſhare of this Eſtate to her nephew Col. John-Griffin Whitwell, ſon of her ſiſter Anne; who thereupon took by Act of Parliament the ſurname of Griffin: And left him alſo by her will Audeley-houſe with its demeſnes, of which he became poſſeſſed at her deceaſe in 1762. He diſtinguiſhed himſelf greatly in the late Wars in Germany; and, upon his return home, was made a Knight of the Bath. He is Colonel of the 33d Regiment of Foot, a Lieutenant-general, and one of the Repreſentatives in Parliament for the Borough of Andover in Hampſhire. Beſides Audeley End, with the demeſnes, He hath the Maners of Brooke-Walden, and Cheping-Walden, and the following Eſtates here and here abouts, mentioned above, Cloptons, Weſtleys, Botiller's, Mateines, Kibworthy, Pouncey's, Bowleſgrove, St. Aylotts; and De la Mare's, as is ſuppoſed, tho' the name of this laſt is now forgotten.

AUDELEY-HOUSE, the ſeat, for many years, of the noble Family of Suffolk, of which we have been giving an account, was built by Thomas Howard the firſt Earl of Suffolk of this line, and named Audeley-houſe, in honor of his grandfather the Lord Chancellor Audeley. The Charge of it is ſaid to have amounted to 190,000 l. which is far from being improbable; as it is a known thing in the Family, that his Lordſhip ſold at that time an Eſtate of 10,000 l. a year in the north of England; beſides the aſſiſtance he received from his uncle, the Earl of Northampton [S]. This is ſufficient to ſhew, how groundleſs are the Inſinuations of ſome invidious Scriblers in the laſt Century (s). The model alone of the Houſe, in wood, which came from Italy, coſt 500 l. It conſiſted of two Courts, one of which, and part of the other; including a Gallery 226 feet long, 32 feet wide, and 24 high; were taken down by Henry Earl of Suffolk and Bindon about 60 years ago. But there is enough left to make a noble Seat, which hath been much improv'd, and is daily improving by the preſent worthy owner, Sir John-Griffin Griffin.

He hath alſo built upon the high-road to Walden, under the direction of Robert Adams Eſq; an elegant Stone-Bridge of three arches, for which he muſt be acknowledged a public Benefactor.

[R] At the date of this ſettlement, the Palace of Audeley-Houſe was in the Crown, having been purchaſed either by K. Charles II. or K. James II. It is ſaid to have been by K. Charles II. but not being able to pay for it, he mortgaged the hearth tax to the then Earl of Suffolk, as a ſecurity for the money. This tax was taken off ſoon after the Revolution, and the ſtate not being then in a condition to pay the money for which it had been pledged, the houſe was given back again to the family. Upon the death of Henry Earl of Suffolk in 1745, it deſcended to Thomas Howard, Earl of Effingham, who ſold it to the Counteſs of Portſmouth.

[S] W. Sanderſon informs us, that, 'He aſſiſted his 'Nephew the Earl of Suffolk by his deſigning and large con'tribution, to that excellent Fabrick Awdley-end.' Aulicus Coquinariæ, p. 66.

N. B. The vulgar name of Audeley-end is improper, it belonging to the Hamlet or Village near it. Audeley-Houſe is the right name, according to the old writings.

MANHALL,

Hath been from the firſt a diſtinct Maner in this pariſh. The maner houſe hath been down from time immemorial.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, one part of this eſtate belonged to Siward, and the other to a Freeman: At the time of the Survey, part was holden by Alan Earl of Bretagne, and his under-tenant Hervey de Spain: and part by Geffrey de Magnaville, to whom the former owner turned tenant [T].

K. Stephen gave Munhale to St. Edmundſbury abbey (t).

This eſtate came afterwards into the noble Family de Clare, Earls of Glouceſter. [ſee above, p. 250, 437.] For, about the year 1257, a fine paſſed between Richard Earl of Glouceſter and Symon Abbot of St. Edmund's, whereby, in conſideration of the maner of Mildenhale, and one meſſuage and one carucate of land in Ikelyngham given to the Abbey by that Earl, the Abbot granted to the Earl, among other things, one meſſuage and 2 carucates of land in Manhall, Ceſtreford, Breninge, and Waleden in Eſſex, to be holden of the Abbot and his ſucceſſors. In 1259, Richard Earl of Glouceſter obtained leave to build a caſtle at his maner of Manhall in the county of Eſſex, and another at Southwood in Suffolk (u). He held this eſtate at the time of his deceaſe in 1262 (w) [V].

William de Montchenſi, who dyed in 1285, held the maner of Manhall of the Earl of Glouceſter by the ſervice of half a knight's fee, paying yearly 24 s. to the Biſhop of Ely, 2 s. to William Putyne, 2 s. to the Abbat of Walden, to Simon Voygard 8 d. and to the heirs of William le Butiller one pound of pepper. And he held the maner of Brenynge of Geffrey de Aſhedone by the ſervice of 11 s. 10 d. per ann. And the maner of Boleſgrove of the Earl of Hereford by the ſervice of 3 s. per ann.——William was his ſon and heir (x). Concerning this family of Montchenſy, ſee above, p. 35, 253, 341.

From them it came to the Bourgchier family, ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 253, &c. For Robert Bourgchier, who dyed in 1349, held the maner of Manhale of ſeveral lords, viz. one parcel of the Honor of Glouceſter, another of the Counteſs of Hereford, another of the Abbat of Walden, another of Geffrey Botiller. And he held the tenement of Brenyng of John Fitzwalter by knight's ſervice (y). He was ſucceeded by his poſterity, who were —— John Lord Bourchier, that dyed 21 May 1400.——Sir Bartholomew Lord Bourgchier, in 1409, and his wife Idonea, in 1410. Then by their only daughter Elizabeth, who married firſt Sir Hugh Stafford, and afterwards Sir Lewis Robeſſart. She dying without iſſue 1 July 1433, it then came to Henry Bourchier, Earl of Eu, and Eſſex; and to his grandſon —— Henry Earl of Eſſex. This laſt dyed 13 March 1540.

Anne his only daughter and heir, brought it to her huſband Sir William Parr, Baron of Kendal, who was created Earl of Eſſex, and Marquis of Northampton (z). The 12th of October 1540, he had licenſe to alienate it, with many others, to . . . Sir William Wriotheſley, and others (a). But this ſeems not to have taken effect; for the Lord Parr conveyed, 10 January 1545, to

Sir Thomas Audeley the maners of Brynge, Manhale, and Bouleſgrove in Cheping and Brook Walden, Great and Little Cheſterford, Littlebury, and Aſhedon: and this hath remained ever ſince with the others, in his poſterity, the Earls of Suffolk, &c. The ſite of it belongs now to the Earl of Briſtol, having been allotted to him upon the diviſion of the Eſtate.

The MANER OF ROOS,

Vulgarly called the Roſt, and otherwiſe in writings Roſſe, and Rous, is another Maner, lying partly in this pariſh, and extending alſo into Debden, and Thunderley, but the houſe is in Walden.

Nicolas Berners Eſq; was poſſeſſed of this eſtate in the reign of K. Henry VI. [ſee under Amberden-hall in Depden.] Catharine his daughter and heir brought it to her huſband

Sir William Fyndern. His ſucceſſors were,—— Sir William Finderne, who dyed 18 Decemb. 1516, and his ſon Sir William being dead before him, he was ſucceeded by his grandſon —— William Findern Eſq; (b). He departed this life 10 March 1523, without iſſue, at the age of 16 years (c); [ſee above, p. 235, 380, and under Shortgrove in Newport, and Amberden-hall in Depden.] whereupon this eſtate deſcended to

John Berners, of Therfeild Eſq; who ſold it to Edmund Mordaunt Eſq;

This maner was holden of the maner of Walden, as parcel of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, by fealty and yearly rent of 3 l. 13 s. 4 d.

It belongs now to Sir John-Griffin Griffin.

The Byrde family was anciently conſiderable in this pariſh (d). Their eſtate, called Byrdes-farm, belongs to John Collin, Gent. As doth Sherehall, to Mr. Ph. Martin; and Herbers, to Mr. Robert Lagden. . . . . James Raymond, and Thomas Cowper, Eſquires; Tho. Wolfe, Gent. Mr. Thomas Weſtrop; Mr. Joſeph Collin;

Charitable Gifts, and Foundations.

An Alms-houſe, well endowed, founded by John Smith, and the reſt of the Corporation in 1549, by the name of K. Edward's Alms-houſe.

A farm in Wymbiſh belonging to the Alms-houſes called the Elms.

Dr. Bromfeild's gift to this pariſh.

A houſe and lands in Tolleſbury, of 16 l. a year, given to the poor of Walden.

William Turner, ſingleman, who dyed in 1612, bequeathed by his will to the Alms-houſe of this Town 5 l. a year for ever, and 5 l. a year more to the Poor here.—His younger brother, Robert, who dyed the ſame year, was alſo a benefactor to the Poor.

Thomas Turner, the younger, mercer, who dyed a batchelor in June 1623; at his death, for continuance of good and charitable uſes, did give Twenty pounds per annum for ever to the Poor here.

Edmund Turner, of Audeley-end, Gent. and Alderman, who dyed 22 March 1699, left to the poor people of Audeley-end and Walden two hundred pounds.

Here was of old A FREE-SCHOOL in this Town, with a Maſter, and an Uſher, and governed by divers excellent orders for its ſix Ferms. In 1522, Dame Jane Bradbury ſettled 10 l. per annum upon it: She was Siſter to John Leche Vicar of Walden, who contributed largely to the building of the Pariſh Church. It was made a Free-ſchool, by Indenture tripartite between Jane Bradbury, widow, and the Treaſurer and Chamberlains of the Guild of the Holy Trinity in the Pariſh Church of Walden, and the Abbat and Convent: and the Children born in Walden, Little-Cheſterford, Newport, and Widdington, and Kinsfolk of the Foundreſs, were to be taught free.

Sir Thomas Smith, who moſt probably had his firſt education in this School; by his intereſt with K. Edward VI, got it afterwards advanced to a Royal Foundation, with good endowment from the King his Maſter, who granted to the School, in 1549, a corn-mill near the town, and a malt-mill in it, with the tolls, &c. and an Annuity of 12 l. out of the Manor of Willingale-Spain in Eſſex.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is a ſtately building, with north and ſouth iſles: and north and ſouth Chapels to the Chancel. The Communion-table is raiſed by ſeveral ſteps, and under it and the middle Chancel is the vault and burial place of the Suffolk family. On the inſide both Church and Chancel are 70 paces long, and 36 paces wide. The front, or fore-part, of the Pews is of cedar. The Tower, which is handſom, has a good ring of 6 Bells. On the top of it there is a lofty Spire, leaded, which ſtanding in the moſt conſpicuous part of the Town affords a good proſpect to the country round. Thomas Lord Audeley built the eaſt end of the Church, and the ſouth Chapel, in which he lies buried. The north part of the Chancel was built by the inhabitants; greatly furthered by John Leche, who became Vicar here in 1489, and dyed in 1521. He lies buried under the arch, adjoyning to the Chancel, with a broken epitaph. This was one of the Churches wherewith the Abbey was endowed by the Founder.

A Vicarage was inſtituted here by Reginald the firſt Abbat, who came in about the year 1174. In 1365, the Abbey having loſt moſt of their ſervants and tenants by a great mortality, and wanting money to repair the damage they had ſuffered by a violent wind, they prevailed with the Biſhop of London to appoint a commiſſion for reuniting the Vicar's portion to their revenue, they providing a ſecular Prieſt, to ſupply the cure; which was ſettled accordingly. But about 1435 a Vicarage was again appointed, in the gift of the Convent, as it had been from the firſt, and a compoſition was made between the Abbat and Vicar, ſpecifying what his Tythes ſhould be. This compoſition is printed at length in Newcourt (e). Upon the diſſolution, the great Tythes of this large pariſh, and the Advowſon of the Vicarage, were granted to Thomas Lord Audeley: and came to his ſucceſſors the Earls of Suffolk. They belong now to Sir John Griffin.

There was a Guild of the H. Trinity in Walden (f).

The Pariſh of Walden is rated to the land-tax at 3728 l. 3 s. 8 d.

This Town had the honor of giving birth to the learned Sir Thomas Smith, Secretary to K. Edward VI. and to Qu: Elizabeth. He built Hill-hall in Theydon Gernon, where the poſterity of his younger brother George hath been ſettled ever ſince. See the Life of Sir Thomas, publiſhed by I. Strype, Lond. 1698. 8°.

Another excellent Scholar, Gabriel Harvey, LL. D. was alſo a native of this Town, and related to Sir Thomas Smith. He was a great maſter of the Latin tongue, an Orator, and a Poet. His Rhetor, Ciceronianus, Gratulationum Valdinenſium Libri quatuor, Smithus vel Muſarum lachrymæ pro obitu Thomae Smithi Equitis, &c. were printed at London in 1577, and 1578. 4°. [See A. [W] In 1252, there was a notable Tournament at Walden, wherein Roger de Leiburne encountered with Ernauld de Mountenei, a valiant Knight, and unhappily ran his lance into his throat under his helmet, it wanting a collar; whereupon Mountenei fell from his horſe and died inſtantly, inſomuch, as it was then ſuppoſed by ſome, that, in regard his lance had not a ſocket upon the point, he did it purpoſely in revenge of a broken leg he had received from Mountenei, tilting with him in a former tournament. CHESTERFORD.

North north-weſt of Walden are two contiguous Pariſhes of this name, diſtinguiſhed from each other by the addition of Great and Little; but were originally only one.

2. GREAT CHESTERFORD

Is affirm'd with the utmoſt probability to be the ſite of the ancient Roman City, Camboritum, mentioned in the Itinerary of Antoninus (g). The learned Dr. Stukeley, who was upon the place in 1719, ſays, that ‘ the foundation of the Walls was very apparent quite round tho' level with the ground, including a ſpace of about 50 acres. [Others reckon it about a mile in compaſs] great part of it ſerves for a cauſeway to the public Cambridge road from London; the crown inn is built upon it; the reſt is made uſe of by the countrymen for their carriages to and fro in the fields; the earth is ſtill high on both ſides of it; in one part they have been long digging it up for materials in building, and mending the roads; there I meaſur'd its breadth 12 foot, and remark'd its compoſition of ragſtone, flints and roman brick; [bound together by a ſtrong cement.] in a little cottage hard by, the parlor is pav'd with the bricks; they are fourteen inches and a half long, and nine broad. . . . I remark'd that the city was juſt 1000 roman feet in bredth, and that the bredth to the length, was as three to five, of the ſame proportion as they make their bricks; 'tis poſited obliquely to the cardinal points, its length from north-weſt to ſouth-weſt, whereby wholeſomneſs is ſo well provided for, according to the direction of Vitruvius; the river Cam runs under the wall, whence its name.'—The Dr. hath given there the Ichnography of the ancient City.— ‘ In the north weſt end of it, he found the foundation of a roman temple very apparent; the poverty of the corn growing where the walls ſtood, defines it to ſuch a nicety, that he was able to meaſure it with exactneſs enough, the dimenſions of the cell were 15 foot in bredth, 40 in length. . . . Many roman Coyns have been found in the City or Borough-field, as they call it.' . . . They are chiefly of Caligula, Trajan, Conſtantine, Conſtantius. There was alſo, ſome years ſince, at the Mill a Roman Urn of ſtone for three women, whoſe buſts are in baſs relief; it was then uſed for a lye-trough, though the only Roman relict of that kind in Eſſex; except ſome ſmaller of earth, to contain the aſhes of the dead, at Colcheſter, Coxhall, and other parts of the county, ſome entire but moſt broken. The ſhape of it is like half an hexangular veſſel, but with a back to it, to ſtand againſt a Wall. It has been thought part of an Altar for the Deæ Matres, of which many are found in Northumberland about the Wall, but not of this form, or indeed hollow at all as this is, deſigned for aſhes. The length of the back part is near three foot, and the depth of it about half as much.

‘ Not far off from the ancient Camboritum, by Audlenhouſe upon an eminence is a great roman camp, a hunting tower of brick now ſtands upon it (h).'

As to the origin of the name of Cheſterford; It is to be obſerv'd, that the moſt conſiderable places in this iſland, where was a Roman Caſtrum, or Caſtra, “ Caſtle or Camp,” the Saxons afterwards generally denominated Ceaꞅꞇeꞃ, either alone, or with the addition of ſome other word: And the old Roman fortified Town, Camboritum, being here at a Ford, over the river Cam, they called therefore this place Cheſter-ford. The Britiſh word Rith, from whence was deriv'd the termination of Camborit ſignified alſo a Ford.

GREAT CHESTERFORD belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Earl Edgar: At the time of the Survey it was in the King's hands. There was adjoyning to it one hide and a half in Cambridgeſhire: and one hide and a half was holden by Harduuin de Scalers [X].

Afterwards this Lordſhip was part of the Poſſeſſions of the Family of Mareſchall, Earls of Penbroke, and did belong to the Mareſchalſhip of England.

William le Mareſchall, was, in right of his wife, Iſabell, daughter and at length ſole heir of Richard Strongbow, created Earl of Penbroke in 1199. By her he had five ſons, William—Richard—Gilbert—Walter—and Anſelm: which ſucceeded him one after another in his dignity, and in the office of Marſhall of England, but all dyed without iſſue; and Anſelm, the laſt, 22 Decemb. 1245. He had alſo by her five daughters, Maud married to Hugh Bigot, or Bigod, Earl of Norfolk; Joane to Warin de Montchenſy, lord of Swaneſcamp; Iſabell to Gilbert de Clare Earl of Glouceſter, and afterwards to Richard Plantagenet Earl of Cornwall; Sibil to William Ferrers, Earl of Derby; and Eva to William Brus Lord of Brecknock. Upon the death of Anſelm le Mareſchall Earl of Penbroke in 1245, a partition of his great inheritance being made between his five ſiſters and coheirs, Maud, the eldeſt, had for her part 1120 l. per annum, with the office and rod of Marſhall of England; into which ſhe was inveſted in 1246. Her huſband Hugh Bigot dying in 1225 (i), She took to her ſecond huſband John de Warren, Earl of Surrey, on which account ſhe bore the title of Marſhalleſs of England, Counteſs of Norfolk and Warren (k). By Hugh Bigot ſhe had three ſons, Roger, Hugh, and Ralph; and one daughter. After having enjoyed the office of Marſhall about a year and half, ſhe reſigned it in 1247 to her eldeſt ſon Roger; and dying in 1248 was ſucceeded by her ſaid ſon——Roger Bigot, Earl of Norfolk (l). He married Iſabell, daughter of William King of Scotland by his third wife Ermengard de Beaumont great granddaughter of K. Henry II; but dyed in 1269 without iſſue. He held this maner, belonging to the Mareſhalſhip, of the Honor of Strigull, and to it was appendent the Advowſon of this church (m).——Roger, ſon of his brother Hugh, ſucceeded to the Honour and eſtate [Y]. He had two wives, but no iſſue by either [Z]. His younger brother John, a rich dignified Clergyman, having lent him great ſums of money, which he exacted again in haſte, the Earl conſtituted K. Edward I. heir to all his eſtate, and delivered alſo to him the Marſhall's rod, upon condition of having it render'd back to him in caſe he ſhould have any children; as likewiſe to have 1000 l. penſion for his life, and 1000 l. in preſent from the King to pays his debts. This inſtrument was dated at the Abbey of St. John's in Colcheſter, 12 April 1302. He dyed in 1306, or 1307 (n); See above, p. 260 [A].

On the 16th of December 1312, K. Edward II. conferred this Maner, and afterwards the Mareſhalſhip of England, upon his brother Thomas de Brotherton. He married firſt Alice, daughter of Sir Edward Hayls of Harwich, which dyed in 1339. For his ſecond wife he had, Mary, daughter of William Lord Roos, who ſurvived him, but had no iſſue. By the firſt he had Margaret, firſt married to John de Segrave, and afterwards to Sir Walter de Manny Knight of the Garter; and Alice, married to Edward de Montacute. Margaret was created, 29 Septemb. 1398, Dutcheſs of Norfolk for her life. Her firſt huſband John Lord Segrave dyed in 1353; and Sir Walter de Manny in 1372 (o). She herſelf departed this life 24 March 1399 (p). By her firſt huſband ſhe had two daughters, Anne, Abbeſs of Berking, and Elizabeth; this laſt was married to John de Mowbray, of Axholm, the third Lord Mowbray, and brought him this and other large eſtates. He was killed by the Turks near Conſtantinople, 9 October 1368, as he was going to the Holy Land; leaving two ſons, John, and Thomas——John the eldeſt ſon and heir was created Earl of Nottingham, on the coronation day of K. Richard II, 16 July 1377. He dying 10 Febru. 1382, in the 18th year of his age, her other ſon,—Thomas, ſucceeded. He was created Earl of Nottingham, 12 Febru. 1382; and 29 Septemb. 1397, Duke of Norfolk; and on the firſt mentioned day conſtituted Earl Marſhal of England: the firſt time the title of Earl occurs with that of Marſhall, they being denominated before only Grand or Lord Marſhalls.

For being a party in the murder of the Duke of Glouceſter as mentioned above, p. 452, he was loaded with great riches and eſtates by K. Richard II (q). But, ſoon after having ſaid to Henry Duke of Lancaſter, that the King intended to oppreſs ſome of the prime nobility; which the Duke went and told the King; for this a challenge enſued from the Duke of Norfolk to the Duke of Lancaſter. However, after they had entered the liſts in great pomp, at Coventry, to fight the Duel in the King's preſence; His Majeſty forbid the combat, and baniſh'd them both; and this Duke Thomas for life: whereupon he going abroad, dyed at Venice in Septemb. 1400 (r). By his firſt wife, Elizabeth daughter of John le Strange of Blackmere, which dyed 23 Auguſt 1383, he had no iſſue: But by his ſecond, Elizabeth, ſiſter and coheir of Thomas Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel, widow of William, ſon of William Montacute Earl of Saliſbury, he had two ſons, Thomas, and John; and two daughters, Margaret and Iſabell. After his deceaſe ſhe was married again twice; namely to Sir Robert Gouſhill, and Gerard Ufflet. [See above, p. 463]. She held this maner as part of her dower till her deceaſe in 1424 (s).—Thomas the Earl Marſhall, her eldeſt ſon, had no iſſue, by his wife Conſtance only daughter of John Holand Duke of Exeter, and was beheaded in 1405, for being in a conſpiracy againſt K. Henry IV.——John, his next brother, was reſtored to the Earldom of Nottingham, with the office of Earl-Marſhall, in 1413, and to the Dukedom of Norfolk, in 1416. He dyed 19 October 1432, leaving by Catharine his wife daughter of Ralph Nevill Earl of Weſtmoreland——John, his ſon, then 17 years old. He held this maner in fee-tail, to him and the heirs of his body (t). This laſt John, the third Duke of Norfolk, by Elianor, only daughter of William Bourchier Earl of Eu, had his ſon—John Mowbray, the laſt

[Z] This Roger was the man, who, with Humfrey Bohun Earl of Hereford, Conſtable of England, refuſed to go over to the war in Gaſcogne, as K. Edward I. required them. The King told them they ſhould go, or he would give their lands to them that would; they declared, if he would go in perſon they would attend him, as they were obliged by their tenures, otherwiſe not. The King urging the Marſhall to go without him, He replied, 'Sir, I am ready to 'attend your perſon in the front of the army, as I am 'bound by hereditary right.' To which the King anſwered, 'But you ſhall go with others, and that without me.' Bigod replied, 'I am not ſo bound, neither will I go without you;' then the King ſwore, 'By God! Sir Earl, you ſhall go or 'hang;' but the Earl replied, with the ſame oath, 'Sir King, 'I will neither go, nor hang;' and ſo departed without leave. Knyghton, col. 2493. T. Walſingham, p. 69. Chron. Abingd.

[A] Beſides this maner, he held that of Dover-court, and an eſtate in Romford called Layes. The knights-fees belonging to him, were, 1 fee and a half in Pebmarſh, 2 fees in Thorp, 1 fee in Weſton near Beauchamp, the like in Wyten Ottele; and half a fee in each of theſe pariſhes, Colne, White Colne, Birthfeild, Mountneys-inge, Finchingfeild; the fourth part of a fee in Rameſden: and parts of fees in other places. Inquiſ. 35 Edw. I.

Duke of Norfolk of this family, who dyed in 1477. He having only one daughter named Anne,× This, and his other Eſtates fell to the families of Howard and Berkley, as heirs at law; namely as deſcended from Margaret and Iſabell above-mentioned, the two daughters of Thomas Mowbray the firſt Duke of Norfolk. Margaret was married to Sir Robert Howard, anceſtor of the illuſtrious and large ſpreading noble Family of that ſurname, and Iſabell to James Lord Berkley, [B] in 1423; She had by him two ſons, William and Maurice. Upon the diviſion of the Mowbray's inheritance, this Maner and eſtate, with the title of Earl Marſhall, fell to the Berkleys.——William Lord Berkley, the eldeſt ſon, was knighted in 1438; created, 21 April 1481, Viſcount Berkley; the 28th of June 1483, made Earl of Nottingham; and, in 1485; had a grant of the office of Marſhall of England to himſelf, and the heirs male of his body, and was further advanced to the title of Marquis of Berkley. He had three wives, by one of which only he had iſſue, Thomas, and Catharine; theſe dyed in their infancy: Then doubting whether he ſhould have any more children, he did, by indenture, dated 10 Decemb. 1487, covenant to aſſure the Caſtle and Maner of Berkley and ſeveral other maners, and among them four in this County, for want of iſſue, to King Henry VII. and his heirs male; in lieu whereof the King gave him leave to convey twenty five of his other lordſhips to whom he pleaſed. The reaſon of diſinheriting his brother Maurice is ſaid to have been, that he married one beneath his quality, Iſabell, daughter of Philip Mead Alderman of Briſtol. By licenſe dated 8 Febru. 1487, William Marquis of Berkley and Earl Marſhal granted this eſtate to John Biſhop of Lincoln and others (u). But four years after, a fine was paſſed between Edward Willoughby plaintiff, William Marquis of Berkley and Anne his wife deforc' of the maner of Great Cheſterford and the Advowſon. He dyed 14 Febru. 1491 (w), and was buried in the Friers Auguſtines at London. The Maners he gave the King were eſtabliſhed or ſettled by Act of Parliament 7 Hen. VII.

Maurice his Brother being thus diſinherited, enjoyed none of the honor, but recovered great part of the eſtate, and among the reſt this of Cheſterford; as may be ſeen at length in Sir William Dugdale's Baronage, Vol. I. (x).

The ancient maner-houſe ſtood near the Mill, as appears from the Counteſs of Norfolk's grant mentioned below [C]; I believe, where ſtands the Crown-inn, belonging to Mr. Gardiner, who hath treaſured up many Roman Coins found here. William Marquis of Berkley built, or began, one in the middle of a Park a Mile from the Town, northward. Some remains of it were viſible within a little more than a century; now all is turned to arable.

In 1502, Maurice Berkley, and Iſabell his wiſe, obtained licence of K. Henry VII. to give to the Abbey of St. Peter's Weſtminſter the maner of Great-Cheſterford, 20 Meſſuages, 600 acres of arable, ten of meadow, 600 of paſture, with the Advowſon of the Church; and a Fine was levied accordingly (y). This was confirmed, in 1503, to John Iſlip Abbat of Weſtminſter by K. Henry VII; who alſo gave the Abbat leave to appropriate the Rectory to himſelf and his ſucceſſors; then a Vicarage was ordained, to which the Abbey preſented once.

Upon the diſſolution of Monaſteries the premiſſes falling to the Crown, K. Henry VIII granted, in 1540, the maner of Great-Cheſterford with appertenances, and alſo great-Cheſterford park, the Rectory and Advowſon of the Vicarage, with lands called Bawds, to Sir Thomas Audeley (z). His only daughter and heir—Margaret was ſecond wife to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, to whom ſhe brought this eſtate.

It became forfeited to the Crown upon the Duke's attainder, but Qu. Elizabeth granted it to his ſon, the Hon.——Thomas Howard Eſq; created afterwards Earl of Suffolk; and the grant was confirm'd by K. James I. (a). In his heirs it hath continued ever ſince (b). And belongs now to the Right Hon. the Earl of Briſtol.

The Tenure here is Borough-Engliſh; that is, If a man dyes inteſtate, his eſtate deſcends to the youngeſt ſon or daughter, youngeſt uncle or kinſman.

This hath been formerly a Market-town.

What privileges the inhabitants of this ancient town did enjoy, may be ſeen in a Charter of K. Charles I. which recites them, dated 23 May, in the tenth year of his reign: This is kept in the Church cheſt. The King directs his Treaſurers and Chamberlains of the Exchequer, to examine and certify whether the maner of Cheſterford be of the ancient Demeſne of the Crown, and to ſearch the Record called Domeſday-book, and to give an account what Privileges anciently belonged to this maner. In the Return they recite the words of Domeſday-book, as ſet down before in the Note [X]. The Charter, directed to all Sheriffs, Mayors, Bailiffs, Conſtables, &c. repeats their uſual exemptions [D].

Here has been, within memory, an old ruinous houſe called Holdens. From the papers of the family of Newport, it appears, that Thomas Lambert of Great Cheſterford had Anne his daughter and heir, who was married to John Baker Eſq; ſervant to K. Henry VIII. They had ſeven ſons; John, the ſecond, inherited, and married Jane, daughter of . . . Lucas of Eſſex, whoſe ſon and heir was Edmund. Charitable Gifts.

Thomas Hill, Rector of this Church, by his will, dated 6 January 1459, gave an eſtate of about 19 l. per ann. in this pariſh, for charitable uſes to the Poor for ever, to be diſtributed by the Miniſter and 12 truſtees.

Twenty ſhillings a Year for ever to the Poor of this pariſh, out of an eſtate, late in poſſeſſion of John Fordham.

This Pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1079 l.

The Church, dedicated to All Saints, ſtands on a riſing ground, and is a large handſome building, conſiſting of a middle pace and two iſles, or chapels, all leaded. A ſquare Tower of ſtone at the weſt end contains 5 Bells, and hath a clock.

This Living was a Rectory, and in the gift of the noble owners of the Maner, till both Maner and Rectory were given to Weſtminſ[illegible] Abbey; then by Appropriation of the great Tithes to that Monaſtery, the good Rectory was converted into a poor Vicarage, which, in Qu. Anne's time, was returned as of the yearly value of 25 l. In 1719 it was augmented by Biſhop Robinſon, to which were joined 200 l. of the Queen's Bounty.

Upon the ſuppreſſion of Monaſteries, this Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, were granted to Sir Thomas Audeley, as hath been intimated before; and they have ever ſinc econtinued in his noble heirs; and are now in the Earl of Briſtol.

A Chantry was founded in this Church by William Holden, who dyed 2 Decemb. 1523, and Catharine his wife, and called our Lady's Chantry. It was endowed with farms, lands, and rents, which at the ſuppreſſion were valued at 9 l. 9 s. 7 d. per Annum. In the Certificate it is ſaid, That this Towne was then ‘a great Towne and ‘populous, having in yt to the number of 500 ‘houſeling people, and more.’

3. LITTLE CHESTERFORD,

Lies between Great Cheſterford and Walden. The maner houſe ſtands on a hill, with a very extenſive and pleaſant proſpect.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it belonged to Queen Edeva: But, at the ſurvey, was holden by a Knight, under Walter the Deacon [E].

Afterwards, this eſtate became part of the Barony of Robert de Haſting, which conſiſted of ten knights fees (c). Delicia, daughter and heir of Robert, brought this Barony to her huſband Godfrey de Lovain. [ſee above, p. 431.] But, at ſame time, Reginald le Bret held under Robert de Haſting two knights fees in Ceſtre, or Craſteford in Eſſex (d): They continued for ſome time in the Bret family. It appears by a fine levied in 1239, that the anceſtors of John le Bret had enfeoffed the anceſtors of Robert, ſon and heir of John Sturmyn, of lands, or a maner, in this town of Cheſterford, by knight's ſervice, before the anceſtors of Roger de Kytelingham enfeoffed the ſaid Robert's anceſtors of a maner, or lands, in Hendley in Suffolk, and therefore John le Bret recovered the cuſtody of the body of the ſaid John Sturmyn (e). Under Matthew de Loveyn that dyed in 1302, Thomas le Bret held Little Cheſterford, by the ſervice of one knight's fee. And

The exemption from Tolls at Fairs, Markets, Bridges, &c. was very conſiderable when a great part of a Lord's revenue aroſe from thence. And the Knights of the Shires wages, when the country paid them, was felt.

William le Bret held it of Thomas Loveyne, who had it in ſervice, and departed this life in 1345 (f). In the beginning of the reign of K. Richard II. [F] Thomas Haſilden Eſq; had it, and preſented to the Living in 1409.

This family was originally of Cambridgeſhire.

Thomas was ſheriff of Cambridge and Huntingdonſhires, in 1400, and had two ſons Richard, and Thomas.——Richard, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of Stephen Turbervill, was father of——John, who married . . . daughter [illegible] heir of Henry Hampton of Hertfordſhire, and had by her, William, and John, of this pariſh. —— William was High Sheriff of the Counties of Huntingdon and Cambridge in 1452; and held, at the time of his deceaſe, 23 April 1480, the maner of Little Cheſterford, of the Duke of York as of his Honor of Clare, by the ſervice of the 4th part of a knight's fee (g). He had iſſue by Elizabeth his wife, ſiſter of John Lord Tiptoft, and daughter and heir of . . . Dennys, George, John, Richard; and Catharine, wife of James Dockwra. ——John, the ſecond ſon and heir, born in 1448, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Cheney, by which he had Francis; Antony of Meldreth in Cambridgeſhire; and a daughter, ... wife of . . . Caldecote. —— Francis Haſilden Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, was Sheriff of the Counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon in 1509. By Elizabeth . . . . his wife, he left Frances his only daughter and heir, who brought this eſtate to her huſband Sir Robert Peyton of Iſelham in Cambridgeſhire [G].

In the mean time, George Langham Eſq; mentioned above, p. 406, and under Hempſted, who married Iſabell, daughter of William Haſilden, had with her this maner for life, which returned, after his and Iſabell's death, in 1462, to John Haſilden Eſq;

Sir Robert Peyton was at the ſiege of Bologne with K. Henry VIII. He had with Frances his wife, this eſtate, and Steeple and Gilden-Morden in Cambrigeſhire; he dyed in 1550, ſhe in 1580: Both are buried at Iſelham (h). Their children were Robert Peyton of Iſelham, Eſq; William, and —— Richard of this place, who married Margaret, or Margery, daughter of Sir Leonard Hyde of Sandon in Hertfordſhire, afterwards re-married to John Cary Lord Hunſdon.

She preſented to this Church in 1571, by the name of Frances Peyton relict of Sir Robert Peyton, Knt. (i). But they had ſold the Maner before their deceaſe. For Thomas Lord Audeley dyed poſſeſſed of this Maner, in 1544 (k), which hath continued ever ſince in his poſterity. It belongs now to the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Briſtol.

Lands of three pounds three ſhillings a year, were given to the Poor of this pariſh, for ever; the rent to be diſtributed yearly to the poor inhabitants, at the diſcretion of Truſtees.

Beſides the Eſtates above-mentioned, ſome in theſe two pariſhes belong to Mr. Edmund Jocelyn; John Hagar; William Cooper; Thomas Chriſtopher; Robert Killingback; Richard Seaman; Richard Nelſon; Robert Amy, &c.

Little Cheſterford is rated to the Land-tax, at 457 l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, ſtands in a bottom, and is of one pace with the Chancel, both tyled. A ſquare Tower of ſtone contains 4 Bells.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the Maner. The Peyton family preſented to it till 1571. Afterwards it came to the Earls of Suffolk: and belongs now to the Right Hon. the Earl of Briſtol.

4. WIMBISH, with THUNDERLEY.

Theſe were anciently two Pariſhes, but united in 1425, upon the decay of the Church of Thunderley: the latter is now an Hamlet to Wimbiſh.

The name of Wimbiſh, according to W. Harriſon (l), was formerly Gwinbach; which he derives from Gwin, beautiful, fair, and Bach, a wood: and not without cauſe, ſince not only the hills on each ſide of the rivulet Gwin, or Pant, but the whole Pariſh ſometime abounded in woods. According to the ſame Author, "by 'report of common fame, there hath been a 'prettie water, and of ſuch quantity that Boats 'have come in time paſt from Bilie Abbeie beſide 'Maldon unto the moores in Radwinter. I have 'heard alſo, ſaith he, that an Anchor was found 'there neere to a red Willow, when the water 'courſes by act of Parliament were ſurveyed and 'reformed throughout England, which maketh 'not a little with the aforeſaid relation.'

I leave it to the Reader's judgment, whether it is credible, that there could ever be a ſufficient quantity of water to bring Boats from Maldon to Radwinter. Tho' certainly the face of the country hath in many places been altered by Time. There are ſigns of a ſtrong Tide, or an arm of the Sea, having at ſome time or other, come as far as Brandon, in the river Ouſe, between Suffolk and Norfolk.

The pariſh, or maner, of Wimbiſh is ſuppoſed to be the ſame as one Thurſtan gave, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Chriſt's-Church in Canterbury, by the name of Winebiſc [H].

It continued but a very little while in that Church; for one Ailid mentioned above p. 427. was poſſeſſed of it in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: and, at the time of the ſurvey, it belonged to Ralph Baynard [I], frequently mentioned above, p. 21, 36, 135, 427.

It is ſet down in Domeſday-book under Dunmow Hundred; and Thunderley under that of Utlesford.

In Wimbiſh are three Maners. 1. The maner of Wimbiſh-hall. 2. . . . that of Wantons, alias Tiptofts, and Pinkeneys. 3. The maner of Bradokes.

1. WIMBISH-HALL.

Stands near the Church.

William Baynard, grandſon of Ralph abovementioned, taking part with Elias Earl of Maine and others againſt K. Henry I, in favour of Robert Courthoſe, loſt his Barony, which that King beſtowed on

Robert, a younger ſon of Richard Fitz-Gilbert progenitor of the ancient Earls of Clare, from which Robert the Lords Fitz-Walter did deſcend; an account of whom will be given at their chief ſeat Wodeham-Walter.

From Fitz-Walter the eſtate, which was holden of the Honor of Baynard [K], came by marriage to Thomas Ratcliffe Eſq; whoſe grandſon—Robert Ratcliffe, Lord Fitz-Walter, was created Viſcount Fitz-Walter, and Earl of Suſſex.

This eſtate continued in the Families of Fitz-Walter [L], and Ratcliffe Earls of Suſſex (m), till Robert the laſt Earl of Suſſex of this family, who dyed in 1629, ſold it to Allan Currants Eſq; citizen and merchant-taylor of London. This is a Suffolk family; one of them was burgeſs for Orford in the reign of Queen Anne.

Matthew Wymondſel of Wanſted in this County Eſq; is the preſent lord of this maner.

2. The Maner of TIPTOTES, otherwiſe WANTONS, and PINKENEYS.

The manſion houſe of Tiptotes ſtands near Sewers end, about two miles north-weſt from the Church. Pinkneys is near a mile and a half ſouth ſouth-weſt from this Church.

It took the name of Tiptotes, or Tiptoſts, from its ancienteſt owners, who had alſo Strethall in this Hundred; and part of Thaxted maner. [See p. 438. 445.] ſome of which family were afterwards Barons of this realm, and advanced to the title of Earl of Worceſter.

And it received the appellation of Wantons from its ſubſequent owners, the ancient and knightly family of Wanton, Wauton, or Walton, who enjoyed large poſſeſſions, in this County, and have alſo left their names to eſtates in Willingale-Doo, Aſhdon, and Steeple-Bumſted. [S[illegible] p. 348, 440, 477.] Sir John de Wanton [illegible] Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire, in 1331. He dyed in 1347 holding the maner of Wymbiſhe, and a tenement called Cymays in Wimbiſh, of the Lord Fitz-Walter;—John was his ſon and heir (n), who, by Margaret his wife, left two daughters co-heirs, Margaret and Elizabeth [M]. Margaret was married to—— Harleſton, and Elizabeth to John Pekenham. [See above, p. 349.]

Margaret had this eſtate for her ſhare, and dying in 1391 was ſucceeded by her ſon—— Ivo de Harleſton. He held this maner of Wimbiſhe, called Wantons, alias Tiptofts, of Edward Duke of York, and Elizabeth his wife;—— John his ſon and heir (o), of Shimpling in Norfolk, married Elizabeth, daughter of William Clopton, and had by her his ſon—John, who married Margaret, daughter and co-heir of William Bardwell. He left by her two daughters co-heireſſes, Alice, wife of Sir Richard Fitz-Lewes, and Margaret, wife of Thomas Darcy of Danbury, Eſq; [N].

Alice had this eſtate for her purparty. Her ſon ——Sir John Fitz-Lewes left one daughter his heir, in their pedigree called Elizabeth, in the Inquiſition poſt mortem Ela, in Dugdale Ellen. She became wife of Sir John Mordaunt, ſon and heir of John Lord Mordaunt of Turvey in Bedfordſhire. At the time of her deceaſe, 2 June 1543, ſhe held the maner of Typtofts, Highams, Pynckneys and Warley, and divers other meſſuages, lands &c. in Wymbisſhe, Walden, Hempſtede, and Thaxtede, of the Earl of Suſſex as of his maner of Wymbisſhe, by fealty, and rent of 21 s. 4 d. per ann.——Lewis Mordaunt, her ſon and heir, was then 5 years old (p). [See above, p. 349, and under Weſt Horndon.] Her huſband

Sir John Mordaunt, who, upon his father's deceaſe in 1562, became Lord Mordaunt, by his will, dated 16 April 15[illegible], did give his maners and lands, called Tiptofts, Pinkeneys, and Warleys, to King's Hall and Brazen-Noſe College in Oxford for the maintenance of three Scholars, to be named by his executors, and afterwards by his heirs for ever; and for other deeds of charity (q). The Maſter and Fellows of Brazen-Noſe ſtill enjoy this eſtate.

3. The MANER of BRADOKES.

The manſion houſe ſtands above two miles ſouth of the Church, in the fields. It ſeems to have been formerly moated round, and two ſides of the moat remain at preſent.

We find no account of the ancienteſt owners of this eſtate. Moſt probably it went along with ſome of the others in this pariſh. In the reign of K. Henry VIII. the Mordaunt family were poſſeſs'd of it: And in 1551, Edmund Mordaunt paſſed it by fine to John Wiſeman [O]. See an account of this family, above, p. 88. 146. 369. 390.

This John Wiſeman Eſq; who reſided in a capital meſſuage at Felſted, dyed 5 Janu. 1558, poſſeſs'd of the maner of Brodocks; two parts of which he held of Thomas Earl of Suſſex, as of his maner of Wymbiſh-hall, by fealty, ſuit of court, and yearly rent of 2 s. 6 d. per ann. The third part of the ſame he held of Sir John Mordaunt as of his maner of Typtots, by the yearly rent of 15 d. and fealty (r). [See above, p. 369.] By his wife Joane, daughter of . . . . Lucas, citizen of London, he had his eldeſt ſon Thomas, born in 1528; Sir Ralph of Rivenhall; [See p. 146.] and Richard [See p. 479.] —— Thomas Wiſeman Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, ſucceeded him in this eſtate; [See p. 441] and dyed 17 Decemb. 1585 (s). He had four ſons, William: Thomas, who dyed without iſſue; John; Robert: and two daughters, Nuns. The eldeſt ſon and heir—William was knighted, and marrying Jane daughter of Sir Edmund Huddleſton Kt. had by her, John, Dorothea, and Winifred.——Sir John Wiſeman, the ſon and ſucceſſor, had a ſon named—Aurelius-Percy Wiſeman, who was killed in a duel at London 11 Decemb. 1684, unmarried: and two daughters, Lucy, the ſecond wife of Sir John Marſhall of Sculpins: [See p. 367.] and Elizabeth, that had for huſband Mr. Richard Clagett of London, citizen and dry-ſalter. This eſtate falling to the ſhare of Elizabeth, it deſcended from her to her ſon —— Wiſeman Clagett of Barnards-inn, London, Gent. He dyed 1 Novemb. 1741; and of his executors this maner with appertenances was purchaſed in Chancery, in 1749, by the Right Honorable Charles Lord Maynard.

THUNDERLEY,

anciently a diſtinct pariſh, as I have obſerved above, was united to Wimbiſh in 1425. The Church ſtood near Thunderley-hall, (which has ſtill in it a Chapel;) on the left ſide of the road leading from Thaxted to Walden: It is quite decayed and gone, and the Church-yard converted to arable.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Ailmar a freeman was poſſeſs'd of Thunderley; which, at the time of the ſurvey, belonged to Alberic de Vere [P]. Under him it was holden by Ralph, who from it took the ſurname de Tunderley.

Here are three maners. 1. Thunderley-hall. 2. The maner of Dales, alias Caldecott's. 3. Abbat's maner.

1. THUNDERLEY-HALL.

In the reign of K. Stephen, or K. Henry II, Geffrey de Thunderley, grandſon of Ralph, gave a moiety of this Church to Hatfeild Priory, with the advice and conſent of Alberic de Vere. And, about the ſame time Alexander ſon of Rivollam, of this place, gave the other moiety of this Church to the ſame Priory: which ſhews that they were then jointly poſſeſs'd of the lordſhip of Thunderley, to which this Church was appendent (t).

By a fine it appears that John Bret had a moiety of this maner in right of Maud his wife, in 1485 (u).

Next, we find this maner in the Wiſeman family.

For Robert Wiſeman Eſq; who dyed 24 Auguſt 1624, held the maner of Thunderley and advowſon of the Church;——Richard, his ſon and heir, then twenty two years old (w), was created a Baronet 18 Dec. 1628. I preſume the Wiſeman Family of Torrels-hall were at that time poſſeſſed here.

2. The MANER of DALES, alias CALDECOTS, was ſo denominated from two of its ancient owners, as will appear in the ſequel.

It was holden of the Earls of Oxford by the ſervice of half a knight's fee (x), by theſe deſcendents of Geffrey de Thunderley; namely, Warine de Thunderley, Robert de Thunderley, John de Thunderley in the reign of K. Henry III, Nicolas de Thunderley in the reign of K. Edw. II, Andrew de Thunderley, in 1328. By the daughter and heir of Andrew de Thunderley, it came to a family ſurnamed At-Dale; for, about the year 1346,

John Earl of Oxford did, for 20 l. grant to William At-Dale the guardianſhip of Andrew's daughter and heir, whom he afterwards married. William Dale and the Abbat of Walden held one knight's fee in Thunderley, under John de Vere Earl of Oxford, who dyed in 1358; and the ſame under Thomas de Vere his ſon; who dyed in 1370 (y).

John Fanneſon, alias Clerk of the Wold, had goods and chattels in the maner of Thunderle, and in the meſſuage of Agnes Dale in the ſaid village ſixteen quarters of wheat; John had the ſaid maner in farm from the Abbat of Walden (z).

William Calcote held here half a knight's fee, formerly helden by John Wimbiſh. About the year 1445, Nicholas Calcote held lands here called Dales by the ſervice of half a knight's fee. Sir James Caldecott or Calcott held it in 1485; and, in 1498 did homage for it at Caſtle Hedingham; he departed this life in 1502, leaving——Thomas his ſon and heir then 17 years old (a). Moſt probably he dyed without iſſue [Q]. For it appears next in his ſiſter Muriel Caldecott, ſecond wife of Robert Mordaunt of Turvey in Bedfordſhire, to whom ſhe brought this eſtate; William Mordaunt Eſq; their ſon and heir, married Anne youngeſt daughter and coheir of Thomas Huntington. [See above, p. 365,] by whom he had Robert, Chriſtopher, Edmund, George; and ſix daughters. He dyed about 1527, and left this eſtate to his fourth ſon——George, who having no iſſue gave it to his next elder brother——Edmund. By Agnes his wife, daughter of Richard lord Rich, he had Henry, Edmund, Hugh; Gertrude, and Alice.——Henry, the eldeſt ſon, had two wives. 1. . . . daughter of . . . . . Rydges. 2. Suſanna daughter of Simon Belknap of Knowle in Kent Eſq; By the firſt he had two daughters; and by the ſecond, Henry, Charles, Adrian, Ferdinand: and four daughters, whereof Catharine was married to Humfrey Phipps of London, merchant; and another Catharine to Thomas Cole of Walden, Attorney.——Henry, the eldeſt ſon, living in 1620, married Barbara daughter of Henry Bradbury of Littlebury Eſq; by whom he had John born in 1614, Martha, and Henry—John dying young, was ſucceeded by his brother——Henry who married Lettice, daughter of John Holgate of Walden, Eſq; and had ——John, born in 1652. Of him, or his heirs, this eſtate was purchaſed by Dr. Bromfield, the maker of Bromfield's Pills, who gave it to the Poor of St. Andrews Holburn, London. In the table of Benefactions belonging to that pariſh, it is ſaid to be ſeventy pounds a year, given to put out to trades, 7 poor Boys annually out of the city liberty and freemens ſons.

3. Abbots Maner

Belonged to Walden-Abbey, from whence it received its appellation. At firſt it was reckoned half a fee, and afterwards a whole knight's fee. In a fine levied in 1265, it is called one meſſuage, two carucates and half of arable, and fifteen acres of wood in Thunderle (b);

After the ſuppreſſion it was granted to Thomas lord Audeley in 1538, who dyed poſſeſs'd of it in 1544 (c). His grandſon Thomas lord Howard of Walden ſold it to Richard Martin jun. and John Haile and his heirs; it being ſtyled Thunderley, alias Abbots maner, and 4 meſſuages, cottages, 4 tofts, 3 barns, 1 dovehouſe, 3 gardens, 200 acres of arable, 60 of meadow, 160 acr. of paſture, 60 of wood, 20 of heath and furze, 20 s. rent; free-warren, fiſhery, view of frankpledge, and common for all manner of cattle (d).

Sir Robert Quarles of Romford Kt. dyed 2 Febru. 1638-9, poſſeſs'd, of this maner. His ſon James Quarles Eſq; (e) left

Heſter his daughter and heir, wife of William Holgate of Walden, Gent. who dyed 31 Auguſt 1672. They had 4 children, that ſurvived him, namely, John, William, Lettice, and Anne. The three firſt ſeem to have dyed young, and without iſſue. For Anne, the youngeſt daughter, brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband

James Monteth of Greenwich Gent. of the ancient family of the Monteths in Scotland. He dyed 21 Septemb. 1681, and he 5 Janu. 1685, having had 8 children, of whom only James, Anne, and Mary, outlived him.—James, the ſon, ſold this eſtate to

Richard Derbyſhire Gent. of the Six Clerks Office in Chancery: from whom it paſſed with his niece in marriage to John Birkhead Gent. of the ſame office.

The Rev. Richard Bullock; Mr. William Leverett; William Hanſcombe; Robert Martin; Thomas Franklin; Tho. Clayden; Thomas Frogg; John French, &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Sir Ralph Wiſeman of Rivenhall gave 4 l. a year out of the maner of Bradokes to the Poor of Wimbiſh.

Dr. Wivell of Walden gave, out of a farm there called Mills Fley, 3 l. per ann. to the Vicar of this place.

The CHURCH of Wimbiſh is dedicated to All Saints. The ſteeple of this Church being decayed by length of time, fell entirely to the ground 31 Decemb. 1740, and with it part of the church. A Brief for the rebuilding of it paſſed the great ſeal 25 July 1745.

This Church is both a Rectory which is a ſine-cure, and a Vicarage in the gift of the Rector. This Vicarage not being a competent maintenance, and the adjoining Vicarage of Thunderley being ſo ſmall that no one would accept of it, ſo that it had remained vacant ſome years; Dr. Kemp Biſhop of London united, in 1425, the Vicarage of Thunderley to this of Wimbiſh, for the uſe of the Vicar of Wimbiſh for ever. And the preſentation to theſe united and incorporated Vicarages was made alternate, in the Rector of Wimbiſh, and the Priory of Hatfeild-Regis, who had the great Tithes and Advowſon of Thunderley (f).

The patronage of the Sine-cure Rectory was in the noble Families of Fitz-Walter, and Ratcliffe; and afterwards of Currants. When the Lordſhip was in the Family of Currants the patronage of the Rectory was ſeparated from it, and ſold to Benjamin Glanville of London Merchant. The latter conveyed it, 18 July 1660, to his brother Joſeph Glanville A. M. who was inſtituted to the Rectory the 26th of the ſame month. Maurice Glanville his ſon ſucceeded 26 Febru. 1680. at the preſentation of Anne his mother. Thomas Carter A. M. ſucceeded Maurice, at the preſentation of Maurice, ſon of Maurice Glanville 11 April 1695. Elizabeth only ſurviving child of Maurice Glanville, late Rector, preſented, in Septemb. 1711, Thomas Bernard of Earl's-Colne M. A. who was inſtituted the 22d of November following; but ſhe dying 20 May 1715 without iſſue ſurviving, the remainder of the perpetual Advowſon belonged to Anne, wife of Thomas Carter, and eldeſt daughter of Joſeph Glanville aforeſaid; of whom it was purchaſed by the ſaid Thomas Bernard 15 Febru. 1715. He dyed in 1755, and was ſucceeded in this Sinecure Rectory by his ſon, the Rev. Thomas Bernard.

Vicars of Wimbiſh.

Thomas Carter, M. A. 22 Octob. 1706, upon Heywood's d. who had been admitted in 1657 by the Commiſſioners for approbation of Preachers.
Thomas Bernard, M. A. 22 Novemb. 1711, upon Carter's d. Anne Carter, widow.
Thomas Carter, B. A. 3 February 1715, upon Bernard's reſig. Tho. Bernard, Rector.

As to the Church of THUNDERLEY, the place where it ſtood is now part of a field. A moiety of this Church was given to Hatfield-Priory by Geffrey de Tunderley, as is intimated above; and the other moiety to the ſame, by Alexander ſon of Rivollam, for the remiſſion of his ſins, and thoſe of his dear wife, and all his friends &c. This laſt grant was dated in 1143. The Priory got theſe great Tithes appropriated to themſelves, and continued poſſeſs'd of them till their ſuppreſſion.

¶ In 1547, K. Edward VI. granted to Edward Waldgrave Eſq; the Rectory and Church of Thunderley, with the Advowſon of the Vicarage: by Advowſon is meant the right of preſenting alternately to Wimbiſh Vicarage. He, the ſame year, by licence, dated 28 Octob. ſold it to Thomas Burrell who dyed in 1563 (g), leaving Lambert Burrell his ſon and heir. Lambert, in 1567, (h), ſold it to Francis de la Wood. He, in 1599, conveyed it to John Bowneſt of Stonebury in Hertfordſhire, whoſe ſon Thomas poſſeſſed it, and it went out of the Family about the time that they ſold the maner Chiſhall. It is now in Mr. Francis Weſtrop of Littlebury.

5. DEPDEN.

The name of this Pariſh is formed from the two Saxon words, Deop, deep, and den, a valley; which is anſwerable to its ſituation, partly in a Vale. It is otherwiſe written in records, Debden, Deepden, Deopdene, Depdon, Dependon, Deppedana, Diependin.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign it belonged to Siward; and, at the time of the general ſurvey, was holden by Ralph, or Ranulph, Peverell [R], ſufficiently mention'd above, p. 129, 130, 268. There were then in it two acres [arpenni] of vineyard that bore, and two that did not bear: which ſhews that vine-yards were then cultivated in this county.

There are in this pariſh the ſix following maners. 1. The maner of Debden-hall. 2 . . . . . that of Deynes. 3. The maner of Tendring. 4. The maner of Welde-barnes. 5 . . . that of Mole-hall. 6. The maner, or hamlet, of Amberden-hall.

1. The Maner of DEPDEN-HALL.

The manſion-houſe ſtands a little way north from the Church; and hath been much improved lately.

Ralph Peverell was ſucceeded in this eſtate by his ſon —— William; and he by his ſon —— William, who, for the atrocious crime of poiſoning Ranulph Earl of Cheſter, about the year 1153, was forced to fly the realm, and being diſinherited, all his eſtates were ſeized by K. Henry II, in 1155 (i). Some of his caſtles and poſſeſſions continued many years after in the Crown; but that King gave moſt of them to his younger ſon

John Earl of Mortain, afterwards King (k). The latter, by his charter dated 15 Septemb. 1214, granted among other things, Diepeden in Eſſex [S], to Geffrey Fitz-Piers, Earl of Eſſex. His daughter Maud brought it in marriage to her huſband, [S] It ſeems he had granted it before to Robert Fitz-Ernis, one of his ſubjects in Normandy; and upon the loſs of that Province to the King of France, it becoming forfeited to K. John by the Statute De terris Normanorum, with Hatfield-Peverell; Wells, Maſſingham, and Marham, in Norfolk; he granted them all to Geffrey Fitz Piers.

Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, and High-Conſtable of England; who in her right became Earl of Eſſex. [See above, p. 451, 546.] He held this maner of the King in capite of the Honor of Peverell, by knight's ſervice (l). As did his ſucceſſors—Humfrey de Bohun.—Humfrey, his ſon, who dyed in 1298 (m) [T].——Humfrey his great grandſon, Earl of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, who dyed 17 January 1372 (n). He married Joane daughter of Richard Earl of Arundel, by whom he left two daughters co-heirs; Elianor, wife of Thomas of Woodſtock Duke of Glouceſter 6th ſon of K. Edw. III; and Mary wife of Henry Earl of Derby, afterwards King Henry IV. [See above, p. 62, 80, 452. &c.]

Elianor had one ſon, who dyed young, and four daughters; whereof Anne, the eldeſt daughter, and at length ſole heir to her mother, coming to a partition of the Bohun eſtates with King Henry V, the other co-heir of the ſaid eſtates; Depden fell to the ſhare of K. Henry V, it being then valued at 31 l. 11 s. ob. and containing one wood. Thus this maner became veſted in the Crown, as a member of the Dutchy of Lancaſter; and was part of the jointure of the Queens of K. Henry V, K. Henry VI, and Edward IV.

K. Henry VIII granted it to Thomas Lord Audeley, who held it at the time of his deceaſe; it being then valued at 33 l. 13 s. 4 d. per ann (o) From his daughter and ſole heir

Margaret, it deſcended to her ſon Thomas Howard, Baron of Walden, and Earl of Suffolk. [Seee above, p. 549.] It continued in that noble Family, till James Earl of Suffolk ſold it, about the year 1660, to

Thomas Grove Eſq; and Mr. Grove ſold it again, ſoon after, to

Sir Richard Brown, Kt. and Bart. who kept his firſt court here 23 May 1662. He dyed in 1672, and was buried here. By his wife . . . . Bryan, of Oxfordſhire, he had —— Richard, his ſon, knighted in his father's life time, who married Frances, ſiſter to Sir Robert Atkins, Chief Baron of the Exchequer. They both dyed in 1685, within three days of each other, and were buried at the ſame time here. This laſt Sir Richard ſold the maner of Debden-hall to

John Edwards Eſq; who kept his firſt court 3 October 1680. [See above, p. 91.] His eldeſt ſon and heir——Henry Edwards Eſq; afterwards one of the Maſters in Chancery, ſold this maner and eſtate, with that of Deynes, to Richard Chiſwell Eſq; that kept his firſt court here 28 July 1715. He was the ſon of Mr. Richard Chiſwell, citizen and ſtationer of London; [V] who was born in the pariſh of St. Botolph Alderſgate 4 Janu. 1639, and dying 3 May 1711, was buried in that Church, with an epitaph. His [the Father's] firſt wife was Sarah, daughter of Mr. John King; and his ſecond, Mary daughter of Richard Royſton Eſq; bookſeller to K. Charles I. and II. by which laſt he had five children who dyed young, and three ſons more, namely John, who dyed in India; Richard, and Royſton, who ſurvived him.—Richard Chiſwell Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, and the purchaſer of this eſtate, was an eminent Turkey merchant, and elected in 1714 one of the Burgeſſes in Parliament for Caln in Wiltſhire. He dyed 14 May 1751, and was buried in this Church, with a monument. His wife was Mary, daughter and one of the co-heireſſes of Mr. Thomas Trench of London, merchant, whereby was brought into the family the eſtate at Finchingfield which they enjoy. She dyed in 1726, ætat. 43, having had ten children; whereof two ſons, William and Trench dyed at Conſtantinople aged about 18 years; and two daughters, and one ſon, ſurvived him. One of the daughters was married to Dudley Foley Eſq; and the other to Peter Muilman Eſq; very eminent Merchants. [See p. 297, 303, 304, &c.] The ſon—Richard Chiſwell Eſq; is the preſent poſſeſſor of this and other fine eſtates [W]: He is a Juſtice of the Peace, and one of the Deputy-Lieutenants for this County; and Governor of moſt of the City-Hoſpitals. Dudley Foley Eſq; had a ſon and a daughter, both deceaſed. Peter Muilman Eſq; hath only one ſon living, Richard Muilman Eſq; married to Mary daughter of James Jurin M. D. They have one daughter named Mary.

2. The MANER of DEYNES, ſtands about half a mile from the Church. 'Tis otherwiſe called Deanes-houſe, and Depden-grange. It belonged to Tiltey-Abbey, and was fermed by John Wright at the yearly rent of 5 l. 11 s. 0 d. (p).

After the ſuppreſſion, K. Henry VIII. granted it, in 1538, to Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk (q). On the 18th of February 1545, Robert Wright alienated it to Chriſtopher Alleyn. And Alleyn ſold it again, 20 March 1551 (r), to Robert Wright and Philip Montfort. Robert Wright yeoman, conveyed it, 1 Febru. 1565 [X], to Richard Bernard and John Bernard. John Bernard Gent. had it in 1647, and afterwards Sir

3. The MANER of TENDRING.

We do not find this maner particularly ſpecified till 1 Ric. III.

Roger Tewe who dyed in 1483, held the maner of Tendring in the villages of Depeden, Amberden, and Thaxted, of Cecily Ducheſs of York, as of her honor of Clare.——Joane wife of John Rokker, daughter of his ſon William Tewe, was his next heir (s).

A Fine paſſed between John Grenall plaintiff and David Glynne and Joane his wife deforc', of the maner of Tendring and lands in Depeden and Thaxted in Eſſex, in 1526 (t).

John Wiſeman of Felſted Eſq; who had alſo Weldbarnes, held the maner of Tendringe of Sir George Norton, in right of his wife the Ducheſs of Norfolk, of his maner of Depden-hall.——Sir Thomas Wiſeman his ſon enjoyed it after him (u). [See above, p. 220].

Thomas Nightingale Eſq; had it in 1623.—Sir Thomas Nightingale in 1635.

Robert Woolley Gent. appears the next poſſeſſor.

Henry Lewes kept his firſt court here 3 Dec. 1679.

Next Adam Newman Eſq; and Suſan his wife kept a court here 19 June, 1696. Of this Adam it was purchaſed by Richard Chiſwell Eſq;

4. The MANER of WELDBARNES.

The manſion houſe ſtands alſo on the left hand of the road leading from this pariſh to Thaxted.

This maner belonged ſeveral years to the noble family of Grey of Wilton.

In 1306, a fine paſſed between Roger, Parſon of Swyneſton plaintiff, and John de Grey deforc' of a meſſuage, 1 mill, 2 carucates of arable, 12 acres of meadow, 10 acr. of paſture, 12 l. 10s. rent in Depeden, which were then ſettled on the ſaid John and his heirs. At the time of his deceaſe in 1323, he held this maner of Eleanor de Verdun, by the ſervice of a roſe. Henry, his ſon who dyed in 1342, held the ſame.——Reginald was his ſon and heir (w). Sir Henry Grey of Wilton dyed poſſeſs'd of it in 1395.——Sir Richard, his ſon and ſucceſſor, dyed in 1441, leaving—Reginald his ſon and heir (x). Edmund Lord Grey of Wilton alienated this eſtate in 1501 (y), to John Mordaunt, and a fine was levied. [See above, p. 529.] —— William Mordaunt his ſecond brother gave it to——Chriſtopher his ſecond ſon, and he to——Edmund his brother.

Edmund, and Agnes his wife, jointly conveyed this eſtate, in Eaſter-term 1551, to John Wiſeman Eſq; mentioned in the foregoing pariſh of Wimbiſh. He was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon——Thomas Wiſeman Eſq; whoſe ſon and heir——Sir William Wiſeman, by Dorothy, daughter of Sir Edmond Huddleſton, had——Sir John Wiſeman of Bradocks. Aurelius-Piercy Wiſeman ſon of the latter was killed in a duel at London, in 1684; Upon that the inheritance was divided between his two ſiſters, Lucy ſecond wife of Sir John Marſhall of Finchingfeld, Kt. and Elizabeth, married to Richard Clagett citizen of London. This eſtate on partition fell to Sir John Marſhall's ſhare; from whom it deſcended to his ſon——William Marſhall Eſq; and then to his grandſon, and is now in the daughters of the latter. [See above p. 367.]

5. The MANER of MOLE-HALL.

The manſion houſe ſtands about a mile and a half ſouth from this Church.

Of the ancienteſt owners of this eſtate we have no account.

It belonged in the reign of K. Henry VIII. to Sir William Waldegrave; between whom and others, plaintiffs, and Edward Waldegrave Eſq; and his wife deforciants, a Fine paſſed in 1510, for the maners of Depden, Mole-hall, Lampetts, and Mills, and 30 meſſuages, 12 tofts, 1 mill, 1500 acres of arable, 100 acres of meadow, 80 of paſture, 200 of furze and heath, and 12 l. rent, in Depden, Widington, Ambyrden, Newport, Bobbingworth, High Ongar, South and North Welde, Fif-hyde, Morton, Stanford Ryvers, Harlowe, and Styſted (z). Another Fine paſſed in 1545, between Edward Waldegrave Eſq; plaintiff, and William Rocheſter Eſq; deforc'. for the maner of Mole-hall, alias Depden, 8 meſſuages, 200 acres of arable, 40 acr. of meadow, 100 of paſture, 50 of meadow, 300 of furze &c. and 50 s. in Depden; the right of the ſaid Edward (a).

In the laſt century, it was in John Rowley of Berkway, Eſq; High Sheriff for Hertfordſhire in 1650. —— John Rowley Eſq; his ſon left two daughters co-heirs; Mary, married to James Gulſton of Widiall in Hertfordſhire, Eſq; and Anne, wife of Samuel Buck of Gray's-Inn, Eſq; the latter had a daughter and heireſs

Anne, married to William Levinz of Grove in Nottinghamſhire Eſq; ſon of Sir Creſwell Levinz Kt. to whom ſhe brought this eſtate. He ſold it to William Blackmore Eſq; who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Stokes citizen of London. His ſon—Thomas Blackmore Eſq; married Sarah, daughter of John Blackmore of Tenderden in Kent, Eſq; he reſided at Briggens in Hunſdon, Hertfordſhire, where he dyed a few years ago.

6. The Maner of AMBERDEN-HALL;

otherwiſe called in records Amberdana, Ambredon, Ambyrden, Amerdene, Amerton,

The name ſeems to be formed from the two Saxon words Ambeꞃ, a wine or water veſſel, a barrel, and ꝺon, a hill.

It is ſometimes called Flambards, from ancient owners of that name, in the reigns of K. Edward I. and III [Y].

The houſe ſtands two miles South-eaſt from the Church, on a riſing ground among the woods, and has a good inland proſpect. Part of it is pulled down. It had a Church or Chapel of its own. There have belonged to it grand fiſh-ponds, now drained.

This maner ſeems to have been a Vill of itſelf, diſtinct from Debden, though laid to it after the Conqueſt: In the Survey it is ſtyled Villa. By the Confeſſor's charter of confirmation (b), it appears to have been anciently part of the poſſeſſions of the Abbey of Ely; and moſt probably they loſt it, like ſome other eſtates, for harbouring the Conqueror's enemies. [See above, p. 125, 465, 467.]

It belonged, afterwards, as well as Debden-hall, to Siuuards and, at the time of the general Survey, to Ralph Peverell [Z].

John Fitz-Lamberd is recorded as holding it next, by the ſervice of half a knight's-fee.

In the reign of K. Henry III. it belonged to a branch of the noble Family of Mortimer, which held it of the Honor of Peverell.——Robert de Mortimer held it ſo, of the King in capite, anno 1285 (c). And, in 1297,——Hugh de Mortimer obtained licenſe of K. Edward I. to infeoff William Biſhop of Bath and Wells in his maners of Amberden, and Haubrugg, in Eſſex, with ſome others in divers Counties [A], and for the Biſhop to re-enfeoff the ſaid Hugh and Maud his wife and his heirs in the ſame (d). Hugh dyed in 1304. His widow Maud enjoyed this eſtate after him till her death in 1307. They left two daughters coheirs, Joane, and Margaret (e) [B].

Margaret brought Amberden to her huſband Geffrey de Cornwall, who dyed poſſeſs'd of it in 1335. Richard his ſon and heir (f). Another Geffrey de Cornwall dyed in 1365, who had a ſon named——Geffrey, heir to this eſtate (g), mentioned above, p. 234, 449, 454.

In the reign of K. Henry VI we find the Family of Berners ſettled here. Their pedigree is traced up to Hugh de Berners, who held lands at Everſden in Cambridgſhire in 1086. Ralph, ſon of Hugh, came into the great eſtate of Paine-Burnel, by marrying Neſta, his ſiſter and heir. The fifth in deſcent from Hugh was Sir Ralph Berners great-grand-father to Nicholas Berners, whom we find poſſeſſed of this eſtate in the time of K. Henry VI. Henry Langley, and others, releaſed the maner of Amberden in Depden to Nicholas Berners of Depden for life; Remainder to Thomas ſon of William Fyndern and Catharine his wife daughter and heir of the ſaid Nicolas, and to the heirs of the ſaid Catharine (h). This Nicolas Berners Eſq; was ſon of John Berners Eſq; ſon of John, third ſon of Ralph Berners and Chriſtian his wife daughter and heir of Hugh de Wyndeſore of Weſt-Horſley in Surrey, Eſq; He lived at Amberdon-hall; and was buried in this Church in 1441, as was alſo his wife, Margery, or Margaret, daughter and co-heir [C] of John Swinborne Eſq; by whom he had his only daughter and heir

Catharine, married to William Fynderne Eſq; afterwards knighted. [See above, p. 234, 306]

Sir William dyed 15 May 1462. Their ſon and heir——Sir William Fynderne was poſſeſs'd of this maner of Aberden-hall, that of Roſs; and Abbots; and thoſe of Wedington Veyſeis; Liſton-hall in Goſfeild; Geſtingthorp; Little Horkeſley; and Eaſt Merſey. [See above, p. 235, 306]

He dyed 18 Decemb. 1515. His ſon William being dead before that, he was ſucceeded by his grandſon—Thomas Finderne Eſq; then nine years old (i). He held the maners of Amberden-hall and Roos, and 10 meſſuages, 300 acres of arable, 100 acr. of meadow, 300 of paſture, 100 of wood, and 10l. rent in Depden, Walden, and Thunderley; beſides the ſame eſtates as above. Departing this life 10 March 1523, without iſſue: he was ſucceeded by his kinſwoman (k).

This will help to correct Sir Henry Chauncy's Pedigree of Berners of Hadham in Hertfordſhire, who makes Berners marry a daughter of Sir William Fyndern, inſtead of giving his daughter to Sir William.——I would not detract from the merit of Sir Henry's Work by this remark. He had the pedigree from the family, who had not been careful enough in compiling it; yet he muſt bear the blame of tranſmitting errors to poſterity.

The head of the Family of Berners reſided for ſome generations at Weſt-Horſley, where afterwards Mr. Raleigh, ſon of the great Sir Walter, was; and now Mr. Nicholas, a deſcendent from Secretary Nicholas.—There were, till of late, three branches of this Houſe of Nicholas; one at Writtle and Therfeld, a ſecond at Hadham, and a third at Finchinfeld. The firſt and laſt are extinct; the heir to the ſecond now reſides at Newman-Hall in Quendon.

Sir William Fyndern, the ſecond of that name, by his will, dated 1515, entailed Amberdene-Hall on his heirs male; and for want of ſuch, on Sir John Cutt of Horeham-hall in Thaxted. [See above, p. 439, 440, 497.] Sir John, at the time of his deceaſe 9 May 1554, or 1555, held this maner with appertenances, and 6 meſſuages, 300 acres of arable, 40 of meadow, 200 of paſture, 60 of wood, and 100 s. rent in Depden, of the Queen in capite it being then valued at 21 l. 8 s. 0 d.——John Cutte, his ſon, was eleven years old (l).

About the end of Qu. Elizabeth's reign, it was in Edward Weſt Eſq; who ſold it to Sir Thomas Dacres Kt. that dyed poſſeſs'd of it 1 July 1615, leaving——Thomas, his ſon and ſucceſſor (m).

It was next in Sir James Stonehouſe, grandſon of Robert Stonhouſe of Barſted in Kent, and fourth ſon of George Stonhouſe of Little Peckham in Kent Eſq; this George was a Merchant of the Staple, and purchaſed the eſtate at Radley in Berkſhire [D]; he was alſo Clerk of the Green Cloth, and dyed about the year 1572. Sir James, the owner of this eſtate, travelled through France, Italy, Spain, Germany, and was an accompliſhed Gentleman. He dyed 1 Decemb. 1638, aged 73, and lies buried in the Chancel of this Church, under a ſumptuous Monument. By his firſt wife Anne daughter of William Baronſdale M. D. he had a ſon who dyed young, and three daughters: His ſecond wife was Anne, daughter of Sir Humphrey Weld Knt. Lord Mayor of London, and widow of Richard Corbet of Stoke in Shropſhire, Eſq; by whom he had James, William, Mary, and Joane; of which only the eldeſt ſon, and Mary were alive at the time of his deceaſe. ——James, his ſon and ſucceſſor, was created a Baronet 4 June 1641. and by . . . . his wife had his ſon and heir—Sir James. He married Mary, daughter of . . . Blewet of Halcomb in Devonſhire Eſq; by which he had two Sons, Blewet, and George. Sir Blewet Stonehouſe, the eldeſt ſon, dyed without iſſue in 1693. Sir George, the younger, came into the eſtate, and married . . . Hamilton, by which he had Sir John Stonehouſe his ſon and heir, who left a ſon George, and two daughters. George dyed under age; as did the youngeſt daughter. The eldeſt daughter Elizabeth was married to Thomas Jervois of Harriard in Hants Eſq; and brought him this eſtate. They two jointly ſold it to

A Family of note took the ſurname of Amberden from this place.

As it was an ancient Seat, there were in and about it ſeveral Coats of Arms [E].

Mr. John, and Nicolas, Collin; Michael Hammond; Francis Murkin; Robert Savill; John, and Thomas, Clark; Charles Eſtwick; William Flack; John Pettit, &c. have alſo ſome eſtates here.

Benefactions.

Serjeant Bendloes, mentioned above, p. 259, gave Twenty ſhillings per ann. for ever, to three poor people of this Pariſh, to buy them cloaths, or wood, or to repair the Town-houſe they live in near the Church-yard.

Sir John Stonhouſe gave Almshouſes, near the Church, for four dwellers; without endowment.

In 1644, John Meaſont of Henham gave an houſe and five acres of land in this pariſh, of the yearly value of 7 l. 10 s. 0 d. to the following uſes for ever: one third part to the poor of Depden, being widows, maids, and batchelors, not having a child, living in the pariſh; to be of the age of 50 years and upwards: The like third part to Henham: The third part he reſerved to himſelf during life; and if he ſhould happen to want in his life-time, then to have a third part out of each third part aforeſaid. The heirs male of the loins of his father Benjamin to be truſtees; if they betray'd their truſt, then to be ſet aſide by the ſteward and homage in open court at Depden-hall; and if thoſe choſen by that court falſified their truſt, then the Parliament of England to be perpetual Truſtees.

Dr. Thomas Carter Rector of this pariſh, who dyed 8 October 1697, left 4 l. per ann. to be paid out of the Parſonage, which he purchaſed of the Deanry of Sampford; yearly, 10 s. for a Sermon on May 29, the reſt to be laid out in woollen cloth, for clothing four poor men who keep their Church, three of Debden, one of Bartlow.

The CHURCH, dedicated to All-Saints, or St. Mary, ſtands on a riſing ground near the Hall.

It was built cathedral-wiſe with the Tower in the midſt; which being decayed by length of time, fell down, and demoliſhed the Chancel. They are both rebuilt ſince.

This valuable Rectory was all along appendent to the Maner of Depden-hall, till it was diſpoſed of by one of the Earls of Suffolk. It belongs now to the Rev. John Cock D. D.

The Pariſh of Depden is rated to the Land-tax at 1968 l. 3 s. 0 d.

6. WIDINGTON

The name of this pariſh is formed from the Saxon words, Wiꝺ, inᵹ, ꞇun. i. e. Wide meadow, or paſture, town.

It is otherwiſe written in records Wichington, Widintun, Wedington, Wedyton, Widiton, Wyddington, and Wodeton; from which laſt ſome would infer that it was called by the Saxons ƿoꝺinᵹꞇon, from being ſituate among the woods.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the two Maners in this pariſh, now called Widington-hall, and Priors-hall, belonged to Ingulf and Turchill: At the time of the ſurvey, the former was holden by Robert Gernon [F], and the latter by the Monaſtery of St. Valery in Picardy.

1. WIDINGTON-HALL.

ſtands a little way South-eaſt from the Church. It is a very ancient building, and had at the end a Chapel, now converted into a parlour, the walls of which were three foot thick.

This maner continued for ſeveral generations in Robert Gernon's poſterity; which took the ſurname of Montfichet from Stanſted Montfichet, the place of their reſidence, and head of their Barony: [ſee under that pariſh.] and then, by the marriages of female heirs, it came to the families of Playz, Howard, and de Vere, Earls of Oxford.

Under them it was holden by a family ſurnamed Lenveiſe, Lenvois, Le Vaſey, or Veyſe[illegible] from which laſt, by an eaſy tranſpoſition, it derived the name of Baſey. In the reign of K. Henry II. Robert Lenveiſe held three fees here under William de Montfitchet a deſcendent of Robert Gernon (n).

Robert le Veyſe held four fees in Wichington and Alvemyele under Richard de Plaiz, who dyed in 1327 (o). This Robert is written Lenneſey in the Regiſtry of London Dioceſe, having preſented to this living in 1326, 1327, and 1328 (p). The next preſentation was by Gilbert Lenvois, lord of Widdington in 1361. He is called Veyſy in the inquiſitions poſt mortem, and at the time of his deceaſe, in 1364, held jointly with his wife Catharine, this maner of Widiton of the King in ca. by the ſervice of 7 s. per ann. and ſuit at the Hundred of Huddlesford from 3 weeks to 3 weeks and ſuit twice a year at the Sheriff's turn. He left only two daughters, Catharine, and Maud (q).

Catharine, the eldeſt daughter, brought this eſtate to her huſband John Duke Eſq; Maſter of the Pantry to K. Edw. III. K. Richard II. granted to —John Duke junior free warren in his lands in Wodeton, as in the charter of 41 Edw. III. (r). The latter preſented to this Rectory in 1382, and 1393 (s).

John Greene Eſq; married Agnes daughter and heir of John Duke, and had this eſtate with her; both lie buried in the Chancel here. He preſented to this living in 1435, and twice afterwards, the laſt time in 1466. [See above, p. 381 [G].

Sir William Finderne of Amberden-Hall in Depden, dyed 18 Decemb. 1516 (t), poſſeſſed of the maner of Wedington Veyſeis. His grandſon ——Thomas Finderne Eſq; held alſo this maner of Wedington Veyſies, alias Shortgrove, and 20 meſſuages, 10 tofts, 400 acres of arable, 40 of meadow, 40 of paſture, 60 of wood, and 40 s. rent, in this pariſh, Newport, and Stebbing. [See above, p. 235, 381.]

Anne, wife of Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham-hall, was his couſin and next heir (u).

Sir Thomas Seymour was lord of this maner afterwards, for it appears that Sir William Waldegrave held lands in both Wendons of this maner, then in Sir Thomas's hands (w).

It was next in the ancient Family of Elrington.

By fine between Edward Elrington Eſq; plaintiff, and Grace his wife deforc' the maners of Wydington Veyſeys, Shortgrove, and Bonhunt, with 60 meſſuages, 500 acres of arable, 240 acres of meadow, 200 of paſture, 50 of wood, 150 of more, and the Advowſon of Wydington Church, were ſettled on the ſaid Edward, and Grace, and the ſurvivors of them, and their heirs: And if Grace had no iſſue, then on the right heirs of Edward Elrington for ever. He preſented to this Church in 1558 (x); He dyed 6 February 1558, poſſeſſed of the premiſſes, leaving——Edward his ſon and heir 31 years old (y). He held not only this maner, and advowſon of the Church, but alſo a windmill, and a farm called Veyſis and Cambridges, of the Earl of Oxford, as of his Honor of Stanſted-Montfichet: And departing this life 4 April 1578, was ſucceeded by his ſon ——Edward, then aged 7 years (z). He held this maner, Widdington-Park, the advowſon of the living, and divers lands, tenements, and hereditaments in Widdington; and dyed 3 Auguſt 1618, leaving—Edward his ſon and heir (a); [See under Theydon Boies] who ſold this eſtate to

Edward Turner, of Walden Eſq; who enjoyed it in 1635. Thomas Turner of Weſtley-hall in Cambridgſhire, Eſq; married Cecilia, daughter of Sir Edward Cheſter, eldeſt ſon of Sir Robert Cheſter, and Anne his wife, ſiſter to Sir Arthur Capel Knt. and Catharine his wife, daughter of Sir Richard Stone of Stukeley in the county of Huntingdon, Knt, and had by her Thomas his ſon and heir, of Fakenham in Norfolk. He married firſt Jemima, daughter of William Wald-

He dyed 23 May 1745, having left this eſtate by will to his ſon Edmund Squire Eſq; a lawyer: upon whoſe death, in 1758, without male iſſue, it came to Mrs. Bithray a ſiſter of the ſaid Edmund, by virtue of the ſame will. And, in caſe ſhe dyes without iſſue male, it deſcends to the heirs at law of the laſt John Turner Eſq; [H].

2. The Maner of Priors-Hall belonged, at the time of the Survey, to the Monaſtery of St. Valery in Picardy [I], on which account it received the name of Priors-hall: and is alſo called Stonehouſe, becauſe built of ſtone. It ſtands a little out of the road leading from Dunmow to Newport.

This eſtate, as belonging to a Priory alien, was ſeized by K. Edward III. during his wars with France; and of him, or K. Richard II, obtained by William of Wickham Biſhop of Wincheſter, for New College in Oxford of his foundation. The College enjoy it now, and keep court here.

Other eſtates in this pariſh.

The old Gardens, and great part of the ground lying about Shortgrove, the ſeat of the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Thomond. Alſo the Vayſes, a farm belonging to his Lordſhip.

A farm belonging to Richard Chiſwell Eſq; of Depden.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1025 l. 3 s. 0 d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is leaded, and the Chancel tyled: They are both of one pace. A ſquare Tower, with a leaded ſpire, contains 5 Bells.

In the Chancel are ſix ſtalls on each ſide, which are frequently found where a Monaſtery had the maner, or ſome lands: probably for the uſe of the Monks when they attended the obit of a founder, or ſome other ſolemn performance. Theſe are ſuppoſed to have belonged to Priors-hall.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the maner of Widington-hall.

7. HENHAM.

The name of this pariſh is formed from the two words, Hean, high, and ham, a manſion: and, on account of its raiſed ſituation, is otherwiſe called Henham ad Montem, at the hill. That this place is higher than the adjacent part of the country, is plain from the courſe of the Cam, and ſome ſtreams which fall into the Stort and the Chelmer.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the lands in this pariſh belonged to Ailid; to two Freemen; and to one Sochman of Anſgar: At the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by Ralph Baignard; Eudo Dapifer; and Geffrey de Magnaville.

As they were then in three hands, ſo they are ſtill divided into three Maners, namely. 1. The maner of Henham-hall. 2. . . that of Plechedon, or Plegeden. 3. The Broom. To which may be added, the maner of the Rectory, or Plegedon Canons.

1. Henham-hall.

ſtands near the Church. Henham-lodge is about a mile north-eaſt of the ſame.

This is the part that belonged to Ralph Baignard, and is placed in Domeſday book under the Half-Hundred of Froſhwell [K]. Of Ralph Baignard, or Baynard, a ſufficient account is given above, p. 427. He was ſucceeded by his ſon—Geffrey whoſe ſon——William Baynard, for ſiding with the Earl of Maine againſt K. Henry I, loſt this eſtate, and the reſt of his Barony; which was given by that King to

Robert a younger ſon of Richard Fitz-Giſlebert. His ſon——Walter enjoyed it after him. As did——Robert, ſon of Walter, otherwiſe cal- Fitz-Walter, which ſurname was communicated to his noble deſcendants, Barons of this realm, for ſeveral generations. Then Elizabeth, ſole daughter and heireſs of Walter Lord Fitz-Walter, brought it in marriage to her huſband

Sir John Ratcliffe, who dyed in 1461. And his grandſon—Robert was created Earl of Suſſex 28 December 1529.

Such of the Fitz-Walter family as held this eſtate, according to the Inquiſitions, were, Robert, who dyed in 1325. Robert in 1328. Joane, lady dowager Fitz-Walter, in 1363. Walter in 1386. Walter in 1406. Joane lady dowager in 1408. Walter in 1431 [L], and Elizabeth lady dowager in 1464 (b). Then by Elizabeth her daughter it came to

Sir John Ratcliffe juſt now mentioned. His deſcendant Robert Earl of Suſſex, who lived in part of the reign of Qu. Elizabeth and in that of K. James I, took to his ſecond wife Frances, daughter of Hercules Meutas of Weſt-Ham in this county, widow of Francis Shute Eſq; She held this maner of Henham, and the Rectory, of the King in capite, by knight's ſervice. At the time of her deceaſe, 18 November 1627,

Jane, wife of Alexander Radcliffe, aged 16 years, was found to be her daughter and heir (c). She had alſo the maner and Half-Hundred of Diſs. It is ſaid, that Robert, the laſt Earl of Suſſex of this family, gave Alexander this eſtate by his laſt will. He was poſſeſſed of it in 1635, being then a Knight. But, ſoon after he ſold it to Laurence Wright M. D. of Dagenhams in the Liberty of Havering.

The Doctor dyed 3 Oct. 1657, and, with Mary his wife, lies buried in the Church of South-Weald. His ſon and heir—Sir Henry Wright of the ſame place, Bart. married Anne daughter of John Lord Crew of Stene, by whom he had —Henry, who dyed in 1681, at the age of nineteen, and Anne. He himſelf dyed in 1663, aged 27 years, and was buried in the Church of S. Weald, as was alſo his ſon. His widow, the Lady Anne Wright enjoyed this eſtate as part of her jointure, till her deceaſe 27 Septemb. 1708. Upon her death it came to her only daughter,

Anne, who being a very rich heireſs, was married, firſt, to Edmund ſon of Sir Robert Pye of Farringdon in Berkſhire; afterwards to William Rider Eſq; She ſold this eſtate in July 1720, with the concurrence of the heirs at law, to

Sir John Blount Bart. one of the Directors of the South-Sea Company. After whoſe forfeiture it was purchaſed by

Samuel Feake of Shering Eſq; [See above p. 500.]

2. The Maner of PLECHEDON or PLECHENDON, PLEGEDEN, vulgarly called Priſon-hall.

The manſion houſe is near a mile South South-eaſt from the Church: And about half a mile more South is Plechedon green. Plechedon-hamlet is two miles long.

This is the part that belonged to Eudo Dapifer, [M], and which is placed in Domeſday-book under the Hundred of Claveling, or Clavering [N].

The earlieſt poſſeſſor of this maner upon record, after Eudo, was Gilbert Peche, mentioned above, p. 307, 344. In 1274, he ſettled it by fine on himſelf and his wife Joane, and the heirs of their bodies remainder to the heirs of his ſon John, clear of the heirs of Joane (d). In 1292, he enfeoffed his ſon John in the ſame, it being holden in capite of the lady Dionyſia widow of Warin de Monchenſy (e)—Gilbert Peche, who dyed in 1322, held this maner of Plechedon of Adomar de Valence Earl of Penbroke, by the ſervice of the 4th part of a knight's fee, leaving——Gilbert his ſon and heir (f).

How this eſtate went out of the Peche family doth not appear. But we find that about 1360 John Malewayn held the maner of Plegeden of the Counteſs of Penbroke; and——John was his ſon (g). It continued not long in that family: for

Catharine, daughter and heir of Sir Geffrey Peche brought it in marriage to her huſhand Sir Thomas Notbeme, or Notbend (h) [O]. She dyed in 1405, holding this maner of Plechindene of Ralph Nevill Earl of Weſtmoreland, as of his Honor of Clavering——Mirabel wife of Robert Geddyng, and Margaret wife of John Hynkley, were her daughter and heirs (i).

The year following, William Geddyng and Mirabel his wife paſſed by fine their ſhare of this eſtate to John Hynkele, and Margaret his wife (k). This Margaret, at the time of her deceaſe in 1442, held the maner of Plechedon of Richard Nevill Earl of Sarum by the ſervice of 4d. per ann. and left two daughters coheirs, Alice wife of John Marchall, and Cecily wife of Henry Caldebeck (l).

[N] There is proof it was ſo eſteemed, ſince Pleſdon, alias Pledgdon, was brought in as a Hamlet in Henham pariſh, belonging to the Leet of Clavering Hundred. There are many inſtances in other counties, of lands exempt from the juriſdiction under which they lie, and annexed to diſtant lordſhips, from particular privilege the Lords of them enjoyed. Suene having been Lord of Clavering, might have a great command hereabout. Indeed we may believe Clavering in the Saxon times to have been very conſiderable. It gives name to the Hundred, and may have had its dependents, like the caſtle of Stortford, from whence the country had its protection from inroads, and ſome eſtates paid towards the guard.

[O] Arms of Peche. Argent, a feſſe gules, between 2 cheveronels of the ſecond. Arms of Notbend. Gules, 2 feſſe-undées, ermine. Qre. Barry, gules and ermine. Arms of Caldebeck. Argent, 3 cinquefoils between 2 cheveronels, ſable; in chief and baſe 3 martlets, 2, 1, of the ſecond.

The latter became poſſeſs'd of this eſtate, and left two daughters coheirs, Thomaſine married to John Turnor of Haverhill, anceſtor to the Turnors of Hallingbury, and Margaret married to Geffrey Bloudwell of Thurlow.—Henry Turnor, ſon of John and Thomaſine, married Elizabeth daughter of Edward Brookſby, and had by her ——Henry, who held this maner of Pleaſſedenhall, alias Plegeden, in 1520, and 1528 (m).

William Watts Eſq; who dyed 9 Septemb. 1613. held this maner of Pledgdon of Sir Francis Barrington, as of his maner and Half Hundred of Clavering: and a portion of tithes out of Plechenden-hall.—Elizabeth, his daughter and heir, was but a year and a half old (n).

How it came into the Crew family I cannot learn. But Nathanael Lord Crew Biſhop of Durham had it: He dyed 18 Sept. 1721; and by will left it to Thomas Cartwright of Aynoe, Eſq; Knight of the Shire for Northampton, who married Armine, one of his brother's daughters.

It belongs now to——William Cartwright Eſq;

3. The BROOM.

The manſion houſe is about a mile and a half ſouth-weſt from the Church.

This is ſuppoſed to be the part that belonged to Geffrey de Mandeville [P].

We have no account of the particular owners of it till the reign of K. James I.

Sir John Watts Knt. who dyed 4 Septemb. 1616, held the reverſion of a certain maner, or ferm, called Broom-Houſe in Henham, after the death of Sir Chriſtopher Parkyns Knt.—John was his ſon and heir (o). [See under Clavering.]

Sir Philip Parker of Arwerton Bart. was poſſeſs'd of it in the beginning of this century. He ſold it to Sir John Blount above-mention'd. Of the South-Sea Company it was purchaſed either by Samuel Feake Eſq; or John Fell wine-merchant. However, it belongs now to Joſeph Fell Eſq;

Little Henham is a hamlet conſiſting of a few houſes, about a mile north from the Church.

Other Eſtates here.

Old Mead farm, belonging to William Canning, Gent. Sandpits-farm . . . . to Mr. Howard. —Thomas Mitchell Eſq; John Collin, Gent. Mr. George Guyver; William Jarvis; William Staines; John Newland; Joſeph Hubbard; George Starkey; Michael Reed; William Maſcall; John Willey; Edmund Sworder; Samuel Wood; Ezekiel Dixon &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Benefactions.

Henry Smyth Alderman of London, who lies buried at Wandſworth in Surrey, erroneouſly and unjuſtly called Dog-Smyth, gave annuities to the Poor of many pariſhes in Surrey, and to ſome in other counties. He left a good ſum to purchaſe lands for the uſe of the Poor of Henham and other pariſhes in Eſſex, in the hands of truſtees, who bought an eſtate of 140l. a year, at Tolleſhunt-Darcy: But, as is frequently the fate of poſthumous benefactions, the rents ſunk in a year's time to their primitive value, about a third part.

Moſt probably it had been raiſed, or overrated, before the ſale; a common art of moſt owners of eſtates, in order to enhance the price. [See Tolleſhunt-Darcy.]

There are ſome Alms-houſes near the Church. Concerning Meaſont's gift, ſee under Depden.

The CHURCH ſtands pleaſantly on a hill: and is large, conſiſting of a body and two iſles, leaded. The Chancel is only of one pace and tyled. A Tower at the weſt end, with a lofty ſpire leaded, contains a good ring of 5 Bells.

Robert ſon of Richard Fitz-Giſlebert gave two parts of his Lordſhip of Henham to the Priory and Canons of Little Dunmow. And his ſon Walter gave this Church of Henham to the ſame Canons; on which account this Gift, which was afterwards a Maner, came to be called The Maner of Plegedon Canons, or cum Canons.

The Rectory, or Great Tithes, were afterwards appropriated to the Priory aforeſaid, and a Vicarage inſtituted and endowed in the reign of K. Henry III. of which the Prior and Convent of Dunmow continued patrons till their ſuppreſſion (p).

K. Henry VIII. in 1536, granted the Rectory and Advowſon of the Vicarage of Henham to Robert Ratcliffe Earl of Suſſex (q) [Q]. From his deſcendants they paſſed to the ſucceſſive owners of Henham-hall, Dr. and Sir Henry Wright, Anne their daughter, Blount &c; and belong now to Samuel Feake Eſq;

Anne, daughter of John Lord Crew, and wife of Sir Henry Wright Bart. gave a farm at Little Henham, of about 40l. a year, for the augmentation of this Vicarage.

A tenement here called Sammons, was given for a yearly Obit.

Walter Lord Fitz-Walter, who dyed in 1408, ordered, by his will, his body to be buried in this Church (r).

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1132l. 2 s. 0 d.

[Q] What became of the two parts of the lordſhip given to the Priory, we do not find. Nicolas Steward, who dyed 1 June 1633, had this impropriate Rectory of Henham. Nicolas Steward was his couſin and next heir. Inquiſ. 10 Caro.

8. ELSENHAM.

Beſides Elſenham, the name of this pariſh is written in records theſe different ways, Alſenham, Elſingham, Elſnham, Elſynham.

Whether it is taken from an ancient owner, named Alſen, or Elſing, and ham, a habitation, or village, I am not able to determine.

Meruena, a free-woman, and one Leſtan, were poſſeſſed, in Edward the Confeſſor's time, of the lands in this pariſh; which, at the time of the ſurvey, were holden by John nephew, or grandſon, of Waleram; and Robert Gernon. John's part was much the largeſt; He had nothing elſe in Eſſex. Robert had this by way of exchange for ſomething elſe, it lying moſt convenient and contiguous to his ſeat of Stanſted [R].

What Waleram's nephew had, was the part of this pariſh next to Stanſted, becauſe in it was the Mill.

The Maner of ELSENHAM, with NETHERHALL and NEWHALL, comprehending what had belonged to Waleram's nephew, and Gernon, is the chief Maner in this pariſh.

It is called Netherhall and Newhall, in contradiſtinction to the ſituation of the old Maner-houſe, which is now unknown. Elſenham-hall ſtands near the Church, and is a fair ancient and large habitation.

Soon after the Conqueſt, this Lordſhip belonged to a noble Family, ſurnamed De Abrincis, or D'avranches, Barons of Folkſton in Kent; and continued in them till the death of William de Abrinci, in 1230, who left two children, William that dyed young; and Maud, a rich heireſs, married to Hamo de Crevequer, or Crevecœur. He dyed in 1262, poſſeſs'd of this maner holden of the Earl of Hereford, and of that of Moreton: leaving 4 daughters, coheirs: Agnes, wife of John de Sandwich; Iſold, of Nicolas de Lenham; Elianor, of Bartholomew de Kyriell; and Iſabel, of Henry de Gant. Iſabel, and Henry, had this eſtate for their part. He dyed in 1271, and ſhe in 1283, leaving no iſſue; ſo that their ſhare fell among the three other ſiſters, and their heirs (s).

In 1248, Guy de Rochford had licence for free warren in his maners of Elſnham, and Berden; he held in this pariſh, of Lord William de Say, 1 meſſuage, 330 acres of arable, 6 of meadow, 20 of paſture, 16 of wood, and 18 s. 5 d. ob. rent of aſſiſe: being moſt probably what had belonged to Robert Gernon. He dyed in 1274, leaving John Rochford, ſon of Maud his ſiſter, his couſin and heir (t) [See under Rochford.]

It was afterwards in the ancient family of Walden mentioned above, p. 497. Humfrey de Walden, who dyed in 1331, held the maner of Elſenham, moſt probably under the Earl of Hereford; for Humfrey de Bohun, who dyed in 1372, had half a fee in Elſenham formerly holden by Sir Humfrey de Walden.——Andrew de Walden, ſon of Roger brother to the ſaid Humfrey, was his heir (u).——John Walden, who dyed in 1405, held a tenement called Newhall, which was then parcel of the maner of Elſenham, of Joane de Bohun Counteſs of Hereford, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee: and the reſidue of the ſaid maner of the Lord Say, in free ſocage.——Sir Alexander was his ſon and heir (w). He dyed in 1408, holding the maner of Elſyngham of the Lord de Say, and the maner of Netherhall of Joane de Bohun &c. as above.—Alexander Walden was his couſin and heir (x).——John Walden, who dyed in 1419, held the maner of Elſenham of Sir William Heron of Sabridgworth, who had married Elizabeth daughter of William Lord Say; and 1 toft, and 200 acres of arable in Elſnham, called Newhall, parcel of the ſaid maner; as before.

Catharine wife of John Barle junior, and Margaret, wife of Henry Langley of Rickling-hall, were his ſiſters and co-heirs (y).

The family of Barley is ſuppoſed to have originally come from the pariſh of Barley in Hertfordſhire, and to have derived thence their ſurname. They were afterwards ſeated at Albyry in Hertfordſhire. John Barley dyed in 1445.——Henry, his ſon (z), was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1467. He dyed in 1475, poſſeſſed of the maner of Wicken, and held, jointly with Anne his wife, relict of Sir John Colvile, and others, the maner of Elſynham of Sir John Say (a). William, his ſon and heir, forfeited his great eſtate, for ſupporting Perkin Warbeck, but was pardoned and reſtored to it by K. Henry VII, in 1500 (b). He dyed 17 March 1520, holding this maner of Sir William Say, as of his maner of Sayſbury, with other eſtates in this County [S]: and, together with his wife Elizabeth, lies buried in the Chancel of this Church.——Henry, his ſon and ſucceſſor (c), was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1523, and dyed 12 Novemb. 1529 (d). By Anne his wife, relict of Edward

Lord Gray, he had two ſons, William, and Antony, and 3 daughters. His eldeſt ſon and heir —— William Barlee Eſq; married Joyce, daughter of John Perjent of Digſwell in Hertfordſhire, and left 2 daughters co-heirs, Dorothy, firſt married to . . . . Clopton of Suffolk, afterwards to Thomas ſecond ſon of Edward Leventhorp of Shingey-Hall in Sabridgworth, Eſq; and Anne married to Richard Barlee, who wa a diſtant branch of this family, being the ſon of Francis Barley of Great Waltham Eſq; [ſee above, p. 86.] [T].

Dorothy inherited the Hertfordſhire eſtate; Anne brought this to her huſband, who dying 21 July 1594 (e), was buried here; and ſhe by him. Thomas their ſon and heir, left one daughter, that was married to . . . . Pine, ſon of . . . Pine of Lincolns-Inn Eſq; In 1607, he held the maner of Elſenham, the Advowſon of the Church of Spring-field, and the maner of Bibbeſworth in Hertfordſhire; but being a lunatic, a commiſſion of lunacy was taken out (f), and Henry Wiſeman of Borworth in Northamptonſhire, Eſq who had married his ſiſter, was appointed his guardian, and lived here. Mary Wiſeman, daughter of Richard Barlee of Elſingham Eſq; and wife of Henry Wiſeman of Borworth Eſq; dyed 25 April 1635; and was buried in this Church.

Of the heirs of Barlee this maner and eſtate was purchaſed by Sir Thomas Adams, Alderman and mercer of London, created a Baronet 13 June 1660. He dyed in 1668. His ſon and heir—Sir William Adams married Jane . . . that dyed in an advanc'd age 15 January 1727: By her he had ſeveral ſons. He himſelf departed this life in 1688. His eldeſt ſon William was dead before him, leaving an only daughter, Jane, married to Sir Eraſmus Norwich.——Sir Thomas, the ſecond ſon, ſucceeded his father, but dyed in Auguſt 1690, unmarried; whereupon the title came to Sir Charles, the ſixth ſon, who dying 12 Auguſt 1726, had for ſucceſſor his brother—— Sir Robert, the eighth ſon.

The eſtate was purchaſed by William Dawkins Eſq; and by him given to Bayley Heath eldeſt ſon of Thomas Heath of the adjoyning pariſh of Stanſted Montfichet, Eſq;

A maner called Elſnam-croſs, with appertenances, and a farm called Elſnam-croſs in Elſnam and Henham, were granted by K. Edward VI, in 1553, to Richard Chamond, and others; to hold in ſocage (g).

Thomas Dimſdale Eſq; Mr. John Gurſon, Clement Barker, John Howlet, Samuel Scot, Charles Hancock, John Chapman, William Grigſon &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

John Welles of this pariſh, Fan-wright, gave two Cottages, of the yearly rent of 3 l. 10 s. 0 d. or thereabouts, to be laid out in clothing for poor men and women, at the diſcretion of the Miniſter and feoffees.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, ſtands pleaſantly by the Hall. Church and Chancel of one pace, and tyled. A ſquare Tower at the weſt end contains 4 Bells.

This Church of Elſenham was given to the Abbey of St. Stephen's at Caen in Normandy by John, nephew of Waleram, ſon of Ralph, in the year 1070 [V].—This grant was confirmed by K. Henry I, Henry II, and Richard I. Yet in the Time of K. Richard I. we find the Church given by Beatrix Lady Say, ſiſter of Geffrey de Mandeville Earl of Eſſex, to the Monaſtery of that Earl's foundation at Walden (h); for the entertainment of gueſts, or ſtrangers. This muſt have been ſoon after K. Richard's confirming Charter, for ſhe dyed about the year 1200, or 1207. [See above, p. 548.] How ſhe came by it does not appear: It may have been by purchaſe or exchange, but could not have been ſeized by the King, as belonging to a Priory alien, the firſt of that practice having been in the reign of K. Edw. I. A Vicarage was erected and endowed ſome time after, in the gift of the Abbey of Walden, and continued in them till their diſſolution.

Upon the Suppreſſion, this Rectory which is a MANER; and the Advowſon of the Vicarage, were by K. Henry VIII, given to Thomas Lord Audeley. At the time of his deceaſe, he held it under the name of the maner of Elſnam with appertenances, then valued at 8 l. 13 s. 4 d. (i) and by will had bequeath'd it to his wife for her life. She was remarried afterwards to Sir George Norton, and they two jointly preſented to the Vicarage, in 1549, as he did alone in 1554 (k). From his daughter and heir, Margaret, it paſſed to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and to their ſon the Lord Thomas Howard. But he ſold it before the year 1592. For then John Wever preſented to the Vicarage; and dyed 17 May, 1608, poſſeſs'd of the Rectory of Elſnam, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, with all meſſuages, glebes, tithes, &c. thereto belonging (l).

About the time of the Reſtoration, or ſoon after, it was purchaſed by William Canning Eſq; a branch of the ancient family of the Cannings of Foxcote in Warwickſhire (m). He ſettled here; and by Martha, daughter of George Etheridge of London, had George, and three other ſons that dyed without iſſue.——George Canning Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, married Elizabeth, daughter of John Buck of Ugley Eſq; and had by her four ſons, John; George of Mole-hall in Depden; William; and Thomas: and a daughter, Martha, wife of Benjamin Guyver of Priors-hall in Wydington.——John, the eldeſt ſon and heir, was educated at Queen's college in Cambridge; and preſented in 1678 to this Vicarage by his father, lies ſouth of Elſenham.

9. TAKELEY

The name of it is otherwiſe written in records, Tacheleia, Tackel, Takele, Takelee, Takelegh, Takkeleye, Thacelee. But whence it is formed I cannot eaſily conjecture, unleſs it is from the Saxon words þac, hay, or ᵹeaᵹ, incloſed land in oppoſition to the adjoyning open foreſt, and ley, paſture, unploughed ground.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the lands in this pariſh were holden by a freeman whoſe name is not mentioned; by Ulmar, another freeman; and by another freeman called Turchill. At the time of the ſurvey, the owners of them were, Robert Gernon; Eudo Dapifer; and the Priory of St. Valery in Picardy.

There are four Maners in this pariſh. 1. The maner of Waltham-hall. 2. Colcheſter-hall. 3. The maner of St. Valery's, vulgarly Wariſh-hall. 4. The maner of Baſſingborns.

1. The Maner of WALTHAM-HALL.

The Manſion-houſe is down; but out of its ruins a Farm houſe was built at Green-end, where the Courts are kept.

This is reaſonably ſuppoſed to be the part that belonged to Robert Gernon [X].

Waltham-hall is reckoned the chief Maner in this pariſh; and called in ancient records the Maner of Takeley, alias Waltham-hall: which laſt name it had—becauſe it belonged to the Abbey of Waltham Holy-Croſs.

When, and by whom, it was given to that houſe, is not particularly recorded; but it appears by Pleas at Chelmsford, in 1285, that it was a gift of K. Henry II. [Y]. K. Henry III. granted them a Market, and a Fair: and K. Edward III. free-warren, here (n).

This maner continued in the Abbey till their diſſolution; at which time it was farmed by Nicolas Clerk at 8 l. 0 s. 3 d. and the perquiſites of Court were 5 d. (o).

K. Henry VIII. granted it to Richard Heigham or Higham Eſq; it being known both by the names of Takeley, and Waltham-hall, which were one and the ſame; and holden of the King in ca. by knight's ſervice, and rent of 15 s. 7 d. ob. to the Court of Augmentation. He dyed poſſeſs'd of it 11 Novemb. 1546.——William Heigham was his brother and next heir (p). [See above, p. 490]. Mary widow of Richard Heigham, was formerly wife of John Colt Eſq; Thomas Colt her ſon had a ſhare in this eſtate with William Heigham, and got licence, 9 July 1550, to alienate two parts of the maner of Takeley, alias Waltham-Hall, to

Thomas Miller, who purchaſed the remaining third of Heigham, by licenſe dated 10 April 1554 (q). By another licenſe of 4 Novemb. 1565. Miller ſold a third part to Francis Salperwig, alias Gyllam, and Joane his wife (r). Tho. Miller dyed 20 Decemb. 1565 (s), and his ſon——Thomas, and Salperwig joined in ſelling this eſtate in 1574 (t), to

Robert Petre Eſq; He dyed 16 Septemb. 1593, and was ſucceeded in it by his eldeſt brother's ſon——John (u), afterwards created Lord Petre. He departed this life 11 October 1613, having given this eſtate, with Chicknal St. James and Maſhbury, to his ſecond ſon; John Petre Eſq; who dyed 2 Jan. 1622, leaving—John his ſon and heir, five years old. (w) [See above, p. 65, 80.]

This maner and eſtate was lately in Sir Iſaac Shaard Knt. whoſe ſon and Heir——Abraham Shaard Eſq; was knighted in 1745, and dyed 22 Auguſt 1746.

2. COLCHESTER-HALL, ſtands about a mile and a half north north-eaſt from the Church; and was ſo named, becauſe it belonged to St. John's Abbey at Colcheſter. It is the part which was holden, at the time of the ſurvey, by Eudo Dapifer [Z]. He endowed that Abbey, of his foundation, with two parts of the

We find, however, they had in this pariſh, the whole fee of Erniſe, given them by Alexander de Limeſey, and Rohais de Ambli [A]: Sceteparc, Eſtfield, Laley, and ſeveral other parcels, given them by William Fitz-Geffrey, and others: William de Hauvill ſen. gave them 80 acres in his park, with the tithe of the panage of his wood, &c. William de Hauvill jun. ſeveral tenements and lands, with the tenents (y). All this was ſufficient to make up what was afterwards called Colcheſter-hall. The ſum of their demeſnes here, as entered in their leſſer Regiſter-book, amounted to 246 acres. And the names and meaſures of the lands where they received two parts of the Tithes, are alſo entered in the ſame book (z).

Part of this eſtate was holden of the Plaiz family of Stanſted, as one knight's fee and a quarter (a).

The Abbey remained poſſeſs'd of it till their ſuppreſſion: at which time it was lett for the yearly rent of 7l. 7s. 8d. (b).

In 1538, K. Henry VIII. granted the maner of Colcheſter-hall to Robert Foſter: who, 8 May in the year following, had licenſe to alienate it to

Richard Heigham, Eſq; (c) [See above, p. 184, 194, 490.] He held at the time of his deceaſe this maner of Colcheſter-hall, and 2 meſſuages, 100 acres of arable, 20 acr. of meadow, 100 of paſture, 40 of wood, and 20s. rent, in Takeley, Eliſnam, White Roodynge, Kinges-Hatfeild, and Stanſteed-Mountfitchett, of the King in ca. by the 20th part of a knight's-fee. His brother William was his heir (d). But his widow, Mary, who had for her firſt huſband John Colt Eſq; held this maner till her death, 7 September, 1551, and was ſucceeded in it by her ſon —— Thomas Colt, then aged 34 years (e). He had licenſe 1 Decemb. 1553, to convey it to

Robert Thorpe: And the latter by licenſe dated 7 May 1557, conveyed it to Thomas Wyberd Gent. who had other conſiderable eſtates, and the maner of Biſhop Lees, in this County (f). He dyed 3 Febru. 1599, leaving his ſon and heir— John (g), father of Walter, whoſe grandſon William kept an inn at Stortford. It belonged afterwards to William Ruſſel of North-Okingdon, Eſq; he married Mary daughter of Samuel Saville of Colcheſter, Eſq; and had by her —— William Ruſſel Eſq; who dying 6 October 1754, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— John Ruſſel Eſq;

This Family hath another eſtate in this pariſh, called THE GRANGE, and reputed a Maner.

It is ſaid to have belonged to Tiltey Abbey, but when and by whom given, doth not appear.

Philip Wiſe was poſſeſſed of it in Qu. Elizabeth's time, and obtained licenſe, 17 April 1565, to alienate this maner of Takeley as it is there called; with 5 meſſuages and 2 cottages, to

Ralph Wiſeman Eſq; who had licenſe the next year to grant it to

Thomas Crackbone yeoman (h). This laſt dyed 23 June 1593, poſſeſs'd of Takeley Grange.— Robert, his brother and heir (i), was ſucceeded in it by Grace, one of his daughters and co-heirs, who brought it in marriage to her huſband Robert Plumme of Great Yeldham in this County.

She dyed 21 July 1615, and her ſon and heir —— Robert Plumme enjoyed it after her (k). [See above, p. 301]

3. The Maner of St. Valerys, vulgarly called Wariſh-hall, belonged to the Abbey of St. Valery in Picardy [B], and was given to it, as is reaſonably ſuppoſed, by K. William the Conqueror [C]. A ſmall Priory was founded here, for a Cell to St. Valery, in the reign of K. Henry I, who added to their poſſeſſions in this pariſh [D]. Beſides which they had the maners of Birchangre, Priors in Lindſell, Bacons in Dengey; Walla, Urthiſtun, Medelbury, Mangeden, Botilton, Machekes, Chavenfeld, &c. and the Rectories and Advowſons of the Vicarages of Hamton, Heſton, Iſleworth, and Twickenham in Middleſex (l). The Prior of this Cell was Procurator general of St. Valery's Abbey, and collector of the rents of all the lands they had in England.

The Revenues of theſe Priories alien were ſeiz'd ſeveral times by our Kings, as may be ſeen above, p. 407. 416. Moſt probably it was obtained of K. Edward III. by William of Wickham, biſhop of Wincheſter, and ſettled by him upon his munificent foundation of New-College in Oxford, in whoſe poſſeſſion it remains to this day.

The Priory is long ſince demoliſhed: but there is an ancient houſe moated round, about 3 quarters of a mile Eaſt from the Church, called Wariſh-hall, where a court is kept for the college. In the Rolls it is ſtyled Takeley S. Walerici.

4. The MANER OF BASSINGBORNS.

Baſſingborne-hall ſtands about a mile north-weſt from the Church.

This is part of what belonged to Robert Gernon in this pariſh: accordingly it was holden of his ſucceſſors, the families of Plaiz, and Howard, lords of Stanſted Montfichet. It took its name from the ancient Family of Baſſingburne, of which an account may be ſeen in Sir William Dugdale's Baronage, Vol. I. p. 680. Warine de Baſſingburne was Sheriff of the Counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon in 1170. Some of them were ſettled here in the reign of K. Henry III. For in 1239, a fine paſſed between Alexander de Baſſingborn plaintiff, and Aldredra de Baſſingborn impedient, of one carucate of land in Takele and Stanſted, the right of Alexander and his heirs; remainder to Stephen his brother (m). John de Baſſingborn held a quarter of a knight's fee in Takele, under Giles de Playz, who dyed in 1303. The heirs of this John held the ſame under Richard de Plaiz that dyed in 1327 (n). And Nicolas Baſſingborn held alſo the ſame under Giles de Plaiz the younger, who departed this life in 1360 (o). It continued in the Baſſingborn-family down to the reign of K. Henry VI. (p).

Sir John Howard, who had married Margaret, heireſs of the Plaiz family, held by the law of England, in right of his wife deceaſed, in 1437, a fourth part of a knight's fee in Takeley, which John Baſſingbourne lately held, and the fourth part of a fee in that village called Chaldwell-Hall:

Elizabeth, their ſole daughter and heireſs, brought it to her huſband, John, ſon and heir to Richard de Vere, Earl of Oxford, who was beheaded in 1461 (q).

Sir Giles Paulett held it, at the time of his deceaſe 6 Novemb. 1579, of Edward Earl of Oxford, as of his Honor of Stanſted-Montfichett, leaving——William his ſon and heir aged 15 years. He had alſo Jenkens Hogges in Radwinter, Dodenall grange in Wendon Loughts, and eſtates in Gouldhanger, and Layton (r).

It appears next in William Towſe Eſq; ſerjeant at law, Town-Clerk of Colcheſter, and one of the repreſentatives for that Burgh, in the Parliaments 18 and 21 James I. and the two firſt of K. Charles I. He dyed 22 October 1634, aged 83 (s). By Joane, daughter of . . . . French, he had William, who dyed before him 29 May 1632, and is buried in Baſſingborn-Chapel in this Church: and three daughters, Mary, wife of Sir Thomas Elliot, Kt. Joane, of George Brett of Much Eaſton; and Heſter, of Robert Clerk of Good Eſtre. His ſon William, had left, by Elizabeth daughter of . . . . Cutt, William, and Margaret (t).

Of the heireſs of Serjeant Towſe this eſtate was purchaſed, in 1663, by John Kendall Eſq; He married Roſe, daughter of John Ballot of Shering Gent. and had by her John, who dyed without iſſue; William; and two daughters, Roſe wife of Mark Lewis Rector of Oundle in Northamptonſhire; and Elizabeth of Edward Cater of Kempſton in Bedfordſhire. He dyed 29 Novemb. 1679, aged 76 years, and is interred in this Church.——William, his ſon and heir, was of Trinity College in Cambridge, and a Barriſter of the Middle-Temple, a Gentleman highly eſteemed in this country; he married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Beckford citizen and merchant of London, by which he had 7 ſons and 3 daughters.--John Kendall Eſq; the eldeſt ſurviving ſon, was of Bennet-college in Cambridge, and a Barriſter of the Middle-Temple; he dyed unmarried, 1 January 1734-5 [E]; and the eſtate being ſold in Chancery in 1745, was purchaſed by Francis Bernard Eſq; ſon of Francis Bernard Eſq; one of the Judges of the Court of Common-Pleas in Ireland.

The Houſe is ſaid to have been built by William Towſe Eſq; but much altered and improved by John Kendall Eſq; who laid out handſom Gardens, with viſtos &c. in a curious manner.

William Bannebury of Takeley Gent. was outlawed at Hertford 8 April 1473, for high treaſon and felony, at the King's ſuit. He held one meſſuage, 100 acres of arable, ten of meadow, 100 of paſture, ſix of wood, and 48 s. rent; and one tenement and five acres called Tipſwaynes, in this pariſh, in his own demeſne as of fee, which was ſeized into the King's hands (u). What eſtate this was, and who had it afterwards, we do not learn. We find alſo mention of Moringes Green here. And Takeley-ſtreet, where the houſes are all on one ſide, is well known.

The Abbey of Buſtleham, or Biſham, in Berkſhire, had lands in this pariſh (w).

Beſides the above-mentioned, Mr. John Green; John White; Henry Seex; Robert Garrick; Thomas Leader; Robert Thurgood; John Guyver; George Crouchman; Robert Dimſdale; and a few others, have alſo lands here.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, conſiſts of a body with a ſouth iſle called Baſſingborns-Chapel; and a Chancel of one pace: all tyled. A Tower embattled, with a ſpire, contains 4 Bells.

The Advowſon of this Church was given by William ſon of Ralph de Hauvill to St. John's Abbey in Colcheſter, for the brotherhood of that Church, where he had devoted his body to be buried (x). But in 1237, the Abbot and Convent gave up the whole patronage of this Church to the Cathedral of St. Paul, and to Roger Niger, Biſhop of London, and his ſucceſſors for ever: And it hath ever ſince remained in the collation of the Biſhops of London.

Part of the great Tithes was appropriated to the fabric of the Church of St. Paul: the two parts, which the ſaid Abbot and Convent uſed to receive, being reſerved to them.

[E] Arms of Kendall. Gules, a feſſe checky argent and azure, between 3 ſpread eagles, argent, 2. 1.

The Prior of Tremhall claim'd for a while the advowſon of this Church, but gave up his pretenſions in 1530.

The Parſonage, which is a Maner, is leaſed out by the Biſhop of London. When good Biſhop Compton granted a new leaſe of it, to William Kendall Eſq; 24 July 1680, he charged it with the ſum of Forty pounds a year, payable quarterly, to the Vicar, as an augmentation to the Vicarage. And it is ſaid to have been confirm'd by act of parliament.

Hannah, daughter of William Collins of Lincoln's-inn Eſq; and widow of Francis Knollys of Nether-Winchington in Buckinghamſhire Eſq; which dyed 23 June 1689, gave ſeven pounds a year, in augmentation of the Vicarage, for the payment whereof a houſe and free-hold lands are tied: Alſo, ſhe ſettled an houſe and orchard on the pariſh Clerk for ever.

“The Tythe of about thirty acres of Hay, of ten acres of wheat, and ten of oats, are payable to the Vicarage out of the Tythes of Wariſh-Hall, and the farm failing are to be taken out of the Lordſhip.”

Geffrey de Hauvill, ſon of William, founded a Chapel at his manſion houſe in this pariſh, for his own conveniency; by reaſon of its diſtance from the Church, and the badneſs of the ways: with covenants, that it ſhould be no prejudice to the mother Church (y). No traces of it remain.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1404 l. 2 s. 0 d.

James Small was preſented to this Vicarage, 21 April 1659, by the Truſtees for maintenance of Miniſters; who were, William Steel Chancellor of Ireland, Sir John Thorogood Kt. George Cooper, Richard Yong, John Pocock, Ralph Hall, Richard Sydenham, John Humfrey, and Edward Creſſet Eſqres (z).

10. BIRCHANGER.

The name of this pariſh ſeems to be formed from the two Saxon words Birce, a birch-tree, and aunᵹre, place. It is otherwiſe written in records Bilchaungre, Biliclangra, Bylchanger, Byleghengre.

It belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Turchill mentioned under Takeley; and, at the time of the ſurvey, was holden by the Abbey of St. Valery [F]. K. Henry II. confirm'd it to that Convent (a). But it underwent the fate of the other revenues of the Priories alien; being ſeized by K. Edward III. during the courſe of his wars with France. [See above p. 407.] This was never reſtored, as ſome of them were; and it continuing in the Crown, K. Richard II. granted it to William of Wickham, Biſhop of Wincheſter, founder of New-College; who made it part of the endowment of that foundation: in which this Maner ſtill continues, with the Advowſon of the Rectory.

Birchangre-hall is near the Church.

Here is another reputed Maner. For William Towſe Eſq; who dyed 22 October 1634, is recorded to have held a maner called Princes-wood, with view of frank-pledge, &c. in Birchanger, of the King in ca. by knight's ſervice (b). See under Baſſingborns in Takeley.]

The truth is; There is a wood, lately in poſſeſſion of William Ely, of B. Stortford, and ſince of John Nichols, that has the reputation of a Maner; upon which a lawleſs Court was held under an oak at midnight. Stortford claims a right to this Maner, which ſeems to have been erected before the Biſhop of London had his lands reſtored, when they were taken away by K. John, on account of the Biſhop's executing the Pope's interdict.

The following perſons have alſo ſome lands here, Mr. John Judd; Charles Dingley; William Mead; Antony Thomſon; Charles Brewer; Iſaac Lindſell; Rob. Sach; Tho: Ryley; John Clarke; Edmund Haynes, &c.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, ſtands on a hill; and is ſmall, being only of one pace with the Chancel, and tyled. The Steeple is round, after the Daniſh faſhion; there was on it a Spire which was blown down by a high wind.

The Advowſon of this Rectory was originally in the Abbey of St. Valery. It is in New-College, which has preſented to it ever ſince the year 1398. And there is in it a very quick ſucceſſion.

William Parſons B. L. L. who was inſtituted 30 June 1641, read uſually the Common-Prayer in this Church during the Troubles in the laſt century; notwithſtanding the manifeſt danger he incurred. He was afterwards Prebendary of Chicheſter, Rector of Lamborn, and Vicar of Great Dunmow (c).

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 430 l.

11. STANSTED-MONTFICHET.

The name of Stanſted is plainly derived from the two Saxon words Sꞇan, a ſtone, and ꞅꞇcꝺa, place; and Norden thinks 'tis ſo called, becauſe it is a ſtony or gravelly place: Tho' others derive it from the Stane Street on which it ſtands, that is, the ſtone, or cauſe, way mentioned above, p. 189, leading from Stortford towards Colcheſter. The addition of Montfichet, was to diſtinguiſh it from another Stanſted, not very far off, in Hertfordſhire: and it was taken from an artificial, fixt, or firm, Mount of Earth, erected by William Gernon, on which his Caſtle was built. Of this Caſtle there are ſome remains, about a quarter of a mile from the Church.

This place, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, belonged to one Freeman, and was then inconſiderable: But was rendered conſiderable by the poſterity of Robert Gernon, who held it at the general ſurvey [G]; namely by their making it their chief ſeat and caſtle, and the head of their Barony. Robert Gernon, or Greno, as he is often written in Domeſday-book, was a Norman, deſcended from the Houſe of Bologne; and coming over with William the Conqueror was rewarded with this lordſhip, and ſeveral others in this County [H].

The male line of this Family continued only five deſcents, or generations (d), namely. 1. Robert, already mention'd. 2. William, who took the ſurname of Montfichet. 3. Gilbert. 4. Richard. 5. Richard.

They were poſſeſſed of this whole Pariſh, in which I find the following Maners mentioned, in their time. 1. The maner of Stanſted Montfichet. 2. That of Bendfield-bury [I].

1. Stansted-hall is a little way north-eaſt from the Church.

The time of Robert Gernon's death is unknown.——William, his ſon and heir, dropt the ſurname of Gernon, and took that of Montfichet, which was afterwards uſed by his deſcendents [K]. He founded the Abbey of Stratford Langthorn in Weſt-Ham. See under that pariſh (e). His ſon——Gilbert de Montfichet, upon the aſſeſſment of the aid for marrying K. Henry the ſecond's daughter with the Duke of Saxony, certified, that his knights fees of ancicient feoffment were 48 and one fifth, for which he paid 31 l. 10 s. 0d. and for what he had of new feoffment he paid 9 s. 4 d.——Richard his ſon, had the office of Foreſter, or Keeper of the Foreſt, of Eſſex, with the cuſtody of the King's houſe at Havering, and all other his houſes in that Foreſt, confirmed to him by K. Henry II (f). In 1194, he attended K. Richard I. in his expedition to Normandy: And, in 1200, he had a confirmation of his Foreſterſhip of Eſſex, for which, with the cuſtody of the Caſtle of Hertford, he gave 100 marks; the next year he was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire. He dyed in 1203, leaving by Melicent his wife——Richard his ſon under age, whoſe wardſhip Roger de Lacy Conſtable of Cheſter purchaſed for 1000 marks; and his mother Melicent, in 1210, gave 1100 marks for the ſame wardſhip (g). This Richard ſiding with the Barons againſt K. John; was one of the twenty-five made choice of to govern the realm; and at the battle of Lincoln 18 June 1217, taken priſoner. But behaving properly afterwards, in 1236 he was conſtituted Juſtice of the King's Foreſts in this county, and divers others: Alſo,

Walter Bolebec, ſon and heir of Hugh, was father of——Walter, who dyed without iſſue; and of——Hugh that by Theophania his wife, left his ſon——Hugh, who had four daughters his co-heirs; Philippa, married to Roger de Lancaſter; Margery, firſt to Nicolas Corbett, and afterwards to Ralph ſon of William, Lord of Grimſthorp; Alice married to Roger de Huntercombe, of Oxfordſhire; and Maud, wife of Hugh de la Vall.

Among theſe four coheireſſes was the Montfichet Eſtate here, and elſewhere, divided. And they diſpoſed of their ſhares in the following manner.——Margery, the ſecond daughter, gave her part to Margery daughter of Nicolas Corbett; and ſhe granted it to her half brother, Ralph ſon of William de Grimſthorp. Alice enfeoffed in her purparty Giles de Barrinton, who enfeoffed in the ſame Robert Burnel. — And Maud enfeoffed in her part alſo Robert Burnel. [Concerning him, ſee above, p. 12.] [M]. Maud dyed in 1281, leaving no iſſue (i). [N].——In 1302, Ralph ſon of William lord of Grimſthorp, gives to John de Yrland, Rector of the Church of Soham, the maner of Hayes Montfitchet, with the advowſon of the Church, and a moiety of the lands which Walter de Huntercomb and Hugh de Vall held for life, in Eaſt-Ham, Holland, and Stanſted in Eſſex; Barentone in Cambridgeſhire; and Yngdone in Northamptonſhire; after the deceaſe of the ſaid Walter and Hugh; which lands &c. deſcended to him as part of the inheritance of Alice formerly wife of Walter de Huntercombe, and Maud late wife of Hugh de la Vale, ſiſters of the ſaid Margery, whoſe heir he was (k). Hugh de la Vall enjoyed his wife's ſhare till his deceaſe in 1302, and his heir was John de Lancaſter (l).

As to Roger de Lancaſter, who married Philippa the eldeſt daughter, he was a very conſiderable man in his time, and Baron of Kendal in Weſtmoreland (m). He dyed in 1290; as did Philippa in 1293, at which time ſhe held of the King in ca. by the ſervice of the third part of a knight's fee, 1 meſſuage here, and 320 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, a park, 6 acr. of paſture, 60s. rent, and half a water-mill——John de Lancaſter, their ſon and heir (n), had to wife Annora . . . . . . Theſe two joined in ſelling the reverſion of this eſtate after their own deceaſe, to

Thomas de Vere, one of the ſons of Robert the third Earl of Oxford. And a fine was levied in the King's bench between the ſaid John and Annora, plaintiffs, and Robert de Vere, Earl of Oxford, father of the ſaid Thomas, deforciant. John de Lancaſter dyed in 1334, Annora ſurviving him (o): Upon whoſe deceaſe it came to the noble family of De Vere, Earls of Oxford, who enjoyed it ſeveral years.

Maud, widow of John the ſeventh Earl of Oxford, which dyed in 1366, held the maner of Stanſted Monfichet of the King, as parcel of the Barony of Monfichet, by one knight's-fee (p). ——Thomas de Vere, the 8th Earl, dyed poſſeſs'd of it in 1370 (q) [O]. As did——Aubrey in 1400. And——Richard in 1415 (r).——John, ſon of the latter, was beheaded in 1461, for taking part with the houſe of Lancaſter, and his eſtates confiſcated. Elizabeth, Queen of England, widow of K. Edward IV, was found poſſeſſed of this, in 1483, with ſeveral other lordſhips belonging to the Vere Family, viz. thoſe of Caſtle-Hedingham and Earl's Colne, &c.

The other Parts of this Maner that had been diſmembred from it, centered alſo in the Family of De Vere.

We have ſeen that Alice, and Maud, the two youngeſt daughters of Hugh de Bolebec parted with their ſhares of the Montfichet eſtate here to Robert Burnel, which from him came to be called the MANER OF BURNEL. This Robert Burnel, Biſhop of Bath and Wells, at the time of his deceaſe in October 1292, held of the King in ca. by the ſervice of the fourth part of a knight's fee, 70 acres of arable, 200 acres of wood, two marks rent, and half a water-mill. ——Philip Burnel, ſon of his brother Hugh, or William, was his heir (s). He held this for the term of his life, of the gift of Hugh de la Vall; and dyed in 1293 (t). His ſon——Edward doth not appear by the Inquiſition after his death in 1315 to have enjoyed it (u); but his ſiſter and heir

Maud did: As did alſo her ſecond huſband, John de Handlo, who dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1346 (w). Her firſt huſband was John Lovel. [See above, p. 13.] It was alſo enjoyed by her younger ſon——Nicolas de Handlo, who had taken the ſurname of Burnel, and was knighted. He held it, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1382, of the King in ca. as parcel of the Barony of Monfichet, by the name of the maner of Stanſted Monfichet, called Burnes maner (x). His ſon ——Sir Hugh Burnel held the ſame, and was ſucceeded in it by his daughters, or grandaughters, Joice, wife of Thomas Erdyngton, Catharine Burnel, and Margaret, wife of Edmund Hungerford (y).

Sir Edmund Hungerford, who dyed in 1484, held this maner of Francis Lord Lovel, Thomas being his ſon and heir (z).

It became afterwards veſted, with the reſt of the Eſtates in this pariſh, in the Family of De Vere, as will appear in the ſequel.

The manſion houſe of Burnels is near the Bridge, on the left hand ſide of the way going from Stanſted-Bury to Stanſted-Town. Here the Court is kept at an old Houſe; and is ſuppoſed to have been ſo ever ſince the demolition of the Caſtle.

The Maner-houſe of BURY-LODGE ſtands by the ſide of the road leading from Stanſted-hall to Takeley Common.

2. BENDFEILD-BURY is the other moſt conſiderable Maner in this pariſh.

The manſion houſe is about two miles north-weſt from Stanſted Church, near the river Stort.

Tho' this is a Hamlet in Stanſted pariſh, yet the Inhabitants do their ſervice at the Leet of the Half Hundred of Clavering, and chooſe a diſtinct Conſtable of their own.

It belonged at the ſurvey, as we have ſeen, to Robert Gernon, and afterwards to his deſcendents ſurnamed de Montfichet.

Philippa, third ſiſter and coheir of Richard, laſt of the ſurname of Montfichet, brought it to her huſband Hugh de Playz. Their ſon,——Richard de Plaiz, had, for his part of the inheritance of Richard de Munfichett, which was holden of the King by Barony, 9 knights fees and a half and a third: and, at the time of his deceaſe in 1269, held this maner of Benefeild; and in Stanſted 180 acres of arable belonging to this maner, and 10 acres of meadow, and paſture in the Caſtle de Ulgrave, and 80 acres of wood felled, or under-wood, there, called Taylboys. ——Ralph, his ſon (a), dyed without iſſue.——Giles, his ſucceſſor, had ſummons to Parliament in 1296 (b): and dyed in 1303, leaving——Richard his ſon (c), who was ſummoned to Parliament from 1317 to 1321, and dyed in 1327.——Giles was his ſon (d)——Richard de Playz, who dyed in 1360, held this eſtate of Bentlefeld-bury. As did his ſon——John (e); The latter dyed in 1388, leaving

Margaret, his daughter and ſole heir, then married to Sir John Howard (f). After her deceaſe he held, by the courteſy of England, this eſtate, as a quarter of a fee in Stanſted called Covelones, and a quarter of a fee called Stanſted. He dyed in 1437. . . . John his ſon was dead before him, but left

Elizabeth, ſole heireſs to the ſaid Sir John, and to his wife Margaret (g); which brought a very large fortune to her huſband

John de Vere, ſon and heir of Richard the eleventh Earl of Oxford.

He had the misfortune of being beheaded, with his eldeſt ſon Aubrey, for their adherence to the Houſe of Lancaſter, as is mentioned above; [p. 293.] And his eſtates becoming forfeited to the Crown, Bendfield-Bury was given by the truſtees of Richard Duke of Glouceſter, brother to K. Edward IV. in 1478, for erecting a Chantry in the Chapel of St. George at Windſor (h). But this never took place, for upon the coming of K. Henry VII to the throne, the Vere Family was reſtored to their Honours and Eſtates; and among the reſt to the ſeveral Maners in this pariſh. For ——John de Vere, the thirteenth Earl of Oxford, ſecond ſon of the laſt Earl that had been beheaded, dyed 10 March 1512, poſſeſſed of the maner of Bentfeild-Burye, and of the maners of Stanſted Mountfitchet, and Burye-lodge (i). His ſucceſſor——John, Earl of Oxford, ſon of his brother George, held alſo, of the King, the maner of Bentfeild Burye, by the ſervice of the 4th part of a knight's fee; the maners of Stanſted Mountfitchett, and Burilodge, by the ſervice of one knight's fee; and the maner of Burnells, 15 meſſuages, 300 acres of arable, 200 acr. of meadow, 5 of paſture, 200 of wood, and 60 s. rent, of Ralph Joſlyn Eſq (k); As did——John, the fifteenth Earl.——John, the ſixteenth (l); And ——Edward, the ſeventeenth Earl. This laſt ſquandering his eſtates, had licence 7 Decemb. 1582, to alienate theſe to

John Southall, and his heirs. On the 1ſt of February 1584, Southall had licenſe to alienate them to

Edward Hubbard, or Hubert, Eſq; one of the Six Clerks in Chancery (m). His ſon——Sir Francis Hubert of Stanſted-hall, Kt. married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Leventhorp, Eſq; and had by her Edward Hubert of Gray's-inn Eſq [P]; they three joined in conveying this whole eſtate, in 1615, to

Sir Thomas Middleton Kt. He was ſon of Richard Middleton of Denbigh-ſhire Eſq; and had 14 brothers and ſiſters. In his youth he viſited foreign countries, whereby he became admirably verſ'd in the myſteries of trade, and was intimately acquainted with Sir Francis Walſingham. Being grown rich, he was elected Alderman of London; one of the Sheriffs in 1603, and Lord Mayor in 1613. He was four times married: By his firſt wife he had Thomas, afterwards knighted, whom he placed at the family ſeat of Chirk-caſtle in Denbighſhire, where his off-ſpring continued till 5 Janu. 1717-18. He dyed 12 Auguſt 1621, and was buried here under a ſtately monument.——Timothy, his ſecond ſon, ſettled here, married Martha daughter of Robert Johnſon, Alderman of London, with whom he had a conſiderable eſtate at Poplar and Bromley in Middleſex: and by her he had 2 ſons, Robert who dyed in 1641, Thomas; and 5 daughters. He dyed 24 May 1655, being ſucceeded by——Thomas his only ſon, who built the new part of Stanſted-Hall. By Conſtance his wife, daughter of Thomas Bromfeild, Alderman of London, he had 12 children. He dyed 21 Auguſt 1668. His ſon and heir——Sir Thomas Middleton Knt. married Mary, relict of Thomas Styles of Lincolnſhire, Eſq; only daughter and heir of Sir Stephen Langham of Quinton in Northamptonſhire, Knt. and had by her 4 children, whereof Conſtance, was married firſt to Sir Roger Burgoyne Bart. and afterwards to Chriſtopher, ſon of the famous Sir Chriſtopher Wren Kt. He was choſen Burgeſs for Harwich in 1679, and 1681. and alſo in 1688, 1690, 1695, and 1698. He dyed 11 June, 1702.——Thomas Middleton Eſq; his ſon and ſucceſſor, born in 1676, was one of the Knights for this ſhire in the 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th Parliaments of Queen Anne. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Richard Onſlow, by whom he had no male iſſue, but five daughters; 1. Mary, married to John, ſon of the Lord Viſcount Moleſworth; 2. Elizabeth, to Richard Hockenhull, Gent. 3. Conſtance, to John Cunningham of Ireland Eſq; 4. Diana, to John Trollop of Lincolnſhire Eſq; and 5. Anne. He dyed 29 April 1715, and was buried in a new vault in Lancaſter's Chapel here. By his laſt will, dated 29 June 1710, he veſted all this his eſtate in truſtees, for raiſing portions for his children, and payment of debts. An act of Parliament paſs'd afterwards empowering the truſtees to ſell it: and it was purchaſed by Thomas Heath, of Mile-end in Middleſex Eſq; His father, William Heath Eſq; was an eminent Eaſt-India Captain, of whom Mr. Dampier makes an honorable mention in his Voyages. He was alſo ſome time a director of the Eaſt-India Company. By Jane, his wife, daughter of Edmund Pike of London, grocer, he had Thomas, Edmund, Pike, Heath, William, John; and three daughters. Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, and the purchaſer of this eſtate, was one of the Burgeſſes for Harwich in the firſt Parliament of K. George I. He married Catharine, daughter and coheir of Arthur Bayley of Mile-end-green Eſq; an eminent Virginia-merchant, and had by her Bayley, Thomas; and Catharine. Departing this life 7 Septemb. 1741, he was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon——Bayley Heath Eſq; Sheriff for this county in 1747: who dyed 9 July 1760 [Q].

Mr. Arthur Clark; William Broughton; William Elliſon; William Riſt; John Saunders; Edward Faircloth; Robt. Bull; Nathanael Godfrey, &c. have alſo ſome Lands in this pariſh.

Stanſted-ſtreet is by the river Stort: Stanſted Chapel, a little way weſt of the ſame, in the road from Walden to Stortford, was built undoubtedly for the conveniency of Stanſted-ſtreet, Bendfield-Bury, &c. We find likewiſe mention of the Hamlet of Bradford-ſtreet.

The Warren in the middle of Hatfield foreſt is reputed in Stanſted pariſh, having belonged to Thremhales and been exchanged by the Lord Morley, or Sir Edward Turnor, with Mr. Ray, for lands near his houſe.

A Fair is held here on the 12th of May.

Benefactions.

Edward Hubert Eſq; by indenture 7 July 1582, gave to the pariſhioners of Stanſted, for the uſe of the Church, a rent charge of 20 s. per ann. out of Crowch-meadow in Birchanger, containing 5 acres and a half: payable at Michaelmas and Lady-day.——The ſame, by deed 28 Oct. 1593, gave, for the ſame uſe, to the Vicar, Church-wardens, and inhabitants, a rent charge of 40 s. yearly, out of the Moor-field containing 5 acres, and out of Little Burgatefeild containing 4 acres and a half, both in this pariſh.

Elizabeth Cooke, alias Chapman, of this pariſh, by her deed 28 Auguſt 1604, gave one acre of arable land in Stanſted Stony-feild in Birchanger, of which the Churchwardens are to receive the rent yearly, and to diſtribute it to 10 aged people of Stanſted——The ſame, by her will dated 7 July 1609, gave Balls-Croft in Great-Hallingbury containing two acres, for the uſe of the Poor of Stanſted. It is let now at 30 s. per ann.

James Biſhop alias Perryn, of Stanſted, yeoman, in 1612, gave an annuity of 20 s. to the Poor here, out of lands, called Revells in Stanſted, containing 27 acres. To be paid yearly on Chriſtmaſs-day in the north porch of the Church.

Dionyſius Palmer of Felſted, in 1615 gave out of a meſſuage and cloſes at Stortford, 52 s. in bread to the Poor here; and 2 s. to the Vicar, 1 s. to the Church-wardens. See above, p. 420.

Mrs. Gertrude Peck, late of Little Sandford in Eſſex, who rented the Vicarage-houſe of Mr. Reynolds, and dyed here, gave by her nuncupative will 27 Auguſt 1705. 66 l. 6 s. 8 d. to the Poor of Stanſted, which ſum was laid out by Mr. Reynolds, and other truſtees, in the purchaſe of four acres of arable land in Manuden called Battles garden; the rent of which is given in 24 loaves of bread every fortnight in the Church.

The ſame ſhe left to Little Sandford, where ſhe was born, and is buried; and the ſame to St. Giles in the Fields, Middleſex, where ſhe reſided in winter.

The Priory of Thremhall

ſtood within the bounds of this pariſh, about two miles ſouth ſouth-eaſt from the Church, by the ſide of Hatfeild-foreſt. The only remains of it, are a ſtone-wall on the north ſide of Mr. Ray's garden.

[Q] Arms of Heath. Parti per chevron embattled, ſable and argent. In chief two mollets of ſix points, or, pierced gules: in baſe an heath-cock, of the firſt, combed and watled, proper.

It was founded by Richard de Montfichet above-mentioned, the firſt of the name, for Black Canons of the Benedictine Order, and dedicated to St. James.

The patronage of it came from the Montfichet family to the De Veres Earls of Oxford (n), and continued in them till the ſuppreſſion.

It was chiefly endowed by that family: For, about the year 1289, Robert de Vere the fifth Earl of Oxford granted the Prior and Convent 95 acres of arable, and 5 of meadow in Takeley; and 43 acres of arable, and 2 of meadow in Birchanger. Hugh de Vere confirmed the ſame, and added to it two meſſuages, 6 acres of meadow, 14 acres of paſture, and 16 s. rent in thoſe two pariſhes, and in Stanſted (o). They had alſo the great Tithes of the pariſh of Stanſted: an eſtate in Tendring, ſuppoſed to be what was called the maner of Gernons, tho' that name is now forgotten there: the maner of Geddy-hall, alias Engaines, in Little Clacton: lands in Great Clacton: Roſe-bridge, Perſtedeys, and Watmade &c. (p).

One of the family of Furneuſe granted to this Priory Beches in Pelham-Furneuſe, in Hertfordſhire.

Richard de Wendover Canon of St. Paul's gave forty marks to buy lands that a Canon of St. Paul's might, in the Church of this Priory, celebrate for the ſoul of the ſaid Richard (q).

At the Suppreſſion it was valued, according to Dugdale, at 60 l. 18 s. 7 d. according to Speed at 70 l. 19 s. 3 d. per ann. The ſite and maner of it, and the maner of Derbitots, were granted by K. Henry VIII to John Cary and Joice Walſingham widow and their heirs; ſhe afterwards was his wife (r).

Sir John Cary, at the time of his deceaſe, 9 Septemb. 1552, was found to hold the premiſſes, with a portion of 26 s. 8 d. out of the Rectory of Birchanger, aud 40 meſſuages, 1000 acres of arable, 300 of meadow, 80 of paſture, 100 of wood, and 20 marks rent, in Tremhale, Manewdon, Stanſteed, Berchanger, Ugley, Tendring, Great and Little Clackton, Engayneſhall, Roſebridge, Perſteſteys, and Watmede; and the advowſons of the Vicarages of Tremhale and Stanſted, late belonging to this Priory; by the 20th part of a knight's fee, and yearly rent of 13 l. 10 s. (s).——Wymond Cary, their ſon, alienated them by licenſe 28 March 1566, to

William Glaſcock, and John Pavyott (t). Glaſcock dying 3 Decemb. 1578, was ſucceeded by his ſon——Richard (u); and he by his ſon ——George. The latter, by licenſe dated 2 March 1583, alienated the maner of Tremhall, the ſite of the Priory, and 12 meſſuages, 11 tofts, 12 gardens, 6 orchards, 120 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 20 of paſture, 20 of wood, and 3 d. rent, to Nicholas Rey, or Ray, Gent. His two ſons, John, and George, purchaſed in 1590, of Wymond Cary, the maner of Derbitots, and the Rectory of Thremnall and Stanſted, with 2 meſſuages, 1 dove-houſe, 2 barns, 2 gardens, 1 orchard, 60 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, 20 of paſture, and 10 of wood, &c. Their father dyed 11 March 1602, as did George 7 Novemb. 1608, without iſſue (w); ſo that the whole centered in——John Ray, the eldeſt ſon, who was an Attorney at law. He departed this life 11 Febr. 1638——Thomas, his ſon and heir (x), married Dorothy, daughter of Henry Glaſcock of Fernham Eſq; and had by her 6 ſons and 5 daughters. They lived together as man and wife near 52 years. He dyed 4 May 1692, aged 76, and ſhe 15 May 1701, aged 82, and are interred under one ſtone in the Chancel of this Church. His ſon——George, was educated at Chriſt's-college in Cambridge. He left the Rev.—Mr. Thomas Ray his ſon and heir, preſent poſſeſſor. Mr. Ray has built a handſome houſe, a little ſouth of the ſite of the Priory.

In the Priory Church were buried ſome of the Family of Montfichet, of de Vere, and of Barrington.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1596 l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is of one pace, but the Chancel hath a north iſle, or Chapel: the whole tyled. The Steeple, which is of brick, was rebuilt at the ſole charge of Sir Stephen Langham, father of Mary wife of Sir Thomas Middleton as above-mentioned; who alſo cieled, repaired, and whited the Church; and rebuilt the porch, in 1692. In it are 5 Bells.

This Church was given to the Priory of Thremhall; but when, is not certainly known. The Advowſon of this Vill, as it is expreſs'd in the record (y), was given to them by John de Lancaſter. Robert de Bokhyngg, the firſt Vicar, dyed 20 Aug. 1361, and is buried in this Church, with an epitaph. No certain endowment was aſſign'd to the Vicar till 1441 (z).

After the ſuppreſſion, the Rectory and Advowſon of the Vicarage were granted to John Cary, and Joyce Walſingham. Their ſon Wymond Cary, having preſented to this Church in 1562 and 1572, obtained licence in 1589, to ſell the Rectory and Advowſon of the Vicarage to John and George Ray. Theſe ſold them again in 1593 to John Rotheram Eſq; by whom they were conveyed to Edward Hubbard Eſq; in 1598. The latter mortgaged them to Miles Hubbard and the heirs of Thomas Thomlinſon: who jointly conveyed, in 1600, the Parſonage, Rectory, and Church of Stanſted, and the glebe lands and tythes to the ſaid Parſonage belonging, in the pariſhes of Stanſted, Bierden, and Ugley, and elſewhere in Eſſex, and the Advowſon of the Vicarage of Stanſted, to Sir Thomas Middleton; from whom they paſſed as the reſt of the eſtates.

From the Papers of the late Mr. John Reynolds, Vicar, it appears, that a modus is payable to the Vicar, out of the parſonage and great tythes of Stanſted of 12 l. per an. which in 1664 was 12 l. 12 s. And that Thomas Middleton Eſq; by his will, dated June 29, 1710, gave the tythe graſs of this pariſh, excepting his own lands and farms, to the Vicarage, for ever; worth about 10 l. per annum.

The Vicarage-houſe, which ſtood in Bradford-Street, being fallen down, Sir Thomas Middleton gave to Mr. Reynolds, for himſelf and ſucceeding Vicars, a piece of ground of about two acres, in a moſt delightful ſituation, upon which he built an elegant Houſe with all convenient out-houſes, made court-yards and gardens for uſe and beauty hardly to be matched. The Expence, according to his reckoning, amounted to more than 1000 l. of which, from his Patron and neighbouring Gentlemen, 200 l. was contributed: Sir Thomas Middleton 20 l. Mr. Middleton, ſon of Sir Thomas, 20 l. Henry Earl of Suffolk, Dr. Compton Biſhop of London, Sir Charles Barrington, John Cater Eſq; Stephen Middleton Eſq; William Kendall Eſq; 5 l. each; Mr. Ray five Guineas, Sir Stephen Langham 10 l. beſides gifts from other hands. Dr. Compton Biſhop of London, to reward him for ſo great improvement of the living, gave him the Rectory of Thorley, in Hertfordſhire.

12. QUENDON

The name of this place which is alſo written in records Kuenadana, is derived from the two Saxon words, Quena, or Cpen, a Queen, and dun, hill; qu. Queen's hill.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign Aldred was poſſeſs'd of it: and, at the time of the ſurvey, it was one of the twenty five lordſhips belonging to Eudo Dapifer [R]. From him it deſcended to the noble families of Mandeville, and Bohun, ſufficiently mention'd above, p. 545, 451, 452, &c. And, of the laſt, the following are particularly recorded in the Inquiſitions, as holding it of the Honor of Mandeville; namely, Humfrey, who dyed in 1298 (a).——Humfrey in 1361. and ——Humfrey, Earl of Hereford, Eſſex, and Northampton, in 1372 (b). This laſt had two daughters co-heirs, Elianor, married to Thomas of Woodſtock Duke of Glouceſter, and Mary married to Henry Earl of Derby, afterwards King Henry IV.

The Duke of Glouceſter, in right of his wife, preſented to this living in 1392. After he was murthered at Calais, Anne his daughter, married to Edmund Earl of Stafford, was his heir. But by a partition made in 1421, between the ſaid Anne, and K. Henry V. ſon of Mary her aunt, of the Bohun eſtates, this maner of Quendon, then valued at 11 l. 16 s. ob. qua. with a wood, fell to the King's ſhare. He ſettled it upon his Queen——Catharine, who preſented thrice to the living. Then it belonged to —— Margaret, Queen of K. Henry VI. And afterwards to —— Elizabeth Queen of K. Edward IV. It appears, by the London Regiſtry, that K. Henry VII, and after him K. Henry VIII, kept it in their hands; and, the Crown preſented till 1530 (c).

Thomas Newman Eſq; ſon of Thomas Newman of Wetherſfeild, was poſſeſſed of it in 1553; as he was afterwards alſo of a moiety of the maner of Rickling-hall; and of the whole maner of Fange: and departed this life 19 Febru. 1586 (d). He built the Houſe, which from him retains the name of Newman-hall: Anciently the reſidence of the Lord was near the Church, which houſe was pulled down by Mr. Newman when he built the other. In thirty two years were ten Preſentations to this living; Mr. Newman preſentented the eight firſt and the tenth, the Biſhop by lapſe the ninth.

The ſaid Mr. Newman married Anne daughter of Rooke Green of Little Sandford Eſq; remarried to Henry Smith of Creſſing-Temple Eſq; [See above, p. 114] and had by her Anne, his only daughter and heir, born in 1579, who brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband, James Wilford Eſq; He was ſon of Thomas Wilford Eſq; of Hartridge in Kent, by Mary, daughter of Sir Humphrey Browne; and grandſon of Sir James Wilford, who married Joice, daughter of John Barrett of Aveley Eſq; [S].

James Wilford had, by Anne Newman, Henry; Thomas; John; another Thomas: and five or ſix daughters, Anne, Mary, Elizabeth Dorothy, and Joice; whereof Anne was married to Edward Stafford, father of Henry Lord Stafford, deſcended from Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham.——Henry Wilford Eſq; the eldeſt ſon ſucceeded his father in this eſtate. And, either He, or one of his deſcendents held it in 1635.

Henry Wilford ſold it, about 1645, to John Benſon of London (e).

It belonged next to Samuel Gibbs Eſq; Alderman of London, whoſe wife Anne, daughter of Francis Aſke Eſq; dyed 22 Febru. 1649, aged 22, and hath an epitaph in the Chancel of this Church.

Thomas Turner Eſq; whoſe family we have ſeen at Widington, bought this eſtate of Gibbs: and departing this life 24 Febru. 1681, was buried in the Chancel of this Church with a monument. ——John Turner Eſq; his ſon and heir, of Widington, ſucceeded him. This gentleman, or his father, rebuilt Newman-Hall and encloſed it in a park. In December 1717, John Turner Eſq; ſold this eſtate to

John Maurice or Morrice of Walthamſtow Eſq; younger ſon of John Maurice Eſq; by Mary daughter of Sir Chriſtopher Lowther of White-

The purchaſer of this eſtate married Elizabeth daughter of Sir Geffrey Jefferys Knt. and Alderman of London, by whom he had a ſon and 5 daughters, four of which dyed before him. He himſelf departed this life 14 February 1734-5. In 1741, his widow ſold this eſtate to

Joſeph Cranmer Eſq; of the Six Clerks office in Chancery; and it belongs now to his ſon—Henry Cranmer Eſq; [See above, p. 447.]

Newman-hall ſtands about three quarters of a mile north from the Church.

A remarkable ancient Cuſtom of this Maner is ſet down in the Note below [V].

In 1253, Ralph de la Haye held in Quendone 100 acres of arable, 2 acres of meadow, a wood, and 52s. worth of work. His next heir was William ſon of William de Monkaneſey (f). This eſtate is now undoubtedly incorporated into the demeſnes of the Maner.

The ſmall pariſh of Quendon is rated to the land-tax only at 266 l.

The CHURCH conſiſts of a body and a ſouth iſle, but the Chancel is only of one pace: the whole tyled. In the Belfrey there is 1 ſmall Bell.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the Maner.

13. RICKLING.

The name of this pariſh ſeems to be derived from one Rickel, or Richel, a Saxon owner of this diſtrict when the diviſion of pariſhes was made, and the word inȝ, meadow, or paſture.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Earl Harold afterwards King, held Richeling: At the time of the ſurvey it was in the hands of William the Conqueror [W].

RICKLING-HALL, which is the Maner-houſe, ſtands about three quarters of a mile ſouth, from the Church.

The ſituation of it was well choſen. In the neighbourhood are the moſt delightful fields of the county called Southern Hills. The houſe has yet ſomething about it of ancient grandeur; The walls, are of brick, very thick; In the middle there was a ſquare court; the windows of which were long and narrow, ſet round with free-ſtone. A gate remains, arched alſo with free-ſtone, now turned into a parlour: it hath a ſtone wall, and one end very much reſembles a Chapel or Oratory. It ſeems to have been embattled; part of the moat is remaining: the artificial Mount on the ſouth-weſt ſide may have been a keep, or dungeon, which was left when the other works were razed: But of this we have no traces in hiſtory or tradition, except in general that in the wars between Maud and Stephen, and between K. John and his Barons, there was much havock of this kind made, for revenge, or for weakening the enemy. A Room here lately went by the name of the King's Parlour, where, I preſume, ſome Prince had been entertained: It has been a cuſtom in Qu. Elizabeth's reign, and in thoſe of K. Charles I and II, for Gentlemen to record ſuch honour done them in that manner. No building, of which a part is now ſtanding, could have been a Royal Houſe, but ſome remains or cuſtoms muſt ſhew it ſuch.

The earlieſt poſſeſſor upon record, from William the Conqueror to K. John, is Beatrix de Saye, ſiſter to Geffrey, and William, de Magnaville Earls of Eſſex, who, for want of heirs male inherited the great eſtate of that Family. Hence we may believe Rickling was more anciently in the Houſe of Mandeville. She dyed at her Houſe at Rikeling 19 April 1207. [See above, p. 546.]

We find it next in the ancient family of Walden, which undoubtedly took their name from the town of Walden; and is mentioned above, p. 497.

Humfrey de Waleden, who dyed in 1331, held this maner of Rickling, with ſeveral others [X]. He lies buried in this Church.——Andrew, ſon of his brother Roger, was his heir (g). He dyed in 1352, as did Joan his wife in 1361.——Thomas was their ſon (h): but we do not find the time of his death: nor doth his father, or grandfather, appear poſſeſs'd of this eſtate, the reverſion of which, upon the death of Humfrey, had been declared to be in the Benſted family. [See above, p. 495.] It returned again to the Waldens;

For John Walden, who dyed in 1419, held the maner of Rickling of Sir John Heron of his maner of Sabrichford, and the maners of Poun-cyns and Thurroks in Clavering; Catharine, wife of John Barley junior, and Margaret, wife of Henry Langley, were his ſiſters and co heirs, between whom the Waldens eſtate was divided [Y].

Henry Langley Eſq; had this maner for his purparty (i), and from him it took the name of Langley Wildbores. He dyed 20 Sept. 1458, as did Margaret his wife 9 March 1453, and both are buried under a tomb by the ſouth wall of the Chancel. —Thomas Langley Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe in 1471, held this maner, and half a tenement called Brenthall, which maners extended into Rikkling and Uggeley. He had alſo eſtates in Arkeſden, Elmdon, Matching &c. [See under thoſe pariſhes.] ——Henry, his ſon and heir (k), who dyed 22 Apr. 1488, held this maner of Rickling, of Sir William Say, and 300 acres of arable, with divers other parcels in Ugley, Bolington and Berdon (l) [Z].

Catharine his wife dyed 18 October, 1511, poſſeſſed of all theſe lordſhips. She left an only daughter, Catharine, then aged 36 years, and wife of John Marſhall Eſq; (m) which departed this life 15 Febru. 1519. And was ſucceeded by her two daughters and coheirs, namely Elianor, wife of Henry Cutt ſon of Sir John Cutt; and Mary wife of John, ſon of Richard Cutt (n). Mary dyed 14 July 1521, leaving a ſon named Peter. But John Marſhall held it by the courteſy of England till his death 19 Febru. 1522 (o).

Peter Cutt, juſt now mention'd, dyed poſſeſs'd of the maner of Rykling-hall, 22 Octob. 1547.— (p) Richard his ſon ſucceeded him. A partition was made of this eſtate between him and Sir Henry Cutt, ſon of Henry Cutt and Elianor Marſhall aforeſaid: ſo that this Richard, at the time of his deceaſe 19 Auguſt 1592, had only one half of this maner——Richard, was his ſon (q). Sir Henry dyed 12 Decemb. 1603, without iſſue; whereupon his ſhare fell to his couſin Richard. On his deceaſe, 4 April 1607, he was ſucceeded by his brother——William Cutts, then aged 46 years, and afterwards knighted: He dyed 16 Decemb. 1609, poſſeſs'd of the maner of Rickling.——Richard, his ſon and heir, then aged 11 years, held the ſame at the time of his deceaſe, 16 July 1626, and left a ſon named—John (r).

Of the heirs of Cutts this eſtate was purchaſed by Thomas Michell Gent. ſon of Mr. Samuel Michell of Codicote in Hertfordſhire (s). He married Mary daughter of . . . . . Pakeman, by whom he had Thomas; John; and two daughters.—Thomas dying unmarried, was ſucceeded by his brother—John that married Joanna, daughter of Mr. Robert Lowe of Much-Hadham in Hertfordſhire, about the year 1645; and had by her five ſons, and three daughters——Thomas, the eldeſt ſon and heir, married, in 1682, Sarah, eldeſt daughter of Mr. Thomas Aſhby of Albury near Hadham in Hertfordſhire, and had iſſue Thomas, John; and Sarah, wife of Timothy Brand of the Hide in Ingatſtone, Eſq; He dyed 21 Janu. 1712, aged 64 years, and his wife 2 Aug. 1719. and are interred under a tomb in the Church-yard of this pariſh.—Thomas, his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor, was deſigned for the Law, but became Paſtor of a Congregation at Stepney. He dyed 9 Febr. 1720-1. By Deborah daughter of Mr. William Snell merchant, he had a daughter, to whom by his will dated 17 Decemb. 1720 he gave 2000 l. for her portion; and left the reſt of his eſtate to his brother—John Michell Eſq; Attorney at law in Friday-ſtreet, London. He married Frances, daughter of Allyn Smith of Batterſea Eſq; by whom he had his ſon and heir—Thomas Michell Eſq;

The Maner of Rickling is divided into TWO PARTS, or Moieties. For beſides this Part, which belongs to Thomas Michell Eſq; there is another that belonged to Turner, Wilford, and Newman, lords of the pariſh of Quendon. By a deed of partition, made 15 Febru. 1575, between Henry Cutts of Bynburye in Kent Eſq; and Thomas Newman of Quendon Gent. it was agreed, That the ſaid Henry Cutts ſhould make a diviſion of the ſaid Maner, and premiſſes, into two parts, and that the ſaid Thomas Newman ſhould chuſe which part he liked beſt. Thomas Newman dyed 19 Febru. 1586, poſſeſſed of this moiety of the maner of Rickling-hall, with appertenances lying in Rickling, Ugley, and Berden (t). This Moiety was not one equal Half: for it is ſaid to be lett only for about 100 l. a year, whereas Mr. Michell's is 300 l. From which of the Cutts family Newman purchaſed it, we do not find.

Diſtinct Courts are kept for theſe two Parts, but at no certain times. If any tenants dye, or Copy hold-lands are alienated, then Courts are appointed, that the free-hold tenants may pay their reliefs; and the Copy-hold tenants may be admitted, paying their fines, which are uncertain. There belong to theſe Maners both a Court-let, and a Court-baron.

The following perſons have alſo ſome Lands in this pariſh; Mr. Joſhua Burr; Michael Trott; John White; William Chipperfeild; William Prior, &c.

Two acres of land, worth 20s. a year, were given to the Poor of this pariſh: of which the rent is diſtributed in bread by the overſeers.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 741 l. 1 s. 0d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, or All-Saints, is tyled as well as the Chancel: but a ſouth iſle adjoyning to the Church is leaded. In the Tower are 5 Bells.

This Church being anciently appendent to the Maner, paſſed with it from Earl Harold to the Mandeville family, and to Geffrey de Say; who

14. NEWPORT.

This little Town is about 37 miles from London, in the road from thence to Walden, Cambridge, Newmarket &c. on the river Cam.

It gives name to the Deanry of Newport.

There are in it two Fairs yearly, upon Eaſter-Tueſday, and November 17; and it was a Market-Town till Qu. Maud gave Geffrey de Mandeville leave to remove the Market from hence to Walden. However, there ſeems to have been a Market here in the reign of K. Henry III [A].

As to the origin of the name; we are told, that Port is generally found where a Roman military way has been, as at Newport in Bucks &c. There are alſo ways called Port-way; one particularly from Alceſter towards Birmingham. And indeed the Saxon Poꞃꞇꞅꞇꞃæꞇe ſignifies a common-way. But why ſhould it not be from a New Port, i. e. Gate, in the Foreſt, fix'd here? It hath been ſometimes called Newport-Pond, from a Pond at the ſouth end of the Town, now dried up (w).

In this Town there is a Toll-bridge, where Waggons pay two pence each forwards and backwards; higlers horſes one half-penny each; ſheep and all other cattle four pence a ſcore. But the following ſeven places are exempted from paying, Walden, Audeley-end, Great and Little Cheſterford, Wendons, Quendon, and Widington.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign this Town belonged to Earl Harold, afterwards King: At the time of the general ſurvey it was part of the royal demeſnes, and in the hands of W. the Conqueror [B].

The capital MANER OF NEWPORT ſeems to have continued in the Crown till the reign of K. Edward VI. and was granted by the Kings of England to ſeveral perſons at their pleaſure, with ample Privileges, Market, Fair, and freedom from toll.

Maud the Empreſs gave this Town to Geffrey de Magnaville, with licence to remove the Market hence to his Caſtle of Walden; with all the cuſtoms belonging to that market, in toll, and other privileges; and to turn the way from Newport near the river ſide to Walden. This ſeems to be the way by Shortgrove. [See above, p. 545.]

K. John granted a Fair here, in 1203, to Gerard de Furnivall: but, in 1207, he gave up his patent, and ſurrendred the town and caſtle of Newport to the ſame King (x); who, in 1215, granted this maner to Baldwin de Haverkert (y).

Richard Earl of Cornwal King of the Romans ſecond ſon to King John, dyed poſſeſſed of it in 1271 —— Edmund his ſon ſucceeded him (z).

Piers de Gaveſton had a grant of the maner of Newport from K. Edward II. in 1307. And, in 1311, the ſame King made another grant of it to John Revell, during his Majeſty's pleaſure (a). . . . Hugh de Audele, Earl of Glouceſter, and Margaret his wife, had it in the ſame reign: Piers de Gaveſton was her firſt huſhand . . . . K. Edward III. granted it to Henry de Ferrars, and his heirs male: to hold in capite, by the ſervice of one knight's fee. He dyed in 1343. [See above, p. 31. 414.] (b) . . . Edmund of Langley, duke of York, 5th ſon of K. Edward III, had it afterwards of the gift of Richard II. in ſpecial tail to his heirs male (c).——K. Henry VI, granted the keeping of Newport, and the Hamlet of Birchangre, to William Lynde, for the term of 40 years (d).

It did not go out of the Crown till the reign of K. Edward VI, who, 28 March 1550, granted this maner of Newport Pond, with appertenances, parcel of the Duchy of Cornwal, to Richard Fermor (e).

Sir Ralph Warren was poſſeſs'd of it at the time of his deceaſe, 11 July 1553: and of the hamlet of Bilchanger. As was his ſon—Richard Warren Eſq; who dyed 25 March 1597. And the heir of the latter was his ſiſter Joanna's ſon, ——

Oliver Cromwell, of Hinchingbrook Eſq; then aged 33 years (f). [See p. 434.] It was afterwards purchaſed by one of the noble Family of Suffolk.

Theophilus Earl of Suffolk enjoyed it in 1635. And upon the partition of the Eſtates, this was allotted to

The Right Honorable George-William Hervey, Earl of Briſtol: As alſo

The Hospital of St. Leonard, of which I proceed to give an account; and of the Hamlet here called Birchangre.

This is the part of the Town that lies beyond the Toll-bridge, on each ſide of the way leading to Walden. The Hoſpital, dedicated to St. Leonard, is on the right hand ſide of that road, by the river, and ſeems to be an old building; probably the original fabric.

The Hamlet of Birchangre, or Becangre, belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's time, to Horolf, and at the time of the ſurvey to Taſcelin a Prieſt [C].

The Hoſpital here, dedicated to St. Mary and St. Leonard, was founded by Richard ſon of Serlo of Newport, in the reign of K. John, for a Maſter and two Chaplains, under the peculiar juriſdiction of the Dean of St. Martin's in London (g)——It was endowed with lands in this pariſh, and in Widington, Great Wendon, Arkeſden, Elmdon, Wickham, Hempſted, Bumpſted-Helion, &c (h).

In 1345, John Flamberd gave the Maſter and brethren of this Hoſpital, 2 meſſuages, 20 acres of arable, 5 of meadow, 3 and a half of paſture, to find a Prieſt to ſing maſs for the ſoul of the ſaid John in the Chapel of St. Elene within the maner of Bonhunt that belonged to him. And, in 1346, John Quyntyn of Newport gave them 9 acres of arable, and 1 acre and a half of meadow, which were holden of Iſabella de Ferrers (i).

The Fair granted them by K. Henry III. and kept here on St. Leonard's day, Nov. 6 (k), was for the benefit of this Houſe. Since the alteration of the Style, it is on November 17. The country people call it Cold-Fair, or Colt-Fair. Here are many Welſh and other cattle ſold, and great quantities of Saffron, the product of the neighbouring feilds.

This Hoſpital, upon the Suppreſſion, was valued, at 31 l. 13 s. 11 d. in the whole, and 23 l. 10 s. 8 d. clear; and granted by K. Henry VIII. to Sir Martin Bowes, who had licence, 1 October 1545 (l), to alienate it to Sir Ralph Warren Alderman of London; from whom it went to—Richard his ſon; with the hamlet of Birchanger; and ſo to ——Oliver Cromwell, as the maner of Newport did (*). It belonged afterwards to the Earls of Suffolk: and then to the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Briſtol; who hath ſold it to the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Thomond.

The Maner of Shortgrove.

Shortgrove-hall ſtands moſt pleaſantly on the top of a hill, and is a ſtately fabric.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the owners of this diſtrict were two Freemen, and Uluuin, and Grichell: At the time of the ſurvey, it was holden by Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his undertenant Adelolf de Merc; and by Robert Gernon [D]; who had alſo Widington.

Some fancy that Shortgrove was anciently diſtinct from, and independent of, Newport; becauſe it is entered in a different place in Domeſday-book; is called in the Red Book of the Exchequer, near Newport; and in a Charter of K. Henry II. is ſtyled the Vill of Shortgrove. But this ſuppoſition is groundleſs, ſince it it is expreſſly ſaid, in a Rental in the time of K. Edward I, to be in the pariſh of Newport.

It belonged as early as the reign of K. Henry II. to the Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew near Smithfield in London [E]. They held it then under the Family of Merk, [ſufficiently mentioned above, p. 202, 423, 488,] and under William de Verdun: But by whom it was given them doth not appear. The demeſnes and profits of it in 1305, were 240 acres of arable, 6 acres of meadow, 5 acres of paſture; feed for 100 ſheep; 49 s. 1 d. rent of aſſiſe; the work of free and cuſtomary tenants, worth 36 s. ob. a year: Perquiſites of court 6 s. 8 d. for they had here view of Frank-pledge. How the Finderne family, of the neighbouring pariſhes of Depden and Widington, became poſſeſs'd of this eſtate, we do not find. But Sir William Finderne, who dyed in 1515; and his grandſon Thomas Finderne Eſq; in 1523, held the maner of Wedington Veyſies, alias Shortgrove, with appertenances, &c, in Widington, Stebbing, and Newport, of John Earl of Oxford, as of his Honor of Stanſted Montfichet, by the ſervice of the 40th part of a knight's fee (n). We have ſeen under Widington, that a conſiderable part of this eſtate lies in that pariſh. See it more particularly deſcribed there.

Edward Elrington Eſq; dyed poſſeſs'd of it 6 Febru. 1558. leaving —— Edward his ſon and heir aged 31 years (o); who alſo held Shortgrove-hall at the time of his deceaſe 4 April, 1578.—Edward was his ſon (p).

This eſtate was purchaſed afterwards by Giles Dent Eſq; citizen and alderman of London; who dyed in 1670. His ſon and ſucceſſor —— Giles Dent Eſq; married 27 July, 1675, Dame Grace Brograve, daughter of Sir John Hewet of Wareſley in Huntingdonſhire, Bart. and widow of Sir Thomas Brograve of Hamels in Hertfordſhire, Bart: She dyed 20 Septemb. 1704, in the 68th year of her age; and he 9 Febr. 1711-12, in the 73d of his age. Having pulled down the old Houſe in 1684, he built the new one.

It was afterward ſold to the Right Hon. Henry O-Brien, Earl of Thomond in Ireland, and Viſcount Tadcaſter in England. His Lordſhip added wings to the houſe he found here, and improved the Seat greatly with Gardens and Canals above the hill, which are ſerved with water thrown up from the river Cam below, by an engine contrived by Dr. Deſaguliers. His Lordſhip married the Lady Elizabeth Seymour, eldeſt daughter of Charles Duke of Somerſet, but had no iſſue. He departed this life 20 April 1741, and left by will this eſtate to his nephew Percy Wyndham Eſq; ſecond ſon of Sir William Wyndham Bart. by the Lady Catharine Seymour, next ſiſter to his Lady; who has taken the ſurname of O-Brien, and was created Earl of Thomond, 30 November, 1756.

The following perſons have alſo ſome Lands here. Giles-Knightly Dent Eſq; Mr. Turner Poulter; Samuel Burford; Stephen Haynes; Robert Crane; James Winter; Thomas Monk; John Pariſh; John Aldrich; Martin Baron; Richard Baker, &c.

Sparrow-end is a little cluſter of houſes, between this Town and Walden, about a mile and a half north from this Church.

At the end of this Town, in the road to Quendon, are the ruins of a Croſs that ſeems very ancient, and is mentioned in a charter of William de Mandeville (q).

Charitable Gifts.

Here is a good Free Grammar-School, with an endowment of 80l. a year, founded in 1588 by Mrs. Joiſe Frankland, widow, daughter of Robert Trappes of London, goldſmith, and by her ſon William Saxie. In truſtees.

A farm of 20l. a year called Gaces, given by Mr. John Covell and Agnes his wife, to help people that are decayed in their eſtates but receive no collection. In truſtees.

A gift of 13s. a year to the Poor of this pariſh, given by Mrs. Martin of Criſhall, and paid by the Churchwardens of Criſhall.

A gift of 5s. a year to the foreſaid Poor, by Mr. Stratton, paid by Thomas Martin of Sparrow-end.

A gift of 6s. a year to ſix poor widows, by Mr. Richard Coleman of Duxford in Cambridgeſhire, paid by his heirs.

The CHURCH, called the Queen's Free Chapel, and dedicated to St. Mary, ſtands on a riſing ground, and is large and ſtately, with north and ſouth iſles. To the Chancel, on the north ſide, adjoins a Chapel or Veſtry. The body of the Church and Chancel is leaded, the reſt tyled. A lofty Tower at the weſt end contains 5 Bells. This Church belong'd before the year 1353 to the Collegiate Church of St. Martin le Grand in London, which had the juriſdiction of the Vicarage. When K. Henry VII gave the collegiate Church of St. Martin's to the Monaſtery of St. Peter's; with it, the Church, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, came to the Abbey of Weſtminſter: And continued in it till, at the ſuppreſſion, it devolv'd to the Crown. It was afterwards made part of the endowment of the Biſhopric of Weſtminſter, but K. Edward VI. ſuppreſs'd that Biſhopric, 1 April 1550, and annexed this Church, with other Exempts, to the Dioceſe of London, the Advowſon of the Vicarage remaining in the Crown; in which it has continued ever ſince.

This Vicarage, which in the beginning of this century was reckoned but about 13l. a year, (r), received an Augmentation of 5l. per annum for ever from Geffrey Howland Eſq;—Giles Dent Eſq; gave a piece of land in Widington, and 100l. and Mrs. Rebecca Dent 200l. towards a further Augmentation of it, to which was added Queen Anne's Bounty.

The Rectory and great Tithes, which were veſted in St. Martin's le Grand and Weſtminſter-Abbey, belonged afterwards to Sir John Spencer, who dyed poſſeſs'd of them 3 March 1609; —— Elizabeth his daughter and heir was wife of William Lord Compton (s). They were afterwards in Giles Dent Eſq; and have paſſed with Shortgrove, as far as we can find.

John Heynes, Prieſt, gave a paſture of 2 acres here, and 2 acres in Widington: And John Siprian a barn, and 5 acres: Both for the reparations of the Church.

There were no leſs than 12 Obits founded in this Church (t). The Nightingale Family were is otherwiſe written in records Wicken, Wiken, Wickin, Wykyn, Wylden. Bonant, Bonnet.

15. WICKHAM-BONHUNT,

The addition of Bonhunt, from one of the maners in this pariſh, ſeems to have been for the ſake of diſtinguiſhing it from two other pariſhes in this County, named Wickham St. Paul, and Wickham Biſhop's.

The meaning of the Saxon word Wic hath been explained above, p. 173, and of Ham, p. 276.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Wickham belonged to Sexi, a freeman; and Banhunt to Aluric, alſo a freeman; But, at the time of the ſurvey, the firſt was holden by Giſlebert ſon of Turold [G], and the latter by one Saiſſelin [H].

Wickham, or Wicken-hall, ſtands a little way north-weſt from the Church.

And Bonhunt-hall near half a mile north-eaſt from the ſame.

Very little account can be had of this pariſh from records, or otherwiſe.

Theſe two maners ſeem to have been diſtinct till Qu. Elizabeth's reign; at that time they are reckoned as one. I find nothing of Wicken higher than the time of K. Henry VI. Of Bonhunt mention is made in 1340, the 14th of K. Edward III, when John Flambard of Bonhunt had licence to endow St. Leonard's Hoſpital at Newport, that the brethren might find him a Chaplain to celebrate maſs for his ſoul within his maner of Bonhunt in the Chapel of St. Elene there (w). [See above, p. 585.]

I ſhall lay together here all that I have further met concerning this maner of Bonhunt. In 1436, Thomas Grene releaſed to Walter Grene Eſq; and heirs, all his right in the maner of Bonhunt, which was lately given him by Catharine, wife of Thomas Daniell Eſq; (x)—John Greene, who dyed in October 1485, held this maner of Bonhunt of the King, as of his Duchy of Lancaſter, by knight's ſervice ——John Greene his ſon and heir was 12 years old (y). He had alſo in Finchingfeild one meſſuage and 100 acres of land called Colbayns. It belonged afterwards to the families of Bradbury and Nightingale.

As to the Maner of Wickham, or Wicken, it belonged for ſeveral generations to the ancient Family of Barlee, mentioned above p. 86, 570, and under Clavering: which held it of the King as of his Dutchy of Lancaſter.——John Barley dyed poſſeſs'd of it in 1445; as did——Henry his ſon in 1475 (z).——William, ſon of the latter, held, at the time of his deceaſe, 7 March 1522, this maner of Wylden, as it is called in the Inquiſition, and the advowſon of the Church.—Henry, his ſon, dyed 12 November 1529, leaving ——William, his ſon (a). This William ſold it; for a fine paſſed, in 1557, between

Robert Chatterton plaintiff, and William Barlee deforc', of the maner of Wicken, and Advowſon of the Church, the right of the ſaid Robert (b), R. Chatterton ſold it to

Matthew Bradbury, ſecond ſon of Robert, and nephew of Thomas Bradbury, Sheriff of London in 1498, and Lord Mayor in 1509, deſcended from the Bradburys, of Braughing in Hertfordſhire. Matthew, the purchaſer of this eſtate, married Margaret daughter of . . . Rowſe of Cambridgeſhire, and had by her William; Thomas: and Barbara, that had four huſbands, Sir Thomas Cutts; Sir Thomas Flud; ~~Sir~~ Edward Gille; and Wm. . . Covent. of Bexley Kent Matthew the father, at the time of his deceaſe 26 Febru. 1587, held this maner of Wicken-hall, alias Wicken Bonant, with the advowſon of the Church, and 8 meſſuages, 10 cottages, 8 tofts, 4 dovehouſes, 10 gardens, 10 orchards, 500 acres of arable, 100 of meadow, 200 of paſture, 40 of wood, 100 of furze and heath, and 8 s. rent: and the maner or grange called Bonhaunt, alias Bonant, and 1 meſſuage, 50 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 50 of paſture, 20 of wood, and 20s. rent: all holden of the Queen as of her Dutchy of Lancaſter.—William the eldeſt ſon, then 40 years old (c), married . . . daughter of Richard Eden of St. Edmundſbury, and had by [illegible]atthew; Wimond; Henry: and three d[illegible]——Mathew, the eldeſt ſon and heir, by Jan[illegible] wife daughter of William Whitgift of Clavering, had John; Francis; Matthew; Edward: and three daughters.—

He adventuring further than the duty of his place required, during the war in Spain, received a wound of which he dyed; Thomas dyed an infant: He had alſo two daughters, Anne, wife of John Barrell of Clifford's-inn Eſq; and Bridget, that dyed young. All theſe children thus deceaſing without iſſue,—Matthew, next brother to Francis, inherited this eſtate [I]. He left an only daughter and heir Dorinda, that was married to Mr. Joſeph Sharp. 16. ARKESDEN.

The Saxon word Arce, ſignifies an ark, coffer, or cheſt; and den, a valley. But how the firſt word is applicable to this place, I am not able to determine.

The name of it is otherwiſe written in records, Archeſdana, Arkiſden.

There are entries in Domeſday-book, of ſeveral Maners in this Pariſh, not to be diſtinguiſhed at this time; yet ſome of the old names are kept up. Three of them poſſeſſed by Geffrey de Magnaville are called Invaſions, or Encroachments, upon the King. So that we may ſuppoſe them to have been Terra Regis, the King's, however got into Geffrey's hands. The Inqueſt do not find them his own, and one particularly ſeized by the King, which they will not vouch. Two of theſe have very near the ſame name; the third is without a name only found in Arkſden.

The Names of thoſe Maners are—Archeſdana—-Wigghepet——Coggeſhales alias Wicgepets Choſſe, alias Caſhe, and Rockells—Eineſnurda—Peverells—Bledſtowes—and Mynchins, or the Maner of the Parſonage.

In the Saxons time, Aluric Wants was the owner of Archeſdana; Boſo, and a Freeman, of Wigghepet and Coggeſhales; Ulmar, of Eineſnurda; Leuuin, of Peverells; Godwin Sech, of Bledſtowes; and Grinchell, of Mynchins. At the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by Eudo Dapifer; Geffrey de Magnaville; William of Warenn; Roger de Otburville [K]; and Robert Gernon.

The Maner of Woodhall

is now the capital lordſhip in this pariſh; and includes not only Eudo's part, but alſo Wigghepet, Eineſnurda, and Peverells: which Eineſnurd hath been tranſmuted into Eynſworth and Wernefend, one of the ancient names it bore, alias Wykepitt. It is called in the Rolls the Maner of Arkſden and Woodhall, alias Chawdwells.

The Manſion houſe is good, and ſtands on a riſing ground, covered in former times with wood, from whence it took its name.

Eudo's part came undoubtedly by his daughter and heir Margaret to her huſband William de Mandeville. But, before the year 1165, K. Henry II. had given the Honor of Eudo to Henry, ſon of Gerold the Chamberlain; and under him Jordan and William de Arkeſden held four knights fees—wanting a quarter (d). This Henry was ſon of Warin Fitz-Gerold, Chamberlain and Treaſurer to K. Henry II. and married Ermentruda, daughter and heir of Robert Talebot of Gainſborough in the county of Lincoln. He left Alice his daughter and ſole heir, married to Robert de Inſula, or de Liſle, from whom deſcended the Liſles lords of Rugemont in Bedfordſhire (e).

Tit. 26.

Hence this eſtate came to be holden of that family, and to be called Liſle's Fee. Robert de Inſula, ſon of Sir John de Inſula, granted to K. Edward III. and his heirs his Court of Arkeſden in Eſſex, and other Courts in other Counties (f).

This Maner, and the Chamberlainſhip of the Exchequer, deſcended from Margery, or Margaret, daughter of Warin Fitz-Gerold, to her granddaughter Iſabell, daughter of Baldwin de Rivers, and ſecond wife of William de Fortz Earl of Albemarle (g). She appointed Adam de Stratton to act as her deputy in that office. All this is confirmed by a Preſentment at the Pleas at Chelmsford, in 1285, wherein ‘ the Jurors preſent: Item, As for what concerneth Serjancies, they ſay that Arkeſden is a member of the Serjeancie of the Chamberlainſhip of the Exchequer of our Lord the King, which Serjeancy Adam de Stratton has of the gift of the Counteſs of Albemarle, by the King's aſſent; and one John holds of the ſame Serjeancy 100 s. worth of land in the ſame Village by hereditary deſcent. And the Abbat of Walden holds ſixty acres of arable, which did belong to Atheland de Graveney, who held them of the ſame Serjeancy in the ſame village. And that likewiſe he held the whole Fee of Eyneſworth, which Ralph de Aſſart held in the ſame village of the ſame Serjeancy, but they know not by what warrant. And the Abbat hath a day, who comes and anſwers as above (h).’

Adam de Stratton was removed from his office in 1302; the half of the Uſhery of the Receipt of the Exchequer being forfeited by his felony.

This eſtate was afterwards in the Family of de Bayous, or Bayeux. For in 1357, Sir Richard, and Sir Robert de Bayous, Thomas de Bayous, Rector of the Church of Conynton, and Richard, ſon of Sir Richard Bayous, grant to Richard de Eſſex, citizen and clothier of London, and to his wife Maud, and their ſons William and John, twelve marks yearly rent out of their lands in Arkeſden, and to their heirs. In 1362, Ralph de Bajocis, Lord of Conygton, grants to William de Burton and others his maner de la Wode-hall in Arkeſden (i).—In 1365, Sir Robert de Bayouſe, granted to John de Newport and his heirs the rent of forty marks out of the maner of Arkeſden. In 1369, Sir Richard de Bajocis grants all his right in this maner to

Sir William de Burton (k). This Sir William, at the time of his deceaſe in 1375, held, jointly with his wife Alianore, the maner of Wood-Hall in Arkiſden, of the Duke of Lancaſter by knight's ſervice, viz. of the fee of Lylles;—Thomas was his ſon and heir (l). This is the firſt time we find it called Woodhall in records.

Still the Bayous Family continued to have an intereſt in this eſtate. For, in 1431, John Bayous of the County of Huntingdon, Eſq; releaſed to Richard Fox, Robert Wrytele Eſq; and others, all his right in the maner of Arkeſden (m).

Joane wife of John Hotoft, which dyed in 1445, held the maner of Wood-Hall in Arkeſden, of the King as of his Dutchy of Lancaſter.—John Nowers was her ſon and heir (n). [See above, p. 426.] How this came to Hotoft does not appear: In this age of diſputes between the Houſes of York and Lancaſter many eſtates were daily ſeized and granted to new lords.

Thomas Langley mentioned above, p. 497, and under Rickling, held this maner of Woodhall, and that of Peverells, both in Arkeſden, of the King as of his maner of Arkeſden, parcel of the Dutchy of Lancaſter; alſo the maner of Wiggepet, which extended into the pariſhes of Arkeſden, and Elmdon [M], and the maner of Cokſales, with a tenement called le Coſhe, and the maners of Mounteneys, and Dagworthes, in Elmdon, holden of the Earl of Hereford: with other eſtates [N]. He dyed in 1471, leaving—— Henry Langley, his ſon and heir (o); who held theſe maners of Woodhall, Peverells, Cockſales; and alſo the maner of Wiggepitts, and 2 meſſuages, 600 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 40 of paſture, and 80 acres of wood, in Arkeſden, Elmdon, Wendon-Loughts, Walden, and Wigpit, &c. He dyed 22 April 1488, and his wife Catharine, who had all theſe eſtates in jointure, in 1511 (p).

Catharine, their only daughter and heir, brought them to her huſband John Marſhall Eſq; ſhe dyed 15 Febr. 1519, and he 19 Febr. 1522. [See above, p. 497.] They had two Daughters,

Elianor, married to Henry Cutt, ſon of Sir John Cutt of Horeham hall in Thaxted; and Mary, to John, ſon of Richard Cutt (q). [See above, p. .] Elianor dyed 20 June 1537, poſſeſs'd of the maners of Woodhall; Peverells; Wiggepit, alias Rokells; Coggeſhall, and Le Coſhe: and the maners of Ryckeling, Machinghall, Mountenes, Daggeſworth, &c. Her ſon and heir Henry Cutt, jun. was then 4 years old (r). But her huſband enjoyed theſe eſtates till his deceaſe 14 Janu. 1573.——Henry, their ſon, was afterwards knighted (s).

Peter Cutt, ſon of John Cutt and Mary Marſhall aforeſaid, is alſo recorded, at his death, 22 Octob. 1547, to have held the maners of Woodhall, Wiggpett, Coggeſhalls, and Peverells; as joint-tenant undoubtedly; and a moiety of ſome of the others.——Richard was his ſon (t). [L] John Hotoft came into the maner of Knebworth in Hertfordſhire, in the time of K. Henry V; it is not known upon what title. He ſerved in three Parliaments of that reign for Hertfordſhire, was Treaſurer of the Houſhould to K. Henry VI, as his Epitaph in Knebworth Church ſhews, which Church he built. He adventuring further than the duty of his place required, during the war in Spain, received a wound of which he dyed; Thomas dyed an infant: He had alſo two daughters, Anne, wife of John Barrell of Clifford's-inn Eſq; and Bridget, that dyed young. All theſe children thus deceaſing without iſſue,—Matthew, next brother to Francis, inherited this eſtate [I]. He left an only daughter and heir Dorinda, that was married to Mr. Joſeph Sharp. 16. ARKESDEN.

The Saxon word Aɼce, ſignifies an ark, coffer, or cheſt; and ꝺen, a valley. But how the firſt word is applicable to this place, I am not able to determine.

The name of it is otherwiſe written in records, Archeſdana, Arkiſden.

There are entries in Domeſday-book, of ſeveral Maners in this Pariſh, not to be diſtinguiſhed at this time; yet ſome of the old names are kept up. Three of them poſſeſſed by Geffrey de Magnaville are called Invaſions, or Encroachments, upon the King. So that we may ſuppoſe them to have been Terra Regis, the King's, however got into Geffrey's hands. The Inqueſt do not find them his own, and one particularly ſeized by the King, which they will not vouch. Two of theſe have very near the ſame name; the third is without a name only found in Arkſden.

The Names of thoſe Maners are—Archeſdana—-Wigghepet——Coggeſhales alias Wicgepets Choſſe, alias Caſhe, and Rockells—Eineſnurda—Peverells—Bledſtowes—and Mynchins, or the Maner of the Parſonage.

In the Saxons time, Aluric Wants was the owner of Archeſdana; Boſo, and a Freeman, of Wigghepet and Coggeſhales; Ulmar, of Eineſnurda; Leuuin, of Peverells; Godwin Sech, of Bledſtowes; and Grinchell, of Mynchins. At the time of the general ſurvey, they were holden by Eudo Dapifer; Geffrey de Magnaville; William of Warenn; Roger de Otburville [K]; and Robert Gernon.

The Maner of WOODHALL

is now the capital lordſhip in this pariſh; and includes not only Eudo's part, but alſo Wigghepet, Eineſnurda, and Peverells: which Eineſnurd hath been tranſmuted into Eynſworth and Wernefend, one of the ancient names it bore, alias Wykepitt. It is called in the Rolls the Maner of Arkſden and Woodhall, alias Chawdwells.

The Manſion houſe is good, and ſtands on a riſing ground, covered in former times with wood, from whence it took its name.

Eudo's part came undoubtedly by his daughter and heir Margaret to her huſband William de Mandeville. But, before the year 1165, K. Henry II. had given the Honor of Eudo to Henry, ſon of Gerold the Chamberlain; and under him Jordan and William de Arkeſden held four knights fees—wanting a quarter (d). This Henry was ſon of Warin Fitz-Gerold, Chamberlain and Treaſurer to K. Henry II. and married Ermentruda, daughter and heir of Robert Talebot of Gainſborough in the county of Lincoln. He left Alice his daughter and ſole heir, married to Robert de Inſula, or de Liſle, from whom deſcended the Liſles lords of Rugemont in Bedfordſhire (e).

Hence this eſtate came to be holden of that family, and to be called Liſle's Fee. Robert de Inſula, ſon of Sir John de Inſula, granted to K. Edward III. and his heirs his Court of Arkeſden in Eſſex, and other Courts in other Counties (f).

This Maner, and the Chamberlainſhip of the Exchequer, deſcended from Margery, or Margaret, daughter of Warin Fitz-Gerold, to her granddaughter Iſabell, daughter of Baldwin de Rivers, and ſecond wife of William de Fortz Earl of Albemarle (g). She appointed Adam de Stratton to act as her deputy in that office. All this is confirmed by a Preſentment at the Pleas at Chelmsford, in 1285, wherein 'the Jurors preſent: Item, As for what concerneth Serjancies, they ſay that Arkeſden is a member of the Serjeancie of the Chamberlainſhip of the Exchequer of our Lord the King, which Serjeancy Adam de Stratton has of the gift of the Counteſs of Albemarle, by the King's aſſent; and one John holds of the ſame Serjeancy 100 s. worth of land in the ſame Village by hereditary deſcent. And the Abbat of Walden holds ſixty acres of arable, which did belong to Atheland de Graveney, who held them of the ſame Serjeancy in the ſame village. And that likewiſe he held the whole Fee of Eyneſworth, which Ralph de Aſſart held in the ſame village of the ſame Serjeancy, but they know not by what warrant. And the Abbat hath a day, who comes and anſwers as above (h).'

Adam de Stratton was removed from his office in 1302; the half of the Uſhery of the Receipt of the Exchequer being forfeited by his felony.

This eſtate was afterwards in the Family of de Bayous, or Bayeux. For in 1357, Sir Richard, and Sir Robert de Bayous, Thomas de Bayous, Rector of the Church of Conynton, and Richard, ſon of Sir Richard Bayous, grant to Richard de Eſſex, citizen and clothier of London, and to his wife Maud, and their ſons William and John, twelve marks yearly rent out of their lands in Arkeſden, and to their heirs. In 1362, Ralph de Bajocis, Lord of Conygton, grants to William de Burton and others his maner de la Wode-hall in Arkeſden (i).—In 1365, Sir Robert de Bayouſe, granted to John de Newport and his heirs the rent of forty marks out of the maner of Arkeſden. In 1369, Sir Richard de Bajocis grants all his right in this maner to

Sir William de Burton (k). This Sir William, at the time of his deceaſe in 1375, held, jointly with his wife Alianore, the maner of Wood-Hall in Arkiſden, of the Duke of Lancaſter by knight's ſervice, viz. of the fee of Lylles;—Thomas was his ſon and heir (l). This is the firſt time we find it called Woodhall in records.

Still the Bayous Family continued to have an intereſt in this eſtate. For, in 1431, John Bayous of the County of Huntingdon, Eſq; releaſed to Richard Fox, Robert Wrytele Eſq; and others, all his right in the maner of Arkeſden (m).

Joane wife of John Hotoft, which dyed in 1445, held the maner of Wood-Hall in Arkeſden, of the King as of his Dutchy of Lancaſter.—John Nowers was her ſon and heir (n). [See above, p. 426.] How this came to Hotoft does not appear: In this age of diſputes between the Houſes of York and Lancaſter many eſtates were daily ſeized and granted to new lords.

He dyed in 1471, leaving——Henry Langley, his ſon and heir (o); who held theſe maners of Woodhall, Peverells, Cockſales; and alſo the maner of Wiggepitts, and 2 meſſuages, 600 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 40 of paſture, and 80 acres of wood, in Arkeſden, Elmdon, Wendon-Loughts, Walden, and Wigpit, &c. He dyed 22 April 1488, and his wife Catharine, who had all theſe eſtates in jointure, in 1511 (p).

Catharine, their only daughter and heir, brought them to her huſband John Marſhall Eſq; ſhe dyed 15 Febr. 1519, and he 19 Febr. 1522. [See above, p. 497.] They had two Daughters,

Elianor, married to Henry Cutt, ſon of Sir John Cutt of Horeham hall in Thaxted; and Mary, to John, ſon of Richard Cutt (q). [See above, p. .] Elianor dyed 20 June 1537, poſſeſs'd of the maners of Woodhall; Peverells; Wiggepit, alias Rokells; Coggeſhall, and Le Coſhe: and the maners of Ryckeling, Machinghall, Mountenes, Daggeſworth, &c. Her ſon and heir Henry Cutt, jun. was then 4 years old (r). But her huſband enjoyed theſe eſtates till his deceaſe 14 Janu. 1573.——Henry, their ſon, was afterwards knighted (s).

moiety of the foreſaid eſtates in this pariſh; Richard dyed 16 Auguſt 1592, and his wife, Mary, daughter of Edward Elrington of Theydon-Bois 20 Janu. 1594.——Richard, their eldeſt ſon and heir [O], upon Sir Henry's deceaſe 12 Decemb. 1603, without iſſue, came into his part of theſe eſtates. But he dying alſo without iſſue, 4 April 1607, was ſucceeded by his next brother—William Cutts Eſq; then 46 years old (u); and knighted afterwards. He held the whole Maners of Wood-hall, Peverells, Minchens, and Rickling, with le Coſhe and Chawdwells; and a moiety of the maners of Wiggpitts and Coxſhall, and dying 16 Decemb. 1609, was ſucceeded by his ſon—Richard, 11 years old (w). He dyed 16 July 1626, leaving his ſon——John ſix years old (x). He was in wardſhip to K. Charles I. who preſented to this living in 1632, and 1634, during his minority. This John Cutts Eſq; married a daughter of Sir Richard Everard of Much-Waltham, Bart. His ſon and heir was ——Richard Cutts Eſq; who removed from hence to Childerley in Cambridgeſhire, having the eſtate of Cutts in that county given to him for name ſake, or as a diſtant relation: He left two ſons Richard and John; and three daughters, Anne, wife of John Withers of the Middle-temple, Eſq; who, with her huſband, lies buried in this church; he dyed in 1692: A ſecond daughter was married to John Acton of Baſingſtoke Eſq; Joanna, the youngeſt, dyed unmarried. Richard dying ſingle, —John became heir to the family. He was educated at Catharine-Hall in Cambridge; afterwards he went voluntier to the ſiege of Buda, and was made Adjutant general to the Duke of Lorrain. He came over, at the Revolution, Lieutenant Colonel of a Regiment in the Dutch Service; he ſerved in Ireland, had a regiment given him, and in 1690 was created Baron Cutts of Gowran. In 1693 he was made Governor of the Iſle of Wight upon the death of Lieutenant-general Talmaſh, with whom he had made a deſcent, where Talmaſh received his death's Wound. In 1694 he was made Colonel of the Coldſtream regiment of guards. He was wounded at the battel of Steinkirk; commanded at the ſiege and ſtorm of Venlo, in 1702; made all the campagnes in the firſt and ſecond war in Flanders, and ſignalized himſelf at the attack upon the Town of Bleinheim; but not being quite obſequious to the Duke of Marlborough, he was ſent into Ireland one of the Lords Juſtices, and dyed there, in January 1706-7. He was twice married; his firſt Lady's name was . . . ſiſter of Sir George Treby, a widow, the ſecond was a daughter of Sir Henry Pickering of Whaddon in Cambridgeſhire; having no iſſue by either, he ſold this eſtate which had long been in his Family to

Thomas Maynard of Bury St. Edmunds Eſq; Mr. Maynard preſented to the living in 1721. It was ſince purchaſed by

Richard Cheeke Eſq; Apothecary in Wych-ſtreet, London, and Treaſurer of Chriſt's-Hoſpital. He dyed 26 Decemb. 1740, aged 71, and was ſucceeded by his ſon——Robert Cheeke Eſq;

We have ſeen that the joint Maners of Arkeſden alias Woodhall, Peverells, Wiggepet, and Cockſales; and alſo Mounteney's and Dagworth's; remained united for a while in the Familes of Langley and Cutts. But 12 Sept. 1571, Richard Cutts abovementioned, and Mary his wife, had licenſe to alienate a moiety of the maner of WIGGEPITS, and Mounteneys and Dagworths, to Reginald Meade (y). [See under Elmdon.] His nephew Thomas Meade Eſq; one of the Juſtices of the King's-Bench, made a partition, of this eſtate with Sir Henry Cutt: And dyed 26 May 1585, poſſeſs'd of a moiety of the maner of Wiggepitts, and COCKSALLS, alias Rockets, or rather ROKELES: and of lands and tenements called Le Coiſe; and Slepes in Arkeſden and Elmedon.—Thomas his ſon (z), afterwards knighted, who dyed 18 Septemb. 1617, is ſaid to have then held the maners of Wigpitts, Choſſe alias Caſhe, and Cockſalls alias Rockells; by which is to be underſtood his Moiety of them: For Richard Cutt Eſq; who dyed in 1626, held a Moiety of the maner of Wiggpetts, alias Rockells, and lands called Cogeſhall and Chadwell (a)—John Meade Eſq; was ſon of Sir Thomas.

This part of Wiggpits and Cogeſhall's belonged afterwards to James Smith of Upton Eſq; who ſold it to John Hanchet of Heydon Eſq; He was ſucceeded by his ſon——John, whoſe ſon——John was the next poſſeſſor.

It took the name of Coggeſhales from an ancient Family mentioned above, p. 14, 162, and 372, &c. and that of Rokele's, from Robert de la Rokele, who held 3 parts of a fee in Wikepet under Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, in 1372. And either he, or another Robert de Rokele, was poſſeſs'd of this maner of Wygepet in 1421 (b).

The Maner houſe of Wigpitts, Coggeſhalls, and Rokeles, is down; but there are two Farms, and a wood, that ſtill bear the name of Rokeles. One of thoſe Farms belonged to Dr. Yardley of B. Stortford; and afterwards to his ſon, John Yardley, M. D. of Cambridge.

This Wiggepits is very reaſonably ſuppoſed to be one of the Encroachments which Geffrey de Magnaville held, at the time of the ſurvey, under the name of Wicgepet [P].

[O] We have the following account of this Family in an Epitaph in this Church. Richard Cutte Eſq; was brother to Sir John Cutte of Horeham hall in Thaxted, Treaſurer of the Houſhold to K. Henry VIII. He had a ſon named John, who married Mary Marſhall, and had by her Peter, father of Richard, who by his wife Mary Elrington had Richard, that dyed 16 Auguſt 1592. The children of this laſt Richard and Mary, were 4 ſons, and 2 daughters: Richard; William, who married Anne, daughter of Daniel Bettenham of Pluckley in Kent; Francis, that married Catharine, daughter of John Bondvile of Spanton in Yorkſhire; and John. The two daughters were, Barbara, wife of Roger Godſall of Buckenham-Ferry in Norfolk; and Dorothy, wife of Thomas Bendiſh of Steple Bumpſted. For ſome further account of the Cutte Family, ſee above, p. 439, 497.

poſed to have been what Goduin Sech held in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, and at the ſurvey was part of Geffrey de Magnavill's encroachments [Q]. It was holden afterwards of the Honor of Mandevill, parcel of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, by the ſervice of the fourth-part a knight's fee; in K. When and by whom it was given to the Nunnery of Campeſs, or Campſey, in Suffolk, we cannot find. But the Prioreſs held it as half a fee under Richard de Plaiz who dyed in 1327. And as a quarter of a fee in 1360 (d). It was afterwards holden of Robert Lyle: And the Prioreſs and Convent having demiſed it for a term of years to the Abbot and Convent of Walden, K. Edward III. in 1364 granted leave to the Prioreſs and Convent to releaſe to the ſaid Abbot and Monaſtery, and their ſucceſſors for ever, all their right in this maner of Arkſdon, as it is there called (e). Walden-Abbey held it under Sir John Howard, and the Veres Earls of Oxford, ſucceſſors of De Plaiz (f) [T], till the diſſolution of Monaſteries.

In 1538, K. Henry VIII granted it to Sir Thomas Audeley, with the Advowſon of this Vicarage (g), which had always gone with this Maner and Rectory. His daughter

Margaret brought it, among other very great eſtates, to her huſband Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk; who, 20 Decemb. 1562, obtained licenſe to ſell this maner of Minchon, otherwiſe Myncheons [V], with appertenances and the Rectory of Arkeſden, alſo a tenement called Sheperers (h), to Richard Cutts, Eſq; and from him they paſſed as the reſt of Cutts eſtate in this pariſh.

Calvert Bowyer; Alexander Forbes; John, and William, Lucas; Michael Law; Abraham Buck; John Rolf &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Arkeſden is rated to the land tax at 983 l. 1 s. 4 d.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, ſtands on the ſide of a hill, and is a fair large ſtructure. It conſiſts of a body, tyled, and two iſles leaded: The Chancel is only of one pace, and tyled. A Tower of ſtone at the weſt end contains 6 Bells.

The north iſle was built about the reign of K. Henry VII. by Thomas Alderton, ſtock-fiſh monger of London; who alſo founded a Chantry here.

WENDON.

Here are three contiguous Pariſhes of the name of Wendon, diſtinguiſhed from each other by the appellations of Great, Little, and Loughts. Thoſe diſtinctions are not mentioned in Domeſday-book, from whence it is reaſonably inferr'd, that they were then but one Pariſh.

The name is written in records, Wendon and Wenden; but from which of the following Saxon words it is formed I ſubmit to the reader's judgment. ƿenn, ſignifies a wenne, or tumor; ƿæn, a wagon; and ƿan, pale, white; ƿanꝺ, a mole: and ꝺun, a hill; ꝺen, a valley.

17. GREAT WENDON

in Edward the Confeſſor's reign belonged to one Freeman: and that it was the part holden at the ſurvey by Robert Gernon [W], is evident from the ſubſequent lords holding it of the heirs of Gernon, the Montfichets, and De Plaiz.

For, about the year 1165, under William de Montfichet, John de Wendene held three knights fees (i). And of Giles de Plaiz, who dyed in 1303, Alexander Bayloll held two knights fees, in Wendon in the Hundred of Weſt Hodelesford, and in Chingeford (k). Of Richard de Plaiz, who dyed in 1326 or 1327, Thomas de Berkeley held two fees in Wenden and Matching (l). His ſon —— Sir Maurice de Berkele, who dyed 8 June 1365, held this maner of Great Wendon of Sir John Playz, by the ſervice of a knight's fee (m). Elizabeth his widow enjoyed it as part of her jointure till her deceaſe in 1389; it being then holden of Sir John Howard, and Margery his wiſe daughter and heir of John de Plays (n). —— Thomas Lord Berkley, their eldeſt ſon and heir, granted a quit rent of 50 marks out of this maner, and that of Cerney in Glouceſterſhire, to John Edrike, and William Loveney Eſqres (o); and his poſterity do not appear to have enjoyed Gr. Wendon afterwards.

For to John Edrike, William Loveney Eſq; and Margaret his wife, and the heirs of this William, John Joce and William Coventre releaſed all their right in the maner of Great-Wendon &c: He lies buried in this church. —— John Loveney Eſq; moſt probably ſon of William, at the time of his deceaſe in 1442, held this maner of Great Wendon, of John Earl of Oxford [X]. His next heir was —— Thomas Cavendiſhe Eſq; (p).

Sir John Fray, conſtituted Chief Baron of the Exchequer in 1436, was poſſeſs'd of this eſtate at the time of his death in 1461. Agnes his widow enjoyed it after him; and dyed in 1478 (q). They had no ſon, but five daughters; namely Elizabeth, wife of Sir Thomas Waldegrave; Agnes, wife of Sir Geffrey. . . . ; Margaret, of Sir John Lenam; Catharine, of Humfrey Stafford; and Alice, of Henry Tracy, Eſquires [Y].

Sir Thomas Waldegrave had this eſtate in right of his wife. His ſon —— Sir William had it alſo after him; it being deſcribed as 4 meſſuages, 200 acres of arable, 40 acr. of meadow, 100 of paſture, 30 of wood, and 20 s. rent in Great and Little Wendon, holden of Sir Thomas Seymor: and dying 30 January 1526, was ſucceeded by his ſon —— George (r); who dyed in 1528. [See above, p. 231.] —— William Waldegrave Eſq; his ſon, had licenſe, 2 January, 1571, to alienate the maner of Great Wendon to John Barker, Gent (s). He dyed 26 May 1589, poſſeſs'd of it, with a water-mill, and the Rectory. —— Robert, his ſon, was then 26 years old (t). It came afterwards, by purchaſe we ſuppoſe, into the noble Family of the Earls of Suffolk. And, upon the partition of their eſtates, this Maner, and that of Little Wendon, with the united Advowſons of the two Churches, were allotted to the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Briſtol.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, conſiſts of a body, tyled; and two iſles; the north one leaded; and the other, half leaded and half tyled. The Chancel is of one pace, and tyled. In the Tower, which hath a ſpire leaded, are 5 Bells.

This Church anciently belonged to the Priory of Barnwell near Cambridge, founded by Pain Peverell in 1112. The great Tithes were appropriated to it, and a Vicarage was ordained to which the Convent preſented till the Diſſolution. Then K. Henry VIII, in 1543, granted the Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, to John Gate Eſq; (u); Gate ſold them, 17 June 1550, to Nicolas Rookes; and Rookes, 1 May 1553, to Thomas Cotton Gent. and Joane his wife. Theſe, in 1569, had licence to alienate them to William Waldegrave Eſq; and a precept was directed to the Sheriff to put him in poſſeſſion of the Rectory of Great Wendon with appertenances, 1 toft, 1 granary, 1 orchard, 40 acres of arable, 10 of meadow, 20 of paſture, and 40 s. rent in Great and Little Wendon, and Newport Pond; with all the Tithes of corn. &c. (w). Waldegrave ſold them to John Barker, of whoſe ſon Robert they were purchaſed by the noble Family of Suffolk.

The two Pariſhes of Great and Little-Wendon were united in 1662, by Biſhop Sheldon, at the petition of the inhabitants of the two pariſhes, with the conſent of the Earl of Suffolk Patron of both Churches. The Church of Little-Wendon, and the Vicarage houſe of Great Wendon, being ruinous, were both pulled down, and the Parſonage-houſe of Little Wendon being in beſt repair, remains to the Vicar of Wendons-Ambo; as he is ſtyled in the act of Union (x).

18. LITTLE WENDON

belonged to Ulmar in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; and, at the time of the ſurvey, to William de Warren [Z].

It belonged afterwards to the knightly Family of Fitz-Ralph, or Rafe, of Pebmarſh; [See above, p. 261.] ſometimes ſurnamed from thence de Pebeners &c.

William de Pebeners had free warren here, and in other parts, in 1338. He preſented to this Rectory in 1327 by the name of William Fitz-Ralph of Pebmarſh Kt. As did John Fitz-Rauſe Kt. in 1399 (y).

William Loveney Eſq; mentioned under the foregoing pariſh, preſented to this living in 1428: As did John Loveney Eſq; in 1439 and 1440. The latter held this Maner, and Advowſon of the Church thereto belonging, of Richard Skilfull Eſq; and Joanna his wife, in right of the ſaid Joanna as of her maner of Geddings in Clavering, by the rent of 10 s. per ann.——Thomas Cavendiſhe was his next heir (z).

Sir John Fray, mentioned alſo under the foregoing pariſh, held the maner of Little Wendon, with the Advowſon of the Church, of Joane, late wife of Thomas Crulle, in ſocage.——Agnes, widow of Sir John Fray, preſented to the Living in 1465 and having been remarried to Sir John Say, he preſented in 1477. She dyed in 1478.——Sir William Say preſented from 1482 to 1494 (a).

Next it came into the Waldegrave Family; as obſerved under the foregoing pariſh. Sir William Waldegrave had it; and after him—George his ſon, both holding it of the Counteſs of Saliſbury of her maner of Curleys in Clavering (b).—William, ſon of George, was the laſt poſſeſſor of it of this family. He and his grandfather Sir William preſented to this Living from 1515 to 1572.

John Barker Gent. mentioned under the foregoing pariſh, held the maner of WESTBURY in Little Wenden, and the advowſon of the Rectory, of John Palmer Eſq; (c). From his ſon—Robert, it hath paſſed into the noble Families of Suffolk, and Briſtol.

Two or three other Perſons have alſo ſome lands in theſe two united Pariſhes: They are rated together to the Land-tax at 652 l. 1 s. 0 d.

In Rates Great Wendon bears two parts, and Little Wendon one part.

The CHURCH ſtood on the left hand ſide of the road leading from Wendon-Loughts to Great Wendon [A]. There are no remains of it left. Several aſhes grow in the place where it ſtood.

19. WENDON-LOUGHTS, otherwiſe written Lofts, Lout, Loutes, Louth, Lowtes, Lendon.

This pariſh belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to Aluuin Stille, a freeman: At the time of the Survey, it was holden by Ralph Baignard, and his under-tenant Amelfrid [B].

Upon the forfeiture of William, grandſon of Ralph Baignard, as mentioned above, p. 427, 558, &c. this eſtate ſeems to have been granted by the Crown to the Fitz-Walter family. For about the reign of K. John, or K. Henry III, two knights fees, at Wenden in Eſſex, were holden of the Barony of Baynard, then veſted in the Fitz Walter Family, by Robert Lanhot (d): from which Lanhot ſome derive the appellation of Loutes, or Lofts.

The Maner of WENDON-LOUGHTS, the chief Maner in this pariſh, is one of the two knights fees, in Loutes Wendon, that were holden by Maud Launey, and Alice le Bottiller, under Robert Fitz-Walter, who dyed in 1328 (e). And under Walter Fitz Walter, who dyed in 1386. Thomas Lawney, and his partners, held it as one fee in Wendon-lout (f).

Sir Walter Fitz-Walter in 1406 had one knight's fee in Lendon Louth, formerly Benedict de Alder's, and one fee in Wendon and Wendon-Hoo, which the Abbot of Tiltey and Robert de la Rokele held (g).

About 1476 it was in Richard Kneſworth, who then releaſed to John Shelley all his right in his maner of Wendon Loutes, and in all his lands and tenements here, and in Elmdon, Arkeſdon, Langley and Criſhale (h).

Thomas Crawley of this pariſh Eſq; who dyed 29 Septemb. 1559, held the maner of Wendon-Lowghts &c. of Henry Earl of Suſſex, as of his maner of Wymbiſh;—Anne, his great-grandchild, daughter of Thomas his grandſon, was his heir (i).

Some years after, it was purchaſed by Thomas Meade Eſq [C]; who, having been bred to the Law, was called to the degree of Serjeant in 1567, and conſtituted one of the Judges of the King's Bench 3 Febru. 1578.—His father, Thomas Meade Eſq; was the firſt of the family who came into this County, and ſettled at Elmdon. By his firſt wife he had one daughter: and by his ſecond he had 3 ſons; and a daughter named Joane, married to. . . . Symonds of Whitford in Cambridgeſhire. The ſons were Thomas; Reginald, ſeated at Elmdon; and another Thomas, ſeated at Creſhall.—Thomas the purchaſer of this eſtate, married Joane, widow of . . . Clamp of Huntingdon, and had by her Thomas; Robert, and Matthew, which two laſt never married. This maner is not ſet down in the Inquiſition taken after his death, which happened 20 May 1585 (k). But his ſon and heir—Sir Thomas Meade, at the time of his deceaſe, 18 Septemb. 1617, held this maner Alſo he had large eſtates in Arkeſden and Elmdon. See under thoſe pariſhes. He married Bridget daughter of Sir John Brograve of Hertfordſhire Kt. by whom he had, Thomas, who dyed before him; John; Charles; George; Robert: and 5 daughters, whereof Joanna was married to. . . . Penruddock,—John, the ſecond, but eldeſt ſurviving, ſon and heir, then 28 years old, was knighted; and by Catharine . . . his wife had Thomas; and two daughters. He was buried here 18 June 1638, and his wife 16 Auguſt 1639.——Thomas, his ſon and ſucceſſor, married Margaret only daughter and heir of . . . Debney of Norfolk, and had by her 9 children. He dyed 13 May 1678, aged 59 years, and is enterr'd in this Church, with his wife.——John Meade Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir, married Jane daughter of William Wardour Eſq; and had a ſon John who dyed an infant, and two daughters, Jane wife of John Whaley of London, merchant, and Margaret wife of William Pytches of Creſſhall. This eſtate of Wendon Lofts was ſold in Chancery; and purchaſed by Nathanael Wilkes Eſq; whoſe ſon——John Wilkes Eſq; is the preſent poſſeſſor.

DODENHALL-GRANGE, is another Maner here. The manſion houſe, which is pleaſantly ſituated on the edge of the champian, ſtands in this pariſh, the outhouſes in Elmdon. . . . It is otherwiſe written Doddenhoe; and Duddinall, Grange.

Richard de Bayous, who dyed in 1341, held the maner of Dodenhoe of John de Redeſwell, John de Hoxenford, and the Abbot of Walden: viz. a capital meſſuage, 80 acres of arable, 4 acr. of meadow, 10 of paſture, of the ſaid Redeſwell; and 20 acres of arable, and 3 of paſture, of the ſecond; the remainder of the ſaid Abbot (m).

Between that time and the year 1406, it was given to Tiltey-Abbey: For the Abbot of Tilteye, and Robert de la Rokele, were found to hold one fee in Wendon and Wendon-hoo, of Walter Lord Fitz-Walter who dyed 8 Hen. IV. (n). Part of this eſtate, we ſuppoſe, lyes in Creſhall, on which account it was placed under that pariſh in the Abbey's Regiſter. [See above, p. 436.] [D].

After the ſuppreſſion of Tiltey-Abbey, K. Henry VIII, in 1538, granted Dodenall-grange to Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk (o).

Sir Giles Paulett was poſſeſs'd of it in 1565; and at the time of his deceaſe 6 Novemb. 1580.—William Paulett Eſq; was his ſon and heir (p). [See above, p. 574.]

Hugh Bonfoy Eſq; had it afterwards. He married Anne daughter of John Welles Gent. and had by her Nicolas, and Mary, both which dyed without iſſue: and——Anne, who brought it to her huſband Robert King, of the Middle-Temple, Eſq; He and his ſon——Hugh joined in ſelling it to

John Hanchet Eſq; and it is now in his grandſon—John Hanchet Eſq;

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Dunſtan, is a ſmall low building, but with a good proſpect over the country.

This Rectory belonged to the Priory of Leſnes in Kent, till their ſuppreſſion, when it came to the Crown. It belonged afterwards to Thomas Crawley Eſq; then to the Meade Family; and is now in the gift of John Wilkes Eſq;

20. LITTLEBURY.

The two Saxon words, Liꞇel, býꝛi, ſignify a little town. But ſome would derive the latter part of this name from buꝛᵹ, the ſuppoſed Roman fortreſs here on Ring-hill, one of their ſummer Camps. [See above, p. 553.] There are yet to be ſeen ſome remains about the mill, and in the orchard of an inn, at this place, foundations and ſubterraneous caverns like Roman work. This ſtands upon part of the Ikening ſtreet.

From the beginning of the ninth century, at leaſt in K. Edgar's reign, Littlebury belonged to a Religious Houſe in the iſle of Ely, inhabited by eight Prieſts with their wives and children [E]. Ethelwold Biſhop of Wincheſter, having bought the Iſle of Ely of Edgar in 970, turned out the eight Prieſts and their families, and put in an Abbot and Monks (q), Leofſine the fifth Abbot, with the conſent of King Cnute, let out the farms, or lordſhips, of the Monaſtery, on condition they ſhould find the Houſe maintenance all the year; Littlebury was to find two weeks proviſion (r). Edward the Confeſſor, grandſon of K. Edgar, confirmed this, by the name of Litelbirig, to Ely-Monaſtery, [E] Tho' the Popes had been for ſome time endeavouring to eſtabliſh every where the Celibacy of the Clergy, yet they had never been able to introduce it effectually into England till K. Edgar's time, when Dunſtan Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Ethelwold Biſhop of Wincheſter, ſo wrought upon that ſuperſtitious Prince as to have that unnatural Doctrine enforced and ſettled by the public authority of a Council, in 969. Vide Spelman: and Wilkins, edit. Concilior. Ethelred Rievallen. col. 360. apud x Scriptores, and all our other Hiſtorians.

with ſeveral other eſtates (s) [F]. It belonged to that Monaſtery, at the time of the ſurvey [G], and continued in it till its Diſſolution in 1539.

In this pariſh are three Maners. 1. The maner of Littlebury. 2. . . . that of Burdeux, or Netherhall. 3. . . . Catmere-hall.

The Maner of LITTLEBURY was holden, in the reign of K. Henry II, under Nigell biſhop of Ely, by Ralph de Berners, as two knights fees (t). And in 1210 or 1211, by another Ralph de Berneres, as two knights fees; and ſaid to be in Strethall, becauſe that was anciently a berewic, or hamlet, to Littlebury (u) [H].

Thus this Maner remained in the Cathedral Church and Minſter of Ely, and in the Monks that officiated in it, till the diſſolution of Monaſteries.

It was ſubdivided into two or three Maners; named, The Maner of Littlebury, or Over-hall; and the Maners of Burdeux, or Nether hall, Merry-Croft, and Marriots yard.

The name of BURDEUX, or Bordeaux, does not occur in Records till the year 1541. That is, when K. Henry VIII, Sept. 10, in the 33d of his reign, of his mere motion, granted to the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity of Ely, and their ſucceſſors for ever, in pure and perpetual alms, the maner of Burdeux and a portion of Tythes in Littlebury in Eſſex: among many other Eſtates in divers Counties (w).

As for the Maner of LITTLEBURY properly ſo called, we do not find, but that after the ſuppreſſion it remained in the Crown till 1600.—— Indeed Thomas Crawley Eſq; in 1559, and Robert Bradbury Eſq; in 1576, are recorded to have held lands in Littlebury of the Biſhop of Ely as of his Maner of Littlebury (x). But moſt probably it was of the maner of Netherhall.

However, in 1600, Qu. Elizabeth granted the Maner of Littlebury, with that of Hadſtock, to Thomas Sutton Eſq; the founder, or munificent endower, of the Charter-Houſe. [See above, p. 542.] By his will, dated 1 Decemb. 1611, he bequeathed theſe two maners to the Rt. Hon. Thomas Earl of Suffolk, upon condition that he paid 10000 l. within one Year after his deceaſe; if not, he gave them to his executors and their heirs for ever.——Thomas Earl of Suffolk dyed in 1626, poſſeſs'd of this eſtate, which paſſed to his poſterity. Upon the partition of the eſtates of that noble Family, this Maner, with appertenances, was allotted to

The MANER of CATMERE-HALL,

The manſion-houſe, now demoliſhed, was formerly called Gatemere, and ſtood where Catmere-End is, near Littlebury-Green; a double moat which encompaſſed it is yet remaining, two miles from Littlebury-ſtreet, in a field. It was once part of the maner of Littlebury, if not that Berewic called in Domeſday-book Haindene, as lying towards Heydon, or having been once eſteemed in that pariſh [I].

This belonged, as the laſt, to Ely Minſter. In the reign of K. Henry II, it was holden of Nigell, biſhop of Ely, as one knight's fee by William Peregrinus: And, in 1210 or 1211, by Henry Pelevino, by the ſame ſervice (y).

It was holden afterwards of the Biſhops of Ely by the noble Family of Nevill of Raby. [See under Clavering.] For Sir John de Nevill, of Raby, who dyed in 1388, held lands and tenements called Catmerehall of the then Biſhop. —Elizabeth, his ſecond wife, daughter of William Lord Latimer, remarried to Sir Robert de Willughby, held it in dower till her deceaſe 5 Novemb. 1395 (z).——John Nevill, Lord Latimer, her ſon dying without iſſue, This deſcended to the ſon of her firſt huſband by his firſt wife, ——Ralph Nevill, afterwards created Earl of Weſtmoreland (a). He dyed 21 October 1425, and his ſon John being dead two years before him, he was ſucceeded by his grandſon—Ralph, Earl of Weſtmoreland (b). As the Nevill family were ſtrongly attached to the Lancaſtrian intereſt [K], it is probable that this eſtate became forfeited, when K. Edward IV. aſcended the throne. At leaſt it was in the Crown in 1543, when K. Henry VIII. granted the maner of Cattemerhall, a water-mill, and a meſſuage in Littlebury, and the Rectory of Littlebury, to

John Gate Eſq; who had licenſe 14 October the ſame year, to alienate the maner of Catmerhall, with appertenances, to

William Bradbury (c). He was the eldeſt ſon of Robert Bradbury mentioned above, by Anne his wife, daughter of Infans Wyant, he had—— William, who married Elianor daughter of. . . . Fuller, and had 5 ſons, Robert; Henry;

Matthew; Thomas, and John: and 4 daughters, Barbara, wife of Thomas Paget, of the Middle Temple, Eſq; Elizabeth, of Richard Treviett, of Devonſhire; Anne, of Chriſtopher Fulmetby; and Mary, of William Webb. He dyed 26 Auguſt 1550. holding this maner of the King in ca. And 62 acres called Bourchiers, a meſſuage and 4 acres called Guyes, in this pariſh, of the Biſhop of Ely, as of his maner of Littylbury.—Robert his eldeſt ſon and ſucceſſor (d), married Margaret daughter of . . . Tyrell of Beches in Rawreth, Eſq; but dying 13 Janu. 1576, without iſſue, was ſucceeded by his next brother——Henry (e). He had two wives. 1. Jane, daughter of Giles Poulton of Deuſburgh in Northamptonſhire, Gent. ſhe dyed 3 Auguſt 1570. His 2d wife was, Mary daughter of George Nicholls of Walden. By the firſt he had William, and three daughters. And by the ſecond, three ſons, and three daughters, viz. Helen, wife of Benjamin Rand, of Wickford in Cambridgeſhire; Barbara, of Henry Mordaunt, of Thunderley Eſq; and Martha, of John Bettenham, of Pluckley, in Kent. He dyed 27 Febru. 1586-7.—William, his eldeſt ſon and heir (f), married Margaret, daughter of   Bettenham of Pluckley, by whom he had——Henry, father of——William Bradbury Eſq; living in 1635. He ſold this maner and eſtate to one of the noble Family of Suffolk: and from them it hath paſſed to the Right Honorable the Earl of Briſtol.

Mr. John Timworth; John and Robert, Driver; George, and Thomas, Buck; Thomas Kemp; Charles Shepherd; Thomas Lilly; William Wood, &c. have alſo ſome lands in this pariſh.

At a place called Chapel-Green, about 2 miles or more from the Church, formerly ſtood a Chapel. This Chapel-Green hath on it a few houſes; and is about half a mile from Littlebury Green: which laſt is often called in old deeds Stretley-Green, and ſtands above a mile weſt ſouth-weſt from the Church.

A Common of about 30 acres, called the Broom, lies by the ſide of the How-wood.

The Roman Camp in this pariſh, having about 13 acres incloſed with a deep trench; and the brick Tower on it; have been mentioned already above, p. 553.

Charities.

In the ſtreet, near the Church, ſtands an Almſhouſe, without endowment. Over it there is a very good Room, which is a Free-ſchool, endowed with 24 l. a year from lands and tenements in this Town, ſuppoſed to be done by Thomas Sutton Eſq; The Maſter hath alſo a good houſe.

Henry Harvey LL.D. in 1584, gave 10 l. per an. to the Poor of Stortford, and 6 l. per ann. to the Church-wardens of that Pariſh and Littlebury, to be equally divided between the Poor of both Towns, payable by the Maſter and Fellows of Trinity Hall in Cambridge (g).

Clerk's gift of 20 s per ann. to the Poor, out of a farm near Littlebury-Green: diſtributed in money to the Poor.

The Intereſt of 50 l. being the remaining part of 100 l. given by Thomas Sutton Eſq;

Three pounds per ann. given by Dr. Covel late Rector of this pariſh.

Here formerly lived a Family of ſome note, ſurnamed Bird. William Bird of Walden, Gent. had two ſons,—Sir William Bird Kt. Dean of the Arches, Judge of the Prærogative Court of Canterbury, and Maſter in Chancery; and—Thomas. The latter, who was heir to Sir William, and dyed 5 Septemb. 1630, in the 66th year of his age, had, by Anne his wife daughter of Robert Parkin of this pariſh, William, L.L.D. who dyed 24 Novemb. 1639, aged 31, without iſſue; and —Thomas. This laſt married Elizabeth daughter of Tho. Brand of Great Hormead in Hertfordſhire, Eſq; by which he had, Thomas, William, John; Elizabeth, Suſan, Anne, Martha, and Jane. Departing this life 11 Septemb. 1640, he was ſucceeded by his eldeſt ſon.——Thomas, living in 1664, who by Anne his wife, daughter of Edward Rowley of Cay's College in Cambridge, had Thomas, Anne, Elizabeth, and Suſan (h).

Here alſo lived the ingenious Henry Winſtanley, who built the firſt Light-houſe upon the Eddyſtone near Plymouth, and was killed by the fall of it in the great wind 27 Novemb. 1703. He publiſhed curious Prints of Audeley-Houſe.

The CHURCH, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, conſiſts of a body and a ſouth iſle, leaded, as is alſo the Veſtry. But the Chancel is tyled. The Tower is covered with a ſpire, leaded; in it are 5 Bells.

The Rectory, appendent to the maner of Burdeaux, is in the gift of the Biſhop of Ely: and a Sine cure. The Vicarage is in the gift of the Rector.

The Vicarage was augmented by Bp. Wren with 30 l. a year, payable out of the appropriate Tithes (i).

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 1345 l. 3 s. 0 d.

21. STRETHALL,

is otherwiſe written in records Strahall, Strathala, Strattehalle, Stratlait and Sretehall: which name is derived from the Saxon word, Sꞇꞃaꞇe, or Sꞇꞃæꞇe, a Street; by which word that people uſually denoted a Roman military way: this ſtanding near the old Ikening ſtreet.

Before, and at the time of, the Survey, this was a Hamlet or Berewic belonging to Littlebury, and was holden of Ely Monaſtery by two freemen, William, and Elwin; and then by Hugh [L]; ſuppoſed to be Hugh de Berners, who came in at the Conqueſt. His ſucceſſor Ralph de Berneres, in 1210 or 1211, held in Strethall two fees of the Biſhop of Ely (k). And John le Berner had free warren granted him here and in Dunmow, in 1252 (l). The latter paſſed by fine in 1262, one meſſuage and one carucate of land in Stretehall, with the advowſon of the Church, to Ralph de Berners (m).

There was then, and ſince, but one Maner in this pariſh; and the Manſion houſe ſtands near the Church.

Robert le Tibetott, who dyed in 1298, held the maner of Strattball, of the Biſhop of Ely, in capite by the ſervice of two knights fees.—Payne was his ſon and heir (n).

The 27th of May 1362, John Oxney and others, I preſume truſtees, releaſed the maner of Stratehale, and Advowſon of the Church of St. Mary of Stratehale, to John, ſon of John de Bayley, for his Life, with appertenances in Elmdon and Walden, except two natives of the ſaid maner, with their children born and to be hereafter born; viz. John, ſon of William in the Hale, and John, ſon of Henry in the Hale (o).

Adam Peche, ſtyled in the Regiſtry lord of this maner, preſented to the Living in 1383 and 1392. The Patronage only can for ſome years ſhew who were lords here. John Broke preſented in 1398 and 1400 (p).

In 1416, Sir John Kyghley, and others, granted to William Bredwardyn, and Margaret his wife for their lives, this maner of Strethale: and Bredwardyn preſented to the Church in 1433 (q). The reverſion was in Thomas Caundiſhe, ſon and heir of John Caundiſhe, citizen and browderer of London, and Agnes his wife, and the heirs male of the ſaid Agnes to be begotten. Thomas Cavendiſh Eſq; preſented to the Living in 1436 and 1438 (r). In 1458 a fine paſſed between the ſaid Agnes plaintiff, and William Caundiſhe deforc' of this maner and advowſon of the Church, the right of the ſaid William; who granted it to Agnes for life, remainder to Auguſtine Caundiſh Eſq; in tail to George brother of Thomas. Auguſtine Cavendiſh preſented to the Rectory in 1460. As did John Leventhorp Eſq; in 1467, 1484, and 1486. And John Gardyner Gent. in 1504 (s). He held this maner, and advowſon of the Rectory, of the Biſhop of Ely; and dying 30 Auguſt 1508, was buried in this Church with an epitaph.——Henry, his ſon and heir, was then 17 years old (t).

Thomas Crawley of Wendon-Loughts Eſq; who dyed 29 September 1559, held the maner of Strethall, and divers meſſuages, lands, tenements, woods &c. in this pariſh, Littylburye, and Great and Little Cheſterford, of the Biſhop of Ely, as of his maner of Littlebury; Anne, his great grand-daughter, was his heir (u).—Thomas Crawley Eſq; held a Court-Baron for this maner 28 September 1573 (w).

In 1635, Robert Newport Gent. ſon of Edward, had this eſtate. He was of the ancient Family of Newport of Furneux, and Brent, Pelhams in Hertfordſhire, lately extinct. The firſt of them that ſettled in this neighbourhood, was Robert Newport of Arcole in Shropſhire, who married the widow of . . . Green, of Sandon-bury in Hertfordſhire. By her he had John, and George.—John, by Margery his wife, daughter of Robert Newport of Furneux Pelham Eſq; widow of . . . . Hanchet, had 4 ſons, and 1 daughter. He dyed 1 May 1553.—Robert, the eldeſt ſon, by Jane his wife, daughter of . . . Barrington, Kt. and widow of . . . . Lucy, had Edward; John; and three daughters.—Edward, the eldeſt ſon and heir, was of Brent-Pelham and Sandon; and dyed 18 Auguſt 1624. He had ſeven ſons and ſix daughters: Robert above-mentioned was his ſecond ſon. Four of his ſons were ſent out in the ſervice of K. Charles I. and kept the field to the laſt. The eſtate never recovered its plunder and confiſcations, but was ſold one part after another and reduced to a ſmall pittance.—Robert Newport Gent. preſented to the living in 1669.——Leonard Newport Eſq; ſold Strethall to the munificent Edward Colſton of Briſtol, Eſq; who had a mortgage upon it, and foreclosed the equity of redemption. Mr. Colſton dyed 11 Oct. 1721.

Robert Carr of Iſleworth in Middleſex, Eſq; dyed ſome years ago, poſſeſs'd of this maner, and left children. It is now in his widow.

John Trigg; and Thomas Parry, have alſo ſome lands in this pariſh.

It is very ſmall, containing only about four farms, and a few cottages: and is rated to the Land-tax at 205 l.

The Church, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is of one pace with the Chancel; both tyled. The Tower contains 2 Bells.

This Rectory hath been all along appendent to the Maner.

Henry Woodcock, citizen and ſcrivener of London, gave to it, 24 Octob. 1515, a quit-rent of ſignifies Elm-hill; which name was given to this place on account of the plenty of Elms formerly growing hereabouts.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Almar, and Brictulf, two freemen, were poſſeſs'd of this pariſh, and afterwards Ingelric. At the time of the ſurvey it was holden by Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant Roger de Sumeri [M]. Hence it became part of the Honor of Bologne: and the Fees that belonged to it in this pariſh, in 1210 or 1211, were as follows. Milo de Sumeri, grandſon of Roger; Roger de Nevill; and Serlo de Mercy, held one fee each, in Elmden: and Leticia de Pinkeni half a fee (y).

There are ſix Maners, or more, mentioned in records as lying in this pariſh: namely thoſe of Elmdon,—Dagworths—Mounteneys—Pigots—Leebury.—Cockſales, which has ſome lands here, and more in Arkeſden—and Crawleybury more properly placed under Criſhall.—The Rectory, or Parſonage, was alſo a maner. But Courts have been diſuſed, except in thoſe of Elmdon and Leebury; the firſt of which has abſorbed theſe diſtinctions of Dagworths, Mounteneys, and Pigots, taken up from different owners.

The Maner of ELMDON, or ELMDON-BURY, is the chief Maner in this pariſh; and otherwiſe called in records Dagworth, alias Dagleburths, alias Dagford, alias Dagos, alias, Mounteneys.

The manſion houſe ſtands near the Church.

Elmdon-bury is what Roger de Sumeri, and his grandſon Milo, held, as above-mentioned. They were undoubtedly a branch of the noble Family of this name, Barons of the realm in K. Stephen's reign, which had lands in Haſelingfeild in Cambridgeſhire (z).

All that we find further concerning this family as interested in this Maner, is, that, in 1300, Petronill wife of Henry de Sumeri impleaded Alice wife of William Fitz-Warin, for the third part, of a meſſuage, one wind-mill, 306 acres of arable, 6 acr. of meadow, 8 of paſture, 30 of wood, and 5l. 10s. rent in Elmedon and Criſtehale, which ſhe claimed in dower [N].

I ſhall now ſet down what eſpecially occurs in records, of the Dagworths, Mounteneys &c. while they had part of this eſtate, till the whole centered in the Furnivall Family about the latter end of K. Edward the Third's reign.

Oſbert Daggeworth, mention'd above. p. 155, had free-warren in Bradwell, and Dageworth, but this laſt ſeems to have been that in Pebmarſh. See p. 261.—John de Dagworth, at the time of his deceaſe in 1332, held the maner of Bradewell, and a certain tenement in the village of Elmedon, of the King of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of a quarter of a knight's fee, and attendance at St. Martin's London at Michaelmaſs and Eaſter. His ſon——Nicolas de Daggeworth (a) had it after him. And——Thomaſine, wife of John de Dagworth Kt. in 1362 (b).

As to Mounteney's. Robert de Mounteney, in 1286, held the maner of Elmdon of the King of the Honor of Bologne, and the maner of Ging-Mountney;——Ernulph was his ſon and heir (c). [See above, p. 43.]

Ranulph de Montchenſi held of the Honor of Bologne, in 1310, the eighth part of the maner of Elmdon;——John was his ſon (d).

Nicolas de Segrave, lord of the neighbouring maners of Heydon and Criſhale, held this maner of Elmedon of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of the 4th part of a knight's-fee. He dyed in 1321, and——Maud, wife of Edmund de Bohun, was his daughter and Heir (e).

Moſt of theſe Maners came, ſoon after, by marriage into the noble Family of Furnivall. For William de Furnivall having married Thomaſine daughter and heir of Sir John de Dagworth, he had in her right the maner of Dagworth in Suffolk, and the maners of Dagworth in Elmedon, &c.

At the time of his deceaſe, 12 April 1383, he held the maner of Dagworthe in the village of Elmdon of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of doing ſuit at the Court of the Honor of Peverell at Witham. He held alſo the maners of Crawelebury in Elmdon and Cryſſal and Cog-

Joane was married to Thomas de Nevill, brother to Ralph Lord Nevill firſt Earl of Weſtmoreland (f); who upon that account was ſummoned to Parliament by the title of Lord Furnivall. He had by her two daughters Maud and Joane; Maud was married to John Talbot, afterwards the famous Earl of Shrewſbury (g): and Joane to Hamo Belknapp.

In 1430, Thomas Knivet of Stanway, Eſq; releaſed to Richard Fox Eſq; and others, all his right to this maner of Dagworth in Elmdon, and Lands in Creſhall (h).

Theſe Maners were afterwards in the Families of Langley, Marſhall, Cutts, and Mead, mentioned under Arkeſden, Wendon-Loughts &c.—Thomas Langley, who dyed in 1471, held of Henry Stafford Earl of Hereford, &c. the maners of Mounteneys; Dagworths; and Cokſales, in Elmdon, with a tenement called Le Coſhe [O], ſaid in one place to be a toſt, with 80 acres of arable (i).——Lady Catharine Langley dyed poſſeſs'd of the ſame in 1511 (k). And her daughter Catharine Marſhall in 1517.

As did his ſon——Thomas Meade Kt. 18 September 1617, poſſeſſed of the moiety of theſe maners. His ſucceſſors were—Sir John Meade, who dyed in 1638: and—Sir Thomas Meade Eſq; 13 May 1678, whoſe two daughters and coheirs, ſold the maner of Elmdon-Bury, comprehending Mountneys, Dagworths, and Pigots, to Richard Chamberlain Eſq; And, after his deceaſe, they were purchaſed in Chancery by Nathanael Wilkes Eſq; as Wendon-Loughts, and are now in his ſon—John Wilkes Eſq;

PIGOTS, purchaſed with the reſt, was ſo named from a Family who reſided at Heydon, of whom the Pigots of Baſſingborn deſcended. It is now but a farm-houſe moated in, by the ſide of the road from Elmdon-ſtreet to the Champian. Peter Pycott, who dyed in 1286, held in Elmedon 140 acres of arable, two of paſture, four of wood, and 7 s. rent of aſſize of the King in capite of the Honor of Bologne, by the fourth part of a knights-fee, and reſorting twice a year to St. Martin's London, or paying 2 s. for default to the Court of the Honor of Bologne. —John was his ſon and heir (n). This eſtate came from the Dagworths to the Furnivalls.

About the reign of K. Henry VIII, Reginald Whitebread held a capital meſſuage called Pigots of the Honor of Bologne; Thomas Crawley was his next heir.

In 1554, the latter paſſed by fine this maner to Thomas Meade Eſq; who dyed poſſeſs'd of it 26 May 1585: and ſo did—Sir Thomas Meade 18 Septemb. 1617 (o).

LEEBURY,

is another capital Maner in this pariſh.

The manſion houſe, ſome part of which is very old, ſtands by the ſide of the road leading from this pariſh to Littlebury-green.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Brictulf, a freeman, held this Lea, as it was then called: and at the ſurvey it belonged, as the reſt of this pariſh, to Euſtace Earl of Bologne [P].

Thomas Phelip of Baldock, who dyed in 1341, left Elizabeth his daughter and heir two years old [Q]: Iſabella his wife, that held jointly with him this maner of Leebury, of the King, as of the Honor of Bologne, by the ſervice of the 4th part of one knight's-fee, lived till 1371 (p), and her heir was her grand-daughter Julian, wife of Robert Belknapp, daughter of the ſaid Elizabeth (q). Hamon Belknap, who held it jointly with Joane his wife, dyed in 1428.——John was his ſon and heir (r). William Belknap, another ſon of Hamon, with Joane his wife, releaſed all their right in the maner of Leebury in Elmdon, Chiſhall, Wendon, Arkſden, and Creſhall, to Thomas Grene and his heirs, in the year 1445 (s).

Leebury, was afterwards in the Family of Meade, and ſold by the daughters and co-heirs of John Meade Eſq; to

John Hanchet Eſq; whoſe ſon——John, ſucceeded him: and one of his two daughters hath brought it in marriage to Thomas Fuller of Walden Gent.

Mr. John Lucas; Robert Burton; Jerem. Hoye; Joſeph Mould; John Brann; Joſeph Mole &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Thomas Crawley Eſq; who dyed 30 Sept. 1559, and is buried in the Chancel of this Church, founded a ſchool here in 1558, and endowed it with fourteen pounds a year for ever, chargeable upon the impropriate Tythes, and all his other eſtates in Elmdon. The Maſter is to be a Prieſt, and to teach gratis Grammar and good manners,

The Churchwardens of this pariſh receive annually at Eaſter Twenty Shillings from the pariſh of Criſſhall, being part of the gift of Mrs. Martin. See under Criſſhall.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Nicolas, ſtands on a riſing ground. Both Church and Chancel have two iſles; which are leaded, except the north iſle, or Chapel, of the Chancel: The reſt is tyled. A Tower at the weſt end contains 4 Bells.

This Church was given by Robert de Lucy, in the reign of K. Henry II, to the Priory of Leſnes in Kent, founded by Richard de Lucy Chief Juſtice of England (t). It is not ſaid how Robert de Lucy became poſſeſſed of this Church.

The Rectory, or great Tithes, were appropriated to that Priory, in 1424; and a Vicarage ordained and endowed [R], of which the Convent continued Patrons till their Suppreſſion in 1525. Then K. Henry VIII. granted it, amongſt others, to Cardinal Woolſey to found and endow his Colleges at Oxford and Ipſwich. Upon his premunire it was forfeited to the Crown, and the Rectory with the Advowſon were given by K. Henry VIII. to the Convent of Sheen in Surrey. They leaſed it out for a term to Thomas Crawley Eſq; After the leaſe expired, K. Edw. VI. granted it to Thomas Crawley Eſq; again (u), who dyed poſſeſs'd of this maner and Rectory of Elmdon, 29 Septemb. 1559 (w). It was afterwards in Thomas Meade Serjeant at Law, who preſented to the Living in 1568. It came to the Family of Bendiſh, tradition ſaith, by Marriage [S]. Sir Tho. Bendiſh ſold it to Mr. Nicolas Penning Merchant. Of him, or his heirs, it was purchaſed by John Hanchet Eſq; of Creſhall-Grange.

It belonged afterwards to Richard Chamberlain Eſq; and was purchaſed in 1739 by Nathanael Wilkes Eſq; above-mentioned.

HEYDON,

is the north-weſt corner of this County, bordering upon the Counties of Hertford and Cambridge.

It is otherwiſe written in records Haidon, Heidone, Haidena, Eydone: And the name ſeems to be derived from the two Saxon words, Heah, high, and ðun, hill.

Aluuin, a freeman, was poſſeſs'd, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, of this pariſh; which, at the time of the ſurvey, belonged to Robert ſon of Roſcelin [T].

Haidon-bury, the maner houſe, ſtands a little way north from the Church, with a fine extenſive proſpect.

This Maner hath had for many years the Honor of being holden by Grand Serjeancy; that is, by the Lords of it ſerving, or waiting at the Coronation of the Kings of England, with a Baſon and Towel, to waſh the King's hands before Dinner, and to have for their fee the Baſon, Ewer, and Towel.

Anciently, this Maner was in two Moieties, and in two Lords. One of the Lords held a Baſon, the other a Towel, for the King, to waſh his hands. From the reign of K. Henry II, which is as high as any Records go, to the latter end of K. Edward II, the Picot family were poſſeſs'd of this eſtate, as appears by the inſtances given below [V].

This family of Picot was originally of Ratcliffe in Nottinghamſhire, which lordſhip, and the adjoyning one of Kingſton, of the old feoffment, they held, in K. Henry the firſt's time, of the King in capite by the Serjeancy of keeping Hawks for him.——Peter Picot had them in the time of K. Henry II.——John, and Peter, in K. John's reign.——Thomas, ſon and heir of the laſt, was ſometimes ſtyled Thomas de Hedon, becauſe of his reſidence at his maner of Heydon here. His ſon was—Sir Peter Picot (x). Either He, or another—Peter Pycott, who dyed in 1286, held in Eyden, as this pariſh is there called, a capital meſſuage, 164 acres of arable, and two of meadow and paſture, and rent of aſſiſe, of the King in capite, by the ſervice of holding a baſon before the King, at his Coronation [W]. He held alſo lands in Elmedon.—John, his ſon and heir (y), of Heydon, held there, in capite, of the King 1 meſſuage, with a garden and dove houſe, 200 acres of arable, 1 acre of meadow, two and a half of paſture, two and a half of wood, and 50 s. &c. rent; by the Serjeancy of holding a towel before the King on his Coronation-day, and carrying it away [X]. The Advowſon of the Church belonged to the ſaid Maner. He had two ſons——John, and——Peter, who both dyed without iſſue.

The latter held, in Heydon, at the time of his deceaſe in 1313, a capital meſſuage, 220 acres of arable 40 acres of uncultivated ground, 1 acre of meadow, 8 of paſture, and 2 of buſhes, and the ſervices of ſeveral free and cuſtomary tenents, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of giving the King water to waſh his hands on his Coronation day [Y]. His next heirs were two ſiſters, Margery, married to . . . Senevill, by whom ſhe had a ſon named Simon de Senevill: and——Iſabella Touke (z).

Nicolas de Segrave, mentioned under the foregoing pariſh, who dyed in 1321, held this Maner of the King in ca. by the Serjeancy of holding a Baſon and a Towel, at Court on the King's Coronation-day [A].—Maud his only daughter and heir was married to Edmund de Bohun (a).

In 1340, Alice, wife of Warine de Liſle, held a moiety of the maner of Heydon, by the ſervice of carrying Baſins at the King's Coronation (b) [B]. The ſame year——Richard de Keleſhall purchaſed the Advowſon of the Church of Heydon of Walter, brother and heir of William de Cliff; and one carucate of land, to which the Advowſon belonged; and he held them of the Crown by the ſervice of holding one Towel at the King's Coronation [C]. He dyed in 1356 (c). His ſon—John Kelſall, at the time of his deceaſe in 1367, was poſſeſs'd of this maner by the ſervice of holding one baſin and ewer at the King's Coronation (d) [D]. This laſt John enfeoffed

John de Wiltſhire, citizen of London, and Joane his wife, and their heirs in the maner of Heydone, which he held of the King in ca. by the grand Serjeancy of holding a baſin and one ewer at the King's Coronation, and by homage and fealty (e) [E]. This John, by reaſon of certain tenements, heretofore the poſſeſſion of John Picot, being a moiety of the maner of Heydon, and holden in Serjeancy, had his right to hold a Towel for the King to wipe with, when he went to meat, found and allowed, at the Coronation of K. Richard II, and Edmund Earl of Kent appointed to ſerve as his Deputy (f). He dyed in 1393 (g), and beſides this maner held a tenement called ARMORERS, of about eighty acres of arable, half an acre of paſture, and 4 of wood.——Richard his ſon and heir (h), dyed in 1420, poſſeſs'd of the maner of Heydon-Bury, and a meſſuage called SHENFELDS in Heydon and Great-Chiſhall holden of the Earl of Stafford;——Nicolas Wiltſhire his ſon at the time of his deceaſe in 1462 held Heydon-Bury with 1 toft and 5 acres called Pygotts, and Shenfelles, and Armorers, all three formerly holden of the maner aforeſaid, but now parcel of it.—John his ſon and heir was then 28 years old (i).

John Aſplond, who dyed in 1477, held Heydon-Bury, and the Advowſon of the Church, with 2 carucates of arable, 6 acres of meadow, 20 of paſture, 8 of wood, and 5 acres; called Pigotts; and two tenements called Armorers, and Shenveles.—John was his ſon and heir (k).——R~~ichard~~ Robert Aſplond, by licence dated 14 Aug. 1538, did alienate the maner and Advowſon of Heydon to John Sterne and others in truſt (l).—Robert Aſpland had licence 25 Novemb. 1556 to alienate it to Thomas Gray and others, with intention of being regranted to him: and 27 Auguſt 1563, the ſaid

Robert did alienate it to George Gille (m). Francis Gille ſenior, and Francis his ſon, and Anne his wife had licence, 1 April 1587, to alienate the maner of Heydon to Robert Middleton Gent. and Thomas Hall Gent. in truſt for the ſaid Anne (n).

Sir Stephen Soame Kt. is the next Lord of Heydon that I find. This Family was originally of Norfolk. Thomas Soame of Beteley in that county Eſq; married Anne only daughter and heir of Thomas Knighton, of Little Bradley in Suffolk Eſq; [deſcended by his maternal anceſtors from the ancient families of Underhill, Caldebeck, and Peche,] widow of Richard le Hunt of Huntshall in Bradley; and had by her 14 children. She dyed 23 Decemb. 1598. Thomas, the eldeſt ſon, was of Betley, and L. Bradley.

Stephen, the ſecond ſon, was a citizen and grocer of London, Alderman of that city, Sheriff in 1589, knighted, Lord Mayor in 1598, and Mayor of the Staple almoſt 20 years. He purchaſed this and ſeveral other conſiderable eſtates, Thirlow as we believe among the reſt, and departing this life at Thirlow-hall, [which he had built] 23 May 1619, aged 75 years, was buried in that Church; with Anne his wife, daughter of William Stone of Segenhoe in Bedfordſhire Eſq; which dyed 20 Auguſt 1622 (p). They had 6 ſons and 5 daughters. Sir William, the eldeſt ſon, of Little Thirlow, dyed in 1655; whoſe ſecond ſon William was created a Baronet 5 Febru. 1684, with remainder to the heirs male of his uncle Stephen. This——Stephen, ſecond ſon of Sir Stephen juſt now mentioned, was ſeated at Heydon-bury, created a Knight, Sheriff of Eſſex in 1621, &c. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Playter of Soterley in Suffolk Kt. by whom he had Peter, and John; and three daughters, Martha; Mary, wife of Edward Fettiplace of Kingſton Eſq; and Jane, wiſe of Sir Edward Flaxton of Northamptonſhire.—Peter, the eldeſt ſon and heir, ſucceeded, in the title of Baronet, his kinſman Sir William Soame, who dyed, without iſſue, at Malta in his Embaſſy to Conſtantinople. At the Coronation of K. James II, he put in his claim to hold the Baſon and Ewer, for one moiety of the maner of Heydon, and for the other moiety to hold the Towel, when the King waſhed his hands before Dinner: which his predeceſſors, tenants of the ſaid Maner, had been allowed to do from time immemorial. And petitioned, to be admitted to perform thoſe ſervices either in perſon, or by a convenient deputy; receiving all the fees, profits, and emoluments to the ſaid ſervice belonging [F]. The Commiſſioners of claims allowed that part of holding the Towel, but referred the appointing a Deputy to the King's good pleaſure; who appointed Antony Earl of Kent to perform that office in right of the ſaid Peter; but the reſt of the claim was not allowed——Sir Peter married Suſan, daughter of Ralph Freman of Aſpeden-hall in Hertfordſhire, Eſq; by whom he had Peter; Freman: and two daughters, Suſan, who married Sir Cane James of Criſhall Bart. but dyed 23 Decemb. 1680, aged ſeventeen years; and Elizabeth.—Sir Peter Soame, the eldeſt ſon and heir, married Joane daughter and heir of George Chute, of Stockwell in Surrey Eſq; by Joane his wife daughter of Sir Walter St. John of Batterſea, Bart. Or, according to others, Jane daughter of . . . Cholmondley of Cheſhire Eſq; He dyed in 1709, leaving an only ſon——Sir Peter Soame Bart. who, 23 April 1729, married a daughter of Col. Richard Philips of Stanwell in Middleſex, by whom he hath had his ſon Peter . . . The Claim at the Coronation of K. George II. in 1727, was allowed as to the towel only [G].

Buckinghams is mentioned as a meſſuage, or Maner, in this pariſh. K. Henry VIII, in 1526, granted, for 21 years, the maner or meſſuage of Heydon, with appertenances called Buckinghams lands, to Thomas Wolfe (q)——The ſame King, in 1537, granted the maner, or meſſuage of Haidon, alias Earles with appertenances, and a parcel of land called Buckinghams lands, to John Aſhton, one of his Auditors, and the heirs of his body: to hold by the 20th part of a knight's fee. He dyed 14 Auguſt 1542, poſſeſs'd of the ſame (r). Elizabeth was his daughter and heir.——Undoubtedly it is incorporated into other eſtates here.

Heydon-Grange, about 2 miles north from this Church, upon the borders of Cambridgeſhire, unqueſtionably belonged, as well as Criſthall-grange, to Tiltey Priory.

Mr. John Cowell hath alſo a meſſuage and land in this pariſh.

It is rated to the land-tax at 458 l. 2 s. 0 d.

A Charity School near the Church-yard, for the education of 20 children, was founded by Dr. Davies Rector of this Pariſh, and endowed with an annuity of 10 l. for ever.

The Church, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, is pleaſantly ſituated, and conſiſts of a middle pace and two iſles, leaded. The Chancel hath alſo a north Chapel leaded. The Tower contains 5 Bells.

This Rectory was once in the gift of the Abbot and Convent of Walden, to whom it had been given by Thomas Picot: but it returned into his family again about the reign of K. Edward I; and hath ever ſince been appendent to the Maner.

24. CHRISTHALL, vulgarly CRESHALL.

The name of this pariſh is written in records theſe different ways, Chriſts-hall, Chriſhale, Criſtehale, Criſtesſhale, Chriſtley-hall, Carſhall. But upon what account it came to be called Chriſts-hall we are not able to diſcover.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the owners of the lands in this pariſh, were, Inguar; Leſſi, a freeman; and another freeman. At the time of the Survey, they were holden by Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and Ingelric [H]; by Robert de Sumeri, under Euſtace; and by Robert de Todenei, being all that this Robert had in Eſſex.

Here were then, and have been ever ſince, three Maners. 1. Chriſthall-bury. 2. The Maner of Crawley-bury. 3. . . . . of Cheſwick-hall. 4. Chriſthall-Grange.

The manſion houſe ſtands a little way ſouth from the Church.

Maud, grandaughter and heireſs of Euſtace Earl of Bologne, brought this among the reſt of her great inheritance to her huſband King Stephen. He gave it to his natural ſon William: who granted it to

Richard de Lucy; concerning whom ſee above, p. 115, and under Cheping-Ongar. This was one of the four fees which he held in this County [I]. His two ſons, Geffrey and Herbert, dying without iſſue, it came to his eldeſt daughter

Maud, who was married firſt to Walter-Fitz-Robert, father of Robert Fitz-Walter; and afterwards to Richard de Rivers. [See above, p. 115.] She dyed in 1242 (s). For ſeveral deſcents this lordſhip continued in the Rivers, or Redvers, family. And the whole, or parcels of it were held under them by Læticia de Pinkeny, and then by Henry, and Robert de Pinkeny. The former, in 1253, held in Chriſteſhall, 150 acres of arable, 32 s. rent of aſſiſe, 6 acres of meadow, 460 days work in the park of the Honor of Aungre, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee.—Henry was his ſon (t).——Robert de Pinkeny held here, in 1295, of John de Rivers, 1 meſſuage, 180 acres of arable, 8 and a half of meadow, 1 of paſture, 1 park, 22 s. 6 d. rent of aſſiſe. And alſo in Criſteſhale, of Arnold de Munteny and Peter Pycott, 1 meſſuage, 140 acres of arable, 1 of meadow, 30 of unincloſed wood, 25 s. rent of aſſiſe.——Henry was his ſon (u).

Nicolas de Segrave, mentioned above under Elmdon, held in 1321, this maner of John de Rivers, by the ſervice of 1 knight's fee; with 39 acres of paſture, and 61 of wood beſides (w).

Sir William de la Pole, and Margaret his wife, held it about the years 1353, and 1358 (x). But then it was out of the Rivers family. For in 1339 Sir John de Rivers had enfeoffed in this eſtate

Sir John de Sutton, of Wivenhou (y): who, in 1349, paſſed this, among the appertenances of the Hundred of Aungre, to

Ralph Lord Stafford, and his heirs (z)——Thomas Earl Stafford held it in 1392, as three parts of a fee, and the heirs of John de la Pole under him. And ſo did ſucceſſively after him his two brothers——William, and——Edmund, Earls of Stafford (a). Likewiſe—Humfrey Stafford, Duke of Buckingham; and his grandſon ——Henry (b).

Sir John Harpenden had it, but we do not find by what means, and by fine paſſed it to

Thomas Brooke (c).——George Brooke Lord Cobham and Anne his wife alienated it by licence 21 Octob 1544, to

Thomas Crawley junior Eſq; by the name of the maner of Creſſal alias Criſtehall, and 20 meſſuages, 20 cottages, 700 acres of arable, 40 of paſture, 30 of meadow, 160 of wood, and 4 l. rent of aſſiſe.——Anne his daughter was his only heir, at the time of his deceaſe 6 Febr. 1558 (d).

Sir Edward Penruddock dyed poſſeſs'd of it 1 Febr. 1612-13 (e).—John Penruddock inherited, and after him —— Sir Thomas, then —— John Penruddock of Compton-Chamberlain in Wiltſhire Eſq; The 8th of May 1649, he ſold this maner to John James Eſq; knighted 24 May 1665. He built Creſhall-Hall. On the north-eaſt corner of Creſhall Park is an earth-work of a circular form, with a ditch 5 or 6 feet deep, and Mounts raiſed at four places near the edge. This Park was afterwards a wood of above 300 acres.

The Family of James was anciently named Haeſtrecht from a place in Holland near Geuda. James van Hawſtert, of a younger branch, came into England about the time of K. Henry VIII, and dropping the foreign ſurname, went by his Chriſtian name of James. Roger James his ſecond ſon was of London; whoſe ſon and heir—Roger James Eſq; was poſſeſs'd of Upminſter-hall. See under that pariſh. One of this family was of Rygate in Surrey; another dwelt at Woodneſburgh in Kent; another at Farnham in Eſſex; and another at Manewden: This laſt is extinct.

Sir John James of Creſhall dyed 17 February 1676, aged 72, and was buried in the Chancel of this church, with a monument. Being unmarried, he left his eſtate to his nephew

Mr. James Cane, ſon of Mr. James Cane citizen and vintner of London, who had married his ſiſter Emlin. On the 28th of June 1680 he was created a Baronet, and took the name of Sir Cane James. He married firſt Suſan, daughter of Sir Peter Soame of Heydon, Bart. which dyed about five months after marriage; and afterwards Anne, daughter of Francis Phillips of the Inner-Temple, Eſq; by whom he had ſeveral ſons, moſt of which dyed young; and two daughters. He dyed at St. Edmondſbury 19 May 1736. His ſon and ſucceſſor—Sir John James dyed 28 Septemb 1741, aged 47 [K].

2. The MANER of CRAWLEY-BURY.

The manſion houſe ſtood at a place called Crowley-end, but is now ruinous.

This is the eſtate which Leffi had in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; and that was holden at the time of the Survey by Roger de Sumeri, under Euſtace Earl of Bologne by the name of Crauuelæa.

Robert Pynkeny, mentioned above, p. 603, who dyed in 1295, or 1296, held of the King in ca. of the Honor of Bologne, one knight's fee in Crowele, 53 acres of arable, two of paſture and two of wood, with the cuſtomary tenents—Henry was his brother and heir (*).

Sir William Furnivall, at the time of his deceaſe in 1382, held the maner of Crawele-Bury in Criſhall of John Audin Lord of Radwinter, by the ſervice of one pair of gilt ſpurs of the price of 12 d. (f). See above, p. 598.]

This was afterwards given to St. George the Martyr in the cathedral of Hereford, the time and donor unknown.

The 22d of June 1548, K. Edw. VI. granted to Thomas Crawley Eſq; all thoſe meſſuages, lands, and tenements, called Crawley-Bury in the pariſhes of Cryſal and Edelmedon, alias Elmondon, belonging to St. George the Martyr in the Cathedral of Hereford (g). [Concerning this Tho. Crawley, ſee above, p. 449, 593.] He had a ſon named Robert, and a daughter Margaret married to John Bendiſh of Bumpſted Steple Eſq; His ſon Robert was dead before him, as was alſo his grandſon Thomas, that had left only a daughter, Anne, about ſix years old, as obſerved a little before. This Anne was found his ſole heir at the time of his deceaſe 29 September 1559. Moſt likely ſhe lived but a little while. For

John Bendiſh of Steple Bumpſted Eſq; became poſſeſs'd of this eſtate and the Rectory of Elmdon. He dyed 20 Auguſt 1585. As did his ſon—Thomas 23 Febru. 1603—Thomas Bendiſh Eſq; ſon and ſucceſſor of the latter, was created a Baronet 22 May 1611. He departed this life 26 March 1636 (h).—Sir Thomas his ſon dyed in 1674—Sir John in 1706, and—Sir Henry in 1717. [See above, p. 351, 352.]

Afterwards, Sir Adam Brown of Surrey held this eſtate in right of his mother. He ſold it to James Walſingham of Little-Cheſterford, Eſq; His co-heirs were the Rt. Hon. the Lord Montacute, the Lady Oſborn, and Mrs. Villiers, his nieces.

Lady Oſborn gave her part of the inheritance to the Honorable Mr. Boyle, Speaker of the Houſe of Commons in Ireland.

3. The MANER of CHESWICK-HALL, alias FLANDERS.

The manſion houſe ſtands on a hill, about three quarters of a mile from the Church, and is ſurrounded with a moat.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign a freeman enjoyed this maner: but, at the time of the ſurvey, it was holden by Robert de Todenei [L].

This Robert built Belvoir-Caſtle in Lincolnſhire, having had ſeveral lordſhips beſtowed upon him in that neighbourhood, and elſewhere, by William the Conqueror, to the amount of about 80, of which Ceſwic was the only one in this county. Robert Roos, lord of Hamlake, marrying, about the reign of K. Henry III, Iſabella, daughter and heir of William De Albini, lord of that Caſtle, had with her the maner of Cheſwick-hall, which was ever after holden of Belvoir-caſtle (i).

Richard de Keleſhal mentioned above, under Heydon, held, at the time of his deceaſe in 1356, the maner of Cheſwyke of the Lord de Roos as of his caſtle of Belvoir, by the ſervice of three arrows of the price of 6 d. per ann (k).

John Helyon of Helyons-Bumpſted, Eſq; held it of the Lord Roos, in 1449, by the ſervice of one croſs-bow yearly; and lands, tenements, and rents called Flaunders, Chernes, and Radcliffes, of the Lord Cobham. He had two daughters coheirs, Philippa, and Iſabell. Philippa, the eldeſt was married to Sir Thomas Montgomery of Falkborn-Hall. [See above p. 117.]

Iſabell, the ſecond daughter, was wife of Humfrey Tyrell of Warley, Eſq; third ſon of Sir John Tyrell of Herons. They had an only daughter and heir, named Anne, that was married to Sir Roger Wentworth of Codham Hall in Weatherſfeld, and brought him this eſtate with ſeveral others. She dyed in 1534, and he in 1539.

Henry, the ſecond ſon, had this eſtate ſettled on him. He was of Mountney's-ing in this county, and, with Agnes his wife, relict of William Wilford, kept their firſt court here in December 1529.

William Wilford Eſq; kept court here in 1546, and in 1551.—John Wentworth Eſq; held Flaunders and Cheſwick in 1558.

George Nicolls and Joane his wife kept their firſt court here 21 July, 1586.

Robert Bradbury Eſq; who dyed 3 Septemb. 1611, held in his demeſne as of fee the maner of Chiſwick-hall in Criſhall, Elmdon, and Wendon Lofts, of Beavoir-Caſtle, and Chriſthall-bury. Martha was his daughter, and ſole heir, five years old (l).

John Rowley of Walden, Gent. of the Family of Brent-Pelham and Berkway in Hertfordſhire, was poſſeſs'd of it in 1635. He had two ſons, Michael and John—Michael was father of—John, who married Margaret, daughter of William Willymot of Leebury in Elmdon, Gent. His ſon and heir was—John Rowley, Attorney at law at Walden; who married Alice, daughter of Mr. Thomas Arnold of Ampthill in Bedfordſhire. His ſon—John Rowley Eſq; was Principal of Bernards-inn, London, in 1734. He ſold this eſtate to

Nathanael Wilkes Eſq; and it belongs now to his ſon—John Wilkes Eſq;

4. The Maner of Creshall-Grange belonged to Tiltey Abbey in this County. John Thake farmed it about the time of the ſuppreſſion at 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. per ann.

The manſion houſe lies in a bottom, about two miles and a half north from the Church upon the edge of Cambridgeſhire.

In 1544, K. Henry VIII. granted Chriſthall-grange to Edward Elrington and Humphrey Metcalf and their heirs (m). They, by licence dated 15 March 1546, alienated it to Edward Meade Eſq; who dyed poſſeſs'd of it 5 Octob. 1577.—John was his ſon and heir (n).—Sir Thomas Meade Kt. was alſo poſſeſs'd of it, at the time of his deceaſe, 18 Sept. 1617; and left—John his ſon and heir (o).

James Smith of Upton Eſq; ſold it to John Hanchet of Haydon Eſq; This has been an ancient Family in Hertfordſhire. William Hanchet purchaſed Letchworth, and made it the place of his reſidence. His ſon Thomas is one of the eighty perſons of that county returned in the time of K. Henry VI, who could diſpend 10 l. per ann. (p), about the value of 500 l. now: And perhaps the number of thoſe who have 500 l. per ann. in that county is near the ſame.—Samuel Hanchet of Arkeſden married Joane, daughter of Mr. Crud of Icaldon in Cambridgſhire; his ſon and heir was—John Hanchet Eſq; who married Mary, daughter of Mr. John Pauley of St. Malyn in Cornwall; He dyed 30 October 1724. John Hanchet Eſq; his ſon, departed this life 2 November 1737, leaving——John Hanchet Eſq; [M]. See above, p.

Mr. Thomas Chamberlain; Stephen Forteſcue; William, and Richard, Carter; William Ruſh; Thomas Brand; John Palmer &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Mrs. Lettice Martyn, of this pariſh, widow, by Indenture dated 29 December 1563, veſted in Truſtees, 2 cloſes of meadow and arable land, called Chalk meadow, and Shaw croft; 9 acres and 3 roods in the common fields; a cloſe of paſture and arable in Crowley end, containg 5 acres; 20 acres of arable land in the common fields; and 43 acres in the common fields, all lying in this pariſh, and the laſt partly in Heydon; for the following uſes: That thoſe Truſtees ſhould pay yearly to the Churchwardens of Criſhall on Palm Sunday, 9 l. 13 s. 4 d. to be diſtributed amongſt the poor pariſhioners of 33 Towns and Pariſhes in the following proportions. To Chriſhale, Walden, and Wendon, 20 s. each; to Newport, and Elmdon, 13 s. 4 d. a piece; 6 s. 8 d. to each of theſe places, Audeley-end, Gr. Cheſterford, and Clavering; to Littlebury 5 s. to Heydon, Chiſhall, Arkeſden, Wendon Loughts, Clavering, Langley, and Berden, 3 s. 4 d. a piece; and to Little Cheſterford, 1 s. 8 d. To the Churchwardens of Chriſhall for their trouble, 10 s. The profits of the fall of the trees growing on the premiſſes to be diſtributed to the Poor of Chriſhall and Wenden. The Truſtees to keep 20 s. in their hands, to make a new feoffment of eight inhabitants of Criſhall, when the feoffees are reduced to four.

The reſt of the Pariſhes intitled to this Benefaction are in Cambridgeſhire.

This Pariſh is rated to the Land-tax at 663 l. 2 s. 0 d.

The Church, dedicated to the H. Trinity, conſiſts of a body and two iſles; but the Chancel is only of one pace; the whole leaded. The Tower, which contains 5 Bells, hath on the top of it a leaded ſpire.

This Church was of old appropriated to Weſtminſter-Abbey, and a Vicarage here ordained and endowed: both Church and Pariſh were from time immemorial of their peculiar juriſdiction, and the Vicarage in their collation, all exempt from the Biſhop of this dioceſe. So they continued whilſt the Church of Weſtminſter was either monaſtical or epiſcopal. But upon the diſſolution of that new-erected Biſhoprick, K. Edward VI, granted, 1 April 1550, the Juriſdiction of this place, with ſeveral other exempts within the bounds of this Dioceſe, as to matters eccleſiaſtical, to Nicolas Ridley biſhop of London, and his ſucceſſors for ever. And, 3 March 1553, Qu. Mary granted the Patronage and Advowſon of this Vicarage to the Biſhop of London, and it hath continued in the gift of the Biſhops of London ever ſince. But the Rectory or great Tithes, were granted by Qu. Elizabeth,

CHISHALL.

Two pariſhes of this name lie together at the extremity of this Hundred and County, bordering upon Hertfordſhire; and are diſtinguiſhed from each other by the addition of Great, and Little. They are ſometimes written Chiſhull.

Ciſſa was the name of a well-known Saxon chief (q); and from him, or one of the ſame name, this diſtrict might receive its denomination; qu. Ciſſa's-hall: Unleſs it were from the two words Cheeſe, and hall.

A water-courſe, called Cumberton, divides the Chiſhalls from Barley in Hertfordſhire. Here ſeems to have been the diviſion between Mercia and the Kingdom of the Eaſt Saxons. By Shaftnoe bridge appears a Bank which probably ran through Hertfordſhire to Middleſex, as a mound.

The memory of this is kept up at Cheſhunt, though no bank is to be ſeen, and for many miles. The land above the Bank in the ſame fields is inherited by the eldeſt brother; That below the Bank deſcends by Burrough-Engliſh to the youngeſt. This cuſtom is frequent on the eaſt ſide of the Bank in Hertfordſhire, not on the Mercian ſide.

25. GREAT-CHISHALL

is the largeſt of the two Pariſhes, and comprehends theſe ſeveral Maners, 1. The maner of Cardens, alias Baſſets-hall. 2. The maner of Belknaps. 3. The maner of Tewes, alias Liſles. 4. . . and that of Friers, alias Chiſhall-Grange.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, the lands in this pariſh belonged to a freeman named Ulſtih; to five other freemen; and to Edric, and Leuuin: At the time of the Survey they were holden by Geffrey de Magnaville, and Roger Otburville [N].

1. The Maner of CARDENS, alias BASSETS-HALL, received the firſt name from William Cardon, tenant of it under Geffrey de Magnaville; and the latter name from the Baſſets, ſubſequent owners.

It was otherwiſe called Wardons; and conſiſted of 2 fees, holden, in 1372, by the heirs of John Depham, Henry Spigurnell, John Outlawe, James Freman, Alice Gerard, John Phippe, Nicolas Jobyn, and the Abbots of Walden, and Tiltey; of Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex.—That Earl had alſo view of frankpledge in Chiſhull, which he held of the King in capite (r).

In the Feodary Book of the Dutchy of Lancaſter theſe lands are ſaid to be held by thoſe above-mentioned, and alſo by Roger de Crepeham, John Tendring, Richard Kelſhall, and Alice Everard.

This eſtate came afterwards into a branch of the ancient and noble family of Baſſet, whence it received the name of Baſſets-hall. John Baſſet had it about the latter end of the reign of K. Henry VII. His ſon and heir—Gregory married Margaret, daughter of Robert Forſter of Birch Eſq; by whom he had Dorothy his ſole daughter and heir. At the time of his deceaſe, 30 Novemb. 1528, he held the maner of Chiſhull, and lands in Over Chiſſull, Nether Chiſſull, Heydon, and in the hamlet of Shepons, of the King of his Honor of Mandeville, parcel of the Duchy of Lancaſter (s).—Margaret his widow was afterwards remarried to Willam Ayloffe of Great Brackſted, and Euſtace Sulyard of Runwell Eſqrs. [See above, p. 156.] The wardſhip of his daughter and heir Dorothy being obtained by Thomas Bonham of Kent, Eſq; he procured her to be married to his ſon,

Robert Bonham Eſq; who by her had Jerome and Charles, and two daughters. After this her firſt huſband's death ſhe became wife of Antony Maxey of Great-Saling-Hall Eſq; by whom ſhe had ſeveral ſons and daughters. On the eldeſt ſhe ſettled her eſtate, diſinheriting her ſon Jerome Bonham, who dyed either in the latter part of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, or in 1621. She ſhewed greateſt inclination to the iſſue of her own choice.

This eſtate belonged afterwards to John Bowneſt of Stonebury in Little-Hormead in Hertfordſhire, who had alſo the Rectory of Thunderley; and dyed poſſeſs'd of them 16 June 1615 (t). [See above, p. 561.]—Thomas his

The quit rents of this maner are 40 s. a year.

2. The MANER called BELKNAPS, was alſo a part of Magnaville's eſtate [P]. It was holden by Milo de Somery, of the Honor of Glouceſter, about the reign of King John.

Belknap had it afterwards, probably by marriage into the family of Somery, and gave it the preſent name. They held it as one knight's fee, of the Honor of Mandeville.

About the reign of K. Edward III, John de Benington held part of a fee in Great Chiſſal, which had formerly been Milo de Somery's: and from the ſaid Benington took alſo the name of Benington's [Q].

The heirs of John Benyngton held the fourth part of a knight's fee in Chiſhull, under Humfrey de Bohun Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, who dyed in 1372 (u). One Thomas Pakeman held a part of this Maner afterwards. But through whoſe hands it hath ſince paſſed, we do not find.

3. The MANER called TEWES, alias LISLES, took its name from an owner. [See above, p. 220, 562.] Tho. Tawe paid for one knight's fee, holden of the Honor of Liſle, formerly John de Liſle's. [See above, p. 589.] In 1431, John Tawe of Coln-Engayne Eſq; releaſed to Richard Fox, and George Langham, and his heirs, all his right in his maner called Nideles, alias Lyles, in Great and Little Chiſhall (w) [R].

4. The MANER of FRIERS, or CHISHALL-GRANGE, belonged to Tiltey-Abbey; whence came the name: the manſion houſe is down. This maner lies in both the Chiſhalls.

About the time of the Suppreſſion this eſtate was farmed by Thomas Ward and Edward Hager at the yearly rent of 6*l.* (x). It was granted by K. Henry VIII. to Edward Elrington Eſq; mentioned above, p. 596. who had licenſe (y) 13 Novemb. 1546, to alienate it to Thomas Crawley Eſq;—Thomas Crawley junior Eſq; dyed 6 Febru. 1558, poſſeſſed of the maner, farm, or tenement, called Fryers, alias Chyſſall-grange.—Anne was his daughter and heir (z).

Of late it belonged to Sir Cane James. It pays to the King a quit rent of 6 s. 8 d.

5. The MANER of CHISHALL

Has been otherwiſe called Over-Chiſhall-hall with Inglears, or Ingles: and is what belonged at the time of the ſurvey to Roger de Otburville [S]. The Houſe is on the right ſide of the road going from Chiſhall to Arkeſden, half a Mile from the Church.

This eſtate was ſold by Martha Higham, widow, to Thomas Cooke Gent. He dyed 11 Septemb. 1584 poſſeſ'd of a tenement called Oſbornes in this pariſh, and of three meſſuages, 120 acres of arable, 20 acr. of paſture, 6 of meadow, 10 of wood, and 29 s. rent. ——William was his ſon and heir (a): He dyed 7 April 1597, poſſeſ'd of the premiſſes, with appertenances, lying in Over Chiſſel, Nether Chiſſell, Heydon, and Shepons; with many other lands.——Thomas, his ſon, then only 5 years old (b), ſold them afterwards to John Rowley of Berkway in Hertfordſhire, who held them in 1635.

James Goulſton of Widihall in Hertfordſhire Eſq; married Mary, daughter and coheir of Mr. Rowley, with whom he had this maner.—Richard Goulſton Eſq; his ſon and heir, married Margaret daughter of the Rt. Revd. Francis Turner Lord Biſhop of Ely, by Anne his wife deſcended on the father's ſide from the family of Horton, on the mother's from that of Ferrars. His ſon—Francis Goulſton Eſq; ſucceeded him.

Stephen Haggar; Robert Baker; William Fiſon; William Newman; John Smith; Job Andrews; John Hays; Tho. Carter, and a few others, have alſo ſome lands in this pariſh.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Swithin, conſiſts of a body and a ſouth iſle, both leaded: The Chancel is only of one pace, and tyled. In the Tower, which hath on the top of it a ſpire leaded, are 5 Bells.

This Church, with all its liberties and appertenances [T], was given to the Monaſtery of Walden by Geffrey de Magnaville their founder [T] Cum omnibus ad eam pertinentibus in decimis & obventionibus, in terris & redditibus, in hominibus & eorum about the year 1136. The Rectory, which is a MANER, was appropriated to them about the year 1239, and a Vicarage ordained; the profits of which being too ſmall, an augmentation was made to it in 1441.

After the diſſolution of the Abbey, K. Henry VIII. granted this Church of Chiſhall to Sir Thomas Audeley; and he by will gave it to Elizabeth his wife, who, with her ſecond huſband Sir George Norton, preſented to the Vicarage, in 1547, and he alone in 1554. After her deceaſe it came to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, who married the ſaid Lord Audeley's daughter and heir. He dyed 27 Jan. 1701; and is buried in the Chancel.—John Cooke Eſq; his third ſon, ſucceeded upon the death of the two elder. The title to this Eſtate has been for ſome time controverted; but the law at length decided it to be the right of Mr. Richard Cooke, a relation to the Family, who for ſome years reſided at Chelmsford. belonged, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign, to two freemen named Sired, and Godric. Euſtace Earl of Bologne, and his under-tenant Wido, were poſſeſſed of the whole at the time of the general Survey [W].

The Maner here is called Nether, i. e. Lower Chiſhall: And the manſion houſe ſtands a very little way ſouth from the Church.

About the year 1165, it was held of the Honor of Bologne by Roger ſon of Nicolas, as one knight's fee in Chiſſul.

The moiety of this maner being in Wido above-mentioned, ſon of Toce, he left two daughters coheirs Elen, and Ala.—Elen had a ſon named Reginald de Argenteon, or Argentine, living in the reign of K. Stephen. He was ſucceeded by his ſon—Reginald living in the reign of K. Richard I. whoſe ſucceſſors were his ſon—Richard, and his grandſon——Giles de Argentine (e).

Ala had the other moiety of this maner, of the gift of K. Henry II; which from her deſcended to her ſon——Roger; and to her grandſon——Nicolas, ſon of Roger [X].

In 1316, a fine paſſed between Thomas Spartolfe of Berkway and Agnes his wife plaintiffs, and William Hawys, deforc' for a meſſuage, 100 acres of land, and 3 s. rent in Little Cheſhull; to the ſaid Thomas and Agnes for life, remainder to their daughter Alice, and her ſon Thomas, &c. (f).

Under the Argentine family this maner was holden a while by the Swynefords. Of John Argentine, who dyed in 1318, John ſon of John de Swyneford, held the maner of Little Chiſhull, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee (g).—John de Swyneford, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1332, held in Little Chiſhull, 1 meſſuage, 160 acres of arable, 14 ac. of wood, 1 rood of meadow, 10 acres of paſture, and 30 s. rent, of Agnes, widow of John de Argentine.——John was his ſon and heir (h).

In 1375, Sir John de Argentyne, and John Bataile held lands in Little Chiſhull of Edmund de Ufford le Coſyne (i) Theſe lands were probably the two moieties of this Maner, John Bataile preſented to this living in 1361. He ſeems to have inherited his moiety from the family of Baſſingborne; becauſe in January 1296 there was a tryal between Joane, widow of Giles de Argentone, and Warin de Baſſingborn, about the preſentation to this Rectory; and it was then alledged, that the Advowſon of the Church belonged to the Moiety of this maner, which was holden of Giles de Argenton by knight's ſervice. By fine it was determined that the Preſentation ſhould be alternate (k). How the Ufford family became poſſeſs'd of this maner, doth not appear: Nor why this Edmund is called here the Coſin, unleſs it is becauſe he was coſin to Robert de Ufford Earl of Suffolk.

By a tryal in 1382, this maner was adjudged not to be holden of the Argentine family, but of the King, as of his Honor of Hagenet (*).

Concerning the Argentine and Swyneford Families, ſee above, p. 227. 353.

After this the eſtate ſeems to have been undivided, and in one hand. In 1406, William Effeild paſſed this maner, by Fine, with thoſe of Little Canfeild, Bradwell, and Picots in Saling, and the Advowſon of this church, to Sir John Hende and Elizabeth his wife, in tail (l). [See above, p. 155, 411.] He dyed, 1 Auguſt 1418, holding this maner of Little Chiſhull, and Advowſon of the Church, of the King in capite, as of the Honor of Bologne (m).—John his ſon dyed in 1461, before his mother Elizabeth, which had been remarried to Ralph Boteler, Lord Sudley, that preſented in her right to this Church from 1434 to 1461. (n) [X] The ſaid Elizabeth dyed in 1462 (o). John Hende, her eldeſt ſon, had left an only daughter

Joane, which was married to Walter Wretyll. His grandſon——John Wretyll Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe, 28 July 1507, held this maner (p). [See above, p. 156.]

The next poſſeſſors of this eſtate were the family of Ayliff, or Ayloffe, of Bretons in Horn-Church. Sir William Ayliff, who dyed 10 Auguſt 1517, held this maner.—William, his ſon and heir, was 13 years old (q)—Thomas Ayloff Eſq; held this maner of Nether Chuſhull, alias Little Chuſhull, at the time of his deceaſe 28 September 1553. His ſon——William was then aged 13 years (r). He departed this life 9 March 1614-15, leaving—William his ſon, 40, or 44 years old (s). He was made King's Serjeant 19 April 1627 (t). Lucy, Counteſs of Huntingdon, preſented to the Rectory in 1662. And Peter Soame Eſq; in 1684. It hath ever ſince continued in the Soame family of Heydon.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Nicolas, is of one pace with the Chancel, both tyled: the roof very lofty. The Church-porch is of free ſtone, and high in proportion to the roof. The Tower, of ſtone below, and timber above; as is that of Marks-Tay; contains only 1 Bell.

This Rectory is appendent to the Maner.

Either from this pariſh, or that of Great Chiſhull, a very ancient and conſiderable Family took the ſurname of Chiſhull. One of them, John de Chiſhull, was Dean of St Paul's, Archdeacon of London, Lord Treaſurer, Keeper of the Great Seal, Lord Chancellor, and Biſhop of London, and dyed in 1279. A family of the ſame ſurname was ſome years ſeated at Little Bardfeild. [See above, p. 523, 524.]

The pariſh of Little Chiſhall is rated to the land-tax at 380l.

CLAVERING.

THE Half-Hundred of Clavering is a narrow tract of land, bounded on the eaſt and north by Utlesford-Hundred, and on the ſouth and weſt by part of Hertfordſhire. Where longeſt, it is not above 8 miles and a half in length; and where broadeſt, not above 5 miles and a half: but in ſome parts it is little more than half a mile in width. Great part of it, eſpecially towards the north, has been chiefly woody, and joins to thoſe large coverts once belonging to Hardwin de Scalariis, or Scalers, which go ſtill by the name of Scales Park.

This Half-Hundred takes its name from the chief Town in it; that of Clavering: and is within the Archdeaconry of Colcheſter.

It was originally in the King's diſpoſal: and went commonly along with the Lordſhip of Clavering, which was holden of the King in capite.

Suene had it, and the Pleas belonging thereto, at the time of the ſurvey [Y].

Robert Fitz-Roger held it in the reign of K. Edward I. as well as the Maner (w) [Z]: and from him it deſcended to the Claverings, Nevills, and at laſt to the Family of Barrington, of King's Hatfield.

In this Half-Hundred are only theſe five Pariſhes.

Clavering with Langley.
Berden.
Ugley.
Manuden.
Fernham.

1. CLAVERING.

This name ſems to be formed from the two Saxon words Clæꝼꞃa, violets, and inᵹ, meadow or paſture.

It is ſometimes written in records Claveling.

Clavering, and the Hamlet of Langley, make but one Pariſh. There is no mention of Langley in the Conqueror's ſurvey, though it is ſaid to contain 1260 acres; Clavering has been computed at three thouſand. At what time this meaſurement, or computation, was made I do not find, nor whether the lands of Langley are comprehended in the ſum ſet down for Clavering. If this account was taken a long time ago, the art of meaſuring wood-lands was too defective to come near a certainty. By the number of Hogs the lands would feed in paunage-time for the lord and the tenants, in which the ſame proportion was generally obſerved, they could gueſs at the extent better than any other way. Indeed the number of hogs paid to the lord out the tenants ſtock was different in different maners: In ſome places a tenth, in others more.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Robert ſon of Wimarc was poſſeſs'd of Clavering. At the time of the Survey it was holden by Suene of Eſſex, the greateſt landed man in this County, the head of whoſe Barony was Raley; under him, Anſgot, Wicard, Robert, and Ralph, held part of this lordſhip of Clavering [A].

Hugh de Eſſex, grand-ſon to Suene, was, in the reign of K. Henry II, Conſtable, and Standard-Bearer to the King by inheritance. He forfeited it by his cowardice in the Wars of Wales, in 1163, throwing down the royal Enſign and betaking himſelf to flight, whereby the Engliſh, apprehending the King was ſlain, fell into confuſion and were utterly routed. For which being charged with treaſon by Robert de Montfort, and in a ſolemn trial by Battel clearly vanquiſhed, he ought to have ſuffered death by the law, had not the King's clemency interpoſed, who, ſparing his life, cauſed him to be ſhorn a Monk in the Abbey of Reading, ſeized on his whole eſtate and divided it amongſt his favourites. He married Alice, ſiſter of Alberic de Vere firſt Earl of Oxford. By her he had Henry and Hugh, both Knights, from one of which the Eſſexes of Berkſhire are deſcended. After his deceaſe, ſhe became wife of Roger Fitz-Richard lord of Warkworth in Northumberland, and of Clavering in Eſſex; by her he had Robert Fitz-Roger, and a daughter, married to John the Conſtable of Cheſter.

The capital Maners in this pariſh, are 1. The maner of Clavering; out of which were taken afterwards the ſubordinate ones of Thurrocks, and Pouncines. 2. The maner of Curles. 3. The maner of Geddings.

1. The Maner of CLAVERING.

Clavering-Bury, ſtanding on the north ſide of the Church, the reſidence of the ancient Lords of this place, and the Head of the Barony of Clavering, was a Caſtle, ſome of the walls of which were not long ſince in being. There is ſtill a large area belonging thereto, with a deep trench.

After Hugh de Eſſex's forfeiture this Lordſhip becoming veſted in the Crown, it remained there till K. Henry II. granted it to Robert Fitz-Roger, juſt now mentioned [B]. It continued for ſeveral deſcents in this Family, which was from hence ſurnamed de Clavering.—John Fitz-Robert, ſon and heir of Robert, dyed in 1240. By his wife, Ada de Bailol, he had his ſon—Roger, who held this maner of the King in ca. by one fee, of the Honor of Rayley. He dyed in 1248, or 1249, leaving his ſon——Robert, one year and a half old (x); that held this maner and Half Hundred [C]. He had ſummons to parliament, from 1295 to 1309, and departed this life in 1309, having had to wife Margery de Zouch, by whom he had—John his ſon (y); who had alſo ſummons to parliament from 1309 to 1331; and dyed in 1332; by his wife Hawiſe, daughter of Robert de Tibetot, he left Eve his only daughter and Heir, firſt married to Ralph de Ufford, then to Thomas de Audele, by both which ſhe had ſons and daughters. This John de Clavering, long before his death, apprehending he ſhould have no male iſſue, ſettled the reverſion of his maners on K. Edward I. who in conſideration thereof, gave him another eſtate of 400 l. per ann. On his death his patrimonial eſtate came to the Crown (z).

In 1311, John de Clavering and Hawiſe his wife ſettled by fine this maner on themſelves for life, remainder to John de Nevill, and his heirs (a).

K. Edward III, in 1328, granted the maner of Clavering to Edmund Clavering, brother of the ſaid John for life [D]; Remainder to Ralph de Nevill and his heirs: So that the younger branch of this family, the chief whereof is ſtill in being at Calvley in Northumberland, were bereft of their inheritance.

There was a fine in 1342, between Ralph de Nevill and Hawiſe de Clavering plaintiffs, and Robert de Benhale and Eve his wife deforciants, of the maner of Clavering in Eſſex; the right of the ſaid Ralph (b). By this may be gueſſed that Nevill married into the Clavering family, and then it is not ſo wonderful that he ſhould have the grant. However, upon the death of Edmund Clavering about the latter of K. Edward the Third's reign, this Lordſhip came into the Nevill Family, Lords of Raby, and Earls of Weſtmoreland.

Sir John de Nevill of Raby, who dyed in 1388, held this Maner, with the Half-Hundred of Clavering, of the King in capite, by the ſervice of one knight's fee, as did his widow Elizabeth, who dyed in 1395. Their ſon——Sir Ralph de Nevill, the firſt Earl of Weſtmoreland, had alſo this maner, at the time of his deceaſe, in 1425: and the Advowſon of a Chantry in the Chapel of Clavering. His grandſon——Ralph, by his ſon John deceaſed, was his heir (c)—Joane, ſecond wife of the ſaid Ralph the firſt Earl of Weſtmoreland, and ſiſter of John of Gaunt Duke of Lancaſter, held the ſame at her death, in 1440, and her eldeſt ſon—Richard Nevill, Earl of Saliſbury, was her heir (d). His grandſon——Richard Nevill, the third Earl of Saliſbury having married Anne, daughter of Richard Beauchamp Earl of Warwick, in whoſe right he was alſo Earl of Warwick, had by her two daughters, Iſabell; and Anne, married firſt to Edward Prince of Wales, ſon of K. Henry VI; and then to Richard Duke of York, afterwards K. Richard III.

Iſabell, the eldeſt, had for huſband George Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence, brother to K. Edward IV. She dyed in 1478, poſſeſs'd of the Maner, and Half-Hundred, of Clavering (e). By the Duke of Clarence ſhe had two children Edward, and Margaret.——Edward, was born in 1575, and took the title of Earl of Warwick, but was beheaded 28 November 1498, under pretence of treaſon, being the laſt of the line of Planta-

As to Margaret, the daughter, ſhe was married to Sir Richard Pole, Knight of the Garter, and had by him, Henry, Geffrey, Arthur, and Reginald; and Urſula married to Henry Lord Stafford. In 1513, ſhe petitioned K. Henry VIII, to be permitted to inherit the ſtate and dignity of her brother the Earl of Warwick, and be ſtiled Counteſs of Saliſbury: which the King granted, and 14 October the ſame year reſtored to her all the caſtles, maners, and lands of Richard Earl of Saliſbury her grandfather, which came to the Crown by the attainder of her brother, This among the reſt. But ſhe had the miſfortune of being attainted in 1539, and beheaded 27 May 1541. when this maner of Clavering, then valued at 63 l. 3 s. 6 d. fell again to the Crown. Her eldeſt ſon—Henry Pole, Lord Montague, was involved in the ſame condemnation. He had by Jane his wife, daughter of George Nevill Lord Bergaveny, two daughters coheirs, Catharine, wife of Francis Earl of Huntingdon; and Winifred, married to Thomas Haſtings, ſecond ſon to George Earl of Huntingdon, and after his death to Sir Thomas Barrington (f). Theſe two Ladies, upon their petition in Parliament in 1553, were reſtored in blood: and Qu. Mary, in the firſt of her reign, granted the Maner of Clavering to Sir Thomas Haſtings, and Winifred his wife, and the heirs of the body of Winifred; and for want of ſuch iſſue, the Reverſion to Catharine, wife of Francis Earl of Huntingdon, and her heirs, to be holden as before it came to K. Henry VIII. by the attainder of the Counteſs of Saliſbury (g). Qu. Elizabeth, in 1578, by miſtake as we ſuppoſe, granted the maner of Clavering, among other things, to William Lord Burghley, Sir Walter Mildmay, and Sir Gilbert Gerrard (h): But this grant does not appear to have taken effect. The 29th of April, the ſame year, Sir Thomas Barrington ſuffered a recovery of this maner, with appertenances, in which recovery it is deſcribed as 40 meſſuages, 20 tofts, 6 dove houſes, 40 gardens, 1000 acres of arable, 200 of paſture, 100 of wood, 300 of furze and heath, and 20 l. rent, with courts leet, and view of frank pledge (i). The foreſaid Lady Winifred Barrington dyed in 1602, poſſeſſed of this Maner and Half Hundred; and Barrington-Hall &c. [See above, p. 504, 505.] Her eldeſt ſon—Sir Francis Barrington Bart. held the ſame at the time of his deceaſe (k).

This eſtate deſcended, at that of Hatfield Broad-Oak to—Sir Charles Barrington, who gave it to his ſiſter and her heirs, and——John Barrington Eſq; is now lord here.

Out of this capital Maner of Clavering have been taken ſome ſubordinate ones, as we have obſerved; particularly the Maners of THURROCKS, and POUNCYNES, or Pounces. The manſion houſe of Thurrocks is on Buts Green above a mile north weſt from this Church. Pouncynes has no houſe now.

Sir John Walden, mentioned above, p. 570. who dyed in 1419, held one toft and 180 acres of land called Poucynes in Clavering, of Ralph Earl of Weſtmoreland by the twelfth part of a knight's fee; and 100 acres of arable, meadow, and wood, called Thurrocks; and one meſſuage and eighty acres of land, called Clerks, both alſo in this pariſh; of the ſaid Earl; Catharine, wife of John Barlee jun. and Margaret wife of John Langley, were his daughters and co-heirs (l). Margaret carried Rickling-Hall &c. to her huſband J. Langley: And Catharine brought this eſtate in marriage to her huſband John Barlee jun. Eſq; about the year 1422. This Family was very ancient; but as they were ſeated in the earlieſt times, even in the reign of K. Richard II, at Albury in Hertfordſhire, the more particular account of them belongs to that County, and therefore we ſhall beg leave to refer to Sir Henry Chauncy's Hiſtory p. 149. We have mentioned that Family alſo above, p. 86. 570.

John Barlee Eſq; who dyed 10 Novemb. 1541. held the maners of Thurrocks and Powcynes with appurtenances, and lands, tenements, and hereditaments in Clavering, Langley, Berden, and Arkſden of the King of his maner of Clavering, worth about 12 l. per ann. William his ſon was about three years old (m). He ſold theſe Maners, to

Sir William Petre, and John his ſon, as appears from a precept to the Sheriff, in Michaelmaſs term 1568, wherein they are called the Maners of Thurrocks and Pounces, with part of 6 meſſuages, 6 cottages, 10 tofts, 6 gardens, 4 orchards, 200 acres of arable, 60 of paſture, 16 of wood, and 7 l. rent.—John Lord Petre dyed 11 Octob. 1613, poſſeſs'd of theſe maners of Thurrocke and Pounces, holdan of the maner of Clavering (n). As did his ſon—William Lord Petre, who dyed in 1637 (o).

William Barlee aforeſaid of Thurrocks, married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of John Serle, of Barkway, by whom he had John, and ſeveral other ſons and daughters. He dyed in 1610, and his wife in 1619, and both lie buried in this Church with a monument.——John, the only ſurviving ſon, married Mary daughter of John Haynes, of Old Holt, in Gr. Birch, and had by her Haynes, William, and Elizabeth. He dyed 11 March 1633, and his wife in September 1643.——Haynes, their eldeſt ſon and heir, had three wives. 1. Margaret, eldeſt daughter of George Oliver, of Gr. Wilbraham, which brought him four ſons and nine daughters. 2. Mary, fourth daughter of Edmund Turner of Walden Gent. which dyed 9 March 1658. s. pr. 3. Mary daughter of William Riddleſdon, ſon of Sir Stephen Riddleſdon Kt. By her he had William, Charles, and Edward Haynes, who dyed 31 May 1696 aged 90 years. The latter married Urith, daughter of Auſtin Palgrave of Norfolk Bart. by whom he had Palgrave; William, who married Judith, only daughter of Richard Carr of Berden, Gent; Haynes: and Catharine, wife of Edward Hobert of Norfolk Eſq;—Palgrave Barlee Eſq; the eldeſt ſon, had two thirds of theſe Maners of Thurrocks and Pouncins, which he gave by will to Miſs Catharine Buckle: The other third part belongs to Mrs. Jane Allen. He dyed 14 May 1757. There is no male heir of the Barley family remaining.

2. The Maner of CURLES received that name from an ancient owner ſurnamed Crulle.

The manſion-houſe ſtands a little way ſouth from the Church, and is old. It belonged to the Walden family above-mentioned. Iſabella de Walden granted, 24 November 1403, all her lands in Clavering, to Peter Crulle Eſq; and Joane his wife (p). She releaſed, the ſame year, to Thomas Weſtle, Vicar of this Church, and John Baſſet Eſq; and his heirs, all her right in lands and tenements here called Chamberleyns, late Sir Thomas Chamberleyns, and afterwards Thomas Greys of Pelham (q).

From the Waldens it came, as the foregoing, to the Barlee family [D]. Haynes Barlee Eſq; lived here. From him it deſcended to Palgrave Barlee Eſq; and to Miſs Catharine Buckle, and Mrs. Allen.

3. GEDDINGS

Is ſo called from a family ſurnamed of Gedding, from the place of their reſidence in Huntingdonſhire. Sir Robert de Geddinges lies buried in the Chancel of the Church next to Bokeham in Surrey. This eſtate, very probably, came from Peche Lord of Plechedon-Hall in Henham, to Sir Robert Geddings with Mirabel his wife, daughter of Catharine Notbeme daughter and heir of Sir Geffrey Peche.

In 1392, 6 April, John, ſon and heir of Sir Robert de Gedding, granted to Roger Walden, William Bulcole, and Richard Scott, Clerks, and John Baſſet, all his lands in Clavering, and the Homage of Sir John Fitz-Rauff.

The 10th of March 1397, John Gedding releaſes all his eſtate in this maner called Le Geddynges in Clavering and Little Wenden, to Richard Walden, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and John Baſſet Eſq; (r).

In 1406, Richard, ſon and heir of John, who was ſon and heir of John de Geddyng, releaſed all his right in this, with the homage aforeſaid, to John Walden and others. And, in 1407, William, couſin and heir of John, ſon and heir of Sir Robert Geddyng, releaſed alſo all his right in the premiſſes, which were the ſaid John Geddyng's (s) [E]. See above, p. 593.

Whether the farm now called Fitz William's, heretofore Fitz-Richard's, belonged to Fitz-Rauff I do not find. Sir John Watts Knt. who dyed 4 September 1616, was poſſeſs'd of that capital meſſuage, or farm, called Fitz-Richard's, with 130 acres in Clavering, which he purchaſed of Edward Cotton; and a capital meſſuage, with 100 acres, called Wallers, alias Rowlers in Bridgend, bought of George and Robert Day—John was his ſon and heir (t). It was given in 1642, by Robert Dewhurſt Eſq; for the ſupport of a School of his foundation at Cheſhunt in Hertfordſhire, and for other charitable uſes.

Geddings, now otherwiſe called Clavering-Place, was in Captain Hatch of London, then in Henry Patten, Gent. who dyed 26 Auguſt 1707, and whoſe daughter Anne, brought it to her huſband John Stevenſon Eſq; of Cambridgeſhire. He dyed 2 June 1741, aged 75; and ſhe 27 Novemb. 1722, aged 49. It belongs now to Robert Stevenſon, Gent.

Pondes is alſo a good houſe here, belonging to the Barrington family. It was inhabited, in the latter part of the 16th century, by Thomas Welbore Gent. [F], who married Urſula daughter of Silveſter D'Anvers of Dauntesey in Wiltſhire Eſq; by Elizabeth one of the daughters of John Lord Mordaunt: She dyed 26 Decemb. 1591, and was buried in this Church with an epitaph.

A branch of the Cotton Family, of Cotton-hall in Suffolk, lived here formerly. William, ſecond ſon of William Cotton of that place, was the firſt that was of Clavering. And his deſcendents were, Thomas; Robert; Edmund; Roger, a general of the Dutch Forces, who dyed without iſſue about 1638 [G].

A meſſuage, and 110 acres of arable, 4 of meadow, 3 of wood, and 10 s. rent, in Clavering and Langley, were given, about the year 1347, by John de Bingham to the Hoſpital or Hoſtel, of St. John at Cantebrug (u), or Cambridge; now part of St. John's college, which enjoys that eſtate.

Arnolds, in this pariſh, belonged in 1445 to Joan wife of John Hotoft; and in 1548 to Peter Cutt (w).

Mr. Richard Marchant; William Watſon; John Pettit; Henry Salmon; George Wright; John Welſh; Richard Monſey; Robert Wakeling; Sam. Harriſon; and John Hinton, &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Charitable Gifts.

As to Margaret, the daughter, ſhe was married to Sir Richard Pole, Knight of the Garter, and had by him, Henry, Geffrey, Arthur, and Reginald; and Urſula married to Henry Lord Stafford. In 1513, ſhe petitioned K. The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, and St. Clement, has two Iſles, with a Chancel, of one pace, all leaded; a Tower with ſix Bells.

This Church was given to the Priory of Prittlewell by Robert de Eſſex founder of that Houſe in the reign of K. Henry II. The Rectory, or great Tithes, were appropriated to them, and a Vicarage endowed. That Convent enjoyed the Rectory, and preſented to the Vicarage, till the ſuppreſſion [H]. In 1543, K. Henry VIII. granted them, with the Tythes, to Henry Parker, and his heirs, to hold in capite, by the 40th part of a knight's fee. Notwithſtanding which, William Smith had them in 1550, I do not find by whoſe grant; but he took out a licence 14 October, to alienate them to Henry Parker, of Berden Eſq; (y). The 10th of November 1551, Sir Henry Parker and Mary his wife had a pardon of Alienation, for that the ſaid Henry would have his executors ſell the Rectory of Clavering, and Advowſon of the Vicarage, for payment of his debts and legacies: He dyed 2 Sept. 1551—John was his brother and heir, who held alſo the Priory of Berden (z). The 9th of February following, Robert Aſpeland alienated two parts of this Rectory and Advowſon to Mary Parker (a).

Afterwards this was in the Lady Mary Ramſey, who preſented to the living in 1592. She was eldeſt daughter of William Dale of Briſtol, Merchant, and ſecond wife to Sir Tho. Ramſey, Grocer, Lord Mayor of London in 1577. She, then a widow, gave this Rectory and Advowſon to the Hoſpitals of Chriſt Church, Bethlehem, and St. Thomas, who are preſent poſſeſſors. She gave to the ſame uſes the Maner and Rectory of Colne-Engaine, founded the Free-ſchool at Halſted, and was a great Benefactor to Peter-Houſe in Cambridge. [See above, p 218.] Her brother John Dale lived in this pariſh.

LANGLEY

Is a Hamlet in Clavering. The name is formed from the two Saxon words, Lang, long, and Ley, or Lei, Graſs ground or paſture. It is otherwiſe written in records Langelegh, and Hangeley. 'Tis not mentioned in Domeſday-book; the lands herein being included under Clavering.

The firſt time we find this Place mentioned, is in the account of lands taken from the Normans, in the beginning of K. John's reign [K]; when there belonged to it a Park.

Afterwards, this Eſtate was given to the Priory of St. Bartholomew in Weſt-Smithfield. Nothing ſhews exactly when and by whom this was done; but it may, I think, be collected from a Rental of St. Bartholomew's, when John de Kenſington was Prior; and from K. Hen. III's confirming Charter, dated at Winton in 1253; that it was the gift of Robert Fitz-Roger, to whom K. Henry II. had granted Clavering, as we have ſhewn above [L].

By the Extent of this Maner taken in 1306, it appears, that there belonged to it then 240 acres of arable land; a cloſe, and orchard; 4 acres of wood; 11 acres of meadow; 20 acres of ſeveral paſture for ten cows, at Godey; feed in the common and ſeveral fields for 100 ſheep. Rents of aſſiſe from the free tenants and villans, 30s. 6d. and one ploughſhare of the price of 9d. Pleas and perquiſites of Courts 3s. a year. The work of free and cuſtomary Tenants and ſervants, 31s. 8d. ob. Holden, by the free tenants in demeſne, 5 meſſuages, 45 acres and a half of arable; and by the Villans, and in Villenage, 11 meſſuages, 54 acres and a half of arable [M].

From another account in the hands of the late Peter le Neve Eſq; the particulars of this Maner, and eſtate, were, 227 acres of wood-ground; 113 acres of meadow and paſture ground; and Farms in and near Newport, to the amount of 315l. a year.

Langley-hall becoming veſted in the Crown at the Diſſolution of Religious Houſes, K. Henry VIII. granted it, with Langley-hall-grove, in 1543, to John Gate Eſq; (b). He, by licenſe, 15 Febru. 1550. alienated it to

William Bradbury Eſq; who dyed the ſame year, poſſeſs'd of it, and a water-mill, and 22 acres of land and meadow thereto adjoining;—Robert his ſon and heir, then twelve years old (c), dyed in 1576, and was ſucceeded by his brother—Henry (d), whoſe ſon and heir—William, dyed in 1607 (e), leaving his ſon—Henry Bradbury Eſq; under age. [See above, p. 527. 596.] Afterwards this eſtate was in the Family of Luther: Antony Luther of Doddinghurſt, Eſq; was poſſeſſed

[L] Part of the Charter runs thus. Et omnes terras & redditus cum pertinentiis quos habent Prior & Conventus ſancti Bartholomei in Langeleye de feodo Roberti filii Rogeri, & Johannis filii Roberti in Clavering.—In the Rental; Ibi habent Prior & Conventus quoddam manerium quod vocatur Langeley, quod tenetur de Dno Robt filii Rogeri per ſervit. iv s. & vi d. ſolvend. annuatim ad feſtum ſancti Michaelis pro omni terreno ſervicio. Qui tenet manerium de Clav'ing de Dno Rege in capite, de cujus d'mio eſt manerium de Langeley. In eodem manerio tenent quaſdam terras videlicet de Eldfeld de Rico de Kelſhall;—Hence I conclude this to have been the gift of Robert Fiz-Roger, to whom K. Henry II. gave Clavering. There was inded another Robert, ſon of Roger; but he dyed in 1309, and could not be the man, becauſe by the Inquiry it appears that this Robert was born but five years and an half before the date of the Confirming Charter.

[M] Each acre of arable was then valued at 6d. an acre: the herbage of the cloſe 20 d. per annum; the underwood 1s. an acre yearly; the 20 acres of paſture for the cows, 20s. the feed for the ſheep, 5s. a year.

Jacob Houblon Eſq; the preſent owner.

Langley-Lawn

is about half a mile weſt from Langley Chapel. It was in the family of Nightingale, mentioned under Newport. I do not find how this came to them; but, probably, from Thurgood. For William Nightingale married Gunnora, daughter of Geffrey Thurgood of Ugley: and Thomas Thurgood, and Criſtine his wife, lie buried in this Chapel.

Sir Thomas Nightingale Bart. built a pretty houſe here, which was called Clavering Park.

This was purchaſed by John Smith Eſq; a younger ſon of Sir Thomas Smith of Theydon-Mount, Bart. He left Anne his daughter and heir. She was married to Thomas Milner Eſq; who having pulled down the old one, built an elegant houſe here; He dyed in 1733;—Thomas Milner Eſq; was his ſon and heir: but he dyed 21 May 1742, and was ſucceeded by his couſin—Robert Milner.

Robert Cramond Eſq; had it afterwards. He departed this life in March 1762, and has left—Elizabeth, his only child and heir, a minor.

Langley-Chapel, dedicated to St. John the Evangeliſt, is a Chapel of eaſe to Clavering Church, to which it hath been annex'd from time immemorial. It was in being in K. Henry the ſecond's reign (f). A new Chancel was built at the charge of the Hoſpitals.

Clavering is rated to the land-tax at 1713 l. 2 s. 0 d. and Langley at 617 l. 0 s. 0 d.

2. BERDEN.

The name of this pariſh is formed from the two Saxon words, Beꞃe, corn, barley, and ðen, a valley. It is otherwiſe written in records Berdane, Berdon, Byerden.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign, Godman, a Sochman of Robert, was poſſeſs'd of Berden; which, at the time of the Survey, belonged to Suene, owner of the foregoing pariſh, and his under-tenant Alured [N].

Berden-hall

ſtands near the Church.

Not long after the Conqueſt, this Maner was holden by a Family ſurnamed de Rochford, from Rochford Town. See a particular account of them there. About the reign of K. Henry II. John de Rochford held three knights fees and a half of the Honor of Raleigh of Henry de Eſſex. And as his poſterity enjoyed Berden, it is highly probable this was one of the fees he held of the Honor of Raleigh. Sir Guy de Rochford had free warren in his maner of Berden, in 1247 (g). He held in Berden, 1 meſſuage with a garden, 606 acres of arable, 6 acr. of meadow, 12 of paſture, 24 s. rent of aſſiſe, 1 wood, 1 windmill, and the advowſon of the church, of the King in ca. by the ſervice of one knight's-fee. And dying 2 Edw. I. was ſucceeded by his nephew—John de Rochford, ſon of his ſiſter Maud (*).—Robert was his ſon and heir, who, with Iſolda his wife, daughter of William Fitz-Warine, held Rochford and Berden. He dyed in 1337, and his heir was his ſon——Sir Thomas Rochford (h).

The heirs of Rochford failing, K. Edw. III, in 1340, granted Rochford to Bohun Earl of Northampton (i); and I preſume Berden was included in that grant. For William de Bohun, and Elizabeth his wife, gave the maner of Berden to the Abbey of Walden, after the death of Chriſtina, wife of Robert de Rochford (k). Of Sir John de Nevill of Raby, who dyed in 1388, the Abbat of Walden held Berden-hall, by the ſervice of one knight's fee (l) [O].

It continued in Walden-Abbey till the Diſſolution: After which, in 1538, K. Henry VIII. granted, with the ſite of that Abbey, and many other lands, the maner of Berden to Sir Thomas Audeley, Lord Chancellor (m). It deſcended, as Walden did, to Thomas Lord Howard and Catharine his wife; and they, by licenſe dated 2 September 1597 (n), alienated this maner of Birden, alias Barden, and 20 meſſuages, 10 cottages, 1 mill, 600 acres of arable, 100 acr. of meadow, 200 of paſture, 80 of wood, here and in Ougley &c. to

Thomas Sutton Eſq; Afterwards Berden-hall was purchaſed by the Family of Calvert of Pelham Furneuſe. William Calvert Eſq; had it a few

The PRIORY of BERDEN:

Was a ſmall Hoſpital, or Priory, for Canons of the Order of St. Auguſtin, dedicated to St. John the Evangeliſt: it is not known when, or by whom it was founded, but moſt probably it was in the beginning of the reign of K. Henry III. by ſome of the Rochfords. The Patronage of it was given by William Bohun Earl of Northampton, to the Abbey of Walden, in 1343 (o). In 1266, 51 Henry III. the Prior had licence to hold a Fair here. Their lands, beſides what they had in this pariſh, lay in Manuden, Henham, Rickling, and Rochford (p). The Prior was alſo Patron of the Rectory, which they got annexed in 1427, to their Houſe by Biſhop Grey, upon complaints of their poverty; and a Vicarage was appointed, and endowed with all oblations, obventions, and other profits of that kind, and all ſmall Tithes of this pariſh (q). But Poverty preſſing again, in 1514, Biſhop Fitz-James appointed that the Vicarage ſhould alſo be appropriated to their Houſe, which ſince has been no more than a Curacy, to which the owner of the Priory-lands nominates, and the Biſhop gives a Licence. The Biſhop did appropriate it, though theſe things were ſeldom done with the good pleaſure of the Dioceſan, but from a powerful intereſt which the Regulars could make with the Pope [P].

This Priory, valued according to Dugdale at 29 l. 6 s. 4 d. and, according to Speed at 31 l. 5 s. 1 d. ob. per annum, was, upon the Suppreſſion, granted by K. Henry VIII. in 1538, to Henry Parker and his heirs male, together with the Rectory, to be held in capite, by the tenth part of a knight's fee. He dyed 2 September 1551, leaving John his brother and heir 66 years old (r).

The ſite of this Priory of Berden and the Rectory were afterwards in Sir Thomas Wroth; who alienated them to Thomas Averie and Margery his wife, by licence dated 17 March 1553. He dyed 4 Decemb. 1576.

The next poſſeſſor of this eſtate was Sir Thomas Ramſey mentioned above under Clavering. He, by licenſe dated 2 September 1583, alienated to the Mayor and Commonalty of the city of London, Governors of the Hoſpitals of Chriſt's Church, Bridewell, and St. Thomas, This Maner or Priory, with the appurtenances, twenty meſſuages, twenty cottages, twenty gardens, twenty orchards, a thouſand acres of arable, 200 of meadow, 300 of paſture, 100 of wood, and 100 s. rent; and the Rectories of Beerden and Clavering, and the Advowſon of thoſe two Churches. Hence it appears, that what Lady Ramſey gave at Clavering was by deſignation of Sir Thomas her huſband.

By the inſtrument for endowing the Vicarage, quoted by Mr. Newcourt, it appears, that the Vicar of Berden was to receive all maner of great and ſmall, and mixt Tithes of the land called Bolyngton's-End, and of 50 acres belonging to the tenement of Edmund Roke. Whether that was once a part of a Pariſh called Bolington, ſome of the lands of which ſeem laid to the neighbouring pariſhes, or whether it was ſo called from lying next to Bolington, nothing ſhews. Yet the aſcertaining theſe Tythes to the Vicar of Berden particularly, looks as if there had been once another pretender to them.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 759 l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Nicolas, ſtands low: moſt of thoſe ſo placed, or low built, are dedicated to that Saint; ſo thoſe dedicated to St. Michael ſtand on a riſing ground. It conſiſts of a body, and a north and ſouth iſle; but the Chancel is only of one pace: all leaded. The Tower, built of pebbles, contains 5 Bells.

There are no inſtitutions regiſtred, This being only a Curacy in the nomination of the Governors of the Hoſpitals.

3. UGLEY.

This pariſh is in the great road from Biſhop's-Stortford to Walden.

The name of it is otherwiſe written in records Uggele, Ugghelea, Huggele. But the true name, as we are inform'd by the Rev. P. Wright, was Oakley, which the Norman Clerks, according to their uncouth way of pronunciation, turned into Ugley.

Uluuin had this lordſhip in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; which, at the time of the Survey, was one of the fourteen Maners in this County holden by Alberic de Vere [R]. Hence his deſcendents, the Veres Earls of Oxford, continued lords paramount of this place till it became united to the Dutchy of Lancaſter.

UGLEY-HALL, which is the Maner houſe, ſtands near the weſt end of the Church.

Reginald Fitz-Peter, who dyed in 1286, held the maner of Uggele, of Robert Fitz-Roger Lord of Clavering, by the ſervice of half a fee,—John was his ſon and heir (s).

In 1314, John de Vinonia, held the maner of Uggele, in the name of dower, of William Tochet, who held it of John de Clavering by the ſervice of one knight's fee, and this John held it of the Earl Oxford, by the ſame ſervice (t).

Under John de Vere, that dyed in 1360, Thomas Gobion held a knight's fee in Hugele. And alſo in 1371, under Thomas de Vere (u).

By this time it was in the Crown; how it came thither doth not appear. John of Gaunt, Earl of Richmond, fourth ſon of K. Edw. III, having married Blanch one of the daughters and coheirs of Thomas Plantagenet, Duke of Lancaſter, became in her right Duke of Lancaſter, and among other eſtates, had with her the maner of Uggele (w).

Under John de Nevill Lord of Raby, who dyed in 1388, Thomas Waterton held one knight's fee at Ugle-hall (x).

In 1409, K. Henry IV. granted the maner and village of Ugley to John Leventhorp, and Catharine his wife, and to their heirs male, in ſocage, to hold of the Dutchy of Lancaſter (y). He dyed in 1432, leaving——John his ſon and heir, to whom K. Henry VI, in 1447, granted Free-warren in his lands at Ugley (z). This John dyed in 1484. Thomas Heath Eſq; with Stanſted. He dyed 7 Septemb. 1741. From him they paſſed to his ſon——Bailey-Heath Eſq; who dyed in July 1760. They are now in his widow—Mrs. Bridget Heath, during the minority of her eldeſt ſon William. [See above, p. 579.]

The MANER of BOLLINGTON.

Bollington-hall is about half a mile ſouth weſt from this Church.

According to Domeſday-book, Suene had a Maner here, and Robert de Gernon another. The latter was by the Surveyors allowed to have come into his fairly: It lay contiguous to his Maner of Stanſted. Suene is found to hold his by Invaſion of the King's right to thoſe lands [S].

Brendhale is often mentioned with this Maner, as if they were diſtinct, though it ſeems to have been the ſame as Bollington-hall, ſo named from having been burnt. If this was once a diſtinct Pariſh, as it ſeems to have been, and the lands abſorbed into the neighbouring villages, this might happen upon the Invaſion of Suene, who got it diſmembred to conceal his fraud.

A freeman named Godwin held Bolitun and Bertun under Earl Harold, in Edward the Confeſſor's reign; At the time of the Survey, they [R] The Family of Leventhorp derived themſelves from John Leventhorp of Leventhorp-hall in Yorkſhire, who ſettled at Sabridgeworth in Hertfordſhire in the reign of K. Richard II; was three times Knight of the Shire, and Executor to K. Henry V. His deſcendants lived in great reputation, and were allied by marriage to theſe Families, Touchet, Barrington, Tyrell, Clovill, Barley, Parker, Brograve, Mildmay, Allington, Bedel. Sir Thomas Leventhorp, who ſold to Sir Thomas Middleton, was killed by a ſtroke of a horſe, at Melbourne. The Honor devolved to Sir Charles, Rector of White Rothing, with whom it expired, and the name, in Hertfordſhire at leaſt, became extinct. [See above, p. 471.] As the Leventhorp Family were not reſident in this county, but at Sabridgeworth in Hertfordſhire, we thought a longer account of them here improper, and beg leave to refer to Sir Hen. Chauncy's Hiſt. of Hertfordſhire, p. 181.—Arms of Leventhorp. Argent, a bend componée, gules and ſable, cotized of the ſecond.

[S] It may be aſked how ſuch an Invader as King William ſhould ſuffer himſelf to be invaded by his ſubjects? It may be remembred that Suene was Sheriff of Eſſex to collect the King's revenue. And conſidering the King was frequently in Normandy, he might have Opportunity of making a long arm, and laying a ſlice of ground to his Maner of Clavering and bringing deficiences into his account, which, when he was out of office, a Jury would detect.——It is obſervable, that the Conqueror, who took generally one third of a County for his own Demeſne, made himſelf heir to the poſſeſſions of Harold, as perhaps well choſen.——The confuſion which happened from Suene's chopping and changing and ſmuggling lands, brought the people into ſuch an uncertainty, that the Juries knew not to which Pariſh ſome of them belonged. Brend-hall is, in one Return, ſaid to be in the maner of Rickling which was the King's demeſne; ſo Suene might exempt his lands in Bolington from the ſervice of a ſubject by tacking them to the King's maner.

were among the incroachments made by the great Suene of Eſſex [T]: And Robert Gernon held alſo ſome lands in Bolitun, in demeſne [V].

In the reign of K. Edward I. this Maner belonged to Fulk de Batonia, or Bath. He ſold the maner of Brendehall in Bolington to William de Montchenſy: and is ſaid elſewhere to have mortgaged his maner of Boliton le Brendhale, to the ſame William, for corn he had of him (d) [W]. This maner was afterwards parcell'd out.

For Humfrey de Waleden mentioned above, p. 582. at the time of his deceaſe in 1331, held certain lands in the Hamlet of Bolinton in the pariſh of Berden of Sir Robert de Rochford abovemention'd, p. 615. Andrew, ſon of Roger de Walden, brother of the ſaid Humfrey, was his heir (e).

Sir William de Morle of Great-Hallingbury who dyed in 1378, held the moiety of a Fee in Boliton called Brend-hall;—Thomas was his ſon and heir (f).

John Walden held of Anne widow of Tho. de Morle, as of her maner of Gr. Hallingbury, by the ſervice of half a fee, one toft and 180 acres of land in Uggele called Brend-hall, parcel of the maner of Rickling. He dyed in 1419, and Catharine, wife of John Barlee, and Margaret, wife of Henry Langley were his ſiſters and coheirs (g). [See above, p. 583.]. Thomas Langley Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe in 1471, held of the Lord Say, as of his maner of Sabrichford, half a tenement called B[illegible]t-hall, beſides Rickling-hall, which ſaid maners extended into the Villages of Rickling and Uggele (h).

In 1502, this Lordſhip was given to Weſtminſter-Abbey, by Sir Reginald Bray, John Cutt, Edmund Dudley, and others; ſtyled, the maner of Bollington, and 2 meſſuages, 250 acres of arable, 80 acr. of meadow, 60 of paſture, and 20 of wood, and 40 s. rent in Clavering, Langley, Gardeyn [Berden] Wiken, Manuden, Ugley, and Farnham (i). A Fine paſſed for the premiſſes, in Trinity-Term 1504, between John Abbot of Weſtminſter, plaintiff, and Sir John Cutts, and Elizabeth his wife deforciants (k).

After the Suppreſſion of Monaſteries, K. Henry VIII. in 1542, granted to the Dean and Chapter of Weſtminſter, and their ſucceſſors, in pure alms, the maners of Bullingtons in Uggley, Bullingtons in Clavering, Pynchpoles, and other maners, &c. with the appertenances (l). [See above, p. 615.]

But in 1553, K. Edward VI. granted the maner of Bullingtons in Ugley to Richard Chamond, and others (m).

Thomas Bucke who dyed 6 Decemb. 1562, held the farm or maner of Bolingtons, parcel of the poſſeſſions of the Cathedral Church of St. Peter's Weſtminſter, and 2 meſſuages, 3 tofts, 3 gardens, 108 acres of arable, 40 of meadow, 200 of wood, and 2 s. rent, in Ugley, Stanſted, and Bearden, of the Queen, as of her maner of Eaſt-Greenwich, by fealty only, in free ſocage and not in capite, worth 4 l. a year.—John was his ſon and heir 22 years old (n).—Robert Buck, who dyed 28 Novemb. 1620, held the ſame, with ſome other parcels in this pariſh, and a conſiderable eſtate at Leeds, and elſewhere, in Kent.—Thomas was his couſin and heir, fifty years old (o).

This eſtate has ſince been in the Family of Symonds, and of Pepys, of the Pool in Yeldham. John Poulter, Attorney at law at Clare, having got it into his hands, ſold it to William Plummer Eſq; late Knight of the Shire for the County of Hertford.

Admiral Ruſſel, afterwards Earl of Orford, built a good Houſe in this pariſh, which from him is called Orford Houſe. It has been greatly enlarged, and fine plantations and improvements made to it, by the preſent worthy owner, Iſaac Whittington Eſq; one of the Six Clerks in the Court of Chancery [X].

Mr. Thomas Mumford; and Ward Shepherd, have alſo ſome lands here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 712 l.

Robert Bucke, citizen and draper of London, born at Bollington-hall in this pariſh, by his will, dated 17 Novemb. 1620, charged his lands in Kent, or Surrey, with an annual Rent of Twenty pounds per annum, to be appropriated by the Drapers Company, towards clothing three poor men, and three poor women of the pariſhes of Ugley, Manuden, and Stanſted, alternately: Such as are of honeſt name and fame, and have dwelt in the ſaid pariſhes four years next before the receipt of the ſaid cloth.—To every one of the ſaid three poor Men, one yard and a half of broad cloth, London meaſure, and two yards of bays for lining, to make them Coats with ſleeves: and two yards and a half of Devonſhire kerſey, to make them ſloppes, or breeches, and four yards of black cotton, and three ſheep ſkins to line the ſame; one ell and a half of brown Holland, to make them doublets, and three yards of Jannis Fuſtian, and three quarters of an ell of Roan canvas, to line the ſame: one Monmouth Cap: and ten ſhillings a-piece in money to make up their aparell, and to buy them hoſe and ſhoes.—And to every one of the ſaid poor Women, three yards and a quarter of broad cloth, country meaſure, ſtands ſouth of the two laſt deſcribed Pariſhes. Moſt of the Houſes are in a Vale, through which runs the river Stort; but ſome of the arable lands are on higher ground.

4. MANUDEN

The name is written in records theſe various ways. Manuden, Manewdon, Manyden, Magghedana, Menghedana, Magellana; and is vulgarly called Mallendine. The name ſeems to be formed from the two Saxon words, Mæne, bad, or common, and ðen, a valley.

In Edward the Confeſſor's reign the lands in this Pariſh belonged to ten Freemen. At the time of the Survey they were held by Robert Gernon; Alberic de Ver; Saſſelin; William of Warenn; and Ralph Baignard.

Afterwards they were divided into the following Maners. 1. The maner of Manuden-hall. 2. . . . that of Batails. 3. The maner of Payton-hall. 4. . . . that of Pinchpoles. 5. . . . that of Sawcemeres.

1. MANUDEN-HALL

ſtands a little way, north-eaſt, from the Church.

This was plainly what belonged to Robert Gernon, lord of Stanſted Montfichet, [See above, p. 576, 578.] becauſe it deſcended to Playz as Benfield-Bury did, then to Howard, and de Ver [Y].

Under Richard de Playz, who dyed in 1327, John de Baſſingbourne held a quarter of a knight's fee in Manewden (q). He held the ſame under him, or another Richard de Playz, who dyed in 1360 (r).

Sir John Howard held, by the courteſy of England, after the death of Margaret his wife daughter and heir of John Plays, who dyed in 1388, this 4th part of a fee in Manewdon, then called Ayleeſhall, lately holden by John Baſſingbourne.——Elizabeth wife of Sir John Howard, was their grand-daughter, and next heir (s).

In K. Henry the VIIth's reign, John Gardiner held---the maner of Manuden of the King, as of his maner of Clavering-bury, by fealty and rent of 5 s. 11 d. per ann. and ſuit at the court at Clavering worth 10 l. per ann.---And lands called Wood-Hollands, and other lands and tenements, formerly called Wood-Hollands, in Manuden, of John Earl of Oxford, as of his maner of Benefeld-Bury in Stanſted-Montfichet, each by the fourth part of a knight's fee, and rent of 34 s. 4 d. and 23 s. 4 d. per ann. And lands and tenements in this pariſh, formerly William Fitz-Warren's, of the ſaid Earl of Oxford, as of the maner aforeſaid;—And other lands and tenements in this pariſh, holden of the Warden and Fellows of New College in Oxford, as of their maner of Takeley, by fealty and yearly rent of 20 s. He dyed 2 September 1508, leaving—Henry, his ſon and heir, aged 17 years (t).

This eſtate was afterwards in the Families of Bradbury, Crawley, and Meade, mentioned above, p. 587, 593, 595, &c.

Thomas Bradbury, who dyed 9 Janu. 1509, held the maner of Manewden, Woodhall-lands, Fitz-Warrens, &c. His nephew—William was his heir (u).

Thomas Crawley of Wendon-Lowghtes Eſq; at the time of his deceaſe, 29 Septemb. 1539, held the maner of Manewden-Hall of Thomas Barrington Eſq; and Lady Winifred Haſtings his wife, of their maner of Clavering, by fealty and yearly rent of 2 s. 16 d. then worth 27 l.—Anne

Crawley, his great grandaughter, was his next heir (w) [Z]. But Margery daughter of Thomas Crawley the elder, great aunt to the ſaid Anne, brought this eſtate in marriage to

John Bendiſh of Bowre-Hall in Steple-Bumſted Eſq; He dyed in 1585; leaving—Thomas his ſon and heir; whoſe ſon—Sir Thomas Bendiſh Bart. [ſee above, p. 351.] ſold this eſtate to

Sir John Meade of Wendon-Loughts Kt.—Thomas Meade Eſq; his ſon dyed in 1678, whoſe ſon and ſucceſſor—John Meade Eſq; mortgaged Manuden-hall to . . . More; that ſold it, 20 June 1682, to

Fœlix Calvert of Pelham, Eſq; and his ſon and heir——William Calvert Eſq; ſold it again in 1712 to Thomas Tooke D. D. Rector of Lamborne, and Maſter of B. Stortford's School. Mrs. Anne Tooke his widow, daughter of Richard Lydal M. D. Warden of Merton college, enjoy'd it in jointure, after his deceaſe. Then, after her, according to the limitation in the Doctor's will, it deſcended to his brother, the Rev. John Tooke: who departing this life in 1764, was ſucceeded by his ſon the Rev.——Robert Tooke [A]. The Court-leet for this maner is called under a tree near the Hall, in the ſtreet called White Aſh-Court.

2. The MANER of BATAILS.

The manſion-houſe ſtands about a mile north-weſt from the Church, and is a building raiſed by Sir William Waad Kt. It hath been always reputed to take its name from one of its ancienteſt owners, ſurnamed Bataile, or Battaile. But they muſt have been poſſeſs'd of it before the reign of K. Henry III. when the Inquiſitions poſt mortem began to be preſerved. For tho' John Bataile held lands in Little Chiſhull in 1375 (x); and we meet with owners of maners and lands of that ſurname, at Wivenhoo (y), and many other parts of this County; we do not find any of them ſet down, in the Inquiſitions or Eſcheats which begin anno 27 Henry III, as owners, or lords, of this maner. But ſome of that ſurname were early Inhabitants of this pariſh. For John Bataile of Manewden was witneſs to a deed of the Prior of Hatfeild-Regis: without date.—Richard Bataile was witneſs to a deed of Richard, ſon and heir of John de Ho de Manegdene: without date.—Richard Batayle, the ſame or another, was witneſs to a deed alſo without date, by which Ernold de Scoemad gave lands to the Priory of Hatfeild, near the land of Martin de Pakeho in Manewden: William de Pinchepoll was the other witneſs (z) [B]. And we further find, that John Battle gave 2 acres of arable land, in the tenure of John Thurgood, for the maintenance of certain lights in this Church (a).

The Bataile family at Wivenhoo ended, about the year 1300, in two daughters coheireſſes, and none of them or their heirs, had any thing to do here.

William Fynderne Eſq; who dyed in 1444, held eight marks of yearly rent, iſſuing out of three meſſuages, 600 acres of arable, 20 of meadow, 200 of paſture, and 40 of wood, in Manewden, Berden, Farnham, and Rickling, of the grant of Thomas Bataill Eſq;—Thomas Fynderne Knt. was his ſon and heir (b).

Sir John Hiron, who dyed 8 July 1521, held the maner of Battell, alias Manuden, of the King as of his Duchy of Lancaſter, by the ſervice of half a knight's fee—Giles, his ſon and heir, was ſeventeen years old (c). We hear no further here of this family. See under Waltham-Stow.

Of Roger Townſhend Eſq; the Manor of Manuden, alias Batteſhall, in Manuden, and divers other lands in Manuden, Farnham, Berden, and Furneux-Pelham, were purchaſed by Owen Waller of London fiſhmonger, deſcended from the Wallers of Parham in Suffolk. He dyed poſſeſs'd of them 24 May, 1574, leaving Anne, his daughter and heir, born in 1571 (d). She was afterwards married to Sir William Waad, or Waade, Kt. for many years Clerk of the Council to Qu. Elizabeth and K. James I, Embaſſador to the Emperor Rodolph, to Philip of Spain, to Henry IV, of France, and to Mary Queen of Scots; Commiſſary-general of England; Inſpector of the Iriſh Forces; of the Privy Council to King James I; and 8 years Lieutenant of the Tower; this is ſaid in his Epitaph, and that he dyed at his maner of Battiles-Waade 25 October 1623, aged ſeventy ſeven. He built the preſent Manſion-houſe [C].

His Father was Armigell Waad Eſq; of an ancient family in Yorkſhire: Clerk of the Council to K. Henry VIII, and Edw. VI, ſtyled the Engliſh Columbus, having been the firſt of our nation that diſcovered America [D]: He married, firſt Anne Marbury, by whom he had 3 children; and next Alice Paten, by which he had 17 children. He dyed 20 June 1568, and lies buried in the Chancel of Hamſtead in Mid-

[C] The following good Character of him is worthy of the attention and imitation of poſterity:

"You that have place and charge from Princes truſt,
Which Honours may make thankfull not unjuſt,
Drawe neare, and ſet your Conſcience and your Care
By this true Watch of State; whoſe minutes were Religious thoughts; whoſe Howers Heavens ſacred food;

And ſoveraigne ſafety; whom ambitious Key
Never wound up to guiltines, bribe, or fee.
Zeale only, and a Conſcience cleare and even,
Rays'd him on earth, and wound him up to heaven."

[D] So it is ſaid in his Epitaph, . . . In maximarum artium diſciplinis, prudentiaque civili inſtructiſſimus, plurimarum linguarum callentiſſimus, legationibus honoratiſſimis perfunctus, & inter Britannos Indiarum Americarum explorator primus . . . And Dr. Fuller affirms, that "his ſeveral voy-"ages are largely deſcribed in Mr. Hackluite his Travels." Worthies in Yorkſhire, p. 202. but we cannot find them there.

dleſex. Upon his monument is a full account of him.

Sir William Waad, at the time of his deceaſe, held two parts of this maner of Manuden, alias Battles-hall, of the King; and likewiſe the third part of the ſame, alſo of the King, to whom it had eſcheated; and both of the Honor of Mandevill, parcel of the Duchy of Lancaſter.——James Waade Eſq; his ſon by his ſecond wife, daughter and coheir of Sir Humfrey Browne Kt. and then 19 years old, was his heir (e). And he was ſucceeded by his ſon——William Waade Eſq; commonly called Captain Waade, on account of his being Captain of the trained bands. He married Anne, daughter of Haynes Barlee of Clavering, Eſq; and had by her, William, and Anne, who dyed young of the ſmall-pox. He was murdered July 1677, in a field near his houſe, by one Parſons, a fellow of a debauched life, and ill fame, reputed by ſome a high-way-man; who had inſinuated himſelf into his company, and whom he had commonly entertained at his houſe, aſſiſted upon many occaſions, and from time to time conferred many ſingular obligations upon. A ſufficient caution to Gentlemen, not to grow too ſoon intimate with perſons whoſe true character they are not acquainted with [E].

Anne his widow ſurvived him many years, not being buried till 1 Decemb. 1724. As they had no iſſue ſurviving [F], he was ſucceeded in this eſtate by his ſiſter Anne, wife of Sir Edward Baeſh of Stanſted-Bury in Hertfordſhire, Kt. They, having no children, ſold this eſtate to

William Calvert of Furneuſe Pelham, Eſq; who married Honor, daughter of Peter Calvert of Hunſdon, Eſq; He ſettled it on his eldeſt ſon ——Fœlix Calvert Eſq; who dyed in May 1755, having married Chriſtina, daughter of Joſias Nicholſon Eſq; by whom he had—Nicholſon Calvert Eſq; the preſent poſſeſſor.

3. The MANER of PAYTON-HALL

Seems to be that which William de Warenn held, at the time of the ſurvey, by the name of Pachenhou [G]. The manſion houſe is ſituate a mile and half north of the Church. This once gave name to a family, mention'd under the foregoing maner. We find very little account of this eſtate till the time of K. Henry VII.

It belonged then to the Newport family mentioned under Tolleſhunt Knights, Salcot, Verley, and of which ſee a particular account in Sir Henry Chauncy, p. 140, &c.

Robert Newport Eſq; by Margery his wife, ſiſter and coheir to Walter att Lee, had his ſon——George Newport Eſq; whoſe ſon and heir ——Robert Newport Eſq; that dyed 7 Novemb. 1515, or 1518, held this maner of Pakenhoo-hall of Lady Bradbury, widow.—John his ſon, then 30 years old, ſucceeded him: He held Pakenhoo-hall of the Counteſs of Saliſbury; and departed this life 26 May 1524, leaving Grace, his only daughter and heir, wife of Henry ſon of Henry Parker Lord Morley (f). [See above, p. 512.]. And this maner continued in all probability ſome years in that noble Family.

This Eſtate was afterwards in Anne, daughter of Haynes Barlee Eſq; and wife of William Waad Eſq; ſhe enjoyed it till her deceaſe in 1724, when it deſcended to her nephew

Palgrave Barlee Eſq; of Curles in Clavering. He departed this life 14 May 1757, and having no iſſue left this, with his other eſtates, to his ſiſter . . . Hobart's grandaughter

Miſs Catharine Buckle. [See above, p. 613.]

4. The MANER of PINCHPOLES.

The manſion houſe ſtands in a bottom near a mile north north-eaſt from the Church.

(f) Inquiſ. 7 & 16 Hen. VIII.

[E] The occaſion of this tragical affair is related as follows, in a Pamphlet printed at the time, intituled Boteler's Caſe 'In July 1677, a difference ſuddenly aroſe between Capt. Waad and Robert Parſons, becauſe, as it is ſuſpected, the Captain had refuſed to lend the other Money, as he deſired him. High words paſt on either ſide, ſo that Capt. Waad called the fellow Thief; and he in return gave the Captain the lye twice, who was thereupon ſo far provok'd, as to turn him out of his company, not without blows. Parſons, bent upon revenge, went to London, and trepann'd one William Boteler, down to Biſhop's-Stortford, to be his ſecond in fighting the Captain; but under pretence of procuring a reconciliation between them. Parſons, not daring himſelf to go to the Captain's houſe, ſtaid in a field near, called Ballengers grave, and ſent Boteler either with a challenge, or to decoy the Captain to the place where Parſons was waiting. However, the Captain walked down with Boteler to the place, having in his hand his child's ſword, which is ſuppoſed to have been carried as a little ſtick might have been, or what is called a play-thing; he was found dead, being run through the reins or bottom of the back, the little ſword ſticking in a tree: Whilſt that tragedy was acting, Boteler rode gently on towards B. Stortford: when he was about half way, Parſons upon a ſwift gallop overtook him, and crying out to him only 'He is fallen,' paſs'd by him, and never ſtopp'd till he came to Stortford. They got to the Rein-Deer, whence they had come that morning, and by the help of Elizabeth, or as ſhe was uſually called Betty Aynſworth, the landlady of that Inn, had horſes that carried them off before any purſuit was made. Boteler was taken, and executed at Chelmsford 10 Septemb. 1677. Parſons got to Holland, whence coming over with K. William, he obtained a Pardon, to the everlaſting infamy of thoſe who procured a pardon for a wretch guilty of ſo baſe a murder. The woman, Aynſworth was alſo tried upon the evidence of Mr. Saunders Apothecary, who over-heard her in the ſtreet aſking them 'Have you killed him then?' She endeavoured to throw herſelf into the river from Chelmsford Bridge as ſhe was carried to gaol, but was prevented: The Jury had not proof enough to find her guilty. ——This famous landlady had been carted out of Cambridge for a bawd, then ſettled at Stortford, and at length got into ſo good plight as to entertain the Nobility and foreign Embaſſadors between London and Newmarket, ſerving them in plate with all the rarities they deſired. She had once a frolick, ſtill talked of in the town: The once Proctor of the Univerſity, who had driven her away, lodged one night at her houſe with others whom the ſtage-coach had brought; they beſpoke, as uſual, their mutton and fowls; after which, to their great ſurpriſe, was ſerved up a moſt elegant ſupper all in plate with Margoux and Pontac, which they were afraid to touch leſt they ſhould have a Lord's reckoning to pay. Upon which the Woman appeared, and ſaid it was the leaſt ſhe could do in return of that Gentleman's whipping her out, by which ſhe had ſo much advanced herſelf.'

[F] Arms of Waade. Azure, a ſaltier between 4 eſcallops, or.----The family uſually wrote their name Waad, as I find in a book now in my poſſeſſion, formerly belonging to Sir William Waad.

This is what Saſſelin held at the time of the Survey, by the name of Pincepo [H].

An ancient family, mentioned above, took from hence the ſurname of Pinchepoll.

In Michaelmaſs-term 1499, a fine paſſed for this maner between John Cutte and Edmund Dudley, plaintiffs, and Richard Walter and Ela his wife deforc' (g). And in 1502, the ſaid Cutte and Dudley obtained a licenſe to give to the Abbot of Weſtminſter and his ſucceſſors the maner of Pinchpoole in Manewdone, and 100 acres of arable, ten of meadow, 60 of paſture, 20 of wood, and 4 s. rent, one roſe, two cloves of gilli-flowers, and one capon, in Manewdon, Ugley, Beardon, and Stanſted-Monſichet in Eſſex, to hold in pure alms (h).

At the diſſolution of Abbies, this becoming veſted in the Crown, K. Henry VIII, in 1542, granted the maner of Pinchpoles, and ſeveral others, to the Dean and Chapter of Weſtminſter in pure alms (i). But, in 1553, K. Edward VI. granted the maners of Bullingtons, Pynchepoles, and Elſnam-Croſs to

Richard Chamond, and others (k). Chamond, by licence the ſame year, ſold Pinchpoles to Clement Buck of Manewden. He dyed 10 April 1577, poſſeſs'd of this maner, or farm, with lands at Lytle-hill, and Parkers tenement in Rickling; leaving—John his ſon and heir (l); who, 7 Janu. 1592, ſold this maner or farm with appertenances in Manudyne, to Clement Buck (m). He had alſo the maner of Fairſted. [See above, p. 119.]—Suſanna was his only daughter and heir, ten years old (n). It was afterwards in Peter Knight of Weſt-Ham Eſq; whoſe ſon—Peter ſucceeded him: He married Charlotte daughter of . . . Burnaſton Eſq; and had by her—Joſeph Douglas Knight Eſq; who hath married Sarah only ſurviving daughter of the Rev. Wentworth Bradbury.

5. The MANER of SAWCEMERES, or SAWCEMOTES,

If originally a diſtinct maner, ſeems to have been that of Ralph Baynard, the reſt in this pariſh having been accounted for [I]. It belonged to the Duchy of Lancaſter, or rather to the Honor of Mandeville that was incorporated into that Duchy. The manſion houſe is a long mile weſt from the Church. From time immemorial this maner belonged to a family of this ſurname. John Sawcemer held it by a moiety of one knight's fee.—Then John Batayle.

About the year 1575, it belonged to John Thurgood of Stanſted; he dyed 15 Feb. 1613-14. In the Inquiry it is called a capital meſſuage, by the name of Sawemers: He had alſo divers other lands at Uggrove-hill in Stanſted.—Nicolas was his ſon and heir (o). It was lately purchaſed of the heirs of Thomas Thurgood by Philip Martin Gent. Attorney at Law, of Epping.

Mr. Thomas White; William Goldſmith; John Bridge; James Laward; Thomas Aſhby; John Redington; Henry Packman; John Wilſon, &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

Charitable Gifts.

Mr. William Bull, citizen and haberdaſher of London, by his will in 1569, gave a Mark yearly to the Poor of this pariſh.

Mr. Robert Buck's gift of Six ſuits of apparel. [See under Berden.]

John Jacklyn, by his will in 1659, gave a little tenement.

The Rev. Mr. Pakeman, of Kenſington, by his will in 1675, gave another little tenement.

Mr. Thomas Parker, wollen-draper, in his will 1699, gave 100 l. to be laid out in a free-hold eſtate.

Mr. William Gardiner, citizen and apothecary of London, gave alſo by will, in 1709, one hundred pounds, to be laid out in a free-hold eſtate.

Here is a Fair on Eaſter-Monday.

This pariſh is rated to the Land-tax at 1223 l.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Mary, is built in Cathedral form, with north and ſouth tranſept: It hath a Tower, with five Bells, and a ſpire. The Church and Chancel are tyled: the tranſepts leaded. The north tranſept belongs to Batailshall [K].

This Church was given by Richard de Camvill and Alice his wife to the Monks of St. Melan in Bretagne, who had a Cell at Hatfield-Regis before it was turned into a Priory; as may be ſeen above, p. 506 [L].

The Rectory, or great Tithes, were afterwards appropriated to King's Hatfeild Priory: and a Vicarage was here ordained and endowed, of which the Priors and Convent continued patrons till their diſſolution.

After that K. Henry VIII, in 1545, granted the Rectory, and Advowſon of the Vicarage of Manewden to Sir Humfrey Browne, and Elizabeth his wife (p).—Sir Antony Browne had them after him.—Then Roger Townſend Eſq; who by indenture dated 18 May 1577, ſold them to Wymond Cary Eſq;—William Rooper Gent. and Catharine his wife had licence 2 Decemb. 1587, to alienate them to

He was of the ſame Family with Sir Cane James. This Parſonage has been ſince ſold to William Woolbal and Robert Pycroft Eſqrs; truſtees for Mr. Truby's Family.

Richard James, and James Walſingham Eſq; preſented to the Vicarage in 1720. And Henry Southouſe Eſq; in 1731, and 1740. He dyed 14 March 1743-4, and was ſucceeded by his ſon —Samuel.

The Parſonage is a fair old Houſe, on the right hand ſide of the road leading from Manuden ſtreet to Farnham; about half a mile weſt from the Church.

Under a tree near the Church is yearly kept the Lord of Clavering's Court-leet, where the Conſtables are ſworn before the Steward. This is derived from the right which Suene had as Lord of the Half-Hundred.

5. FERNHAM, or FARNHAM,

Is the moſt ſoutherly part of this Half-Hundred of Clavering, joining to Biſhops-Stortford, and Little-Hadham in Hertfordſhire; great part of the Earl of Eſſex's Park lying in this pariſh. It ſeems to have been named from the Fearn and Heath growing here, qu. Fern-Houſe, or village. It is ſometimes written Pherneham. Five Freemen enjoyed this pariſh in Edward the Confeſſor's reign: But, at the time of the Survey, part of it was in the hands of Geffrey de Magnaville, and Robert Gernon held the other part.

Afterwards it came to be divided into theſe three Maners. 1. The maner of Fernham, or Earls-bury. 2. . . that of Wakefare's. 3. The maner of Hertiſham.

1. The Maner of FERNHAM.

The manſion houſe ſtands ſouth-weſt from the Church.

This is the part which Geffrey de Magnaville had, by incroachment upon the King [M]. From him it deſcended to his ſon—William, and to his grandſon—Geffrey, who was created Earl of Eſſex: and from whom, and his ſucceſſors, Earls of Eſſex, this Maner-houſe received the name of Earl's-Bury [N]. Of that noble Family there is ſo particular an account above, p. 451, and 545, that we ſhall beg leave to refer thither.

Maud, ſiſter and heir of William de Mandeville, brought it in marriage to her huſband, Henry de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex: [See above, p. 451, 452.] The ſixth in deſcent from him (r).——Humfrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, Eſſex and Northampton, left two daughters, coheirs, Elianor, married to

Thomas of Woodſtock, Duke of Glouceſter; and Mary to Henry Earl of Derby, afterwards King Henry IV.—Elianor had this Maner, and dyed poſſeſ'd of it 3 October 1399, leaving three daughters (s).

Anne, the eldeſt, and at length ſole heir, had three huſbands; Thomas, and Edmund, Earls of Stafford, and William Bourchier Earl of Eu. Theſe two laſt huſbands enjoyed the maner of Fernham in her right (t).

Upon the partition of the Bohun-eſtates in 1421, this Maner was allotted to K. Henry V. being then valued at 19 l. per ann. [See above, p. 453, 460.] and annexed to the Duchy of Lancaſter.

Margaret, Queen of K. Henry VI, who had it in dower, lett it, 27 Novemb. 1448, to John Gaal for ten years: He is buried in this Church.

K. Henry VIII, 10 June 1509, granted this maner, among others, under the Seal of the Duchy of Lancaſter, to his firſt Queen, Catharine of Arragon, in ſatisfaction of dower (u). He conferr'd it afterwards, in 1547, upon Robert Cheſter.

Qu. Elizabeth, in 1577, lett it, for a fine and ſome yearly rent, to Edward Elliot. She lett it again, 18 Febru. 1594, to James Quarles Clerk of her Kitchin, for thirty one years, at the yearly rent of 21 l.

Semper valuit VI libras. Lib. Domeſd. fol. 100. b. Tit. 90

[N] It is ſometimes called Northampſted, alias Earlsbury.

K. James I, 31 Janu. 1603, by letters patent under the Great Seal and the Seal of his Duchy of Lancaſter, granted the perpetuity of this maner to John Erſkine Earl of Marr, to hold of the maner of Endfeild, in fealty only. Sir Robert Quarles aforeſaid, ſon of James Quarles, paid the rent to the Earl of Marr: who, 23 April 1607, mortgaged this lordſhip to

Peter Vanlore of London, Merchant; and, 2 Auguſt 1610, ſold it out-right to him. Vanlore ſold it again, 7 May 1611, to

Robert Yonge and Thomas Thompſon: Yonge, the ſame year, ſold his moiety to Thompſon. Thomas Thompſon and Thomas his ſon did, 1 Nov. 1651, alienate this eſtate to Richard Hale, who, by will dated 30 July, 1678, bequeathed it to his grandſon——Richard Hale M. D. who was afterwards Phyſician to Bethlehem and Bridewell Hoſpitals, and dyed 26 Septemb. 1728. His widow enjoyed it after him.

It belongs now to Thomas Towers Eſq;

2. The Maner of WALKEFARES, or WALKERS, was taken out of Mandeville's grand Maner of Fernham, and on that account holden of the Honor of Mandeville.

It received the name of Walkefare, from an ancient Family, mentioned above under Boreham, p. 13.

Ralph, ſon of Richard Farnham, had it in the reign of K. Henry III; for that King granted him free-warren in all his lands in Farnham and Stortford (w).

It appears to have been afterwards in Lovel; for in 1256 Gunnora, widow of William Lovell, ſued Juliana Prioreſs of Halywell, for 8 acres of land in Farnham, with appertenances, which the ſaid Gunnora claimed as a reaſonable dower out of her late huſband's free tenement in Farnham (x). I do not find that the Nunnery of Halywell ever poſſeſſed any thing here; if Lovell gave them land, the Grant might be inſufficient for want of Gunnora's conſent. No more is ſaid of this Family here; but ſee under Boreham, p. 13. It was afterwards in Walter Arden.

John de Walkefare, who dyed abroad in 1345, held, of the Earl of Hereford, two parts of a certain tenement called Walkefares in the village of Farnham, jointly with Eufemia his wife, daughter and co-heir of Edward Comyn, and widow of . . . . de la Beche of Beches in Rawreth;—— John was his ſon and heir, eight years old (y). Eufemia held certain lands and tenements called Walkefares, of the inheritance of Sir Richard Walkefare, till her deceaſe in 1361 (z).—About the year 1529 it came into the Ap Rice family. And in 1555 Roger Ap Rice ſold Walkfare to

John Eliott, to whom Qu. Elizabeth 1 May 1559, granted a confirmation of Free-warren.— Elizabeth Eliott conveyed this maner to

John Haynes of Old-Holt in Birch. [See above, p. 185.] At the time of his deceaſe, 3 Novemb. 1605, he held this maner, or lordſhip, of Walkfare, with all its rights, members, and appertenances: and 100 acres of arable, 10 acr. of meadow, 20 of paſture, and 5 of wood, called the fee farm-lands, in this pariſh, Manuden &c. ——John his ſon, then 11 years old (a), did, 10 October 1622, alienate this eſtate to William Hone of the Temple Eſq; Hone, in 1640, conveyed it to

William Halton Eſq; created a Baronet in 1642. On the 20th of Septemb. 1645, Sir William ſold this maner to

Tho. Meade. It came afterwards, either by gift or inheritance, to another Thomas Meade: Theſe, I preſume, were ſome of the Meades of Berden. This laſt Thomas Meade, who had married a daughter of Thomas Bowneſt of Stonebury, ſold it, 20 Septemb. 1694, to

John Gill of Biſhops-Stortford, Attorney at law, whoſe executor, John Sandford, together with William ſon of the ſaid John Gill, ſold it again to Richard Hale M. D. Lord of Earls-Bury; and from him it paſſed, as that Maner [O].

This maner of Walkfares pays 40*s. per ann.* to the Poor of this pariſh; the ſame to the Poor of Biſhops-Stortford; and 20 s. to London-Bridge; the gift of Rowland Eliott Gent. [P].

3. The MANER of HERTISHO-BURY, or HERTISHAM, extends into part of Biſhop's-Stortford. The manſion houſe ſtands a little way ſouth from the Church.

This was the eſtate which belonged to Robert Gernon at the time of the Survey, as appears from its holding of his deſcendants, the Montfichets. It was poſſeſſed by a Freeman in Edward the Confeſſor's reign [Q].

About the year 1117, Roger Anglicus, or Engliſh, held this eſtate under William de Montfichet [R]. This Roger confirmed the gift of Roger de Royings Clerk to the Church of St. Mary at Hatfield Regis, which the Monks had of the gift of his anceſtor Gilbert Anglicus, or Engliſh. To this deed Robert de Waulkelam and others are witneſſes [S].—Of Philip Burnel, lord of the maner of Burnel in Stanſted Montfichet, who dyed in 1293, the heir of Richard le Engleys, under age, held in Farnham two carucates of land by the ſervice of one knight's fee (b). [See above, p. 12, 577.]

This eſtate was afterwards in the conſiderable Family of Att Lee, or de la Lee. For in 1366, John brother and heir of Thomas Beket releaſed to Sir John de la Lee, and Joanna his wife, all his right in the maner of Herteſho, with the advowſon of the Church of Farnham in the Grene (c). Sir John, at the time of his deceaſe in 1370, held this maner of Hertiſhoo-Bury in the vill of Ferham, and the maner of Berwalden in Tolleſhunt Knights;—Sir Walter de la Lee, his ſon and ſucceſſor (d), dyed in 1395 (e); he was of Albury in Hertfordſhire, and ſerved as one of the Knights for that County in nine Parliaments: Thomas his ſon dying before him, without iſſue; his three Siſters became his co-heirs, namely Margery, wife of Robert Newport; Joane, wife of John Barlee; and Alice, wife of Sir Thomas Morewell.

The Eſtate being divided among theſe three coheireſſes, Barlee had Albury, and Harſhobury. —John Barlee, their ſon and heir, was Sheriff of Eſſex and Hertfordſhire in 1424, 1425, and dyed in 1445.—Henry, his ſon, was alſo Sheriff in 1467, and dyed in 1475. [See above, p. 570, 571.] It was next in the Leventhorp family.

Thomas Leventhorp, who dyed 20 July 1500, held this maner of Herteſham, and 25 acres of arable, 3 acr. and 1 rood of meadow, 1 acr. and a half of wood, in Farnham, and Stortford; and a water-mill, and Davyſmore, in Farnham.—John his ſon and heir, was 4 years old (f).—Agnes Leventhorp held the ſame at the time of her deceaſe, 14 Septemb. 1512 (g).

For a conſiderable time this Eſtate hath been in the Glaſcock family mentioned above, p. 81, 82, 198, 286, 361, 424, 464, 508.

Henry Glaſcock of High-Eaſter married Grace, daughter of John Ennew of Coggeſhal, and had —Henry Glaſcock of Hertſho-Bury, who married Margery, daughter of Sir Francis Fitch Knt. and had by her—Edward Glaſcock of Briſes in Keldon-Hatch, Eſq;—Edward Glaſcock of the ſame place had two wives; 1. Heſter, daughter of John Wingate of Harlington in Bedfordſhire, Eſq; by whom he had Henry born in 1644; Thomas, and William. Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Capel of Eſſex, was his 2d wife; by her he had Edward, and Elizabeth.——Henry Glaſcock Eſq; the eldeſt ſon and heir of Edward and Heſter, married Mary, daughter of Tho. Jerner of Whitby in Yorkſhire Eſq; and had by her William (h).

William Glaſcock Eſq; having only a daughter; in order to keep up his name, he left this eſtate to his great nephew, and godſon ——William Glaſcock Eſq; deſiring it might go to the next heir male from one generation to another [T]. This laſt William married Joanna, daughter of Edward Raynesford, an ancient family in Warwickſhire, and had by her Henry, William, and Anne. He dyed in November 1746, and was ſucceeded by his ſon—William Glaſcock Eſq; [V].

Mr. John, Charles, Clement, and James, Philips; Daniel Warner; John Newman; Zach. and Roger, Nicholls; Thomas Bardwell; John Seamer; James Bayford; John Parker, &c. have alſo ſome lands here.

This pariſh is rated to the land-tax at 851 l.

Benfield Hamlet is rated within this Half-Hundred 789 l. 1 s. 0. And Plegden-Hamlet at 428 l. 2 s. 0.

The Church, dedicated to St. Mary, is built, cathedral-wiſe, in the form of a croſs, and leaded. In the Tower are 5 Bells.

This Rectory was not appendent to the Maner; but in the gift of the noble Family of De Vere, Earls of Oxford, from 1386, and perhaps before, to 1545. Afterwards it was in divers Patrons, undoubtedly by purchaſe; and in the beginning of this century in John Poole, Gent. Dr. Hale bought the Advowſon of John Poole, and gave it to Trinity-College, in Oxford, of which he had been a member. It hath been in their diſpoſal ever ſince [W].

From his enthuſiaſtic Prophecies he was called Domeſday-Sedgwick. Wood Ath. Vol. II. col. 462, 463.

One of his Diſciples went about the Dioceſe of Ely, where Sedgwick had firſt made the people mad, foretelling the end of the World to be in a few days. Peter Gunning the Biſhop, hearing that no perſuaſions would take him off, ſent for him and offered him for a ſmall eſtate he had two years purchaſe, which he refuſed as not enough. It was, however, ſo plain a proof that he did not believe himſelf what he taught, that the long eared rout upon this deſerted him.

As ſo much Uſe hath been made in this Work of the Inquiſitions poſt mortem, we thought it might be acceptable to the curious Reader to have the following Specimen of the Manner in which thoſe Inquiſitions were taken. They were aboliſhed, with the Tenures, by Statute 22 Caro. II. c. 24.
